THE PREFACE.

WHEREIN

The Authors of the enſuing Annotations (ſupplemental to Mr. Poole) preſent to the Reader an Hiſtorical account of the Tranſlation of the Scriptures into our Engliſh Tongue; the mighty workings of Divine Providence, conducive to it, and the ſeveral Notes or Annotations which have been publiſhed; and a particular Account of the Reverend Mr. Poole's and their preſent Undertaking, with the Reaſons of it.

THE ſame Reaſon which teacheth us to conclude, That there is a firſt Being, and muſt be a firſt Cauſe and Mover (whom we call God) That it is he who hath made us, and not we our ſelves; and that we are his people and the ſheep of his Paſture; will alſo oblige us To enter into his gates with thankſgiving, and into his Courts with praiſe, and to be thankful unto him, by fulfilling his will. Which we cannot do, without ſome Revelation of it to us. God therefore having ceaſed to ſpeak to men face to face as to Abraham and Moſes, &c. (which he never ordinarily did but to ſome particular Favourites) we are by reaſon inforced to conclude that there are ſome Books in the World in which this Revelation is to be found. The Church of God (the Mother of us all) hath conſtantly held forth the Books of the Old and New Teſtament, (which we have in our Bibles) for this ſacred Revelation, which hath juſtly obliged all her children to look upon them, as hung out to them for that uſe, upon that Noble Pillar the Church; looking into them upon the Churches notice (as the child does upon the Mothers telling it, That is the Sun) every reaſonable man finds them of ſo venerable Antiquity, and diſcerneth in them ſuch ſtamps of Divinity, In the majeſty of their ſtile, the purity of the matter, the ſublimeneſs and ſpirituality of the propoſitions contained in them, the ſelf-denial of the Penmen, the heavenlineſs of the ſcope, and end of thoſe ſacred writings, the harmony of the parts, the ſeal of miracles, and principally in the mighty power and efficacy of them upon the ſouls and conſciences of multitudes, both for conviction, and for ſupport and conſolation, that he eaſily concludes, This is the voice of God, and not of man, and looks back upon his mother the Church (as a child upon his nurſe) thanking her for ſhewing him ſuch a treaſure, and ſaying as the Samaritans to their Country-woman, John 4. 42. Now we believe theſe Books are the word of God, not becauſe of thy ſaying ſo, but becauſe we have looked into them our ſelves, and find them of a different ſtile, nature, and matter, and to have a different ſcope, end, power, and efficacy upon the ſouls of men, from what any other Writings in the World have. Tho the truth is, that until a man comes to be fully perſwaded of the truth of them from the ſame ſpirit that dictated them, every ſoul will be as apt to waver in his faith as to them, to be the word of God, as he in Tully, who only believed the Immortality of the Soul from the reading of Plato's Book, which (if I remember right) the Roman Orator expreſſeth in words to this ſenſe, I have read over Plato's book again and again: But I know not how it comes to paſs, ſo long as I am reading I agree it; but no ſooner is the book out of my hands, but de immortalitate animæ dubitare cœpi, but I begin to doubt whether the ſoul be immortal ye or no. But however, in one degree or other every Chriſtian makes that the Principle of his Religion, That the Holy Scriptures of the Old and New Teſtament are the Word of God. Some believe it more faintly and incertainly; ſome more fixedly and firmly, and accordingly the faith of perſons as to them, is more or leſs operative.

This Revelation of the Divine Will was made perfect gradually, (as it pleaſed God in ſucceding times to reveal what was his ſecret will before, but hid from ages.) So as (if Chronologers compute right) there were more than 1500 years paſſed betwixt the writing of the firſt book of Geneſis by Moſes, and the Revelation (which was the laſt) by John; and Divines generally judge that he ſealed up the Book by thoſe words Revelations 22. 18, 19. So that as to things to be believed or done, we are to expect no further Revelation.

When the mighty God, even the Lord, had thus ſpoken, and God had thus ſhined out of Sion the perfection of beauty, it was but reaſonable that his people ſhould come to the knowledg of what he had ſaid, that they might anſwer the end of the Revelation both by believing and obeying.

The Old Teſtament being wrote in the Hebrew Tongue, when great multitudes of them by their captivity in Babylon, had much forgotten, or corrupted their own Language, it was thought reaſonable there ſhould be a Caldaick Paraphraſe; and the wiſdom of Divine Providence provided a Septuagint Verſion as for the benefit of others, ſo poſſibly of the Jews themſelves, the moſt of whom before Chriſts time were more Grecians than Hæbricians, and it is generally thought that all the Books of the New Teſtament were wrote in the Grecian Language.

When it pleaſed God that the Goſpel ſhould be preached to all Nations, and the ſound of it go to the ends of the Earth, he ſo alſo ordered it, that ſoon after true Religion came into any place, ſome were ſtirred up to Tranſlate thoſe Holy Books into the Language of that Country, and ſo far to aſſiſt them, that though in many leſſer things they failed through want of a knowledge of the juſt propriety of ſome words in Hebrew or Greek, or the uſe of particles in thoſe Languages, yet they failed not in any thing whereby the Reader might be led into any pernicious error touching his Salvation, and We ſhall obſerve the Pen-men of the New Teſtament giving ſuch a deference to the commonly received Verſion in their times, that alſo the Septuagint Verſion which we have, apppears to us more diſſonant from the Hebrew than any other, yet moſt of the Quotations of the Old Teſtament which we have in the new, are apparently from that Verſion; which learneth us, that it is not every private Miniſters work to make a new Verſion of the Scripture, but he ought to acquieſce in the Verſion which God hath provided for the Church wherein he lives, and not ordinarily or upon light grounds to enter into a diſſent to it; and if in any thing he ſees it neceſſary to do it, yet not to do it (as to a particular text) without great modeſty, and a preface of Reverence.

This Tranſlation of the Scriptures into a Language underſtood by all people in that Country into which the Church came, was lookt upon ſo reaſonable and neceſſary, as it was oppoſed by none, till the Papiſts had patched up a Religion, for the upholding of which, it was neceſſary for them to maintain, That Ignorance was the mother of Devotion, after which it was very difficult in any places where theſe Spiritual Tyrants had a dominion, to get the Scriptures tranſlated into the Language of that Country. Not to inſtance in other places, I ſhall give ſome ſhort account of England. Our Records tell us of a Tranſlation of ſome part of them into the Saxon Language (which was then a great part of ours) within 700 years after Chriſt, and of the Tranſlation of the whole, into the ſame Language by Beda within 40 years after. Beda was himſelf a Papiſt, but the myſtery of iniquity grew up gradually to its height. Soon after, Bibles which the people could underſtand were very ſcarce commodities in England, and thus it continued for 600 years. Wickliff who lived in the time of Richard the 2d. and died 1384. being the firſt we know of afterward who Tranſlated the Scriptures into a Language underſtood by any who were not skilled in ſome or other of the three learned Languages. That great man eaſily underſtood, that without the Scriptures in their own Language, the people muſt take all for the Will of God that their Prieſts told them was ſo, and that the Popiſh Prieſts were generally of ignorance and impudence enough, to entitle God to any of their own blaſphemies and ſuperſtitions. But within thirty years after the death of Wickliff, viz. Anno 1414. The Council (or Conventicle rather) of Conſtance Decreed all Wickliffs Books to the Fire; and tho ſome were ſpared, yet the battel was ſo hard, that there were very few that eſcaped. This was our ſtate till the year 1527. (in all which years the poor people of the Land of our Nativity, were without a teaching Bible (as to the common people) and indeed, without a teaching Prieſt) yea, and for ſome time after this, as we ſhall hear.

1527. In the year 1527. God put it into the heart of Mr. Tindall, to Tranſlate the New Teſtament into Engliſh, as alſo the Five Books of Moſes (he being then an exile in Germany for his Religion) but he loſt all his papers upon a Shipwrack in his paſſage to Hamborough, and had his work to begin again; which yet, that faithful and moſt unwearied ſervant of God did accompliſh, adding ſome Prefaces to the ſeveral Books, and ſome Notes to the particular Chapters and Verſes. The publiſhing of which much netled the Popiſh Biſhops in England, and all means were then uſed to ſuppreſs it. Amongſt others, the then Biſhop of London, adviſed with one Packington a Merchant of that City, concerning the moſt accommodate means to that deſign. The Merchant could think of none ſo probable, as with a ſum of Money to buy up the whole Impreſſion. The Biſhop approving it, furniſhed him with a round ſum to that purpoſe, which the Merchant (being more a Friend to Mr. Tindall than the Biſhop knew) ſent to Mr. Tindall, and had the Impreſſion ſent him, (ſome few Copies being (as we muſt imagine) firſt ſold off). With this Money Mr. Tindall ſupported himſelf in his exile, and was alſo inabled to go on with his Tranſlation of the other part of the Bible, and to prepare a perfect Engliſh Bible. In the mean time a paſſage happened ſo pleaſant, that I ſhall think it worth the while here to relate it: Sir Thomas More being Lord Chancellor, and having ſeveral perſons accuſed for Hereſie, and ready for Execution, offered to compound with * one of them for his Life upon the eaſie terms of his diſcovery to him, who they were in London that maintained Tindall beyond Sea. After that the poor man had got as good a ſecurity for his Life, as the Honour, and Truth of the Chancellor could give him, he told him, It was the Biſhop of London maintained him, by ſending him a ſum of Money to buy up the Impreſſion of his Teſtaments. The Chancellor ſmiled, ſaying, that he believed he ſaid true. Thus was this poor Confeſſors Life ſaved. But to return to our ſtory. In the year 1530. Mr. Tindall was Martyred at Villefort in Flanders, for Tranſlating into Engliſh the New Teſtament, and part of the Old, (ſaith Sir Richard Baker); but his great adverſary Sir Thomas More was the year before gone to his own place, being Executed for Treaſon. Mr. Tindall, and Mr. Coverdale, (as Mr. Fox telleth us) before Mr. Tindall's death, had Tranſlated the whole Bible: But it came out after his death, under the name of Thomas Matthews (with the addition of the Apocrypha Tranſlated by John Rogers) The Lord Cromwel, with Archbiſhop Cranmer, preſented it to the King, and obtained an Order from His Majeſty for leave for any of his Subjects to read it; but this was not without the great regret of the Biſhops.

Baker's Chron. p. 282.

1540. About Thirteen years after this (or not ſo much) the Lord Cromwel obtained Letters from King Henry 8. for a Subject of his to Reprint at Paris the Bible in Engliſh; the King alſo wrote a Letter to Bonner (at that time his Embaſſador in France) to further it. Grafton and Whitchurch undertook the work, upon what ſeeming encouragement from Bonner may be read in Mr. Fox's 2d. Vol. of his Martyrology, pr. 1641. p. 515, 516. But how it came to paſs I cannot tell (tho Bonner's Treachery was ſuſpected in the caſe) when it was upon the point finiſhed, the Copies were ſeized, and ordered to be burnt, and the work had wholly ceaſed, but for the covetouſneſs of the Officer, who ſold four great dry Fats filled with them to an Haberdaſher to lay Caps in. By this means having recovered ſome Copies, they came to London, and there made a new Impreſſion.

But after this, my Lord Cromwel being put to death, the Biſhops and Popiſh-party made ſo great complaint to the King, (whoſe warmth for the Reformation much abated in the latter part of his Life) That the Sale of the Engliſh Bible was again prohibited, and the Printer Impriſoned; and altho the Biſhops promiſed the King they would make a more correct Tranſlation, yet it was never done during that Kings Reign.

But in the yrar of our Lord 1577. which was the 19th or 20th of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, ſome Biſhops publiſhed a new Tranſlation, but till that time, the Bibles uſed in Churches were Tindalls and Coverdales, being allowed by the publick Authority of King Edward 6. 1551, 1552. And to this day, the Pſalms, and the Goſpels, and Epiſtles in our Service-Book are according to Tindalls and Coverdales Bibles, which ſhould make us wary in our Cenſures of that Tranſlation, tho we ſee reaſon in many things to diſſent from it. Only we having a more correct Tranſlation Eſtabliſhed by Authority, why (for the avoiding the offence of the leſs knowing people) we have not made uſe of that, but retained a Tranſlation not undertaken by any publick Authority, and confeſſed to be more imperfect; is what I cannot, nor count my ſelf obliged to account for. Poſſibly God for the honour of his Martyr hath ſo ordered it.

After this, King James coming to the Crown, being a Prince of great Learning and Judgment, and obſerving the different uſage of ſome words in his Age, from the uſage of them in K. Hen. 8. or in Qu. Elizabeths time, and alſo the ſeveral miſtakes (tho of a minute nature) in thoſe more ancient Verſions, was pleaſed to employ diverſe learned men in making a New Tranſlation, which is that which at this day is generally uſed. With what Reverence to former Tranſlators, what labour, and care and pains they accompliſhed their work, the Reader may ſee at large in their Preface prefixed to thoſe Copies that are Printed in Folio, and in their Epiſtle to K. James in our Bibles of a leſſer form, of which Tranſlation (tho it may not be without its more minute Errors) yet I think it may be ſaid, that it is hardly exceeded by that of any other Church.

By this Hiſtory (Reader!) thou mayeſt underſtand the mighty workings of Divine Providence, and wonderful goodneſs of God to this Nation in the plenty we have of Bibles, and that of a very correct Tranſlation (tho poſſibly not in every little thing perfect) Mr. Fox (if we remember right) tells us a ſtory of two Maids in Lincolnſhire, that in Q. Maries time parted with a conſiderable part of their eſtate, for a few Leaves of the Bible. How good is God to us, that we for a few ſhillings can have the whole Revelation of the Divine Will? Conſidering which, we offer it to the conſideration of any thinking Engliſh man or Woman, what he or ſhe will anſwer for his ignorance in the Holy Scriptures, or for the ignorance of his or her Children, if (having ſo much means as we have, to learn to read) any ſhall neglect the learning of their Children to Read it, or themſelves, in caſe their Parents have neglected them: or being able to Read, ſhall neglect the practice of it. Exerciſing himſelf in the Law of the Lord day and night, and living up to the rule of it. The English Bible is come to us at the price of the blood of one Martyr, and the unwearied labour of a multitude of Holy and Learned men succeeding one another for more than Sixty years, before we had the Translation so perfect as it is now in all hands.

Poor Christians in Popish Countries either have not this Pot of spiritual food, or must cry out Death is in the Pot. Our English Translators in their Preface, observe, that of late the Church of Rome would seem to bear something of a motherly affection to her Children, and allow them the Scripture in the Mother Tongue, but it is indeed a gift not worthy of its name. They must first get a License in Writing before they use them, and to get that, they must approve themselves to their Confessors, to be such as are if not frozen in the dregs, yet sowred with the leaven of their superstition. Yet this seemed too much to Clement the Eighth, who therefore frustrated the Grant of Pius the Fourth. They will allow none to be read but the Doway Bibles, and the Rhemish Testaments, (the corruptions of which have been sufficiently manifested by many learned men) nor will they trust their people with these, without the License of their own Bishops and Inquisitors. This is the liberty they boast of given to any of their Religion to Read the Scriptures in English. What it is worth, let any man judg.

In the mean time, those who are not affected with the mercy of God to us in this particular, must declare themselves neither to have any just value for God, in the mighty workings of his Providence to bring this about, nor yet for the blood of Holy Mr. Tindall who died in his Testimony to this truth, That no people ought to be deprived of so great a good, nor for the labours and pains of those many Servants of God, who travelled in this great work, and thought no labour in it too much, nor indeed for their own souls, to the Salvation of which, if the Holy Scripture in our own Language doth not highly contribute, we must lay the blame upon our selves.

But altho we have the Bible in a Language we understand, yet we may see reason to cry out as Bernard does with reference to the Song of Solomon: Here is an excellent Nut, but who shall crack it? Heavenly Bread, but who shall break it? For though the Papists and such as have ill will to the good of souls make too great an improvement of the difficulties in Holy Writ, in making them an argument against the peoples having them in a Language which they can understand, (for Augustin said true when he said, there are Fords in them wherein Lambs may wade, as well as depths in which Elephants may swim) and what others observe, is as true, that things necessary to be believed, or done in order to Salvation, lye plain and obvious in Holy Writ: yet it is as true that there is much of Holy Writ, of which the generality of people must say as the Eunuch, How can I understand, except some man should guide me? Act. 8. 31. besides the seeming contradictions that are betwixt the Holy Penmen of those Sacred Books; and indeed it is hard to say, what Book of Scripture is so plain that every one who runneth can read it with understanding (such a vast difference there is betwixt the capacities of those who yet have the same honest hearts.) This hath made wise and learned men not only see a need of larger Commentaries but also of shorter Notes, Annotations, and Paraphrases, &c. Nor is this a late discovery. It is upward of three hundred years since Lyra wrote his short Notes upon the whole Bible; what Vatablus, and Erasmus (tho all of them Papists) have done since, is sufficiently known, to say nothing of many others of that Religion. Amongst the Reformed Churches, there hath been a learned Piscator in Germany, Junius and Tremellius, elsewhere, who did the same thing, but all these wrote their Notes in Latin, not in the peculiar language of any Country. The ancientest Notes we have in English were those ordinarily known by the name of the Geneva Notes, after two years labour, finished 1560. by those good men who flying from Queen Maries Persecution, took Sanctuary there. A work so acceptable to Protestants, in the beginning of our Reformation, that their Bible with those Notes annexed was (as is observed by the Authors of our late English Annotations) Printed above Thirty times over by Q. Elizabeths Printers, and their Heirs and Successors. There wanted not one indeed, who Fifty years after, boldly reflected on that excellent work in the most publick Pulpit of our University of Oxford; but how grateful his reflections were to the University at that time, may be read in the Preface to the English Annotations; he was in the same Pulpit checkt, and confuted by the Doctor of the Chair, and suspended by the Governours of the University. The labours of Erasmus in his Paraphrase on the New Testament were so acceptable, that by publick Order they were to be in every Church, exposed to publick view, and use, and (if we mistake not) ought to be so still. After these, were published Diodates Notes written in Italian, since Translated into English. About the year 1640, some deliberations were taken for the composing, and Printing other English Notes, (the old Geneva Notes not so well fitting our new and more correct Translation of the Bible) these were at first intended to be so short that they might be Printed together with our Bibles in Folio or Quarto. But, those Divines who were engaged in it, found this would not answer their end, it being not possible by so short Notes, to give people any tolerable light into the whole Text: yet they so contracted their work, that it was all dispatched in one Volume: Which tho it were at first greedily bought up, yet we cannot say it gave so general a satisfaction (by reason of the shortness of it) as was desired, and expected. So as upon the Second Edition, it came forth quite a new thing, making two just Volumes. This was so acceptable to the World, that within sixteen years it was ready for a third Edition, with some further Enlagements. Before which also were published the Dutch Annotations Translated into our Language.

So that at this day (besides the shorter Geneva Notes) we have three sorts of Annotations in our own Language, those of famous Diodate. The Dutch Annotations, and those of our own Divines (Originally so wrote) after which, New Annotations may seem superfluous. It seems therefore reasonable that we should give our Readers some short account of our undertaking. We dare say nothing could be further from the thoughts of our Reverend Brother (now at rest with God) who first began this work, than to reflect any dishonour upon those eminent persons who laboured before in works of this nature, nor is any thing further from our thoughts (they all of them did famously in their generations.) And if it should appear to any of our Readers, that any of us have seen further into any particular Texts than those did who went before us, yet we hope all our Readers will understand there is little honour due to us upon that account, because we had all their shoulders to stand upon.

The pains which our Reverend Brother, (ὁ μακαρίτης,) took in his Synopsis Criticorum, is such, as not only will make his name live in the Churches of Christ, but also eminently fitted him for giving the sense of the whole Scripture in Annotations of this nature, which he undertook and carried on by his own hand to the fifty eighth of Isaiah, designing that two Volumes should comprehend the whole, and that the first should determine with his Notes upon the Song of Solomon. What occasioned his first thoughts and undertaking, himself tells us, in his Paper of Proposals published with reference to that Work, in these words: "But altho there are many excellent Comments upon divers parts of the Scripture, and some "intire Comments, or large Annotations, upon the whole in the English Tongue: Yet because of the too much bre-"vity of some, and the unequal composure of others, as being done by divers hands, and the prolixity of those, "that have been written upon particular Books, it hath been often and earnestly wished that there were some short "and full Comment, wherein all those passages, which need the help of an Interpreter, might be sufficiently cleared, &c. As the first Edition of our English Annotations, after which followed the Translation of those of the Learned Diodate, into our Language, and then those of the Low-Country Divines of Holland (tho all of them deservedly valuable) seemed much too short to satisfie the thirst of many pious Souls after the fuller knowledg of the Scriptures, so the larger Edition of our English Annotations, seems capable of some amendments by which they might be made more serviceable to those that use them, especially in these particulars.

1. The whole Text is not Printed in them, so as those who will use them must make use of a Bible also, for the understanding of them. Our Reverend Brother (with whom also we concur) rightly judged, that it would be of more advantage to have the entire Text in the Readers Eye, while he is seeking the sense of any particular place, and while he reads a Chapter, to have a Commentary under his Eye in which he might find the sense of any part of it, and satisfie himself as to any difficulty occurring in it.

S. comes

Secondly, As some (very eminently learned men) had been too large in those Annotations (saying almost all that hath been said by any upon the Texts they handled) so others had been as much too short, and that especially in the New Testament (which seems to Christians to need the fullest explication) and others from their variety of learning, had mixed several quotations out of the Fathers, and Critical, and Philological notions, possibly not so proper for the end for which such Annotations are designed, which is to give the unlearned Christians the true sense of the Holy Scriptures, that those who can, might read and understand the Will of God.

That our Reader may not mistake our design or undertaking, we desire that he should know. That we do not pretend (as some have vainly fancied) to translate Mr. Pools Synopsis Criticorum (that would have asked six Volumes instead of two) and when it had been done, would have signified very little, unless for those who (being learned men) needed no such Translation: possibly in a whole leaf of that book six lines would not serve our purpose. Nor have we had any ambition either to say something that none had said before us (we have observed that those who have had such an itch, have for the most part happened to say, what those who came after them would not subscribe) nor yet to say all that we knew was said before us, (that had been to have confounded our Readers, only with a variety of senses) we have only hinted the senses which in our judgment have seemed fairest, and least constrained, and shortly shewed the consonancy of them to other Scriptures. We have avoided all Polemical discourses as no way proper to our design, and very rarely hinted those practical conclusions, which have arose from the Text when opened, (the most we have done of that nature is in our discourses upon the Parables.)

Our Reverend Brother (designing but two Volumes, and the first to end with the Song of Solomon, tho since it hath been determined to conclude it with the Prophet Isaiah, that all which he lived to finish might be comprehended in one Volume) had an hard task to contract his discourses so, as to bring them within that compass, and thereby was necessitated not to give the entire sense of each verse in his notes, but only of those Words or Terms in the verse which he conceived to stand in need of explication, referring by letters in the Text to the parts of the Commentary. This was not necessary in such parts of the Scripture where the entire sense of the whole Text is given. Nor indeed as to some parts, is it possible (such we mean as are opened harmonically): of which nature are the three first Evangelists. It is confessed by all, that the Evangelists make up but one entire History, tho some of them have some things which the others have not, and they seldom agree in the phrases and circumstances of any one piece of History. This made it reasonable, that with the Interpretation of one Evangelist should be joined what the others had with reference to the same piece of History. Which method hath been accordingly pursued (being the same in which the most Judicious Mr. Calvin and others have gone before us) nor indeed could any other course have been taken without a needless writing the same things over again, so as that in our Notes upon Mark we have only enlarged in the explication of what he hath which we did not meet with before in Matthew; and in the explication of Luke we have only opened what he hath, which was not in Matthew or Mark, where they all three concurred, or but two of them concurred in any story, we have opened what they all or both say in our Notes upon the first of them, and when we have come to it again in one or both the other we have only referred to our former Notes. John (having little which the other Evangelists have) we have considered by himself mostly, yet sometimes taking in something from him, where we found it completory of any thing related by the other Evangelists.

In magnis voluisse sat est. We cannot say that we have left no roem for others to come after us, and add to or correct what we have said. But this we can say in truth, that we have not willingly baulked any obvious difficulty, and have designed a just satisfaction to all our Readers; and if any knot yet remain untied, we have told our Readers what hath been most probably said for their satisfaction in the untying of it.

If it had pleased God to have lent a little longer life to our Reverend Brother, the work had very probably been done to greater advantage, and more general satisfaction. We are but entred upon his Harvest, and have wanted his sickle (we cannot pretend to any double portion of his Spirit. His mantle dropt from him before he was Translated (we mean his Synopsis) we have taken that up, out of that great work of his we have taken so much as we judged proper for his design in this work, and made use of a great number of other Authors, some of which he left out or very little considered in his Synopsis, upon design to make a further use of them in this English work, as thinking their labours more proper for this than his other work.

Our design, good Reader, *was not to tell thee how the Fathers interpreted Texts (*Aquinas, Justinianus, and others have done that work) nor yet to tell thee any Gramatical niceties, or what learned men have critically noted upon Terms or Phrases (that is done in the Synopsis Criticorum) Nor yet to tell thee what conclusions of Truth may be raised from the verses (that hath been profitably upon many books of Scripture by Mr. Dickson, Hutchinson, Fergusson, Guild, Durham, and some others, much less to handle the controversies that have risen from any portion of Scripture. Our work hath been only to give thee the plain sense of the Scripture, and to reconcile seeming contradictions where they occurred, and as far as we are able to open Scripture by Scripture which is its own best Interpreter) comparing things Spiritual with Spiritual, That thy Faith might not stand in the wisdom of men, but in the Wisdom and power of God. If we have reached this end, it is all we aimed at; if thou gettest any good by what we have done, Remember thy Sacrifice is due at another Altar, even his who ministreth seed to the sower, who both watereth the furrows of the field, and blesseth the springing of the Corn, let him have the Praise, and we only thy Prayers, that we may live an useful Life, and dye an happy Death, and attain to the Resurrection of the Dead, in which we shall all see and understand more perfectly than we yet do.

GENESIS.

The ARGUMENT.

THis Book is called Genesis, i. e. Generation, or Birth, giving an account of passages during 2300 years, and upwards, viz. From the Creation of all things, to the death of Joseph. In which History Moses, by Divine inspiration, treats of the Creation of the World, with all the parts and uses in it, and of it, but chiefly of Man, who alone was made after Gods Image: where he lays down Gods concessions and prohibitions to him, and Mans Transgression, together with the woful effects, and the remedy of them in the promise of a Saviour. The Original, Progress, and Preservation of the true Church springing from Abel, and carried on by Seth, Enoch, &c. And the ground and rise of Apostasie begun in Cain, and carried on by his posterity, separating themselves from the Holy Seed, till by their monstrous provocations they had brought an universal deluge to destroy all mankind from off the Earth, excepting only Noah, and his Family, out of which as the Church did again spring forth, so another cursed race carrying on the former enmity to a greater height, not only fell into Idolatry after it had continued a considerable time in Sem's race, but breaking out into all Outrages, and Tyrannical oppressions, it was almost extinct among those numerous Nations, that Noah's Posterity sprang out into. But God calling Abraham into the Land of Promise, who was an Idolater in Chaldea, and giving him Temporal and Spiritual Promises, and especially that of the Messiah coming out of his Loins, and assuring it by a special Covenant Sealed by Circumcision, the Church began now to take Root, and to be imbodied in Jacob's Family under the name of Israel, and here God undertook the protection of his People and Worship, by the visible presence of Christ her Head, that Angel of the Covenant, going continually with them, Comforting, and Defending them, till they came into Ægypt, where the Church continued until Joseph's Death; where this Book ends.

CHAP. I.

* Ps. 33. 6. 102. 25. 136. 5. 146. 6. Isa. 44. 24. Jer. 10. 14. 51. 15. Zech. 12. 1. Act. 14. 15. 17. 24. Heb. 11. 3.

IN * the beginning a God created b the heaven and the earth c.

a To wit, Of Time and Things, in the first place, before things were distinguished and perfected in manner hereafter expressed. Or, the sense is this, The beginning of the World was thus. And this phrase further informeth us, that the World and all things in it had a beginning, and were not from Eternity, as some Philosophers dreamed. b Made out of nothing. c Either 1. The Heaven and Earth as now they are, with their Inhabitants. So this verse is a sum or brief of what is particularly declared in the rest of this Chapter. Or 2. The substance and common matter of Heaven and Earth. Which seems more probable by comparing this verse with the next, where the Earth here mentioned is declared to be without form, and the Heavens without Light, as also with Gen. 2. 1. Where the Heavens and the Earth, here only said to be created, are said to be finished or perfected. Yet I conceive the third Heaven to be included under the Title of the Heaven, and to have been created and perfected the first day, together with its blessed Inhabitants the Holy Angels, as may be collected from Job 33. 6, 7. But the Scripture being written for men and not for Angels, the Holy Ghost thought it sufficient to comprehend them and their dwelling place under that general term of the Heavens, and proceedeth to give a more particular account of the visible Heavens and Earth, which were created for the use of man. In the Hebrew it is, The Heavens and the Earth For there are three heavens mentioned in Scripture; The Aerial, the place of Birds, Clouds, and Meteors, Matth. 26. 64. Rev. 19. 17. & 20. 9. The Starry, the Region of the Sun, the Moon, and Stars, Gen. 22. 17. The highest or third Heaven, 2 Cor. 12. 2. the dwelling of the Blessed Angels.

2 And the Earth e was without form and void f, and darkness was upon the face g of the deep: and the spirit of God h moved upon the face of the waters *.

e The same confused mass or heap is here called both earth from its most solid and substantial part, and the deep from its vast bulk and depth; and Waters from its outward face and covering. See Psal. 104. 6. 2 Pet. 3. 5. f (i.e.) Without order and beauty, and without furniture and use. g The surface or uppermost part of it, upon which the light afterward shone. Thus not the Earth only, but also the Heaven above it, was without light, as is manifest from the following verses. h Not the Wind, which was not yet Created, as is manifest, because the Air, the matter or subject of it, was not yet produced: But the Third Person of the Glorious Trinity, called the Holy Ghost, to whom the work of Creation is attributed, Job 26. 13. as it is ascribed to the Second Person, the Son, Joh. 1. 3. Col. 1. 16, 17. Heb. 1. 3. and to the first Person, the Father, every where. * (i. e.) Upon the Waters. To cherish, quicken, and dispose them to the production of the things after mentioned. It is a metaphor from Birds hovering and fluttering over, and sitting upon their Eggs and young Ones, to cherish, warm, and quicken them.

† 2 Cor. 4.

3 And God said i, † Let there be light: and there was light k.

i (i.e.) Commanded, not by such a word or speech as we use, which agreeth not with the spiritual nature of God; but either by an act of his powerful will, called the word of his Power, Heb. 1. 3. Or, by his substantial Word, his Son, by whom he made the worlds, Heb. 1. 2. Psal. 33. 6. who is called, The word, partly, if not principally, for this reason, Joh. 1. 1, 2, 3, 10. k Which was some bright and lucid body, peradventure like the fiery Cloud in the Wilderness, giving a small and imperfect Light, successively moving over the several parts of the Earth; and afterwards condensed, encreased, perfected, and gathered together in the Sun.

4 And God saw l the light, that it was good m: and God divided ‖ the light from the darkness n.

l (i. e.) Observed with approbation. m (i. e.) Pleasant and amiable, agreeable to Gods purpose and mans use. n Made a distinction or separation between them in place, time, and use, that the one should succeed and shut out the other, and so by their vicissitudes make the day and the night.

5 And God called the light Day, and the darkness he called Night: * and the evening and the morning o were the first day p.

* Heb. and the Evening was, and the morning was, &c.

o It is acknowledged by all, that the Evening and the Morning are not here to be understood according to our common usage, but are put by a Synechdoche each of them for one whole part of the natural day. But because it may be doubted which part each of them signifies, some understand by Evening, the foregoing day, and by the Morning, the foregoing night. And so the natural day begins with the morning or the light, as it did with the ancient Chaldeans. Others by Evening understand the first night or darkness which was upon the face of the Earth, ver. 2. which probably continued for the space of about twelve hours, the beginning whereof might fitly be called Evening; and by Morning the succeeding light or day, which may reasonably be supposed to continue the other twelve hours or thereabouts. And this seems the truer opinion. 1. Because the darkness was before the light, as the Evening is put before the Morning, v. 5. and 8. and afterwards. 2. Because this best agrees both with the vulgar and with the Scripture use of the terms of Evening and Morning. 3. Because the Jews who had best opportunity of knowing the mind of God in this matter by Moses and other succeeding Prophets, begun both their common and sacred days with the Evening, as is confessed, and may be gathered from Levit. 23. 32. p Did constitute or make up the first Day, Day being taken largely for the natural Day, consisting of 24 hours; these were the parts of the first Day, and the like is to be understood of the succeeding days. Moreover, God who could have made all things at once, was pleased to divide his work into six days, partly to give us occasion more distinctly and seriously to consider Gods works; and principally to lay the Foundation for the weekly Sabbath, as is clearly intimated, Gen. 2. 2, 3. and Exod. 20. 9, 10, 11.

* Psal. 136. 6. Jer. 10. 12. & 51. 15.

6 ¶ And God said, * let there be ‖ a firmament q in the midst of the waters r, and let it divide the waters from the waters.

q Or, An Extension, or a Space or place extended, or stretched out, and spred abroad like a Tent or Curtain. r i. e. Between the Waters, tho not exactly in the middle place; as Tyrus is said to sit or be situated in the midst of the seas, Ezek. 28. 2. Tho it was but a little space within the Sea. But of these things see more in the next verse.

7 And God made the firmament s, and divided the waters which were under the firmament, from the waters which were above the firmament t: and it was so u.

s The Firmament here is, Either 1. The Starry Heaven; so called, not from its solidity, but from its fixed, durable, and in a sort incorruptible and unchangeable nature. Or, 2. The Air, called here the expansion or extension; because it is extended far and wide, even from the Earth to the third Heaven; called also the Firmament, because it is fixed in its proper place, from whence it cannot be moved, unless by force. t The waters under the Firmament are Seas, Rivers, Lakes, Fountains and other Waters in the bowels of the Earth. The Waters above the Firmament, or above the Heavens, as they are called, Psal. 148. 4, are either, 1. A Collection or Sea of Waters placed by God above all the visible Heavens, and there reserved for ends known to himself. Or rather, 3. The Waters in the Clouds; for the Clouds are called Waters, Psal. 18. 11. and 104. 3. and are said to be in Heaven, 2 Sam. 21. 10. Matth. 24. 30. and the production thereof is mentioned as an eminent work of Gods Creation, Job 35. 5. and 36. 29. Psal. 147. 8. Prov. 8. 28. which therefore it is not credible, that Moses in his History of the Creation would omit, which he doth, if they be not here meant; and these are rightly said to be above the Firmament, i. e. The Air, because they are above a considerable part of it. u As God commanded and ordered it, so it was done and setled.

a Job 26. 10. & 38. 8. Psal. 33. 7. & 104. 9. 136. 6. Prov. 8. 29. & 30. 22.

8 And God called the firmament heaven: and the evening and the morning were the second day.

9 ¶ And God said, ‖ Let the waters under the heaven x be gathered together unto one place, and let the dry-land appear y: and it was so.

x Both the great Abyss, or deep of Water — is shut up in the bowels of the Earth, Gen. 7. 11. Psal. — and 33. 7. and 136. 6. as also the Sea and Rivers, all which are here said to be gathered together into one place, because of their Communication and mixture one with another. — or hitherto it was covered with Water, v. 2. 2 Pet. 3. 5.

10 And God called the dry-land earth, and the gathering together of the waters called he seas z: and God saw that it was good a.

z Not Sea, but Seas; because of the differing quantity and nature both of several Seas, and of the Rivers and other lesser collections of Waters, all which the Hebrews call Seas. a The separation of the Waters was begun on the second day, v. 6. &c. but not perfected till this Third day: Therefore Gods approbation of that work is not mentioned there, but here only 11 And God said, Let the earth bring forth b † grasse, the herb yielding seed d, and the fruit-tree yielding fruit after his kind e, whose seed is f in it self g, upon the earth: and it was so.

b The sense is, For the present let it afford matter, out of which I will make grass, (as mans Rib afforded matter, out of which God made Woman) and for the future let it receive vertue or power of producing it out of that matter which I have made and suited to that end. c That which groweth of it self without seed, or manuring, and is the food of Beasts. d For the propagation of their several kinds, to wit, mature and perfect Herbs, which alone yield seed. So afterwards God made man not in the state of Childhood, but of grown and perfect Age. e i. e. According to the several kinds of Fruits. f Now is by my constitution, and shall be for the future. g i. e. In some part of it self, either in the root, or branch, or leaf, or bud, or fruit. The sense is, Which is sufficient of it self, for the propagation of its kind, without any Conjunction of male and female.

12 And the earth brought forth grass, and herb yielding seed after his kind, and the tree yielding fruit, whose seed was in it self, after his kind: and God saw that it was good h.

h This clause is so often added to shew that all the disorders, evil and hurtful qualities that now are in the Creatures, are not to be imputed to God, who made all of them good, but to mans sin which hath corrupted their Nature, and perverted their Use.

13 And the evening and the morning were the third day.

14 ¶ And God said, Let there be * lights i in the firmament of the heaven, to divide † the day k from the night: and let them be for signs l, and for seasons m, and for days n, and years o.

* Deut. 4. 19 Psal. 136. 7.

i To wit, more glorious Lights than that created the first Day, which probably was now condensed and reduced into these Lights; which are higher for place, more illustrious for light, and more powerful for influence than that was. Note here, that Herbs and Trees were created before the Sun, whose influence now is necessary for their production, to shew that God doth not depend upon the means, or upon the help of the Creatures in his operations. k i. e. The artificial day, reaching from sun-rising to sun-setting. l For the designation and distinction of times, as months, weeks, &c. as also for the signification of the quality of the weather or season by the manner of their rising and setting, Matth. 16. 2. By their Eclipses, Conjunctions, &c. And for the discovery of supernatural and miraculous effects; of which see Jos. 10. 13. Isa. 38. 8. Luke 21. 25, 26. Act. 2. 19, 20. m By their motions and influences to produce and distinguish the four seasons of the year, mentioned Gen. 8. 22. And to shew as well the fit times and seasons for Sowing, Planting, Reaping, Navigation, &c. as for the observation of set and solemn Feasts, or other times for the ordering of Ecclesiastical or Civil Affairs. n By their diurnal and swift motion to make the days; and by their nearer approaches to us, or further distances from us, to make the days or nights either longer, or shorter, or equal. He speaks here of natural days consisting of 24 hours. o By their annual and slower motion to make years.

15 And let them be for lights in the firmament of the Heaven, to give light upon the earth: and it was so.

16 And God made * two great Lights †, the greater light p * to rule the day q, and the lesser light to rule the Night: He made the * stars also.

* Heb. the two great. &c.
† Heb. for the rule of the day, &c.
* Job 38. 7.

* Or Enlightners, as the word properly signifies. p The Sun, which is really and considerably greater than the Moon or any of the Stars, or the whole Earth. And the Moon, called here the lesser Light, is greater than any of the Stars, not really but in appearance, and in clearness, and light, in respect of which it is called great in this place, and both are much greater in efficacy and use than any of the stars. q Either 1.

To

To influence the Earth and its Fruits with heat or moisture, and to govern mens actions and affairs, which commonly are transacted by day; for the word Day is sometimes put metonymically for the events of the Day, as Prov. 27. 1. 1 Cor. 3. 13. To regulate and manage the day, by its rise to begin it, by its gradual progress to carry it on, even to the mid-day, and by its declination and setting, to impair and end it. Which seems most probable, because the Moon is in like manner said to rule the night, which is meant of the time, and not of the actions or events of the Night.

17 And God set them in the firmament of the heaven, to give light upon the earth,

* Jer. 31. 35. 18 And to * rule over the day and over the night, and to divide the light from the darkness: and God saw that it was good r.

r This clause was omitted in the first days work, but is added here, because the Light was then but glimmering and imperfect, which now was made more clear and compleat.

19 And the evening and the morning were the fourth day.

* Heb. The creeping, swimming Creature, a living soul. ∴ Heb. let the Fowl flie. * Heb. Face of the Firmament of Heaven. 20 ¶ And God said, Let the waters bring forth abundantly * the moving creature s that hath life, and ∴ fowl that may flie t above the earth in the * open firmament of heaven.

s Or, Creeping thing. A word which belongs to all those living Creatures, who move with their Bellies close to the Element they move in: Hence it is used both of Birds which fly in the Air, Lev. 11. 20. and of things creeping upon the Earth, as v. 24. of this chapter, and of Fishes that swim in the Sea, as here. t The particle that or which is oft wanting, and to be understood in the Hebrew Language, as Gen. 39. 4. Job 41. 1. Isa. 6. 6. according to this Translation the Fowl have their matter from the Water as well as the Fishes, which seems most probable as from this, so also from the following verses, in which they are both mentioned together as made of the same materials, and as works of the same day, and both are blessed together, and both are distinguished and separated from the productions of the Earth, which were the works of the sixth day, v. 24, &c. And whereas it is said, Gen. 2. 19. Out of the ground the Lord God formed every beast of the field, and every fowl of the air: It may be answered, that the word ground or earth may be there understood more largely, as it is confessedly in some other places of Scripture, for the lower part of the World consisting of Earth and Water. For it is most reasonable to expound that short and general passage from the foregoing Chapter wherein the original both of Beasts and Fowls are largely and distinctly described. Moreover the Fowl seem to have been made of both these Elements, viz. of soft and moist Earth, possibly taken from the bottom of the Water; in which case they were brought forth by the Water, as is said here, and formed out of the ground, as there. As Eve is said to be made of Adams Bone and Rib, Gen. 2. 21. and of his Flesh, v. 23. Which shews that with the Rib Flesh was taken from Adam, tho it be not said so, v. 21. So here the Fowl were made both of Water and Earth, as their temper and constitution shews, tho but one of them be here expressed. But these words are by some Translated thus, And let the fowl flye. But according to that Translation the mention of the fowl, both here and in the following verse, seems to be very improper and forced. For it is preposterous and contrary to the method constantly used in this whole chapter, to speak of the motion of any living Creature, and the place thereof, before its original and production be mentioned. Besides, either the original of the Fowls is described here, or it is wholly omitted in this chapter, which is not credible.

* Psal. 104. 26. ∴ Heb. Living Soul. ‖ Or, Swimmeth. 22 And God created u great * Whales x, and every ∴ living creature that ‖ moveth, which the waters brought forth abundantly after their kind, and every winged fowl after his kind y, and God saw that it was good.

u i.e. Produced out of most unfit matter, as if a man should out of a stone make Bread, which requires as great a power as that which is properly called Creation. x Those vast Seamonsters known by that Name, tho elsewhere this word be applied to great Dragons of the Earth. y In such manner as is declared in the first note upon verse 20.

‖ Chap. 3. 17. & 9. 1. 22 And God blessed them z, saying, ‖ Be fruitful, and multiply, and fill the waters in the seas a, and let fowl multiply in the earth b.

z Gave them power of procreation and fruitfulness, which is justly mentioned as a great blessing, Psal. 128. 3, 4. a And consequently in the Rivers which come from the Sea, and return into it. b Where they shall commonly have their habitation; tho they had their original from the Waters, of which see on v. 20.

23 And the evening and the morning were the fifth day.

‖ Heb. Living Souls. 24 ¶ And God said, Let the earth bring forth ‖ the living creature c after his kind, cattel d and creeping thing e and the Beasts f of the earth after his kind: And it was so.

c i.e. Those living Creatures hereafter mentioned, whose original is from the Earth, and whose habitation is in it. d i.e. Those tame Beasts, which are most familiar with, and useful to men for Food, Cloathing, or other service. e To wit, of the Earth, of a differing kind from those creeping things of the Water, v. 20. f i.e. The wild beast, as the Hebrew word commonly signifies, and as appears further, because they are distinguished from the tame Beasts here called Cattel.

25 And God made the beast of the earth after his kind, and cattel after their kind, and every thing that creepeth upon the earth after his kind: and God saw that it was good.

† Chap. 5. 1. & 9. 6. 1 Cor. 11. 7. Eph. 4. 24. Col. 3. 10. ‖ Psal. 8. 6. 26 ¶ And God said g, † Let us make man h in our Image, after our likeness i: and let ‖ them k have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattel l, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth.

g Having prepared all things necessary for mans use and comfort. h The plural us and our, afford an evident proof of a plurality of persons in the Godhead. It is plain from many other Texts as well as from the Nature and Reason of the thing, that God alone is mans Creator; the Angels rejoiced at the work of Creation, but only God wrought it, Job 38. 4, 5, 6, 7. And it is no less plain from this Text, and from divers other places, that man had more Creators than one Person. See Job 35. 10. John 1. 2, 3, &c. Heb. 1. 3. And as other Texts assure us that there is but one God, so this shews that there are more persons in the Godhead: nor can that seeming contradiction of one and more being in the Godhead, be otherwise reconciled, than by acknowledging a plurality of persons in the Unity of Essence. It is pretended that God here speaks after the manner of Princes in the plural number, who use to say, We Will and Require, or, It is our Pleasure But this is only the invention and practice of later times, and no way agreeable to the simplicity either of the first ages of the world, or of the Hebrew Style. The Kings of Israel used to speak of themselves in the singular number, 2 Sam 3. 28. 1 Chron. 21. 17. & 29. 14. 2 Chron. 2. 6. And so did the Eastern Monarchs too, yea, even in their Decrees and Orders, which now run in the plural number, as Ezra 6. 8. I (Darius) make a decree, Ezra 7. 21. I, even I Artaxerxes the King, do make a Decree. Nor do I remember one example in Scripture to the contrary. It is therefore a rash and presumptuous attempt, without any warrant to thrust the usages of modern stile into the Sacred Scripture Besides, the Lord doth generally speak of himself in the singular number, some few places excepted, wherein the plural number is used for the signification of this mystery. Moreover this device is utterly overthrown by comparing this Text with Gen. 3. 22. The Lord God said, Behold, the man is become as one of us. Therefore there are more persons than one in the Godhead. How many there are other Texts plainly inform us, as we shall see in their proper places. And whereas he saith not now as he did before, Let the earth or waters bring forth, but Let us make, this change of the phrase and manner of expression shews that man was, as the last, so the most perfect, and the chief of the ways and works of God in this lower world. i Image and likeness are two words noting the same thing, even exact likeness. For both of them are used of Adam, Gen. 5. 3. He begat a son in his own likeness, after his image; and they are separately and indifferently used in the same sense, man being said to be made in the likeness of God, Gen. 5. 1. and in the image of God, Gen. 9. 6. Quest. Wherein doth the Image of God in man consist? Ans. 1. It is in the whole Man, both in the Blessedness of his estate, and in his Dominion over the rest of the Creatures. 2. It shines forth even in the Body, in the majesty of mans countenance, and height of his stature, which is set towards Heaven, when other Creatures by their down looks shew the lowness and meanness of their Nature, as even Heathens have observed. 3. It principally consists and most eminently appears in mans Soul, viz. In its nature and Substance, as it is like God, Spiritual, Invisible, Immortal, &c. 2. In its Powers and Faculties, Reason or Understanding and freedom in its choice and actions. 3. In the singular endowments wherewith God hath adorned it, as Knowledg, Righteousness, and true Holiness, in which St. Paul chiefly placeth this Image, Eph. 4. 24. Col. 3. 10. k The male and female, both comprehended in the word Man, as is expressed v. 27. Together with their Posterity. l By which he understands either, 1 Both tame and wild Beasts, the same word being used here in a differing sense from what it hath v. 25. as is frequent in Scripture Or, 2. Tame: Beasts, which are particularly mentioned because they are more under mans dominion than the wild beasts, and more fitted for mans use and benefit, tho the other be not excluded, but comprehended under the former, as the more famous kind as is usual in Scriptures and other Authors. m Over all other Creatures and Productions of the Earth, and over the Earth it self, to manage it as they see fit for their own comfort and advantage.

27 So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him: ∴ Male and female created he them n.

∴ Mal. 2. 15. Matth. 19. 4. Mar. 10. 6. n Not both together, as some of the Jews have fabled, but successively, the woman after and out of the man as is more particularly ticularly related. Gen. 2, 21. &c. which is here mentioned by anticipation. Albeit the Woman also seems to have been made upon the sixth day, as is here related, and as the following blessings sheweth, which is common to both of them, tho the particular History of it is brought in afterwards, chap. 2. by way of recapitulation or repetition.

28 And God blessed them o, and God said unto
* Chap. 9. 1. them, * Be fruitful and multiply, and replenish the earth p, and subdue it: and have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, † Heb. creepeth and over every living thing that † moveth upon the earth.

o Having blessed them with excellent natures, and heavenly Gifts and Graces, he further blesseth them with a special and temporal blessing expressed in the following words. p With inhabitants to be begotten by you. Quest. Whether this be a command obliging all men to Marriage and Procreation? So the Hebrew Doctors think. It may be thus resolved. 1. It is a command obliging all men so far as not to suffer the extinction of mankind: Thus it did absolutely bind Adam and Eve, as also Noah and his Sons and their Wives after the Flood. 2. It doth not oblige every particular person to Marry, as appears both from the example of the Lord Jesus, who lived and died in an unmarried state, and from his commendation of those who made themselves Eunuchs for the Kingdom of God, Matth. 19. 12. And from St. Pauls approbation of Virginity, 1 Cor. 7. 1, 8, 26, 27, 32, &c. 3. It is here rather a promise or benediction than a command, as appears both from v. 22. where the same words are applied to the brute Beasts, who are not subject to a command; and because if this were a command, it would equally oblige every man to exercise dominion over Fishes and Fowls, &c. which is absurd. It is therefore a permission rather than a command, tho it be expressed in the form of a command, as other permissions frequently are, as Gen. 2. 16. Deut. 14. 4.

29 ¶ And God said, Behold, I have given you † Heb. Seeding Seed. every herb † bearing seed, which is upon the face of all the earth, and every tree in the which
* Chap. 9. 3. is the fruit of a tree yielding seed: * to you it shall be for meat q.

q It is neither affirmed nor denied that flesh also was granted to the first men for food, and therefore we may safely be ignorant of it. It is sufficient for us that it was expressly allowed, Gen. 9. 3.

30 And to every beast of the earth, and to every fowl of the * air, and to every thing that
* Heb. Heaven creepeth upon the earth, wherein there is ‖ life, ‖ Heb. Living Soul. I have given every green herb for meat: and it was so.

31 And God saw every thing that he had made, and behold, it was very good. And the evening and the morning were the sixth day.

CHAP. II.

THus the heavens and the earth were finished, and a All the Creatures in Heaven and Earth are called their Hosts, for their multitude, variety, order, power, and subjection to the Lord of Hosts. Particularly the Host of Heaven in Scripture (which is its own best interpreter) signifies both, the Stars, as Deut. 4. 19. & 17. 3. Isa. 34. 4. and the Angels, as 1 King. 22. 9. 2 Chron. 18. 18. Luke 2. 13. Who from these words appear to have been Created within the compass of the first six days; which also is probable from Col. 1. 16, 17. But it is no wonder that the Scripture saith so little concerning Angels, because it was written for the use of men, not of Angels, and God would hereby take us off from curious and impertinent speculations, and teach us to employ our thoughts about necessary and useful things.
* Psal. 3. 6. * all the host of them a.

* Exod. 20. 11. 31. 17. Deut. 5. 14. Heb. 4. 4. 2 * And on the seventh day God ended b his work which he had made: and he rested c on the seventh day from all his work which he had made.

b Or rather had ended or finished, for so the Hebrew word may be rendred, as all the Learned know, and so it must be rendred, else it doth not agree with the former chapter, which expressly saith, that all these works were done within six days. c Not for his own need and refreshment, for he is never weary, Isa. 40. 28. But for our example and instruction, that we might keep that day as a day of Religious rest.

3 And God blessed the seventh day d, and sanctified it e: because that in it he had rested from all his
* Heb. Created to make. Josh. 22. 26. Heb. work, ‖ which God * created and made.

d By conferring special Honours and Priviledges upon it above all other days, that it should be a day of solemn rest and rejoicing and celebration of God and his Works, and a day of Gods bestowing singular and the best blessings upon his Servants and Worshippers. e Separated it from common use and worldly employments, and consecrated it to the Worship of God, that it should be accounted an Holy day, and spent in holy works and solemn exercises of Religion. Some conceive that the Sabbath was not actually blessed and sanctified at and from this time, but only in the days of Moses, which they pretend to be here related by way of anticipation. But this opinion hath no foundation in the Text or context, but rather is confuted from them: for as soon as the sacred Penman had said that God had ended his work and rested, &c. he adds immediately in words of the same tense, that God blessed the Seventh day, and sanctified it. And if we compare this place with Exod. 20. we shall find that Moses there speaks of Gods blessing and sanctifying of the Sabbath, not as an action then first done, but as that which God had done formerly upon the Creation of the World, to the end that men might celebrate the praises of God for that glorious work, which as it was agreeable to the state of innocency, so was it no less proper and necessary a duty for the first ages of the World after the fall, than it was for the days of Moses and for the succeeding Generations. ‖ Because he would have the memory of that glorious work of Creation, from which he then rested, preserved through all Generations. ∴ Either 1. Created in making, i. e. made by way of Creation. Or, rather, 2 Created out of nothing, and afterwards out of that created matter made or formed divers things, as the Beasts out of the Earth, the Fishes out of the Water. He useth these two words, possibly to shew that Gods Wisdom, Power, and Goodness, was manifest not only in that which he brought out of meer nothing, but also in those things which he wrought out of matter altogether unfit for so great works.

4 ¶ These f are the generations g of the heavens and of the earth, when they were created; in the day h that the LORD God made the earth and the heavens, f i.e. These things mentioned in the 1 chap. g i. e. A true and full relation of their Generations, i. e. Of their Original, or Beginnings. h Not strictly so called, but largely taken for the time, as it is v. 17. Ruth 4. 5. Luk. 19. 42. 2 Cor. 6. 2.

5 And every plant of the field, before it was in the earth i, and every herb of the field, before it grew k: for the LORD God had not caused it to rain upon the earth, and there was not a man to till the ground l.

i i.e. When as yet there were no Plants, not so much as seeds of them there. k To wit, out of the Earth, as afterwards they did by Gods appointment. l The two great means of the growth of Plants and Herbs, viz. Rain from Heaven, and the labour of man, were both lacking, to shew that they were now brought forth by Gods Almighty power and word.

6 ‖ But there went up n a mist o from the Earth, and watered the whole face of the ground p.
‖ Or, a mist which went up from &c.

n To wit, from time to time by Gods appointment. o Or Vapour, or, Cloud, which going up into the Air, was turned into Rain, and fell down again to the Earth from whence it arose. p Whereby the Earth was softned and disposed both to the nourishment of those Plants or Trees that were created, and to the production of new Plants in a natural and ordinary way. But these words may be otherwise understood, the Copulative, and, here rendred but, being put for the Disjunctive, or, as it is Exod. 21. 15, 17. Job 6. 22. and 8. 3. and in other places. Or, the Negative particle not, may be understood out of the foregoing clause as it is usual in the Hebrew Language, as Psal. 1. 5. and 9. 17. and 44. 19. and 50. 8. and Isa. 28. 27, 28. And so those words may be joined with the foregoing, and both Translated in this manner, There was no Rain, nor a Man to Till the ground, or, (or nor, for both come to one thing) so much as a mist which went up from the Earth, and watered (as afterwards was usual and natural) the whole face of the ground.

7 And the LORD God formed man † of the q
† Heb. dust of the ground. dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils
* 1 Cor. 15. 47. * the breath of life r; and * man s became a living Soul t.
* 1 Cor. 15. 45.

q And by that door into the head and whole man. This is an emphatical phrase, sufficiently implying that the Soul of man was of a quite differing Nature and higher extraction and original than the Souls of beasts, which together with their bodies are said to be brought forth by the Earth, Gen. 1. 24. r Heb. Of Lives: Either to shew the continuance of this breath or soul both in this Life, and in the Life to come; or to note the various degrees or kinds of Life, which this one breath worketh in us; the Life of Plants, in growth and nourishment; the Life of Beasts, in sense and motion; and the Life of a man in Reason and Understanding. s Who before this was but a dull lump of Clay, or a comely Statue. t i. e. A living man: The Soul being oft put for the whole man, as Gen. 12. 5, 13. and 46. 15, 18. 1 Pet. 3. 20, &c.

8 And the LORD God planted u a garden x Eastward y in Eden z; and there he put the man whom he had formed a.

u Or, had planted, viz. on the third day, when he made the Plants and Trees to grow out of the ground. x A place of the choicest Plants and Fruits, most beautiful and pleasant. y From the place where Moses writ, and the Israelites afterwards dwelt. z Eden here is the name of a place, not that Eden near Damascus in Syria, of which see Amos 1. 5. but another Eden in Mesopotamia, or Chaldea, of which see Gen. 4. 16. 2 Kings 19. 12. Isa. 37. 12. Ezek. 27. 23. Here are many and tedious disputes about the place of this Paradise; of which he that listeth may see my Latin Synopsis. It may suffice to know that which is evident, that it was in or near to Mesopotamia, in the confluence of Euphrates and Tigris. a To wit, in another place.

9 And out of the ground made the LORD God to grow every Tree that is pleasant to the sight, and good for Food: the Tree of Life b also in the midst of the Garden *, and the Tree of Knowledg of good and evil c.

b So called, either symbolically and sacramentally, because it was a sign and seal of that Life which man had received from God, and of his continual enjoyment of it upon condition of his Obedience; Or effectively, because God had planted in it a singular virtue for the support of Nature, prolongation of Life, and the prevention of all Diseases, Infirmities and decays through age. * Or, within the Garden, as Tyrus is said to be in the midst of the Seas, Ezek. 28. 2. Tho it was but just within it. c So called with respect, either 1. To God, who thereby would prove and make known mans Good or Evil, his Obedience and Happiness, or his Rebellion and Misery. Or rather, 2. To Man, who by the use of it would know to his cost, how great and good things he did enjoy and might have kept by his Obedience, and how evil and bitter the fruits of his disobedience were to himself and all his posterity. So it seems to be an ironical denomination, you thirsted after more knowledg, which also the Devil promised you, and you have got what you desired, more Knowledg, even dear-bought experience.

10 And a river d went out of Eden e, to water the Garden, and from thence ‖ it was parted, and became into four heads f.

d Or, Rivers, by a common Enallage. e The Country in which Paradise was; where those Rivers either arose from one spring, or met together in one channel. ‖ (i.e.) From the Garden. f It was divided into four principal Rivers. Concerning which there are now many disputes. But it is no wonder if the rise and scituation of these Rivers be not now certainly known, because of the great changes which in so long time might happen in this, as well as in other Rivers, partly by Earth-quakes, and principally by the general Deluge. And yet Euphrates and Tigris, the chief of these Rivers, whereof the other two are branches, are discovered by some learned men to have one and the same original or spring, and that in a most pleasant part of Armenia, where they conceive Paradise was. See my Latin Synopsis.

11 The name of the first is Pison g; that is it which compasseth h the whole Land of Havilah i, where there is Gold.

g An eminent branch of the River Tigris, probably that called by others Pasi-tigris, or Piso-tigris. h i.e. With many windings and turnings passed thorough; as this word is used, Jos. 15. 3. Mat. 23. 15. i Either that which is in those parts of Arabia which is towards Mesopotamia, so called from Havilah the issue of Cham, Gen. 10. 7. Or that which is nigh Persia, and in the borders of India, so called from another Havilah of the Posterity of Sem, Gen. 10. 29. To either of these the following description agrees well.

* 2 Chron 3. 5. 12 And the Gold of that Land is * good k: there is Bdellium l and the Onyx stone m.

k i. e. Better than ordinary. l Which signifies either a precious gum, of which see Numb. 11. 70. or Gems and Pearls. Once for all observe, that many of the Hebrew words or names of Stones, Trees, Birds, and Beasts, are even to the Hebrew Doctors and others both ancient and modern Interpreters, of uncertain signification, and that without any considerable inconvenience to us who are free from the obligations which the Jews were formerly under of procuring such stones, and abstaining in their Diet from such Beasts and Birds as then were sufficiently known to them; and if any were doubtful, they had one safe course to abstain from them. m A kind of precious stone, of which see Exod. 25. 7. and 28. 9, 20.

13 And the name of the second River is Gihon n: The same is it that compasseth the whole Land of † Ethiopia o.

n Not that River in the Land of Israel so called, 1 Kings 1. 33. 2 Chron. 32. 33. But another of the same name, which in Hebrew signifies the branch of a greater river: Here it is a branch either of Euphrates, as most think, or of Tygris, as some late Writers conceive. o Not that Countrey in Africa above Egypt, commonly so called; but either Arabia, which in Scripture is frequently called Cush or Ethiopia. Of which see the notes upon 2 Kings 19. 9. Job 28. 19. Ezek. 29. 10. and 30. 8, 9. Hab. 3. 7. or rather a Country adjoining to India and Persia, with which Cush is joined, Ezek. 38. 5. See also Isa. 11. 11. and Ezek. 27. 10. And about which place the Ethiopians are seated by Herod. l. 7. Homer, Hesiod, and others. Of which see my Latin Synopsis.

14 And the name of the third river is Hiddekel p: that is it which goeth ‖ toward the East of Assyria. And the fourth River is Euphrates.

p (i.e.) Tigris, or an eminent branch of it. See Dan. 10. 4.

15 And the LORD God took ‖ the man, and put him q into the garden of Eden, to * dress it r, and to keep it s.

‖ Or, Adam. * Or, till. See Chap 3. 23.

q (i.e.) Commanded and enclined him to go, r (i.e.) To prune, dress, and order the Trees and Herbs of it. s From the annoyance of Beasts, which being unreasonable Creatures, and allowed the use of Herbs, might easily spoil the beauty of it.

16 And the LORD God commanded the man t, saying, Of every tree of the Garden † thou mayest freely eat u:

t And the Woman too (as appears both from the permission for eating Herbs and Fruits given to her, together with her Husband, Gen. 1. 28, 29. and from Gen. 3. 1, 2, 3 and from Eves punishment) and that either immediately, or by Adam whom God enjoineth to inform her thereof. u Without offence to me, or hurt to thy self. The words in Hebrew have the form of a command, but are only a permission or indulgence, as 1 Cor. 10. 25, 27.

17 But of the tree of the knowledg of good and evil, thou shalt not eat of it: For in the day in which thou eatest thereof, ‖ thou shalt surely dye x.

x With a threefold death. 1. Spiritual by the guilt and power of sin, at that instant thou shalt be dead in trespasses and sins, Eph. 2. 1. 2. Temporal, or the death of the Body, which shall then begin in thee, by decays, infirmities, terrors, dangers, and other harbingers of death. 3. Eternal, which shall immediately succeed the other.

18 And the LORD God said y, It is not good z that the man should be alone: I will make him an help † meet for him a.

† Heb. as before him, or, as it were comparable to him. Isa. 40. 17.

y Or, Had said, to wit, upon the sixth day, on which the Woman was made, Gen. 1. 27, 28. z Not convenient either for my purpose of the increase of mankind, or for mans personal comfort, or for the propagation of his kind. a A most emphatical phrase signifying thus much, one correspondent to him, suitable both to his nature and necessity, one altogether like to him in shape and constitution, disposition and affection, a second self; or one to be at hand, and near to him, to stand continually before him, familiarly to converse with him, to be always ready to succor, serve, and comfort him; or one whose eye, respect, and care, as well as desire, (Gen. 3. 16.) should be to him, whose business it shall be to please and help him.

19 And out of the ground the LORD God formed every beast of the field, and every fowl of the air, and brought them b unto * Adam c, to see d what he would call them: And whatsoever Adam called every † living Creature, that was the name thereof e:

* Or, the Man. ‡ Heb. living Soul.

o Either by Winds or Angels, or by his own secret instinct, by which storks, and cranes, and swallows change their places with the season. c Partly to own their subjection to him; partly, that man being recreated with their prospect, might adore and praise the Maker of them, and withal be sensible of his want of a meer companion, and so the better prepared to receive Gods mercy therein; and partly for the reason here following. d Or, make a discovery, not to God, who knew it already, but to all future Generations, who would hereby understand the deep wisdom and knowledg of their first Parent. e To wit, in the primitive or Hebrew Language. And this was done for the manifestation both of mans Dominion over the Creatures, and of the largeness of his understanding; it being an act of authority to give names, and an effect of vast knowledg to give convenient names to all the Creatures, which supposeth an exact acquaintance with their Natures.

20 And Adam † gave names to all cattel, and to the fowl of the air, and to every beast of the field, but for Adam there was not found an help-meet for him f.

f But tho in giving them names he considered their several natures and perfections, it was evident to himself, as well as to the Lord, that none of them was an help meet for him.

21 And the LORD God caused a deep sleep to fall upon Adam g, and he slept, and he took one of his ribs h, and closed up the flesh i, instead thereof k.

g That he was without sin, might feel no pain in the taking king away of his Rib. And in this sleep some think Adam was in an extasie, wherein he saw what was done, together with the reason and mystery of it. h Together with the flesh upon it, v. 23. Or one of his sides, for the Hebrew word signifieth a Side as well as a Rib, which may be taken Synecdochically for a part of one of his sides, viz. a Rib and the flesh upon it; or for one part out of each of his sides; as if two Ribs clothed with flesh were taken out of the man, because he saith, v. 23. This is bone of my bones, not of my bones. The Woman was taken out of this part, not out of the higher or lower parts, to shew that she is neither to be her husbands mistress, to usurp authority over him, 1 Tim. 2. 12. Nor yet to be his slave, to be abused, despised, or trampled under his feet, but to be kindly treated, and used like a companion with moderation, respect, and affection. Qu. How could a Rib be taken from Adam, but it must be either superfluous in Adam, while it was in him, or defective afterwards, both which reflect upon the Creator? Ans. 1. It was no superfluity, but a conveniency, if Adam had at first one Rib extraordinary put into him for this purpose. 2. If Adam lost a Rib upon so glorious an occasion, it was but a scar or badg of honour, and no disparagement either to him, or to his Creator. 3. Either God created him a new Rib, or hardned the flesh to the nature and use of a Rib, and so there was no defect in him. i Together with another Bone or Rib. k (i. e.) Of that Rib and Flesh which he took away from him, which was easie for God to do.

l From some place at a little distance, whither he first carried her, that for the decency of the action he might bring her thence. m A Bride to a Bridegroom to be married to him; the great God being pleased to act the part of a Father to give his Daughter and workmanship to him, thereby both teaching Parents their duty of providing marriages for their Children, and Children their duty of expecting their Parents consent in marriage.

23 And Adam said n, This is now o bone of my
* 2 Cor. 11. 8. bones, and flesh of my flesh p: she shall be called woman, because she was * taken out of man.

n Qu. How knew he this? Ans. Either 1. By his own observation: For tho it be said that he was asleep till the Rib was taken out and restored, yet he might awake as soon as ever that was done, the reason of his sleep ceasing, and so might see the making of the Woman. Or 2. By the Revelation of God, who put these words into Adams mouth, to whom therefore these words of Adam are ascribed, Matth. 19. 5. o Or, For this time, the Woman is made of my Bones, &c. but for the time to come, the woman as well as the man shall be produced another way, to wit, by Generation. p Made of my Rib and Flesh, i. e. God hath provided me a meet help and Wife, not out of the brute Creatures, but nearer hand, a
* Matt. 19. 5. part of my own Body, and of the same nature with my self.
Mar. 10. 7.
1 Cor. 6. 16.
Eph. 5. 31. 24 * Therefore q shall a man leave his father and his mother r, and shall cleave unto his wife s: and they t shall u be one flesh x.

q These are the words of Moses by divine instinct, or his inference from Adams words. r In regard of Habitation and society, but not as to natural duty and affection. s In Conjugal relation and highest affection, even above what they owe to their Parents. t Or, they two, as it is in the Samaritan, Syriack, and Arabick translations, and Mat. 19. 5. u (i. e.) Shall be esteemed by themselves and others, to be as intirely and inseparably united, and shall have as intimate and universal communion, as if they were. x (i.e.) One Person, one Soul, one Body. And this first institution shews the sinfulness of Divorces and Polygamy, however God might upon a particular reason for a time dispence with his own institution, or to remit the punishment due to the violaters of it.

25 And they were both naked, the man and his wife, and were not ashamed y.

y To wit, of their nakedness, as having no guilt, nor cause of shame, no filthy or evil inclinations in their Bodies, no sinful Concupiscence, or impure motions in their souls, but spotless innocency and perfection, which must needs exclude shame.

CHAP. III.

NOW the serpent a was more subtile than any Beast of the Field b, which the LORD God † Heb. Yea, because, &c. had made: and he said unto the woman d, † Yea, e hath God said f, ye shall not eat of every g tree of the garden?

a Or rather, this or that Serpent: For here is an emphatical article, of which more by and by. b The Serpents eminent subtilty is noted both in sacred Scripture, Gen. 49. 17. Psal. 58. 5. Mark 10. 16. 2 Cor. 11. 3. and by Heathen Authors, whereof these instances are given, that when it is assaulted, it secures its head; that it stops its ear at the charmers voice, and the like. If it be yet said that some beasts are more subtil, and therefore this is not true; it may be replied. 1. It is no wonder if the serpent for its instrumentality in mans sin hath lost the greatest part of its original subtilty, even as mans sin was punished with a great decay both of the natural endowments of his mind, wisdom, and knowledg, and of the beauty and glory of his body, the instrument of his sin. But this Text may and seems to be understood not of the whole kind of serpents, but of this individual, or particular serpent; for it is in the Hebrew Hannachasch, that Serpent, or this Serpent, to signifie that this was not only an ordinary serpent, but was acted and assisted by the Devil, who is therefore called that old Serpent, Rev. 12. 9. And this seems most probable, partly from the following discourse, which is added as a proof of that which is here said concerning the serpents subtilty, and that surely was not the discourse of a Beast but of a Devil; and partly from 2 Cor. 11. 3. which hath a manifest reference to this place, where the Apostle affirmeth that the Serpent beguiled Eve through his subtilty, not surely through that subtilty which is common to all serpents, but through that subtilty which was peculiar to this, as it was possessed and acted by the Devil. There seems indeed to be an allusion here to the natural subtilty of all serpents, and the sense of the sacred Penman may seem to be this, as if he had said, the serpent indeed in it self is a subtil Creature, and thought to be more subtil than any Beast of the Field; but howsoever this be in other serpents, it is certain that this Serpent was more subtil than any beast of the Field, as will appear by the following words. If it be said, the particle this, or that, is relative to something going before, whereas there is not a word about it in the foregoing words, it may be replied, that relative particles are often put without any antecedents, and the antecedents are left to be gathered not only out of the foregoing, but sometimes also out of the following passages, as is apparent from Exod. 14. 29. Num. 7. 89. and 24. 17. Psal. 87. 1. and 105. 19. and 114. 2. Prov 7. 8. and 14. 26. So here that Serpent, that of which I am now to speak, whose discourse with the Woman here followeth. c Quest. How the Serpent could speak, and what the Woman conceived of his speech, and why she was not affrighted but continued the discourse with it? There be two satisfactory answers may be given to these questions. 1. The Woman knew that there were spirits, and did freely and frequently converse with Spirits or Angels, who also did appear in some visible shape to her, which seems very credible, because in the following ages not only the Angels, but even the blessed God himself did in that manner converse with men. And as they afterwards used to appear in the shape of men, why might not one of them now appear to her, and converse with her in the shape of a beautiful Serpent? And why might she not freely and securely discourse with this which she thought to be one of those good Angels, to whose care and tuition both she and her Husband were committed? For I suppose the fall of the Angels was yet unknown to her; and she thought this to be a good Spirit, otherwise she would have declined all conversation with an Apostate Spirit. 2. A late ingenuous and learned Writer represents the matter thus, in which there is nothing absurd or incredible: The serpent makes his address to the Woman with a short speech, and salutes her as the Empress of the World, &c. she is not affrighted because there was as yet no cause of fear, no sin, and therefore no danger, but wonders and enquires what this meant, and whether he was not a bruit Creature, and how he came to have speech and understanding? The serpent replies, that he was no better than a bruit, and did indeed want both these gifts, but by eating of a certain fruit in this Garden he got both; she asked what Fruit and Tree that was? Which when he shewed her, she replied, This no doubt is an excellent fruit and likely to make the eater of it wise; but God hath forbidden us this Fruit: To which the serpent replies, as it here follows in the Text. It is true, this discourse is not in the Text, but it is confessed by Jewish and other Expositors, that these words, Yea, hath God said, &c. Are a short and abrupt sentence, and that they were but the close of a foregoing discourse; which might well enough be either this now mentioned, or some other of a like nature. And that expression which follows v. 6. When the woman saw, i. e. understood, that it was a tree to be desired to make one wise, may seem to imply both that the serpent told her, and that she believed, that the speech and understanding of the serpent was the effect of the eating of that fruit, and therefore that if it raised him from a bruit beast to the degree of a reasonable Creature, it would elevate her from the humane to a kind of divine nature or condition. d Who had upon some occasion retired from her Husband for a season; an advantage which the crafty serpent quickly espieth, and greedily embraceth, and assaulteth her when she wanteth the help of her husband. e Or, Why, or, Is it so, or, indeed, or, of a truth. f It is scarce credible that God, who is so bountiful, and the soveraign good, and so abhorring from all parsimony and envy, should forbid you the enjoyment of any part of those provisions, which he hath made for your use and comfort. g Or, of any, for the word is ambiguous, which therefore the cunning adversary useth to hide the snare, which he was laying for her.

2 And the woman said unto the serpent, We may eat of the fruit of the trees of the garden:

3 But of the fruit of the tree, which is in the midst of the garden, God hath said, Ye shall not eat of it, neither shall ye touch it h, lest ye dye i.

h To wit, in order to the eating of it: Or the touch might be simply forbidden, or she might reasonably understand it to be forbidden in and by the prohibition of eating, becauſe it was an occaſion of ſin, and therefore to be avoided. For it is not probable that the Woman being not yet corrupted, ſhould knowingly add to God's Word, or maliciouſly inſinuate the harſhneſs of the precept. i Others, leſt peradventure ye die, as if ſhe doubted of the truth of the threatning: Which ſeems not probable, the Woman yet continuing in the ſtate of innocency, and ſuch doubting being evidently ſinful; and the Hebrew particle Pen, doth not always imply a doubt, as appears from Pſal. 2. 12. Iſa. 27. 3. and 36. 18. compared with 2 King. 18. 3.

to

* 2 Cor. 11. 3. 1 Tim. 2. 14.

4 * And the Serpent ſaid unto the woman, Ye ſhall not ſurely die k.

k It is not ſo certain as you imagine, that you ſhall die. God did ſay ſo indeed for your terrour, and to keep you in awe, or, he had ſome myſtical meaning in thoſe words; but do not entertain ſuch hard and unworthy thoughts of that God who is infinitely kind and gracious, that he will for ſuch a trifle, as the eating of a little fruit, undo you and all your Poſterity, and ſo ſuddenly deſtroy the moſt excellent work of his own hands.

5 For God doth know l, that in the day ye eat thereof, then your eyes ſhall be opened m: and ye ſhall be as gods n, knowing good and evil o.

l If you would have the whole truth of the matter, and God's deſign in that Prohibition, it is only this. m He knoweth that you ſhall be ſo far from dying, that ye ſhall certainly be entred into a new, and more noble kind of Life, and the eyes of your minds, which are now ſhut as to the knowledg of a World of things, ſhall then be opened, and ſee things more fully and diſtinctly. n Or, as God, like unto God himſelf in the largeneſs of your knowledg. o As the very name that God hath put upon the Tree may teach you. But this is a priviledg, of which, for divers cauſes beſt known to himſelf, ſome of which your own reaſon will eaſily gueſs at, he would not have you partake of.

6 And when the woman ſaw p that the tree was good for food, and that it was † pleaſant to the eyes *, and a tree to be deſired to make one wiſe q; ſhe took of the fruit thereof, * and did eat, and gave alſo unto her husband r with her s, and he did eat t.

p By curious and accurate obſervation, and gazing upon it, or perceiving it by the Serpents diſcourſe, as was obſerved on ver. 3. * To wit, in an eminent degree; for otherwiſe ſo were all the reſt. q Which ſhe might know by the Serpents information. See the Notes on ver. 1. r Who by this time was returned to her. s (i. e.) Who now was with her, or, that he might eat with her and take his part of that Fruit. t By her perſwaſion, and inſtigation. See 1 Tim. 2. 14.

7 And the eyes of them both u were opened x, and they knew || that they were naked: and they ſewed y fig-leaves z together, and made themſelves || aprons a.

u Of their Minds and Conſciences, which hitherto had been cloſed, and blinded by the arts of the Devil. x As the Devil had promiſed them, tho in a far differing and ſadder ſenſe. || They knew it before, when it was their glory; but now they knew it with grief and ſhame, from a ſenſe both of their guilt for the ſin newly paſt, and of that ſinful Concupiſcence, which they now found working in them. y Or, Tied, Twiſted or Faſtned. z The leſſer branches, or twigs upon which were alſo the leaves of a Fig-tree which peradventure was then near them, and which becauſe of its broad leaves was moſt fit for that uſe. a To cover their nakedneſs.

8 And they heard the voice b of the LORD God c, walking in the garden in the † cool of the day d: and Adam and his Wife hid themſelves from the preſence of the LORD God e amongſt the trees of the garden.

b Mentioned ver. 9. or rather the ſound as the word voice is often taken in Scripture, as Pſal. 93. 3. Rev. 10. 3. and 19. 6. c Either God the Father, or rather God the Son, appearing in the ſhape of a man, as afterwards he frequently did to give a foretaſt of his incarnation. d About Evening, the time when men uſe to walk abroad to recreate themſelves, when there was a cool and refreſhing Wind, whereby alſo the voice of the Lord was more ſpeedily and effectually conveyed to Adam and his Wife. e Being ſenſible of God's approach, and filled with ſhame and Conſcienc of their own guilt and dread of judgment, inſtead of flying to God for Mercy, they fooliſhly attempted to run away from him, whom it was impoſſible to avoid.

9 And the LORD God called f unto Adam, and ſaid unto him, Where art thou g?

f With a loud voice. g Thou whom I have ſo highly obliged, whither and wherefore doeſt thou run away from me thy friend and Father, whoſe preſence was lately ſo ſweet and acceptable to thee? In what place, or rather in what condition art thou? What is the cauſe of this ſudden and wonderful change? This he aſks, not that he was ignorant of it, but to make way for the following ſentence, and to ſet a pattern for all Judges, that they ſhould examine the offender, and enquire into the offence before they proceed to puniſhment.

10 And he ſaid, I heard thy voice in the garden: and I was afraid, becauſe I was naked h; and I hid my ſelf i.

h He confeſſeth his nakedneſs, which was evident; but ſaith nothing of his ſin, which if poſſible, he would have hid. See Job 31. 33. And is grieved for the ſhameful effects of his ſin, but not yet ſincerely penitent for his ſin. i Out of reverence to thy glorious Majeſty.

11 And he ſaid, Who told thee that thou waſt naked *? Haſt thou eaten of the tree, whereof I commanded thee k, that thou ſhouldeſt not eat?

* Or, that thy nakedneſs, which lately was thy glory, was now become matter of ſhame? k Concerning which I gave thee ſo ſevere a charge upon pain of death.

12 And the man ſaid, The Woman l whom thou gaveſt to be with me m, ſhe gave me of the Tree, and I did eat n.

l I have eaten, not by my own choice and inclination, but by the perſwaſion of this Woman. m As a meet help, a faithful friend and conſtant companion, ſuppoſing that it was not good for me to be alone, which the event ſhews would have been much better for me. Thus Adam excuſeth himſelf, and chargeth God fooliſhly with his ſin. n Out of complacency to her, not from any evil deſign againſt thee.

13 And the LORD God ſaid unto the Woman, What is this that thou haſt done o? And the Woman ſaid, The Serpent p beguiled me q, and I did eat r.

o How hainous a crime haſt thou committed? What a World of miſchief haſt thou by this one act brought upon thy ſelf and all thy poſterity? Or, why haſt thou done this? What cauſes or motives couldſt thou have for ſo wicked an action? What need hadſt thou of meddling with this forbidden fruit, when I had given thee ſo large and liberal an allowance? p A Creature which thou haſt made, and that aſſiſted by an higher power, by an evil Angel, for ſuch I now perceive by ſad experience there are. q A weak and fooliſh Woman, whoſe ſeduction calls for thy pity, not thine Anger. r Being ſurpriſed, and overperſwaded againſt my own Judgment and Reſolution.

s Or rather this or that Serpent, which, as was ſaid before on ver. 1. was no ordinary Serpent, but a Serpent acted and aſſiſted by the Devil, and therefore this ſentence, or curſe is pronounced againſt both of them; 1. Againſt the Serpent it ſelf, which tho an unreaſonable Creature, and therefore not ſubject to a Law, and conſequently not capable of guilt or ſin, Rom. 4. 15. Yet, being the inſtrument of the Devils malice, is rightly puniſhed, as other Beaſts being abuſed by mans ſin did ſuffer together with him, Exod. 32. 20. Levit. 20. 15, 16. not for their crime, but partly for the puniſhment, and partly for the benefit of Man, who is their Lord and Owner, Pſal 8 6 for whoſe ſake ſeeing they were made, it is not ſtrange if they be puniſhed, for his uſe, that in their puniſhment man might have a demonſtration of God's anger againſt ſin, and a motive to Repentance. 2. Againſt the Devil, who is here principally intended, tho, as he lay hid in the body of the Serpent which he poſſeſſed, and uſed, ſo his curſe is here mentioned under the cover of the Serpents curſe, and under the diſguiſe of ſuch terms as properly and literally agree to the Serpent, but are alſo myſtically to be underſtood concerning the Devil, with whom the Lord entertaineth no conference, as he did with Adam and Eve, whoſe ſin was leſs than his, and whom God meant to bring to Repentance; but immediately denounceth the curſe againſt him, as one that ſinned againſt much greater Knowledg, and from far worſe Principles, not from miſtake or miſ-information, but from choice and Rebellion, from hatred of God, and from meer envy, and implacable malice againſt men. t Deceived the Woman, and tempted her to this ſin. u Or, ſhalt be from henceforth, both really and in the opinion of all mankind Or, Be thou * x As in other reſpects, ſo particularly in that which here follows. || If the Serpent did ſo before the fall, what then was natural, is now become painful and ſhameful to it, as nakedneſs and ſome other things were to man. But it ſeems more probable, that this Serpent, before the fall either had feet, or rather did go with its breaſt erect, as the Baſiliſk at this day doth; God peradventure ſo ordering it, as a Teſtimony that ſome other Serpents did once go ſo. And ſo the ſenſe of the curſe being applied to this particular Serpent and to its kind, may be this, Whereas thou hadſt a priviledg above other kinds of Serpents, whereby thou didſt go with erected breaſt, and didſt feed upon the Fruits of Trees and other Plants, now thou ſhalt be brought down to the ſame mean and vile eſtate with them, upon thy belly, (or rather, breeſt, as the word alſo ſignifies) ſhalt thou go, &c. as they do. y Duſt is the food as of Earthworms, Scorpions, and ſome other Creatures, ſo alſo of ſome Serpents, as appears both from Iſai 65. laſt, Mic. 7. 17 and from the Teſtimony of Nicander Theriac. verſ. 372. and Philo an Arabick Writer. Or, the duſt is the Serpents ſawce rather than his meat, whilſt creeping and groveling upon the Earth, and taking his food from thence, he muſt neceſſarily take in duſt and filth together with it. Theſe two clauſes being applied to the Devil, ſignifie his fall from his noble ſtate and place to Earth and Hell, the baſeneſs of his nature and of his food, his delight being in the vileſt of men and things, it being now his meat and drink to diſhonour God, and deſtroy mankind, and promote the eſteem and love of earthly things.

15 And I will put enmity z between thee and the woman a, and between thy * ſeed b, and her † ſeed c: it ſhall ‖ bruiſe thy head d, and thou ſhalt bruiſe his heel e.

* Matth. 3. 7. and 13. 38 and 23. 33 Joh. 8. 44. Act. 13. 10. 1 John 3. 8. † Pſal. 132. 11. Iſa. 7. 14. Mic. 5. 3. ‖ Rom. 16. 20. Heb. 2. 14. 1 John 5. 5. Rev. 12. 7, 17.

z Tho now you be ſworn friends, leagued together againſt me. a And the man too, but the Woman alone is mentioned, for the Devils greater confuſion. 1. The Woman, whom, as the weaker Veſſel thou didſt ſeduce, ſhall be the great occaſion of thy overthrow. 2. Becauſe the Son of God who conquered this great dragon and old ſerpent, Rev. 12. 9. Who came to deſtroy the works of the Devil, 1 Joh. 3. 8. was made of a Woman. Gal. 4. 4. without the help of man, Iſa. 7. 14. Luk. 1. 34, 35. b Literally, this Serpent, and for his ſake, the whole ſeed or race of Serpents, which of all Creatures are moſt loathſome and terrible to mankind, and eſpecially to Women: Myſtically, that evil Spirit which ſeduced her, and with him the whole ſociety of Devils (who are generally hated and dreaded by all men, even by thoſe that ſerve and obey them, but much more by good men), and all wicked men, who with regard to this text, are called Devils, and the Children or ſeed of the Devil, Joh 6 70. and 8. 44. Acts 13. 10. 1 John 3. 8. c Her off-ſpring, firſt and principally, the Lord Chriſt, who with reſpect to this text and promiſe is called by way of eminency, the Seed, Gal. 3. 16, 19. whoſe alone work it is to break the Serpents head, i. e. to deſtroy the Devil, Heb. 2. 14. Compare John 12. 31. Rom. 16. 20. Secondly, and by way of participation, all the members of Chriſt, all believers and holy men, who are called the Children of Chriſt, Heb. 2. 13. and of the Heavenly Jeruſalem, Gal. 4. 26. All the members whereof are the Seed of this Woman; and all theſe are the implacable enemies of the Devil, whom alſo by Chriſts merit and ſtrength they do overcome. e The principal inſtrument both of the Serpents fury and miſchief, and of his defence, and the principal ſeat of the Serpents life, which therefore men chiefly ſtrike at, and which being upon the ground a man may conveniently tread upon and cruſh it to pieces. In the Devil this notes his Power and Authority over men, the ſtrength whereof conſiſts in Death, which Chriſt, the bleſſed ſeed of the Woman overthroweth, by taking away the ſting of death which is ſin, 1 Cor. 15. 55, 56. and deſtroying him that had the power of death, that is, the Devil, Heb. 2. 14. f The part which is moſt within the Serpents reach, and wherewith it was bruiſed, and thereby provoked to fix his venomous Teeth there; but a part remote from the Head and Heart, and therefore its wounds tho painful, are not deadly, nor dangerous, if they be obſerved in time. If it be applied to the ſeed of the Woman, Chriſt, his heel may note, either his humanity, whereby he trod upon the Earth, which indeed the Devil by Gods permiſſion, and the hands of wicked men, did bruiſe and kill; or his Saints and Members upon the Earth, whom the Devil doth in divers manners bruiſe, and vex and afflict, while he cannot reach their Head Chriſt in Heaven, nor thoſe of his members who are or ſhall be advanced thither.

16 Unto the woman he ſaid, I will greatly g multiply thy ſorrow h, and thy conception: in ſorrow i thou ſhalt bring forth k children l: and thy deſire m ſhall be ‖ to thy husband, and he ſhall rule * over thee n.

g Or, certainly, as the repetition of the ſame word implies. h In divers pains and infirmities peculiar to thy ſex. (i.e.) Thou ſhalt have many, and thoſe oft-times falſe and fruitleſs Conceptions and abortive births; and whereas thou mighteſt commonly have had many Children at one Conception, as ſome few women yet have, now thou ſhalt ordinarily undergo all the troubles and pains of Conception, Breeding and Birth for every Child which thou haſt. Or, Thy ſorrows and thy conception, by a figure called Hendiaduo, are put for, thy ſorrows in Conception, or rather in Child bearing, which the Hebrew word here uſed ſignifies, Gen. 16. 4. Jud. 13. 3. i Ariſtotle in his Hiſtor. Animal. 7. 9. obſerves, that Women bring forth young with more pain than any other Creatures. k Or, bear, for the word notes all the pains and troubles which Women have both in the time of Child bearing, and in the act of bringing forth. l Heb. Sons; and Daughters too, both being comprehended in that word, as Exod. 22. 24. Pſal. 128. 6. m Thy deſires ſhall be referred or ſubmitted to thy husbands will and pleaſure to grant or deny them, as he ſees fit. Which ſenſe is confirmed from Gen. 4. 7. where the ſame phraſe is uſed in the ſame ſenſe. And this puniſhment was both very proper for her that committed ſo great an error as the eating of the forbidden Fruit was in compliance with her own deſire without asking her husbands advice or conſent, as in all reaſon ſhe ſhould have done in ſo weighty and doubtful a matter; And very grievous to her, becauſe womens Affections uſe to be vehement, and it is irkſome to them to have them reſtrained or denied. n Seeing for want of thy Husbands rule and conduct thou waſt ſeduced by the ſerpent, and didſt abuſe that power I gave thee together with thy Husband to draw him to ſin, thou ſhalt now be brought down to a lower degree; for he ſhall rule thee, not with that ſweet and gentle hand, which he formerly uſed, as a Guide and Counſellor only, but by an higher and harder hand, as a Lord and Governour, to whom I have now given a greater Power and Authority over thee, than he had before, (which through thy pride and corruption will be far more uneaſie to thee, than his former Empire was) and who will uſurp a further power than I have given him, and will by my permiſſion for thy puniſhment rule thee many times with Rigour, Tyranny, and Cruelty, which thou wilt groan under, but ſhalt not be able to deliver thy ſelf from it. See 1 Cor. 14. 34. 1 Tim. 2. 11, 12. 1 Pet. 3, 6.

17 And unto Adam he ſaid, Becauſe thou haſt hearkned unto the voice of thy wife o, and haſt eaten of the tree of which I commanded thee, ſaying, Thou ſhalt not eat of it: * curſed is the ground p for thy ſake q, in ſorrow r ſhalt thou eat of it all the days of thy life.

* Iſa. 24. 5, 6. Rom. 8. 20.

o (i. e.) Obeyed the word and counſel, contrary to my expreſs command p Which ſhall now yield both fewer and worſe fruits, and thoſe too with more trouble of mens minds and labour of their bodies. q (i.e.) Becauſe of thy ſin; or to thy uſe, or, as far as concerns thee. r Or, with toil, or, grief.

18 Thorns alſo and thiſtles a, ſhall it † bring forth b to thee c: and thou ſhalt * eat the herb of the field d.

a And other unuſeful and hurtful Plants ſynechdochically contained under theſe. b Of its own accord. c Not to thy benefit, but to thy grief and puniſhment. d Inſtead of thoſe generous and delicious Fruits of Paradiſe, which becauſe thou didſt deſpiſe thou ſhalt no more taſt of. See Gen. 1. 29.

19 In the ſweat of thy face f ſhalt thou eat bread g till thou return unto the ground: for out of it waſt thou taken; for duſt thou art i, and unto duſt ſhalt thou return k.

f (i.e.) Of thy Body: He mentions the Face, becauſe there the ſweat appears firſt and moſt. Or, with labour of Body or Brain, Eccleſ. 1. 13. and vexation of mind g (i.e.) Get thy food and livelihood: Bread being put for all nouriſhment, as Gen. 18. 5. and 28. 20. i As to the conſtitution and original of thy Body. See Gen. 18. 27. Job 1. 21. Pſal. 103. 14. k Tho upon thy obedience I would have preſerved thy Body no leſs than thy ſoul from all mortality, yet now having ſinned thou ſhalt return unto duſt in thy Body, whilſt the immortal ſpirit ſhall return unto God who gave it, Eccleſ. 12. 7. Thus thy end ſhall be as baſe as thy beginning.

m Which ſignifies either Living, or, the giver, or preſerver of Life. n Tho for her ſin juſtly ſentenced to a preſent death, yet by Gods infinite Mercy, and by vertue of the promiſed Seed, was both continued in Life her ſelf, and was made the Mother of all Living Men and Women that ſhould be after her upon the earth, who tho in and with their mother they were condemned to ſpeedy death, yet ſhall be brought forth into the ſtate and land of the Living, and into the hopes of bleſſed and eternal Life by the Redeemer, whoſe Mother or progenitor ſhe was.

21 Unto Adam alſo, and to his wife, did the LORD God p make coats of ſkins q and clothed them r.

p Either by his own word, or by the miniſtry of Angels. q Of Beaſts ſlain either for Sacrifice to God, or for the uſe of man, their Lord and owner. r Which he did partly to defend them from exceſſive heats and colds, or other injuries of the Air, to which they were now expoſed, partly to mind them of their ſin which made their nakedneſs, which before was Innocent and Honourable, now to be an occaſion of ſin and ſhame, and therefore to need covering: And partly to ſhew his care even of fallen man, and to encourage his hopes of Gods mercy through the bleſſed ſeed, and thereby to invite him to Repentance.

22 And the LORD God ſaid s, Behold, the man is become t as one of us u to know good and evil x, and now leſt he put forth his hand y, and take alſo a of the tree of life, and eat and live for ever b:

s Either within himſelf, or to the other perſons of the Godhead. t (i.e.) Adam and Eve both are become ſuch according to the Devils promiſe and their own expectation. This is an holy Irony or Sarcaſm, like thoſe 1 King. 18. 27. Eccleſ. 11. 9. q. d. Behold, O all ye Angels, and all the future Generations of men, how the firſt man hath over-reached and conquered us, and got the Divinity which he affected, and how happy he hath made himſelf by his Rebellion: But this bitter ſcorn God uttereth not to inſult over mans miſery, but to convince him of his ſin, folly, danger and calamity, and to oblige him both to a diligent ſeeking after, and a greedy embracing the remedy of the promiſed Seed which God offered him, and to a greater watchfulneſs over himſelf, and reſpect to all Gods commands for the time to come. u i. e. As one of the Divine Perſons, of infinite Wiſdom and Capacity. Here is an evident proof of a plurality of perſons in the Godhead, compare Gen. 1. 26. 11. 7. If it be ſaid, God ſpeaks this of himſelf and the Angels; beſides that as yet not one word hath been ſpoken concerning the Angels, it is an abſurd and unreaſonable conceit that the great God ſhould level himſelf with the Angels, and give them a kind of equality with himſelf, as this expreſſion intimates. x To know all things; both good and evil. y The ſpeech is defective, and to be ſupplied thus, or ſome ſuch way, But now care muſt be taken, or man muſt be baniſhed hence, leſt he, &c. a i. e. As he did take of the Treee of knowledg. b (i.e.) And thereby prophane that Sacrament of Eternal Life, and fondly perſwade himſelf that he ſhall live for ever. This is another ſcoff or irony, whereby God upbraideth mans preſumption, and thoſe vain hopes wherewith he did ſtill feed himſelf.

23 Therefore d the LORD God ſent him forth from the

the Garden of Eden, to till f the ground, from whence he was taken g.

d For prevention thereof. e Or, expelled him with ſhame and violence, and ſo as never to reſtore him thither: For it is the ſame word which is uſed concerning divorced Wives. f To wit, with toil and ſweat, as was threatned, ver. 17. g The ground without Paradice: For he was made without Paradiſe, and then put into it, as was noted before.

24. So he drove out the Man: And he placed at the East of the Garden h of Eden, Cherubims i, and † a flaming Sword k, which turned every way l, to keep the way of the Tree of Life m.

h Where the entrance into it was, the other ſides of it being incloſed or ſecured by God to preſerve it from the entrance and annoyance of wild Beaſts: Or, before the Garden. i. e. Near to the Garden, before any man could come at the Garden any way. i (i e.) Angels, ſo called from their exquiſite knowledge, and therefore fitly here uſed for the puniſhment of man who ſinned by affecting divine knowledg. k In the Cherubims hands, as it was upon other occaſions, Numb. 22. 23. Joſ. 5. 13. 1 Chron. 21. 16, 27. And this was either a material ſword, bright, and being brandiſhed, ſhining and glittering like a flame of fire, or, flaming fire in the ſhape of a Sword. Or, flaming ſwords, becauſe there were divers Cherubims, and each of them had a Sword. The ſingular number for the plural: Or, a two edged Sword. l Was brandiſhed and nimbly whirled about by the Cherubims, which poſture was fitteſt for the preſent ſervice. m The way that leads to Paradiſe, and ſo to the Tree of Life; that man might be deterred and kept from coming thither.

The choiceſt and moſt eminent of the Flock: For the beſt of any kind are oft called Firſt-born, as Job 18. 13. Jer. 31. 19. Heb. 12 23. k Either 1. Properly, the fat being properly now required by God, as afterwards was expreſſed, Ex. 29. 13, 22. Levit. 3. 3. Or, 2. The beſt of them, as the word fat is often uſed, as Gen. 45. 18. and 49. 20. Numb. 18. 12. Nehem. 8. 10. Pſal. 147. 14. l Or, looked to him with a gracious eye, kindly accepted and owned him and his Sacrifice, and teſtified this, Heb. 11. 4. to Cain and all there preſent, either by expreſs word, or by ſome viſible ſign, probably by conſuming his Sacrifice by Fire from Heaven as the Fathers generally think, whereby alſo God did afterwards frequently ſignifie his acceptance of Sacrifices, as Levit. 9. 24. Jud. 6. 21. 1 King. 18. 38. 1 Chron. 21. 26. 2 Chron. 7. 1. m Unto Abels perſon, who was a truly good Man; and then to his Sacrifice, which was offered with Faith in Gods Mercy, and in the promiſed Mediator, Heb. 11. 4.

5 But unto Cain and to his offering he had not reſpect: And Cain was very wroth n, and his countenance fell o.

n Partly with God, who had caſt ſo publick a diſgrace upon him, and given the preference to his younger Brother: And partly with Abel, becauſe he had received more Honour from God, and therefore was likely to have more reſpect and priviledge from his Parents than himſelf. Whereas before it was lifted up and chearful, now it fell down through ſenſe of guilt, diſappointment of his hope, ſhame, and grief, and envy at his Brother.

6 And the Lord ſaid unto Cain p, Why art thou wroth? and * why is thy countenance fallen q? * Job 29. 24.

p That he might bring him to Repentance and the knowledge of his ſin. q The cauſe of this dejectedneſs is not from me, but from thy ſelf.

7. If thou doeſt well r, ſhalt thou not ‖ be accepted s? and if thou doſt not well, ſin lieth at the door t: and * unto thee ſhall be his deſire, and thou ſhalt rule over him u.

r Or, for the future ſhalt do well, (i. e.) repent of thy ſin, amend thy Life, offer thy Offerings with a willing and chearful mind and honeſt heart in Faith and Love, as Abel did. s Or, pardoned, received into favour? Or, exalted, and either preſerved in or reſtored unto thoſe rights of the Firſt-born, which thou art conſcious to thy ſelf, that thou haſt forfeited? Or, elevated, in thy looks, i. e. would not, or ſhould not, thy countenance have be been upright and pleaſant, which now is ſad and dejected? t Sin is here taken, either 1. Properly, ſo the ſenſe is, ſin will be growing upon thee, one ſin will bring in another, and that malice and purpoſe of revenge againſt thy Brother, which now lies hid in the ſecret chamber of thy Mind and Heart, lies at the door ready to break forth into the view of the World in open Murder. Or. 2, For the puniſhment of ſin, as it is taken Gen. 19. 15. Levit. 5. 1. and 20. 20. Numb. 18. 1. 2 King. 7. 9. Zech. 14. 19. So the ſenſe is, If thou wilt go on in ſin, and execute thy wicked purpoſe which I perceive lies working in thy Heart, be ſure thy ſin will find thee out, as is ſaid Numb. 32. 23. Thou ſhalt not long enjoy the Fruits of thy wickedneſs, but a dreadful judgment ſhall tread upon the heels of thy ſin, and lie like a furious Maſtive-dog at the very door of thy houſe, to ſeize upon thee, at thy firſt coming in or going out. For that perſon or thing which is very near to us, or at hand, is ſaid to be at the doors, Matth. 24. 33. Jam. 5. 9. u Thoſe two clauſes may relate either 1. To ſin, which may be here ſpoken of as a perſon, as it is Rom. 7. 8, 9, 11, &c. So the place may be rendred and expounded thus, The deſire of ſin is to thee, (i. e.) to aſſault, ſeduce, conquer and deſtroy thee: And it is ſaid, Luk. 22. 31. Satan hath deſired to have you, that he may ſift you, &c. Or thus, its deſire, objectively, not ſubjectively taken, (i. e.) Thy deſire, intention or reſolution of ſinning; that evil motion of thy heart againſt thy Brother ſhall be againſt (as the Hebrew particle el oft ſignifies) thee, (i.e.) howſoever at preſent it pleaſeth thee, yet it is really not only againſt him, but againſt thy ſelf, and will certainly turn to thy own ruine: But (for ſo the particle and is commonly taken) If thou be wiſe, give no place to it, but reſiſt it, do thou rule (for the future tenſe is oft put imperatively, as in the Ten Commandments, and it frequently ſignifies not what a man can or ſhall do, but his duty or what he ought to do, as is evident from Gen 20. 9. Mal. 1. 6. Luke 3. 14.) over it, i e. conquer and ſubdue it, which is thy duty; or, thou ſhalt rule over it (i.e.) by my grace aſſiſting thy endeavours thou ſhalt be enabled to ſubdue thy evil concupiſcences and paſſions, and ſo overrule, prevent or remove thoſe puniſhments, which otherwiſe ſin will infallibly bring upon thee. Or, 2. To Abel, and ſo the ſenſe is, And (as for thy Brother Abel, to whoſe Faith and Piety I have given this publick and honourable teſtimony, which thy naughty heart makes an occaſion of envy, and malice, and intention of Murther, that thou mayſt not by a miſtake be led to the perpetration of ſo horrid a crime, know, that this favour of mine concerns only his ſpiritual priviledge, and the happineſs of the Life to come which thou deſpiſeſt, but it makes no change in civil rights, nor doth it transfer the dominion from thee, whoſe it is by Birth, unto him; nor doth he ſo underſtand it, for notwithſtanding this) unto thee ſhall be his deſire ſubject, (i. e.) he ſhall and will nevertheleſs yield to thee as his Superiour, and thou according to thy own hearts deſire ſhalt rule over him. If it be ſaid, the name of Abel is not here mentioned; it may be anſwered, that this is ſufficiently included in the pronouns his and him, and it is not unuſual to put thoſe relative pronouns alone, the antecedent being not expreſſed, but to be gathered either from the foregoing or following words, of which ſee my notes on Gen. 3. 1.

8. And Cain † talked with Abel his brother x: And it came to paſs, when they were in the field y, that Cain roſe up againſt Abel his Brother, and * ſlew him z.

x Either 1. Familiarly and friendly, as he uſed to do, thereby to make him ſecure and careleſs; Or by way of expoſtulation and contention. y Into which Abel was led either by his own employment, or by Cains perſwaſion, this being a fit place for the execution of his wicked purpoſe. z Poſſibly with ſtone or club, or with ſome Iron tool belonging to Husbandry.

9. And the LORD ſaid unto Cain, Where is Abel a thy brother b? And he ſaid, I know not: Am I my brothers keeper c?

a Not that God was ignorant where he was, but partly to convince him of his ſin, and to lead him to Repentance, and partly to inſtruct Judges to enquire into cauſes, and hear the accuſed ſpeak for themſelves, before they paſs ſentence. b Whom nature and near relation obliged thee to love and preserve. c Why doſt thou enquire of me concerning him who is of age to look to himſelf? Is he ſuch a ſtripling that he needs a Guardian? Or didſt thou ever make me his Guardian?

10 And he ſaid, What haſt thou done d? The voice of thy brothers † Blood e * crieth unto me from the ground f.

d I hear thy words, but what ſay thy actions? What an hideous crime haſt thou committed? In vain doſt thou endeavour to hide it or deny it. e In the Hebrew it is Bloods, either to aggravate the crime: Or, to ſhew the plenty of the blood ſpilt: Or, to charge him with the Murder of all thoſe that might naturally have come out of Abels loyns, which was a far greater crime in the nonage of the World, when the World greatly wanted people. f Upon which it was ſpilt by thy bloody hands.

11. And now art thou curſed g from the Earth h, which hath opened her mouth to receive thy Brothers blood from thy hand i.

g As the earth was curſed for thy Fathers ſake, ſo now art thou curſed in thy own perſon. h Or, In regard of the Earth, which ſhall grudge thee both its Fruits, and a certain dwelling place. i Which had more humanity to thy Brother than thou hadſt; for it kindly received and covered that blood which thou didſt cruelly and unnaturally ſhed upon it.

12. When thou tilleſt the ground k it ſhall not henceforth yield unto thee her ſtrength l. A fugitive and vagabond m ſhalt thou be in the Earth.

k Or, That ground, which doth or ſhall fall to thy ſhare, which beſides the firſt and general curſe inflicted upon the whole Earth, ſhall have this peculiar curſe added to it l (i.e.) Its vertue, and fruit, in ſuch proportion as it hath hitherto done. m Baniſhed from thy own Land and Kindred, and fathers houſe, and from the Whole ſociety of the faithful, and wandring hither and thither. Others render the words mourning and trembling: or, trembling and wandring. Theſe two words note both the unquietneſs and horror of his mind and conſcience, and the unſetledneſs of his habitation and condition, and as ſome add, the trembling of his body.

n Heb. My Sin: But Sin ſeems here to be put for puniſhment, as before ver. 7. and Gen. 19. 15. Levit. 5. 1. Pſal. 69. 27. Prov. 21. 21. For Cain was not ſo ſenſible of his ſin, as of the ill effects of it, as himſelf ſhews ver. 14.

14. Behold o, thou haſt driven me out p this day from the face of the Earth q, and from thy face r ſhall I be hid, and I ſhall be a fugitive, and a vagabond in the earth: And it ſhall come to paſs that every one that findeth me ſhall ſlay me s.

o Conſider how ſeverely thou uſeſt me. p With publick infamy, as the word ſignifies. q Or, This Earth, my native Land. r (i. e.) Favour and Protection, s As the publick Enemy of mankind, and as one devoted by thee to deſtruction Queſt. Whom did Cain fear, when it appears not that there were any but his Father and Mother? Anſw. So ignorant people conceive; but it is a fond conceit to think, that there were no more men than are expreſſed in this Book, where God never intended to give a catalogue of all men, but only of the Church, or thoſe who had ſome relation to, or concern with it. Nay, that there were very many thouſands of men now in being, is very credible upon theſe rational grounds and ſuppoſitions. 1. That Adam and Eve did according to Gods precept and bleſſing, Gen. 1. 26. procreate Children preſently after the fall, and Gods gracious reconcilement to them; and conſequently their Children did ſo, when they came to competent age. 2. That thoſe firſt Men and Women were endowed by God with extraordinary fruitfulneſs, and might have two, three, four or more at a time, (as divers perſons long after had) which was then expedient for the repleniſhing of the World; and the like may be judged of their Children, during the Worlds infancy. 3. That this murder was committed but a little before the hundred and thirtieth year of Adams Age, which appears by comparing Gen. 4. 25. and 5. 3. Before which time how vaſt and numerous an off-ſpring might have come from Adam, none can be ignorant that can and ſhall make a rational computation.

15 And the LORD ſaid unto him, Therefore t whoſoever ſlayeth Cain, vengeance ſhall be taken on him ſevenfold u. And the LORD ſet a mark upon Cain x, leſt any finding him ſhould kill him.

t Or, Aſſuredly, as the word ſignifies Jer. 2. 32. and 5. 2. Zech. 11. 17. That thou mayſt ſee how I hate murther, and how impartially I ſhall puniſh all murtherers, and that thou mayſt be unhappily free from this fear, that thou mayſt live for an example to mankind, for a terror to thy ſelf and others. u (i.e.) Abundantly he ſhall be plagued with many and grievous puniſhments, as the phraſe is uſed, Levit. 26. 28. Pſal. 12. 7. and 79. 12. and in many other places. x What this was, whether a trembling of his Body, or a ghaſtlineſs of his countenance, or what other viſible token of the divine diſpleaſure, God hath not revealed, nor doth it concern us to know.

16. And Cain went out from the preſence of the LORD y, and dwelt in the Land of Nod z, on the Eaſt of Eden.

y (i. e.) Was baniſhed from the place of Gods ſpecial preſence and habitation, from the ſociety of his Father, and of the only Church which God had upon Earth. z In the Land which was afterwards called Nod, from Cains unſetled condition, becauſe he continued wandring hither and thither in it.

17. And Cain knew his wife a, and ſhe conceived and bare † Enoch, and he built a City b, and called the Name of the City after the name of his Son Enoch c.

a Of which phraſe ſee on Chap. 4. 1. b Partly to divert his troubled mind with buſineſs and pleaſure, and partly for his own ſecurity againſt the enemies and evils which his guilty Conſcience made him fear, notwithſtanding the aſſurance which God had given him. And this he did as ſoon as he was in capacity for it, either by the increaſe of his own poſterity, or by the acceſſion of other degenerate Sons of Adam to him, who either being baniſhed or having departed from the Church, willingly aſſociated themſelves with their brethren in iniquity. c Not after his own name, which he knew to be infamous and hateful.

18. And unto Enoch was born Irad: And Irad begat Mehujael, and Mehujael begat Methuſael, and Methuſael begat † Lamech.

19. And Lamech d took unto him two Wives e, the Name of the one was Adah, and the name of the other Zillah.

d The wicked branch of that curſed root of Cain. e Againſt Gods firſt inſtitution, Gen. 2. 24. Mal. 2. 15. and without Gods leave.

20. And Adah bare Jubal: He was the Father of ſuch as dwell in Tents f, and of ſuch as have Cattel g.

f He taught Shepherds to dwell in Tents, and to remove them from place to place for conveniency of Paſture. The firſt Authors or Inventors of any thing are commonly called its Fathers. g Heb. And of Cattel, i. e. The Inventor of the art of keeping and managing Cattel.

21. And his brothers name was Jubal: He was the Father of all ſuch as handle the Harp and Organ h.

h Or, she lovely inſtrument. But what kind of Inſtrument this was, even the Jews do not underſtand. The meaning is, he was the Inventor of Muſick and muſical inſtruments.

22 And Zillah ſhe alſo bare Tubal-Cain i, an † Inſtructer of every Artificer in braſs, and Iron k: And the Siſter of Tubal-Cain was Naamah l.

i Whom (as the learned conceive, and the agreement of the name and function makes probable) the Heathens Worſhipped by the name of Vulcan the God of Smiths, and his Siſter Naamah, by the name of Venus. k Who firſt taught men how to make arms and other inſtruments of Iron. l So called from her beauty, which her Name ſignifies.

23. And Lamech ſaid unto his wives, Adah, and Zillah m, Hear my voice, ye Wives of Lamech n, hearken unto my ſpeech: For ‖ I have ſlain a man to my wounding, and † a young man * to my hurt n.

m Who, obſerving his fierceneſs and cruelty, feared that the vengeance of God or men would fall upon him, and upon them for his ſake. n (i. e.) Be it ſo that I have ſlain a man, and that a young man, why do ye concern your ſelves in it? It is to my own wounding and hurt, not to yours, I muſt ſuffer for it, not you. Some take this to be a ſorrowful confeſſion of his bloody crime, q.d. I have murdered a man to my wounding, &c. (i. e.) to my utter ruine, or to the wounding and grief of my Heart and Conſcience. But this ſeems not to agree either with the quality of Cains Family, or with the temper of Lamech's Perſon, or with the ſcope of the Holy Ghoſt in this place, which is to deſcribe not the vertues, but the crimes of that wicked race. According to the Marginal Tranſlation, the ſenſe may be this, Fear not for me, for if any man, though in his youth and ſtrength ſhould aſſault me, and give me the firſt wound, he ſhould pay dearly for it; and though I were wounded and weakned, the remainders of my ſtrength would be ſufficient to give him his deaths wound. The words alſo may be otherwiſe rendred, the particle chi being taken interrogatively, as it is, Iſa 29. 6. and 36. 19. and elſewhere, Have I ſlain a man to my wounding, and [or, or] a young man to my hurt? (i.e.) that thereby I ſhould deſerve ſuch a mortal wound or hurt to be inflicted upon me by way of retaliation? You have therefore no cauſe of fear either for my ſake, or for your own.

24. If Cain ſhall be avenged o ſeven-fold, truly Lamech ſeventy and ſeven-fold p.

o If the ſlaughter of Cain ſhall be puniſhed in him that ſhall kill him, whoſoever he be. p (i. e.) My death ſhall be much more certainly and ſeverely revenged by God upon any man that ſhall murder me. Theſe words may be, either 1. A profane ſcoff, q d. Since Cain my Father and pattern in murther was ſo far from being puniſhed by the hand of God, that he had a ſpecial protection from him, that no man ſhould dare to touch him, I (whoſe murther is not ſo hainous as his was) ſhall not fair worſe than he, and therefore have no reaſon to fear either God or Men. Or 2. An argument or ground of his ſecurity q.d. I am not only ſecured by my own puiſſance, but by Gods providence, which certainly will be more watchful over me, who have not committed any ſuch horrid crime, than over him that killed his own innocent Brother.

25. And

25 And Adam knew his wife again, and she bare a son, and called his name † Seth q: for God, said she r, hath appointed me another seed s instead of Abel t, whom Cain slew.

q She gave the name, but not without Adams consent, Gen 5. 3. r By divine inspiration. s Note, that the word Seed is used of one single person, here, and Gen. 21. 13. and 38 8. Which confirms the Apostles argument, Gal. 3. 16. t To succeed his Father Adam, as Abel should have done in the Priesthood, and Administration and care of Holy things in the Church of God.

26 And to Seth, to him also there was born a son; and he called his name † Enos u: then began men ‖ to call upon the name of the LORD x.

u Which properly signifies a miserable man, to note the great wickedness and wretchedness of that Generation, which the Hebrew Writers generally observe. x To pray unto God, to Worship God in a more publick and solemn manner; Praying being here put for the whole Worship of God, as Gen. 12. 8. and 26. 25. and in many other places. According to the marginal version the sense is this. Then, when the World was universally corrupt, and had forsaken God and his service, good men grew more valiant and zealous for God, and did more publickly and avowedly own God, and began to distinguish and separate themselves from the ungodly World, and to call themselves and one another by the Name of God, (i.e.) the Sons, Servants, or Worshippers of God, as they are expressly called, and that, as it seems, upon this occasion, Gen. 6. 2. And in this sense this phrase is elsewhere taken, as Isa. 43. 7. and 44. 5. and 65. 1. Some render the place thus, Then began Men to profane the name, (i.e.) the worship of the Lord, by Idolatry or Superstition. But this seems neither to agree with the Hebrew phrase, nor to suit with this place, where he speaks of the posterity of Seth, who were the Holy Seed and only Church of God then in the World.

CHAP. V.

* 1 Chron. 1. 1.

THis is the * book a of the generations of Adam b: In the day that God created man c, in the likeness of God made he him d:

a (i.e.) The List or Catalogue, as this word is taken Nehem. 7. 5. Matth. 1. 1. as it is also put for any short writing, as for a bill of divorce, as Deut. 24. 1, 2. b (i.e.) His posterity begotten by him, the word being passively used. But he doth not here give a compleat list of all Adams Children, but only of his godly seed, which preserved true Religion and the Worship of God from Adam to the Flood, and from whose Loins Christ came, Luk. 3. c This is here repeated to note the different way of the production of Adam, and of his posterity, his was by creation from God, theirs by Generation from their Parents. d See Gen. 26. 27.

2 Male and female created he them e, and blessed them f, and called their name Adam g, in the day when they were created.

e See Gen. 1. 26. Matth. 19. 4. Mar. 10. 6. f With power to propagate their kind, and with other blessings. See Gen. 1. 28. g Which name is given both to every man, as Gen. 9. 6. Psal. 49. 20. and to the first man, as Gen. 2. 23. and to the whole kind, both the Man and the Woman, who are called by one name, to shew their intimate Union and Communion in all things.

3 And Adam lived an hundred and thirty years h, and begat a son in his own likeness, after his image i; and called his name Seth.

h After he was created, in which time he begat other sons and Daughters, as appears from what was said before. i Either 1. In regard of the natural frame of his Body and soul. But this was so evident of it self, that the mention of it had been frivolous. Nor is there any reason why that should be said of Seth, rather than of Cain, or Abel. Or 2. In regard of his corruption, q. d. a weak, sinful, mortal man like himself: For Adams image is here plainly opposed to the likeness of God wherein Adam is said to be created, v. 1. And this is fitly said of Seth, to signifie, that altho he was a worthy and good man, and Adam excepted, the most eminent person of the whole Church of God; yet he, no less than wicked Cain, was begotten and born in sin, and that all the difference which was between him, and consequently between other good men, and the wicked progeny of Cain, was not from the nature which they received from Adam, but from the grace infused into them by God.

* 1 Chron. 1. 1, &c.

4 * And the days of Adam after he had begotten Seth, were eight hundred years: And he begat sons and daughters k.

k Whose names and numbers are here passed over in silence, as not belonging to the Genealogy of Christ, nor to the following History.

5 And all the days that Adam lived, were nine hundred and thirty years l: and he died.

l The long lives of men in ancient times here noted, are also mentioned by Heathen Authors: And it was wisely so ordered by God both for the more plentiful encrease of mankind in the first age of the world; and for the more effectual propagation of true Religion, and other useful knowledg to the World. And many natural reasons might be given why their lives were then longer than afterwards.

6 And Seth lived an hundred and five years, and begat Enos.

And Seth lived after he begat Enos, eight hundred and seven years, and begat sons and daughters.

8 And all the days of Seth were nine hundred and twelve years; and he died.

9 And Enos lived ninety years, and begat † Cainan. † Heb. Kenan.

10 And Enos lived after he begat Cainan, eight hundred and fifteen years, and begat sons and daughters.

11 And all the days of Enos were nine hundred and five years: and he died.

12 And Cainan lived seventy years, and begat † Mahalaleel. † Gr. Maleleel.

13 And Cainan lived after he begat Mahalaleel eight hundred and forty years, and begat Sons and daughters.

14 And all the days of Cainan were nine hundred and ten years: and he died.

15 And Mahalaleel lived sixty and five years, and begat † Jared. ‡ Heb. Jered.

16 And Mahalaleel lived after he begat Jared eight hundred and thirty years, and begat sons and daughters.

17 And all the days of Mahalaleel were eight hundred ninety and five years: and he died.

18 And Jared lived an hundred sixty and two years, and he begat Enoch.

19 And Jared lived after he begat Enoch, eight hundred years, and begat sons and daughters.

20 And all the days of Jared were nine hundred sixty and two years: and he died.

21 And Enoch lived sixty and five years, and begat Methuselah † m. † Gr. Mathusala.

m Whose name is thought by some learned men to contain a prophesie of the flood which was to come a thousand years after; for it signifies He dies, and the dart or Arrow of Gods vengeance comes. Or, He dies, and the sending forth of the Waters comes.

22 And Enoch * walked with God n after he begat Methusalah three hundred years, and begat sons and daughters o. * Chap. 24. 40. Psal. 16. 8. and 116. 9.

n (i.e.) He lived as one whose eye was continually upon God, whose care and constant course and business it was to please God, and to imitate him, and to maintain acquaintance and communion with him, as one devoted to Gods serivce, and wholly governed by his will; he walked not with the men of that wicked age, or as they walked, but being a Prophet and Preacher, as may be gathered from Jude v. 14, 15. with great zeal and courage he protested and preached against their evil practices, and boldly owned God and his ways in the midst of them. Compare Gen. 6. 6. Jer. 12. 3. Mic. 6. 8. o Hence it is undeniably evident, that the state and use of Matrimony doth very well agree with the severest course of Holiness, and with the office of a Prophet or Preacher.

23 And all the days of Enoch were three hundred sixty and five years.

24 And * Enoch walked with God, and he was not p, for God took him q. * Heb. 11. 5.

p (i.e.) He appeared not any longer upon Earth, or amongst mortal men. The same phrase is in Gen. 42. 36. Jer. 31. 15. q Out of this sinful and miserable World unto himself, and to his heavenly Habitation. See Luke 23. 43. And he took either his Soul, of which alone this phrase is used, Ezek. 24. 16. or rather both Soul and Body, as he took Elias, 2 King 2. 11. because he so took him that he did not see death, Heb. 11. 5.

25 And Methuselah lived an hundred eighty and seven years, and begat † Lamech. † Heb. Lamech.

26 And Methuselah lived after he begat Lamech, seven hundred eighty and two years, and begat sons and daughters.

27 And all the days of Methuselah, were nine hundred sixty and nine years r, and he died s.

r The longest time that any man lived. But it is observable, that neither his nor any of the Patriachs lives reached to a thousand years, which number hath some shadow of perfection. s But a little before the Flood came, being taken away from the evil to come.

28 And Lamech t lived an hundred eighty and two years, and begat a son.

t Not that wicked Lamech mentioned chap. 4. for he was of the Family of Cain, but this was descended from Seth.

29 And he called his name † Noah u, saying x, This same shall comfort us concerning our work, and toil of our hands y, because of the ground which the LORD hath cursed. † Gr. Noe.

u Which signifies rest. x By the Spirit of Prophesie y (i.e.) Concerning the hard labour and manifold troubles to which we are sentence[e], ch. 3. 19. And this he did either 1. By the invention of inſtruments of husbandry whereby Tillage was made more eaſie. Or 2. By removing in ſome part the curſe inflicted upon the Earth, and reconciling God unto mankind. Poſſibly he might ſuppoſe that this was the Meſſias or promiſed Seed, and the Saviour of the undone world: As it was frequent with the ancient Fathers through their earneſt deſire of the Meſſias, to expect him long before he came, and to miſtake other perſons for him. Or 3 By preſerving a remnant of mankind from that deluge, which he by the ſpirit foreſaw would come, and repeopling the emptied Earth with a new Generation of men, and by reſtoring and improving the art of Husbandry. See Gen 9. 20.

30 And Lamech lived after he begat Noah, five hundred ninety and five years, and begat ſons and daughters.

31 And all the days of Lamech were ſeven hundeed ſeventy and ſeven years, and he died.

32 And Noah was five hundred years old: and Noah begat [z] Shem, Ham, and Japheth.

[z] (i.e.) He began to beget, God in mercy denying him Children till that time that he might not beget them to the deſtroyer, that he might have no more than ſhould be ſaved in the Ark. Or, having before that time begotten others who were now dead, and having the approaching Flood in his view, he began again to beget a ſeminary for the World. Of theſe three Sons here following, the eldeſt ſeems to be Japhet, Gen. 10. 21. The ſecond was Sem, as appears, becauſe he was but an hundred years old two years after the flood, Gen. 11. 11. The youngeſt Ham, Gen. 9. 24. But Sem is firſt named in order of dignity, as being the progenitor of the Church, and of Jeſus Chriſt, and becauſe he and his progeny is the principal ſubject of this whole Hiſtory.

CHAP. VI.

AND it came to paſs when men [a] began to multiply [b] on the face of the earth, and daughters were born unto them [c],

[a] (i.e.) Wicked men, the poſterity of Cain, as appears from the following verſe: Who are here called men, and the Sons of men, by way of contempt and of diſtinction, meer men, ſuch as had only the natures and qualities of corrupt men, without the image of God. [b] To wit, more than ordinarily, or more than the ſons of God, becauſe they practiſed Polygamy after the example of their Predeceſſor, the ungodly Lamech, Gen. 4. 19. [c] So doubtleſs were ſons alſo; but their Daughters are here mentioned as one principal occaſion of the ſin noted in the next verſe, and of the following deluge.

2 That the ſons of God [d] ſaw [e] the daughters ‖ of men [f], that they were fair [g], and they took them [h] Wives [i] of all which they choſe [k].

[d] Either 1. Perſons of greateſt eminency for place and power, for ſuch are called Gods, and Children of the moſt high, Pſ. 82. 6. Where alſo they are oppoſed to men, v. 7. i.e. to meaner men. And the moſt eminent things in their kinds are attributed to God, as Cedars of God, Hill of God, &c. But it is not probable, that the Princes and Nobles ſhould generally take Wives or Women of the meaner rank, nor would the Marriages of ſuch perſons be ſimply condemned, or at leaſt it would not be mentioned as a crying ſin, and a great cauſe of the deluge. Or rather 2. The Children of Seth, and Enos, the profeſſors of the true Religion. For, 1. Such and only ſuch in the common uſe of Scripture are called the Sons and Children of God, as Deut. 14. 1. and 32. 19 Iſa. 1. 2. and 45. 11. Hoſ. 11. 1. Luke 17. 27, &c. 2. This title manifeſtly relates to Gen 4. 26. where the ſame perſons are ſaid to be called by the name of the Lord, i.e. to be the ſons and ſervants of God. 3. They are oppoſed to the Daughters of men, the word men being here taken in an ill ſenſe, for ſuch as had nothing in them but the nature of men, which is corrupt and abominable, and were not ſons of God, but forreigners and ſtrangers to him, and Apoſtates from him. 4. Theſe unequal matches with perſons of a falſe Religion, are every where condemned in Scripture as ſinful and pernicious, as Gen. 26. 35. Exod 34. 16. 1 Kings 11. 2, 3. Eſra 9. 10. Neh. 13. 23, &c. Mal. 2. 11. 1 Cor. 7. 39. 2 Cor. 6. 14. and therefore are fitly ſpoken of here, as one of the ſins which brought the flood upon the ungodly world. [e] (i.e.) Gazed upon and obſerved curiouſly and luſtfully, as the ſequel ſheweth. [f] Of that ungodly and accurſed race of Cain. [g] (i.e.) Beautiful, and ſet off their beauty with all the allurements of Ornaments and carriage, herein uſing greater liberty than the ſons and daughters of God did or durſt take, 1 Pet. 3. 3 and therefore were more enticing and prevalent with fleſhly minded men. [h] Either 1. By force and violence, as the word ſometimes ſignifies. Or rather 2. By conſent, for the ſons of God were ſo few in compariſon of the wicked World, that they durſt not take away their daughters by force, which alſo proves that they did not take them for Harlots, but for Wives. [i] Poſſibly more than one for each of them, after the example of thoſe wicked Families into which they were matched. [k] (i.e.) Loved and liked, as the word chuſing is taken, Pſal. 25. 12. and 119. 173. Iſa. 1. 29. and 42. 1. compared with Matth. 12. 28. This is noted as their firſt error, that they did promiſcuouſly chuſe Wives without any regard to their ſobriety and Religion, minding only the pleaſing of their own fancies and luſts, not the pleaſing and ſerving of their Lord and Maker, nor the obtaining of a godly Seed, which was Gods end in the inſtitution of Marriage, Mal. 2. 15. and therefore ſhould have been theirs too.

3 And the LORD ſaid [l], My ſpirit ſhall not always ſtrive with man [m], for that he alſo [n] is fleſh [o], yet [p] his days ſhall be an hundred and twenty years [r].

[l] Either 1. To the men of that age by the mouth of Noah. Or 2. within himſelf: (ſee Pſal. 14. 1.) he determined. [m] Or, Contend, or, Debate in or againſt men as it hath hitherto done, by inward motions and ſuggeſtions in the minds and conſciences of wicked men, or by the mouths and Miniſtry of that ſmall remnant of Holy men, and particularly of Noah, who proteſted againſt, and contended with the World of the ungodly, and by their doctrines, admonitions, threatnings and examples, endeavoured to bring them to Repentance, 1 Pet. 3. 19. or, diſpute with, or concerning, or becauſe of man, i.e. Whether I ſhould deſtroy or ſave him, as God diſputes with or about Ephraim, Hoſ. 11. 8. [n] (i.e.) Even the ſeed of Seth, or the ſons of God alſo, no leſs than the off-ſpring of Cain: The Pronoun being here put for the foregoing Noun, and the ſingular number put for the plural, he, i. e. they, to wit, the Sons of God; both which figures are frequent in the uſe of Scripture. Or, he, i.e. man, all mankind, the Sons of God not excepted. [o] Not only fleſhly in part, or in ſome actions, but altogether, in regard of ſoul as well as body, minding nothing but making proviſion for the fleſh to fulfil its luſts, Rom. 13. 14. Not having the Spirit, Jude v. 19. nor heeding its good motions, but ſuppreſſing and reſiſting them; fleſh not only in the condition of their nature, but in the baſeneſs and corruption of their hearts and lives, as the word fleſh is commonly uſed when it is oppoſed to the Spirit, as John 3. 6. Rom. 7. 18. and 8. 5, 7. Gal. 5. 17. [p] Tho he deſerve a ſpeedy deſtruction. [q] (i.e.) The time allowed him for Repentance, and the prevention of his ruin. [r] During which time Noah was Preaching, and to aſſure them of the Truth of his Doctrine, preparing the Ark. See 1 Pet. 3. 20. 2 Pet. 2. 5. Queſt. How did God perform this promiſe when there were but an hundred years between this time, and the Flood, by comparing Gen. 5. 32. with Gen. 7. 11? Anſw. 1. The encreaſing wickedneſs of mankind might juſtly haſten their ruin, and forfeit the benefit of this indulgence. 2. This promiſe tho mentioned after that, Gen. 5. 32. yet ſeems to have been made twenty years before it: For that verſe is added there out of its proper place, only to compleat the Genealogy; and therefore, after this narration, it is repeated here in its due order, v. 10. And ſuch Hyſteron Proterons are frequently noted in Scripture.

4 There were giants [s] in the earth in thoſe days: and alſo after that [t], when the ſons of God came in unto the daughters of men [u], and they bare children to them, the ſame became mighty men, which were of old [x], men of † renown.

† Heb. Name.

[s] Men ſo called partly from their high ſtature, but principally for their great ſtrength and force, whereby they oppreſſed and tyrannized over others: For this is mentioned as another ſin and cauſe of the Flood, and therefore they ſeem to be here noted not for the height of their ſtature, which is no crime, but for their violence, which alſo is expreſſed beneath, v. 11, 13. [t] After that time there aroſe a new Generation or ſucceſſion of that ſort of men. [u] Were united and incorporated with them. A modeſt expreſſion of the Conjugal ſtate and act, as Gen. 16. 2. and 35. 3. Jud. 15. 2. [x] Which were proper to the firſt ages of the World: For the ſucceeding Generations were generally leſs in ſtature and ſtrength of Body, and therefore not ſo famous for perſonal exploits. Or theſe words may be thus joined with the following, Which were of old, (i.e.) among the men of that firſt and wicked World, men of Renown, (i. e.) famous in their Generation, when indeed they ſhould have been infamous for the abuſe of their ſtature and ſtrength to Tyranny and Cruelty.

5 And God ſaw that the wickedneſs of man was great in the earth, and that ‖ every imagination of the thoughts of his * heart [y] was only evil ‖ continually [a].

‖ Or, the whole imagination. The Hebrew word ſignifieth not only the imagination, but alſo the purpoſes and deſires. * Chap. 8. 21. Matth. 25. 11. ‖ Heb. every day.

[y] To which the Scripture commonly aſcribes all mens actual wickedneſs, as Pſal. 41 6. Prov. 4 23. and 6. 14, 18. Jer. 17. 9. Matth. 15. 19. Rom. 3. 10, &c. Thereby leading us from acts of ſin to the original corruption of nature as the cauſe and ſource of them. [a] (i.e.) That man was perpetually either doing or contriving wickedneſs, that not only his actions were vile, but his principles alſo, his very ſoul, yea the nobleſt part of it, which might ſeem moſt free from the contagion, his mind and thoughts were corrupt and abominable, and ſo there was no hopes of amendment.

6 And it repented the LORD [b] that he had made man on the earth, and it grieved him at his heart [c].

[b] Properly God cannot Repent, Num. 23. 19. 1 Sam. 15. 11, 29. becauſe he is unchangeable in his nature and counſels, Mal. 3. 6. Jam. 1. 17. and perfectly wiſe and conſtantly happy, and therefore not liable to any grief or diſappointment: But this is ſpoken of God after the manner of man by a common figure gure called Anthropopathia, whereby alſo eyes, ears, hands, noſe, &c. are aſcribed to God, and it ſignifies an alienation of Gods Heart and Affections from men for their wickedneſs, whereby God carries himſelf towards them like one that is truly penitent and grieved, deſtroying the work of his own hands. c Or, at his very Soul, i. e. exceedingly.

7 And the LORD ſaid, I will deſtroy man, whom I have created, from the face of the earth: * both man and beaſt d, and the creeping thing, and the fowls of the air: for it repenteth me that I have made them.

d For as the Beaſts were made for mans uſe and ſervice, ſo they are deſtroyed for mans puniſhment, and to diſcover the malignity of ſin, and Gods deep abhorrency thereof, by deſtroying thoſe innocent Creatures that had been made inſtrumental to it.

8 But Noah found grace e in the eyes of the LORD.

e (i. e.) Obtained mercy and favour, which is noted, to ſhew that Noah was ſo far guilty of the common corruption of human nature, that he needed Gods Grace and Mercy to pardon and preſerve him from the common deſtruction.

9 Theſe are the generations of Noah f: * Noah was a juſt man and ‖ perfect h in his generations i, and Noah walked with God k.

* Ezek. 14. 14, 20. 2 Pet. 2. 5.

f Either 1. Properly the poſterity of Noah, as the word is commonly uſed; and as it is explained ver. 10. So the reſt of this verſe comes in by way of parentheſis, which is frequent. Or, 2. The events or occurrences which befel Noah and his Family, as the word is taken, Gen. 37. 2. Prov. 27. 1. h Theſe words are to be taken either 1. Jointly, q. d. he was Righteous, not only in appearance, or in part, but perfectly, in all reſpects, towards God and men, or ſincerely and truly. Or 2. Diſtinctly, q. d. he was for his ſtate and condition juſt before God, which was by Faith, Heb. 11. 7. by which every juſt man lives, Rom. 1. 17. and perfect, i. e. upright and unblameable in the courſe of his life among the men of his age, as it follows. i This is ſpoken either 1. Diminutively; he was ſo comparatively to the men that then lived, who were very bad, tho otherwiſe even Noah had many infirmities, ſo that he alſo had not been ſaved but for Gods Grace and mercy, v. 8. Or 2. By way of amplification and commendation, He was good in bad times, in ſpight of all evil Counſels or Examples. He ſaith Generations in the plural number, to ſhew that as he lived in two Generations, one before the flood and another after it, ſo he continued uncorrupted in both of them. k See on Gen. 5. 24.

l See the note on Gen. 5. 32.

11 The earth m alſo was corrupt before God n; and the earth o was filled with violence p.

m Which is here put for its inhabitants, as 1 King. 10. 24. Ezek. 14. 13. n Or, Before the face of God, q. d. in deſpight and contempt of God and of his preſence and juſtice. Compare Gen. 10. 9 and 13. 13. q. d. They ſinned openly and impudently without ſhame, boldly and reſolutely without any fear of God. o Here put for the place or the inhabited parts of it. So the ſame word is twice uſed in a differing ſenſe, in one and the ſame verſe. See the like Matth. 8. 22. p Or, Injuſtice, Fraud, Rapine, Oppreſſion: For all theſe this word ſignifies. Some conceive that theſe two branches note the univerſal corruption of mankind in reference to all their duties. 1. Towards God and his Worſhip, which they corrupted by horrible ſuperſtition, and by Idolatry, which is called Corruption, Exod. 32. 7. Deut. 32. 5. Jud. 2. 19. 2 Chron. 27. 28. 2. Towards men, in the duties of Righteouſneſs.

12 And God looked upon the earth, and behold, it was corrupt: for all fleſh q had corrupted his way r upon the earth.

q (i.e.) All men, as the word Fleſh is taken, Pſal. 78. 39. Iſa. 40. 5. and oft elſewhere. r Either 1. Gods way, his precepts concerning Religion and Righteouſneſs. Or 2. Their own way, or manner of living.

13 And God ſaid unto Noah, the end s of all fleſh t is come u before me x; for the earth is filled with violence through them z: and behold, I will deſtroy them ‖ with the Earth a.

s (i.e.) The time of ruin, as this word is uſed Ezek. 7. 2, 3, 6. Amos 8. 2. t (i.e.) Men as v. 12. tho the Beaſts alſo were involved in the ſame deſtruction. u (i.e.) Is approaching and at the very door, and ſhall as certainly come as if it were actually come. x (i.e.) In my purpoſe and decree: Howſoever vain men flatter themſelves with hopes of longer impunity. y (i.e.) By their means; ſo that the earth even groans under them. a (i.e.) With the fruits and beauty, tho not the ſubſtance of the Earth. Or, From the earth, as v. 7. The Hebrew eth being oft put for min or meth, as Gen. 44. 4. Deut. 34. 1. and 1 King. 8. 43. compared with 2 Chron. 6. 33.

b A little Ship made in the form of an Ark or Cheſt, but probably ſloping at the bottom for conveniency of Navigation, as it was for another reaſon ſloping at the top. c This word is but once uſed in Scripture, and therefore it is diverſly rendred by the Learned, by ſome Pine, by many Cedar, but by others Cypreſs, a Tree very proper and uſual for Ships, and of a firm and durable ſubſtance, and much abounding in thoſe parts, all which appears from ancient Authors. e Or rather with ſome kind of Bitumen, of the ſame nature and uſe with pich to cement the parts of the Ark together, and to preſerve it from the injuries of the Sun, and Water and Worms, but more odoriferous, to correct the unpleaſant ſcent of ſome of the Creatures.

15 And this is the faſhion which thou ſhalt make it of f: The length of the Ark ſhall be three hundred cubits, the breadth of it fifty cubits, and the height of it thirty cubits g.

f Or, This is the meaſure, or the manner according to which thou ſhalt make it. g A juſt and regular proportion, the length being ſix times more than the breadeh, and ten times more than the height. There is no need to underſtand this of Geometrical cubits, which are ſaid to have contained nine ordinary cubits: nor of ſacred cubits, which are an hands breadth longer than the ordinary, Ezek 43. 13. Nor to ſuppoſe the ſtature of men at that time to have been generally larger, and conſequently their cubit much longer. For the ordinary cubit conſiſting of a common foot and an half, is ſufficient for the containing of all the kinds of living Creatures and their proviſions, which was to be put into the Ark, as hath been at large demonſtrated by learned men. Nor is there any conſiderable difficulty in the point but what is made by the ignorance of infidels, and aggravated by their malice againſt the Holy Scriptures. Eſpecially if theſe things be conſidered; 1. That the differing kinds of Beaſts and Birds, which unlearned men fancy to be innumerable, are obſerved by the Learned, who have particularly ſearched into them, and written of them, to be little above three hundred, whereof the far greateſt part are but ſmall, and many of theſe which now are thought to differ in kind, in their firſt original were but of one ſort, tho now they be ſo greatly altered in their ſhape and qualites; which might eaſily ariſe from the diverſity of their Climate, and Food, and other circumſtances, and from the promiſcuous conjunctions of thoſe lawleſs Creatures. 2. That the brute Creatures when they were encloſed in the Ark, where they were idle, and conſtantly under a kind of horror and amazement, would be contented with far leſs proviſions, and thoſe of another ſort than they were accuſtomed to, and ſuch as might lye in leſs room, as Hay and the Fruits of the Earth. God alſo who altered their natures, and made the ſavage Creatures mild and gentle, might by the ſame powerful Providence moderate their appetites, or if he pleaſed, have increaſed their proviſion whilſt they did eat it, as afterwards Chriſt did by the loaves. So vain and idle are the cavils of wanton wits concerning the incapacity of the Ark for the food of ſo many Beaſts. 3. That ſuppoſing the ravenous Creatures did feed upon fleſh, here is alſo ſpace enough, and to ſpare, for a ſufficient number of ſheep, for their food for a whole year, as upon computation will eaſily appear, there being not two thouſand ſheep neceſſary for them, and the Ark containing no leſs than four hundred and fifty thouſand ſolid cubits in it. But of this matter more may be ſeen in my Latin Synopſis.

16 A window h ſhalt thou make to the Ark, and in a cubit ſhalt thou finiſh it above i, and the door of the ark ſhalt thou ſet in the ſide thereof: With lower, ſecond and third k ſtories ſhalt thou make it.

h Or a Light, Or Lights or Windows; The ſingular number being put for the plural, which is moſt frequent; or it might be one great light or lanthorn, by which light might be derived and diſtributed into ſeveral rooms. i If (i.e.) Either 1. The Window, which was to be a cubit ſquare. Or rather 2. The Ark, as appears 1. From the gender of the Hebrew affix which is feminine, and therefore agrees with the Ark, which in the Hebrew is of the feminine gender, not with the Window, which is maſculine. 2. From the nature of the thing, the Ark requiring a roof and that ſloping, that the Rain might ſlide off from it, and not ſink into it; for which end the roof in the middle was to be higher than the Ark by a cubit. And as the other parts of the Ark was made with exquiſite contrivance, ſo doubtleſs this was not defective therein. k Whereof the higheſt ſtory for men and Birds, the ſecond for proviſion for the brute Creatures; the loweſt for the Beaſts, under which was the ſink of the Ark, which moſt probably was made ſloping at the bottom; as all Ships and Boats are, where Serpents and ſuch like Creatures might be put with their proper proviſions.

17 And behold I, even I l, do bring m a flood of waters upon the earth, to deſtroy all fleſh n, wherein is the breath of life, from under heaven: And every thing that is in the earth ſhall dye o.

l Which is thus emphatically repeated, to ſignifie that this Flood did not proceed from natural cauſes, but from the immediate hand and judgment of God. m (i.e.) Will aſſuredly and ſpeedily bring. n (i.e.) All Men, Birds and Beaſts. o This limitation is added to ſhew that the Fiſhes are not included in the threatned deſtruction, either becauſe they did not live in the ſame element wherein men lived and ſinned: Or becauſe they were were not ſo inſtrumental in mens ſins, as the Beaſts might be; or becauſe man had a greater command over the beaſts than over the Fiſhes, and greater ſervice and benefit from them; and therefore the deſtruction of the former was a greater and more proper puniſhment to man than the latter.

18 But with thee will I eſtabliſh my covenant p: and thou ſhalt come into the ark; thou, and thy ſons, and thy wife, and thy ſons wives with thee.

p Either 1. My promiſe to preſerve thee and thine, both till the flood, and in it, notwithſtanding all the ſcoffs and threats of the wicked World againſt thee all the time of thy Preaching and Building of the Ark: The word Covenant being here underſtood not of a mutual compact or agreement, but of a ſingle and gracious promiſe, as it is alſo uſed, Num. 18. 19. and 25. 12. and in other places. Which promiſe tho only here mentioned, was doubtleſs made before, as may eaſily be gathered both from theſe words and ſome foregoing paſſages, and from the need which Noah had of ſuch a ſupport and encouragement, during all the time of his Miniſtry. Or 2. My Covenant concerning the ſending of the promiſed Seed, and the Redemption of mankind by the Meſſias, who ſhall come out of thy loins, and therefore thou ſhalt be preſerved.

19 And of every living thing of all fleſh, two q of every ſort ſhalt thou bring into the ark, to keep them alive with thee: they ſhall be male and female.

q (i.e.) Either 1. By couples or Male and Female; but this is mentioned as a diſtinct thing in the cloſe of the verſe. Or rather 2. Two at leaſt of every ſort, even of the unclean, but of the clean more, as is noted chap. 7. 2.

20 Of fowls after their kind r, and of cattel after their kind, of every creeping thing of the earth after his kind: two of every ſort ſhall come unto thee s, to keep them alive.

r (i.e.) According to their ſeveral kinds. s Of their own accord, by my impulſe, or by the conduct of Angels, as Gen. 2. 19.

21 And take thou unto thee of all food that is eaten t, and thou ſhalt gather it to thee; and it ſhall be for food for thee, and for them.

t Of which ſee Gen. 1. 29, 30.

* Heb. 11. 7. 22 * Thus did Noah: according to all that God commanded him, ſo did he u.

u Both for the matter and manner of it, altho the work of building the Ark was laborious, coſtly, tedious, dangerous, and ſeemingly fooliſh and ridiculous; eſpecially when all things continued in the ſame poſture and ſafety for ſo many ſcores of years together: whereby Noah without doubt was all that while the Song of the drunkards, and the ſport of the wits of that age. So that it is not ſtrange that this is mentioned as an heroick act of Faith in Noah, Heb. 11. 7. whereby he ſurmounted all theſe difficulties.

CHAP. VII.

* Matth. 24. 38. Luke 17. 26. 2 Pet. 2. 5. ‡ Cap. 6. 9. AND the * LORD ſaid a unto Noah, Come b thou and all thy houſe c into the Ark, for † thee have I ſeen righteous d before me e in this generation f.

a When the Ark was finiſhed and furniſhed, and the time of Gods patience expired, Gen. 6. 3. b (i. e.) Prepare to enter. c (i.e.) Thy Family, which conſiſted only of eight perſons, 1 Pet. 3. 20. To wit, Noah and his three Sons, and their four Wives, Gen. 6. 18. Whereby it appears that each had but one wife, and conſequently it is more than probable that Polygamy as it began in the poſterity of wicked Cain, Gen. 4. 19. So it was confined to them, and had not as yet got footing amongſt the Sons of God. For if ever Polygamy had been allowable, it muſt have been now for the repeopling of the periſhing world. d With the Righteouſneſs of Faith, as it is explained Heb. 11. 7. evidenced by all the fruits of Righteouſneſs and true Holineſs. e Not only before men and ſeemingly, but really, and to my all-ſeeing eye. f Of which expreſſion ſee notes on Gen. 6. 9.

† Heb. ſeven ſeven. * Heb. the Man and his Wife. 2 Of every clean beaſt g thou ſhalt take to thee † by ſevens h, the male and his female: and of beaſts that are not clean, by two, the * male and his female.

g Obj. The diſtinction of clean and unclean Beaſts was not before the Law. Anſ. Some legal things were preſcribed and uſed before the Law, as abſtinence from the eating of Blood, Gen. 9. 4 and among other things, Sacrifices, as Learned men have ſufficiently proved; and conſequently the diſtinction of Beaſts to be ſacrificed was then in ſome meaſure underſtood, which afterwards was expreſſed, Levit. 1, &c. Nor is this a good argument, This was not written before, therefore it was not commanded and practiſed before, eſpecially concerning a time when no commands of God were written, but only delivered by tradition. h Either 1. Seven ſingle, as moſt think. Or rather 2. Seven couples, as may be gathered 1. From the duplication of the word in Hebrew. If it be ſaid, ſeven ſeven ſignifies only ſeven of every kind, then it would have been ſaid concerning the unclean Beaſts, two two, (i. e) two of each ſort; Whereas now there is an apparent difference, there it is ſaid only by two, but here, by ſevens, or ſeven-ſeven, which difference of the phraſe ſuggeſts a difference in the things. 2. By the following words, the Male and his Female, which being indifferently applied to the clean and unclean, plainly ſhews that none of them entred into the Ark ſingle, and therefore there was no odd ſeventh among them, but all went in by couples, which was moſt convenient in all for the propagation of their kind, and in the clean for other uſes alſo, as for Sacrifices to God, if not for the ſuſtentation of men in the Ark, and after they came out of it. Which gives us the reaſon why God would have more of the clean than of the unclean put into the Ark, becauſe they were more ſerviceable both to God and men.

3 Of fowls i alſo of the air by ſevens k, the male and the female, to keep * ſeed l alive upon the face of all the earth. ‡ Iſa. 13. 65.

i (i.e.) Of clean Fowls; which he leaves to be underſtood out of the foregoing verſe k And of the unclean by two; as before of the beaſts. l (i.e.) The iſſue, or breed of them.

4 For yet ſeven days m, and I will cauſe it to rain upon the earth forty days and forty nights: and every living ſubſtance n that I have made, will I * deſtroy from off the face of the earth. † Heb, blot out.

m Or, After ſeven days, the Hebrew Lamed being put for after, as it is Exod. 16. 1. Pſal. 19. 3. Jer. 41. 4. Or within ſeven days, which time God allowed to the World, as a further ſpace of Repentance, whereof, therefore it is probable, Noah gave them notice; And it is not unlikely that many of them who ſlighted the threatning, when it was at 120 years diſtance, now hearing a ſecond threatning, and conſidering the nearneſs of their danger, might be more affected and brought to true Repentance, who though deſtroyed in their bodies by the Flood for their former and long impenitency, which God would not ſo far pardon, yet might be ſaved in their ſpirits. See 1 Pet. 4. 6. And as ſome preſerved in the Ark were damned, ſo others drowned in the deluge might be eternally ſaved. n All that hath in it the breath of Life, as was ſaid ch. 6. 17.

5 And Noah did according unto all that the LORD commanded him o.

o Which was ſaid ch. 6. 22. and is here repeated, becauſe this was an eminent inſtance of his Faith and Obedience.

6 And Noah was † ſix hundred years old, when the flood of waters was upon the earth. † Heb. ſo of, &c.

7 And Noah went in, and his ſons, and his wife, and his ſons wives with him into the ark, becauſe of p the waters of the flood.

g Or For fear of, for fear is aſcribed to, and commended in Noah, Heb. 11. 7. Or, from the face of.

8 Of clean beaſts, and of beaſts that are not clean, and of fowls, and of every thing that creepeth upon the earth,

9 There went in q two and two r unto Noah into the ark, the male and the female, as God had commanded Noah.

q By the ſecret impulſe of their great Creator and Governor. See Gen. 2. 19. and 6. 20. r Of which ſee above v. 2.

10 And it came to paſs ‖ after ſeven days, that the waters of the flood were upon the earth. ‖ Or on the ſeventh day.

11 In the ſix hundredth year of Noahs life s, in the ſecond month t, the ſeventh day of the month, the ſame day were all the fountains of the great deep u broken up x, and the * windows of heaven y were opened. * Or, Floodgates.

s Either compleat, or rather current or begun, otherwiſe he had lived three hundred fifty one years after the Flood, not three hundred and fifty only, as it is written Gen. 9. laſt. t Either 1. Of that year of Noahs Life. Or 2. of the year. Now as the year among the Hebrews was two-fold, the one ſacred, for the celebration of Feaſts, beginning in March, of which ſee Exod. 12 2. The other Civil, for the better ordering of mens Political or Civil Affairs, which began in September. Accordingly this ſecond month is thought by ſome to be part of April, and part of May, the moſt pleaſant part of the year, when the Flood was leaſt expected or feared; by others part of October, and part of November, a little after Noah had gathered the Fruits of the Earth and laid them up in the Ark. So the Flood came in with Winter, and was by degrees dried up by the heat of the following ſummer; and this opinion ſeems the more probable, becauſe the moſt ancient and firſt beginning of the year was in September, and the other beginning of the year in March, was but a latter inſtitution among the Jews with reſpect to their Feaſts and ſacred Affairs only, which are not at all concerned here. u (i.e.) Of the Sea called the deep, Job 38. 16, 30. and 41. 31. Pſal. 106. 9. and alſo of that great abyſs or Sea of Waters, which is contained in the Bowels of the Earth. For that there are vaſt quantities of Waters there, is implied both here and in other Scriptures, as Pſal. 33. 7. 2 Pet. 3. 5. and is affirmed by Plato in his Phædrus, and by Seneca in his natural queſtions, 3. 19. and is evident from ſprings and Rivers which have their riſe from thence, and ſome of them have no other other place into which they iſſue themſelves, as appears from the Caſpian Sea, into which divers Rivers do empty themſelves, and eſpecially that great River Volga, in ſuch abundance, that it would certainly drown all thoſe parts of the Earth, if there were not a vent for them under ground, for other vent above ground out of that great Lake or Sea they have none. Out of this deep therefore, and out of the Sea, together, it was very eaſie for God to bring ſuch a quantity of Waters as might overwhelm the Earth, without any production of new Waters, which yet he with one word could have created. So vain are the cavils of Atheiſtical Anti-Scripturiſts in this. x The Fountains are ſaid to be broken up here alſo, Pſal. 74. 51. by a Metonymy, becauſe the Earth and other obſtructions were broken up, and ſo a paſſage opened for the Fountains: As Bread is ſaid to be bruiſed, Iſa. 28. 28. and Meal to be ground, Iſa 47. 2. Becauſe the Corn, of which the Meal and bread were made, was bruiſed and ground. y Which ſome underſtand of the Waters which from Gen. 1. 7. they ſuppoſe were placed by God above the viſible Heavens, and reſerved and kept as it were in priſon for this very purpoſe, and now the Priſon-doors were opened, and they let looſe and ſent down for the deſtruction of the World. But others more fitly underſtand it of the Clouds, which are called the windows of Heaven, Mal. 3. 10. ſo 2 Kings 7. 2, 19. Pſal. 78. 23. Iſa. 24. 18. Which then grew thicker and bigger with Waters; nor is there any inconvenience in it, if we ſay that God created a great quantity of Waters for this end, which afterwards he annihilated.

12. And the Rain was upon the earth forty days and forty nights z.

z God by this gradual proceeding both awakened to Repentance, and gave them ſpace for it.

* Job 21. 25. 13. In the * ſelf ſame day a entred Noah, and Shem, and Ham, and Japheth, the Sons of Noah, and Noahs Wife, and the three Wives of his Sons with them, into the Ark.

a On which the Flood began by that terrible ſhower. Heb. in the Body, or Eſſence, or Strength of the Day, as Gen. 17. 26. Levit. 23. 14. Joſ. 10. 27. q. d. Not in the dark or twilight, like one aſhamed of his action, or afraid of the People, but when it was clear day, or about noon-tide, in the publick view of the World.

14. They and every Beaſt after his kind, and all the Cattel after their kind, and every creeping thing that creepeth upon the Earth after his kind, and every Fowl after his kind, every Bird b of every ‖ ſort c.

b The firſt word ſignifies the greater, the ſecond the leſs ſort of Birds, as appears from Gen. 15. 9, 10. Levit. 14. 4. Pſal. 104. 17. c Heb. Of every kind of Wing, whether Feathered, as it is in moſt Birds, or skinny and griſly, as in Bats.

15. And they went in d unto Noah into the Ark, two and two of all Fleſh wherein is the breath of life e.

d See on ver. 9. e (i. e.) All living Creatures.

16. And they that went in, went in Male and Female of all Fleſh, as God had commanded him: And the LORD ſhut him in f.

f Or, ſhut the door after him, or upon him, or for him, i. e. his good and ſafety againſt the fury either of the Waters, or of the people. This God did in ſome extraordinary manner.

17. And the Flood g was forty days upon the Earth: And the Waters encreaſed i, and bare up the Ark, and it was lift up above the Earth.

g Or, that Flood of Waters which was poured down in that ſhower mentioned ver. 12. otherwiſe the Flood was one hundred and fifty days upon the Earth, ver. 24. i By the acceſſion of more Waters from above and beneath.

18. And the Waters prevailed, and were encreaſed greatly upon the Earth; k and the Ark went upon the face of the Waters.

k Overthrowing Men, and Houſes, and Trees, where poſſibly they did or thought to ſecure themſelves.

19. And the Waters prevailed exceedingly upon the Earth, and all the high Hills that were under the whole Heaven were covered m.

m Profane Wits pretend this to be impoſſible, becauſe of the vaſt height of divers Mountains. But 1. This cannot be thought impoſſible by any man that believeth a God; to whom it was as eaſie to bring forth a ſufficiency of water for this end, as to ſpeak a word; and if we acknowledg a miracle of the Divine Power and Providence here, it is no more than even Heathens have confeſſed in other caſes. 2. Peradventure this Flood might not be ſimply univerſal over the whole Earth, but only over all the habitable World where either Men or Beaſts lived, which was as much as either the meritorious cauſe of the Flood, Mens ſins, or the end of it, the deſtruction of all men and Beaſts, required. And the, or that whole Heaven may be underſtood of that which was over all the habitable parts of it. And whereas our modern Heathens that miſcall themſelves Chriſtians, laugh at the Hiſtory of this Flood upon this and the like occaſions, as if it were an idle Romance, they may pleaſe to note, that their predeceſſors the ancient and wiſer Heathens have diverſe of them acknowledged the Truth of it, though they alſo mixed it with their Fables, which was neither ſtrange, nor unuſual for them to do. Lactantius appeals to the Heathens of his age concerning it. Nay there is not only mention of the Flood in general, but alſo of the Dove ſent out of the Ark, in Plutarch and Beroſus, and Abydenus. And the hiſtory of this general Flood is preſerved to this day among the poor ignorant Indians, who asked the Chriſtians who invaded their land, whether they ever heard of ſuch a thing, and whether another Flood was to be expected. And the Chineſe Writers relate, that but one perſon, whom they call Phonicuus, with his Family, was ſaved in the Flood, and all the reſt periſhed.

20. Fifteen Cubits upwards did the waters prevail n; and the Mountains were covered.

n Which was ſufficient for the deſtruction of the higheſt men or other Creatures, though placed upon the higheſt Mountains.

21. And all Fleſh died that moved o upon the Earth, both of Fowl, and of Cattel, and of Beaſt, and of every creeping thing that creepeth upon the Earth, and every man.

o (i. e.) Lived, for motion is a ſign of Life.

22. All in whoſe noſtrils was ‖ the breath of Life p, of all that was in the dry Land, died q.

p Of which phraſe ſee the note on Gen. 2. 7. q Whether Men or Beaſts, &c. all that breathed the ſame Air with Man, all that lived in the ſame Element, which man by his ſins had infected; whereby the Fiſhes are excepted, as living in another Element.

23. And every living ſubſtance was deſtroyed, which was upon the face of the ground, both Man and Cattel, and the creeping things and the Fowl of the Heaven, and they were deſtroyed from the Earth r: And * Noah only remained alive, and they that were with him in the Ark. * 2 Pet. 2. 5.

r This is ſo often repeated, that it may be more deeply ingrafted into the dull minds and hard hearts of men, to teach men that they ought again and again to conſider this dreadful inſtance of Gods juſtice againſt ſin and incorrigible ſinners.

24. And the Waters prevailed s upon the Earth an hundred and fifty days t.

s (i. e.) Either grew higher and higher, or rather continued to prevail, and did not decreaſe. t In all, whereof one part was the forty days mentioned, ver. 17. as appears from chap. 8. 4.

CHAP VIII.

AND GOD remembred Noah a, and every † living thing b, and all the Cattel that was with him in the Ark: And God made a Wind c to paſs over the Earth, and the Waters aſſwaged.

a (i. e.) He ſhewed by his actions that he minded and cared for him; Or, pitied and ſuccoured him. God is ſaid to remember his people when after ſome delays or ſuſpenſions of his favour, he returns and ſhews kindneſs to them, as Gen. 19. 29. and 30. 22. Exod. 32. 13. Job 14. 13. Pſal. 132. 1. As God puniſhed the Beaſts for mans ſins, ſo now he favours them for mans ſake. c A drying and burning Wind, like that of Exod. 14. 21. which had a natural power to dry up the Waters, but that was heightned by the aſſiſtance of an higher and miraculous operation of God.

2. The Fountains alſo of the deep, and the windows of Heaven were ſtopped, and the Rain from Heaven was reſtrained.

3. And the Waters returned from off the Earth * continually: And after the end of the hundred and fifty days the Waters were abated.

* Heb. in going and returning.

4. And the Ark reſted in the ſeventh moneth d, on the ſeventeenth day of the moneth, upon the Mountains of Ararat e.

d From the beginning, not of the Flood, but of the year, as appears by comparing ch. 7. 11. ch. 8. 13, 14. e (i. e.) Upon one of the Mountains of Ararat, by a frequent Enallage of the number, as Jud. 12. 7. Matth. 21. 5. And by Ararat is here commonly and rightly underſtood Armenia, as appears both by comparing Iſa. 37. 38. Jer. 51. 27. and by the Teſtimony of ancient Writers produced by Joſephus and others to this purpoſe, and by the great height of thoſe Mountains, and by its nearneſs to the place where the firſt men lived, this great Veſſel not being fitted for ſailing to remote places, but only for the receit and preſervation of Men and other Creatures in it.

5. And the Waters ‖ decreaſed continually until the tenth moneth: In the tenth moneth, on the firſt day of the moneth, were the tops of the Mountains ſeen.

‖ Heb. were going and decreaſing.

6. And it came to paſs at the end of forty days, that Noah opened the window of the Ark which he had made.

7 And

7. And he ſent forth a Raven, f which went forth ‖ to and fro, until the waters were dried up from off the earth h.

‖ Heb. in going forth and returning.

f A fit meſſenger for that purpoſe, becauſe it ſmells dead Carcaſſes at a great diſtance, and flies far, and then returneth to its former habitation, with ſomething in its bill. g Heb. Going and returning, (i e) went forth hither and thither, now forward, then backward, ſometimes going from the Ark, and ſometimes returning to the Ark, tho never entring into it again. h Not as if ſhe returned afterwards, but the phraſe implies that ſhe never returned. And ſo the word until is often uſed as 2 Sam 6 laſt. Michal had no child until the day of her death, i e. never had a Child. See alſo Pſal. 110. 1. Matth. 1. 25.

8. Alſo he ſent forth a dove i from him to ſee if the waters were abated from off the face of the ground.

i Which flies lower and longer than the Raven, and is more ſociable and familiar with man, and more conſtant to its accuſtomed dwelling, and more loving and faithful to its mate, and therefore more likely to return with ſome diſcovery.

9 But the Dove found no reſt for the ſole of her foot k, and ſhe returned unto him into the ark: for the waters were on the face of the whole earth. Then he put forth his hand, and took her l, and † pulled her in unto him into the ark.

k Becauſe the tops of the Hills which then appeared, were either muddy and dirty: Or unobſerved by the Dove, as not ſoaring ſo high: Whence the Doves are emphatically called the Doves of the vallies, Ezek. 7. 16. l Her former acquaintance with Noah, and her preſent neceſſity making her more tractable.

10 And he ſtayed yet other ſeven days, and again he ſent forth the dove out of the ark.

11 And the dove came in to him in the evening m, and lo, in her mouth was an olive-leaf n pluckt off: ſo Noah knew that the waters were abated from off the earth.

m As the manner of Doves is, partly for better accommodation both for food and lodging than yet he could meet with abroad, and partly from his Love to his Mate. Queſt. Whence was this leaf when Trees had been ſo generally overthrown and rooted up by the deluge? Anſ. 1. Many Trees might be preſerved by an advantageous ſituation, between the Rocks or Hills which broke the force of the Waters. 2. It is probable that God by his powerful Providence preſerved the Plants and Trees, for future ages, and therefore there is no mention of any of their Roots or Seeds preſerved in the Ark. 3. The Olive-tree eſpecially will not only ſtand, but live and flouriſh under the waters, as Pliny, l. 13. c. 25. and 16. 20. and Theophraſtus 4. 8. obſerve. Add, that the word here rendred leaf, ſignifies alſo a tender branch.

12 And he ſtayed yet other ſeven days, and ſent forth the dove; which returned not again unto him any more o.

o Finding convenient food and reſting place upon the earth, and preferring her freedom before her mate. Poſſibly ſhe might loſe the ſight of the Ark, and forget or miſtake the way to it.

13 And it came to paſs in the ſix hundredth and firſt year, in the firſt month, the firſt day of the month p the waters were dried up from off the earth: and Noah removed the covering of the ark, and looked, and behold, the face of the ground was dry.

p The words month and day are oft-times for brevity ſake omitted by the Hebrews as being eaſily underſtood. Thus the firſt of the Feaſt, Matth. 26. 17. is the firſt day of the Feaſt, Mar. 14. 12.

14 And in the ſecond month, on the ſeven and twentieth day of the month was the earth dried q.

q Not only from water, at it was ver. 12. but from mud and dirt alſo. So the Flood continued ten days more than a year, by comparing this with chap. 7. 11.

15 And God ſpake unto Noah, ſaying,

16 Go forth of the ark r, thou, and thy wife, and ſons, and thy ſons wives with thee:

r As Noah expected the command of God for his going into the Ark, chap. 7. 1, 9. ſo for his coming forth of it.

s Queſt. How could theſe Creatures which came out of the Ark in Aſia, get thence to America, or to Iſlands remote from the Continent? Anſ. 1. As for America, it is thought by divers learned men, that it is either joined to this Continent, or ſeparated from it only by a Narrow Sea, which divers living Creatures could eaſily ſwim over. 2. Many living Creatures are and always were tranſported by men in their veſſels, either for their ſupply or profit, or diverſion, or other ends, and thence might eaſily be propagated there. 3. The ſame God who made all theſe Creatures, and cauſed them to come firſt to Adam, and afterwards to Noah, could afterwards both encline and impower them to go whither he pleaſed, without the advice of theſe vain men, who will believe nothing of God which themſelves either do not ſee, or cannot do.

18 And Noah went forth, and his ſons, and his wife, and his ſons wives with him:

19 Every beaſt, every creeping thing, and every fowl, and whatſoever creepeth upon the earth, after their † kinds, went forth out of the ark.

20 And Noah built an altar unto the Lord t, and took of every clean beaſt, and of every clean fowl, and offered burnt-offerings on the altar u.

t The firſt Altar we read of, but not the firſt which was built; for the Sacrifices which were offered before, Gen. 4. 3, 4. preſuppoſe an Altar. Therefore it is no ſufficient evidence that ſuch things were not done, becauſe they are not ſaid to be done in Scripture. Which will be an uſeful conſideration for the underſtanding of many paſſages in Scripture hereafter. u The firſt thing Noah doth, is to pay his debt of Juſtice and Gratitude to that God which had ſo miraculouſly preſerved him, and reſtored him to his ancient and proper habitation. God expects to be ſerved in the firſt place. What beaſts were clean, and what unclean, ſee on chap. 7. 2. Levit. 11. 2. &c.

21 And the Lord ſmelled ‖ a ſweet ſavour x, and the Lord ſaid in his heart y, I will not again curſe the ground z any more for mans ſake, for the * imagination of mans heart is evil a from his youth: neither will I again ſmite b any more every thing living as I have done.

* chap. 6. 5. Matth. 15. 19.

x (i.e.) Graciouſly accepted the Perſon and Faith and Praiſe-offering of Noah, and was as well pleaſed therewith, as men uſe to be with a ſweet ſmell. y (i.e.) Determined within himſelf, and expreſſed ſo much to Noah. The Hebrew preposition el, ſometimes ſignifies in, as Gen. 6. 6. 1 Sam. 27. 1. Others, ſaid to his Heart, i. e. ſpake to the Heart of Noah, who is mentioned ver. 20. To ſpeak to the Heart, in Scripture-uſe ſignifies to comfort. z (i. e.) The whole Earth with this kind of curſe, with another deluge. Otherwiſe God doth not hereby tye his hands, that he may not either deſtroy a particular Land by a deluge, which hath been done ſince, or deſtroy the World by Fire when he ſees fit, as he hath declared he will do. a The reaſon is this, ſince all mens hearts are naturally corrupt, and from that filthy ſpring wicked actions will be continually flowing forth into the World, and conſequently if I ſhould be ſevere to puniſh men according to their ſins, I ſhould do nothing but ſend one deluge after another. Or theſe words may be joined with the former, and the ſenſe may be this, I will not again deſtroy the Earth with a deluge for mans ſake, or for mans ſin, or becauſe the imagination, &c. (i.e.) becauſe his heart is corrupt and his actions are agreeable to it, which was the cauſe of the laſt deluge. Or the particle chi, may be rendred altho, as it is frequently taken, as Exod. 5. 11. and 13. 17. and 34. 9. Joſ. 17. 13. Pſal. 25. 11. and 41. 5. and ſo the ſenſe is plain, I will not again deſtroy the Earth, altho the imagination, &c. i. e. Altho I have juſt cauſe to do ſo. ‖ Or, From his very childhood and infancy, as the Chaldee and Greek Interpreters Tranſlate it. b i. e. Kill or deſtroy, as the word ſmiting is taken, Exod. 21. 18. Numb. 14. 12. and 35. 16. Deut. 28. 22, 27. Amos 4. 9.

22 ‖ While the earth remaineth c, ſeed-time and harveſt, and cold and heat, and ſummer and winter, and day and night d ſhall not ceaſe.

‖ Heb. as yet all the days of the Earth.

c In this eſtate; for tho it ſeems probable that the ſubſtance of the Earth will abide for ever, after the diſſolution of the World by fire; yet that will be in another manner, and for other purpoſes, and then there will be no need of Seed-time, or Harveſt, &c. d Which diſtinction in a manner ceaſed in the Ark, the Heavens being covered and all its lights eclipſed by ſuch thick and black Clouds as never were before nor ſince.

CHAP. IX.

AND God bleſſed a Noah and his ſons, and ſaid unto them, ‖ Be fruitful, and multiply, and repleniſh the earth.

‖ Chap. 1. 28. and 8. 17.

a (i. e.) Renewed the old bleſſing and grant made chap. 1. 28. which might ſeem to be forfeited and made void by mans ſin, and by Gods Judgment conſequent upon it.

2 And the fear of you, and the dread of you ſhall be upon every beaſt of the earth, and upon every fowl of the air, upon all that moveth upon the earth, and upon all the fiſhes of the ſea ‖; into your hand are they delivered †.

‖ Before they loved and reverenced you as Lords and Friends, now they ſhall dread you as Enemies and Tyrants. ‡ For your uſe and ſervice. I reſtore you in part to that Dominion over them which you for your ſins have forfeited.

3 Every moving thing b that liveth c, ſhall be meat for you d; even as the ‖ green herb have I given you all things *.

b Which is wholesome and fit for food, and clean; An exception to be gathered both from the nature of the thing, and from the distinction of clean and unclean Beasts mentioned before and afterwards. c This is added to exclude the use of those Creatures which either died of themselves, or were killed by wild Beasts, which is here forbidden implicitely, and afterwards expresly. See Exod. 22. 32. Levit. 22. 8. d It is not a command that we must, but a permission that we may, eat of them. A grant possibly given before the Flood, but now expressed, either because the former allowance might seem to be forfeited, or because as men now grew more infirm and needed better nourishment, so the Earth was grown more feeble by the Flood, and its fruits yielded less and worse nourishment. † Understand this with the limitation above mentioned. The green Herbs were given before, chap. 1. 29.

It is certain, Blood is the thing which is here principally minded and forbidden, and so the words may be thus translated and understood, but flesh, (i.e.) the Flesh of living Creatures hereby allowed you with the Life thereof, that is to say, with the blood thereof, wherein its life consists. Or, But flesh whilst it hath in it its Life or Soul, or which is all one, its Blood. g God thought fit to forbid this, partly that by this respect shewn to the blood of Beasts it might appear how sacred a thing the blood of man was, and how much God abhorred the sin of Murther; and principally because the Blood was reserved and consecrated to God, as was the means of atonement for man, which reason God himself gives, Levit. 17. 11, 12. and did in a special mannner represent the Blood of Christ which was to be shed for the Redemption of mankind.

‖ Heb. Souls. ‡ Heb. Soul.

5 And ‖ surely your blood of your ‖ lives h will I require i: At the hand of every beast will I require it k, and at the hand of Man, at the hand of every mans brother l will I require the † life of Man.

‖ Or, For, as the particle is oft taken: This being the reason of the foregoing prohibition. h Or, Of your souls, i.e. Of your persons; the word Soul being oft put for person. Or your Blood which is for your lives, (i.e.) which by the spirits it generates, is the great preserver and instrument of your lives and of all your vital actions, and the great bond which ties your souls and bodies together. The sense of the place is, If I am thus careful for the blood of Beasts, be assured I will be much more solicitous for the blood of men when it shall be shed by unjust and violent hands. i I will make inquisition for the Author of such bloodshed, as I did after Cain, and consequently punish him; for this phrase of requiring, implies punishment. See Gen. 42. 22. Deut. 18. 19. compared with Acts 3. 23. Psal. 9. 13. If Magistrates neglect this duty, I my self will avenge it by my own hand. k Not for the punishment of the Beast, which being under no Law, is not capable of sin nor punishment, but for caution to men, for whose use seeing they were made, it is no abuse of them, if they be destroyed for mans benefit. Compare Exod. 21. 28. Levit. 20. 15. l This is added, either 1. as an aggravation of the crime, because the man slain was the Brother of the Murderer, all men being made of one blood, Act. 17. 26. And having one Father, even God, Mal. 2. 10. and Adam too. Upon which accounts all men are frequently called one anothers brethren, as is manifest from Gen. 26. 37. and 29. 4. Levit. 19. 17. and 25. 14. and 26. 37. and from many other places of Scripture. Or 2. As an assurance of the punishment of the Murderer, without any exception of the nearest relation, which tho it makes the sin greater, yet many times is a security against punishment, the murderer easily finding favour and pardon from his Parents and dear Friends. But the former sense seems the better.

* Matth. 26. 52. Rev. 13. 10. ‖ Or, the blood of man in man † chap. 1. 27.

6 * Whoso sheddeth ‖ mans blood m, by man n shall his blood be shed †: For in the image of God made he man o.

m Wilfully and unwarrantably. For there is a double exception to this Law. 1. Of casual Murder, expressed Numb. 35. 31. Deut. 19. 4. 2. Of death inflicted by the hand of the Magistrate for crimes deserving it, mentioned in the following words, and elsewhere. n (i.e.) By the hand of man, namely the Magistrate, Rom. 13. 4. Who is hereby impowered and required upon pain of my highest displeasure to inflict this punishment. See Exod. 21. 12. Levit. 24. 17. Matth. 26. 57. Or, For that man, i.e. For that mans sake, whose blood he hath shed, which cries for vengeance. o So that Murder is not only an offence against man, but also an injury to God, and a contempt of that image of God which all men are obliged to reverence and maintain, and especially Magistrates, who being my Vice-gerents and servants, are therefore under a particular obligation to punish those who deface and destroy it.

7 And you, be ye fruitful, and multiply p, bring forth abundantly in the earth, and multiply therein.

p (i.e.) As for you, I do not repent of that former blessing I gave to your Parents, Gen. 1. 21. but do hereby renew it to you and your seed after you.

8 And God spake unto Noah, and to his sons with him, saying,

9 And I, behold I will establish my covenant q with you, and with your Seed r after you.

q (i.e.) My promise: For the Beasts included in this Covenant v. 10. are not capable of a Covenant properly so called. And the word Covenant is oft used for a simple promise, as we shall see hereafter. r (i.e.) Your posterity, as that word is frequently taken, as Gen. 12. 7. Exod. 28. 43, &c.

10 And with every ‖ living creature that is with you, of the fowl, of the cattle, and of every Beast of the earth with you, from all that go out of the ark, to every beast of the earth *:

* To wit, which shall hereafter be in the Earth. So they are distinguished from those which were now with them.

11 And † I will establish my covenant with you, neither shall all flesh be cut off any more by the Waters of a flood, neither shall there any more be a flood s, to destroy the earth.

s (i.e.) An universal deluge, for particular inundations there have been, whereby Towns and Countries have been overwhelmed with all their inhabitants.

12 And God said, This is the token of the covenant t, which I make between me and you, and every living creature that is with you, for perpetual generations.

t This, (i.e.) The bow mentioned in the next verse; I appoint to you for a sensible sign and evidence to assure you that I shall perform this Covenant or Promise.

13 I do set † my bow u in the cloud x, and it shall be for a token of a covenant between me and the earth.

† Heb. I have given (i.e.) I will from time to time give and place. u God calleth it his Bow, partly because it was his workmanship, and chiefly because it was his pledg and the seal of his promise. x A proper seat for it: That they might now fetch an argument of Faith from thence, whence before they had matter of just fear; and that which naturally was and is a sign of Rain, might by this new appointment of God be turned into an assurance that there should be no such overflowing Rain as now had been.

14 And it shall come to pass, when I bring a cloud over the earth y, that the bow shall be seen in the cloud.

y Not always, but very frequently, which is sufficient for this purpose.

15 And I will remember my covenant which is between me and you, and every † living Creature of all flesh: and the waters shall no more become a flood to destroy all flesh.

16 And the bow shall be in the cloud, and I will look upon it, that I may remember the Everlasting covenant z, between God and every living Creature of all flesh that is upon the earth.

z (i.e.) This Covenant made with all succeeding Generations of men and beasts. This and the like speeches are oft ascribed to God after the manner of men, who being forgetful need helps for their memory.

17 And God said unto Noah, This is the token of the covenant a which I have established between me and all flesh, that is upon the Earth.

a The same thing is so oft repeated for the strengthning of the Faith of all men, and especially of Noah and his sons, whom the remembrance of that dreadful deluge, which they had experience of, had made exceeding prone to fears of the like for time to come.

18 And the sons of Noah that went forth of the Ark, were Shem, Ham, and Japheth: and Ham is the father of ‖ Canaan b.

b Which is here mentioned to make way for the following relation.

19 These are the three sons of Noah: And of them was the whole Earth overspread c.

c A Truth which the old Heatheus were not ignorant of, tho they changed the Names, and mixed their Fables with it; for they tell us that Saturn and his three sons divided the World among themselves. And it is apparent that their Saturn was no other than our Noah, because they tell us he was the common Parent and Prince of all mankind, also an Husbandman and Vine-dresser, all which Noah was: They say he was born of the Sea, because Noah came out of the Waters: That he devoured all his Children except three, because Noah condemned and foretold the destruction of all the rest of the World.

20 And Noah began to be an Husbandman d, and he planted a Vineyard.

d (i. e.) Was an Husbandman, as he had been before. The Verb, to begin, doth oft abound, and is applied to him that continueth or repeateth an action begun before. Thus Christ is said to begin to cast out, Mark 11. 15. and to begin to speak, Luk. 12. 1. For which in the parallel places he is said only to cast out, Matth. 21. 12, and to speak, Matth. 16. 6.

21 And he drank of the wine, and was drunken e, and he was uncovered f within his tent.

e Either through ignorance and inexperience of the nature and strength of that Liquor, or through the infirmity of the Flesh, which was tempted by its great and to him new pleasantness, and by the refreshment he found in it, under the weary labours of his Body, and the sad thoughts of his mind for the desolate condition of the World. f Either to relieve himself against the heat of the Climate and Season, or from his negligence and carelessness, which might easily happen, because mens garments at that time were loose, as they were in the following ages, when breeches were not in common use, and therefore were peculiarly prescribed to the Priests, Exod. 28. 42. Ezek. 44. 18, 19.

22 And Ham g, the Father of Canaan h saw the nakedness † of his father, and told his two brethren without ‖.

g Whose grown age was a great aggravation of this sin. h This is here added as a reason of Canaan's Curse, ver. 25 † (i. e.) The secret parts, oft so called, as Levit 18. and elsewhere. ‖ (i. e.) Who were then without the house or room where their Father lay in that posture, whom he invited to that prospect.

23 And Shem and Japheth took a Garment, and laid it upon both their shoulders, and went backward, and covered the nakedness of their Father, and their faces were backward, and they saw not their fathers nakedness.

24 And Noah awoke from his wine ‖, and knew i what his yonnger Son k had done unto him.

‖ (i. e.) From his drunkenness, or from his sleep, the effect of it. i Either by the information of his Sons; Or by divine inspiration. k Or His little Son, either Ham mentioned ver. 22. or Canaan mentioned in the next verse; by comparing of which places it may be gathered, that Canaan first saw it, and told his Father Ham of it, and he told it to his Brethren. The latter seems here principally intended, 1. Because the curse following is appropriated to him. 2. Because of the title of younger or little Son, which seems not to be so properly added if Ham was meant, both because it doth not appear that he was the youngest, for wheresoever these three Brethren are mentioned, he is always put in the middle place, and because that addition seems to be unnecessary and impertinent to the present business, which if Canaan be intended, is proper and pertinent by way of distinction, to shew that he spake of his Grandson, or his Sons Son. Object. He calleth him his Son. Ans. Grand-children are frequently called their Grand-fathers Sons in Scripture, as Gen 29. 5. 2 Sam. 19. 24. 1 Chron. 1. 17.

25 And he said l, Cursed m be Canaan n, a servant of servants o shall he be unto his brethren.

l Not from the passion of revenge, but by divine inspiration, and the Spirit of prophesie. m (i. e.) Hateful to God, abhorred by men, miserable in his person and posterity. n Quest. Seeing Ham committed the crime, why is the curse inflicted upon his son Canaan? Answ. 1 When Canaan is mentioned, Ham is not exempted from the curse, but rather more deeply plunged into it. whilest he is pronounced accursed, not only in his person (which is manifestly supposed by his commission of that sin for which the curse was inflicted) but also in his posterity which doubtless was a great aggravation of his grief; As on the contrary Joseph is said to be blessed, when his Children are blessed, Gen. 48. 15, 16. 2. It seems therefore very probable from these words, and the Hebrew Doctors, and others affirm it, that Canaan did partake with his Father in the sin, yea, that he was the first discoverer of his Fathers shame. 3. Canaan is particularly mentioned by the Spirit of Prophesy, in regard of the future Extirpation of that People, and this is here remembred for the Encouragement of the Israelites, who were now in their Expedition against them. 4. This may be an ellipsis or defect of the word, Father; for such relative words are oft-times omitted and understood in Scripture, as Matth. 4. 21. James of Zebedee, for, the Son of Zebedee. Joh. 19. 25. Mary of Cleopas, for, the wife of Cleopas. Acts 7. 16. Emmer of Sychem, for, the Father of Sychem, as our English Translation rightly supplies it from Gen. 33. 19. Thus Goliah is put for Goliahs Brother, as is evident by comparing 2 Sam. 21. 19. with 1 Chron. 20. 5. So here Canaan may be put for, the Father of Canaan, as the Arabick Translation hath it, that is, Ham, as the Seventy here render it. And tho Ham had more Sons, yet he may be here described by his relation to Canaan, because in him the Curse was more fixed and dreadful, reaching to his utter Extirpation, whilst the rest of Hams posterity in after ages were blessed with the saving knowledg of the Gospel. o (i. e.) The vilest and worst of Servants; as vanity of vanities, is the greatest vanity, Eccles. 1. 2. and great wickedness, Hos. 10. 15. is in the Hebrew wickedness of wickedness; and King of Kings, is put for the chief of Kings.

26 And he said, Blessed be the LORD God of Shem p, and Canaan shall be † his servant.

p Qu. What is this to Sem? For it is not Sem, but God, who is here blessed. Ans. 1. Shem also is here blessed, and that in the highest degree, because the Lord hath here declared himself to be Shems God. Now for God to be said to be any mans God, is every where mentioned as the height of blessedness. See Gen. 17. 7. Psal. 144. 15. Jer. 31. 33. Matth. 22. 32. But the phrase is here justly varied. The curse is fixed upon Ham, because man alone is the Author of his own Sin, and the cause of his ruin: But because God is the Author and Fountain of all the good that man either doth or receiveth, therefore the blessing is emphatically given to God, who only doth the work and of right is to receive all the Glory, yet so as it redounds to Shem also. And Shem is here peculiarly mentioned, not Japheth, both for the comfort of the Israelites, whose Progenitor he was, and because this blessing was first seated and long continued in Shems Posterity alone. Japheths Posterity being for a long time excluded from it, and because the Lord Christ, who is often called the Lord and God in Scripture, did take Flesh from Shem, and so the Incarnation of Christ may be here foretold, and Shem highly honoured and blessed in this, that he should be the Father of Christ according to the Flesh, Rom. 9. 5. Ans. 2. This may be a short and abrupt manner of Speech, which is frequent in the Hebrew Tongue, and it may signify that Shem should be so eminently blessed, that men beholding it should be wrapt up into admiration, and break forth into the praises of that God who gave such gifts unto men, and did so great things for Shem. Ans. 3. The words may be otherwise rendred, either thus, blessed, O Lord God, let Shem be, i. e. Do thou bless him: So it is only the construct form, Elohe, for the absolute Elohim, which is not unusual in Scripture; or thus, Blessed of the Lord God be Shem, or shall Shem be. So here is only a defect of the Hebrew particle min, which is oft wanting.

27 God shall ‖ enlarge Japheth q, and he shall dwell in the tents of Shem r, and Canaan shall be * his Servant s.

q Or, Enlarge to Japheth, understand here his place, as Gen. 26. 22. Psal. 4. 1. or his border; Which was very literally made good to him, because he had a very numerous posterity, and by them he possessed the largest part of the World, even all Europe, a great part of Asia, and as it is probable America also. Or, God shall perswade Japheth, to do what follows, to dwell in Shems Tents, where God dwelleth, and so to be reunited to his Brother Shem both in affection and in Religion, in both which the Gentiles, the greatest part of whom were Japheths Posterity, were for a long time at an irreconcileable distance from the Jews. r (i. e.) Shall be of the same Church with Shem, i. e. of the Church, which is called in Scripture the Tents or Tabernacles of Judah, or of Jacob, or in general, of the Saints, Zech. 12. 7. Mal. 2. 12. Revel. 20. 9. and here, of Shem, in whose Posterity the Church was first and longest settled. And to dwell with another, notes friendly association and communion with him, as when God is said to dwell with men; And when the Wolf is said to dwell with the Lamb, Isa. 11. 9. Possibly this may note Japheths Succession into Shems Tents, or coming into their place and stead, or the calling of the Gentiles, together with the rejection of Jews; as the Reubenites are said to dwell in the Tabernacles of the Hagarens whom they subdued and expelled, 1 Chron. 5. 10. s. This was eminently accomplished; For though Shem and Japheth in their Posterity did successively conquer and rule one over the other, yet none of Hams Posterity did ever bear rule over Japheth, but Ham, though for a time he bare sway in his Son Nimrod, yet that dominion soon expired, and the Assyrians, Chaldeans, Grecians, and Romans ruled the World for a succession of many Ages; and Hams people were constantly their Servants and Subjects.

t Which reacheth to the fifty eighth year of Abrahams Age, as the Jews note. And so we have a manifest account of the Propagation of Religion from the beginning of the World to this day. Noah received it from his Parents, who had the account of it from their first Father Adams own mouth, and transmitted it to Abraham; and its descent from him to the Jews, and by the Jews to others, is sufficiently known. Within this time also Noah saw the Building of Babels Tower, the horrid Wickedness and Idolatry of his Children, and the bloody Wars which even then arose between some of them.

29 And all the days of Noah were nine hundred and fifty years u, and he died.

u Here is an omission of that solemn clause used in all the preceding Generations, and he begat Sons and Daughters, which implies that Noah had no more than these three Sons, which also appears from the 19th verse of this Chapter.

CHAP. X.

THis Chapter, tho it may seem to some unprofitable, as consisting almost wholly of Genealogies, yet hath indeed great and manifold uses: 1. To shew the true original of the several Nations, about which all other Authors write idlely, fabulously and falsly, and thereby to manifest the Providence of God in the Government of the World and Church, and the Truth and Authority of the Holy Scriptures. 2. To discover and distinguish from all other Nations, that People or Nation in which Gods Church was to be, and from which Christ was to come.

come. 3. That Noahs Prophecy concerning his Three Sons might be better underſtood, and the accompliſhment of it made evident. 4. To explain divers Prophetical predictions and other paſſages of Scripture, as will appear in the ſequel. For the better underſtanding of this Chapter, compare with it, 1 Chron. 1 from ver. 4. to 24. And conſider theſe Three things. 1. In the ſearch of theſe Genealogies we muſt avoid both careleſneſs for the reaſons now mentioned, and exceſſive curioſity about every particular perſon here named, and the People ſprung from him, which is neither neceſſary, nor profitable, nor indeed poſſible now to find out, by reaſon of the great changes of names through length of time, loſs of ancient Records, differences of Languages, extinction of Families, conqueſt and deſtruction of Nations, and other cauſes. It may ſuffice that divers of them, and thoſe the moſt eminent, are evident and diſcernable at this day, as will appear in the progreſs, by which we may and ought to preſume the Truth of the reſt, whoſe Names are loſt in the publick confuſions of the World in former Ages, of whom I ſhall therefore be ſilent, and only ſpeak of the principal perſons, and that briefly. 2. The ſame People which were Originally ſeated in one place, did oft-times ſhift their places, or at leaſt ſent forth Colonies, and that ſometimes into places far diſtant from their Brethren, as appears from the ancient and famous expeditions mentioned in Sacred and Prophane ſtory. So you muſt not wonder if you meet with the ſame People in divers Countries. 3. In general, the World was divided into Three parts, whereof the more Eaſtern parts were alloted to Shem and his Iſſue, the more Southern parts to Ham, and the more Northern parts of it to Japheth.

1 NOW theſe are the generations of the ſons of Noah: Shem, Ham, and Japheth: And unto them were Sons born after the flood.

2 * The ſons of Japheth a: Gomer b and Magog c, and Madai d, and Javan e, and Tubal f, and Meſhech g, and Tiras h. *1 Chron. 1. 5.

a Whoſe Portion was at firſt Aſia the leſs, and afterwards by degrees all Europe and the Northern parts of Aſia. This is he ſo much celebrated among the Greeks by the name of Japetus. b Whoſe Poſterity are reckoned among the Northern People, Ezek. 38. 6. and were ſeated in the Northern parts of the leſſer Aſia, and afterwards about Thracia, and from him were called Gomari, and by an eaſie change, Cimbri, or Cimmerii. c The Father of the Scythians, as may be gathered from Ezek. 38. 2, 3, 15. and 39. 3, 6. d Whoſe Poſterity, whereſoever they were firſt placed, in Macedonia, or elſewhere, afterwards were fixed in Media, and were called Medes, and in the Hebrew by the Name of their Father Madai, as appears from 2 Kings 17. 6. Eſa. 13. 17. Jer. 13. 17. and 25. 25. Dan. 5. 28. and 6. 8. e Of whom came the Grecians, who are called by themſelves Iaones or Iones, and in Hebrew Jevanim, and their Countrey, Greece, Javan. See Eſa. 66. 19. Ezek. 27. 13, 19. Dan. 8. 21 and 10. 21. f Of whom came the Iberi, anciently called Tivobeli, a People of Aſia, near the Euxine Sea. See Ezek. 27. 13. and 32. 6. and 38. 2, 3. g The Father of the Moſchi, i. e. the Muſcovites, or rather as others think, the Cappadocians, who were anciently called Meſchini, and Moſchi, and their chief City Maraca. h The Father of the Thracians: Amongſt whom is a River and Haven called Athyras, and who Worſhipped their god Mars, under the Name of Thuras.

3 And the ſons of Gomer: Aſhkenaz i, and Riphath k, and Togarmah l.

i Whoſe Seed poſſeſſed Pontus and Bithynia, and the Neighbouring parts, from whom they took the Names of the Lake and Haven called Aſcanius, and the Sea called Axenus or Euxinus. k Called Diphath, 1 Chron. 1. 6. The Letters Daleth and Reſh being oft interchanged, as we ſhall ſee in other inſtances. His Poſterity dwelleth in or near Pontus and Bithynia, where Mela, and Pliny, and Solinus place the Riphæi, or Riphaces, and the Paphlagonians, who were anciently called Piphatæi. l Whoſe Poſterity are joined with Gomers. See Ezek. 27. 14. and 38. 6. and were, as ſome think, the Phrygians and Galatians, and of them the Gauls and Germans: Or, as others, the Armenians, and of them the Turks.

m The Father of the Grecians properly ſo called, who have preſerved his Name and remembrance in the Cities, Elis, and Eliſſus, in a tract of ground called Ellas, and in the Elyſian Fields. And from theſe came the Æolians, a People of the leſſer Aſia, where many of the Grecian Colonies were ſeated. n The Father of the Cilicians, from whom their Chief City Tarſus, in Hebrew Tarſhiſh, took its Name. See Ezek. 27. 12. Jon. 1. 13. Acts 22. 3. and from whom the whole Mediterranean Sea is called Tarſhiſh, becauſe the Cilicians were in a great degree Maſters of that Sea. o Or, Chittem, The Father of the Macedonians, and Italians too, as may be gathered from hence, becauſe both their Countries are called by the Name of Chittim; Macedonia, 1 Macc. 1. 1. and 8. 5. and Italy, Numb. 24. 24. Dan. 11. 30. See alſo Iſa. 23. 1. Jer. 2. 10. Beſides that there are other evidences in prophane Writers that the Italians came from the Grecians. p Called alſo Rhodanim, 1 Chron. 1. 6. See Riphath in the former Verſe. His Poſterity is uncertain. Moſt probably he was ſeated near his Brethren in ſome part of Greece. And the Greeks ſeem to have Worſhipped him under the Name of Jupiter Dodonæus, whoſe famous Oracle was in the City Dodona.

5 By theſe were the Iſles q of the Gentiles divided r in their lands: Every one after his tongue s, after their families t, in their nations.

q Not Iſles properly ſo called: For why ſhould they, having their choice, forſake the Continent for Iſlands, and thereby cut off themſelves from their Brethren? And where had they Ships to Tranſport them? But the word Iſles here and elſewhere, ſignifies all thoſe Countries that had the Sea between them and Judæa, as it doth Iſa. 11. 10, 11. and 40. 15. Jer. 2. 10. and 25. 22. Ezek. 27. 3. Zepha. 2. 11. And Iſles are here put for the inhabitants, as the words Earth and Land are commonly uſed. r This diviſion of the World among them, being a work of great weight, was doubtleſs managed with great Care and Conſultation, and the advice of their Heads and Governors, and above all by the wiſe and ſpecial Providence of God, which at this time did particularly determine the bounds of their ſeveral Habitations, as it is Recorded, Acts 17. 26. s (i. e.) According to their ſeveral Languages, into which they were divided at Babel. By which it appears, that this diviſion, though mentioned before, was not executed till after the confuſion of Languages at Babel. t Here obſerve the Wiſe and Gracious Providence of God mixed with this judgment, that God diſtributed the Languages according to the difference of Families and Nations, that each ſeveral Nation, and all the Families or branches of that Nation, ſhould have one and the ſame Language, whereby, both union and love were preſerved among themſelves, and the ſeveral Nations were diſtinguiſhed one from another: Which was very fit and neceſſary for many reaſons; as that the Church of God, which was confined to the Hebrew Nation, might neither be mixed with, nor infected by the Idolatrous Nations; and that it might be evident to the World, that the Meſſias was Born of the Seed of Abraham, according to Gods promiſe, &c.

6 * And the ſons of Ham u: Cuſh x, and Mizraim y, and Phut z, and Canaan a. *1 Chron. 1.

u Whoſe Poſterity were diſpoſed into the parts South from Babel, both in Aſia and Africa. See 1 Chron. 4. 40. Pſal. 105. 27. x The Father both of the Æthiopians and the Arabians: who, as it ſeems, ſent forth a Colony from themſelves more Eaſtward, even near to India. See Gen. 2. 13. 2 Kings 19. 9. Job 28. 19. Jer. 13. 23. and 46. 9. y The Father of the Ægyptians, who are generally known in Scripture by that Name. z Of whom ſprung the Libyans, and among whom is the River Put, and the Moors. 8 And Cuſh begat Nimrod i: he began to be a mighty one in the earth.

i Whom he placed laſt of all his ſons, becauſe he was to ſay more of him.

9 He was a mighty hunter k before the LORD l: wherefore it is ſaid m, Even as Nimrod the mighty hunter before the LORD.

k Firſt of Beaſts, and by that occaſion of men. For when men were few, and lived diſperſedly, and wild Beaſts abounded, and moſt of all in thoſe parts, by Hunting and Deſtroying of thoſe Beaſts, he got much reputation and favour with men, who thereby were ſecured in their dwellings. In confidence hereof, and having this occaſion to gather great Companies of the youngeſt and ſtrongeſt men together to himſelf, by their help he eſtabliſhed a Tyrany and Abſolute Power over

Men, enſnaring, hunting after, and deſtroying like Beaſts, all thoſe men who oppoſed his dominion. Tyrants and Perſecutors are oft in Scripture called Fowlers and Hunters, as Pſal. 91. 3 Jer. 16. 16. Lament. 3. 52 and 4 18. l An aggravation of his Crime, that it was done in Gods preſence, impudently and in contempt both of God, who had ſo lately manifeſted his deteſtation of this ſin by the deſtruction of the World, amongſt other ſins, for this very ſin of violence, Gen. 6. 13. and of his great Grand-Father Noah then living and Preaching, who probably did admoniſh him of the wickedneſs and danger of this practice. Thus he ſhewed that he neither feared God nor reverenced man, if they withſtood him in his uſurpation of Dominion m It became a Proverb, when any man was haughty, and cruel, and tyrannical, and that joyned with impudence and obſtinacy, That he was another Nimrod.

n (i.e.) Either his Chief and Royal City; or the place where his dominion began, and from whence it was extended to other parts. o Which being not built till the confuſion of Languages, Chap. 11. 4 ſheweth that this though here mentioned upon occaſion of the Genealogy, was not executed till afterward; it being very uſual in Scripture to neglect the order of time in hiſtorical relations. p Called Calno Iſa. 10. 9. and Canne, Ezek. 27. 23. and as it is here, Calneh, Amos 6. 2. Where it is mentioned amongſt the eminent Cities. p (i. e.) in Meſopotamia. This clauſe belongs to all the Cities here named; and is added for diſtinction ſake, becauſe there is a Babylon in the Land of Ægypt, and there might be other Cities of the ſame Name with the reſt in other Countries.

* Or, The Streets of the City.

11 Out of that land † went forth Aſhur r, and built Nineveh s, and * the city Rehobath t, and Calah.

r A man ſo called, either 1 Aſhur the Son of Sem, who forſook the Land, either being forced by or weary of Nimrods Tyranny and Impiety, and erected another Kingdom. But it is not probable either that Moſes would here relate an exploit of a man whoſe Birth is not mentioned till ver. 22. or that one ſingle Son of Shem would be here diſorderly placed among the ſons of Ham. Or 2. Another Aſhur of Hams race. But it ſeems moſt likely that Aſhur is the Name of a Place or Country, even of Aſſyria, which in the Hebrew is called Aſhur; and that the words ſhould be thus rendred, he, i. e. Nimrod went forth, out of his own Land to Aſhur, to War againſt it, and add it to his Empire: For to go forth is commonly aſcribed to thoſe that go to War or to Battel, as Judg. 2. 15. and 11. 3. 2 Sam. 11. 3. Pſ. 60. 12. and the particle to is here underſtood, as it is 2 Sam. 6. 10. and 10. 2. compared with 1 Chron. 13. 13. and 19. 2. s A famous and vaſt City near the River Tigris, but ſo ruined by time, that the Learned are not agreed about the place where it was ſituate. t Of which ſee Geneſis 36. 37. 1 Chron. 1. 48.

12 And Reſen, between Nineveh and Calah: the ſame is a great city.

u Either 1. Nineveh, which is called a great City, Jonah 3. 3. and 4. 11. and indeed was ſo, being 60 miles in compaſs. Thus it is a trajection, and the relative is referred to the remoter Noun as ſometimes is done, though this ſeems to be a little forced. Or 2. Reſen; ſo the meaning is, though this City be much inferiour to Niveveh, yet this alſo, if compared with moſt others, is a great City.

13 And Mizraim begat ‖ Ludim x, and Anamim, and Lehabim and Naphtuhim.

x Of this and the following names here and ver. 14. obſerve Two things, 1. They are not the Names of Perſons, but of People or Nations; and the word Father is here underſtood, Ludim, for the Father of the People called Ludim, and ſo the reſt. 2. That they are the ſeveral Nations dwelling in Africa, ſpringing from the Ægyptians, which as they multiplied, went further and further Weſtward and Southward from Ægypt.

y The Inhabitants of Pathros, of which ſee Iſa. 11. 11. Jer. 44 1, 15. Ezek. 29. 14. z The meaning is, they came out of his Loyns, or were his off-ſpring, which might be true, though afterwards we find them ſeated amongſt the off-ſpring of Canaan, having driven out the former Inhabitants, as was uſual in thoſe ancient times. Object. The Philiſtins are elſewhere ſaid to come from Captorim. See Jer. 47. 4. Anſw. Therefore ſome make a trajection here, which is not unuſual, and read the words thus, and Caſluhim, and Caphtorim, out of whom came Philiſtim. But this ſeems forced; nor is it neceſſary. For the place may be thus read without any Parentheſis, and Caſluhim, out of whom came the Philiſtim, and Caphtorim, which two latter were Brethren, both the Sons of Caſluhim; and ſo might at firſt dwell together; whence their Names are promiſcuouſly uſed, one for another, and the Caphtorims are ſaid to dwell in Azzah, or Gaza, the known ſeat of the Philiſtins. Deut. 2. 23. Afterwards they might be divided firſt in their dwellings, then in their Affections, and War one againſt another, and the Caphtorims ſeem to have ſubdued and enſlaved the Philiſtines and carried them into their Country, whom therefore God is ſaid to bring and deliver from Caphtor, Amos 9. 7. and the Captorims, either then, or afterward, might be deſtroyed and extirpated by the hand of God or Men, whence the Philiſtines in after times are called the remnant of the Country of Caphtor, Jer. 27. 4.

h (i. e.) Of the Hebrews, the only Church and People of God, when Moſes wrote, who are called Eber. Numb. 24. 24. as here, the Children of Heber. And he is here called the Father of them peculiarly, though he had other Children, becauſe he was their Father, not only by natural Generation, but alſo in reſpect of the Promiſe of God, which was conveyed to them through Shems hands, and of that Faith and Holineſs, wherein he was their Predeceſſor and eminent pattern: Even as Ham, though he had other Sons, is eſpecially called the Father of Canaan, Gen. 4. 22. Becauſe his Fathers curſe reſted upon him, v. 25. Object. Eber had many other Children here Recorded, and therefore in that ſenſe Shem was not the Father of all the Children of Eber. Anſw. Though Eber had other Children, yet none are called in Scripture the Children of Eber, or which is all one, the Hebrews, but Abrahams Poſterity; even as though Abraham had divers other Children, yet the Iſraelites are in many places peculiarly called the Children of Abraham. And the ungodly Jews, when they degenerate from God and Godlineſs, God takes away their name, and denieth them to be Jews, Rom. 2. 28. and calls them Sodomites, Eſa. 1. 10. And therefore no wonder, if Joktan and his Poſterity having, as it is probable, forſaken their Fathers God, and turned Idolaters, be here diſowned as Baſtards, and blotted out of the honourable Catalogue of the Children of Heber. See Rom 9. 8. i Japheth alone is here mentioned as his Brother, and not Ham, becauſe he was deſervedly ſhut out from Shems bleſſing pronounced by Noah, and was accurſed of God, whereas Japheth was partaker with Shem, both in the Piety exerciſed towards their Father, and the Bleſſing thereupon pronounced, The word Brother being often applied to perſons alike in condition, diſpoſition, or manners. See Gen. 49. 5. k Though the words in Hebrew may ſeem ambiguous, yet other Texts make it probable that Japheth was the Elder. For Noah began to beget Children in his five hundredth year, Gen. 5. 32. And Shem was not born till two years after the Flood, Gen. 11. 10. Therefore he was not the Eldeſt. And Ham is concluded not to be Eldeſt, from Gen. 9. 24. Of which ſee the notes there, if ſo, Japheth muſt be the Eldeſt. And Shem is generally named firſt, not becauſe he was the Firſt-born, but becauſe he had the priviledges of the Firſt-born, and was chief in Dignity and Authority in the Church of God.

y Theſe places are either 1. In India, where there are places called by Ptolomy and Plini, Maeſæ, and Saparum, and Sabara. Or rather 2. In Arabia, where there was a noted Port called Muſa, and near it, and Eaſtward from it, a People called Sapharitæ, and a Royal City called Saphar, from whence this famous and long Mountain doth here receive its Name. If it be ſaid, Arabia is not Eaſt, but South from Judæa, it may be anſwered, 1. That Arabia, as it is Eaſt in reſpect of Ægypt, where the Jews long dwelt, and part of it is ſo to Judæa alſo, ſo it is not ſeldome in Scripture reckoned as a part of the Eaſt Country, as appears from Gen. 25. 6, 18. Judg. 6. 3. 1 King. 4. 30. Job 1. 3. Iſa. 11. 14 Jer. 49. 28. And Tacitus deſcribing Judæa, ſaith, it is bounded on the Eaſt by Arabia. 2. That this Mountain is ſaid to be Eaſterly, not ſimply, but in reſpect of the City Meſa, on the Eaſt whereof Ptolomy placeth this Mountain, tho he call it by another Name Climax; add, to this that Moſes ſpeaks of theſe places as known to the Jews, and therefore not ſo far diſtant from them as India, a place wholly unknown to them, and wherewith as yet they had no Communication. If it be farther objected, That if theſe People had been ſo near and well known to the Jews, we ſhould have had more mention of them in Scripture: I anſwer, there is mention of ſome of them, and for others, it is no wonder if by the following Wars among Nations, and mixtures and confuſions of People, ſome of them were extirpated, and others loſt their Names, tho not their Beings, as oft hapned.

† Heb. Lip. † Heb. Words.

AND the whole earth a was of one † language, and of one † ſpeech b.

a Earth is oft put for its inhabitants, as Gen 6. 11. 1 Chron. 16. 23. Pſal. 33 8. b Which even Heathen Writers acknowledg. And that probably, was the Hebrew Tongue.

2 And it came to paſs, as they † journeyed from the eaſt c, that they found a plain in the land of Shinar *, and they dwelt there.

‡ (i. e.) Nimrod and the reſt of his confederates, and of Hams Poſterity. c Not from Armenia, where the Ark reſted, which was North from Babel, and is called North in Scripture, as Jer. 25. 9, 26, &c. But from Aſſyria, into which they had before come from the Mountains of Ararat for more covenient habitation. It may be rendred to the Eaſt: But that manner of Tranſlation, is neither uſual, nor neceſſary here. * Where Babel was, Gen. 10. 10.

3 And † they ſaid one to another, go to, let us make brick d, and ‖ burn them throughly. And they had brick for ſtone, and ſlime e, had they for morter.

d For in that low and fat ſoil they had no quarries of Stones. The Heathen Writers agree that Babylons Walls were made of Brick. e A kind of Clay called Bitumen, which, as Pliny teſtifieth, is liquid and glutinous, and fit to be uſed in Brick-buildings, as Strabo, Dion, and others note. And that Babylon was built with this, as is here ſaid, we have the joynt and expreſs Teſtimony of Beroſus, Cteſias, Dion, Curtius, and many others.

4 And they ſaid, go to, let us build us a city, and a tower whoſe top may reach unto heaven f, and let us make us a name g, leſt we be ſcattered abroad upon the face of the whole earth h, f (i. e.) A very high Tower. An uſual Hyperbole both in Scripture, as Deut. 1. 28. and 9. 1. and in other Authors. This Tower and its vaſt height is noted by Herodotus, Diodorus, and others. g (i. e.) A great Name, as the phraſe is elſewhere uſed. Compare alſo 2 Sam. 7. 9. with 1 Chron. 17. 8. See alſo Iſa. 63. 12, 14. Dan. 9. 15. They take no care for Gods Name, and the defence and propagation of the true Religion, as duty bound them, but merely out of Pride and Vain glory, labour to erect an everlaſting Monument of their Wit and Wealth, and Magnificence to all Poſterity. h Their deſign was not to ſecure themſelves againſt a Flood, which they well knew Brick-buildings were no fence againſt; nor would they then have built this Tower in a plain, but upon ſome high Mountain; but rather to prevent a total and irrecoverable diſperſion. They ſought therefore to bind themſelves together in one glorious Empire, and to make this glorious City the Capital Seat of it, and the place of refuge and reſort upon any conſiderable occaſion.

5 And the LORD came down i to ſee the city, and the tower k which the children of men l built.

i Not by local deſcent; for he is every where; but by the manifeſtation of his preſence, and the effects of his power in that place. k (i. e.) To know the Truth of the fact, thereby ſetting a pattern for Judges to examine cauſes before they paſs ſentence. Otherwiſe God ſaw this in Heaven, but in theſe expreſſions he condeſcends to the capacity of men. l So called emphatically, 1. For diſtinction of them from the Sons of God, or the race of Shem, who were not guilty of the ſin, and therefore did not partake in the curſe, the confuſion of their Languages, but retained their ancient Tongue uncorrupted for a good while. 2. To note their rathneſs and folly, who being but weak and ſilly men, durſt oppoſe themſelves to the infinitely Wiſe and Powerful God, who did (as they might eaſily gather both from his Words and Works) intend to diſperſe and ſeparate them, that ſo by degrees they might poſſeſs the whole Earth, which God had made for thar purpoſe.

6 And the LORD ſaid ‖, behold, the people is one, and they have all one language, and this they begin to do, and now nothing will be reſtrained from them, which they have imagined to do.

7 Go to, let us m go down, and there confound their language n, that they may not † underſtand one anothers ſpeech o.

m (i. e.) The bleſſed Trinity. See Gen. 1. 26. n By making them forget their former Language, and by putting into their minds ſeveral Languages, not a diſtinct Language into each perſon, but into each Family, or rather into each Nation. o And thereby be diſenabled from that mutual commerce which was altogether neceſſary for the carrying on of that work.

8 So the LORD ſcattered them abroad from thence upon the face of all the earth p: and they left off to build the city.

p Thus they brought upon themſelves the very thing they feared, and that more ſpeedily and more miſchievouſly to themſelves; For now they were not only divided in place, but in Language too, and ſo were unfitted for thoſe Confederacies and Correſpondencies which they mainly deſigned, and for the mutual Comfort and help of one another, which otherwiſe they might in good meaſure have enjoyed.

9 Therefore is the name of it called ‖ Babel, becauſe the LORD did there confound the language of all the earth, and from thence did the LORD ſcatter them abroad upon the face of all the earth.

10 † Theſe are the generations of Shem q, Shem was an hundred years old, and begat Arphaxad two years after the flood.

‡ Chap. 10. 22. 1 Chron. 1. 17.

11 And Shem lived after he begat Arphaxad five hundred years r, and begat sons and daughters.

r So that he lived almost all the time of Abraham, which was a singular blessing both to himself who hereby saw his Children of the tenth Generation; and to the Church of God, which by this means enjoyed the Counsel and Conduct of so great a Patriarch.

12 And Arphaxad lived five and thirty years, and begat Salah.

13 And Arphaxad lived after he begat Salah, four hundred and three years, and begat sons and daughters.

14 And Salah lived thirty years, and begat Eber.

15 And Salah lived after he begat Eber four hundred and three years, and begat sons and daughters.

25 And Nahor lived after he begat Terah, an hundred and nineteen years, and begat sons and daughters.

Josh. 24. 2. 1 Chro. 1. 26. 26 And Terah lived seventy years, and † begat u Abram x, Nahor, and Haran.

u (i.e.) Began to beget, as Gen. 5. 32. x Who is first named in order of Dignity, for which cause Shem is put before Ham and Japheth, and Moses before Aaron, not in order of time, which seems to be this, Haran probably was the eldest, because Nahor married his Daughters; Nahor the second; and Abram certainly was the youngest, because Terah, Abrams Father lived two hundred and five years, ver. 32. and Abram after his Fathers Death, Acts 7. 4. went out of Haran, when he was seventy five years old, Gen. 12. 4, 5. therefore he was not begotten in Terahs seventieth year, when Terah began to beget his sons, as here is said, but in his one hundred and thirtieth year, and so there remains seventy five years precisely to Abrams departure. And Sarai, Harans Daughter, was but ten years younger than Abram, Gen. 17. 17. and therefore Haran was Abrams Elder Brother.

27 Now these are the generations of Terah: Terah begat Abram, Nahor, and Haran: and Haran begat Lot.

28 And Haran died before his Father Terah y, in the land of his nativity, in Ur of the Caldees.

y (i.e.) In the presence and during the Life of his Father.

29 And Abram and Nahor took them wives: the name of Abrams wife was Sarai, and the name of Nahors wife Milcah, the daughter of Haran z, the father of Milcah, and the father of Iscah a.

z Such Marriages of Uncles and Nieces being permitted then, Exod. 6. 20. (as in the beginning of the World, the Marriages of Brethren and Sisters were) tho afterwards the Church being very much enlarged, they were severely forbidden, Levit. 18. 12, 14. a Who is either Sarai, as the Jews and many others think, or rather, another person. For 1. Why should Moses express Sarai thus darkly and doubtfully? Had he mean ther, he would have added after Iscah, this is Sarai, according to his manner in like cases, Gen. 14. 2, 7. and 35. 6. He elsewhere calleth her, the Daughter, not of his Brother, as he should have done, had she been Iscah, but of his Father, by another Mother.

b See Gen. 16. 1, 2. and 18. 11, 12.

31 And Terah took Abram his son c, and Lot the son of Haran, his sons son, and Sarai his daughter in law, his son Abrams wife, and they went forth with them ‖ from * Ur of the Caldees, to go into the land of Canaan: and they came unto Haran d, and dwelt e there. ‖ Neh. 9. 7. * Act. 7. 4 c See Jos. 24, 2. Nehem. 9. 7. 1 Chron. 1. 26. Being informed by his son of the command of God, he did not despise it, because it came to him by the hands of his inferior, but chearfully obeyeth it; and therefore he is so honourably mentioned, as the Head and Governor of the Action. † (i.e.) Terah and Abram went with Lot and Sarai, as their Heads and Guides. d Called Charran, Acts 7. 4. and by the Romans Carræ, a place in Mesopotamia, strictly so called in the way to Canaan, and near to it, well known by Crassus his defeat there. See Gen. 24. 10. and 28. 10. and 29. 4. e Or, rested or abode, being detained there for a season; peradventure by Terah's disease, which begun there, for the next verse tells of his death.

32 And the days of Terah were two hundred and five years, and Terah died in Haran.

CHAP. XII.

NOW † the ‖ LORD had said a unto Abram, Get thee out of thy country, † and from thy kindred, and from thy fathers house b, unto a land that I will shew thee c. ‡ Heb. and the Lord said, &c. ‖ Act. 7. 3. ‡ Chap. 31. 3.

a To wit, in Ur of the Chaldees, by comparing Gen. 11. 31. with Acts 7. 3, 4. or, did say again, i. e. renewed the command in Haran, whilst Abram might possibly linger there, as afterwards Lot did in Sodom, longer than he should. But the former interpretation is more probable, because Moses speaks here of that command of God which came to Abram before he was gone from his kindred and fathers house, and therefore before he came to Haran. And this command was given to Abram either immediately, or by Sem, then the Governor of Gods Church. b From the Family of Nachor, which was now become idolatrous, Gen. 31. 30. Jos. 24. 2. and consequently their society was dangerous and pernicious; and therefore God mercifully snatcheth him as a brand out of the Fire. c Which as yet he nameth not for the greater trial and exercise of Abrams faith and patience, Compare Isa. 41. 2. Heb. 11. 8.

2 And I will † make of thee a great nation, and I will bless thee d, and make thy name great, and thou shalt be a blessing e. ‡ Heb. make thee a great Nation.

d With all my blessings, spiritual, temporal, and eternal. See Deut. 7, 13. and 28. 2. &c. and Eph. 1. 3. e (i.e.) Both a pattern and an instrument of blessedness to others, to thy posterity, who shall be blessed for thy sake, to thy servants and friends, who shall be blessed by thy instruction and help, and to all the world, as it follows.

3 And I will bless them that bless thee, and curse him that curseth thee f: ∴ and in thee g shall all families h of the earth be blessed i. ∴ Chap. 18. 18. and 22. 18. Act. 3. 25. Gal. 3. 8.

f Those that are Friends, or Enemies to thee, shall be the same to me. A marvellous condescention and priviledg. g (i. e.) In thy seed, as it is explained, Gen. 22. 18. and 26. 4. and 28. 24. (i. e.) in and through Christ, Act. 3. 25. Gal. 3. 9, 16, 28, 29. or, for thee, as the Chaldee hath it, i. e. for thy sake. or, by thee, i. e. by thy means: or with thee, by comparing this with Gal. 3. 8, 9. i. e. in the same way and manner in which thou art blessed, that is, by a fruitful Faith. Compare Rom. 4. 11, 12, 16. h (i. e.) All Nations, which is to be limited to the Believers of all Nations, by the whole current of the Scriptures; all that shall be blessed, shall be blessed by this means, and no other way.

4 So Abram departed k as the Lord had spoken unto him, and Lot went with him: and Abram was seventy and five years old when he departed out of Haran.

k First from Ur, and after his Fathers death from Haran.

5 And Abram took Sarai his wife, and Lot his brothers son, and all their substance that they had gathered, and the souls l that they had gotten m in Haran, and they went forth to go into the land of Canaan: and into the land of Canaan they came.

l (i. e.) The persons, as the word Souls is oft used, as Gen. 14. 21. and 17. 4. Exod. 12. 15. Levit. 2. 1. Numb. 23. 10. Deut. 24. 7. Mark 3. 4, &c. m Heb. made, (i. e.) either 1. begotten; for tho Abram had yet no Children, Lot had, and both their servants had children by their fellow-servants, born in their house, which might well be numbred among Abrams and Lots persons, because they had an absolute dominion over them. Or 2. Instructed, (i.e.) turned from Idolatry, and taught in the true Religion, as the Chaldee expounds it, for such were most most proper for Abram to take along with him out of his Fathers house in this expedition. Or 3. Gotten, (i. e.) procured, either by conquest or purchase, or any other lawful and usual way.

6 And Abram passed through the Land unto the place of Sichem n, unto the plain of Moreh. And the Canaanite o was then in the Land p.

n Heb. Sechem, a place afterwards so called in the Mountains of Ephraim, Jos. 21. 21. Judg. 8. 31. and here so called by anticipation. o Properly so called; that cursed, cruel, impious, and idolatrous Nation. See Zech. 14. 21. This is added as an aggravation of Abrams faith and obedience, that he durst and did profess the true Religion in the midst of such a people; which could not be without great danger both of his Estate and Life. p As a settled inhabitant to continue there for a long time: whereas now in Moses his time, he was forthwith to be expelled out of it.

7 And the LORD appeared unto Abram q, and said, * Unto thy seed will I give this Land r: and there built he an † altar s unto the LORD, who appeared unto him.

* Chap. 13. 15.

q To encourage and comfort him against his wicked neighbours. r See Gen. 13. 15. and 15. 18. and 17. 8. and 24. 7. Deut. 34. 4. s A place for Sacrifice, and other parts of Divine Worship, erected by him, both to keep his Family in the true Religion, and to separate himself and them from that idolatrous neighbourhood.

8 And he removed from thence unto a mountain on the East of Beth-el t, and pitched his tent, having Beth-el on the West u, and Hai x on the East: and there he built an altar unto the LORD, and called upon the name of the LORD.

t A known place, which afterwards was called Beth-el, but now Luz. Gen. 28. 19. An usual prolepsis, or anticipation as before, v. 6. u Or, On the Sea: which is all one, because the Sea was on the West part of the Land. See Gen. 13. 14. and 28. 14. Num. 3. 23. Deut. 3. 27. x or Ai, as it is called, Jos. 7. 2. Jer. 49. 3. Isa. 10. 28.

9 And Abram journeyed y, † going on still towards the South z.

y Removing from place to place, still hoping to meet with better Neighbours, and to free himself from that perpetual vexation which he had in beholding their wickedness. z (i.e.) the Southern part of the Land of Canaan, towards Egypt.

10 And there was a Famine in the Land a, and Abram went down into Egypt to sojourn there: for the famine was grievous in the Land.

a Or, In that Land, of Canaan, a Land eminently fruitful, Deut. 8. 7, 8. This was partly to punish that peoples sins, Psal. 107. 34. partly to try Abrams faith.

11 And it came to pass, when he was come near to enter into Egypt, that he said unto Sarai his Wife, Behold now, I know that thou art a fair woman to look upon b, b Qu. How could she be so fair, when she was above 60 years old? Ans. She was so both comparatively to the Egyptians, and simply in her self, and that might be from diverse causes, 1. From the greater vigour of Nature in that Age of the World. 2. Because her beauty was not diminished by Childbearing. 3. From God's singular providence, ordering it thus for Abram's tryal, and for the manifestation of his special providence, watching over him and his.

12 Therefore it shall come to pass, when the Egyptians ‖ shall see thee, that they shall say, This is his Wife: and they will kill me, but they will save thee alive.

‖ Who were a very lustful people; which made Abram more cautious.

13 Say, I pray thee, thou art my Sister c, that it may be well with me for thy sake, and my soul shall live because of thee.

c So she was, either 1. More generally, as his Niece; for Nephews and Nieces are in Scripture called Brethren and Sisters, as Gen. 13. 8, 11. Or rather 2. Properly, (i. e.) by the Fathers side, Gen. 20. 21. So this expression was true, but ambiguous, and intended to deceive the Egyptians, and therefore unwarrantable. And here Abram, the Father of the faithful, elsewhere celebrated for the strength of his faith, betrays his infirmity and distrust of God's providence and promise, and this fact was not without great danger both to himself and Sara.

14 And it came to pass, that when Abram was come into Egypt, the Egyptians beheld the Woman, that she was very fair.

15 The Princes d also of Pharaoh e saw her, and commended her before Pharaoh: and the woman was taken f into Pharaohs house g.

d (i. e.) The Officers and Courtiers; whose great design was to gain their Princes favour by gratifying his lusts. e A name common to all the Kings of Egypt, now and for many Ages after. f (i. e.) Taken and brought, one word for two. So the word take is used, Gen. 15. 6, 10. Exod. 18. 2. and 27. 20, &c. g Not to his bed, but the house of his women, where they were purified and prepared for the Kings presence and society, as Est. 2. 8, 9. that in due time she might be his concubine or wife. Thus even the Ceremonies of Courts serve the providence of God, and give opportunity for working her deliverance.

16 And he entreated Abram well for her sake, and he had * sheep, and oxen, and he-asses, and men-servants, and maid-servants, and she-asses, and camels.

* To wit, by Pharaoh's gift over and above his own. Else it had been impertinent to mention it in this place.

17 And the LORD * plagued Pharaoh h and his house i with great plagues, because of Sarai Abram's wife k.

h Most probably with some notable distemper of his Body, which did both chastise him for, and hinder him in the Execution of his Lust. i (i. e.) His servants; who being, some one way, some another, partners of his sin, are justly made partners in his plagues. And if any were innocent in this matter, they were obnoxious to God for other sins. Besides, as they were punished upon the occasion of Pharoah's sin, so Pharaoh was punished in their punishments. k (i. e.) For the act of violence towards her; for the word, taken, v. 15. implies, that it was by constraint, and not with Abraham's and with her consent; which it is not probable that either of them would give in that case. 2. For an intention of uncleanness. For God who is the searcher and judge of mens hearts, may justly and doth often punish men for their evil purposes. Compare Gen. 20. 3, 4.

18 And Pharaoh called Abram, and said, What is this that thou hast done unto me? Why didst thou not tell me that she was thy wife l?

l How great an injury hast thou done to me in concealing this from me that she was thy Wife? How knew Pharaoh this? Ans. 1. He guessed it from the quality of his plague; which also awakened his Conscience. 2. Upon a serious enquiry into the cause of this plague, he understood it either by divine instinct, as Gen. 20. 3. or by Sara's confession, whom doubtless he severely examined about it. And she, being awakened by this warning, durst no longer conceal her self, and thought she might securely make her self known.

19 Why saidest thou, she is my sister? so I might have taken her to me to wife m: now therefore behold thy wife, take her, and go thy way.

m Tho he had another before; Polygamy being then commonly practised.

20 And Pharaoh commanded his men concerning him n: and they sent him away, and his wife, and all that he had.

n (i. e.) Gave them a charge concerning him for his safe conduct whither he pleased.

CHAP. XIII.

AND Abram went up out of Egypt, he, and his wife, and all that he had, and Lot with him into the South a.

a (i. e.) Into the Southern part of Canaan, from whence he came, Gen. 12. 9. and which in Scripture is called simply the South, Jos. 10. 40. and 11. 16. Otherwise he went rather into the North; but the Scripture, being written for the Jews, doth frequently accommodate the names of the quarters of the world to them.

2 And Abram was very rich in cattle, in silver, and in gold.

3 And he went on his journeys b from the South, even to Beth-el, unto the place where his tent had been at the beginning, between Beth-el and Hai.

b Or rather, according to his journeys which he took as he came, going in the same road, and resting in the same place, of which he had experience.

p. 12. 7. 4 Unto the * place of the Altar c which he had made there at the first: and there Abram called on the name of the LORD d.

c (i. e.) Where the Altar was: for the Altar it self was either fallen down, as being probably built of Earth, as afterward, Exod. 20. 24. or overthrown by the wicked Canaanites. d (i. e.) Worshipped God by Prayer, and Preaching to his Family, Gen. 18. 19. and offering sacrifices. See Gen. 4. 26. and 12. 8.

5. And Lot also which went with Abram, had flocks, and herds, and tents.

6 And the land was not able to bear them, that they might dwell together: for their substance was great, so that they could not dwell together.

7 And there was a strife between the herds-men of Abrams cattel, and the herds-men of Lots cattel: and the Canaanite e, and the Perizzite dwelt then in the land f.

e (i. e.) The Canaanites, as Gen. 12. 6. the singular number for the plural, as Psal. 78. 45. and 105. 33, 40. f (i. e.) Were the Lords and owners of it, and therefore Abram and Lot could not take what pastures they pleased, but such as the others left them, which was not sufficient for their conveniency. It may also be added as a reason of Abram's following motion, because that idolatrous people were present, and diligently observed all their contentions and other miscarriages, and would doubtless take occasion thence to disparage the true Religion. And it must be remembred, that these are the words not of Abram, but of Moses; who, knowing that the Canaanites were then speedily to be turned out of the Land, intimates that the case was otherwise in Abram's days, when the Canaanites were possest, and were likely to continue the Possessors and Lords of the Land.

8 And Abram said unto Lot g, Let there be no strife, I pray thee, between me and thee, and h my herds-men and thy herds-men, for we be † brethren i.

g The elder, and wiser, and worthier person relinquisheth his own right to his inferior for peace sake, leaving us a noble example for our imitation. h Or, or, between, &c. and for or, as Exod. 21. 17. and Psal. 8. 5. compared with Matt. 15, 14. Heb. 2. 6. for there was no strife betweem Abram and Lot: tho he feared it might pass from the feet to the head. i (i. e.) Both by nature near kinsmen, as the word brother is oft used; and in the Faith and Religion too; amongst whom contentions are very indecent and scandalous.

9 Is not the whole land before thee k? separate thy self, I pray thee, from me: if thou wilt take l the left hand, then I will go to the right: or if thou depart to the right hand, then I will go to the left.

k (i. e.) Open to thy view, and free to chuse which part thou pleasest, as thou canst agree with the owners. I give thee full power to chuse before me. See a like phrase, Gen. 20. 15. and 34. 10, 21. and 47. 6. l This and the following supplement are easily gathered both from the words of this and the 11 verse, and from the nature of the thing. And, the Hebrew Language being a concise or short language, such supplements are frequently necessary and very usual, Compare 2 Chron. 10. 12. with 1 King. 12. 11. and 2 Sam. 23. 8. with 1 Chron. 11. 11.

10 And Lot lifted up his eyes, and beheld all the plain of Jordan m, that it was well watered every where, before the LORD destroyed Sodom and Gomorrha, even as the garden of the LORD n, like the land of Egypt o, as thou comest unto Zoar p.

m A great plain so called, because there the pleasant River Jordan divided it self into divers little streams or rivulets, which having no visible out-let into the Sea, by degrees, and in several places insinuated themselves into the Earth, which made it very fruitful and excellent for Lot's purpose. But this lovely plain was afterwards transformed by Divine Vengeance into a filthy Lake or dead Sea, Gen. 19. n (i. e.) Either 1. Like that famous Garden of Eden which God himself planted, Gen. 2 10. The like comparison we meet with, Isa. 51. 3. Ezek. 28. 13. and 31. 8. Or 2. Like some excellent Garden; for excellent things are thus expressed, as the host of God, 1 Chron. 12. 22. i. e. a great host: Cedars of God, Psal. 80. 10. o A Land of eminent fertility by the influence of that great River Nilus; Anciently celebrated as the Granary of other Countries. See Ezek. 31. p (i. e.) To Bela, Gen. 14. 2. afterwards called Zoar, Gen. 19. 22. and here so called by a Prolepsis. But the words are not to be joyned with the words immediately going before, as if Egypt was commended for its fertility in that part of it, from which men go to Zoar, but with the more remote words, and the sense is, as the words of the Text are transplaced and rendred by some, that the plain of Jordan was (before the Lord destroyed it and its Cities Sodom and Gomorrha) watered every where, even to Zoar; or, even until thou comest, i. e. till a man come to Zoar. i. e. all the way which leads from the place where Abram then was, to Zoar. And such transpositions are not unusual, as we shall see hereafter.

11 Then Lot chose him all the plain of Jordan: And Lot journied east q, and they separated themselves the † one from the other.

q Heb. From the East, or, Eastward, as the Hebrew particle min, is sometimes used; See Gen. 2. 8. 2 Sam. 2. 2. compared with 1 Chron. 13. 6.

12 Abram dwelt in the land of Canaan, and Lot dwelt in the cities of the plain, and pitched his Tent toward Sodom.

13 But the men of Sodom were * wicked, and sinners before the LORD r exceedingly. * Ezek. 16. 49.

r Eminent, noted and impudent sinners. See Gen. 18. 20. Ezek. 16. 49. which is here added, as a secret reproof to Lot, who was either careless in his enquiry into the dispositions and manners of those among whom he intended to fix his abode; which for many reasons he should have searched out; Or he was willing to expose himself to all the hazards which he might incur by their Neighborhood and familiarity, for the sweetness and fertility of the Soil. An error which is frequently committed by men in the choice of their Habitations, and which oft costs them dear, as it did Lot in the following story.

14 And the LORD said unto Abram, after that Lot was separated from him s, Lift up now thine eyes, and look from the place where thou art, northward, and south-ward, and east-ward, and west-ward.

s To Comfort him now when he was alone, and in a worse soil than Lot had chosen.

15 For all the Land which thou seest t: * to thee u will I give it, and to thy seed for ever x. * Chap. 12. 7. and 26. 4. Deut. 34. 4.

t Object. Abram could see but a little part of the Land. Answ. 1. He might now possibly be upon a Mountain from whence he might have a large prospect every way. 2. He gave him all that he saw, but not only that, but also the rest of the Land, and therefore he bids him walk through and view the whole Land, ver. 17. u Quest. How was the Land given to Abram, when it is expresly said, He, i. e. God, gave him none inheritance in it, no, not so much as to set his foot on, Acts 7 5. Ans. 1. God gave Abram the right to it, tho not the actual possession of it, until the time that God appointed. i.e. As God gave the right of the Kingdom to David, but not the possession till Saul's Death. 2. God explains himself, to thee and to thy Seed, i. e. to thee, that is, to thy Seed, and that for thy sake, the particle and being put oft for, that is, as 1 Chron. 21. 12. compared with 2 Sam. 24. 13. Eph. 1. 3. and in many other places, as we shall see. x Quest. How for ever, when after some hundreds of years they were turned out of it? Answ. 1. This promise was made to them upon condition of their Obedience, which is oft expressed in other places, as Levit. 18. 26. Deut. 4. 25, 26. Isa. 48. 18, 19. 2. The word Olam, rendred for ever, doth not always signifie Eternity, but a long continuance, as is evident from Gen. 17. 13. and 48. 4. Exod. 21. 6. Psal. 132. 14. and many other places of Scripture; and in particular when it is applied to the Jewish Rites and Priviledges, it commonly signifies no more, than during the standing of that Commonwealth, or until the coming of the Messias, and so it may here be understood.

16 And I will make thy Seed as the dust of the Earth, so that if a man can number the dust of the Earth, then shall thy Seed also be numbred:

17 Arise, walk through the land in the length of it, and in the breadth of it; for I will give it unto thee.

18 Then Abram removed his Tent, and came and dwelt in the † plain of Mamre y, which is in * Hebron z, and built there an Altar unto the LORD. † Heb. plains. Or, oken holts. * Chap 35. 27.

y An Amorite of great note, from whom the City Hebron was called Mamre, Gen. 23. 19. a Friend and Confederate of Abram, Gen. 14. 13. by whom it is thought he was brought to the Knowledg and Worship of the true God. z Or, near Hebron; For so the Hebrew Beth is sometimes taken.

6 And the Horites i in the Mount Seir, unto ‖ El-paran k, which is by the wilderness.

i The ancient Inhabitants of Seir, of whom see Gen. 36. 20. & Deut. 2. 12. k El signifies a Plain, and Paran is the Name of a known City and Mountain. See Numb. 13. 3. Deut. 33. 2. 1 Sam. 25. 1, &c.

7 And they returned and came to En-mishpat, which is Kadesh l, and smote all the Country of the Amalekites m, and also the Amorites that dwelt in Hazezon-tamar.

l (i e.) Which after that time was called Kadesch, of which see Num. 20. 1, 14, &c. m (i. e.) Which afterwards was possessed by the Amalekites, Gen. 36. 12. A known figure called Prolepsis.

8 And there went out the King of Sodom, and the King of Gomorrha, and the King of Admah, and the King of Zeboim, and the King of Bela (the same is Zoar), and they joined Battle with them in the Vale of Siddim.

9 With Chedorlaomer the King of Elam, and with Tidal King of Nations, and Amraphel King of Shinar, and Arioch King of Ellasar; four Kings with five.

10 And the Vale of Siddim † was full of slime-pits n: And the King of Sodom and Gomorrha o fled and fell p there: And they that remained, fled to the Mountain.

n And therefore chosen by those five Kings for the place of Battle, that their Adversaries being ignorant of the place, might unawares fall into those pits, which they by their knowledge of it, thought to escape. o (i. e.) Their Armies: a figurative speech, frequent in Scripture and other Authors: For their persons escaped, see ver. 17. p Either, 1. Fell into the pits which they designed for others. Or rather, 2. were slain; as this word is oft used, as Jos. 8. 24, 25. Judg 8. 10. & 12. 6. and here too, for those that fell are here opposed to those that remained.

11 And they took all the goods of Sodom, and Gomorrha, and all their victuals, and went their way.

12 And they took Lot q, Abrams brothers Son (who dwelt in Sodom) and his goods, and departed.

q Who now suffered for his co-habitation with bad Neighbours.

13 And there came one that had escaped, and told Abram the Hebrew r, for he dwelt in the Plain of Mamre the Amorite, Brother of Eshcol, and Brother of Aner: and these were confederate with Abram s.

r So called, either, 1. From his great and good Predecessor Eber, Gen. 10. 24. & 11. 14. in and by whom the primitive Language and true Religion were preserved, and therefore, tho Abram had five other Progenitors between Eber and him, which were persons of less note, he is rightly denominated from Eber, the Hebrew, because he was the first that revived the memory and the work of Eber, that kept up the same Language, and eminently propagated the same true Religion. Or, 2. As others think, from his passing over the River Euphrates, from beyond which he came into Canaan. s (i. e.) Had entred into a League for their mutual defence against common Enemies. Whence we learn that it is not simply and universally unlawful to make a League with persons of a false Religion.

14 And when Abram heard that his Brother was taken Captive; he ‖ armed his ‖ trained t Servants born in his own house, three hundred and eighteen, and pursued them unto Dan u.

‖ Or, led forth. ‖ Or, instructed;

t (i. e.) Whom he had disciplined and instructed both in Religion and in the Military Art too, both which were necessary to make them good Soldiers, that they might both fight with skill and courage, and also rely upon God, and engage his assistance; which was now especially necessary, when so small a party were to engage against so numerous an Army. u This is commonly thought to be a Town then called Leshem, Jos. 19. 47. or Laish, Judg. 18. 7. and afterwards Dan. See Judg. 18. 7, 29. So it is an anticipation. But it may be doubted whether this was a City, or if it were, whether it were not another Town called by the same Name, which was frequent in those parts. And some think this is not a Town, but the very Fountain of Dan, whence Jordan had its Name.

15 And he divided himself x against them, he and his Servants by night, and smote them, and pursued them unto Hoba, which is on the left hand of Damascus:

x (i. e.) His Forces into several parties, that coming upon them from several quarters, he might strike them with greater terror, whilst they thought his Army far more numerous than it was.

16 And he brought back all the goods y, and also brought again his brother Lot, and his goods, and the Women also, and the People.

y Which the victorious Kings had taken from the Princes and People mentioned before in this Chapter.

17 And the King of Sodom went out to meet him (after his return from the slaughter of Chedorlaomer, and of the Kings that were with him) at the Valley of Shaveh, which is the * Kings dale z.

* 2 Sam. 18. 18.

z So called either upon this occasion of the meeting of divers Kings here: Or because King Melchizedeck either had his Habitation, or was much delighted with it, and conversant in it. See 2 Sam. 18. 18.

18 And * Melchizedeck a King of Salem b brought forth Bread and Wine c: And he was the Priest d of the most High God e.

a Quest. Who was this? Ans. 1. Sem, as the Jews and many others think, who probably was alive at this time, and, no doubt, a great Prince. But neither is it probable that Sem should be a King among the cursed race of Ham; nor will this agree with the Apostles description of Melchizedeck, Heb. 7. 3. Without Father and Mother, &c. Whereas Sem's Parents, and the beginning and end of his days are as expresly mentioned by Moses as any other. 2. A Canaanitish King by the Divine Providence made both a King over men, and Priest unto the true God, brought in here in this unusual manner, without any mention of his Parents Birth or Death, for this end, that he might be an illustrious Type of Christ. Of this matter see more upon Heb. 7. 3. b (i. e.) Of Jerusalem, called elsewhere Jebus, and Salem, Psal. 76 2. c Not for Sacrifice to God; for then he had brought forth Beasts to be slain, which were the usual and best Sacrifices: But partly to shew the respect which he bore to Abram, and principally to refresh his weary and hungry Army, according to the manner of those times. See Deut. 23. 3, 4. & 25. 18. Judg. 8. 5, 6, 15. 1 Sam. 17. 17. d Thus in succeeding Ages the same persons were often both Kings and Priests, as the learned Note out of Virgil, and other Authors. And this clause is here added as the cause and reason, not for his bringing forth, or offering Bread and Wine, as some would have it, (for that is ascribed to him as a King, as an act of Royal munificence) but of the following benediction and decimation. e For in those times God had his remnant scattered here and there, even in the worst Places and Nations.

19 * And he blessed him, and said, Blessed be f Abram of the Most High God, possessor of Heaven and Earth.

* Or, Therefore (as the particle is oft taken, (i. e.) because he was a Priest of God) he (i. e. Melchizedeck) blessed him, (Abraham) which was one act of the Priestly Office. See on Heb. 7. 6, 7. f So it is a prayer for him, that God would confirm and increase the blessing which he had given him Or, Blessed is: So it is an acknowledgment of Gods blessing conferred upon Abraham both formerly and in this late and great Victory. Or, blessed shall be: So it is a prediction concerning his future and further blessedness, whereof this was only an earnest.

20 And blessed be the Most High God, which hath delivered thine Enemies into thy hand: And
* Heb. 7. 4. he gave him * Tithes g of all h.

g Not Melchizedeck gave to Abram, as some Jews foolishly understand it; for Abram swears that he would not keep, nor take any of the recovered Goods of the Kings of Sodom or his Brethren, ver. 23. But Abram gave to Melchizedeck, as appears both from Heb. 4. 7. and from the Nature of the thing: For the Tithes confessedly belong to the Priest, such as Melchizedeck, and not Abram, as is here described to be. h Not of all the recovered Goods, but of all the spoils taken from the Enemies.

† Heb. souls. 21 And the King of Sodom said unto Abram, Give me the † persons, and take the Goods to thy self.

22 And Abram said to the King of Sodom, I have lift up my hand i unto the LORD, the Most High God, the possessor of Heaven and Earth, i (i. e.) Swore; for this was the ancient manner of swearing. See Exod. 6. 8. Num. 14. 30. Deut. 32. 40. Ezek. 20. 5, 6.

23 That I will not take k from a thred even to a shooe-latchet ‖, and that I will not take any thing that is thine, lest thou shouldst say, I have made Abram rich l.

k Heb. If I shall take. Understand, God do so and so to me, which is expressed 1 Sam. 14. 44. A defective manner of Swearing used amongst the Hebrews, either to maintain the Reverence of Oaths, and the Dread of Perjury, seeing they were afraid so much as to mention the Curse which they meant; or to shew that they were willing to submit to any punishment which God should inflict upon them, without exception, if they violated their Oaths ‖ (i. e.) Any thing, tho never so small or mean. l (i. e.) Lest thou shouldst claim a share with God in the honour due to him, to whose blessing alone I do, and I will owe my riches. Or, lest thou shouldst say, Abraham is enriched with my spoils, and however he pretended kindness and charity, yet indeed it was his covetousness that put him upon this work.

24 Save only that which the young men have eaten, and the portion of the men which went with me m, Aner, Eshcol, and Mamre: Let them take their portion.

m For as Abram had a right to spoils, so had they, whether they joined with him in the Battle, as it is conceived they did, or, only abode by the stuff, 1 Sam. 30. 24. and therefore tho he might, and did give away his own right, he could not give away other mens.

CHAP. XV.

* Psal. 3. 3. & 5. 12. & 84. 11. & 91. 4. ‖ Or, thy reward shall be very great. * Psal. 16. 5.

1 AFter these things the word of the LORD came unto Abram in a Vision a, saying, Fear not, Abram b: I am thy * shield and ‖ thy exceeding * great reward c.

a God anciently revealed himself to men two ways, Either 1. When the man was asleep, in a Dream: Or 2. In a Vision, Num. 12. 6. when he was awake; and this either 1. When he was wrapt into an Extasie, wherein his senses are idle, but his mind is active and elevated to the contemplation and understanding of what God reveals. See Num. 12. 6, 7, 8. & 24. 4. Isa. 1. 1. Act. 10. 10, 11. Or 2. When the thing was manifested by an external representation. So here, God seems to have appeared to Abram in the shape of a man, as he did, Gen. 18. as may be gathered from v. 5, 10. b Neither the return of those Enemies whom thou hast smitten and provoked, nor the Envy of thy Neighbours for this glorious Victory, nor for thy own desolate condition. c Seeing thou didst trust to my protection, I will be a shield, or a protector to thee; and seeing thou didst so honourably, and for my sake, reject other rewards taken by thy self, and offered by the King of Sodom, thou shalt be no loser by it, I will abundantly recompense all thy piety to me, and charity to thy afflicted Kinsman Lot, and thy liberality towards others; I will bless thee with all sorts of good things, as well as defend thee from all evil: which two things make a man compleatly happy.

2 And Abram said, Lord God, what wilt thou give me, † seeing I go d childless e, and the Steward of my house f is this Eliezer of Damascus g?

† What pleasure can I take in any other gifts, so long as thou dost withhold from me that great and promised gift of that blessed and blessing seed, in the giving of whom, thy honour and the world's happiness is so highly concerned, chap. 12. 3. d Either 1. I pass the time of my life, going on and growing in years, and hastning to my long home. Or 2. I die, i. e. am about to die, or likely to die. Going is oft times put for dying, as 1 Chron. 17. 11. compared with 2 Sam. 7. 12. Job 10. 21. & 14 20. Mat. 26. 24. e What good will the world do me, if I have no Heir to possess it, if God lose the glory of his Truth in making good his promise, and I lose the comfort of my long hoped for Child, and that such a Child, the Effect of a Divine promise, one out of whose loins he must come, in whom all Nations shall be blessed? f Heb. The Son of the care, or government, or management of my house, i. e. he who manageth the affairs of my house. An usual Hebraism, as Captives are called children of captivity, Ezra 4. 1. and afflicted persons, children of affliction, Prov. 31. 5. Others read the Verse thus, And the steward of my house, this Eliezer of Damascus, understand, shall be my Heir; which words may easily be supplied out of the following verse. And such supplements of a word or short sentence out of a member or verse either foregoing or following, are frequent in Scripture, as Num. 24. 22. Zech. 14. 18. Neh. 5. 2. Hab. 2. 3. Eph. 2. 1. g This may be the Name either of a man, or of a place so called.

3 And Abram said, Behold, to me thou hast given no seed: and lo, one born in my house h is mine heir i.

h Of such see Gen. 14. 14. and Eccl. 2. 7. And these are opposed to them that are born of a man's body, Job 19. 17. Prov. 31. 2. Jer. 2. 14. i Either 1. By nearness of relation, being, as some conceive, descended from Aram the Eldest Son of Sem. Or 2. For a recompence of his fidelity, compare Prov. 17. 2. Or 3. Because he only had the exact knowledge and absolute power of all his Master's Estate, Gen. 24. 10. and therefore could easily keep all after his Master's Death. All which reasons concurring, might give occasion for this Speech.

4 And behold, the word of the LORD came unto him, saying, This shall not be thine heir: but he that shall come forth out of thine own Bowels k shall be thine heir.

k (i. e.) Out of thy own body, see Gen. 35. 11. 2 Sam. 7. 12. 2 Chron. 6. 9.

5 And he brought him forth abroad; and said, Look now towards Heaven, and tell the Stars l, if thou be able to number them m: and he said unto him, * so shall thy seed be. * 1 Chron. 27. 23. Rom. 4. 18.

l Qu. Seeing the Sun was not yet going down, v. 12. how could he see the Stars? Ans. 1. He might see them by representation in a Vision, or by a Divine Power strengthning his eyes to behold them. 2. It was not necessary he should then actually see them, He bids him make trial when he pleased, if he could number the Stars, which were now present to his mind, and would shortly be present and visible to his bodily Eye. m Which thou art not able to do: for tho Astronomers have presumed to give us the number of those Stars which are distinctly visible to the Eye, wherein yet they vary one from another, yet that there are other Stars innumerable appears confusedly to the Eye, and evidently by the help of glasses.

6 And he * believed in the LORD n, and he counted * it to him for righteousness o. * Rom. 4. 3. Gal. 3. 6. Jam. 2. 23.

n (i. e.) He was fully perswaded that God was able to fulfil, and would certainly fulfil the promise made to him concerning a Child. and especially concerning the Messias, who should come out of his loins by that child, and that both himself and all people should be justified and blessed in and through him.

* Or,

* Or, reckoned, or imputed, as this word is translated, Rom 4. 10, 22. o (i. e.) For a righteous and worthy action, as Pſal. 106. 31. and further, in reſpect of this action and grace of faith, whereby he relied upon God for the promiſed ſeed, and upon the promiſed ſeed too, he pronounced him a juſt and righteous perſon notwithſtanding his failings, which even this Hiſtory acquaints us with; and graciouſly accepted him as ſuch. VVhich ſence is eaſily gathered from St. Paul's explication and accommodation of this paſſage, Rom. 4. 9, 18, 22.

7 And he ſaid unto him, I am the LORD that brought thee out of Ur of the Chaldees, togive thee this land to inherit it.

8 And he ſaid, Lord GOD, whereby ſhall I know p that I ſhall inherit it?

p He asks a ſign, not out of diſtruſt of God's promiſe, for he was ſtrong in faith, Rom. 4. 20. but for further aſſurance and confirmation of it. And ſuch an asking of a ſign was not an unuſual practice with good men, as Judg. 6. 37. 2 King. 20. 8. nor are they reproved for it: but on the contrary, Ahaz was commanded to ask a ſign, and reproved for not asking it, Iſa. 7.

9 And he ſaid unto him, Take me ‖ an heifer of three years old q, and a ſhe goat of three years old, and a ram of three years old, and a turtle-dove, and a young pidgeon r.

‖ Take and offer at my command, and for my ſervice. q At which time it is perfect in ſtature and ſtrength, and therefore fitteſt for God's ſervice. r This and the other Creatures here following, and ſacrifices are the ſame, which afterwards were preſcribed in the Levitical Law.

10 And he ſ took unto him all theſe, and divided them in the midſt t, and laid each piece one againſt another u: but the birds divided he not x.

ſ (i. e.) Abram: who by divine inſtinct and precept did all this which here follows, t Into two equal parts. This was done for two reaſons, 1. To repreſent the torn and diſtracted condition in which his ſeed was to lie for a ſeaſon. 2. To ratifie Gods covenant with Abram and his ſeed: for this was a Rite uſed in making covenants, as appears both from Scripture, Jer. 34. 18. and other Authors. u Partly to encourage hope, that God would in his time put thoſe parts together, and unite thoſe dry bones (to which the Iſraelites are compared, Ezek. 37.) and cloath them with fleſh; and partly, that the perſons entring into covenant, might paſs between thoſe parts, and ſo teſtifie their union and conjunction in one and the ſame Sacrifice. x Either becauſe there were two Birds, and the one was laid againſt the other, which anſwered to the diviſion of the larger Creatures: or becauſe they belonged not to the Ceremony of the Covenant, but were for the uſe of ſacrifice, wherein they were to be offered whole, as afterwards was preſcribed, Lev. 1. 15, 17.

11 And when the fowls came down upon the carcaſſes y, Abram drove them away z.

y To devour them: whereby he ſignifies, either, 1. The diſturbance and deſtruction which good men are expoſed to in the ſervice of God from evil Spirits and men: Or rather, 2. The great peril of Abram's poſterity, whowere not only torn in pieces, like theſe ſacrifices, but even the remainder of them were likely to be devoured by the Egyptians, whoſe King is compared to an Eagle, the chief of the Birds of prey, Ezek. 17. z By the blaſt of his mouth, as the Hebrew word ſignifies; repreſenting Abram's conqueſt over all his Enemies by Faith and Prayer, whereby he engaged God to be the preſerver and deliverer of his people.

12 And when the ſun was going down, a deep ſleep fell upon Abraham a, and lo, an horror of great darkneſs fell upon him b.

a Partly natural from his labour in killing and ſacrificing thoſe creatures: and partly ſent upon him from God, to make way for the following repreſentation. b (i. e.) He ſeemed to be covered with a dreadful darkneſs, which was, either, 1. A Token of God's ſpecial preſence, Compare 1 King. 8. 12. Or, 2. A ſignification of the diſtreſſed and doleful condition of Abram's ſeed: for darkneſs in Scripture is frequently mentioned as an emblem or ſign of great miſery, as Pſal. 88. 6. and 107. 14, &c.

13 And he ſaid unto Abram, Know of a ſurety * that thy ſeed ſhall be a ſtranger in a land that is not theirs c, and ſhall ſerve them, and * they ſhall afflict them four hundred years d.

* Exod. 1. 11.

c (i. e.) In Canaan and Egypt: for tho Canaan was theirs by promiſe, to be fulfilled in after-times, yet it was not theirs by actual donation and poſſeſſion, but they were ſtrangers in it, Gen. 17. 8. Pſal. 105. 11, 12. d Exactly 405 years, but a ſmall ſum is commonly neglected in a great number, both in ſacred and prophane VVriters. d There were 430 years between the firſt promiſe, or between the renewing and confirming of the promiſe by the gift of Iſaac, and Iſrael's going out of Egypt, or God's giving of the Law, Exod. 12. 40. Gal. 3. 17. but part of this time Abraham with his Son Iſaac lived in much honour and comfort: but after Iſaac grew up, the affliction here mentioned began with Iſaac in Canaan, and continued to him and his poſterity in Egypt, till this time was expired.

14 And alſo that nation whom they ſhall ſerve e, will I judge f: and afterward * ſhall they come out with great ſubſtance g.

* Exod. 12. 36. Pſal. 105. 37.

e (i. e.) Egypt, the principal ſeat of their ſervitude, and the inſtrument of their ſoreſt bondage. f (i. e.) Puniſh, as that word is uſed, Pſal. 51. 6. Obad. v. 21. and elſewhere. g The accompliſhment whereof, ſee Exod. 3. 22. & 11. 2. & 12. 35, 37.

15 And thou ſhalt go to thy fathers h in peace, * thou ſhalt be buried in a good old age.

h (i. e.) Either, 1. Into Heaven, where thy godly progenitors are gone. Or, 2. Into the ſtate of the dead, where all thy Fathers are gone before thee: This may ſeem more probable, at leaſt in this place, partly becauſe this or the like phraſe is indifferently uſed concerning good and bad men. See Gen. 25. 8. Pſal. 49. 19. partly becauſe this phraſe is ſo expounded, Acts 13. 36 He i. e. David, was laid to his Fathers, and (for, that is) ſaw corruption: partly, becauſe ſome of Abram's Father's, and particularly Nahor, his grand-father, who lived and died an Idolater, cannot with any warrant from Scripture, be preſumed to be gone to the place of bleſſedneſs in their Souls. * Free from thoſe afflictions which ſhall come upon thy poſterity after thy deceaſe.

i In the end of the 400 years mentioned, v. 13. a generation being at that time reckoned at one hundred years, or thereabouts. Or, in the fourth generation, numbred from their going into Egypt, or from their leaving Canaan; which may poſſibly be implied by theſe words, they ſhall come hither. So Caleb was the fourth from Judah, and Moſes the fourth from Levi. and ſo doubtleſs many others. k (i. e.) Of the people inhabiting Canaan. And the Amorites, one of thoſe people, v. 21. are here put for all the reſt, as Gen. 48. 22. 1 Kings 21. 26. 2 Kings 21. 2. Amos 2. 10. either becauſe they were the greateſt and ſtouteſt of all, Amos 2. 9. or becauſe Abram dwelt among that people, Gen. 13. 18. & 14. 13. l All mens ſins are kept by God as in a book of remembrance, not one of them is loſt: and as God exactly obſerves the number and meaſure of mens ſins, ſo he determines within himſelf, how far, and how long he will bear with ſinful Men or Nations, and what ſhall be the period of his patience, and when that comes, their meaſure is full, and their deſtruction infallibly comes. See Jer. 51. 13. Mat. 23. 32. 1 Theſ. 2. 16.

17 And it came to paſs that when the ſun went down, and it was dark, behold a ſmoaking furnace, and a † burning lamp m that paſſed between thoſe pieces.

m By which Symbol God deſigned to repreſent, either, 1. The future ſtate of Abram's ſeed: the ſmoaking furnace, ſignifying Iſrael's miſery in the iron furnace of Egypt, as it is called, Jer. 11. 4. and the burning Lamp, noting their deliverance, or light ſhining out of darkneſs. Or, 2. His own preſence: for God is called a conſuming fire, Heb. 12. laſt. and both ſmoak and fire are elſewhere mentioned as the ſigns and means of God's appearance. See Exod. 3. 2. & 19. 9, 16, 18. & 20. 18. And this ſenſe ſeems to be favoured by the following words, it being the cuſtom of perſons entring into covenant, to paſs between ſuch pieces, as hath been ſaid: and becauſe God hath no body which could viſibly do ſo, therefore he doth it in this type or ſhadow.

Or, I will give: words of the paſt time being oft put for the future, eſpecially in Prophecies. o Not Nilus, which elſewhere is ſo called, but a leſs River, as is ſufficiently implied, becauſe this is oppoſed to the great River here following, but a River called Sihor, which divides Egypt from Canaan. 20 And the Hittites, and the Perizzites, and the Rephaims:

21 And the Amorites, and the Canaanites, and the Girgashites, and the Jebusites.

CHAP. XVI.

1 NOw Sarai Abrams wife bare him no children, and she had an handmaid, an Egyptian, whose name was * Hagar.

* Gal. 4. 24.

2 And Sarai said unto Abram, Behold, now the LORD hath restrained me from bearing, I pray thee go in unto my maid: it may be that I may † obtain children by her a: and Abram hearkened to the voice of Sarai b.

a She reckons the children of her bond-woman, (as Hagar was, Gal. 4. 22.) would be accounted her children. See Gen. 30. 3. Exod. 21. 4. 2 Sam. 21. 8. Esth. 2. 7. b Supposing that God would accomplish his promise of a Seed to come out of his loins by this way; and knowing that Sarai was not yet mentioned in the promise, as the person by whom he should have that seed; and not consulting with God, which he should have done.

3 And Sarai Abrams wife took Hagar her maid the Egyptian, after Abram had dwelt ten years in the land of Canaan, and gave her to her husband Abram, to be his wife c.

c (i e.) His Concubine, or secondary Wife. Polygamy, tho it was forbidden by Gods first institution, Gen. 2. 24. compared with Mat. 19. 5. and brought into the World by wicked Lamech, yet it was sometimes practised by the Patriarchs, either by Gods permission, who could rightly dispence with his own Laws when and where he pleased; or by their mistake about the lawfulness of it. As for the present case, it is most evident this action was not the effect of an inordinate lust, but of an earnest desire of having children, and especially of obtaining the blessed and promised Seed.

4 And he went in unto Hagar, and she conceived: and when she saw that she had conceived, her mistress was despised in her eyes d.

d For barrenness in it self was a reproach, and especially to Sarai, who seemed to be a person rejected by God, as one whom he would not honour with being the Mother of that Seed: and Hagar being suddenly made Sarai's partner in the priviledge of Abram's bed, and superior to her in respect of that great blessing of child-bearing, it is no wonder if she grew insolent upon it, especially being advanced so highly from so low a condition.

5 And Sarai said unto Abram, My wrong be upon thee e: I have given my maid into thy bosom, and when she saw that she had conceived, I was despised in her eyes: the LORD judge between me and thee f.

e (i. e.) The injury done to me by Hagar, who thus wickedly requites my kindness to her, be upon thee; i. e. is to be imputed to thee, thou art the cause of it, because thou dost not maintain my reputation, and repress her arrogancy. f (i. e.) Give forth a righteous Sentence between us, and deal with each of us according to our guilt or innocency in this matter. Compare 1 Sam. 24. 13, 16.

6 But Abram said unto Sarai, Behold, thy maid is in thine hand g: do to her † as it pleaseth thee h. And when Sarai † dealt hardly with her i, she fled from her face k.

g (i. e.) Subject to thy Power and Authority, as the phrase is taken, Gen. 24. 10. & 39. 4, 6, 8. Num. 31. 49. For tho she be my Concubine, yet she is thy inferior, and therefore if she exalt her self above her measure, I give thee power to exercise thy Authority over her. But whether this was not one of Abram's infirmities, to give up his second wife into the hands of the first, may well be questioned. h Use whatsoever power God hath given thee over her: for we must not think that Abram gave her power of Life and Death over her, especially now when she was with child. Therefore here, as often elsewhere, the general words must be limited from the Nature of the thing, and from other Texts of Scripture, which forbid cruelty even to our Servants. 2. Either by imposing labours upon her above her strength, or by grievous stripes which she could not bear. k Contrary to Gods command, Eccl. 10. 4. and to the laws of Justice, because both her person and the fruit of her body were not her own, but Abram's right and possession.

7 And the Angel of the LORD l found her by a fountain of water in the wilderness, by the fountain in the way to Shur m:

l The Son of God, who oft appeared in man's shape, before he took man's Nature, who is called an Angel or Messenger, because he was the Angel of the Covenant, Mal. 3. 1. and was sent upon divers Messages to men in the Old Testament, and at last was to be sent in the flesh, as Gods great Embassador, or Messenger of peace and reconciliation. m A place near Egypt, Gen. 25. 12. 1 Sam. 15. 7. being her Native Country, Exod. 15. 22.

8 And he said, Hagar Sarai's maid n, whence camest thou? And whither wilt thou go o? and she said, I flee from the face of my mistress Sarai.

n By which Title he admonisheth her, that tho she was Abram's Wife, yet she was Sarah's maid, to whom she owed subjection and service, from which she could not lawfully withdraw her self. o Consider with thy self what thou art doing, what a sad exchange thou art making. Thou forsakest not only an excellent Master and Husband, but also me and my worship, which thou wilt not find in any other Family, and so castest thy self out of the true Church, and art running headlong into a place of all Idolatry and Impiety, to thy utter undoing, and this meerly through pride and impatience.

9 And the Angel of the LORD said unto her, Return to thy mistress, and submit thy self under her hands.

10 And the Angel of the LORD said unto her, I will multiply thy seed exceedingly, that it shall not be numbred for multitude.

11 And the Angel of the LORD said unto her, Behold, thou art with child, and shalt bear a son, and shalt call his name ‖ Ishmael: because the LORD hath heard thy affliction *.

‖ That is, God shall hear.

* Hath heard thy cry in thy affliction.

12 And he will be a wild man p: his hand will be against every man, and every man's hand against him q: * and he shall dwell in the presence of all his brethren r.

* chap. 25. 18.

p Heb. A wild ass-man, i. e. a man like a wild ass, fierce and untamed, and unsettled in his habitation, or as that creature is, Job 39. 5, 8. Jer. 2. 24. Hos. 8. 9. living in desarts and mountains, warlike and violent, exercising himself continually in hunting beasts, and oppressing men. See Gen. 21. 20. q He will provoke and injure all that converse with him, and thereby will multiply his Enemies: which is to be understood not only of him, but also of his posterity. r In the borders of the other sons and kindred of Abram and Isaac, who tho they shall be vexed and annoyed with his Neighbourhood, yet shall not be able to make him quit his habitation. See Gen. 25. 18.

13 And she called the name of the LORD that spake unto her, † Thou God seest me s: for she said, Have I also here looked after him that seeth me t?

s Thou hast been pleased to take notice and care of me, and graciously to manifest thy self unto me. t (i. e.) After that God, whose Eye is upon me for good? So she chides her self for her neglect of God, and of his providence, and that not only in her Master's house, but even here, in the Wilderness, where her desolate and miserable condition should have made her look after, and call upon God for help. Or rather, these are words of admiration, q. d. Have I also here, i. e. in this desolate wilderness, looked after him that seeth me, i. e. seen the face of my gracious God? That God should appear to me in my Master's house, where he used to manifest himself, was not strange, but that I should have such a favour here, that God should not only look upon me, but admit me to look upon him, and visibly appear to me after I had run away from him, and from my godly Master, this was more than I could hope or expect. Others thus, Have I here seen after him that sees me; i. e. after the vision of him that hath appeared to me; i. e. Do I yet see and live after I have seen God? She wonders at it, because it was then the common Opinion, that an appearance of God to any Person was a fore-runner of Death. See Gen. 32. 30. Exod. 33. 20. Jud. 6. 22. & 13. 22. And seeing is here put for living, one function of life for life it self, as Exod. 24. 11. Eccl. 11. 7, 8. But the word seeing, put by its self, as here it is, is neither in those places, nor elsewhere used for living. And had that been her meaning, she would have expressed it plainly, ly, as they do in the places alledged, and not have used so dark and dubious a Metaphor, nor would have said, after him that sees me, but rather, after I have seen him.

* chap. 24. 62. That is, the well of him that liveth and seeth me.

14 Wherefore the well was called * ‖ Beerlahai-roi u: behold it is between Cadesh and Bered.

u This Name may have respect, either, 1. To God, The well of him that liveth, (i. e. of the true and living God*) and seeth me, i. e.* taketh care of me. Or, 2. To Hagar, The well of her that liveth, (i. e.) who tho she gave up her self for dead and lost, yet now is likely to live, both in her person and in her posterity, and seeth, or did see, namely, God present with her.

15 And Hagar bare Abram a Son ‖ and Abram called his sons name, which Hagar bare, Ishmael.

‖ To wit, after her return and submission to her Mistress, which is evident from the following History.

16 And Abram was fourscore and six years old, when Hagar bare Ishmael to Abram.

CHAP. XVII.

1 AND when Abram was ninety years old and nine, the LORD appeared to Abram, and said unto him, I am the ‖ Almighty God a, * walk before me b, and be thou ‖ perfect c.

* chap. 5. 22.

a Who can do all that I have promised, or shall promise to thee, and whatsoever pleaseth me: and therefore do thou firmly believe all my words. b As becomes one in the presence of thy Lord, and Judge, and Rewarder, being careful to please and obey me in all things, and depending upon me for thy well-doing, and well-being. See the same phrase, Gen. 48. 15. 1 King. 8. 25. Psal. 116. 9. c (i. e.) Sincere, universal and constant in thy belief of my promises, and obedience to my commands. See Gen. 6. 9.

2 And I will make my covenant between me and thee d, and will multiply thee exceedingly.

d I am come to renew, establish, and enlarge that covenant which I formerly made with thee.

3 And Abram fell on his face e, and God talked with him, saying, e Partly in self-abasement, and an humble sense of his own undeservedness of such favours; and partly in reverence and worship to God, and a thankful acknowledgment of his marvellous kindness. Compare Lev. 9. 24. Ezek. 43. 3.

4 As for me, behold my covenant is with thee; and thou shalt be a father of † many nations f.

f Both literally, or after the Flesh, of the Israelites, Ishmaelites, Edomites, &c. and spiritually, of all Believers of all Nations, to whom Abram hath in some sort the place of a Father, Rom. 4. 12, 17. Not only as he was the great Example and Teacher of that Faith by which they are all saved (as the instructers of others are called their Fathers, both in Scripture, as Gen. 4. 20, 21. and in profane Authors) but as he was made by God the head of the Covenant, by, or through whom the Covenant-right was conveyed to all his Natural Seed, and afterwards to the Spiritual Seed, all Gentile believers.

5 Neither shall thy name any more be called Abram, but thy name shall be Abraham g: * for a father of many nations have I made thee.

* Rom. 4. 17.

g (i. e.) The Father of a multitude, Ham in the Hebrew being put for Hamon, which signifies a multitude, by a figure called Apocope, which is usual in proper Names.

6 And I will make thee exceeding fruitful, and † I will make * nations of thee, and Kings shall come out of thee h.

† Heb. I will make thee Nations.

* chap. 35. 11.

h So did the Kings of Israel and Judah, of Edom, of the Saracens, and the Messias, who is King of Kings, and Lord of Lords.

7 And I will establish my covenant between me and thee, and thy seed after thee in their generations, for an everlasting covenant, to be a God unto thee i, and to thy seed after thee.

i (i. e.) Whatsoever I am or have, all that shall be thine, and shall be employed for thy protection, Consolation and Salvation. This phrase contains in it the confluence of all blessings, Temporal, Spiritual and Eternal. See Lev. 26. 12. Psal. 33. 12. & 144. 15. Jer. 31. 33.

* chap. 12. 7.

8 And * I will give unto thee, and to thy seed † after thee, the land † wherein thou art a stranger, all the land of Canaan, for an everlasting possession k; and I will be their God.

† Unto thee, not in thy own person, but in thy Seed. See Gen. 13. 15, 17. k Upon condition of their Obedience to God, as is oft expressed: Wherein seeing they so notoriously failed, it is no wonder if they possessed it but a little while, as the Prophet complains, Isa. 63. 18.

9 And God said unto Abraham, Thou shalt keep my covenant therefore, thou l, and thy seed after thee in their generations.

l The agreement is mutual: My part was expressed before, now follows thy part, and the condition to which my promise and blessing is annexed.

10 This is my covenant m which ye shall keep between me and you, and thy Seed after thee: every * man-child n among you shall be circumcised.

* Acts 7. 8.

m Circumcision is here called the Covenant by an usual Metonymy, because it is the condition, sign and seal of the Covenant, the pledge of Gods promise and mans duty. And upon the same grounds, the Cup, i. e. the Wine, is called the New Testament in Christ's Blood, Luke 22. 20. Or, which is all one, Christ's Blood in the New Testament, Mat. 26. 28. n It is evident, that Women as well as Men were comprehended in this Covenant, from Gen. 34. 14. Exod. 12. 3, 4. Joel 2. 15, 16. Yet Circumcision is given only to the Males, partly, because it could not, at least, not conveniently, be administred to Females: partly, because man is the principal cause of the propagation of Children, and consequently of the propagation of that Original Corruption which cleaves to them; partly, to signifie, that all persons begotten by man, should be polluted by sin, tho not all conceived by a Woman, as Christ was: And partly, because Man is the Head of the Woman and of the Family, upon whom all their concerns are devolved, and from whom the distinction of Families and People comes.

11 And ye shall circumcise the flesh of your fore-skin o; and it shall be a * token of the covenant p betwixt me and you.

* Acts 7. 8. Rom. 4. 11.

o (i. e.) By an usual Hypallage, the fore-skin of your flesh: And the word Flesh is here put for the Genital part, as it is Lev. 15. 2, 19. Ezek. 16. 26. & 23. 20. and elsewhere. This part God singled out for this Ordinance, because it is, and was a great instrument both in the commission of actual sins, and in the propagation of Original sin, and therefore it was very proper to apply to it the seal of Gods gracious Covenant for the remission of sins past, and the Extirpation of sin for the future. p (i. e.) A sign, evidence, and assurance, both of the blessing promised by that God who appointed this Ordinance, and of man's Obligation to the Duties required, which is signified by his acceptance of, and submission to this Ordinance. And here we have the Nature and definition of a Sacrament, viz. that it is a figure or token of Gods Covenant.

12 And † he that is eight days old q, * shall be circumcised among you: every man-child in your generations r, he that is born in the house, or bought with money of any stranger s, which is not of thy seed.

* Lev. 12. 3. Luke 2. 21. Joh. 7. 22.

q Not before that time, because of the Childs weakness and imperfection, and impurity too, Exod. 22. 30. Lev. 12. 3. for which reason also Beasts were not to be offered to God before the Eighth Day, Exod. 22. 30. r Successively, until the Messias come, who shall circumcise your hearts, and change this Ordinance for another. s These were of two sorts, 1. Children, who being entirely his possession, and having not understanding to discern, nor will to chuse or refuse, were to be circumcised. 2. Grown persons, who were not to be compelled to be circumcised, but if they refused it, were not to be permitted to dwell in his Family, lest they should infect others, but were to be sold to strangers, as the Hebrew Doctors teach. But as for Abraham's Servants here, they were thoroughly instructed in Religion, Gen. 18. 19. and doubtless did willingly embrace it and submit to this Sacrament.

t So it was, and is properly, in regard of the thing signified to all true Believers; and for the sign it is so called, because it was to endure through all Generations, till the coming of the Messias: The word Olam here and elsewhere rendred everlasting, or for ever, being oft used to express not only simple Eternity, but any long continuance for many Ages, yea, sometimes for a man's Life. See Exod. 21. 6. Deut. 15. 17. 1 King. 9. 3.

14 And the uncircumcised man-child, * whose flesh of his fore-skin is not circumcised u, that soul shall be cut off from his people x: He hath broken my Covenant y.

* Or

* Or rather, And as for the uncircumciſed man-child. So the Nominative is put abſolutely, as is frequent in the Hebrew Tongue. u Or, Who ſhall not circumciſe the Fleſh of his fore-skin: For the Hebrew Verb may be rendred actively: Which ſeems beſt here; becauſe the puniſhment ſeems more juſtly to belong to the Parent, who was guilty of this neglect, than to the Child, who was not capable of this Precept, and therefore not guilty of the violation of it. And this may further appear from Exod. 4. 24, 25. where God ſeeks to kill, not the Child, but the Father, Moſes, for his ſin. And the Fleſh of the Childs Fore-skin is rightly called the Fleſh of his, i. e. The Parents Fore-skin, becauſe the Child is a part and the poſſeſſion of his Parent. So that this threatning concerns only grown perſons, and of them only ſuch as ſhall wilfully and unneceſſarily neglect this Duty: for otherwiſe it was neglected by the Iſraelites for forty years together in the Wilderneſs, Joſ. 5. 7. without any token of Gods diſpleaſure for it. x This phraſe denotes, either, 1. An Excluſion from Fellowſhip with Gods people, and from all the promiſes, privileges and bleſſings belonging to them, either in this Life or that to come. Or rather, 2. An untimely and violent death, as may be gathered from Exod. 31. 14. to be inflicted by the Magiſtrate, to whom God committed the Execution of this, as well as other Laws, and in caſe of his neglect and default, or the ſecrecy of the fact, by the extraordinary hand of God, who ſometimes aſcribes this act to himſelf, as Levit. 17. 10. & 20. 6. y That ſacred bond which tied him and me together, and by his neglect and contempt of the condition required on his part, he hath forfeited the bleſſing promiſed on my part.

15 And God ſaid unto Abraham, as for Sarai thy Wife, thou ſhalt not call her Name Sarai, but Sarah z ſhall her Name be.

z Sarai ſignifies my Lady or my Princeſs, which confines her dominion to one Family, but Sarah ſignifies either a Lady or Princeſs ſimply and abſolutely without reſtriction, or, the Princeſs of a multitude, the Hebrew letter he being taken out of Hamon, and added to her Name, as it was to Abram's Name.

16 And I will bleſs her, and give thee a Son alſo of her: Yea, I will bleſs her, and † ſhe ſhall be a mother of * Nations: Kings of people ſhall be of her.

† Heb. ſhe ſhall become Nations. * chap. 35. 11.

17 Then Abraham fell upon his face, and laughed a, and ſaid in his heart, ſhall a Child be born unto him that is an hundred years old, and ſhall Sarah that is ninety years old bear?

a Through admiration and holy rejoicing at ſo great a bleſſing, not through unbelief, as Sarah did, Gen. 18. 12, 13. as appears from Rom. 4. 19, 20. And though the outward act was the ſame in both, yet God diſcerned their differing diſpoſitions and intentions therein.

18 And Abraham ſaid unto God, O that Iſhmael might live before thee b!

b Grant, O Lord, that the giving of one Son may not be joined with the taking away of another, that Iſhmael may faithfully ſerve thee, and may have a ſhare in thy favour, and gracious covenant. For this ſeems to be the meaning of this phraſe of living before God, or in Gods preſence, by comparing a parallel phraſe, of walking before God, ver. 1. and elſewhere, and an oppoſite phraſe, from thy face ſhall I be hid, Gen. 4. 14.

* chap. 18. 10. & 21. 2.

19 And God ſaid, * Sarah thy Wife ſhall bear thee a Son indeed, and thou ſhalt call his name Iſaac c, and I will eſtabliſh my Covenant with him, for an Everlaſting Covenant, and with his ſeed after him.

c Which ſignifies laughter, not from Sarah's laughter, which as yet had not happened, but from Abram's paſt laughter, ver. 17. and future joy in his Son.

20 And as for Iſhmael, I have heard thee ‖, behold, I have bleſſed him, and will make him fruitful, and will multiply him exceedingly: * twelve princes ſhall he beget, and I will make him a great nation.

* chap. 25. 16.

‖ To wit, in part, or ſo far as is here expreſſed; and probably, as to the chief bleſſing of the Covenant, to wit, the forgiveneſs of his ſins and Eternal Life, as the Hebrew Doctors, and ſome others collect from Gen. 25. 17. and from other conſiderations.

21 But my covenant will I eſtabliſh with Iſaac d, whom Sarah ſhall bear unto thee, at this ſet time, in the next year.

d The Covenant of the promiſed Seed to come out of his loins, and of Life and Salvation to accrue to himſelf and to his poſterity by virtue of that Seed: In compariſon whereof God ſpeaks ſlightly of all the temporal bleſſings conferred upon Iſhmael, tho in themſelves they were great and glorious. By which it may ſufficiently appear that Abraham's Faith whereby he is ſaid to be juſtified, Rom. 4. had a farther reach in it than to his own immediate Child, even to the Meſſias, whoſe Day therefore Abraham is ſaid to have ſeen, John 8. 56.

e To Heaven in a viſible manner, as it ſeems he converſed with him in ſome viſible ſhape. Compare Gen. 35. 13. Judg. 13. 20.

23 And Abraham took Iſhmael his Son, and all that were born in his houſe, and all that were bought with his money, every male among the men of Abrahams houſe, and circumciſed the fleſh of their fore-skin f in the ſelf ſame day g, as God had ſaid unto him.

f Partly, by his own hand, and partly by the help of others, whom he by Divine inſtinct called to, and directed in that work. g In which God appeared to him, and gave the command. So he made haſt and delayed not to execute Gods command. And his Servants alſo yielded a ready and chearful obedience to this ſevere and painful precept, being moved thereunto by Abraham's Example and Soveraign Authority, by Gods powerful preſence ſome way or other manifeſted to them, and by the proſpect and hope of Gods bleſſing to accompany and follow his own Ordinance.

24 And Abraham was ninety years old and nine, when he was circumciſed in the fleſh of his fore-skin.

25 And Iſhmael his ſon was thirteen years old when he was circumciſed in the fleſh of his fore-skin.

26 In the ſelf-ſame day was Abraham circumciſed, and Iſhmael his ſon.

27 And all the men of his houſe, born in the houſe, and bought with money of the ſtranger, were circumciſed with him.

CHAP. XVIII.

1 AND the LORD appeared unto him in the plains of Mamre, and he ſate in the tent-door a, in the heat of the day b.

a Waiting for ſtrangers which might paſs that way, for whom no publick places being provided in thoſe times and places, vertuous perſons uſed to entertain them in their houſes. See Heb. 13. 2. b The time when Travellers, eſpecially in thoſe hot Countries, uſed to divert and refreſh themſelves.

2 * And he lift up his eyes, and looked: and lo, three men c ſtood by him: and when he ſaw them, he ran to meet them from the tent-door, and bowed himſelf toward the ground d.

3 And ſaid, My LORD, if now I have found favour in thy ſight e, paſs not away, I pray thee, from thy ſervant:

e He directeth his ſpeech to one who by the Majeſty of his countenance, and the reſpect which the other two ſhewed him, ſeemed to be the chief of them.

4 Let a little water, I pray you, be fetched, and waſh your feet f, and reſt your ſelf under the tree.

f A practice uſual in thoſe parts, Gen. 19. 2. & 24. 32. & 43. 24. John 13. 4, 5. 1 Tim. 5. 10. becauſe they uſed to travel either bare-footed, or only with Sandals, to cover and ſecure the bottom of their feet.

5 And I will fetch a morſel of bread, and † comfort ye your hearts, after that ye ſhall paſs on: for therefore † are ye come to your ſervant g. And they ſaid, ſo do, as thou haſt ſaid.

g Not that he ſaith or thought that this was their deſign, but an Effect of Divine Providence, the meaning is, therefore hath God directed you this way, that I might have an occaſion of performing my duty to you, which I chearfully embrace.

6 And Abraham haſtened into the tent unto Sarah, and ſaid, † make ready quickly three meaſures

b Containing each the third part of an Ephah. See Exod. 16. 36. i Upon the Coals, or in the warm Cinders, or in an Oven. He had doubtless other bread ready, but he would have new bread for them, which he thought most grateful.

7 And Abraham ran unto the herd and fetcht a calf, tender and good, and gave it unto a young man, and he hasted to dress it.

8 And he took butter, and milk, and the calf * which he had dressed, and set it before them, and he stood by them k under the tree, and they did eat l.

* To wit, the choicest parts of the calf. k To wait upon them, as the word standing is used, Neh. 12. 44. Jer. 52. 12. l Either seemingly, as the Scripture oft speaks of things according to appearance; or really, they received the meat into the bodies which they assumed, where it was consumed by a Divine Power.

9 And they said unto him m, Where is Sarah thy wife? And he said, Behold, in the tent n.

m (i. e.) One of them, in the Name of all, said. Which he did not for his own satisfaction; for he who knew her Name, knew also where she was, but to give occasion for the following discourse. n In her Tent: For Men and Women had then their several Tents or Apartments.

10 And he said, I will certainly return unto thee o † according to the time of life p, and lo, * Sarah thy wife shall have a son. And Sarah heard it in the tent-door which was behind him q.

o Not in a visible shape, but with my powerful and effectual presence, to fulfil my promise. p This time may respect, either, 1. Abram and Sarah, in the time of Life, i. e. when you shall be both alive and in health. But that it belonged to them, it might seem better to understand it thus, in the time when God shall restore life, (i. e.) vigour and activity, to you; for till then both Abraham's body, and Sarah's Womb, are expresly said to be dead, Rom. 4. 19. to which deadness this Life may be opposite, and the time of restoring the lost power of Generation, may well be called a time of Life, it being a kind of life from the dead, and an impowring of him for a vital action, from which he was before disenabled, and for the conveying of Life to a Child, and perpetuating his own life in him. Or, 2. To the Child, according to the time of Life, i. e. in the time which is usual for the Conception, Quickning, and Bringing forth of a living Child. Which interpretation receiveth some countenance from 2 Kings 4. 16. where we have the same phrase. Or 3. To the year, according to the time, or this time of Life, or living time, i. e. when this time or season of the year shall revive, i. e. return or be restored: As Cities and Buildings are said to be revived, when they are repaired or re-built, as 1 Chron. 11. 8. Neh. 4. 2. And this season might more properly be said to revive, and be called the time of Life, because it may be gathered from the heat, ver. 1. and their refreshing themselves under the shadow of a Tree, that it was the Spring-time, when Herbs, and Plants, and Trees, which seem to be dead in the Winter, recover, and shew forth their Life and Vigour: and so the sence may be this, according to this time, which is a time of Life, or reviving, wherein as the Beauty and Fruits of the Earth will be renewed and revived, so thou and Sarah shall be revived, or receive, as it were, a new Life in the Son that shall be born to you. This sence seems more probable than either of the former; because he speaks of a certain set or appointed time, v. 14. Rom. 9. 9. Gen. 21. 2. and that time was about a year after this, as may appear by comparing Gen. 17. 24. & Gen. 21. 5. q (i. e.) At the back of the Angel that spoke with him. Which is here added, to shew that he knew her laughter, not by the sight of his Eyes, but by his All-seeing Knowledge.

11 Now * Abraham and Sarah were old, and well stricken in age, and it ceased to be with Sarah after the manner of women r.

* chap. 17. 17. Rom. 4. 19. Heb. 11. 11, 12.

r As to those monthly Effluviums peculiar to her Sex, which are necessary to Conception. Compare Gen. 31. 35.

12 Therefore Sarah laughed s within her self t saying, * After I am waxed old, shall I have pleasure, u my * Lord being old also?

* Luk. 1. 18. * 1 Pet. 3. 6.

s Not from joy and admiration, but from distrust and contempt, as if it were incredible. t Heb. In her heart, i. e. she secretly derided it, tho none but her self, as she thought, knew it. u Not so much in the Conception, as in the Education and Fruition of a Child.

13 And the LORD said unto Abraham, Wherefore did Sarah laugh, saying, shall I of a surety bear a Child which am old?

14 * Is any thing too hard for the LORD x? † at the time appointed will I return unto thee, according to the time of life, and Sarah shall have a Son.

* Jer. 32. 17. Zech. 8. 6. Luk. 1. 37. † chap. 17. 21.

x Heb. Hid from God? So the sence is, tho she laughed only in her heart, it is not unknown to me: Or rather, too wonderful for God to effect? Which best suits with the following words.

15 Then Sarah denied y, saying, I laughed not, for she was afraid: and he said, Nay, but thou didst laugh.

y From the sence of guilt, and the discovery of her shame, and the expectation of a sharp rebuke both from this person and from her husband.

16 And the men rose up from thence, and looked towards Sodom: and Abraham went with them * to bring them on the way z.

* 3 Joh. 6.

z A Civility usual then and afterwards. See Acts 20. 38. & 21. 5. Rom. 15. 24. 1 Cor. 16. 11.

17 And the LORD said, * shall I hide from Abraham a that thing which I do?

* Amos 3. 7.

a q. d. I will not, cannot hide it: It is against the laws of Friendship to conceal my Secrets from him. The Interrogation here, is in effect a Negation, as elsewhere. Compare 2 Sam. 7. 5. with 1 Chron. 17. 4. & Mat. 7. 16. with Luke 6. 43. See also Amos 3. 7.

18 Seeing that Abraham shall surely become a great and mighty nation, and all the nations of the Earth shall be * blessed in him b?

* chap. 12. 3. & 22. 18. Acts 3. 25. Gal. 3. 8.

b (q. d.) Seeing I have done greater things for him, how can I deny him the less? Compare the Argument, Rom. 8. 32. Gods ways are not like mens ways. Former favours to men are arguments why they should do no more, but to God they are motives for the adding of new ones.

19 For I know him c that he will command d his children and his houshold after him e, and they shall keep the way of the LORD f, to do justice and judgment g; that the LORD may bring upon Abraham, that which he hath spoken of him h.

c I know him to be such an one as I am now describing: Or, I know this concerning him which now follows. Others, I love him, and therefore cannot conceal this from him. Words of Knowledge being oft put for Love, as Jer. 1. 5. & 24. 5. Hos. 13. 5. Amos 3. 2. d Or, Instruct, as the word is used, Lev. 14. 5. Deut. 20. 18. & 27. 3. It will not be in vain that I tell him this, and give him occasion to pray, and to taste my goodness in answering prayers, because he will not smother these things in his own breast, but manifest them to others, and teach them how good God is, who so readily complies with the desires and prayers of men, and how terrible he is to incorrigible sinners, and how evil and bitter a thing it is to sin against God. And so I shall get the end I aim at in all my Works, which is, that they may be known for the good of others, that they may learn by such Examples. e Who will live when he is dead. He will so diligently imprint these things in their minds, that they shall never forget them. f (i. e.) Observe and walk in the way of Gods Precepts: q. d. He shall not lose his design or labour; for what he teacheth they shall learn and practise. See Psal. 51. 15, &c. g (i. e.) To do all things that are good and right, and just both to God and Men. Compare Psal. 119. 121. h (i. e.) That Abraham and his posterity, keeping the conditions of the Covenant required on their part. God may, without any blemish to his Honour or Justice, give all those good things which he hath promised to them.

20 And the LORD said, Because * the cry i of Sodom and Gomorrha k is great, and because their sin is very grievous;

* chap. 4. 10. & 19. 13. Jam. 5. 4.

i Sins are said to cry when they are gross, and manifest, and impudent, and such as highly provoke God to anger. k He names only these two, as being the most eminent in state and exemplary in wickedness, but under them he includes the rest, as appears by the story.

21 I * will go down now and see l whether they have † done altogether m according to the cry of it, which is come unto me; and if not, I will know.

* chap. 11. 5. † Heb. made a full end.

l (i. e.) Enquire into the truth of the thing. God here speaks after the manner of men, and for the example and instruction of Judges, to search into causes ere they pass sentence. m Heb. Whether they have made a consummation or accomplishment, i. e. whether they have filled up the measure of their sins. Compare Gen. 15. 16. Mat. 23. 32. James 1. 15.

22 And

22 And the men n turned their faces from thence, and went toward Sodom; but Abraham ſtood yet before the LORD o.

n (i. e.) Two of them: For the third ſtayed with Abraham, as it here follows. o The third of theſe perſons whom now he perceived to be the Lord himſelf who had aſſumed an humane ſhape.

23 And Abraham drew near p, and ſaid, wilt thou alſo deſtroy the righteous with the wicked?

p (i. e.) Approached unto God to enquire of him, and to pray unto him: For ſo the phraſe of drawing near to God is uſed, 1 Sam. 14. 36. Pſal. 73. 28. Iſa. 29. 13. Heb. 10. 22.

* Jer. 5. 1. 24 * Peradventure there be fifty righteous within the City q, wilt thou alſo deſtroy, and not ſpare the place for the fifty righteous that are therein?

q (i. e.) In the Cities concerned, as appears by ver. 20. & 19. 25. The ſingular number for the plural as is frequent, as Gen. 3. 2. 1 Chron. 10. 1. compared with 1 Sam. 31. 1. and oft elſewhere. Or, the City Sodom alone is mentioned, but the reſt are comprehended under it, either becauſe of its eminency, or becauſe they were ſubject or ſubordinate to it, as may ſeem probable from the Hiſtory, Gen. 14.

25 That be far from thee to do after this manner, to ſlay the righteous with the wicked, and that the righteous ſhall be as the wicked, that be far from thee: * ſhall not the judge of all the Earth r do right ſ?

* Job 8. 3. & 34. 17. Rom. 3. 6.

r Now he clearly perceiveth that this perſon was no leſs than the Creator, Governor and judge of the World, even the ſecond Perſon in the Bleſſed Trinity, to whom that Title and Work is aſcribed, as John 5. 22, 27. Acts 10. 42. & 17. 31. ſ He ſpeaks not this, as if it were ſimply unjuſt for God to involve the righteous in the ſame temporal deſtruction with the wicked, for he knew very well and by his own experience, that there was not a juſt man upon Earth that did good and ſinned not, Eccl. 7. 20. and therefore no ſuch juſt man who did not for his own ſin deſerve that death and deſtruction, which is the proper wages of ſin, Rom. 6. laſt. But he ſpeaks not here of ſtrict and rigorous juſtice, but of that moderate and equitable way which God is pleaſed to uſe with the Sons of men, and of that right to temporal deliverances, which by vertue of God's gracious Covenant and Promiſe did accrue to Pious and Vertuous perſons, eſpecially in the times of the Old Teſtament, when temporal promiſes were more expreſly and particularly made to good men.

26 And the LORD ſaid, if I find in Sodom fifty righteous within the City, then I will ſpare all the place for their ſakes.

27 And Abraham anſwered and ſaid, Behold, now I have taken upon me to ſpeak unto the LORD, which am but duſt and aſhes t:

t In regard of the compoſition of my body, which was taken out of the duſt, and ſhall return unto it again. See Gen. 3. 19. Job 4. 19. Eccl. 12. 7. 1 Cor. 15. 47, 48.

28 Peradventure, there ſhall lack five of the fifty righteous, wilt thou deſtroy all the City for lack of five u? And he ſaid, If I find there forty and five, I will not deſtroy it.

u Heb. For five, or becauſe of five, to wit, which are lacking or wanting. The ſame Supplement we have alſo Pſal. 109. 24. Lam. 4. 9.

29 And he ſpake unto him yet again, and ſaid, Peradventure there ſhall be forty found there: And he ſaid, I will not do it for forties ſake.

30 And he ſaid unto him, Oh, let not the LORD be angry, and I will ſpeak: Peradventure there ſhall thirty be found there: And he ſaid, I will not do it, if I find thirty there.

31 And he ſaid, Behold, now I have taken upon me to ſpeak unto the LORD: Peradventure there ſhall be twenty found there: And he ſaid, I will not deſtroy it for twenties ſake.

* Judg. 6. 39. 32 And he ſaid, * Oh, let not the LORD be angry, and I will ſpeak yet but this once x: Peradventure ten ſhall be found there: And he ſaid, I will not deſtroy it for tens ſake.

x Abraham in modeſty could proceed no further, and being a good man himſelf, he had a charitable Opinion of others, and thought there certainly were ſo many good men in all thoſe Cities, eſpecially including Lot and his Family. No doubt Abraham remembered Lot in his Prayers, but that large and generous ſoul could not content himſelf with Lot's preſervation, but aims at the ſaving of the whole Cities, which when he ſaw was doubtful and unlikely, he prayed for his deliverance out of that common deſtruction, as may be gathered from Gen. 19. 29.

33 And the LORD went his way, aſſoon as he had left communing with Abraham: and Abraham returned unto his place.

CHAP. XIX.

1 AND there came a two Angels b to Sodom at even c, and Lot ſate in the gate of Sodom d: and Lot ſeeing them, roſe up to meet them, and he bowed himſelf with his face toward the ground.

a Even thoſe two which departed from Abraham, chap. 18. 22. and now were come to Lot, the third yet ſtaying and communing with Abraham. b So they truly were, tho they be called Men, chap. 18. c Of the ſame day on which they departed from Abraham. d Where he ſate, either to obſerve the adminiſtration or corruption of Juſtice there, for the ſeats of Judicature were in the Gates: Or rather, to wait for ſtrangers, to whom he might exerciſe kindneſs and hoſpitality.

2 And he ſaid, Behold now my Lords, * turn in, I pray you, into your ſervants houſe, and tarry all night, and * waſh your feet, and ye ſhall riſe up early, and go on your ways ‖. And they ſaid, * Nay, but we will abide in the ſtreet all night e.

* Heb. 13. 2. * chap. 18. 4. * See Luke 24. 28.

‖ And ſo this will be no hindrance to your Occaſions. e This was no untruth, but really intended by them in the preſent ſtate of things, and upon ſuppoſition that Lot ſhould preſs them no further; but they alſo intended, if Lot was earneſt with them, to comply with him. Their firſt denial was but decent and an act of civility, and in them it was a deſign to diſcover Lot's Piety and Hoſpitality, and to manifeſt the great difference between him and the Barbarous Sodomites, and the reaſon and juſtice of Lot's deliverance and their deſtruction.

3 And he preſſed upon them greatly, and they turned in unto him, and entered into his houſe: and he made them a feaſt, and did bake unleavened bread ſ, and they did eat.

ſ Becauſe that was ſooner prepared, that ſo they might eat it, and after that go to Bed in due time.

4 But before they lay down ‖, the men of the City, even the men of Sodom, compaſſed the houſe round, both old and young, all the people from every quarter g.

‖ To ſleep, of which this word is uſed, Gen. 28. 13. Lev. 14. 47. & 26. 6. g Some to exerciſe Villany, and ſome to pleaſe themſelves with the contemplation of it, and ſome out of curioſity, &c. This is added to ſhew how univerſally corrupt they were, and that there were not ten righteous men there.

5 And they called unto Lot, and ſaid unto him, where are the men which came in to thee this night? bring them out unto us, that we may know them h.

h Either know who they are: Or rather, abuſe them, as Lot's Anſwer explains it, and ſo that word is uſed, Gen. 4. 1. Numb. 31. 17. Judg. 19. 22. And for the ſin here committed, ſee Lev. 18. 22. & 20. 13. Rom. 1. 26, 27. 1 Cor. 6. 9. Jude ver. 7. They openly and impudently profeſs their wicked intention, for which they are branded, Iſa. 3. 9. and this intention of theirs is the more probable, becauſe of the great beauty which it is likely was in thoſe bodies which the Angels aſſumed, whereby their Luſt was more inflamed.

6 And Lot went out at the door unto them, and ſhut the door after him.

7 And ſaid, I pray you, brethren i, do not ſo wickedly.

i So they were by community of Nature and Habitation. See Gen. 9. 5. & 29. 4. & Lev. 19. 17. and ſo he calls them, if poſſibly he might ſweeten and reſtrain them.

8 * Behold now, I have two daughters which have not † known man k; let me, I pray you, bring them out unto you, and do ye to them as is good in your eyes l, only unto theſe men do nothing: for therefore † came they under the ſhadow of my roof m.

* See Judg. 19. 24. † See Numb. 31. 17, 18.

k To wit, carnally. See Gen. 24. 16. Numb. 31. 18. Judg. 11. 39. l Whatsoever your purpose or pleasure is. See the same phrase Gen. 20. 15. and 41. 37. Numb. 24. 1. &c. A most impudent and sinful motion, whereby he yielded to one sin to prevent another contrary to Romans 3. 8. and exposed his daughters chastity which he was obliged to preserve, and which indeed he had no power to expose, especially seeing they were betrothed to other men, ver. 14. But it is some extenuation of his sin that it proceeded from his great charity and kindness to strangers, and that he was at this time under a great perturbation and discomposure of mind. † That they might be preserved from such outrages. This was the design of the thing though not of those persons. See the note on Gen. 18. 5. m (i. e.) Under the protection of my house. Shadow is oft put for protection or defence, as Judg. 9. 15. Psal. 36. 7. Jer. 48. 45.

9 And they said, stand back n. And they said again, This one fellow came in to sojourn o, and he will needs be a judge p: now will we deal worse with thee then with them. And they pressed sore upon the man; even Lot, and came near to break the door.

n Or, Go further off, i. e. out of our way, stand not between us and the door: or come hither: That so they might seize him, and proceed in their designed wickedness. o q. d. One man, and he too but a stranger, presumeth to oppose the whole society of the native Citizens. p Heb. In judging he will judge. This busie-body, if not restrained in time, will take Authority to himself to censure, reprove and condemn us from time to time.

10 But the men put forth their hand, and pulled Lot into the house to them, and shut to the door.

See Acts 13. 11. 11 And they smote the men * that were at the door of the house with blindness q, both small and great: so that they wearied themselves to find the door.

q Heb. With blindness, i. e. with a blindness both of Body and mind. It was not a total blindness, as if they quite lost the use of their Eyes, for they saw the house though not the door, but it was a great dimness and confusion of their sight, and a disturbance in their common sense, by which they were made unable to distinguish between differing persons or places; as it was also with the Syrians, 2 King. 6. 18. & as it is in some measure with some drunkards, who, though their eyes be open, cannot distinguish between things that differ. And this was very easie for Angels to do by a small alteration either in their sight or in the Air, whereby either the door might appear to them like the solid wall, or the several parts of the wall like so many doors.

12 And the men said unto Lot, Hast thou here any besides? son in law, and thy sons, and thy daughters, and whatsoever thou hast in the City, bring them out of this place.

13 For we will destroy this place, because the Chap. 18. 20. * cry of them is waxen great before the face of the LORD, and the LORD hath sent us to destroy it.

14 And Lot went out, and spake unto his sons-in-law, which married r his daughters, and said, Up, get ye out of this place, for the LORD will destroy this City: but he seemed as one that mocked unto his sons-in-law.

r Heb. Took or were taking, or about to take, to wit, either to espouse, or to marry. Compare Gen. 6. 2. and 24. 3. and 28. 6. Deut. 7. 3. Anciently persons were first espoused, and after some time, the Marriage was consummated.

15 And when the morning arose, then the Angels hastned Lot, saying, Arise, take thy wife, † Heb. are found. and thy two daughters which † are here s, lest ‖ Or, punishment. thou be consumed, in the ‖ iniquity of the City.

s Heb. Which are found, i. e. Which are present with thee, as this word is used, 1 Chron. 29. 17. 2 Chron. 5. 11. and 30. 21. and 31. 1. Whence some gather that he had two other Daughters married to two Sodomitish Men, who by their Husbands perswasion and example, staid and perished in those flames. But this is not necessary: For this phrase may be applied to the Daughters by way of distinction from their Spouses or Husbands. q. d. Tarry no longer in expectation of thy Sons-in-law, who are absent, and must be given up for lost, but take thy Daughters which are found and present with thee, and go thy way.

16 And while he lingred t, the men laid hold upon his hand, and upon the hand of his wife, and upon the hand of his two daughters, the LORD being merciful unto him: and they brought him forth, and set him without the City.

t Either through loathness to part with all his estate, or to lose his Sons-in-law: Or, through astonishment and distraction of mind, which made him both listless and impotent.

17 And it came to pass when they had brought them forth abroad, that he u said, Escape for thy life x, look not behind thee y, neither stay thou in all the plain, escape to the mountain, lest thou be consumed.

u Either one of the Angels: Or the third person, the Lord himself, who having parted from Abraham, after some time, came to Lot, as appears both by the change of the number, for before this he speaks of them in the plural number, but from hence in the singular number, as ver. 19, 21, 22. and by the variation of the phrase, for the other two speak with submission, and as servants, ver. 13. The Lord hath sent us, &c. but this speaks with more authority, as is evident from ver. 21, 22. x (i. e.) As thou lovest thy life. See Deut. 4. 15. Jos. 23. 11. Jer. 17. 21. Or, escape with thy Life, for the Hebrew particle al is sometimes taken for with, as Exod. 35. 23. Levit. 2. 2. and 14. 31. Deut. 22. 6. So the sense is, stand not lingring in hopes to save thy goods, them thou shalt lose as a punishment of thy sin and folly in chusing to dwell with so wicked a people, and be thankful that thou hast thy life given thee for a prey, as it is expressed, Jer. 38. 2. y Like one that grieves either for the loss of thy pleasant habitation or vast estate, or for those cursed miscreants justly devoted to this destruction. And this command though given to Lot alone, yet was directed also to his companions, to whom doubtless he imparted it, as is evident both from all the other commands, which equally concern all, and from the following event. See Matth. 24. 18. Luke 9. 62.

18 And Lot said unto them *, Oh, not so, my LORD.

* i.e. Unto one of them, as is manifest from the following words.

19 Behold now, thy servant hath found grace in thy sight, and thou hast magnified thy mercy which thou hast shew'd unto me in saving my life, and I cannot escape to the mountain z, lest some evil take me, and I die.

z Because of the infirmity of my age, and the fainting of my spirits. Thus he sheweth an unworthy and unreasonable distrust of Gods Power and Goodness which he had now experienced and acknowledged.

20 Behold now, this City is near to flee unto, and it is a little one a: O let me escape thither: (is it not a little one?) and my soul shall live.

a Therefore as its inhabitants, so its sins, are fewer, and it will not be an eminent example of thy vengeance, as the other places will be.

21 And he said unto him, See, I have accepted † thee b concerning this thing, that I will not † Heb. thy face. overthrow this City for the which thou hast spoken.

b Heb. I have lift up thy countenance, i. e. granted thy request. The manner of the expression possibly may be taken from the custom of the Eastern parts; where petitioners used not to fall upon their knees, as we do, but to prostrate themselves with their face to the ground, and the person to whom they addressed themselves in token of his favourable acceptance of their petitions, commanded them to be lifted up.

22 Haste thee, escape thither: for I cannot do any thing till thou be come thither c: therefore the name of the City was called Zoar.

c Because of Gods decree and promise to save thee from the general destruction.

23 The sun was † risen upon the Earth d when † Heb. gone forth. Lot entered into Zoar.

d This phrase may note, either the time of the day when this was done; or rather the nature and quality of the day, that the Sun appeared and shone forth that morning in great lustre and glory: Which is well noted as a very considerable circumstance of the History, and a great aggravation of their ruine, which came when they least expected it.

24 Then * the * LORD rained upon Sodom * Deut. 29. 23. and upon Gomorrha e, brimstone and fire f, from Isa. 13. 19. Jer. the LORD g out of Heaven. 50. 40. Ez. 16. 49. Hos. 11. 8. Amos 4. 11. Luke 17. 29. 2 Pet. 2. 6. Jude 7. * See Jud. 5. 20. 2 Chron. 7. 1. Ezek. 11. 24.

e And the Neighbouring Cities, Admah and Zeboim, as appears from Deut. 29. 23. Jer. 49. 18. Hos. 11. 8. f Brimstone is added to the fire either to conveigh and carry down the fire which in it self is light and apt to ascend, or to increase it. Isa. 30. 33. or to represent the noysomness of their lusts. g (i. e.) From himself: The noun put for the pronoun, as Gen. 1. 27. 2 Chron. 7. 2. But here it is emphatically so expressed, Either 1. To signifie that it proceeded not from natural causes, but from the immediate hand of God. Or, 2. To note the plurality of persons in the Godhead, God the Son, who now appeared upon the Earth rained from God his Father in Heaven, both concurring in this act, as indeed all outward actions are common to all the persons of the Trinity.

25 And he overthrew those Cities, and all the plain h, and all the inhabitants of the Cities, and that which grew upon the ground.

h To wit, where these Cities and their Territories lay, called the plain of Jordan, Gen. 13. 10. all which then became, and to this day continues to be a filthy Lake, called the Dead-Sea, because no Fish lives in it.

26 But his wife looked back i from behind him k, and she || became a * pillar of Salt l.

*Luke 17. 32.

i Through curiosity, or unbelief, or desire of what she left, or from all these causes. k (i. e.) From behind her Husband, whom she followed. Which circumstance seems to be mentioned as the reason of this presumption, because she could do it without her Husbands observation or reproof, to which she had a greater regard than to the all-seeing eye of God. || i. e. Her body, by a very common Synecdoche. l Either metaphorically, i. e. a perpetual durable pillar, as an Everlasting Covenant is called a pillar of Salt, Numb. 18. 19. or properly, for there is a kind of Metallick Salt: which resists the Rain, and is hard enough for Buildings, as Pliny, Solinus, and others Witness. And that Salt was here mixed with Brimstone may be gathered from Deut. 29. 23. Adde to this, that Josephus Antiq. 1. 12. Affirms that this pillar remained in his time. And the like is witnessed by others after him.

27 And Abraham gat up early in the morning, to the place where he * stood before the LORD.

*Chap. 18. 22.

28 And he looked toward Sodom and Gomorrha, and toward all the Land of the plain, and beheld, and lo, the smoak of the Countrey went up as the smoak of a furnace.

29 And it came to pass when God destroyed the Cities of the plain, that God remembred Abraham m, and sent Lot out of the midst of the overthrow, when he overthrew the Cities in the which Lot dwelt.

m Either 1. The promise made to Abraham Gen. 12. 3. Or 2. The prayer made by Abraham Gen. 18. who doubtless in his prayers for Sodom would not forget Lot, though his prayer for him be not there mentioned. And hereby it is insinuated, that Lot though he was a righteous man and should be saved eternally, yet deserved to perish temporally with those wicked people to whom he associated himself meerly for worldly advantages, and should have done so, if Abraham had not hindred it by his prayers.

30 And Lot went up out of Zoar, and dwelt in the mountain, and his two daughters with him: for he feared to dwell in Zoar n, and he dwelt in a cave, he, and his two daughters.

n Lest he should either suffer from them, or with them; perceiving now that though it was a little City, yet there was more wickedness in it, than he imagined.

31 And the first-born said unto the younger, Our father is old, and there is not a man in the earth o to come in unto us after the manner of all the Earth p.

o Either 1. In the whole Earth: For they thought the same deluge of Fire which destroyed the four Cities had by this time extended it self to Zoar, and all other places, knowing that the whole World did lye in wickedness, and having possibly heard from their Father, that the World as it was once destroyed by Water, so it should afterwards be consumed by Fire, which they might think was now executed, and that God had secured Abraham from it by taking him to himself. Or 2. In that Land, as the word may be rendred. And her meaning might not be this, that there was no man at all, but not a man with whom they might or durst Marry: For though they knew they left many Men in Zoar, yet the sad experience of the dreadful ruine wherein their Brethren in law were involved made them abhor the thoughts of any Conjunction with them. p (i. e.) Of all the Inhabitants of the Earth. Compare Gen. 18. 11.

32 Come, let us make our father drink wine q, and we will lie with him, that we may preserve seed of our father r.

q Which they carried with them amongst other necessary provisions either from Sodom or Zoar. r Which though an incestuous and abominable action, yet they thought was made lawful by the supposed necessity, as in the beginning of the World the Marriage of Brethren and Sisters was lawful, because necessary, and when it ceased to be necessary, because of the increase of mankind, it became incestuous.

33 And they made their father drink wine s that night: and the first-born went in, and lay with her father, and he perceived not when she lay down, nor when she arose t.

s To wit, in excess, so as to deprive him of the use of his Reason and Grace; which was likely to frustrate their project: This was a great sin, not only in them, but also in Lot himself, not to be excused by ignorance of the vertue of wine, which being known to both the Daughters, certainly their Father could not be ignorant of it. Thus he who kept his integrity in the midst of all the Temptations of Sodom, falls into a grievous sin in a place where he might seem most remote from all Temptations, God permitting this, to teach all following ages, how weak even the best men are, when they are left to themselves, & what absolute need they have of Divine assistance. t Wherein there is nothing strange, it being usual with drunken men to do many things in that condition, which when they come to themselves, they perfectly forget. And so might Lot, when under the power of Wine, forget that his Wife was turned into a pillar of Salt, and might mistake his Daughter for his Wife.

34 And it came to pass on the morrow, that the first-born said unto the younger, Behold, I lay yesternight with my father: let us make him drink wine this night also, and go thou in, and lie with him, that we may preserve seed of our father.

35 And they made their father drink wine that night also, and the younger arose, and lay with him: and he perceived not when she lay down, nor when she arose.

36 Thus were both the daughters of Lot with child || by their father.

|| Which they might possibly imagine to be an evidence of Divine approbation of their fact, whereas indeed it was a design of God to make a lasting Monument of their sin and shame.

37 And the first-born bare a son, and called his name Moab u: the same is the father of the Moabites x unto this day.

u (i. e.) Of my Father, begotten upon me by my Father. So she had learned from her Neighbours to declare her sin as Sodom, Isa. 3. 9. x A mischievous and infamous people, branded, as their brethren also the Ammonites were with characters of Gods displeasure.

38 And the younger, she also bare a son, and called his name Ben-ammi y: the same is the father of the children of Ammon unto this day.

y (i. e.) The Son of my People, or Kindred, not of the cursed race of the Sodomites, where I was to be married. This is something more modest than the other, in the name she gives, but both impudently glorying in their sin and shame, of which they should have bitterly repented.

CHAP. XX.

1 AND Abraham journeyed from thence a towards the south countrey b, and dwelt between Cadesh and Shur, and sojourned in Gerar.

a From the plain of Mamre, Chap. 18. 1. where he had long dwelt; and whence he removed either because of its nearness to that filthy Lake which now was in the place of that late fruitful plain: Or for other reasons and conveniences needless to be here enquired or determined. b Yet more towards the Southern part of Canaan.

2 And Abraham said of Sarah his wife * she is my sister c: and Abimelech King of Gerar sent and took Sarah d.

*Chap. 12.

c Lest they should slay him for his beautiful Wifes sake, as himself tells us, ver. 11. For though Sarah was ninety years old, yet she retained her beauty in good measure, partly because she had not been broken by bearing and nursing of Children, partly because in that age of the World Men and Women as they lived longer, so they did not so soon begin to decay, as now they do: and partly because of Gods especial blessing upon her. d Not without violence, for it is not to be thought that either Abraham or Sarah would consent to it.

3 But God * came to Abimelech in a dream e by night, and said unto him, Behold, thou art but a dead dead man *, for the woman which thou haſt taken f, for ſhe is † a mans wife.

Heb. married an Husband.

e God then uſed to manifeſt his mind in dreams not onely to his People, but even to Heathens for their ſakes, or in things wherein they were concerned. * Thou deſerveſt a preſent and untimely Death, and if thou proceedeſt in thy intended wickedneſs, it ſhall be inflicted upon thee. Both for thy injuſtice in taking her away by force, and for thy intentions to abuſe her, though not yet executed.

4 But Abimelech had not come near her g: and he ſaid, LORD, wilt thou ſlay alſo a righteous h nation i?

g (i. e.) Had not yet lyen with her. A modeſt expreſſion, like that of knowing a woman, Gen. 4. 1. or going in to her Gen. 6. 4. or touching her. Prov. 6. 29. 1 Cor. 7. 1. by which we are taught to uſe modeſty in our ſpeeches, and not, with the rude Cynicks, to expreſs all things by their proper names. This clauſe and hiſtory was neceſſary to be added here for Sarahs vindication, and eſpecially for the demonſtration of Iſaacs original from Abraham and Sarah, according to Gods promiſe. h (i. e.) Innocent as to this matter, compare 2 Sam. 4. 11. i For he knew it was juſt and uſual for God to puniſh a Nation for their Kings ſins, and therefore as became a good Prince, he is ſollicitous and prays for the ſafety of his nation: Or elſe by Nation he may mean his Family, for ſome of them were not involved in the guilt of this fact.

5 Said he not unto me, ſhe is my ſiſter? and ſhe, even ſhe her ſelf ſaid, He is my brother: in the ‖ integrity of my heart, and innocency of my hands k have I done this.

Or, ſimplicity, or ſincerity, 2 Sam. 15. 11.

k Without any adulterous deſign in my heart, or outward actions tending to it, being wholly ignorant of what thou now informeſt me.

6 And God ſaid unto him in a dream, Yea I know that thou didſt this in the integrity of thy heart l: for I alſo with-held thee m from ſinning n * againſt me o, therefore ſuffered I thee not to touch her.

* Chap. 39. 9. Levit. 6. 2. Pſal. 51. 4.

l (i. e.) That thou didſt not this knowingly and maliciouſly, but imprudently and inconſiderately, which is indeed an extenuation of thy ſin, though not a total excuſe. Compare 1 King. 9. 4. 1 Chron. 29. 1. m Partly by my reſtraining grace, and partly by my powerful Providence and the plague mentioned, ver. 17. n Which plainly ſhews that ignorance is not always an excuſe for ſin. See Luke 12. 48. o This ſin, though directly committed againſt Abraham and Sarah only is ſaid to be againſt God as other ſuch ſins are, Gen. 39. 9. Pſal. 51. 4. becauſe it was againſt Gods command written in mens minds, though not yet publiſhed by expreſs Word or Writing, and againſt Gods honour, and that here in a particular manner, becauſe it would have rendred Iſaacs original, and thereby Gods promiſe doubtful.

7 Now therefore reſtore the man his wife: for he is a prophet p, and he ſhall pray for thee *, and thou ſhalt live: and if thou reſtore her not, know thou, that thou ſhalt ſurely die, thou, and all that are thine q.

p A perſon very dear to me and familiarly acquainted with me, and therefore the injuries done to him I take as done to my ſelf, See Pſal. 105. 15. * Which is one part of a Prophets work, Jer. 14. 11. and 15. 1. q Which was not unjuſt becauſe they all had ſins of their own, for which they deſerved Death whenſoever God thought fit to inflict it, and God might take this occaſion to do it, that in puniſhing them he might alſo puniſh the King, whoſe ſubjects they were.

8 Therefore Abimelech roſe early in the morning, and called all his ſervants r, and told all theſe things in their ears: and the men were ſore afraid.

r His Counſellers and principal Officers, as that word is uſed 1 King. 1. 2. and 10. 13.

9 Then Abimelech called Abraham and ſaid unto him, what haſt thou done unto us s? and what have I offended thee, that * thou haſt brought on me, and on my Kingdom a great ſin t? thou haſt done deeds unto me that ought not to be done.

* Chap. 26. 10.

s How great a danger haſt thou expoſed us to? t Even the Heathens who thought Fornication harmleſs, judge Adultery to be a very great and hainous crime. See Gen. 38. 24. Levit. 20. 10. Deut. 22. 22. Ezek. 16. 38. and 23. 45, 47. Or A great puniſhment, as this word is oft uſed; which ſeems better to anſwer to his offending Abraham now mentioned.

10 And Abimelech ſaid unto Abraham, What ſaweſt thou that thou haſt done this thing t?

t What levity or miſcarriage didſt thou diſcern in us which moved thee to deal thus with us?

11 And Abraham ſaid, becauſe I thought, ſurely the fear of God u is not in this place: and they will ſlay me for my wifes ſake.

u (i. e.) True piety or the knowledge of the true God, which is the onely effectual reſtraint from the groſſeſt wickedneſs.

12 And yet indeed ſhe is my ſiſter x: ſhe is the daughter y of my father, but not the daughter of my mother z, and ſhe became my wife a.

x My near Kinſwoman; even as Lot upon the ſame account is called Abrahams Brother, Gen. 13. 8. y (i. e.) The Grand-daughter: For Grand-children are commonly called the Sons and Daughters of their Grand-parents, as Gen. 31. 28. Exod. 2. 18. And beſides, her Father Haran dying before her Grandfather, ſhe was left more immediately under his Care and Education, and therefore was more peculiarly reputed Terahs Daughter and Abrahams Siſter. See Gen. 11. 29. z Becauſe Haran was Abrahams Brother onely by the Fathers ſide, Terah who had Haran by another wife. a How could Abraham marry one ſo near of kin to him? Anſw. There were larger allowances for Marriages in thoſe times, as it was convenient there ſhould be: Neither had God as yet given thoſe prohibitions, Levit. 18. Beſides among all Nations the Mothers ſide was more regarded than the Fathers in all prohibitions of Marriage.

13 And it came to paſs, when God cauſed me to wander b from my fathers houſe, that I ſaid unto her, This is thy kindneſs which thou ſhalt ſhew unto me: at every place whither we ſhall come, * ſay of me, He is my brother.

*Chap. 12. 13.

b This word he uſeth, becauſe God did not direct him to any certain place, but ſent him out he knew not whither, Heb. 11. 18. And being to travel and ſojourn amongſt perſons of divers tempers and manners, and all Pagans, he thought this equivocal expreſſion convenient for his ſecurity.

14 And Abimelech took ſheep and oxen, and men-ſervants, and women-ſervants, and gave them unto Abraham, and reſtored him Sarah his wife.

15 And Abimelech ſaid, Behold my land is before thee c, dwell † where it pleaſeth thee.

c (i. e.) Free for thy view and choice, as Gen. 13. 9.

16 And unto Sarah he ſaid, Behold, I have given thy brother d a thouſand pieces of ſilver e: behold, he is to thee a covering of the eyes f unto all that are with thee g, and with all other h: thus ſhe was reproved.

d A ſharp rebuke and irony, q. d. He whom thou didſt miſcal thy Brother. e To wit, ſhekels, which is commonly underſtood, when a ſumme of Silver or Gold is indefinitely mentioned, as Numb. 7. 13. 85. 2 Sam. 18. 12. 2 King. 6. 25. f (i. e.) A protection to thee from the wanton eyes and attempts of others, whilſt they know thee to be the wife of another man, and he ſuch an one whom they reverence and fear, and therefore thou didſt take a very wrong courſe to diſown him, whereby thou didſt expoſe thy ſelf to great danger. Or, This is to thee, &c. i. e. This I give to thee to buy thee a veil wherewith thou mayſt cover thy face, as it is fit and uſual for marriage perſons to do. Compare Gen. 24. 65. 1 Cor. 11. 3, 6, 7, 10. g Unto all that here live with thee or near thee: And with all men whomſoever. i Or, admoniſhed, to be more circumſpect for the future. Or, and be thou admoniſhed: For they may be the words of Abimelech.

17 So Abraham prayed unto God: and God healed Abimelech, and his wife, and his maid-ſervants, and they bare children.

18 For the LORD had faſt cloſed up all the wombs k of the houſe of Abimelech, becauſe of Sarah Abrahams wife.

k This phraſe elſewhere notes barrenneſs, as 1 Sam. 1. 5, 6. and ſo many underſtand it here. Againſt which ſome learned men object, that that could not ſo ſoon be diſcovered, for all this happened between the Conception and birth of Iſaac. Which objection may ſeem not valid, becauſe the evidences of Womens being with Child go ſo long before the birth of the Child, and thoſe evidences not appearing in any of their Women, who before that time were generally fruitful and child-bearing, they might diſcern Gods hand in it, eſpecially upon Gods admonition to their King. But becauſe this hiſtory ſeems to have been done in a far leſs ſpace of time, it not being probable either that God would ſuffer Sarah to be long with Abimelech e're he warned him, or that he being warned and ſo ſeverely threatned and actually puniſhed would delay the execution of Gods command, or that upon his obedience to God, the mercy and deliverance promiſed would be delayed layed by God. That ſeems more probable which others think, that this was an indiſpoſition or plague or ſore in the ſecret parts, by which they were hindred from cohabitation, and mutual converſe, and conſequently, from hopes of conception and Child-bearing, upon the removal whereof it is ſaid that they bare Children, where, as oft-times in Scripture, the laſt and conſummating act is put for all the proceeding acts, q. d. And they were reſtored to the Conjugal uſe, and Conception, and, in due time, to Child-bearing.

CHAP. XXI.

1 AND the LORD viſited Sarah a, as he had ſaid, and the LORD did unto Sarah * as he had ſpoken.

*Chap. 17.19. and 18.10.

a (i.e.) Performed his gracious promiſe of giving her ſtrength to conceive and Bear a Child. Gods viſitation of a perſon in Scripture uſe is the manifeſtation and execution of his purpoſe or word towards that perſon, and that either for evil, and ſo it is an inflicting of evils threatned, as the word viſiting is uſed Exod. 20. 5. Pſal. 59. 5. or for good, and ſo it is uſed for the actual giving of mercies promiſed, as here and Gen. 50. 24. Exod. 4. 31. Ruth 1. 6.

*Acts 7.8. Gal. 4.22. Heb. 11. 11. 2 For Sarah * conceived, and bare Abraham a ſon in his old age b, at the ſet time, of which God had ſpoken to him.

b Or, For his old age, i.e. for the comfort of his old age.

3 And Abraham called the name of his Son, that was born unto him, whom Sarah bare to him, * Iſaac.

* Chap. 17.19.

4 And Abraham circumciſed his ſon Iſaac being eight days old, * as God had commanded him.

*Chap. 17.12.

5 And * Abraham was an hundred years old, when his ſon Iſaac was born unto him.

*Chap. 17.17.

6 And Sarah ſaid, God hath made me to laugh c, ſo that all that hear will laugh with me d.

c (i.e.) Before my own diſtruſtful Heart made me to laugh, now God makes me laugh, not through diffidence, and irreverence, as before, chap. 18. 12. but through exceſs of holy joy. d Or, At me, ſome through ſympathy rejoycing with me and for me, laughter being oft put for joy, as Iſa. 54. 1. Gal. 4. 27. &c. others through ſcorn and deriſion, as at a thing which well may ſeem incredible to them, becauſe it did ſo to me. See Gen. 17. 17. and 18. 12, 13, 15.

7 And ſhe ſaid, who would have ſaid e unto Abraham, that Sarah ſhould have given children f ſuck g? for I have born him a Son in his old age.

e (i.e.) What Man or Woman could believe ſo improbable a thing? Or, who but a God could have foreſeen and foretold it? f She ſaith Children, though ſhe had but one Child, either by an uſual Enallage of the plural number for the ſingular whereby the word Sons or Daughters is uſed when there was but one, as Gen. 36. 25. and 46. 23. Numb. 26. 8. or preſaging that having received from God a new ſtrength, ſhe might have more Children. g By which expreſſion ſhe ſheweth all Mothers what their duty is, viz. to give their Children ſuck when they are able to do it, and that neither greatneſs of quality, nor multitude of buſineſs, nor other difficulties and inconveniences, will be a ſufficient excuſe to thoſe that neglect it.

8 And the child grew, and was weaned h: and Abraham made a great feaſt the ſame day that Iſaac was weaned.

h It doth not appear how old Iſaac was, becauſe the time for the weaning of Children is very various according to the differing tempers and neceſſities of Children; or inclination of Parents; and in thoſe times when mens lives were longer than now they are, proportionably the time was longer e're Children were weaned.

9 And Sarah ſaw the ſon of Hagar the Egyptian, which ſhe had born unto Abraham, mocking i:

i Signifying either by words or geſtures his contempt of Iſaac, and his deriſion of all that magnificence then ſhewed towards his younger Brother: and this carriage proceeding from a moſt envious and malicious diſpoſition, and being a ſufficient indication of further miſchief intended to him, if ever he ſhould have opportunity, it is no wonder it is called perſecution, Gal. 4. 29. Although the Hebrew word may be rendred beating him, as it is uſed.

*Gal. 4. 30. 10 Wherefore ſhe ſaid unto Abraham k, * caſt out this bond-woman l and her ſon, for the ſon of this bond-woman ſhall not be heir with my ſon, even with Iſaac.

k Being enraged by this fact, and perceiving it was but a beginning and earneſt of greater evil deſigned by him againſt her beloved Iſaac; being alſo guided by the wiſe counſel and providence of God, as appears from ver. 12. l Though the fact was done by Iſmael, yet Sarah plainly ſaw, that this and other like carriages were from his Mothers inſtigation and encouragement, who being of an imperious and petulant diſpoſition, as appears from Gen. 16. 4, 9. in all probability comforted her ſelf and animated her Son, by that right he had to his Fathers inheritance as he was his firſt-born, as may be gathered both from the cuſtom of Women in ſuch caſes, and from the laſt words of this verſe. Beſides if the Mother had been continued, ſhe would eaſily have prevailed with Abraham to fetch the Child back again.

11 And the thing was very grievous in Abrahams ſight m, becauſe of his ſon n.

m Becauſe of his tender affection to him, and Gods promiſe concerning him: See Gen. 17. 18, 20. He, who chearfully parted with Iſaac was hardly brought to part with Iſmael, becauſe the former was done by Gods command which he was obliged to obey; the latter by the paſſion of an enraged Woman wherewith he thought not fit to comply; and probably he had denied her deſire, if God had not interpoſed in it. n He doth not ſay becauſe of his wife; from whence may be gathered either that Hagar was not properly his Wife; or that this was another of Abrahams infirmities, that he had not that affection for her which he ſhould have had. Whereby we may alſo ſee the excellency of Gods inſtitutions, who appointed but one Woman for one man, that each might have the intire intereſt in the others affections; and the danger of mens inventions, which brought Polygamy into the World, whereby a mans affections are divided into ſeveral, and ſometimes contrary ſtreams.

12 And God ſaid unto Abraham, Let it not be grievous in thy ſight, becauſe of the lad, and becauſe of thy bond-woman o: in all that Sarah hath ſaid unto thee hearken unto her voice: for in * Iſaac ſhall thy ſeed p be called q.

* Rom. 9. 7. Heb. 11. 18.

o Thus Abraham had better authority for his divorce from Hagar than he had for his Marriage with her, Chap. 16. 2. p To wit, the promiſed ſeed, the Heir of thy Eſtate, Covenant and Promiſes, the progenitour of my Church and People, and particularly of the Meſſias. q. (i.e) Reputed and valued both by me and other men. The words may be thus rendred, by Iſaac ſhall thy ſeed be: For to be called is oft times put for to be as Iſa. 1. 26. and 47. 1, 5. Matth. 5. 9, 19.

13 And alſo of the ſon of the bond-woman, will I make a * nation, becauſe he is thy ſeed.

*Chap. 17.

14 And Abraham roſe up early in the morning r, and took bread s, and a bottle of water, and gave it unto Hagar (putting it on her ſhoulder) and the child, and ſent her away t: and ſhe departed, and wandred in the wilderneſs of Beerſheba u.

r He who before doubted and lingred to do it when Sarahs paſſion ſuggeſted it, when once he underſtands it to be Gods will, he makes haſte to execute it. An excellent example of prudence and piety. s By which may be here underſtood all neceſſaries, as Mal. 1. 7, 12. Matth. 6. 11. and 14. 15. compared with Mark 6. 36. Luke 14. 1. t Queſt. How is it likely that ſo rich and liberal a perſon as Abraham would ſend away ſuch near and dear Relations with ſo mean accommodations? Anſw. 1. This might be done by particular command from God to Abraham, though it be not here expreſſed, as many things were ſaid by God and done by men, which are not mentioned in Scripture, as is evident from John 20. 30, 31. and 21. 25. and many other places. And God might order it thus, partly to chaſtiſe Abrahams irregular Marriage with Hagar; partly to correct and tame the haughty and rugged temper of the Bond-woman and her Son; and to prepare them for the receiving of Gods help and mercy; and partly that he might more eminently ſhew his care and kindneſs for Abraham, in providing for ſuch forlorn and neglected Creatures becauſe they belonged to him. 2. It cannot be reaſonably doubted, that Abraham gave her theſe Proviſions onely for the preſent, and intended to ſend further and better afterward to a place appointed by him, which alſo he did. But ſhe miſſed her way, as well ſhe might, in the Wilderneſs, and thereby came into theſe ſtraits deſigned by God for the ſignification of greater Myſteries, as may be gathered from Gal. 4. u A place near Gerar, ſo called here by a Prolepſis. See ver. 31.

15 And the water was ſpent in the bottle, and ſhe caſt the child x under one of the ſhrubs.

x Not as if ſhe carried him in her arms or upon her ſhoulders, for he was now about eighteen year old, but being weak and faint and no doubt much dejected in ſpirit upon the proſpect of his deſolate and diſtreſſed condition, ſhe was forced to ſupport and lead him by the hand, but now, deſpairing of his life, ſhe lays him down under a ſhrub.

16 And ſhe went, and ſat her down over againſt him, him, a good way off, as it were a bow-shot: for she said, let me not see the death of the child. And she sat over against him, and lift up her voice and wept y.

y Who wept? Either Hagar, for the verb is of the feminine gender; or the Lad, as the words following seem to intimate. And for the change of Genders, that is not infrequent in Scripture use.

17 And God heard the voice of the lad z, and the angel of God called to Hagar out of heaven, and said unto her, what aileth thee, Hagar? fear not: for God hath heard the voice of the lad where he is a.

z He heard his cries tho' not flowing from true Repentance, but extorted from him by his pressing calamity. a Though he be in a vast and desolate Wilderness, yet my eye is upon him, and I will take care of him.

18 Arise, lift up the lad, and hold him in thine hand: for I will make of him a great nation.

b (i. e.) Support or sustain thy languishing child with thy hand; for I will bless him and thy care shall not be in vain.

19 And God opened her eyes c, and she saw a well of water, and she went, and filled the bottle with water, and gave the lad drink.

c Not that her eyes were shut or blind before, but she saw not the Well before; either because it was at some distance, or because her eyes were full of tears, and her mind distracted and heedless through excessive grief and fear; or because God with-held her eyes that she might not see it without his information. Compare Numb. 22. 31. Luke 24. 16.

20 And God was with the lad, and he grew, and dwelt in the wilderness, and became an Archer d.

d (i. e.) A skilful Hunter of Beasts and Warriour with men too, according to the prediction, Gen. 16. 12. For the bow was a principal instrument in War as well as in Hunting, Gen. 48. 22. & 49. 23, 24. And these two professions oft went together. See Gen. 10. 9.

21 And he dwelt in the wilderness of Paran e: and his mother took him a wife f out of the land of Egypt g.

e In the borders of that Wilderness, by comparing Gen. 14. 6. for the innermost parts of it were uninhabitable by Men or Beasts, as antient Writers note. f By which we see both the obligation that lies upon Parents, and the right that is invested in them, to dispose of their Children in Marriage in convenient time. Compare Gen. 24. 4. and 28. 2. Judge 14. 2. g Rather than out of Canaan, concerning whose accursed state and future destruction she had been informed in Abrahams house.

22 And it came to pass at that time, that Abimelech h, and Phicol, the chief captain of his host, spake unto Abraham, saying, God is with thee in all that thou doest i;

h He of whom see Gen. 20. 2. i We plainly see that God blesseth and prospereth thee in all thy undertakings.

23 Now therefore swear unto me here by God, † that thou wilt not deal falsly with me k, nor with my son, nor with my sons son, but according to the kindness that I have done unto thee, thou shalt do unto me, and to the land wherein thou hast sojourned.

† Heb. if thou wilt lie unto

k That thou wilt not do me any hurt or injury: Heb. that thou wilt not lie unto me, i. e. As thou hast formerly professed kindness and friendship to me, give me thy Oath to assure me that thou wilt be true and constant to thy own professions.

24 And Abraham said, I will swear l.

l Quest. How could Abraham lawfully swear this, when Canaan was given by God to him and his seed for ever? Ans. Neither Abraham nor his seed had any present or actual right to the possession of the Land, but onely the promise of a right in it, and possession of it after some hundreds of years, and therefore he gave away none of his right by this Oath. For this Oath did only oblige Abraham and not his Posterity, and Abimelech extended that obligation no further than to his Sons Son.

25 And Abraham reproved Abimelech m, because of a well of water n which Abimelechs servants had violently taken away.

m That the foundation of true Friendship might be firmly laid, and the peace inviolably observed, he removes an impediment to it, an occasion of quarrel and just exception on Abrahams part. n Which in those hot and dry Countries was of great esteem and necessity. Compare Gen. 26. 19, 20, 21. Judge 1. 15. Besides a Well may be put for Wells, as the Greeks render it, and as may seem probable by comparing this with Gen. 26. 15, 18. It being an ordinary thing to use the singular number for the plural, as hath been shewed. See Gen. 3. 2. and 4. 20.

26 And Abimelech said, I wot not who hath done this thing: neither didst thou tell me, neither yet heard I of it, but to day o.

o By which he wisely and truly suggests, that Abraham should not have smothered the grudge in his mind so long time, but should instantly have reproved him for it, and endeavoured a speedy redress, which hereby he intimates that he was ready to give.

27 And Abraham took sheep and oxen, and gave them unto Abimelech p: and both of them made a covenant.

p Partly as an acknowledgement to him for his former favour and Friendship; partly as an assurance of his sincere Friendship both present and for the future, of his acquiescence in his answer about the Well; and partly for Sacrifice, and for the usual Rite in making Covenants, which was that the persons Covenanting might pass through the parts of the slain Beasts. See Gen. 15. 18.

28 And Abraham set seven ew-lambs of the flock by themselves.

29 And Abimelech said unto Abraham, what mean these seven ew-lambs, which thou hast set by themselves?

30 And he said, For these seven ew-lambs, shalt thou take of my hand, that they may be a witness unto me, that I have digged this well q.

q That this care of Abrahams was not superfluous may appear from Gen. 26. 15.

31 Wherefore he called that place ‖ Beer-sheba r, because there they sware both of them.

r Which name was communicated unto a City adjoyning: Of which see Gen. 26. 23. Jos. 15. 28. 2 Sam. 17. 11. and 24. 2.

32 Thus they made a covenant at Beer-sheba: then Abimelech rose up, and Phicol the chief captain of his host, and they returned into the land of the Philistines s.

s (i. e.) Into their part of that Land to wit Gerar, which was not far from this place It is an usual senechdoche, whereby the whole Land is put for a part of it: Otherwise they were at this time in that Land.

33 And Abraham planted a ‖ Grove t in Beer-sheba, and called there on the Name of the LORD u, the everlasting God.

t Not so much for shade, which yet was pleasant and necessary in these hot Regions, as for religious use, that he might retire thither from the noise of worldly business, and freely converse with his maker. Which practice of his was afterwards abused to superstition and Idolatry, for which reason Groves were commanded to be cut down. See Deut. 12. 2. and 16. 21. u Thankfully acknowledging Gods great goodness in giving him the favour and friendship of so great and worthy a Prince and Neighbour.

34 And Abraham sojourned in the Philistins land many days.

CHAP. XXII.

1 AND it came to pass after these things a, that * God did tempt b Abraham, and said unto him, Abraham: And he said, † Behold, here I am c.

* Heb. 11. 17.

a After the accomplishment of Gods promises made to Abraham, and especially of that promise concerning the blessed seed; when now he seemed to be in a most prosperous and secure condition, he meets with a severe exercise from God. b The word Tempt is ambiguous, and signifies either 1. to intice to sin, in which sense Devils and wicked men are said to tempt others, but God tempts no man, Jam. 1. 13. Or 2. To prove or try; and in this sense God is said to tempt men. See Deut. 8. 2. and 13. 3. Judge 2. 22. Thus God tempted Abraham, (i. e.) he tryed the sincerity and strength of his Faith, the universality and constancy of his obedience, and this for Gods great honour and Abrahams great glory and comfort, and for the Churches benefit in all following ages. c An expression signifying a mans attentive hearing what is ſaid to him, and his readineſs to execute it, as v. 7. 11. and Gen. 27. 1. and 1 Sam. 3. 4, 6.

2 And he ſaid, Take now thy ſon, thine onely ſon Iſaac, whom thou loveſt d, and get thee into the land of Moriah e: and offer him there for a burnt-offering upon one of the mountains f which I will tell thee of g.

d Not a word here but might pierce an heart of ſtone, much more ſo tender a Father as Abraham was. Take now without demurring or delay, I allow thee no time for conſideration; thy own proper Son, not a Beaſt, not an Enemy, a Stranger, though that had been very difficult to one ſo kind to all Strangers, not a dear Servant, not a Friend or Familiar; thine onely Son, not by birth for ſo he had another Iſhmael, but this was his onely Son by Sarah his firſt and legitimate Wife, who onely had the right of ſucceſſion both to his Inheritance and to his Covenant and Promiſes, and this only was now left to him, for Iſhmael was abandoned and gone from him, and this muſt be ſuch a ſon as Iſaac, once matter of laughter and great joy, now cauſe of unexpreſſible ſorrow, thy Benoni, a Son of the Promiſe, of ſo great hopes, and ſuch pregnant Vertue and Piety as this ſtory ſhews, whom thou loveſt, peculiarly and ſuperlatively, even as thy own Soul; and get thee into the Land of Moriah. a place at a great diſtance, and to which thou ſhalt go but leiſurely, ver. 4. that thou mayſt have thy mind all that while fixed upon that bloody act, which other mens minds can ſcarce once think of without horrour, and ſo thou mayſt offer him in a ſort ten thouſand times over before thou giveſt the fatal blow: and offer him there with thine own hands, and cruelly take away the Life which thou haſt in ſome ſort given him: For a burnt-offering, wherein by the Law of the burnt-offering then known to Abraham, afterwards publiſhed to all Iſrael, his Throat was to be cut, his body diſſected into quarters, his bowels taken out, as if he had been ſome notorious Traitor and vile Malefactor and Miſcreant, and afterwards he was to be burnt to Aſhes, that if poſſible there might be nothing left of him: And this muſt be done upon one of the mountains, which I ſhall tell thee of, not ſecretly in a corner, as if it were a work of darkneſs and thou wert aſhamed or afraid to own it, but in a publick and open place, in the view of Heaven, Earth, God, Angels, and Men. Which horrid and ſtupendious act it may be eaſily conjectured what reproach and blaſphemy it would have occaſioned againſt the Name and Worſhip of God and the true Religion, and what ſhame and torment to Abraham, from his own ſelf-accuſing mind, from the clamours of his Wife and all his Friends and Allies, and what a dangerous and miſchievous example this would have been to all future Generations. That Faith that could ſurmount theſe and many more difficulties, and could readily and chearfully reſt upon God in the diſcharge of ſuch a duty, no wonder it is ſo honoured by God and celebrated by all men, yea even by the Heathens, who have tranſlated this hiſtory into their Fables. e Which ſignifies the viſion of God, the place where God would be ſeen and manifeſted: And ſo it is here called by way of anticipation, becauſe it was ſo called afterwards, ver. 14. in regard of Gods eminent appearance there for Iſaacs deliverance; though it may alſo have a further reſpect unto Chriſt, becauſe in that place God was manifeſted in the Fleſh. f For there were divers Mountains there, as is evident from Pſal. 125. 2. and particularly there were two eminent Hills, or rather tops and parts of the ſame Mountain, Sion, where Davids Palace was, and Moriah, where the Temple was built, and whence the adjoyning Country afterwards received its name. g By ſome viſible ſign or ſecret admonition which I ſhall give thee.

3 And Abraham roſe up early in the morning h, and ſadled his aſs i, and took two of his young men with him, and Iſaac his ſon, and clave the wood for the burnt-offering, and roſe up and went unto the place of which God had told him.

h That he might execute Gods command, without doubt or delay. i For greater expedition, not waiting for his ſervant to do it.

4 Then on the third day ‖ Abraham lift up his eyes, and ſaw the place afar off.

‖ Probably on the beginning of the third day. It is true, Moriah was not three days journey from Beer-ſheba. But it muſt be conſidered that the aſs upon which he rid, is a dull and ſlow Creature, and that Abraham went no faſter than the reſt of his Company, who, for ought appears, were on foot; and that the proviſions which they carried along with them, both for their own and the aſſes ſubſiſtence and for ſacrifice muſt needs retard them.

5 And Abraham ſaid unto his young men, abide ye here with the aſs k, and I and the lad will go yonder and worſhip, and come again to you.

k Leſt they ſhould hinder him in the execution of his deſign. l For he knew that God both could and would for his promiſe ſake, either preſerve Iſaac from being ſacrificed, or afterwards raiſe him from the dead, as it is intimated Heb. 11. 19.

6 And Abraham took the wood of the burnt-offering, and laid it upon Iſaac his ſon m, and he took the fire in his hand, and a knife; and they went both of them together.

m Who though called a lad, ver. 5. was now a grown man, at leaſt five and twenty years old, and therefore well able to bear that burden, and in this act he was an eminent Type of Chriſt, who carried that wood upon which he was Crucifyed.

7 And Iſaac ſpake unto Abraham his father, and ſaid, my father n: and he ſaid, † Here am I, my ſon o. And he ſaid, Behold, the fire and the wood, but where is the lamb for a burnt-offering.

n A compellation which might both wound Abrahams Heart and admoniſh him how unbecoming to a Father that action was which he was going about. o Which expreſſion ſhewed that he had not put off Fatherly affection to him, and that his intention did not ariſe from any unnatural and barbarous diſpoſition, nor from any decay of Love to him, but from an higher cauſe, even the declared Will of God.

8 And Abraham ſaid, My ſon, God will provide himſelf a lamb p for a burnt-offering; ſo they went both of them together.

p Either 1. Literally, though I know not how; for his Wiſdom and Power are infinite: Or 2. Myſtically, as Chriſt, whoſe Type Iſaac was, is called a Lamb. Thus Abraham prudently reveals the matter to him by degrees, not all at once.

9 And they came to the place which God had told him of, and Abraham built an altar there q, and laid the wood in order, and bound Iſaac his ſon r, and * laid him on the altar upon the wood.

* James 2. 21.

q Made of Earth ſlightly put together, as God afterwards preſcribed, Exod. 20. 24. r Partly becauſe Burnt-offerings were to be bound to the Altar; of which ſee on Pſal. 118. 27. Partly to repreſent Chriſt who was bound to the croſs. And that Iſaac might be the more exact Type of Chriſt he was bound by his own conſent, otherwiſe his age and ſtrength ſeem ſufficient to have made an effectual reſiſtance. It is therefore highly reaſonable to think that Abraham, having in the whole Journey prepared Iſaac for ſuch a work by general but pertinent diſcourſes did upon the mount particularly inſtruct him concerning the plain and peremptory command of God; the abſolute neceſſity of complying with it; the glorious reward of his obedience; and the diſmal conſequences of his diſobedience; the power and faithfulneſs of God either to prevent the fatal blow, or to reſtore his life loſt with infinite advantage. Upon theſe and ſuch like reaſons, doubtleſs he readily laid himſelf down at his Fathers feet, and yielded up himſelf to the Divine Will.

10 And Abraham ſtretched forth his hand, and took the knife to ſlay his ſon.

11 And the angel of the LORD s, called unto him out of heaven, and ſaid, Abraham, Abraham t. And he ſaid, Behold, here am I.

s (i. e.) Chriſt the Angel of the Covenant, as appears from ver. 12. 16. t He repeats his name to prevent Abraham, whom he knew to be moſt expeditious in Gods ſervice, and juſt ready to give the deadly blow.

12 And he ſaid, lay not thine hand upon the lad, neither do thou any thing unto him; for now I know u that thou feareſt God, ſeeing thou haſt not with-held thy ſon, thine only ſon from me x.

u God knew the ſincerity and reſolvedneſs of Abrahams faith and obedience before and without this evidence, and from eternity foreſaw this fact and all its circumſtances; and therefore you muſt not think that God had now made any new diſcovery. But this is ſpoken here, as in many other places of God after the manner of men, who is then ſaid to know a thing, when it is notorious and evident to a mans ſelf and others by ſome remarkable effect. Thus David prayeth that God would ſearch and know his Heart, and his thoughts, Pſal. 139. 23. Though he had before profeſſed that God underſtood his thought afar off, ver. 2. This therefore is the ſenſe, Now I know, i. e. Now I have what I deſigned and deſired, now I have made thee and others to know. As the Spirit of God and of Chriſt is ſaid to cry Abba Father. Gal. 4. 6. when it makes us to cry ſo, Rom. 8. 15. x From my ſervice and Sacrifice: Or for me. i. e. for my ſake. i. e. thou haſt preferred mine Authority and Honour before the Life of thy dear Son. By which word it appears that God himſelf ſpeaks theſe words.

13 And Abraham liſted up his eyes and looked, and behold, behind him ‖ a ram y caught in a thicket by his horns: And Abraham went, and took took the ram, and offered him up for a burnt-offering in the ſtead of his ſon.

‖ Which way he looked either becauſe the voice came that way: Or becauſe he heard the noiſe made by the motion of the Ram in the thicket. y Which had gone aſtray from the reſt of the Flock, and whoſe errours were directed hither by Gods wiſe and powerful Providence, and being young, though horned, it might be called either Lamb, as v. 7. or Ram, as it is here. There needs no curious enquiry, how he could offer up that to God which was not his own, both becauſe it was found in a publick place, and in all probability utterly loſt to his owner, and becauſe he had no doubt a warrant and inſpiration for it from the great Lord and ſupreme owner of all things.

14 And Abraham called the name of that place ‖ Jehovah-jireh z, as it is ſaid to this day, a, in the mount b of the LORD it ſhall be ſeen c.

‖ That is, the Lord will ſee or provide.

z The ſame Hebrew Letters differently pointed make the ſenſe either active, the Lord will ſee, i. e. provide or take care of thoſe that commit themſelves and their affairs to him; or paſſive, the Lord will be ſeen, i. e. will appear and ſhew himſelf in the behalf of all thoſe that love him. a Wherein Moſes wrote this Book; this is ſtill uſed as a Proverb. b (i. e.) in greateſt extremities and diſtreſſes, as we ſay, at the pits brink. c Or, the Lord ſhall be ſeen or manifeſted. And although theſe words are uſed by way of remembrance of this great deliverance and by way of accommodation, to ſuch like eminent preſervations from great dangers; yet they may have a further reſpect, and may ſignifie, that this was but an earneſt of further and greater bleſſings to be expected in this place, where the Temple was built, & the Lord Chriſt was manifeſted in the Fleſh.

15 And the angel of the LORD called unto Abraham out of heaven the ſecond time,

16 And ſaid, * By my ſelf have I ſworn d, ſaith the LORD, for becauſe thou haſt done this thing e, and haſt not with-held thy ſon, thine only ſon;

* Pſal. 105. 9. Luke 1. 73. Heb. 6. 13.

d So the Lord ſwears by his name, Jer. 44. 26. By his ſoul, in the Hebrew text, Jer. 51. 14. By his Holineſs, Amos 4. 2. Which is the ſame with by himſelf, here. Hence alſo it appears that the Angel who ſpeaks here is Chriſt and God, becauſe this is Gods prerogative to ſwear by himſelf, as appears from Heb. 6. 13. e Not that Abraham by this act did properly merit or purchaſe the following promiſes, as plainly appears becauſe the ſame things for ſubſtance had been freely promied to Abraham long before this time and action, Gen. 12. 2. and 13. 16. onely what before was promiſed is now confirmed by an Oath as a Teſtimony of that ſingular reſpect which God had to Abraham and to this heroical inſtance of Faith and Obedience.

17 That in bleſſing, I will bleſs thee, and in multiplying I will multiply thy ſeed, as the ſtars of the heaven, and as the ſand which is upon the ſea † ſhore, and thy ſeed ſhall poſſeſs the gate f of his enemies:

f (i. e.) The City, by an uſual Synecdoche, as Deut. 12. 15 and 18. 6. all the Cities and conſequently the Country adjacent: gate for gates. The ſenſe is, they ſhall ſubdue their Enemies. For the gates of Cities were the places both of juriſdiction or judicature, Deut. 21. 19. and 22. 15. Amos 5. 12, 15. Zech. 8. 16. and of fortification and chief ſtrength in War, Judge 5. 8. Pſal. 147. 13. Iſa. 22. 7. Ezek. 21. 22. And this promiſe was fulfilled both literally in Iſraels conqueſt of Canaan, in David, Solomon, &c. and ſpiritually in Chriſt, Pſal. 110. 1, 2, 3.

18 * And in thy ſeed ſhall all the nations of the Earth be bleſſed, becauſe thou haſt obeyed my voice.

* Chap. 12. 3. and 18. 18. Acts 3. 25. Gal. 3. 8.

19 So Abraham returned unto his young men, and they roſe up, and went together to Beer-ſheba: and Abraham dwelt at Beer-ſheba.

20 And it came to paſs after theſe things, that it was told Abraham, ſaying, Behold * Milcah ſhe hath alſo born children unto thy Brother Nahor g.

* Chap. 11. 29.

g This narration and Genealogy is added for Rebekahs ſake, and to make way for the following relation.

21 Huz his firſt born, and Buz h his Brother, and Kemuel the father of Aram i.

h From whom deſcended, as ſome conceive, Elihu the Buzite, Job. 32. 2. i So called poſſibly becauſe he dwelt amongſt the Syrians, as Jacob for the ſame reaſon was called a Syrian, Deut. 26. 5. But there was another more antient Aram, from whom the Syrians deſcended, Gen. 10. 22.

22 And Cheſed, and Hazo, and Pildaſh, and Jidlaph, and Bethuel.

23 And Bethuel begat * Rebekah k: theſe eight Milcah did bear to Nahor Abrahams brother.

k Afterwards Iſaac's Wife, Chap. 24.

24 And his concubine l, whoſe name was Reumah, ſhe bare alſo Tebah, and Gaham, and Thahaſh, and Maachah m.

l Which was an inferiour kind of Wife taken according to the common practiſe of thoſe times, ſubject to the Authority of the principal Wife, and whoſe Children had no right of inheritance, but were endowed with gifts. See Gen. 21. 14. and 25. 6. m A name common both to Man, as 2 Sam. 10. 6. and Woman, as 1 King. 15. 13.

CHAP. XXIII.

1 AND Sarah was an hundred and ſeven and twenty years old: theſe were the years of the life of Sarah a.

a This is the peculiar honour of Sarah the Mother of the faithful, 1 Pet. 3. 6. to have the years of her life numbred in Scripture.

2 And Sarah died in Kirjath-arba b, the ſame is Hebron c in the land of Canaan: and Abraham came ‖ to mourn for Sarah, and to weep for her d.

b Or, The City of Arba, ſo called probably from a giant or great man called Arba, who lived and ruled in thoſe parts. See Joſ. 14. 15. and 15. 13. c It is objected againſt this Scripture that this City was not called Hebron till Joſhua's time, Joſ. 14. 15. but this is a miſtake, Joſhua doth not ſay ſo, but onely that the name of Hebron before (or in old time,) as this very particle is rendred, Deut. 2. 20. and elſewhere. So the ſenſe is, The moſt ancient name of it was Kirjath-arba. Nor doth Joſhua there give any account or reaſon of this change of the name at that time or upon that occaſion, as the ſacred Writers uſe to do in ſuch caſes, but rather ſuppoſeth that Hebron was the name of it before he came thither, and how long before that time he doth not expreſs. ‖ Into Sarah's Tent. See Gen. 18. 6, 9. d According to the laudable cuſtom of all ages and nations to manifeſt their ſenſe of Gods hand upon them and of their own loſs. See Gen. 50. 3. Deut. 34. 8. &c.

3 And Abraham ſtood up from before his dead e, and ſpake unto the ſons of Heth, ſaying, e To ſhew his moderation in ſorrow, and to take care for her burial according to his duty.

4 I am a ſtranger, and a ſojourner with you: give me a poſſeſſion of a burying-place f with you g, that I may bury my dead out of my ſight h.

f The priviledge of burial hath been always ſought and priz'd, by all Nations, whom nature and humanity teacheth to preſerve the bodies of men, which have been the Temples of reaſonable and immortal ſouls from contempt and violation, ſo eſpecially by Chriſtians, as a Teſtimony and Pledge of their future Reſurrection, See Numb. 33. 4. Deut. 21. 23. Job 5. 26. For which cauſe Abraham deſires a diſtinct burying-place ſeparated from the Pagan people. g In Canaan. There he and after him other Patriarchs earneſtly deſired to be buried, upon this account, that it might confirm their own and their Childrens Faith in Gods Promiſe, and animate their Children in due time to take poſſeſſion of the Land. See Gen. 25. 9. and 47. 29, 30. and 50 13, 25. Exod. 13. 19. Heb. 11. 22. h So ſhe that before was the deſire of his eyes, Ezek. 24. 16. is now, being dead become their torment.

5 And the children of Heth anſwered Abraham, ſaying unto him.

6 Hear us my LORD i, thou art † a mighty prince k amongſt us, in the choice of our ſepulchres l bury thy dead: none of us ſhall with-hold from thee his ſepulchre, but that thou mayeſt bury thy dead.

i Here is a conjunction of the plural and ſigular number, becauſe though but one perſon ſpake, yet he ſpake in the name of the whole community. k Heb. A Prince of God. Great and excellent perſon or things are oft expreſſed by adding the name of God. See Gen. 13. 10. Or, by Prince of God, they underſtand a Prince favoured and beloved of God. l For each Family had a deſtinct Sepulchre.

7 And Abraham ſtood up, and bowed himſelf m to the people of the Land n, even to the children of Heth o.

m (i. e.) Shewed a civil reſpect to them in teſtimony of his thankfulneſs. Religion allows and requires civility and thoſe geſtures which expreſs it. n To the Governours of the people who who managed all publick affairs in the peoples name and ſtead and for their good. o So called from Heth the Son of Canaan, Gen. 10. 15.

8 And he communed with them, ſaying, if it be your mind p that I ſhould bury my dead out of my ſight, hear me, and intreat for me to Ephron the ſon of Zohar.

p Heb. If it be with, i.e. agreable to, your ſoul, that is, your will, or good pleaſure: For ſo the Soul is ſometimes taken, as Deut. 23. 24. Pſal. 27. 12. and 41. 2.

9 That he may give me the cave of ‖ Machpelah q, which he hath, which is in the end of his field: for † as much money as it is worth r, he ſhall give it me, for a poſſeſſion of a burying-place amongſt you.

q Which ſeems to be the proper name of the place, ver. 17, 19. ſo called from its duplicity, becauſe the cave was double, either one for men, and another for Women: Or the one ſerved onely for an entrance into the other, which was the burying place. r Heb. For full money, 1 Chron. 21. 22, 24. i. e. for money of full weight anſwerable to its worth.

10 And Ephron dwelt s amongſt the children of Heth. And Ephron the Hittite anſwered Abraham in the † audience of the children of Heth, even of all that went in at the gates of his City t, ſaying, s Heb. Did ſit, to wit, at that time, as one of the chief or rulers of the People: For ſo the word ſitting is oft uſed, as we ſhall ſee hereafter. t Either where he was born, or at leaſt where he lived.

11 Nay my Lord, hear me: the Field give I thee, and the cave that is therein, I give it thee, in the preſence of the ſons of my people give I it thee: bury thy dead.

12 And Abraham bowed down himſelf before the people of the land.

13 And he ſpake unto Ephron in the audience of the people of the land, ſaying, But if thou wilt give it u, I pray thee, hear me, I will give thee money for the Field x: take it of me, and I will bury my dead there.

u It is a ſhort ſpeech, and ſomething muſt be ſupplyed: Either if thou wilt give or reſign it to me: Or, if thou be the Man of whom I ſpeak: For though Abraham knew his name, he might not know him by face, nor that he was then preſent x He prudently choſe rather to buy it, then to receive it as a gift, partly becauſe it would be the ſurer to him and his, ver. 17. 20. and partly becauſe he would not have too great obligations to his Pagan Neighbours.

14 And Ephron anſwered Abraham, ſaying unto him,

15 My LORD, hearken unto me: the land is * Exod. 30. 15. Ezek. 45. 12. worth four hundred * ſhekels of ſilver y; what is that betwixt me and thee z? bury therefore thy dead.

y He ſpeaks of the common ſhekel, which many value at fifteen pence of Engliſh money, but others more probably at two ſhillings and ſix pence, rightly as I conceive, ſuppoſing that this was of the ſame weight and value with the Shekel of the Sanctuary, which was ſo called not as if that were double to the former, but onely becauſe all ſhekels were to be examined by that ſtandard which was kept in the Sanctuary. z Both Friends and rich men: It is not worth any words or trouble between us.

16 And Abraham hearkned unto Ephron, and Abraham weighed a to Ephron the ſilver which he had named, in the audience of the ſons of Heth, four hundred ſhekels of ſilver, currant money with the merchant b.

a For in thoſe times ſilver was paid by weight, Gen. 43. 21. Jer. 32. 10. b (i.e.) Right for quality as well as weight, in the judgment of Merchants, whoſe frequent dealing in it makes them more able to judge of it.

* chap. 25. 9. and 50. 13.

17 And * the field of Ephron which was in Machpelah, which was before Mamre, the field, and the cave which was therein, and all the trees that were in the field, that were in all the borders round about, were made ſure

18 Unto Abraham for a poſſeſſion in the preſence of the children of Heth, before all that went in at the gates of his City.

19 And after this Abraham buried Sarah his wife in the cave of the field of Machpelah, before Mamre, the ſame is Hebron in the land of Canaan.

20 And the field, and the cave that is therein, were made ſure unto Abraham for a poſſeſſion of a burying-place, by the ſons of Heth.

CHAP. XXIV.

1 AND Abraham was old a, and † well ſtricken in age: and the LORD had bleſſed Abraham in all things:

* chap. 47. 29.

b viz. Eliezer, Gen. 15. 2. c A ceremony uſed in ſwearing as now, ſo antiently in the Eaſtern parts, as Gen. 47. 29. Either as a teſtimony of ſubjection, and promiſe of faithful ſervice, for this rite was uſed onely by inferiours towards ſuperiours; or, as ſome think, with reſpect to the bleſſed ſeed, Chriſt, who was to come out of Abrahams thigh, as the phraſe is Gen. 46. 26. becauſe this rite was uſed onely to Believers.

3 And I will make thee ſwear by the LORD, the God of heaven, and the God of the Earth, that, * thou ſhalt not take a wife unto my ſon d of the daughters of the Canaanite e among whom I dwell.

* chap. 24. 3 and 27. 46. & 28. 2. Exod. 34. 16. Deut. 7. 3.

d (i.e.) Not perſwade nor engage my Son to take; for Iſaac though forty years old, was not onely willing to be governed by his Father in this affair, but alſo to hearken to the counſel of this wiſe and faithful ſervant, of whom both his Father and himſelf had ſuch long and large experience. e For he knew that they were not onely groſs Idolaters and hainous ſinners, for ſo many others were; but that they were a People under Gods peculiar curſe, Gen. 9. 25. and devoted to extirpation and utter deſtruction, which was to be inflicted upon them by Abrahams Poſterity: And therefore to marry his Son to ſuch perſons had been an high degree of ſelf-murder, whereby the holy and bleſſed Seed had been in danger of great infection from them and utter ruine with them. And Abraham's practiſe was afterwards juſtified by God, who hath oft ſhewed his diſlike of ſuch unequal matches of his People with thoſe Infidels and Idolaters by ſevere prohibitions and ſharp cenſures. See Exod. 34. 26. Deut. 7. 3. Joſ. 23. 12. Eſd. 9. 1, 2, 3. Nehem. 13. 23. 25. 2 Cor. 6. 14, 15.

4 But thou ſhalt go unto my Countrey f, and to my kindred g, and take a wife unto my ſon Iſaac.

f (i.e.) Meſopotamia, ver. 10. which being largely taken for the Countrey between thoſe two famous Rivers Euphrates and Tigris, from which ſcituation it hath that name, ſo Chaldæa, whence Abraham came, Gen. 11. 31. and 12. 1. was a part of it. g The Family of Nahor, concerning the increaſe whereof he had received information, Chap. 22. 20. &c. Which he juſtly preferred before the Canaanites, partly becauſe though they were Idolaters, as appears from Gen. 31. 19, 30, 32, 35. and Joſ. 24. 2. yet they did Worſhip the true God together with Idols, as may be gathered from ver. 31, 50. of this chapter, and from other places, and therefore there was more hopes of the converſion of one of that Family; and partly becauſe they lived at a great diſtance from the place where Abraham and his Poſterity did and ſhould live, and therefore one of that ſtock would be more eaſily diſintangled from her Superſtition and Idolatry becauſe ſhe was removed from the influences of the evil counſels and examples of her neareſt relations; and partly becauſe they were of the race of bleſſed Shem, and not of curſed Canaan.

5 And the ſervant ſaid unto him, Peradventure the woman will not be willing to follow me unto this land h; muſt I needs bring thy ſon again unto the land from whence thou cameſt.

h Note here the prudence and piety of this good man, who before he would take an Oath, doth diligently enquire into the nature and conditions of it, and expreſly mentioneth, that exception, which might ſeem to be of courſe ſuppoſed in it.

6 And Abraham ſaid unto him, Beware thou, that thou bring not my ſon thither again i.

i In caſe ſhe will not come hither, do not thou engage that he ſhall go thither. Why ſo? 1. Becauſe there was more danger of infection from his wife and her kindred becauſe of their friendly and familiar and conſtant converſe with him, than from the Canaanites, who were ſtrangers to him, and lived ſeparately from him, and had but little converſation with him.

2. Be-

2. Because the command of God to Abraham to come out of Chaldæa & into Canaan, did extend to his posterity also, whom God would oblige to dwell there as long as they could, that they might live in constant Faith and expectation of the performance of Gods promise in giving this Land unto them. Quest. How could he bring Isaac thither again, where he never was? Answ 1. Isaac might be said to be there before vertually, or in the Loyns of his Father, as Levi is said to pay Tithes to Melchisedeck by Abraham in whose Loyns he was. 2. This again may be referred to the servant, that when he returned again he would not carry Isaac along with them. 3. He might reasonably suppose that Isaac must once go thither to fetch his Wife, (for her coming so suddenly to him was an unexpected thing) but he would not have him promise, that when he had done so once, he should go thither again to live there with her.

* chap. 12. 1. 7 The LORD God of heaven * which took me from my Fathers house, and from the land of my kindred, and which spake unto me, and that sware unto me, saying, * Unto thy seed will I give this land, he shall send his angel before thee *, and thou shalt take a wife unto my son from thence k.

* chap. 12. 7. and 13. 15. and 15. 18. and 26. 4.

* To direct and succeed thee in this enterprize. Compare Exod. 14. 19. and 23. 20. k I doubt not of the success. He might say so, either by rational conjecture both from the nature of the thing, and from the constant course of Gods Providence blessing him in all his concerns; or by particular assurance and inspiration from God.

8 And if the woman will not be willing to follow thee, then thou shalt be clear from this my oath l: onely bring not my son thither again.

l From the obligation of this oath, and from the penalties of the violation of it.

9 And the servant put his hand under the thigh of Abraham his master, and sware to him concerning that matter.

10 And the servant took ten camels of the camels of his master, and departed, (‖ for all the goods of his master were in his hand m) and he arose, and went to Mesopotamia, unto the * City of Nahor ‖.

* chap. 27. 43.

m (i. e.) In his power to take without particular orders what he thought fit and necessary either for his own use, or for the promotion of the present business. ‖ Which was Haran, by comparing Gen. 28. 10. and 29. 4.

11 And he made his camels to kneel down without the city, by a well of water, at the time of the evening, even the time † that women go out to draw water.

† Heb. that women which draw water go forth.

12 And he said, O LORD God of my master Abraham, I pray thee, send me good speed this day, and shew kindness n unto my master Abraham.

n Or, Mercy. He makes no mention of himself, nor of the merit of his master, but he ascribes even temporal blessings, and much more eternal Salvation, meerly to Gods mercy.

* Vers. 43. 13 Behold, * I stand here by the well of water, and * the daughters of the men of the city come out to draw water.

* chap. 29. 9. Exod. 2. 18.

14 And let it come to pass o that the damsel to whom I shall say, let down thy pitcher, I pray thee, that I may drink, and she shall say, drink, and I will give thy camels drink also, let the same be she that thou hast appointed p for thy servant Isaac, and thereby shall I know that thou hast shewed kindness unto my master.

o That this was not a rash and vain fancy, but a special expectation and confidence wrought in him by Gods spirit appears both by the eminent prudence and godliness of this person, and by the exact correspondency of the event with his prayer, and by parallel examples, as Judg. 6. 36. 1 Sam. 6. 7. and 14. 8. p Heb. evidently pointed out: or exactly searched out, as a person meet for him.

15 And it came to pass, before he had done speaking, that behold, Rebekah came out, who was born to Bethuel son of * Milcah, the wife of Nahor, Abrahams brother, with her pitcher upon her shoulder q.

* chap. 11. 29.

q According to the manner of the first and purest ages of the World, wherein humility and diligence, not, as in this degeneration of the World, Pomp and Idleness were the Ornaments of that Sex and Age. See Gen. 18. 6. and 29. 9, 19, 20. Exod. 2. 16. Prov. 31. 27.

16 And the damsel was † very fair to look upon, a virgin, * neither had any man known her r: and she went down to the well, and filled her pitcher, and came up.

† Heb. good of countenance. *Numb. 31. 17

r (i. e.) She was a Virgin not onely in Title and shew, but in Truth, for no man had known her, i. e. corrupted her.

17 And the servant ran to meet her, and said, Let me (I pray thee) drink a little water of thy pitcher.

18 And she said, drink my Lord s; and she hasted, and let down her pitcher upon her hand, and gave him drink.

s For his retinue shewed him to be a person of more than ordinary quality.

19 And when she had done giving him drink, she said, I will draw water for thy camels also, until they have done drinking.

20 And she hasted and emptied her pitcher into the trough, and ran again unto the well to draw water, and drew for all his camels.

21 And the man wondring at her t, held his peace, to wit, that he might know whether the LORD had made his journey prosperous, or not.

t (i. e.) At the wonderful providence of God and the eminent answer of his prayer.

22 And it came to pass, as the camels had done drinking, that the man took u a golden ‖ earring x of half a shekel weight, and two bracelets for her hands, of ten shekels weight of gold.

u (i. e.) Gave to her, as that word of taking or receiving is oft used, as Gen. 12. 19. Exod. 18. 12. and 29. 25. Psal. 68. 18. compared with Eph. 4. 8. x So the word signifies, Gen. 35. 4. Exod. 32. 2, 3. Or jewels for the forehead, which hung down from the forehead to the nose, or between the eyes. So the word is used, ver. 47. Ezek. 16. 12.

23 And said y, whose daughter art thou? tell me, I pray thee: is there room in thy fathers house for us to lodge in?

y Or, For he had said: For it is probably he enquired who she was before he gave her those presents.

24 And she said unto him, I am the daughter of Bethuel, the son of Milcah z, which she bare unto Nahor:

z So she signifies that she was Nahors Daughter not by his Concubine, but by his lawful and principal Wife.

25 She said moreover unto him, we have both straw and provender enough, and room to lodge in.

26 And the man bowed down his head, and worshipped the LORD a.

a Giving thanks unto God for his marvellous assistance hitherto, and begging the continuance of his presence and blessing.

27 And he said, blessed be the LORD God of my Master Abraham; who hath not left destitute my master of his mercy, and his truth b: I being in the way, the LORD led me to the house of my masters brethren c.

b (i. e.) Who hath shewed his mercy in promising all manner of blessings, and his truth in performing his promises at this day. Or it is a figure called Hendyadis, for true mercy, q. d. he hath not onely been kind to him in shew and in words but in real and considerable effects. c (i. e.) Near Kinsmen, as that word is commonly used, as ver. 48. and Gen. 13 8. Mark. 3. 31, 32.

28 And the damsel ran, and told them of her mothers house d all these things.

d Not, of her Fathers house; either because her Father was now dead, and Bethuel, who is hereafter mentioned, was not Labans Father, but his Brother so called: Or because the Women had distinct appartiments in the houses, and she went first thither according to her custom.

29 And Rebekah had a brother, and his name was Laban, and Laban ran out unto the man unto the well.

30 And it came to pass, when he saw the earrings, and bracelets upon his sisters hands, and when he heard the words of Rebekah his sister, saying, Thus spake the man unto me; that he came unto the man, and behold he stood by the camels at the well.

31 And he said, Come in thou blessed of the LORD e, wherefore standest thou without? for I have prepared the house, and room for the camels.

e (i.e.) Whom God had so eminently favoured and blessed.

f Of which custom, see Gen. 18. 4.

33 And there was set meat before him, to eat: but he said, I will not eat until I have told mine errand. And he said, speak on.

34 And he said, I am Abrahams servant.

35 And the LORD hath blessed my master greatly, and he is become great; and he hath given him flocks, and herds, and silver, and gold, and men-servants, and maid-servants, and camels, and asses.

36 And Sarah my masters wife bare a son to my
* Chap. 25. 5. master when she was old, and * unto him hath he given all that he hath g.

g (i.e.) Hath purposed and promised, and doth by me engage that he will give. Things are oft said to be done, in Scripture language, when they will certainly and shortly be done.

37 And my master made me swear, saying, thou shalt not take a wife to my son of the daughters of the Canaanites, in whose land I dwell.

38 But thou shalt go unto my Fathers house, and to my kindred, and take a wife unto my son.

39 And I said unto my master, Peradventure the woman will not follow me.

40 And he said unto me, The LORD, * before
* Chap. 17. 1. whom I walk h, will send his angel with thee, and prosper thy way: and thou shalt take a wife for my son of my kindred, and of my fathers house.

h In Obedience to all his commands, and in hearty trust in his promises and gracious providence towards me and mine.

41 Then shalt thou be clear from this my oath i, when thou comest to my kindred, and if they give not thee one, thou shalt be clear from my oath.

i Heb. from my curse, denounced against thee if thou shouldst violate thine oath. The words oath and curse are oft-times indifferently used, because they commonly go together, and sometimes they are both expressed, as Numb. 5. 21.

42 And I came this day unto the well, and said, O LORD God of my master Abraham, if now thou do prosper my way which I go k.

k (i.e.) The design or course in which I am ingaged; as the word way is frequently used.

* Vers. 13. 43 * Behold, I stand by the well of water, and it shall come to pass, that when the Virgin cometh forth to draw water, and I say to her, Give me, I pray thee, a little water of thy pitcher to drink.

44 And she say to me, Both drink thou, and I will also draw for thy camels: let the same be the woman, whom the LORD hath appointed out for my masters son.

45 And before I had done speaking in my heart, behold, Rebekah came forth with her pitcher on her shoulder, and she went down unto the well, and drew water: And I said unto her, Let me drink, I pray thee.

46 And she made haste, and let down her pitcher from her shoulder; and said, drink, and I will give thy camels drink also: so I drank, and she made the camels drink also.

47 And I asked her l, and said, whose daughter art thou? and she said, the daughter of Bethuel Nahors son, whom Milcah bare unto him: and I put the ear-ring upon her face, and the bracelets upon her hands.

l First he asks who she was, then he gives the gifts to her: Which is the right order, and is here observed in the repetition, which was inverted in the first relation, ver. 22, 23.

48 And I bowed down my head, and worshipped the LORD, and blessed the LORD God of my master Abraham, which had led me in † the right way, to take my masters brothers daughter unto his son.

49 And now if you will deal kindly and truly m with my master, tell me: and if not, tell me, that I may turn to the right hand, or to the left n.

m If you will shew true kindness and real friendship to him in giving your daughter to his son. n (i.e.) That I may look out a wife for him elsewhere. It is a proverbial expression, Numb. 12. 17. and 22. 26. Deut. 2. 27.

50 Then Laban and Bethuel o answered and said, The thing proceedeth from the LORD p: we cannot speak unto thee bad or good q.

o Laban is put first, either because this Bethuel was not his Father but his younger Brother, as Josephus thinks; or because Laban was the chief manager of this business, to whom his Father seems to have committed the care of his Family, being himself unfit for it through age or infirmity. p From Gods counsel and special providence. Hereby it appears they had the Knowledge and Worship of the true God among them, though they added Idols to him. q We cannot without opposing God speak or act any thing which may hinder thy design or thwart thy desires. Compare Gen. 31. 24, 29. 2 Sam. 13. 22.

51 behold, Rebekah is before thee ‖, take her, and go, and let her be thy masters sons wife, as the LORD hath spoken.

‖ (i.e.) In thy power and disposal; as this phrase is taken Gen. 20. 15. and elsewhere.

52 And it came to pass, that when Abrahams servant heard their words, he worshipped the LORD, bowing himself to the Earth.

53 And the servant brought forth † jewels of silver, and jewels of gold, and raiment, and gave them to Rebekah: he gave also to her brother, and to her mother precious things r.

r The precious fruits of the Land from which he came. See Deut. 33. 13, &c. or in general, other rare and excellent things. In those dayes men gave portions for their wives, as now they have portions with them.

* Vers. 56. and 59.

55 And her brother and her mother said, let the damsel abide with us ‖ a few days, at the least ten s, after that she shall go.

‖ Or, a full year or ten months.

s Others thus, a year, or at the least ten months, the word days being put for a year, as elsewhere. But it is very improbable that they would demand or expect such a thing from this man whom they saw bent so much upon expedition.

56 And he said unto them, hinder me not, seeing the LORD hath prospered my way: send me away that I may go to my master.

57 And they said, we will call the damsel, and inquire at her mouth t.

t (i.e.) Understand her mind by her words, not so much concerning the marriage it self, in which she resigned up her self to the disposal of her Parents and Friends, and to which she had given an implicit consent by her acceptance of those presents which were made to her for that end; as concerning the hastiness of her departure.

58 And they called Rebekah, and said unto her, wilt thou go with this man? And she said, I will go.

59 And they sent away Rebekah their sister, and her nurse u, and Abrahams servant, and his men.

u Deborah, by comparing, chap. 35. 8. In this corrupt Family the Mother and the Nurse are two distinct persons, but in Abrahams pious Family there was no such principle or practice. See Gen. 21. 7.

6 But unto the ſons of the concubines n which Abraham had, Abraham gave gifts, and ſent them away from Iſaac his ſon o, (while he yet lived) eaſt-ward unto the eaſt-countrey p.

n Hagar and Keturah. Concubines are ſometimes called Wives, as Gen. 16. 3. Judg. 19. 1, 2, 3. 29. but their Children had no right to the inheritance. For though the Children of Jacobs Concubines did equally partake of the inheritance with the other Children, that was done by divine appointment and Jacobs voluntary act, and upon ſpecial reaſon, becauſe of the vaſt inheritance promiſed and afterwards given to them, which made it no loſs, but a great convenience and advantage to the Children of the chief Wives to have their half-brethren, the Sons of the Concubines, ſeated ſo near to them. o Partly that the intire poſſeſſion of that Land might be reſerved to the Children of Iſaac; and partly leſt nearneſs of relation joyned with cohabitation or neighbourhood ſhould beget a great familiarity between them, whereby Iſaacs ſeed were likely to be infected by their brethren, whoſe degeneration and Apoſtacy Abraham might eaſily foreſee from the evil inclinations of their own hearts, and Gods excluſion of them from that Covenant of grace and life, which was the only effectual remedie againſt that powerful and univerſal corruption. p Into Arabia and other parts of Aſia the greater, which were ſituate eaſt-ward from the Southern part of Canaan where Abraham now was, whence theſe people are oft called the Children of the Eaſt, as Judg. 6. 3. and 7. 12. Job 1. 3.

7 And theſe are the days of the years of Abrahams life which he lived, an hundred threeſcore and fifteen years.

8 Then Abraham gave up the ghoſt q, and died in a good r old age, an old man, and full of ‖ years s, and was gathered to his people. t

q His ſoul was not required of him, as it was of that fool, Luk. 12. 20. not forced from him by ſharp and violent diſeaſes, but was quietly, eaſily, and chearfully yielded up by him into the hands of his merciful God and Father, as the word intimates. r Good both graciouſly, his hoary head being found in the way of righteouſneſs, and naturally free from the manifold infirmities and calamities of old age. Of which ſee Eccleſ. 12. 1. &c. s In the Hebrew it is onely, full, or ſatisfied; but you muſt underſtand with days or years, as the phraſe is fully expreſſed Gen. 35. 29. 1 Chron. 23. 1. and 29. 28 Job 42. 17. Jer. 6. 11. When he had lived as long as he deſired, being in ſome ſort weary of life and deſirous to be diſſolved: or full of all good, as the Chaldee renders it, ſatisfied, as it is ſaid of Naphtali, Deut. 33. 23. with favour, and full with the bleſſing of the Lord, upon himſelf, and upon his Children. t To his godly Progenitours, the former Patriarchs, to the Congregation of the juſt in heaven, Heb. 12. 23. in regard of his ſoul: For it cannot be meant of his body, which was not joyned with them in the place of burial, as this phraſe is Iſa. 14. 20. but buried in a ſtrange Land, where onely Sarahs body lay. And it is obſerved that the phraſe is uſed of none but good men, of which the Jews were ſo fully perſwaded, that from this very expreſſion uſed concerning Iſhmael here below, ver. 17. they infer his Repentance and Salvation. See this phraſe Gen. 15. 15. and 49. 29. Numb. 20. 24. and 27. 13. Judg. 2. 10. ‖ Or, days. See 9 And his ſons, Iſaac and Iſhmael u buried him in the cave of Machpelah, in the field of Ephron, the ſon of Zohar the Hittite, which is before Mamre.

u For Iſhmael though baniſhed from his Fathers houſe lived in a place not very far from him, and as no doubt he received many favours from his Father after his departure, which is implied here, ver. 6. though it be not mentioned elſewhere, ſo it is probable that he had a true reſpect and affection to his Father, which he here expreſſeth.

* Heb. fell. 2 Sam. 21. 9. thren d.

‖ (i. e.) On that part or ſide of Egypt which leads to Aſſyria. d His brethen ſurviving him and being his Neighbours, and therefore as they had converſation with him in the time of his Life, ſo now they did him honour at his death. But this tranſlation and interpretation may ſeem improbable. 1. Becauſe his death was related ver. 17. and would not be ſo preſently repeated. 2. Becauſe the foregoing words in this verſe ſpeaks not of his death, but of his dwelling, to which theſe words do very well agree: For what we tranſlated and he died, is commonly rendred and he fell, or it fell, and is moſt commonly uſed concerning a lot whereby mens portions are deſigned and divided, as Levit. 16. 9, 10. Numb. 33. 54. Joſ. 16. 1. and ſo the ſenſe may be, it fell, i. e. that Countrey fell to him and his, or he lay, or was ſtretched out, or poſted himſelf, as the Hebrew word is uſed, Judg. 7. 12. i. e. He dwelt, in the preſence of all his brethren; and ſo indeed his Country lay, between the Children of Keturah on the Eaſt, and the Children of Iſaac and Iſrael on the Weſt.

* Matth. 1. 2. 19 And theſe are the generations of Iſaac, Abrahams ſon: * Abraham begat Iſaac.

20 And Iſaac was forty years old, when he took Rebekah to wife, the daughter of Bethuel the Syrian of Padan-aram e: the ſiſter to Laban the Syrian.

e Either of the Countrey of Syria, as it is called Hoſ. 12. 12. or rather, Padan of Syria, or as the Septuagint and Chaldee render it, Meſopotamia of Syria: For that Padan is the proper name of a place may be gathered from Gen. 48. 7. and it is ſo called from its ſcituation between two Rivers, for Padan ſignifies a pair or two.

21 And Iſaac intreated the LORD f for his wife g, becauſe ſhe was barren h: and the LORD
* Rom. 9. 10. was intreated of him, and * Rebekah his wife conceived.

f He prayed, as the Hebrew word ſignifies, inſtantly or fervently, frequently and continually, for near twenty years together, for ſo long it was between their marriage and the firſt child: He was ſo much concerned becauſe not onely his comfort, but the truth of Gods promiſe, depended upon this mercy: And he knew very well, that Gods purpoſe and promiſe did not exclude, but require, the uſe of all convenient means for their accompliſhment. g Or in the preſence of his Wife, ſignifying, that, beſides their more ſecret devotions, they did oftimes in a more ſolemn manner, and with united force pray for this mercy wherein they were both equally concerned. Or, over againſt his Wife, noting that each of them did ſeverally and apart intreat God for this mercy, ſo that there was a concurrence, if not in place, yet in deſign and action. h As diverſe of thoſe holy women that were progenitours of Chriſt have long been, that it might appear that that ſacred ſtock was propagated more by the vertue of Gods grace and promiſe, then by the power of nature.

22 And the children ſtruggled together within her i: and ſhe ſaid, if it be ſo, why am I thus k? And ſhe went to inquire of the LORD l.

i In a violent and extraordinary manner, which was likely to cauſe both pain and fear in her. k The ſenſe may be either 1. If it be thus with me, that there be two Children contending & fighting within me, likely to deſtroy one the other, and both threatning my death, why did I deſire and pray for this as a great mercy! Or, why is it thus with me! Why hath God dealt thus with me, to continue my life till it be a burthen to me, and to give me conception which is ſo painful and hazardous. Or rather 2. If God hath granted me my deſire in the conception of a Child, what means this diſturbance and conflict within me, which threatens me with the loſs of the mercy before I enjoy it? For ſhe ſeems not ſo much to murmur at it as to wonder and to enquire about it, as it here follows. l Either immediately by ardent prayers to God that he would reveal his mind to her herein; or mediately by her Father Abraham, who lived fifteen years after this time, ver. 7. or by ſome other godly Patriarch yet ſurviving, by whom God uſed to manifeſt his Will and Counſels to others, when he thought fit.

23 And the LORD ſaid unto her m, Two nations n are in thy womb, and two manner of people ſhall be ſeparated o from thy bowels: and the one people ſhall be ſtronger then the other people: and * the elder p ſhall ſerve the younger. * Rom. 9.

m Either by inward inſpiration, in a dream or viſion; or by the miniſtery of an Angel or Prophet. n (i. e.) The Roots, Heads, or Parents of two diſtinct nations, one oppoſite to the other, the one bleſſed, the other accurſed, namely the Iſraelites and Edomites. o Not onely ſeparated from thee, but one ſeparated or greatly differing from the other in their frame of body, temper of mind, courſe of life, profeſſion and practiſe of Religion. p Or, the greater, namely Eſau, who was, as older, ſo of a ſtronger conſtitution of Body, and of greater power and dignity in the World than Jacob and Eſaus poſterity were great Princes for a long time, when Jacobs ſeed were ſtrangers in Canaan, ſlaves in Egypt, and poor afflicted wanderers in the Wildnerneſs. But ſaith he, Eſau and his ſhall not always be ſtronger and mightier than Jacob and his poſterity, the tables ſhall be turned, and the Children of Iſrael ſhall be uppermoſt and ſubdue the Edomites, which was literally accompliſhed in Davids time, 2 Sam. 8. 14. and afterwards 2 Chron. 25. 11, 12. and after by the Maccabees, but much more eminently in a ſpiritual ſenſe under the Goſpel, when one of Jacobs Children, even Jeſus Chriſt, ſhall obtain the dominion, and ſhall rule the Edomites no leſs then other Heathen nations with his iron rod, and make them ſerviceable one way or other to his Glory, and to the felicity of his true Iſrael.

24 And when her days to be delivered were fulfilled, behold, there were twins in her womb.

25 And the firſt came out red q, * all over like * Chap. 27. 16. 23. an hairy garment: and they called his name Eſau r.

q With red hair upon all the parts of his body. From him the Red Sea is ſuppoſed to receive its name, it being ſo called, as the Heathen writers tell us, from one who reigned in thoſe parts and was called Erythras or Erythrus, which ſignifies red, the ſame with Edom or Eſau. r (i. e.) Made or perfect, not properly a Child, but rather a man as ſoon as he was born, having that hair upon him which in others was an evidence of manhood.

26 And after that came his brother out, and * his hand took hold on Eſau heel, and his name * Hoſea 12. was called Jacob s: and Iſaac was threeſcore years old when ſhe bare them t.

s (i. e.) Supplanter, or one that taketh hold or trippeth up his brothers heels. See Gen. 27. 36. t Thus God exerciſed his Faith and Patience twenty years by comparing this with ver. 20. e're he gave him the promiſed bleſſing.

27 And the boys grew, and Eſau was a cunning hunter u, a man of the field x, and Jacob was † a plain man y, dwelling in tents z. † Heb. a perfect, or, ſincere.

u Of wild beaſts, and afterwards an oppreſſour of men. Compare Gen. 10. 9. This courſe of Life was moſt agreeable to his complexion, fierce and violent. x One that delighted more in converſing abroad than at home, whoſe employment it was to purſue the Beaſts through Fields, and Woods and Mountains, who therefore choſe an habitation fit for his purpoſe in mount Seir. y A ſincere, honeſt, and plain-hearted man. Or a juſt and perfect man, as the word is uſed, Gen. 6. 9. z Quietly z Quietly minding the management of his own domeſtick affairs, his Lands and Cattle, and giving no diſturbance either to wild beaſts or men.

28 And Iſaac loved Eſau, becauſe † he did eat of his veniſon a: but Rebekah loved Jacob b.

a Not ſimply nor chiefly becauſe he pleaſed his palate, but becauſe this was an evidence of his ſons great reſpect and affection to him, that he would take ſuch pains and incurre ſuch hazards to which that courſe of Life expoſed him that he might pleaſe and ſerve his Father. b Upon better grounds, both becauſe of his more pious and meek temper, and becauſe of the oracle and promiſe of God.

29 And Jacob ſod pottage: and Eſau came from the field, and he was faint.

† Heb. with that red, with that pottage.

30 And Eſau ſaid to Jacob, feed me, I pray thee, † with that ſame red c pottage, for I am faint: therefore was his name called Edom d.

c Red by the infuſion of Lentiles, or Saffron, or ſome other things of that colour. The word is doubled in the Hebrew text to ſhew how vehemently he deſired it. d Which ſignifies red, as he was at firſt ſo called from the colour of his hair, ſo now that name was confirmed and given to him afreſh upon this occaſion. q. d. He was rightly called Edom or red, not onely hiſtorically for his colour, but prophetically for this accident.

31 And Jacob ſaid, ſell me this day e thy birthright f.

e (i. e.) Speedily without delay. So this Hebrew word is uſed 1 Sam. 2. 16. and 9. 13. 27. 2 Chron. 18. 4. f The birth-right then had divers ſingular priviledges, as 1. Dignity and Authority over his Brethren, Gen. 4. 7. and 27. 29, 37. and 49. 3. 2. A double portion, Deut. 21. 17. 1 Chron. 5. 1. 3. A ſpecial bleſſing from his Father, Gen. 27. 4. 4. The Prieſthood and chief Government of the affairs of the Church in his Fathers abſence or ſickneſs; and after his death, Numb. 8. 16, 17, &c. 5. The firſt-born was a ſpecial Type both of Chriſt, who was to be a firſt-born, and of the Church, which is called Gods firſt-born, as Exod. 4. 22. and of the great priviſedges of the Church, particularly of Adoption and Eternal Life. See Heb. 12. 23. And therefore he is juſtly called profane, Heb. 12. 16. for ſlighting ſo ſacred and glorious a priviledge. Queſt. 1. Could the birth-right be loſt? Anſw. Yes. See Gen. 4. 7. and 1 Chron. 5. 1. Queſt. 2. Did Jacob well in this matter? Anſw. No, becauſe he tempted his brother to an act of profaneneſs and folly, and ſo was guilty of his ſin. And though God had deſigned and promiſed this priviledge to him, yet he ſhould have waited till God had executed his promiſe in his own way, as David did till God gave him poſſeſſion of Sauls Kingdom, and not have anticipated God, and ſnatched it by an irregular act of his own, as Jeroboam did the Kingdom from Rehoboam.

32 And Eſau ſaid, Behold, I am † at the point to die g: and what profit ſhall this birth-right do to me h?

g Not with Famine, which could not conſiſt with Iſaacs plentiful eſtate and houſe, but by the perpetual hazards to which his courſe of life expoſed him in the purſuit of wild Beaſts and contending with other men. h By which he plainly ſheweth that his Care and Affections reached no further then the preſent Life.

* Heb. 12. 16.

33 And Jacob ſaid, ſwear to me this day i, and he ſware unto him, and * he ſold his birth-right unto Jacob.

i Jacob acted ſubtilly in this affair, he knew that delays were dangerous, and Eſaus conſideration or ſecond thoughts might have ſpoiled his bargain, and therefore he requires haſte, as in the ſale, ſo in his Oath, wherein he addeth another ſin, in hurrying his brother into an Oath by precipitation, which neither his brother ſhould have taken, nor Jacob ſhould have adviſed him to take, without mature advice.

34 Then Jacob gave Eſau bread and pottage of Lentiles: and he did eat and drink, and roſe up, and went his way k: thus Eſau deſpiſed his birthright.

k Secure and impenitent, without any remorſe for his ingratitude to God, or the injury which he had done to himſelf and to all his poſterity. Preferring the preſent and momentary ſatisfaction of his luſt and appetite before Gods and his Fathers bleſſing and all the glorious priviledges of the Birth-right.

CHAP. XXVI.

*Chap. 12. 10.

1 AND there was a famine in the land, * beſides the firſt famine that was in the days of Abraham: and Iſaac went unto * Abimelech a King of the Philiſtines unto Gerar. *Chap. 26. 1.

a Not he mentioned Gen. 20. 2. but moſt probably his ſon and ſucceſſour called by his Fathers name.

2 And the LORD appeared unto him, and ſaid, Go not down into Egypt b, dwell in the land which I ſhall tell thee of.

b Whither it ſeems Iſaac intended to go, it being a very fruitful place, and being incouraged to do ſo by his Fathers example upon the ſame occaſion. But God ſaw good reaſons to forbid Iſaac to go thither, which it is needleſs to enquire, and not difficult to conjecture.

3 Sojourn in this land, and I will be with thee, and will bleſs thee: for unto thee, and unto thy ſeed c * I will give all theſe countries, and I will perform * the oath d which I ſware unto Abraham thy father. *Chap. 13. 15. and 15. 18. *Chap. 22. 16.

c To thee, to enjoy for thy preſent comfort, and to them to poſſeſs as an inheritance. See the notes on Gen. 13. 15. and 15. 18. d (i. e.) The promiſes confirmed by Oath, Gen. 22. 16, &c.

4 And I will make thy ſeed to multiply as the ſtars of heaven, and will give unto thy ſeed all theſe countries, and in thy ſeed ſhall all the nations of the earth be * bleſſed. * Chap. 12. 3. and 22. 18.

5 Becauſe that Abraham obeyed my voice e, and kept my charge, my commandments, my ſtatutes, and my Laws.

e Here was a covenant made between God and Abraham: and as if Abraham had broken the condition of walking before God required on his part, God had been diſcharged from the promiſe made on his part; ſo contrarily, becauſe Abraham performed his condition, God engageth himſelf to perform his promiſe to him and to his ſeed. But as that promiſe and covenant was made by God of meer grace, as is evident and confeſſed, ſo the mercies promiſed and performed to him and his, are ſo great and vaſt that it is an idle thing to think they could be merited, by ſo mean a compenſation as Abrahams obedience, which was a debt that he owed to God, had there been no ſuch covenant or promiſe made by God, and which alſo was an effect of Gods grace to him and in him.

6 And Iſaac dwelt in Gerar.

7 And the men of the place asked him of his wife, and he ſaid, ſhe is my ſiſter: for he feared to ſay, ſhe is my wife, leſt, ſaid he, the men of the place ſhould kill me for Rebekah, becauſe ſhe was fair to look upon.

8 And it came to paſs, when he had been there a long time, that Abimelech King of the Philiſtines looked out of a window, and ſaw, and behold, Iſaac was ſporting with Rebekah his wife g.

g Uſing more free and familiar carriage then became a Brother and Siſter, but ſuch as was allowable between Husband and Wife: See Deut. 24. 5. Prov. 5. 18. 19. But that this was not the conjugal act may eaſily be gathered from the circumſtances of the time and place which was open to Abimelechs view, and therefore that was not conſiſtent either with Iſaacs modeſty, or with his prudence, becauſe he would not have her thought to be his Wife.

9 And Abimelech called Iſaac, and ſaid, Behold, of a ſurety ſhe is thy wife; and how ſaidſt thou, ſhe is my ſiſter? and Iſaac ſaid unto him, Becauſe I ſaid, leſt I die for her.

10 And Abimelech ſaid, what is this thou haſt done unto us? one of the people might lightly have lien with thy wife h, and * thou ſhouldeſt have brought † guiltineſs upon us i. * Chap. 20. 9. † Heb. ſin.

h Becauſe the Heathens eſteemed Fornication either no ſin or a very little one. i The guilt of Adultery, which was heinous and formidable even amongſt the Heathens, and eſpecially here, becauſe it was freſh in memory how ſorely God had puniſhed Abimelech and all his Family onely for an intention of Adultery, Gen. 20. Note here, they take it for granted, that their ignorance had not been a ſufficient excuſe for their ſin.

11 And Abimelech charged all his people, ſaying, He that toucheth k this man, or his wife, ſhall ſurely be put to death.

k (i. e.) Hurteth or injureth. So that word is uſed ver. 29. and Joſ 9. 19. Pſal. 105. 15. Zech. 2. 8. and being applied plied to a woman it is used for the defiling or humbling of her, as Gen. 20. 6. Prov. 6. 29.

12 Then Isaac sowed in that Land l, and † received in the same year an hundred fold m: and the LORD blessed him.

l Either in the grounds which he had hired of the right owners; or in some grounds which lay neglected, and therefore were free to the first occupier; which was not strange in that age of the World, when the Inhabitants of Countreys were not so numerous as afterward. m (i. e.) An hundred times as much as he sowed. The same degree of increase is intimated, Matth. 13. 8. and affirmed sometimes of other places by Heathen Writers, but then it was in a better soil and season than this was: for this was a time of Famine or scarcity.

13 And the man waxed great, and † went forward, and grew until he became very great.

‖ Or, Husbandry.

14 For he had possession of flocks, and possession of herds, and great store of ‖ servants n, and the Philistines envied him.

n Or rather of husbandry, as this word is elsewhere used of Corn-fields, Vineyards, &c. for he is describing his Riches, which then consisted in the two things here expressed, Cattle and lands, which he diligently and successfully managed, ver. 12.

* chap. 21. 30

15 For all the wells * which his fathers servants had digged in the days of Abraham his father, the Philistines had stopped them, and filled them with earth.

* Exod. 1. 9.

16 And Abimelech said unto Isaac, Go from us, for * thou art much mightier then we o.

o Which breeds Envy, and Jealousie, and Fear, among my Subjects, and may occasion greater mischiefs, and therefore it is better that we should part Friends, than by continuing together be turned into Enemies.

17 And Isaac departed thence, and pitched his tent in the valley of Gerar, and dwelt there.

18 And Isaac digged again the wells of water p which they had digged in the days of Abraham his father q: for the Philistines had stopped them, after the death of Abraham: and he called their names after the names by which his father had called them.

g For though there might be a brook there, probably it was but little and soon dried up. q He digged those rather than new ones, partly to keep up his Fathers memory, and partly because he had most right to them, and others less cause of quarrel with him about them.

19 And Isaacs servants digged in the valley, and found there a well of † springing water.

20 And the herd-men of Gerar did strive with Isaacs herd-men, saying, The water is ours r: and he called the name of the well ‖ Esek, because they strove with him.

r Because digged in our soil: Which was no good argument, because he digged it by their consent or permission at his own charge and for his own use.

21 And they digged another well, and strove for that also: and he called the name of it ‖ Sitnah.

‖ That is, room.

22 And he removed from thence, and digged another well: and for that they strove not: and he called the name of it ‖ Rhehoboth: and he said, For, now the LORD hath made room for us, and we shall be fruitful in the land.

23 And he went up from thence to Beersheba s.

s Where he lived before the famine drave him thence.

24 And the LORD appeared unto him the same night, and he said, I am the God of Abraham thy father: fear not, for I am with thee, and will bless thee, and multiply thy seed for my servant Abrahams sake.

* chap. 12. 7. and 13. 18.

25 And he * built an altar there, and called upon the name of the LORD, and pitched his tent there: and there Isaacs servants digged a well:

26 Then Abimelech went to him from Gerar, and Ahuzzath one of his friends, and Phicol t the chief captain of his army.

t This may be either 1. The title of an office; for the word signifies, the mouth of all; or he by whom all the people were to present their addresses to the King, and receive the Kings commands. Or 2. The name of a man: and then this might be the son of him mentioned, Gen. 21. 32. called by his Fathers name, as Abimelech also was.

27 And Isaac said unto them, Wherefore come ye to me, seeing ye hate me, and have sent me away from you?

† Heb. seeing we saw.

28 And they said, † we saw certainly that the LORD was with thee, and we said, Let there be now an oath betwixt us, even betwixt us and thee, and let us make a covenant with thee:

† Heb. if thou shalt, &c.

29 † That thou wilt do us no hurt, as we have not touched thee ‖, and as we have done unto thee nothing but good, and have sent thee away in peace: thou art now the blessed of the LORD u.

‖ To wit, so as to injure or hurt thee, as above ver. 11.

u Or, O thou who art now the blessed of the Lord, whom God hath enriched with great and manifold blessings, which we did not take away from thee, as we could easily have done, but thou doest still enjoy them; and now art, as thou wert amongst us, the blessed of the Lord. Or, Seeing God hath blessed thee, it will not become thee to curse us, or to bear any grudge against us for that little unkindness which we expressed to thee. Or it may be a wish, if thou makest this covenant with us, be thou now the blessed of the Lord, we heartily wish thy blessings and prosperity may increase.

30 And he made them a feast, and they did eat and drink.

31 And they arose up betimes in the morning x, and sware one to another: and Isaac sent them away, and they departed from him in peace.

x Partly for the dispatch of their Journey and business, and partly because then their minds were most vigorous and sober and fit to perform so sacred an action as an oath was.

32 And it came to pass the same day, that Isaacs servants came, and told him concerning the well which they had digged, and said unto him, We have found water.

33 And he called it ‖ Sheba: therefore the name of the City is ‖ Beer-sheba y unto this day.

y This name had been given before either to this or a neighbouring place by Abraham, Gen. 21. 31. But was now buried in oblivion, as his wells were, and the wells being revived, he revives and renews the name, which proved now a lasting name, unto this day, as here follows, which is not added Gen. 21. 31. because then the name though given by Abraham was soon forgotten and neglected by others.

34 And Esau was forty years old when he took to wife Judith, the daughter of Beeri the Hittite, and Bashemath the daughter of Elon the Hittite z.

z Both Hittites, the worst of the Canaanites, Ezek. 16. 3. Which from his Grand-father Abrahams severe charge, Gen. 24. 3. he must needs know would be highly displeasing both to God and to his Parents. And as Esau had several names, being called also Edom and Seir, so it seems these women and their Parents had, by comparing this with Gen. 36. 2. which was usual in those times and places. Or Esau had more Wives then these.

* chap. 27. 46. †Heb. bitterness of spirit.

35 Which * were † a grief of mind unto Isaac and to Rebekah a.

a Because to their Idolatry and other wickedness, they added obstinacy and incorrigibleness, despising their persons and godly counsels whereby they invited them to Repentance.

CHAP. XXVII.

1 AND it came to pass, that when Isaac was old a, and his eyes were dim, so that he could not see b, he called Esau his eldest son, and said unto him, My son. And he said unto him, Behold, here am I.

a About one hundred and thirty seven years old. b Which was order'd by Gods wise providence, not only for the exercise of of Isaacs patience, but also as a means to transfer Esaus right to Jacob.

2 And he said, Behold now, I am old, I know not the day of my death.

3 Now therefore take, I pray thee, thy weapons, thy quiver †, and thy bowe, and go out to the field, and † take me some venison.

† Or, as the Chaldee and Hebrew Doctors render it, thy Sword, a weapon no less necessary for an hunter of Beasts than a Bow.

4 And make me savoury meat, such as I love, and bring it to me, that I may eat c, that my soul may bless thee d before I die.

c Quest. Why doth he require this before he bless him? Answ. 1. That being refreshed and delighted therewith his Spirit might be more chearful, and so the fitter for the giving of this prophetical benediction; for which reason also the Prophet Elisha called for a minstrel e're he could utter his Prophesie, 2 Kings 3. 15. 2. By the special direction of Divine providence, that Esaus absence might give Jacob the advantage of getting the blessing. d He speaks not here of a common and customary blessing, which Parents may bestow upon any of their Children as and when they please, but of the last, solemn, extraordinary and prophetical benediction, whereby these holy Patriarchs did by Gods appointment and with his concurrence constitute one of their sons heir not onely of their inheritance, but of Abrahams covenant and all the promises both temporal and spiritual belonging to it. As for the oracle delivered to Rebecca which transferred this blessing upon Jacob, chap. 25. 23. either Isaac knew not of it, not being sufficiently informed thereof by Rebecca; or he did not throughly understand it; or he might apprehend that it was to be accomplished not in the persons of Esau and Jacob but in their posterity; or at this time it was quite out of his mind, or he was induced to neglect it through his passionate affection to his son Esau.

5 And Rebekah heard when Isaac spake to Esau his son: and Esau went to the field to hunt for venison, and to bring it.

6 And Rebekah spake unto Jacob her son, saying, Behold, I heard thy father speak unto Esau thy brother, saying,

7 Bring me venison, and make me savoury meat that I may eat, and bless thee before the LORD e, before my death.

e Solmenly as in Gods presence, in his name and by his Authority and with his leave and favour, which I shall heartily pray for thee. So he signifies that this was more than an ordinary blessing which he now intended to give him.

8 Now therefore, my son, obey my voice, according to that which I command thee.

9 Go now to the flock, and fetch me from thence, two good Kids of the goats f, and I will make them savoury meat g for thy Father, such as he loveth:

f It is observable, that as Jacob deceived his Father by a Kid, so his Sons deceived him by the same Creature, Gen. 37. 31, 32, 33. g Out of their most tender and delicate parts: Wherewith it was not difficult to deceive Isaac, partly because of the likeness of the flesh, especially being altered by convenient sawce; and partly because the same old age which had dimmed Isaacs sight had also dulled his other senses.

10 And thou shalt bring it to thy father, that he may eat, and that he may bless thee before his death.

11 And Jacob said to Rebekah his mother, Behold, Esau my brother is an hairy man, and I am a smooth man.

12 My father peradventure will feel me, and I shall seem to him as a deceiver g, and I shall bring a curse upon me h, and not a blessing.

g I shall appear to him to be indeed a deceiver, one that abuseth his age and blindness. The particle, as sometimes signifies not the likeness, but the truth of the thing, John 1. 14. 2 Corinthians 3. 18. h Which is due to every one that deceiveth the blind, Deut. 27. 18. especially his Father, and especially in a religious concern, Jer. 48. 10. Mal. 1. 14. such as this was.

13 And his mother said unto him, Upon me be thy curse i, my son onely obey my voice, and go fetch me them.

i She saith so, out of an assured confidence in the Divine oracle and promise.

14 And he went and fetched, and brought them to his mother; and his mother made savoury meat, such as his father loved.

15 And Rebekah took † goodly raiment k of her eldest son Esau, which were with her in the house, and put them upon Jacob her younger son.

k Either his sacerdotal garments which the eldest son wore in the administration of that office which belonged to him; or rather some other suit better then ordinary.

16 And she put the skins of the Kids of the goats upon his hands, and upon the smooth of his neck l.

l Upon the two naked parts of his Body which were most likely to be discovered. As for his face it is more than probable from his age, which was the same with Esaus, Chap. 26. 34. that nature had given him a covering like Esaus.

17 And she gave the savoury meat, and the bread, which she had prepared, into the hand of her son Jacob.

18 And he came unto his father, and said, My father, and he said, Here am I: who art thou, my son?

19 And Jacob said unto his father: I am Esau thy first-born m, I have done according as thou badest me: arise, I pray thee, sit, and eat of my venison, that thy soul may bless me.

m This cannot be excused, for it was a manifest untruth, and no less is all this following relation, though it pleased God graciously to pardon it, and notwithstanding these failings to confer the blessing promised upon Jacob.

20 And Isaac said unto his son, How is it that thou hast found it so quickly, my son? And he said, Because the LORD thy God brought it † to me.

21 And Isaac said unto Jacob, Come near I pray thee, that I may feel thee, my son, whether thou be my very son Esau or not.

22 And Jacob went near unto Isaac his father: and he felt him, and said, the voice is Jacobs voice, but the hands are the hands of Esau.

23 And he discerned him not n, because his hands were hairy, as his brother Esaus hands. So he blessed him.

n Because all his senses were not onely dulled with age and infirmity, but also held by divine providence, as theirs Luke 24. 16. for the bringing about his own purpose: So that it is no wonder he was so grossly deceived in the whole business.

24 And he said, Art thou my very son Esau? and he said, I am.

25 And he said, Bring it near to me, and I will eat of my sons venison, that my soul may bless thee: and he brought it near to him, and he did eat: and he brought him wine, and he drank.

26 And his father Isaac said unto him, come near now, and kiss me o, my son.

o Which he did either that he might more fully satisfie himself concerning the person; or rather as a mark of that special favour and affection wherewith he bestowed the blessing. Compare Gen. 48. 10.

27 And he came near and kissed him: and he smelled the smell of his raiment, and blessed him, and said, see, the smell of my son is as the smell of a field, which the LORD hath blessed f.

f Which is full of odoriferous Herbs and Flowers and Fruits, and Spices, with some of which Esaus Garments might be perfumed in the chest where they were laid, as the manner now is. These garments smell not of the sheep-cotes and stables, as Jacobs do, but of the Fields in which Esau is conversant.

28 Therefore, * God give * thee of the dew of heaven g, and the fatness of the earth h, and plenty of corn and wine.

* Heb. 11. 20.

* Or, will give. For it is both a prayer and a prophesie. g He mentions the dew rather than the Rain, because it was of more constant use and necessity in those parts than the Rain, which fell considerably but twice in a year, the first being called the former, and the other the latter rain. And under this and the following blessings, which are but temporal, are comcomprehended all manner of blessings, both spiritual, temporal, and eternal, according to the usage of that time and state of the Church. h A fat and fruitful Land, which Canaan was abounding with all sorts of pretious fruits. Compare Deut. 8. 8. and 32. 13, 14.

* chap. 9. 25. 29 * Let people serve thee, and nations bowe down to thee: be Lord over thy brethren, and * let thy mothers son bowe down to thee i? * cursed be every one that curseth thee, and blessed be he that blesseth thee.

* chap. 49. 8.
* chap. 12. 3.

i How and when this was fulfilled see Gen, 25. 23.

30 And it came to pass as soon as Isaac had made an end of blessing Jacob, and Jacob was yet scarce gone out from the presence of Isaac his Father, that Esau his Brother came in from his hunting.

31 And he also had made savoury meat, and brought it unto his father k, and said unto his father, let my father arise and eat of his sons venison, that thy soul may bless me.

k That Esau did not come to his Father till the meat was dressed may be ascribed partly to his own choice that he might come with more acceptance; and partly to Rebekah, who could easily hinder his coming sooner by specious pretences and artifices.

32 And Isaac his father said unto him, Who art thou? and he said, I am thy son, thy first-born Esau.

†Heb trembled with a great trembling greatly. 33 And Isaac † trembled very exceedingly l, and said, Who! where is he m that hath † taken venison, and brought it me, and I have eaten of all before thou camest, and have blessed him? yea, and he shall be blessed n.

l He was filled with astonishment and horror in consideration of Jacobs fraud, and the sad disappointment and great Misery of his beloved Esau, and his own rashness and folly in suffering his fond affection towards him to carry him headlong into an opposition to the Divine Oracle, Gen. 25. 23. which now came to his remembrance, as appears by his ratification of Jacobs blessing. m A short speech proceeding from a discomposed mind. n This blessing, though otherwise intended by me, and pronounced upon a mistake of the person, shall and must rest upon the head of Jacob, and I neither can nor dare undertake to revoke and contradict Gods appointment, which now I more fully discern, and in which both thou and I, and all men must fully acquiesce. And now Isaac fixeth the blessing upon Jacob by faith, as it is expressed, Heb. 11. 20. which before through misguided Fancy and Affection he intended for Esau.

34 And when Esau heard the words of his father, * he cried with a great and exceeding bitter cry o, and said, unto his father, Bless me, even me also, O my father p.

* Heb. 12. 17.

q Not for any sense of his former sin in despising his Birthright, but for grief at his great loss therein, because God would not suffer him to be perjur'd in keeping that Birthright-blessing which he had sold and sworn away. p (i. e.) Thou art my Father no less than his, and therefore as a child, I claim a share in thy blessing.

35 And he said, Thy brother came with subtilty, and hath taken away thy blessing q.

q Which was thine by the right of nature and custom of Nations, and by my hearty desire and intention, as well as by thy own expectation and opinion.

*chap. 25. 26. 36 And he said, * Is not he rightly named ‖ Jacob r? for he hath supplanted me these two times: * he took away my Birth-right s, and behold, now he hath taken away my blessing: and he said, Hast thou not reserved a blessing for me?

* chap. 25. 33.

r He puts a perverse construction upon Jacobs name, as if it belonged not to him so properly because of the manner of his Birth, as because of his falseness and deceitfulness, and his tripping up his Brothers heels. s A false Accusation: Jacob did not take it deceitfully, but Esau sold it profanely.

37 And Isaac answered and said unto Esau, Behold, I have made him thy lord, and all his brethren have I given to him for servants, and with corn and wine have I ‖ sustained him: and what shall I do now unto thee t, my son:

t The blessing of Abraham is not at my disposal, but Gods, who hath manifested his Mind and Will by my Errour; it cannot be divided into several hands, nor imparted to one, who though my Son, yet hath made himself unworthy of it.

38 And Esau said unto his father, Hast thou but one blessing, my father u? bless me, even me also, O my father. And Esau lift up his Voice, * and wept.

u By which words Esau manifests his prophane and worldly mind, that he esteemed this Blessing but as one among many others equal to it, and did not apprehend the true and peculiar excellency and absolute necessity of it, and that it was impossible for him or his posterity to be happy without an interest in this covenant, and continuance in that Church to which it was appropriated.

39 And Isaac his father answered, and said unto him, Behold, * thy dwelling shall be ‖ the fatness of the earth, and of the dew of heaven from above x.

* Ver. 2 Heb. 11.

x In a countrey competently fruitful and refreshed with convenient dews and showers. Obj. Thus Esau seems to have the same blessing which was before given to Jacob. Answ. 1. Though it may seem to be the same as to the fertility of the Soil, in which divers other parts of the World did and do equal the land of Canaan, yet there is an observable difference in the manner of Isaacs expression. When he speaks of Esau, he only saith, Thy dwelling shall be the fatness, &c. But when he speaks to Jacob, he saith, God give thee, or shall give thee of the fatness, &c. which words being, as it may seem, purposely omitted concerning Esau, and so emphatically expressed concerning Jacob seem to intimate, especially if compared with many other Scriptures where that phrase is applyed to good men, that Esaus fat soil was rather taken by himself then given by God, or if given by God, to him, it was only by his general providence by which he giveth food to all creatures; whereas Jacobs fat and fruitful Soil was derived to him and his by Gods special gift, as a token of his singular kindness and pledge of greater blessings. 2. This is but one branch of the blessing, the other part which concerns Dignity and Superiority is expresly given to Jacob, ver. 29. and denied to Esau, ver. 40.

40 And by thy sword shalt thou live y, and shalt serve thy brother: and * it shall come to pass, when thou shalt ‖ have the dominion z, that thou shalt break his yoke from off thy neck.

* 2 Sam. 2 King 8.
‖ Or, have ned, or, be jected, Pl.

y By violence and rapine, in an unquiet and military posture, troubling others, and forced to defend thy self. But this, as also the following clause, though spoken to Esau, was not fulfilled in him, but in his posterity the Edomites, whose History makes good this prophecy. Thus things spoken and promised to Abraham were fulfilled in his Posterity, as Gen. 12. 3. and 22. 18. z When thou shalt grow potent, some render the words thus, When thou shalt have mourned or groaned, as the same word is used, Psal. 55. 2. When thou hast oppressed as long as I think fit.

41 And Esau hated Jacob b, because of the blessing wherewith his father blessed him, and Esau said in his heart c, The days of mourning for my father are at hand; * then will I slay my brother Jacob.

b And this hatred was hereditary, extending to their Posterity also. See Ezek. 35. 5. Amos 1. 11. Obad. v. 10. c Within himself. Although he could not contain it there, but declared his intentions to some of his confidents, by which means it came to Rebekahs ear.

42 And these words of Esau her elder Son were told to Rebekah, and she sent and called Jacob her younger son; and said unto him, Behold, thy brother Esau, as touching thee, doth comfort himself, purposing to kill thee.

43 Now therefore, my son, obey my voice: and arise, flee thou to Laban my brother to Haran.

44 And tarry with him * a few days d, until thy brothers fury turn away;

* chap. 2

d So she expected and intended, but was greatly disappointed, for he tarried there twenty years.

45 Until thy brothers anger turn away from thee, and he forget that which thou hast done to him: then I will send and fetch thee from thence. Why should I be deprived ‖ also of you both in one day e.

e Of thee by Esaus bloody hands; and of Esau, who was likely to suffer death for his murder, either by the Authority of the Magistrate, as God commanded, Gen. 9. 6. or, by the hand of God, who oft-times supplies the Magistrates defects in that particular, and in some extraordinary manner executes this vengeance. See Gen. 4. 11, 16. Acts 28. 4.

p. 26. 35. 46 And Rebekah said to Isaac, * I am weary of my life, because of the daughters of Heth †; if Jacob take a wife of the daughters of Heth, such as these which are of the daughters of the land, what good shall my life do me f?

† Esaus wives who were Hittites, Gen. 26. 34. f Therefore let us, after the Example of Abraham, send him to fetch a wife from his own Kindred. This indeed was one reason, but the other she conceals from Isaac, thus prudently alledging several reasons, one to Jacob, and another, as it is probable, to Esau, and each most suitable to the person to whom she speaks.

CHAP. XXVIII.

1 AND Isaac called Jacob, and blessed him a, and charged him, and said unto him, hap. 24. 3. * Thou shalt not take a wife of the daughters of Canaan.

a Confirm'd his former blessing, being now thoroughly sensible both of Gods purpose, and of his own Duty, wishing him also a prosperous and successful journey; as the word is used, Jos. 22. 7.

os. 12. 12. 2 * Arise, go to Padan-aram, to the house of Bethuel ||, thy mothers father, and take thee a hap. 24. 29. wife from thence of the daughters of * Laban thy mothers brother.

3 And God Almighty bless thee, and make thee fruitful, and multiply thee, that thou mayest be Heb. an assembly of people. † a multitude of people:

4 And give thee * the Blessing of Abraham, to hap. 12. 2. thee, and to thy seed with thee, that thou mayest Heb. of thy sojourning. inherit the Land † wherein thou art a stranger, which God gave unto Abraham.

5 And Isaac sent away Jacob, and he went to Padan-aram, unto Laban, son of Bethuel the Syrian b, the brother of Rebekah, Jacobs and Esaus mother.

b Obj. He was no Syrian but a Mesopotamian. Answ. Syria is sometimes largely taken, and so it comprehends Mesopotamia or Chaldea, yea and Assyria, as appears from Isa. 36. 11. Dan. 2. 4.

6 When Esau saw that Isaac had blessed Jacob, and sent him away to Padan-aram, to take him a wife from thence, and that as he blessed him, he gave him a charge, saying, Thou shalt not take a wife of the daughters of Canaan.

7 And that Jacob obeyed his Father, and his mother, and was gone to Padan-aram:

Heb. were evil in the eyes, &c. 8 And Esau seeing that the daughters of Canaan † pleased not Isaac his Father:

9 Then went Esau unto Ishmael c, and took unto the wives which he had, Mahalath d the daughter of Ishmael Abrahams son, the sister of Nebajoth e, to be his wife.

c Either to his Person; or, rather to his Family called Ishmael by their Fathers name, as David is sometimes put for Davids posterity: for Ishmael seems to have been dead before this, from Gen. 25. 17. though that may possibly be a Prolepsis, and then this may be Ishmael himself. d Called also Bashemath, Gen. 36. 3. He thought by this means to ingratiate himself with his Father, and so to get another and a better blessing: but he takes no care to reconcile himself to God, nor observes his hand in the business. Besides he mends one fault by committing another, and taking a third wife when he had one too many before, and her too he unwisely fetcheth out of that stock which was begotten to bondage and was utterly uncapable of the inheritance. e Ishmaels eldest son, Gen. 25. 13. who alone is here mentioned, either in the name of all the rest, whose Sister she is by consequence supposed to be; or because peradventure she and Nebajoth were Ishmaels children by the same Mother, and the rest by another.

10 And Jacob went f * out from Beer-sheba, Hos. 12. 12. and went toward * Haran. *called Acts 7. 2. Charran.

f It is not strange that Jacob went alone, as it aprears that he did from Gen. 32. 10, when his Grandfathers servant was attended with a great retinue, Gen. 24. because attendance was then necessary to procure him Reputation, and to obtain the consent of the Virgin and her Parents to so long a journey, but here as it was unnecessary, so it would have been troublesome and prejudicial, exposing him both to the envy and snares of his brother Esau, which by this private departure he did avoid. Besides God in his wise Providence did so order this and some other matters of the like nature, for the greater illustration of his care and kindness towards his Children. Add to this the great simplicity, humility, and innocency of those times if compared with ours, which made many things then usual which now would be ridiculous.

11 And he lighted upon a certain place, and tarried there all night, because the sun was set; and he took of the stones of that place, and put them for his pillows, and lay down in that place to sleep.

12 And he dreamed, and behold, a ladder set upon the earth, and the top of it reached to heaven: and behold, * the Angels of God ascending * Heb. 1. 14. and descending on it g.

g This Ladder may be considered, either 1. Literally, and so it represented to Jacob the Providence of God, who though he dwell in heaven extends his care and government to the earth, and particularly makes use of the Angels as ministring Spirits for the good of his People. And these Angels do not appear idle, or standing still, but always in motion, either ascending to God to receive his commands, or descending to Earth for the Execution of them. Which was a most seasonable Vision for Jacob in his sad and sorrowful condition, that he might see, that though he was forsaken and persecuted by men, and forced to flee away secretly for fear of his life, yet he neither was nor should be neglected or forsaken by God in this whole Journey. Or 2. Mystically, and so it represents Christ, by whom Heaven and Earth are united, who is called the way to Heaven, which this Ladder was, who, as the head of Angels, is perpetually sending them forth either to God or from God to minister to the Heirs of Salvation. Heb. 1. 14. And this explication or accommodation of this Vision is warranted by our Saviour himself, Joh. 1. 51.

13 * And behold the LORD stood above it, * chap. 35. 1. and said, I am the LORD God of Abraham thy and 48. 3. father, and the God of Isaac: the land whereon thou liest, to thee will I give it, and to thy seed.

14 And thy seed shall be as the dust of the earth, and thou shalt † spread abroad * to the † Heb. break forth. west, and to the east, and to the north, and to the * Deut. 12. 20. south: and in thee, and * in thy seed, shall all the * chap. 12. 3. Families h of the earth be blessed. and 18. 18. and 22. 18. & 26. 4.

15 And behold, I am with thee, and will keep thee in all places whither thou goest, and will bring thee again into this land: for I will not leave thee until I have done that which I have spoken to thee of i.

i Nor ever after: for so the word until is frequently used, as 2 Sam. 6. 23. Mat. 1. 25. not so as to exclude the time following, but so as to include all the foregoing time, wherein the thing spoken of might be most suspected or feared, as here the worst and most dangerous state in which Jacob was, or was like to be, was this time of his Banishment from his Country and Kindred, against which he is therefore particularly armed and comforted in these words.

16 And Jacob awaked out of his sleep, and he said: surely the LORD is in this place k, and I knew it not l.

k By his special and gracious presence and the manifestation of his Mind and Will to me. l I little expected to meet with such a Revelation out of my Fathers House, much less in this desart and doleful state and place, when I thought my self rejected by God as well as abandoned by men.

17 And he was afraid, and said, How dreadful m is this place? this is none other but the house of God n, and this is the gate of heaven.

m Or, venerable, both for the Majesty of the Person present, and for the glorious manner of his discovery of himself. n The Habitation of God and of his Holy Angels.

20 And Jacob vowed a vow s, saying, if God will be with me t, and will keep me in this way

* 1 Tim. 6. 8. that I go, and will give me * bread u to eat, and raiment to put on, s (i. e.) Bound himself by a solemn promise or obligation, Compare Gen. 14. 22. Eccles. 5. 4. t He speaks not thus as if he doubted of the truth of Gods Promises, or would like a mercenary Person make a bargain with God, but rather supposeth that God will do this for him, as he had in effect promised ver. 15. and thereupon obligeth himself to a grateful return to God for this Mercy, If God will be with me, &c. as he hath just now assured me he will: or seeing God will be with me, &c. for the Hebrew im doth not always imply a doubt, but rather a supposition, and is oft rendered seeng that, as Exod. 20. 25. Numb. 36. 4. 1 Sam. 15. 17. Amos 7. 2. And so the Greek particle answering to the Hebrew im is used Mat. 6. 22. Luk. 11. 34. u Food convenient, as it is called Prov. 30. 8. which is oft signified by the name of Bread, See Gen. 3. 19.

21 So that I come again to my fathers house in peace: then shall the LORD be my God x.

x I will publickly own him for my God and the Saviour of men, and will establish his solemn Worship, as it follows.

22 And this stone which I have set for a pillar, shall be Gods house y: and of all that thou shalt give me, I will surely give the tenth unto thee z.

y (i. e.) A place where I will offer prayers and Sacrifices to God: such places being commonly called Gods houses, and God is oft said to dwell in them, in regard of his special presence there. See Exod. 20. 24. Compare ver. 17. of this chapter and Gen. 35. 1, 3, 7. z To be laid out in thy service and for sacrifices and for the use and benefit of those who shall attend upon sacred things, as also for the relief of the poor and needy, whom God hath substituted in his room, and to whom part of the Tithes were to be given by a following Law, Deut. 14. 28, 29.

CHAP. XXIX.

† Heb, lift up his feet. †Heb. Children

1 THen Jacob † went a on his journey, and came into the land of the † people of the east b.

a Heb. Lift up his feet: which may note either the gesture of his Body, that he went on foot; or the temper of his mind, that he went not sadly and unwillingly, drawing his legs after him, as we use to say, but readily and chearfully, being encouraged by Gods word. b Which lay Eastward from Canaan, as Mesopotamia did.

2 And he looked, and beheld a well in the field, and lo, there were three flocks of sheep lying by it: for out of that well they watered c the flocks: and a great Stone was upon the wells mouth d.

c The people belonging to that place watered; or the flocks were watered: It is an impersonal Speech. d To preserve the water which was scarce in those parts, and to keep it pure.

3 And thither were all the flocks gathered, and they rolled the stone from the wells mouth, and watered the sheep, and put the stone again upon the wells mouth in his place.

4 And Jacob said unto them, My brethren e, whence be ye? and they said, Of Haran are we.

e So he calls them partly in token of respect and affection; and partly because they were of the same nature and employment with himself.

5 And he said unto them, Know ye Laban the son of Nahor? and they said, We know him.

†Heb. Is there peace to him. 6 And he said unto them, † Is he well? and they said, He is well: and behold Rachel his daughter cometh with the sheep f.

f According to the manner of those times Exod. 2. 16. Cant. 1. 7, 8. when Humility, Innocency, Simplicity, and Industry were in fashion, both among Men and Women of great quality. There are some that quarrel with the Scripture and question the truth of such relations, because they judge of the state of antient times and things, by the present age, whereby they discover great folly and deep ignorance of the state of former ages.

Hos. 12. 1

† Heb. yet the day is great. 7 And he said, Loe, † It is yet high day, neither is it time that the cattle should be gathered together g: water ye the sheep, and go and feed them.

g That they should be taken from their pasture and brought to be watered.

8 And they said, We cannot h, until all the flocks be gathered together, and till they roll the stone from the wells mouth: then we water the sheep.

h Either because of the greatness of the Stone which they could not remove till more help came: or rather because of the Custom, Order and Agreement made amongst themselves about it. We cannot, to wit, rightly, or we may not, as that word is used, Gen. 34. 14. and 43. 32. and 44. 26.

9 And while he yet spake with them, Rachel came with her fathers sheep: for she kept them i.

i Having probably other Shepherds under her, who did the meaner Offices, whom she was to oversee.

10 And it came to pass, when Jacob saw Rachel the daughter of Laban his mothers brother, and the sheep of Laban his mothers brother; that Jacob went near, and * rolled the stone from the wells mouth k, and watered the flock of Laban his mothers brother.

k Either with the assistance of others; or, by himself, he being then strong and lusty and putting forth all his might before Rachel.

11 And Jacob kissed Rachel l, and lifted up his voice, and wept m.

l As the custom of friends then was both at their first meeting, as ver. 13. and Gen. 43. 4 Exod. 4. 27. and 18. 7. and at their departure, as Ruth. 1. 14. 1 Sam. 20. 41. 1 King 19. 20. m Tears of joy, like those Gen. 33. 4. at the gracious Providence of God to him, which had brought him safe to his desired place, and so happily and strangely conducted him to that Person and Family which was so desirable and dear to him.

12 And Jacob told Rachel that he was her fathers brother *, and that he was Rebekah's son: and she ran, and told her father.

Heb. p

* His near Kinsman, as that word is frequently used, as Gen. 13. 8. and 24. 27.

† Heb. hearing 13 And it come to pass, when Laban heard the † tidings of Jacob n his sisters son, that he ran to meet him, and embraced him, and kissed him, and brought him to his house: and he told Laban all these things.

n The report of his Fathers Family, of the cause of his coming in so mean circumstances: of the occurrences in his journy, and of his providential meeting with Rachel at the well.

† Heb. a month of days. 14 And Labon said surely thou art my bone, and my flesh o; and he abode with him the † space of a month.

o Of the same bone and flesh with my self, by our common Grandfather Terah, and therefore art justly dear to me, and with me thou shalt be in safety. See the same or like expression, Gen. 2. 23. Judg. 9. 2. 2 Sam. 19. 12. 13.

15 And Laban said unto Jacob, Because thou art my brother, shouldest thou therefore serve me for nought? tell me, what shall thy wages be?

16 And Laban had two daughters, the name of the elder was Leah, and the name of the younger was Rachel.

17 Leah was tender eyed ‖ but Rachel was beautiful, and well favoured.

‖ Her eyes were soft and moist and therefore unsightly.

18 And Jacob loved Rachel, and said, I will serve thee seven years for Rachel thy younger daughter p.

p It being then the custom for men to buy their Wives. See Gen. 34. 12. Exod. 22. 17. 1 Sam. 18. 25. 2 Sam. 3. 14. Hos. 3. 2.

19 And

19 And Laban ſaid, It is better that I give her to thee, then that I ſhould give her to another man q: abide with me.

q An ambiguous and crafty anſwer, vvherein he doth not directly grant his deſire, but onely inſinuates it in ſuch terms as might hide his deſign, vvhich the event ſhewed.

Hoſ. 12. 12. 20 And Jacob * ſerved ſeven years for Rachel; and they ſeemed unto him but a few days r, for the love he had to her.

r He ſpeaks not of the time, vvhich in ſuch caſes ſeems long, Prov. 13. 12. but of the ſervice of that time vvhich ſeemed but little and far belovv the vvorth of Rachel.

21 And Jacob ſaid unto Laban, Give me my wife s (for my days are fulfilled t,) that I may go in unto her.

s So ſhe was by promiſe and Contract: Perſons Betrothed or Eſpouſed being oft called Wives in Scripture, as Matth. 1. 18, 19. Luke 2. 5. t The ſeven years of ſervice agreed upon, ver. 18.

22 And Laban gathered together all the men of the place u and made a feaſt.

u Kindred and Neighbours, according to the cuſtom. See Judg. 14. 10, 11. John 2. 1, 2, &c. He gathered a great number together both that the Marriage might be more ſolemn and publick; and that Jacob might be overawed by their preſence and Authority, and not dare to diſanul the Marriage and reject Leah afterwards, which otherwiſe he might have done.

23 And it came to paſs in the evening, that he took Leah his daughter, and brought her to him, and he went in unto her x.

x The occaſion of the deceit vvas the cuſtom of thoſe times, which was to bring the Bride to her Husband in the dark, and vvith a veil upon her face. See Gen. 24. 65. And Leah being inſtructed by her Father, and confederate with him in the deceit, was doubtleſs careful not to diſcover her ſelf by ſpeech or any other vvay to him.

24 And Laban gave unto his daughter Leah, Zilpah his maid, for an handmaid.

25 And it came to paſs, that in the morning, behold it was Leah: and he ſaid unto Laban, What is this thou haſt done unto me? did not I ſerve with thee for Rachel? wherefore then haſt thou beguiled me y?

y Though Laban could not ſolidly anſwer the queſtion, yet Jacob could do it, and had juſt cauſe to reflect upon his own former action of beguiling his Father, for vvhich God had now puniſhed him in the ſame kind.

† Heb. place. 26 And Laban ſaid, it muſt not be ſo done in our † countrey z, to give the younger before the firſt-born.

z This ſeems to be a falſe pretence; but if it had been true, cuſtom is to give place to juſtice by which he was obliged to perform his contract with him.

27 Fulfill her week a, and we will give thee this alſo for the ſervice which thou ſhalt ſerve with me yet ſeven other years.

a The ſeven days uſually devoted to the feaſt and ſolemnity of Marriage, as Judg. 14. 12, 15, 17. And this he deſired that a weeks cohabitation with Leah, might either knit his affections to her, or at leaſt confirm the Contract and Marriage vvith her.

28 And Jacob did ſo, and fulfilled her week: and he gave him Rachel his daughter to wife alſo b.

b It vvas not ſo ſtrange that Laban ſhould give, as that Jacob ſhould take, not onely tvvo Wives, but two Siſters to Wife, vvhich ſeems to be againſt the law of Nature, and vvas expreſly forbidden by God aftervvard, Levit. 18. 18. Though it be alſo true that God might diſpenſe with his own inſtitution, or permit ſuch things in the Patriarchs upon ſpecial reaſons, which are not to be dravvn into example.

29 And Laban gave to Rachel his daughter Bilhah, his handmaid, to be her maid.

30 And he went in alſo unto Rachel, and he loved alſo Rachel more then Leah; and ſerved with him yet ſeven other years.

31 And when the LORD ſaw that Leah was hated c, he opened her womb: but Rachel was barren d.

c Comparatively to Rachel, leſs loved, ſlighted. So that word is oft uſed, as Deut. 21. 15. Matth. 6. 24. and 10. 37. compared with Luke 14. 26. John. 12. 25. d Thus variouſly doth God diſtribute his favours, that all may be contented, and none deſpiſed.

32 And Leah conceived, and bare a ſon, and ſhe called his name ‖ Reuben: for ſhe ſaid, ſurely the LORD hath looked upon my affliction e: now therefore my husband will love me.

e With an eye of pity and kindneſs, as that general phraſe is oft underſtood.

33 And ſhe conceived again, and bare a ſon: and ſaid, Becauſe the LORD hath heard f that I was hated, he hath therefore given me this ſon alſo, and ſhe called his name ‖ Simeon.

f (i. e.) Perceived, or underſtood; hearing being oft put for underſtanding.

34 And ſhe conceived again and bare a ſon: and ſaid, Now this time will my husband be joyned unto me g, becauſe I have born him three ſons: therefore was his name called ‖ Levi.

g In more ſincere and fervent affection.

35 And ſhe conceived again, and bare a ſon, and ſhe ſaid, Now will I praiſe the LORD e: therefore ſhe called his name * ‖ Judah, and † left bearing.

* Matth. 1. 2.
‖ That is, praiſe
† Heb. ſtood from bearing.

e More ſolemnly and continually; for otherwiſe ſhe did praiſe and acknowledge God for the former mercies.

CHAP. XXX.

1 AND when Rachel ſaw that ſhe bare Jacob no children, Rachel envyed her ſiſter, and ſaid unto Jacob, Give me children, or elſe I die a.

a A ſpeech full of impatience and bordering upon blaſphemy, and ſtriking at God himſelf through Jacobs ſides. For vvhich therefore ſhe afterwards ſmarted, dying by that very means vvhereby ſhe hoped to prevent her death and prolong her life, Gen. 35. 18.

2 And Jacobs anger was kindled againſt Rachel b, and he ſaid, am I in Gods ſtead c, who hath withheld from thee the fruit of the womb?

b For the injury done to himſelf, and eſpecially for the ſin againſt God; in which caſe anger is not onely lawful but neceſſary. c It is Gods prerogative to give Children. See Gen. 16. 2. 1 Sam. 2. 5, 6. Pſal. 113. 9. and 127. 3.

3 And ſhe ſaid, Behold my maid Bilhah: go in unto her, and ſhe ſhall bear upon my knees d, that I may alſo † have children by her e.

d An Ellipſis or ſhort ſpeech, ſhe ſhall bear a child which may be laid upon my knees or in my lap, which I may adopt and bring up as if it were my own. See Gen. 50. 23. Iſa. 66. 12. e For as ſervants, ſo their work and fruit, were not their own, but their maſters.

4 And ſhe gave him Bilhah her handmaid to wife: and Jacob went in unto her.

5 And Bilhah conceived, and bare Jacob a ſon.

6 And Rachel ſaid, God hath judged me *, and hath alſo heard my voice, and hath given me a ſon; therefore called ſhe his name ‖ Dan.

‖ That is, judging.

* Pleaded my cauſe or given ſentence for me, as this phraſe is oft taken.

7 And Bilhah Rachels maid conceived again, and bare Jacob a ſecond ſon.

8 And Rachel ſaid, with † great wraſtlings f have I wraſtled with my ſiſter, and I have prevailed g; and ſhe called his name ‖ * Naphtali.

*Called Matt. 4. 13. Nephthalim.

f Heb. With wraſtlings of God, either with great and hard wraſtlings or ſtrivings; or by wraſtling with God in fervent prayer, and by Gods grace and ſtrength. Which was not true; for her ſiſter exceeded her both in the number of her Children, and in her propriety in them, being the fruit of her own womb, not of her handmaids, as Rachels were. Here is an inſtance how partial Judges moſt perſons are in their own cauſes and concernments.

9 When Leah ſaw that ſhe had left bearing, she took Zilpah her maid, and gave her Jacob to wife.

10 And Zilpah Leahs maid bare Jacob a son.

11 And Leah said, A troop cometh h: And she called his name ‖ Gad.

‖ That is, a troop or company.

h Or, Good luck cometh, my design hath well succeeded; an happy star hath shone upon me; and such a star in the opinion of Astrologers is that of Jupiter, which by the Arabians is called Gad. This may well agree to Leah and her heathenish Education, and the manners of the Chaldæans who were much given to the study of the stars.

12 And Zilpah Leahs maid bare Jacob a second son.

13 And Leah said, † Happy am I, for the daughters † will call me blessed: and she called his name ‖ Asher.

† Of Men, i. e. Women, as Prov. 31. 29. Cant. 6. 9.

14 And Reuben went in the days of wheat harvest, and found Mandrakes i in the field, and brought them unto his mother Leah. Then Rachel said to Leah, Give me I pray thee of thy sons Mandrakes k.

i The word is onely found here and Cant. 7. 13. whence it appears that it is a Plant or Fruit of pleasant smell, such as the Mandrake is said to be, by Dioscorides and Levinus Lemnius, and by St. Austin upon his own experience. If it be said, this was too early for Mandrakes to be ripe, it being now but wheat-harvest, it may be replied, that fruits ripen much sooner in those hot Countries, than else where, and that they are not here said to be ripe, but onely to be gathered. k. Which she might desire either because they were pleasant to the eye or taste, or because they were thought helpful to conception.

15 And she said unto her, Is it a small matter that thou hast taken my husband? and wouldst thou take away my sons Mandrakes also? and Rachel said, Therefore he shall lie with thee to night l for thy sons Mandrakes.

l Jacob either did equally divide the times between his two Wives; or rather had more estranged himself from Leah, and cohabited principally with Rachel; which occasioned the foregoing expostulation.

19 And Jacob came out of the field in the evening, and Leah went out to meet him, and said, Thou must come in unto me: for surely I have hired thee with my sons Mandrakes. And he lay with her that night m.

m He ratified their agreement that he might preserve peace and love amongst them.

17 And God hearkned unto Leah n, and she conceived, and bare Jacob the fifth son.

n Notwithstanding her many infirmities. Hence it appears, that she was moved herein not by any inordinate lust, but by a desire of Children.

18 And Leah said, God hath given me my hire, because I have given my maiden to my husband o: and she called his name ‖ Issachar.

o Thus she mistakes the answer of her prayers for a recompence of her errour.

19 And Leah conceived again, and bare Jacob the sixth son.

20 And Leah said, God hath endued me with a good dowry: now will my husband dwell with me, because I have born him six sons: and she called his name ‖ * Zebulun.

21 And afterwards she bare a daughter, and called her name ‖ Dinah.

‖ That is, judgment.

22 And God remembred Rachel, and God hearkned to her, and opened her womb.

23 And she conceived and bare a son, and said, God hath taken away my reproach p:

p Barrenness was then accounted a great reproach, especially in that race, because it was a kind of curse, whereby such persons were excluded both from the first and general blessing of fructification given to all mankind, Gen. 1. 28. and from the special blessing given to Abraham for the multiplication of his seed; and from all hopes of being the progenitors of the blessed Messias.

24 And she called his name ‖ Joseph, and said, The LORD shall add to me another son.

‖ That is, adding.

25 And it came to pass, when Rachel had born Joseph, that Jacob said unto Laban, send me away, that I may go unto mine own place, and to my country q.

q Canaan which he calleth his Country in regard both of his former and long habitation in it, and of the right which he had to it by Gods promise. See Gen. 28. 13.

26 Give me my wives and my children, for whom I have served thee, and let me go, for thou knowest my service which I have done thee.

27 And Laban said unto him, I pray thee, If I have * found favour in thine eyes, tarry: for I have learned by experience, that the LORD hath blessed me for thy sake.

* chap. 39.

28 And he said, Appoint me thy wages, and I will give it.

29 And he said unto him, Thou knowest how I have served thee, and how thy cattle was with me r.

r How carefully it was managed, and how greatly improved by my care and industry.

30 For it was little which thou hadst before I came s; and it is now † increased unto a multitude; and the LORD hath blessed thee † since my coming t: and now when shall I provide for mine own house also u?

s Comparatively to what now it is. Heb. at my foot, i. e. upon my coming, since my feet entred into thy house, Or, by my foot, i. e. by my ministry and labour, as this phrase is used, Deut. 11. 10. t According to my duty, which also is thy interest.

31 And he said, what shall I give thee? and Jacob said, Thou shalt not give me any thing: If thou wilt do this thing for me, I will again feed and keep thy flock.

32 I will pass thorow all thy flock to day, removing from thence all the speckled and spotted cattle x: and all the brown y cattle among the sheep, and the spotted and speckled among the goats; and of such shall be my hire z.

x Which may seem to be thus distinguished, speckled with little spots, and spotted with greater spots or stains, both of divers colours from the rest of the body. Or, the speckled may be the same with the ring-streaked, by comparing this with ver. 35. y Or black, or dark-coloured, for the Hebrew word signifies also great heat which produceth such a colour. z Or, then shall be my hire; and for then, as is frequent in Scripture. The sense is, Then, when the speckled and spotted and brown are separated, and none but white remaining, my hire shall be out of those white ones, and that in such manner as is expressed in the following verse, and all the white young ones shall be thine, and the speckled and spotted and brown which shall be brought forth by those white ones shall be mine.

33 So shall my righteousness answer for me a † in time to come; when it shall come for my hire, before thy face b; every one that is not speckled and spotted amongst the goats, and brown amongst the sheep, that shall be accounted stollen with me.

a When the cattle shall contrary to their natural and usual course bring forth young ones of a contrary colour to their own, it will hereby be evident that this is the work of God, who hereby pleads my righteous cause against a cruel and unjust master. Or thus, when thou shalt accuse me of doing thee injury, I shall have this manifest and undeniable evidence of my Righteousness or Innocency, that I have no Cattle but of that colour which is by agreement appropriated to me. b When it, i. e. my righteousness, shall come to or upon my reward, i. e. when my righteousness shall appear in the very colour of that Cattle which is allotted to me for my reward or hire, before thy face, i. e. thou being present and diligently observing whether I have any Cattle of another colour. But the Hebrew word Tabo is also of the second person, and so the sense seems to be this, When thou shalt come upon my hire or reward, to wit to observe and see whether I have any other cattle, than what belongs to me. And so these words come in by way of parenthesis, and the following words, before my face, are to be joyned to the former words, thus, so shall my Righteousness answer for me in time to come (when thou shalt come upon my hire) before thy face. This I prefer before the other, because the phrase of coming upon his hire seems more properly to agree to a person than to his Righteousness.

34 And Laban said, Behold, I would it might be according to thy word c.

c Laban trusted to the course of nature, whereby cattle usually bring forth their young of their own colour; and Jacob relied upon the providence of an Almighty God and his gracious father.

35 And he removed that day the he-goats that were ring-straked d and spotted, and all the she-goats that were speckled and spotted, and every one that had some e white in it, and all the brown amongst the Sheep, and gave them into the hands of his sons.

d Which had lines or strakes like bands about them of divers colours from the rest of their body. e This word is oft understood in other texts of Scripture, and here it is so necessarily; as appears both from the thing it self, as it is related, and from the phrase; for he saith not that was white, but that had white in it, to wit, mixed with other colours.

36 And he set three days journey f betwixt himself and Jacob g: and Jacob fed the rest of Labans flocks.

f Understand it of the journeying or travelling of sheep, not of men. g Lest either Jacob should mingle and exchange the sheep, or the sheep by the contemplation of the diverse coloured ones should bring forth others like to them.

37 And Jacob took him rods h of green poplar, and of the hasel, and chesnut-tree i, and pilled white strakes in them, and made the white appear || which was in the rods.

h By divine appointment as will appear in the sequel, which is sufficient for Jacobs justification. i Either because these trees were next at hand; or because he saw these in the divine vision afterwards mentioned, and would exactly follow his pattern. || By pilling off the rind which covered it.

38 And he set the rods which he had pilled, before the flocks in the gutters in the watering troughs when the flocks came to drink, that they should conceive when they came to drink k.

k When by their refreshment and meeting together they were most likely to generate and conceive.

39 And the flocks conceived l before the rods, and brought forth cattle ring-straked, speckled, and spotted m.

l Heb. were heated, i. e, inflamed or excited and disposed to conceive, and this in a more than ordinary manner by the divine disposal. m This hath some foundation in nature because of the great power of imagination; and there are divers instances in many authors both of Women and of Beasts who either by the strong fancying, or by the actual and frequent contemplation of some certain objects have brought forth young ones exactly of the same colour and complexion, as one did an Ethiopian, &c. But the Providence of God was the principal cause of this effect, without which the productions of that kind would neither have been so many, nor so certain. This policy of Jacobs could scarcely be excused from deceit and injustice, if it were not manifest that it was done by the direction and authority of the sovereign Lord of all estates, Gen. 31. 9, 11, &c. who may take them from one and give them to another, as it pleaseth him, who also observed Labans injustice, and gave to Jacob no more than he abundantly deserved from Laban.

40 And Jacob did separate the lambs n, and set the faces of the flocks toward the ring-straked, and all the brown o in the flock of Laban: and he put his own flock by themselves; and put them not unto Labans cattle p.

n Such as were ring-straked and brown, from the white, as it here follows. o He caused them to go foremost, and the white to follow them, that by the continued beholding of them in the time of their conjunction they might have their colour more imprinted upon their fancies and thereby convey it to their young ones. p Which he did upon the same reason, lest the constant beholding of them should make them bring forth the like, i. e. single coloured ones.

41 And it came to pass, whensoever the stronger cattle did conceive q, that Jacob laid the rods before the eyes of the cattle in the gutters, that they might conceive among the rods.

q It is known that the cattle in those parts did conceive and bring forth twice in a year, at spring and in Autumn; and it is supposed that the stronger here mentioned are such as joyned in the spring, and the feeble they that joyned in Autumn.

42 But when the cattle were feeble, he put them not in: so the feebler were Labans, and the stronger Jacobs.

43 And the man increased exceedingly, and had much cattle, and maid-servants; and men-servants, and camels, and asses.

CHAP. XXXI.

1 AND he heard the words of Labans sons, saying, Jacob hath taken away all that was our fathers: and of that which was our fathers hath he gotten all this glory a.

a These riches, which are called glory, Gen. 45. 13. Psal. 49. 16. Isa. 66. 12. compared with Isa. 60. 6. because their possessours use to glory in them, and by them gain glory and esteem from others.

2 And Jacob beheld the countenance of Laban, and behold, it was not towards him † as before b. † Heb. as yester-day and the day before.

b And this change of his countenance argued a change in his mind, and presaged some evil intentions in him towards Jacob.

3 And the LORD said unto Jacob, Return unto the land of thy fathers, and to thy kindred, and I will be with thee.

4 And Jacob sent and called Rachel and Leah c to the field d unto his flocks.

c Rachel is first named here, as also Ruth 4. 11. because she was his chief, and, by right, his first and onely designed wife. And therefore it is observable, that in the enumeration of Jacobs Wives and Children. Gen. 46. Leah is onely mentioned by her name. ver. 15. but Rachel is called Jacobs wife, ver. 19. by way of eminency and in a peculiar manner. d Where they might more freely discourse of their business and without fear or interruption.

5 And said unto them, I see your fathers countenance, that it is not toward me as before: but the God of my father hath been with me e.

e Either 1. Hath blessed me; hath stood constantly by me, when your father hath failed and deceived me. Or, 2. Hath appeared unto me, as ver. 13.

6 And ye know that with all my power f I have served your father.

f Both of my mind and body, as I would have done for my self, as became a faithful servant to do.

7 And your father hath deceived me, and changed my wages * ten times g: but God suffered him not to hurt me. * Neh. 4. 12.

g (i. e.) Oft-times, as that certain number is commonly used, as Levit. 26. 26. Numb. 14. 22. 1 Sam. 1. 8. Job 19. 3. &c.

8 If he said thus, The speckled shall be thy wages, then all the cattle * bare speckled: and if he said thus, The ring-straked shall be thy hire h, then bare all the cattle ring-straked.

* All is here, as oft elsewhere, put for the greater or the better part, as appears from chap. 31. 1, 8. Or, for all that Jacob desired to be such. h Hence it appears that Laban through envy and covetousness did break his agreement made with Jacob, and altered it as he thought meet, and that Jacob patiently yielded to all such changes.

9 Thus God hath taken away the cattle of your father, and given them to me.

10 And it came to pass at the time that the cattle conceived, that I lifted up mine eyes, and saw in a dream, and behold, the || rams which leaped upon the cattle, were ring-straked, speckled, and grizled i. || Or, he-goats.

i Which were marked with spots like hail in colour and proportion, as the word signifieth.

11 And the Angel of God spake unto me in a dream, saying, Jacob; and I said, Here am I.

12 And he said, Lift up now thine eyes, and see, all the rams which leap upon the cattle are ring-straked, speckled, and grizled: for I have seen all that Laban doth unto thee.

13 I am the God of Bethel, * where thou anointedst the pillar, and where thou vowedst a vow unto me k: now * arise, get thee out from this land, and return unto the land of thy kindred. * chap. 28. 18. * chap. 32. 9.

k Of which see Gen. 28. 19, 20. And this God here mentions to shew his acceptance of that action of Jacobs, his mindfulness even of the past and forgotten services of his people, and his purpose now to fulfil the promise there made to him.

14 And Rachel and Leah answered and said unto him, Is there yet any portion or inheritance for us in our fathers house l?

l We can expect no further benefit from him, but deceit and oppression, and injury, and therefore are willing to leave him. This was the fruit of his unnatural and unworthy carriage to them that it did eat out their natural affection to him.

15 Are we not counted of him strangers m? for he * hath sold us n, and hath quite devoured also our money o.

m As if we had no more right to his estate than strangers. n In stead of a good part of his Estate which by the Law of God and Nature belongs to us, 2 Cor. 12. 14. wherewith he should have endowed us upon our Marriage, he hath made sale of us for this 14 years hard service, seeking onely his own, not our advantage. o Hath not onely with-held from us, but spent upon himself, that money which he got by thy care and industry, whereof a considerable part was due in equity to us and to our Children.

16 For all the riches which God hath taken from our Father, that is ours p and our childrens: Now then whatsoever God hath said unto thee, do.

p Not onely by Gods special gift, but by the natural right which Children have to a share in his Estate, and upon the account of thy faithful and laborious service.

17 Then Jacob rose up, and set his sons, and his wives upon camels.

18 And he carried away all his cattle, and all his goods which he had gotten, the cattle of his getting, which he had gotten in Padan-aram, for to go to Isaac his father in the land of Canaan.

19 And Laban went to shear his sheep: and Rachel had stollen the † images that were her fathers q.

q Quest. 1. What were those Teraphims or images? Ans. They were images made in the shape of men, 1 Sam. 19. 13. 16. which the Gentiles worshipped as subordinate Gods, ver. 30, 32. of this chapter, to which they committed the protection of their Families, 1 Sam. 19. 13. which they used to consult about secret or future things, and from which they received answers about them, Ezek. 21. 21. Zech. 10. 2. Of these see more Judg. 17. 5. and 18. 14, 17. &c. Hos. 3. 4. And these Idols Laban worshipped together with the true God. Quest. 2. Why did Rachel steal them? Ans. Partly lest her father by consulting them should discover their flight and the course which they took; and partly because she seemed yet to retain a superstitious conceit of them, as may be gathered from Gen. 35. 2. Others, because they were pretty and precious things, made of Silver and Gold, which she took as a part of what was due to her both as his daughter and for her Husbands service. Others, that she might remove so great an occasion of her Fathers Idolatry, and shew him the vanity of such Gods as might be stoln away.

20 And Jacob stole away † unawares to Laban r the Syrian, in that he told him not that he fled.

r Heb. Stole away the heart of Laban, to wit, his daughters, his cattle, and his gods, upon which his heart was vehemently set, as Michals was, Judg. 18. 24. But if this had been meant, it had been imputed to Rachel and not to Jacob, who knew nothing of the Gods. Or rather, stole away from the heart. &c. the Hebrew eth being put for meeth as Gen. 4. 1. and 49. 25. 1 King. 8. 43. compared with 2 Chron. 6. 33. Mic. 3. 8. i. e. without the knowledge and consent of Laban, which sense is confirmed by the words next following, and by ver. 26, 27. and by the like use of the phrase, 2. Sam. 19. 3. Thus he fled because he knew Labans selfish and unrighteous and cruel disposition, that he would always hinder him from departing either by fraudulent pretences, or by open force, nor suffer so great a diminution in that estate, which he thought one time or other he might in good measure recover to himself.

21 So he fled with all that he had, and he rose up and passed over the river s, and set his face t toward the mount Gilead u.

s Euphrates, which lay between Mesopotamia and Chaldea, Gen. 15. 18. which for its largeness and famousness is oft called the River emphatically, as Exod. 23. 31. Jos. 24. 2, 3. &c. t (i. e.) Resolutely directed his course. See Jer. 50. 5. Luk. 9. 51, 53. u A very high and long mountain beyond Jordan adjoyning to the Mountain of Lebanon at the foot of which there was a large and fruitful country which from the Mountain received the name of Gilead, Deut. 34. 1. Jer. 8. 22. and 22. 6. This Mountain is here called Gilead by anticipation, as appears from ver. 48.

22 And it was told Laban on the third day x, that Jacob was fled.

x That he heard of it no sooner must be ascribed to the great distance which Laban had put between his and Jacobs flocks, Gen. 30. 36. and to the care and art which Jacob used to prevent a sooner discovery.

23 And he took his brethren with him; and pursued after him seven dayes journey, and they overtook him in the mount Gilead:

24 And God came to Laban the Syrian * in a dream by night, and said unto him, Take heed that thou speak not to Jacob † either good or bad y.

* Job 33. 15.

y Neither perswading him by flattering promises and cunning Artifices, nor compelling him by threatnings, to return. For so these general words must be limited, as is evident from Gods design in them, and from the following Relation. So this is a Synecdochical expression.

25 Then Laban overtook Jacob. Now Jacob had pitched his tent in the Mount, and Laban with his brethren pitched in the mount of Gilead.

26 And Laban said to Jacob, What hast thou done, that thou hast stollen away unawares to me, and carried away my daughters as captives taken with the sword z?

z By force and violence. A false accusation; for they freely consented, ver. 14. 15, 16.

27 Wherefore didst thou flee away secretly, and † steal away from me, and didst not tell me? that I might have sent thee away with mirth, and with songs, with tabret, and with harp, † Heb. hast stollen me.

† Heb. felt

28 And hast not suffered me to kiss my sons and my daughters a? thou hast now done foolishly in so doing b.

a As was usual at the parting of Friends. See the note on Gen. 29. 11. b. But indeed Jacob took the wisest course for the security of his Person and Estate, especially having the direction and protection of God in it.

29 It is in the power of my hand to do you hurt: but the God of your father c spake unto me yesternight, saying, Take thou heed, that thou speak not to Jacob either good or bad.

c Isaac or Abraham, by which he disowns him for his God, and tacitly reproacheth him with the novelty of his Religion, which was first brought in by his father, Compare ver 53.

30 And now though thou wouldst needs be gone, because thou sore longedst after thy fathers house, yet wherefore hast thou stoln my Gods d?

d Laban could not be so senseless as to take those for true Gods which could be stollen away, but he calleth them Gods, because they were the means or representations whereby he worshipped his Gods.

31 And Jacob answered and said to Laban, because I was afraid: for I said, Peradventure thou wouldst take by force thy daughters from me.

32 With whomsoever thou findest thy Gods, * let him not live e: before our brethren discern thou what is thine with me, and take it to thee: for Jacob knew not that Rachel had stollen them.

* chap. 44.

e I give my consent that he shall die by the hands of Justice. A rash and inconsiderate sentence.

33 And Laban went into Jacobs tent, and into Leahs tent f, and into the two maid-servants tents: but he found them not. Then went he out of Leahs tent, and entred into Rachels tent.

f The Men and Womens Tents were distinct and separate. See Gen. 18. 2. and 24. 67.

34 Now Rachel had taken the Images, and put them in the camels furniture, and sate upon them: and Laban † searched all the tent, but found them not.

† Heb. felt

35 And she said to her father, Let is not displease my Lord, that I cannot rise up before thee g; for for the cuſtom of women is upon me: and he ſearched, but found not the Images.

g Queſt. How could that occaſion hinder her from riſing up to her Father? Anſw. 1. It might be attended in her, as it was and is in ſome other women, eſpecially in thoſe hot countries, with a greater flux of blood, or with more than ordinary infirmity and ſickneſs; and this Laban might know to be uſual with her by former obſervation or information. 2. She offers this as a reaſon not why ſhe could not riſe up to ſhew a civility to him, but why ſhe could not riſe up from his face, or from before him, as the words in the Hebrew ſound, i. e. ſo as to give way to him that he might come and ſearch there for the Images: becauſe menſtruous women were antiently eſteemed polluted and to pollute the things which they touched or ſat upon, as you may ſee by Levit. 15. 19. 20, 21, 22. Which law though it were not yet given and written, yet that as well as divers other Ceremonial Rites might be enjoyned by God and obſerved by ſober Heathens at that time, eſpecially by ſuch as were akin to Abraham, as Laban and his Family were, who by that means might eaſily come to the knowledge of ſuch matters. Add to this, one of the ſeven precepts given to the Sons of Noah was that of uncovering nakedneſs; which both Jewiſh and Chriſtian writers take to be a very comprehenſive expreſſion and to include all ſuch things as have a natural turpitude in them, among which this is confeſſed to be one. And the words thus underſtood contain a ſolid and ſatisfactory reaſon why Laban ſhould not now come near her, nor ſearch the things which ſhe ſat upon, which had been an uncivil and immodeſt thing.

36 And Jacob was very wroth, and chode with Laban, and Jacob anſwered, and ſaid to Laban, What is my Treſpaſs? what is my ſin, that thou haſt ſo hotly purſued after me h?

h With ſo much fury and violence.

37 Whereas thou haſt † ſearched all my ſtuff, what haſt thou found of all thy houſhold-ſtuff? ſet it here before my brethren, and thy brethren, that they may judge betwixt us both.

38 This twenty years have I been with thee: thy ewes, and thy ſhe-goats have not caſt their young i, and the rams of thy flock have I not eaten.

i Which thou oweſt in a great meaſure to my care and diligence in ordering them, and principally to Gods bleſſing given to thee for my ſake, by thy own confeſſion, Gen. 30. 27.

* Exod. 22. 12.

39 That which was torn of beaſts I brought not unto thee, I bare the loſs of it: of * my hand didſt thou require it k, whether ſtollen by day, or ſtollen by night.

k Which was unjuſt and unreaſonable, except where it fell out through the Shepherds default, See Exod. 22. 13. Queſt. How could Jacob pay theſe loſſes, ſeeing he came empty from his Fathers houſe, and got nothing by his ſervice for the firſt 14 years, but his wives? Anſ. Either 1. he had ſome ſupplies ſent from his Father, though it be not mentioned in this Hiſtory: or 2. he might have ſome inconſiderable allowances or priviledges from Laban, out of which he could eaſily defray theſe charges, which becauſe of his great care and watchfulneſs did but ſeldom happen: or 3. theſe loſſes were put to his account, to be ſatisfied by him as ſoon as he ſhould be able to do it.

‖ Through my extraordinary thoughtfulneſs and care about thy cattle, eſpecially in caſes of danger.

41 Thus have I been twenty years in thy houſe: I ſerved thee fourteen years for thy two daughters, and ſix years for thy cattle; and thou haſt changed my wages ten times.

42 Except the God of my Father, the God of Abraham, and the fear of Iſaac l had been with me, ſurely thou hadſt ſent me away now empty: God hath ſeen my affliction m, and the labour of mine hands, and rebuked thee yeſternight.

l (i. e.) The God whom my father Iſaac worſhips with reverence and godly fear, as appears by comparing ver. 53. The act is here put for the Object, as it frequently is, and particularly God is called our fear, Iſa. 8. 13. And fear is one of Gods names amongſt the Rabbins. He calls him not Iſaacs God, but his fear, becauſe Iſaac was yet alive and in the ſtate of probation and ſerved God with fear and trembling. See Gen. 27. 33. The Jews obſerve, that God is not called the God of any particular perſon, as of Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, till after their death. m With compaſſion and intention of good to me for it. Gods ſeeing is oft uſed for his relieving and helping, as Gen. 16. 13. and 29. 32. Exod. 3. 7, 9. Or, hath ſhewed or proved it, to wit, that he hath ſeen, &c. Compare Gen. 20. 16. Either way it is an Ellipſis of the pronoun, which is uſual, as appears by comparing 1 King. 10. 7. with 2 Chron. 9. 6. and Pſal. 41. 9. with Joh. 13. 18.

43 And Laban anſwered, and ſaid unto Jacob, Theſe daughters are my daughters, and theſe children are my children, and theſe cattle are my cattle, and all that thou ſeeſt is mine: and what can I do this day unto theſe my daughters, or unto their children which they have born o?

o He pretends that to be an act of his natural affection and kindneſs which was indeed the effect of his fear.

44 Now therefore come thou, let us make a covenant, I and thou: and let it be for a witneſs between me and thee p.

p Both to our own conſciences of our mutual Obligations, and to God againſt either of us who ſhall break it, that he may ſeverely puniſh us for it.

45 And Jacob took a ſtone, and ſet it up for a pillar q.

q In Teſtimony of his compliance with Labans propoſal, and his entring into this Covenant. See Exod. 24. 4.

46 And Jacob ſaid unto his brethren, Gather ſtones: and they took ſtones, and made an heap, and they did eat r there upon the heap ſ.

r To wit, afterwards, ver. 54. though it be here mentioned by anticipation. ſ Or rather by or beſide the heap, as the Hebrew particle al is oft underſtood, as Pſal. 23. 2. and 81. 7.

47 And Laban called it ‖ Jegar-ſahadutha: but Jacob called it Galeed t.

t Both names ſignifie the ſame thing, an heap of witneſs, onely Laban gives the name in the Syrian Language; but Jacob, though he had been long converſant in Syria and underſtood that Language, yet he choſe to give it in Hebrew, which was both a ſecret renouncing of the Syrian Manners and Religion together with their Language, and an implicit profeſſion of his conjunction with the Hebrews as in their Tongue ſo in their Religion.

48 And Laban ſaid, This heap is a witneſs between me and thee this day. Therefore was the name of it called Galeed.

49 And ‖ Mizpah: for he ſaid, The LORD watch between me and thee, when we are abſent one from another.

‖ That is, a beacon, or watch-tower.

50 If thou ſhalt afflict my daughters, or if thou ſhalt take other wives beſide my daughters u, no man is with us x; See, God it witneſs betwixt me and thee.

u The curſe is here underſtood, as it commonly is, to maintain a greater reverence for Oaths, and to beget a greater dread of the curſe belonging to the violators of it. x (i. e.) Here is now no man with us, who, when we are parted, can witneſs and judge between us and puniſh the Tranſgreſſour. Or thus, Though now we have many with us, as witneſſes of this agreement, yet ſhortly when we ſhall be parted, no man will be with us, to obſerve and report our actions to the other, or to do the injur'd perſon right.

51 And Laban ſaid to Jacob, Behold this heap, and behold this pillar, which I have caſt betwixt me and thee.

52 This heap be Witneſs, and this pillar be witneſs, that I will not paſs over this heap to thee, and that thou ſhalt not paſs over this heap, and this pillar unto me, for harm.

53 The God of Abraham, and the God of Nahor, the God of their father y, judge betwixt us. And Jacob ſware by the fear of his father Iſaac.

y He joyns the Idols with the true God, and ſecretly chargeth the Religion of Jacob and Abraham, with novelty, and prefers his own as the moſt antient Religion. See Joſ. 24. 2. whence we may learn, that Antiquity of it ſelf is no certain argument of the true Church or Religion.

54 Then Jacob ‖ offered ſacrifice z upon the mount, and called his brethren to eat bread, and they did eat bread, and tarried all night in the mount.

z Either to give God thanks for the great mercies and deliverances vouchſafed to him, or to beg Gods bleſſing upon the preſent treaty and upon their whole family. But it is not ſo probable probable that Jacob would chuſe that time for the offering of Sacrifices when Laban was preſent, whom he could neither honeſtly admit to them, nor conveniently exclude from them. And therefore ſeeing the ſame Hebrew word ſignifies killing as well as ſacrificing, as appears from Numb. 22. 40. 1 Sam. 28. 24. 1 King. 1 9. 2 Chron. 18. 2. &c. I rather underſtand it of his killing of beaſts in order to a Feaſt, which he made for his brethren, whom he called, as it here follows, to eat bread, &c. under vvhich phraſe all meats are uſually comprehended in Scripture, as hath been already noted, and will appear hereafter. And this practice was uſual in thoſe times to confirm Covenants by a Feaſt. See Gen. 26. 30.

55 And early in the morning, Laban roſe up and kiſſed his ſons, and his daughters, and bleſſed them: and Laban departed, and returned unto his place.

CHAP. XXXII.

1 AND Jacob went on his way, and the Angels of God met him a.

a In viſible, humane, and glorious ſhape, as they frequently appeared to the Patriarchs.

2 And when Jacob ſaw them, he ſaid, This is God hoſt b: and he called the name of that place ‖ Mahanaim c.

b So the Angels are juſtly called for their great number, Dan. 7. 10. Luk. 2. 13. excellent order, mighty power, and for their uſe and ſervice to God, and to his Church, for whoſe protection they are ſent. See 2 King. 6. 17. Pſal. 34. 7. c (i. e.) Two hoſts, ſo called, either becauſe the Angels divided themſelves into two companies, and placed themſelves ſome before, others behind him, or ſome on each ſide of him for his greater comfort and ſecurity: or, becauſe the Angels made one hoſt, and his family another.

3 And Jacob ſent meſſengers before him to Eſau his brother, unto the land of Seir d, the † countrey of Edom e.

d Of which ſee Gen. 14. 6. and 36. 9. 20, 21. whither Eſau had removed his habitation from Canaan, partly out of diſcontent at his Parents; partly as moſt convenient for his courſe of life; and principally by direction of Divine Providence, that Canaan might be left free and clear for Jacob and his poſterity. e So that Seir and Edom either are one and the ſame place; or rather Seir was a part of Edom. Some ſay both names are put here for diſtinction. For they make two lands of Edom, the one Southward from Canaan, the other Eaſtward, and this latter they underſtand here, alledging that the other or Southern was ſo remote from mount Gilead, whence Jacob was now deſcending, that Jacob need not fear Eſau at that diſtance, nor ſend to him. But as that diſtinction ſeems to be without ſolid ground, ſo this reaſon ſeems to have but little weight in it, both becauſe though this Hiſtory immediately follows his deſcent from Mount Gilead, yet it might be done ſome competent time after it, and becauſe Jacob in his journey to thoſe parts where his father Iſaac lived, and whither he was going, was ſtill drawing nearer and nearer to Eſau.

4 And he commanded them, ſaying, Thus ſhall ye ſpeak unto my lord f Eſau, Thy ſervant Jacob ſaith thus; I have ſojourned with Laban, and ſtayed there until now g.

f Which Title being but a civil reſpect commonly given in Scripture to ſuch perſons as have no authority nor ſuperiority over them who uſe it, as Gen. 23. 6. and 24. 18. Jacob doth not hereby renounce his right of Primogeniture which was devolved upon him, nor return it to Eſau. Nor if he did hereby acknowledge Eſau his Superiour for the preſent, would this have been injurious to that right, becauſe Jacob was not yet in actual poſſeſſion of it, for it was not to commence till his Fathers death, and indeed did more belong to his poſterity, than to his perſon, and as to his perſon, did more reſpect his ſpiritual advantages, then his worldly greatneſs. See Gen. 27. 29. g As a ſtranger and exile, and ſo a more proper object for thy pity, then for thy envy.

5 And I have oxen, and aſſes, flocks, and Men-ſervants, and women-ſervants h: and I have ſent to tell my Lord i, that I may find grace in thy ſight k.

h Yet in my exile God hath bleſſed me with a competency of worldly goods, and therefore I am not likely to be either a burden to thee, or a diſgrace to our Family. i To acquaint him with my coming and with the ſtate of my affairs. k That I may obtain pardon for my former errours, and thy favour and friendſhip for the future.

6 And the meſſenger returned to Jacob, ſaying, We came to thy brother Eſau l, and alſo * he cometh to meet thee, and four hundred men with him m.

* chap. 33. 1.

l Who gave them but an imperfect and a doubtful anſwer as appears from Jacobs fear, ver. 7. m Which he brought either as his uſual guard, he being then a great man in thoſe parts: or in oſtentation of his power and greatneſs in ſpight of all the injury which his Father or Brother did him: or becauſe at firſt he deſigned miſchief to Jacob, as may ſeem by his diſmiſſing of his meſſengers without any teſtimony of his favour, though afterwards upon Jacobs prayer, God changed his mind.

7 Then Jacob was greatly afraid n, and diſtreſſed, and he divided the people that was with him, and the flocks, and herds, and the camels into two bands, n Notwithſtanding the renewed promiſe of God, and the late apparition of Angels; wherein he ſhewed the weakneſs of his Faith, to which God left him for his Trial and Exerciſe, and to quicken him to prayer, that ſo God might have more Glory and he more Comfort in the mercy.

8 And ſaid, If Eſau come to the one company, and ſmite it, then the other company which is left, ſhall eſcape o.

o Either by flight, or becauſe he ſuppoſed Eſaus revenge would be ſatisfied with the firſt ſlaughter.

9 And Jacob ſaid, O God p of my father Abraham, and God of my father Iſaac, the LORD, which ſaidſt unto me, * Return unto thy countrey, and to thy kindred, and I will deal well with thee:

* chap. 31.

p It is obſervable that Jacob directs his prayers to God immediately, and not to the Angels, though now if ever he had reaſon and obligation to do ſo, from their viſible apparition to him for his ſuccour and comfort.

10 † I am not worthy of the leaſt of all the mercies, and of all the truth, which thou haſt ſhewed unto thy ſervant q: for with my ſtaff r, I paſſed over this Jordan s, and now I am become two bands t.

† Heb. I am leſs then all

q In fulfilling thy promiſes made to me, and much more am I unworthy of thoſe further mercies which I am now about to beg of thee. r Having nothing with me but my travelling ſtaff for my ſupport. Or, that Jordan, either which I now ſee, as being at this time upon an high hill; or, which my mind is ſet upon as that river which I am going to repaſs, that I may go to my Father and to that good Land which thou haſt given to me and mine for ever. t Or two Troops, or companies: into which he had now divided his people and cattle, ver. 7.

11 Deliver me, I pray thee, from the hand of my brother, from the hand of Eſau: for I fear him, leſt he will come and ſmite me, and the mother † with the children u.

u A proverbial ſpeech noting a total deſtruction. Compare Deut. 22. 6. Hoſ. 10. 14.

12 And * thou ſaideſt, I will ſurely do thee good, and make thy ſeed as the ſand of the ſea, which cannot be numbred for multitude.

* chap. 28. 14.

13 And he lodged there that ſame night, and took of that which came to his hand x, a preſent for Eſau his brother:

x Either that which was in his hand and power: or rather that which was neareſt at hand and moſt ready for him, becauſe the approaching night and his own great fear gave him not leave to make ſo ſcrupulous a choice as otherwiſe he would have made.

14 Two hundred ſhe-goats, and twenty he-goats, two hundred ewes, and twenty rams.

15 Thirty milch camels with their colts, forty kine, and ten bulls, twenty ſhe-aſſes, and ten foals.

16 And he delivered them into the hands of his ſervants, every drove by themſelves, and ſaid unto his ſervants, Paſs over before me, and put a ſpace betwixt drove and drove y.

y That his gift might be repreſented to Eſau with moſt advantage, and his mind might by little and little be ſweetned towards him.

17 And he commanded the foremoſt, ſaying, When Eſau my brother meeteth thee, and asketh thee, ſaying, Whoſe art thou? and whither goeſt thou? and whoſe are theſe before thee?

18 Then thou ſhalt ſay, They be thy ſervant Jacobs:

Jacobs: it is a preſent ſent unto my lord Eſau: and behold alſo, he is behind us z.

z Coming to ſee thy face and beg thy favour.

19 And ſo commanded he the ſecond, and the third, and all that followed the droves, ſaying, On this manner ſhall you ſpeak unto Eſau, when you find him.

20 And ſay ye moreover, Behold, thy ſervant Jacob is behind us: for he ſaid, I will appeaſe him a with the preſent that goeth before me, and afterward I will ſee his face: peradventure he will accept † of me b.

a Heb. appeaſe or allay his anger; for the Hebrew word panim ſignifies both anger, as Pſal. 21. 9. and 34 16. and face, as every where, becauſe a mans anger, is moſt diſcernable in his face or countenance, Prov. 21. 14. b Heb. Will lift up my face or countenance, which now is dejected with the ſenſe of his diſpleaſure. Compare Gen. 4. 6. or, will accept of my perſon, as this phraſe is oft uſed.

21 So went the preſent over before him: and himſelf lodged that night in the company.

22 And he roſe up that night, and took his two wives, and his two women ſervants, and his eleven ſons c, and paſſed over the ford Jabbok d.

c And Dinah, though ſhe be not here mentioned, as the women are oft omitted in Scripture, as being comprehended under the men. d Which is here generally related, but the time and manner of it is particularly deſcribed in the following verſes. Of this ford Jabbok ſee Numb. 21. 24. Deut. 3. 16.

23 And he took them, and † ſent them over the brook, and ſent over that he had.

24 And Jacob was left alone e: and there wreſtled a man f with him, until the † breaking of the day.

e In ſome private place, it matters not on which ſide Jabbok, that he might more freely and ardently pour out his ſoul unto God. f An Angel, yea, the Angel of the Covenant, the Son of God, as it is plain from ver. 28, 30. and Hoſ. 12. 3, 4. who did here, as oft elſewhere, aſſume the ſhape and body of a man, that he might do this work: For this wreſtling was real and corporeal in its nature, though it was alſo myſtical and ſpiritual in its ſignification, as we ſhall ſee, and it was accompanied with an inward wreſtling by ardent prayers joyned with tears, Hoſ. 12. 4.

25 And when he ſaw that he prevaled not againſt him g, he touched * the hollow of his thigh ‖: and the hollow of Jacobs thigh was out of joint, as he wreſtled with him h.

* See Mat. 26. 2 Cor. 12. 7.

g Not through impotency, but in deſign, he ſuffered himſelf to be conquered, to encourage Jacobs faith and hope againſt the approaching danger. ‖ The joint of his Hip-bone, or rather the hollow in which that joint was. h Which was done that Jacob might ſee that it was not his own ſtrength, but onely Gods grace, vvhich got him this Victory, and could give him the deliverance vvhich he hoped for.

26 And he ſaid, Let me go i, for the day breaketh k: and he ſaid, * I will not let thee go, except thou bleſs me l.

* Hoſ. 12. 4.

i He ſaith this partly to ſhevv the prevailing povver of his prayer vvith God, and partly to quicken and encourage Jacob to perſiſt in his conflict. Compare Exod. 32. 10. Deut. 9. 14. k And I am not vvilling that there ſhould be any ſpectators or vvitneſſes of theſe things. l With the bleſſings which thou haſt promiſed to Abraham and to me, among vvhich one is protection in this hour of my danger. For Jacob now began to think that it was no man, nor ordinary Angel, that was with him, but God himſelf, as he ſaith ver. 30.

27 And he ſaid unto him, What is thy name? and he ſaid, Jacob.

28 And he ſaid, * Thy name ſhall be called no more Jacob m, but Iſrael n: for as a Prince haſt thou power with God, and with men o, and haſt prevailed p.

* Chap. 35. 10.

m Not Jacob onely. See the like manner of expreſſion, 1 Sam. 8. 7. Jer. 23. 7. Joh. 7. 16. 1 Cor. 1. 17. n Which ſignifies a Prince or prevailer with God: or a Prince of God, i. e. a great Prince and Conqueror. o Thou haſt in ſome ſort conquered both God, in this conflict, and men, Laban, Eſau, &c. p Or, and ſhalt prevail over Eſau of whom thou art afraid.

29 And Jacob asked him, and ſaid, tell me, I pray thee, thy name q; and he ſaid, Wherefore is it that thou doſt ask after my name r? and he bleſſed him there s.

q That I may give thee the honour due to it. Art thou a created Angel, or art thou the ever-bleſſed God? r A queſtion which carries in it both a denial of his requeſt, as Judg. 13. 17, 18. and a reproof of his curioſity. s In an eminent and peculiar manner, which was a real anſwer to Jacobs queſtion, and gave him to underſtand both his name and nature.

30 And Jacob called the name of the place † Peniel: for I * have ſeen God face to face t, and my life is preſerved u.

† That is, the face of God. * Exod. 24. 11, and 33. 20. Deut. 5. 24. Iſa. 6. 5.

t Not in his Eſſence, for ſo no man ever ſaw God, Joh. 1. 18. nor yet in a dream or viſion, but in a moſt evident, ſenſible, familiar and friendly manifeſtation of himſelf. u And I am now well aſſured of my ſafety from Eſau whoſe approach threatned my life. Or he ſpeaks of it with wonder, as others did, that he ſhould ſee God, and not be ſtruck dead by the Glory of his preſence. Compare Gen. 16. 13. Exod. 20. 19. Judg. 6. 22, 23. and 13. 22.

31 And as he paſſed over Peniel, the ſun roſe upon him, and he halted upon his thigh.

32 Therefore the children of Iſrael eat not x of the ſinew which ſhrank, which is upon the hollow of the thigh, unto this day: becauſe he touched the hollow of Jacobs thigh, in the ſinew that ſhrank.

x Not from any ſuperſtitious conceit about it, but onely for a memorial of this admirable conflict, the bleſſed effects whereof even the future generations received.

CHAP. XXXIII.

1 AND Jacob lifted up his eyes, and looked, and behold, * Eſau came, and with him four hundred men: and he divided the children unto Leah, and unto Rachel, and unto the two handmaids.

* Chap. 32. 6.

2 And he put the handmaids, and their children foremoſt, and Leah and her children after, and Rachel and Joſeph hindermoſt a.

a Placing his beſt beloved in the laſt and ſafeſt place.

3 And he paſſed over before them b, and bowed himſelf to the ground ſeven times, until he came near to his brother.

b Expoſing himſelf to the firſt and greateſt hazard for the ſecurity of his Wives and Children.

4 And Eſau ran to meet him, and embraced him, and fell on his neck, and kiſſed him, and they wept.

5 And he lift up his eyes, and ſaw the Women, and the Children, and ſaid, Who are thoſe † with thee? and he ſaid, The Children which God hath graciouſly given thy Servant.

† Heb. to her.

6 Then the handmaidens came near, they and their children, and they bowed themſelves.

7 And Leah alſo with her children came near, and bowed themſelves: and after came Joſeph near and Rachel, and they bowed themſelves.

8 And he ſaid, † what meaneſt thou by all this drove, which I met? † And he ſaid, Theſe are to find grace in the ſight of my Lord.

† Heb. What is all this band to thee.

† He knew his meaning before from the ſervants mouths, but he asks that he might both be more certainly informed of the Truth, and have an occaſion for a civil refuſal of the gift.

9 And Eſau ſaid, I have enough, my brother: † keep that thou haſt unto thy ſelf c.

c I neither need it for my uſe, nor deſire it as a compenſation for thy former injuries.

10 And Jacob ſaid, Nay, I pray thee: If now I have found grace in thy ſight, then receive my preſent at my hand: for therefore d I have ſeen thy face, as though I had ſeen the face of God e: and thou waſt pleaſed with me.

d Or, For I therefore tender it unto thee, and humbly beg thy acceptance of it, becauſe: for the Hebrew Al-cen is uſed Numb. 14. 43. and elſewhere. e It is in a manner as pleaſant a ſight to me as the ſight of God himſelf, becauſe in thy reconciled face I ſee the face and favour of God thus manifeſted unto me.

11 Take I pray thee, my bleſſing f that is brought to thee; becauſe God hath dealt graciouſly with me, and becauſe I have † enough: and he urged him, and he took it.

f This gift which as I received from Gods bleſſing, ſo I heartily give it to thee with my bleſſing and prayer that God would abundantly bleſs it to thee. Gifts are oft called bleſſings, as Joſ. 15. 19. 1 Sam. 25. 27. and 30. 26.

12 And he ſaid, Let us take our journey, and let us go, and I will go before thee g.

g Or rather, beſide thee, ſo as to keep thee company, or to keep pace with thee.

13 And he ſaid unto him, My Lord knoweth, that the children are tender h, and the flocks and herds with young are with me i: and if men ſhould overdrive them one day, all the flock will die.

h The eldeſt of them, Reuben, not being yet fourteen years old. i Or, upon me, i. e. committed to my care, to be managed as their neceſſities require. See Iſa. 40. 11.

14 Let my Lord, I pray thee, paſs over before his ſervant, and I will lead on ſoftly, according † as the cattle that goeth before me, and the children be able to endure, until I come unto my Lord unto Seir k.

† Heb. according to the foot of the work, &c. and according to the foot of the children.

k We do not read that Jacob did according to this promiſe or inſinuation go to Seir, either therefore he changed his firſt intentions for ſome weighty reaſons or upon warning from God: Or, he uſed this onely as a pretence, which we ſhould not too eaſily believe of ſo good a man, eſpecially after ſuch dangers and deliverances: or rather he did perform this promiſe, though the Scripture be ſilent of it, as it is of many other hiſtorical paſſages, and as it is here concerning Jacobs viſiting of his father Iſaac, which is not mentioned till ten years after this time, and yet it is utterly incredible that Jacob ſhould be ſo near to his dear and worthy Father for ſo long a time together, and not once give him a viſit.

15 And Eſau ſaid, Let me now † leave with thee ſome of the folk that are with me: And he ſaid, † what needeth it? * let me find grace in the ſight of my Lord.

† Heb. wherefore is this?
* chap. 34. 11.

16 So Eſau returned that day, on his way unto Seir.

17 And Jacob journyed to Succoth, and built him an houſe l, and made booths for his cattle: therefore the name of the place is called || Succoth.

l Which doubtleſs was ſome ſlight building, becauſe he intended not to ſtay there.

18 And Jacob came to Shalem m, a City of || Shechem, which is in the land of Canaan, when he came from Padan-Aram, and pitched his tent before the City n.

m Moſt take it for the proper name of a place belonging to Shechem, as it here follows, called Salim, John 3. 23. and Sichem or Sychar, John 4. 5. But others take it for an appellative noun, and render the place thus, he came ſafe, or whole to the City of Shechem: to note either that he was then cured of the lameneſs which the Angel gave him: Or rather, to note the good providence of God that had brought him ſafe in his Perſon, Family, and Eſtate, through all his dangers; firſt from Laban, then from Eſau till he came to this place, where it ſeems he intended to make his abode for a good while, had not the following miſcarriages obliged him to remove. n (i. e.) Near to it, but not in it, for the coveniency of his Cattle.

19 And * he bought o a parcel of a field where he had ſpread his tent, at the hand of the children p of || Hamor, Shechems father, for an hundred || pieces of money q.

* Joſh. 24. 32.
|| called Acts 7. 16. Emor.

o For his preſent poſſeſſion and uſe; for the right which he had to it, was only in Reverſion after the time that God had allotted for it. p (i. e.) Subjects, called his Children to note the duty which they owed to him, and the Care and Affection that he owed to them. Compare Numb. 11. 12. q The word is uſed onely here, and Joſ. 24. 32. Job 42 11. and it may ſignifie either Lambs, given in way of exchange for it, or pieces of money, which ſeems more probable, both by comparing Act. 7. 16. and becauſe money was come into uſe in that place and time, Gen. 17. 12, 13. and 23. 16. and 47. 16. which were called Lambs poſſibly from the figure of a Lamb ſtamped upon it, as the Athenian money was called an Oxe for the like reaſon, and as we call a piece of Gold a Jacobus, becauſe the picture of that King is upon it.

20 And he erected there an Altar, and called it || El-Elohe-Iſrael r.

r Or, Called upon El-Elohe-Iſrael, the particle Lo, being redundant, as ſuch pronouns oft are, as Gen. 12. 1. and Joſhua 20. 2.

CHAP. XXXIV.

1 AND * Dinah the daughter of Leah, which ſhe bare unto Jacob, went out a to ſee the daughters of the land.

* Chap. 30. 21.

a From her fathers houſe into the City, out of curioſity, there being then, as Joſephus reports, a great concourſe of people to a Feaſt. Thus ſhe put her ſelf out of her Fathers protection, and meerly out of a vain humour, expoſed both her ſelf and others to Temptation, which was the worſe becauſe it was amongſt them that had no fear of God to reſtrain them from the moſt enormous crimes. She was now fourteen or fifteen years old.

Joſ. 5.

2 And when Shechem the ſon of Hamor the Hivite, Prince of the country ſaw her, he took her, and lay with her, and † defiled her.

† Heb. humbled her.

3 And his ſoul clave unto Dinah the daughter of Jacob, and he loved the damſel, and ſpake † kindly unto the damſel b.

† Heb. to the heart of the Damſel. See Iſa. 40. 2. Hoſ. 2. 14.

b Perceiving her to be exceedingly enraged and perplexed at this horrid violence, he endeavours to appeaſe and ſweeten her and to get her conſent to marry him.

4 And Shechem ſpake unto his Father Hamor, ſaying, Get me this damſel to wife c.

c He deſires both his fathers conſent and aſſiſtance herein.

5 And Jacob heard that he had defiled Dinah his daughter (now his ſons were with his cattle in the field) and Jacob held his peace until they were come d.

d Being unable to puniſh the delinquent, and not knowing what to do, he waits for his ſons coming and advice.

6 And Hamor the father of Shechem, went out unto Jacob to commune with him.

7 And the ſons of Jacob came out of the field, when they heard it, and the men were grieved: and they were very wroth, becauſe he had wrought folly e in Iſrael f, in lying with Jacobs daughter, which thing ought not to be done g.

e That is, wickedneſs, which howſoever vain men many times eſteem their wiſdom, by the ſentence of the all-wiſe God is accounted and commonly in Scripture called folly, as Deut. 22. 21. Joſ. 7. 15. Judg. 19. 23. and 20. 6. &c. f Or, againſt Iſrael, either 1. againſt the perſon, and in or againſt the Family of Iſrael, a perſon near and dear to God and highly honoured by him and in Covenant with God; who therefore eſteems the injuries done to Iſrael, as if they were done to himſelf. See Gen. 12. 3. Exod. 23. 22. Zech. 2. 8. Or, 2. in or againſt the Church of God, which then was in a manner confined to that family, and which is oft called by the name of Iſrael. See Deut. 22. 21. Joſ. 7. 15. And Moſes may here vary the phraſe from what was uſed in Jacobs time to what was uſual in his time, the ſenſe being in both the ſame, and therefore not altered by ſuch a change. g Heb. ſhall not be done, i. e. ſhould not, &c. But in the Hebrew language words of the future time, oft ſignifie duty and decency, as Mal. 1. 6. and 2. 7.

8 And Hamor communed with them h, ſaying, The ſoul of my ſon Shechem longeth for your daughter i: I pray you give her him to wife.

h With Jacobs ſons, to whom Jacob committed the buſineſs, being himſelf oppreſſed with ſhame, and grief and fear for his daughter. i The daughter of your family: or he thus ſpeaketh to her brothers, becauſe they tranſacted all in their fathers name.

9 And make ye marriages with us, and give your daughters unto us, and take our daughters unto you.

10 And ye ſhall dwell with us, and the land ſhall be before you k: dwell and trade you therein, and get you poſſeſſions therein l.

k (i. e.) In your power, to dwell where you pleaſe, and to have the ſame rights and priviledges in it which we enjoy. See Gen. 20. 15. l Or, take poſſeſſion in it, i. e. in any vacant part of it, uſe it for paſture or tillage, as you think good, and take the benefit to your ſelves.

11 And Shechem ſaid unto her father, and unto her brethren, * Let me find grace in your eyes, and what ye ſhall ſay unto me, I will give.

* chap. 33. 15.

12 Ask

12 Ask me never ſo much dowry and gift m, and I will give according as ye ſhall ſay unto me: but give me the damſel to wife.

m Dowry to her for her portion, according to the ancient cuſtom of mens buying their wives: of which ſee Exod. 22.17. and gift to you either for reparation of the paſt injury, or in teſtimony of my reſpect to you and deſire of her, as Gen. 24. 53.

13 And the Sons of Jacob anſwered Shechem, and Hamor his Father deceitfully n, and ſaid, (becauſe he had defiled Dinah their ſiſter.)

n Pretending and promiſing marriages with them upon that condition, which they never intended.

14 And they ſaid unto them, We cannot do this thing, to give our ſiſter to one that is uncircumciſed o: for * that were a reproach unto us.

Joſ. 5. 9.

o There was no ſuch lavv yet in force, as the Examples of Iſaac and Jacob ſhew, who married the daughters of uncircumciſed perſons, and therefore they do not here reject it as ſimply unlavvful, but onely as diſhonourable and reproachful.

17 But if ye will not hearken unto us to be circumciſed, then will we take our daughter, and we will be gone.

18 And their words pleaſed Hamor, and Shechem Hamors ſon.

19 And the young man deferred not to do the thing, becauſe he had delight in Jacobs daughter: and he was more honourable than all the houſe of his father.

20 And Hamor and Shechem his ſon came unto the gate of their City p, and communed with the men of their city, ſaying, p The place vvhere all publick affairs vvere debated and concluded. See on Gen. 22. 17. and 23. 10.

21 Theſe men are peaceable with us, therefore let them dwell in the land, and trade therein; for the land, behold it is large enough for them: let us take their daughters to us for wives, and let us give them our daughters.

22 Onely herein will the men conſent unto us, for to dwell with us, to be one people, if every male among us be circumciſed, as they are circumciſed.

23 Shall not their cattle and their ſubſtance, and every beaſt of theirs be ours q? onely let us conſent unto them and they will dwell with us.

q Either for our uſe and benefit in way of commerce and trade: or becauſe they will deſcend to the iſſue of our children as well as theirs: or becauſe we being more numerous and potent than they, can eaſily over-rule them, and, when we think meet, diſpoſe all things to our own advantage. Thus they cover their private deſign vvith the ſpecious ſhevv of publick good.

24 And unto Hamor, and unto Shechem his ſons hearkned r all that went out of the gate of his city s; and every male was circumciſed, all that went out of the gate of his city.

r They yielded to circumciſion, partly in compliance with their young Prince whom they either loved or feared: and partly for the proſpect of their own advantage; for which men are frequently willing to expoſe themſelves to great pains and hazards. s All the Citizens, that went out of the gate, &c. Or, came in at the gate as they are deſcribed, Gen. 23. 10. Jer. 17. 20. For when the chief perſons had conſented they could eaſily perſvvade or over-rule others to comply vvith them.

25 And it came to paſs on the third day t, when they were ſore u, that two of the ſons of Jacob, Simeon and Levi x, Dinahs brethren y, took each man his ſword, and came upon the city boldly and * ſlew all the males z,

* chap. 49. 6.

t When the pain and grief of wounds is the greateſt, as Phyſitians note. u And therefore not well able to defend themſelves; for circumciſion cauſed great pain in children, which was the ground of that exclamation, Exod. 4. 25. much more in grown men. See Joſ. 5. 8. x Theſe two onely are mentioned, becauſe they were authors of the counſel, and conductors of the reſt in the Execution; but it is probable from ver. 27. that moſt of their brethren were confederate with them, and that they had a conſiderable number of their ſervants with them, who vvould be ready enough to revenge their maſters quarrel and to puniſh ſo great a Villany: but all that vvas done is juſtly aſcribed to them tvvo, as it is common for all writers to ſay this or that vvas done by ſuch a Captain or General, when in truth it was done by his Souldiers. y So they were both by the father and mother; vvhich made them more forward and zealous than the reſt. z Such of them as were grown up, by comparing, ver. 29. for theſe or ſome of them ſeem to have been the abettors of the injury againſt their ſiſter and family. Their ſin in this act was manifold; that they did it without ſufficient authority; and againſt their fathers mind, as appears from ver. 30. and Gen. 49. 6. vvhich they vvell knevv; and vvithout all bounds, raſhly, unjuſtly and cruelly puniſhed the innocent and the guilty together, and uſher'd in this fact with horrible deceit and lying, and that under pretence of friendſhip and ſhew of Religion.

26 And they ſlew Hamor, and Shechem his ſon, with the † edge of the ſword, and took Dinah out of Shechems houſe, and went out.

27 The ſons of Jacob came upon the ſlain, and ſpoiled the city, becauſe they a had defiled their ſiſter.

a (i. e.) One of them, as oft-times that vvhich is done by one man is imputed to the vvhole body. See Joſ. 7. 1, 11, 12. and 22. 20. Mat. 2. 20. Or they impute Shechems fact to all either invidiouſly and cunningly to take off from themſelves the reproach of this cruel action; or becauſe they made themſelves guilty of it either by not diſcouraging and hindring that filthineſs, as far as they might; or by their being inſtrumental in it; or by their approbation of it, and complacency in it.

28 They took their ſheep and their Oxen, and their aſſes, and that which was in the City, and that which was in the field b.

b Thus they add to their cruelty, theft and robbery: which doubtleſs Jacob diſowned when they brought the ſpoil home, and returned back both the ſurviving people and their goods, though it be paſſed over in ſilence, as many other things are. See on Gen. 33. 14.

29 And all their wealth, and all their little ones, and their wives took they captive, and ſpoiled even all that was in the houſe.

c Either in the princes houſe, or in their ſeveral houſes: or within doors, as the word ſignifies.

30 And Jacob ſaid to Simeon and Levi, * Ye have troubled me d * to make me to ſtink e among the inhabitants of the land, amongſt the Canaanites, and the Perizzites: and I being few in number f, they ſhall gather themſelves together againſt me, and ſlay me ‖, and I ſhall be deſtroyed, I, and my houſe.

* Exod. 5. 21.

d You have not onely diſcompoſed my mind but perplexed my affairs, and brought me into ſuch troubles and dangers as I am never likely to eſcape. e You have made me odious to them who will impute this perfidious and bloody fact to my contrivance. f Heb. men of number, i. e. few, for ſuch can eaſily be numbered. So this phraſe is uſed, Deut. 4. 27. and 33. 6. oppoſite to which are men without number, 2 Chron. 12. 3. ‖ He could expect no other in humane reaſon, and they were hindred from ſo doing onely by the hand of the great God ſmiting them with terrour, Gen. 35. 5.

31 And they ſaid, ſhould he deal with our ſiſter as with an harlot g?

g Shall we expreſs no more reſentment of this abominable abuſe of our ſiſter than if ſhe had been ſome common harlot, whoſe abuſe no man either regardeth or avengeth? Thus they excuſe one fault by committing another, and defend themſelves by accuſing their father of ſtupidity and inſenſibleneſs of ſo great an indignity and injury.

CHAP. XXXV.

1 AND God ſaid unto Jacob a, Ariſe go up to Beth-el, and dwell there: and make there an Altar unto God * that appeared unto thee, * when thou fleddeſt from the face of Eſau thy brother b.

* chap. 28. 13.
* chap. 27. 43.

a This was a word in ſeaſon to comfort his diſquieted mind, and convey him to a ſafer place. b Underſtand, and pay thy vows there made in the time of thy diſtreſs, but not yet paid: whether it was Jacobs errour to forget and neglect his former vows and promises: or whether he waited for a fit time or an admonition from God concerning the season of paying them.

2 Then Jacob said unto his household, and to all that were with him; Put away the * strange gods c that are among you d, and be clear e, and change your garments f.

c The Idols, which are so called here and Deut. 31. 16. and 32. 12. Jos. 24. 20. because they were the Gods of strange and forreign Nations, such as all were accounted who were not Israelites. Quest. How came these to be, and to continue so long in Jacobs house? Ans. Either 1. by Rachels means, who brought them from her fathers house, which haply was not discovered till this time. Or 2. by Leah and by Jacobs two concubines who might possibly bring such with them. Or 3. by the means of Jacobs gentile servants who might secretly worship such Gods; or, having taken them from the Sichemites, they might keep them for their precious matter, as gold and silver, though not for religious use. d Like a good man and a good master of a family he takes care not only for himself but for all his family, to keep them from the exercise of a false Religion, and to engage them as far as he can in the profession and practice of the true. Compare Gen. 18. 19. Jos. 24. 18. e Cleanse your selves by outward and ritual washing, as Exod. 19. 10, 14. which even then was in use; and especially by purging your hearts as well as hands from these Idols, which I perceive to my sorrow some of you have still retained; and from your late detestable cruelty; that you may be fit to approach to that God who hath now summoned me and you to make a solemn appearance before him. f Either by putting on new garments, as 2 Sam. 12. 20. or by washing the old ones, as Exod. 19. 10. Levit. 15. 13. And these, as well as other ceremonial institutions and practices were professions of their Repentance, which consists in putting off the old man and putting on the new, Eph. 4. 22.

3 And let us arise and go up to Beth-el, and I will make there an Altar unto God, who answered me in the day of my distress g, and was with me in the way which I went.

g He takes Gods gracious promise and the comfortable hope and assurance of Gods favour to him and care of him impressed by God upon his mind and heart for an answer to his prayers, though he had then seen no success nor accomplishment of Gods word to him.

4 And they gave unto Jacob all the strange gods which were in their hand, and all their earrings which were in their ears h, and Jacob hid them i under the * Oak k which was by Shechem.

*Jos. 24. 26. Judg. 9. 6.

h Either because they had been abused to Idolatry and superstition at Sichem or elsewhere, and therefore were to be destroyed according to Gods command now signified to Jacob and afterwards delivered to his posterity Deut. 7. 5. and 12. 3. or for fear they should be so abused. For the Scripture seems to insinuate, and other writers expressly affirm, that divers heathen people did wear ear-rings for the honour of their idols and with the representations or ensigns of their idols engraven upon them. See Judg. 8. 24. i After he had melted or broken them, which seems probable from parallel instances, as Exod. 32 20. 2 Kings 18. 4. k Under a certain oak, though not known to his family which it was. He chose that place, either as most proper to put monuments of Idolatry under those trees which were so much and so generally abused to Idolatry, as oaks especially were; Isa. 1. 29. or as the safest place, where they were likely to remain longest hid, because the heathen had a veneration for Oaks, and therefore would not cut them down, nor dig them up, nor do any thing which had a tendency that way.

*Exod. 15. 16. and 34. 24. Deut. 11. 25. Jos. 5. 1.

5 And they journeyed: and * the terror of God l was upon the cities that were round about them, and they did not pursue after the sons of Jacob.

l (i. e.) A great terrour sent from God, as Exod. 23. 27. Jos. 2. 9, 11. 2 Chron. 14. 14. and 17. 10. So we read of a sleep of God, 1 Sam. 26. 12. Nothing less could have secured Jacob considering the great number, power, and rage of his enemies.

6 So Jacob came to Luz, which is in the land of Canaan m (that is Beth-el) he and all the people that were with him.

m Properly so called, or where the Canaanites properly so called dwelt: Thus it is distinguished from another Luz, Judg. 1. 26.

*chap 28. 19. ‖ That is, the God of Bethel.

7 And he built there an Altar, and * called the place ‖ El-beth-el n, because there God appeared unto him, when he fled from the face of his brother.

n (i. e.) He confirmed the name which he had formerly given to the place.

8 But Deborah Rebekahs nurse o died, and she was buried beneath Beth-el under an oak: and the name of it was called ‖ Allon-bachuth p.

‖ That is, oak of weep

o Who came with Rebekah into Canaan, Gen. 24. 59. and probably tarried with her whilest she lived, and after her death, as it seems, and upon Jacobs desire after his return from Haran; came into his family; where, being a person of great prudence and piety, her presence and advice was very useful in his numerous and divided family. p From the great lamentation which they made there for the loss of a person of such singular worth.

9 And God appeared unto Jacob again, when he came out of Padan-Aram, and blessed him.

10 And God said unto him, Thy name is Jacob: thy name shall not be called any more Jacob, * but Israel shall be thy name q, and he called his name Israel.

q I do not repent of the change which I made of thy name, but I do again confirm it, and as then thou didst prevail over thy brother Esau, so now thou shalt prevail over those of whom thou art afraid.

11 And God said unto him, * I am God Almighty: be fruitful and multiply, * a Nation, and a company of nations r shall be of thee: and Kings shall come out of thy loyns s.

r Tribes, for number and power equal to so many nations. s (i. e.) Shall be begotten by thee, as this phrase is taken also in Gen. 46. 26. 1 King. 8. 19. Act. 2. 30.

12 And the land * which I gave Abraham and Isaac, to thee will I give it, and to thy seed after thee will I give this land.

13 And God went up from him t in the place where he talked with him.

t Either locally and visibly, to wit, in that humane shape in which he appeared to him; or by withdrawing the signes of his special presence, as Gen. 17. 22. Judg. 13. 20 as on the contrary God is said to come down not by change of place, but by some signal manifestation of his presence and favour, as Exod. 3. 8. Numb. 11. 17.

14 And Jacob set up a pillar u in the place where he talked with him, even a pillar of stone: and he poured a drink-offering x thereon, and he poured oyl thereon.

u Either he repaired the old pillar, set up by him, Gen. 28. 18. which was ruined by the injury of time or by the neighbouring Idolaters, or rather erected a new one, more stable and durable than he could do in that time, as a monument or witness of Gods manifold favours, and of his own gratitude. x Of wine, as may be gathered by comparing Exod. 29. 40. Numb. 28. 14.

15 And Jacob called the name of the place where God spake with him, * Beth-el.

*chap. 28.

16 And they journeyed from Bethel: and there was but † a little way to come to Ephrath: and Rachel travailed, and she had hard labour.

17 And it came to pass, when she was in hard labour, that the midwife said unto her, Fear not: thou shalt have this son also.

18 And it came to pass, as her soul was in departing y, (for she died) that she called his name ‖ Ben-oni: but his father called him † Benjamin z.

‖ That is, the of my sorrow. † That is, the son of my righ hand.

y Or, in going out, namely out of the body, as Psal. 146. 4. which is an argument of the souls immortality, especially if compared with Eccles. 12. 7. From which places laid together we learn the two terms of the journey, whence it goes and whither it goes. z Either as near and dear and precious to him as his right hand, which is both more useful and more honourable than the left: See Psal. 80. 17. or in stead of his right hand, the staff, stay and comfort of his old age.

19 And * Rachel died, and was buried in the way to Ephrath a; which is Bethlehem.

* chap. 48.

a Not in the City though that was near: for in ancient times their Sepulchres were not in the places of resort, but in separated places and out of Cities. See Mat. 27. 60. Luk. 7. 12.

20 And Jacob set a pillar b upon her grave that is the pillar of Rachels grave unto this day c.

b As a monument or memorial of her life and death, and as a teſtimony of her future reſurrection. c (i. e.) Unto the time wherein Moſes writ this book and long after. See 1 Sam. 10. 2. Jer. 31. 15.

21 And Iſrael journeyed, and ſpread his tent beyond the tower of Edar d.

d Or, the tower of the flock, a place where were excellent paſtures. See Mich. 4. 8.

22 And it came to paſs, when Iſrael dwelt in that land, that Reuben went, and * lay with Bilhah his fathers concubine e : and Iſrael heard it f. Now the ſons of Jacob were twelve g.

* chap. 49. 4. 1 Cor. 5. 1.

e An horrid inceſt : for Concubines were a ſort of Wives. See Gen. 22. 24. and 25. 1. f And doubtleſs ſadly reſented it, both in Reuben, as appears from Gen. 49. 4. 1 Chron. 5. 1, 2. and in Bilhah whoſe Bed without queſtion he forſook upon it, as afterwards David did in the like caſe. See 2 Sam. 16. 22. and 20. 3. Yet here is no mention of Jacobs reproof of it, or any cenſure of Moſes added to it : Poſſibly to teach us that we are not to approve of every fact which is mentioned in Scripture without cenſure, and that the miſcarriages of Profeſſors of Religion are rather to be ſilently bewailed, then publickly reproached, leſt Religion ſhould ſuffer by it. g Which were heads of the twelve Tribes : Therefore his daughter Dinah is not here mentioned, becauſe ſhe was not the head of a Tribe.

* chap. 46. 8. Exod. 1. 2. 23 The ſons of Leah : * Reuben Jacobs firſtborn, and Simeon and Levi, and Judah, and Iſſachar, and Zebulun.

24 The ſons of Rachel : Joſeph and Benjamin.

25 And the ſons of Bilhah, Rachel handmaid, Dan and Naphtali.

26 And the ſons of Zilpah, Leahs handmaid, Gad and Aſher. Theſe are the ſons of Jacob which were born to him in Padan-Aram h.

h All but Benjamin, who muſt in all reaſon be ſuppoſed to be excepted here becauſe he is ſaid to be born elſewhere above, ver. 16. But it is an uſual Synecdoche, whereby that is aſcribed to all in groſs, which belongs to the greateſt part. See Gen. 15. 13. and 46. 15. Exod. 12. 40. Judg. 20. 46. John 20. 24. 1 Cor. 15. 5.

* chap. 13. 18. and 23. 2. 27 And Jacob came unto Iſaac i his father unto * Mamre, unto the City of Arbah (which is Hebron) where Abraham and Iſaac ſojourned.

i Either with his Wives and Children and Eſtate, to dwell with him : or rather in perſon to viſit his ſick and dying father: For otherwiſe Jacob having been ten years near his Father, no doubt he had oft viſited him and carried his Wives and Children thither, though Scripture be ſilent in this particular. But they could not live together becauſe of the greatneſs of their Eſtates, as it happened with others. See Gen. 13. 6. and 36. 7.

28 And the days of Iſaac were an hundred and fourſcore years.

* chap. 15. 15. 25. 8. 29 And Iſaac gave up the ghoſt, and died, and was * gathered unto his people k, being old and full of daves : and his ſons Eſau and Jacob buryed him.

k Either to the ſociety of the dead. Or, to the Congregation of the juſt. See Gen. 15. 15. and 25. 8.

CHAP. XXXVI.

1 NOW there are the generations of Eſau a, who is Edom.

a They are here mentioned partly to ſhew the effect of his fathers bleſſing, chap. 27. 39. partly that the Iſraelites might be admoniſhed to treat the Edomites like Brethren, and not to invade their Land. See Deut. 23. 7.

2 Eſau took his wives of the daughters of Canaan : Adah the daughter of Elon the Hittite, and * Aholibamah the daughter of Anah, the daughter of Zibeon the Hivite b.

b If this account be compared with that Gen. 26. 34. We ſhall find ſome difficulties, which yet admit of an eaſie reconciliation, if theſe things be conſidered. 1. That it is very uſual and confeſſed by all, that the ſame perſons are oft called by ſeveral names. 2. That the names of ſome perſons are in Scripture given to others becauſe of a great reſemblance between them. Upon which account the Parents of the Iſraelites are called Amorites and Hittites, Ezek. 16. 3 and the Governours of Jeruſalem are called the Rulers of Sodom and Gomorrah, Iſa. 1. 10. and John the Baptiſt is called Elias, Matth. 17. 12. 3. That the ſame men are oft-times denominated from ſeveral Countries, as Chriſt is noted to have a threefold Country in Scripture, Bethlehem, by his Birth ; Nazareth, by his Education ; and Capernaum, by his much reſidence and Preaching there. 4. That the ſame names are ſometimes common to Men and Women. That perſons are called the Children not onely of their immediate Parents, but of their Grand-parents, and of thoſe who adopted them. Theſe things premiſed, the ſeeming contradictions objected by Infidels do vaniſh. She who was properly called Judith, chap. 26. is here called Aholibamah, a name which ſeems to be given her either by Iſaac, or by Moſes, from her ſettledneſs in her idolatrous courſes. And Adah was alſo called Baſhemath ; and Mahalath, Iſhmaels daughter, was called Baſhemath, chap. 26. either becauſe in her principles and manners ſhe reſembled Eſaus other Wife ſo called, or to ſhew that Iſhmaels Marriage to a third Wife was no leſs opprobrious to him, and diſpleaſing to his Parents then the former ; Anah, a man and the Son of Zibeon, as appears from ver. 24. called here an Hivite, is called Beeri the Hittite, chap. 26. either becauſe thoſe two people were mixed together in habitation and by Marriage, or becauſe the one people were larger then the other and comprehended under their name, or becauſe he was an Hivite by birth, an Hittite by habitation or incorporation with them. Hence alſo we may learn how Aholibamah here comes to be the Daughter both of Anah, and of Zibeon, the one being either the natural or proper Father, and the other either the Grandfather, or Father by Adoption.

* chap. 26. 34. 3 And * Baſhemath, Iſhmaels daughter, ſiſter of Nebajoth.

* 1 Chro. 1. 35. 4 And * Adah bare to Eſau, Eliphaz c : and Baſhemath bare Reuel d.

c The progenitor of that Eliphaz, Job 2. 11. d The Father of Jethro. See. Exod. 2. 18. Numb. 10. 29.

5 And Aholibamah bare Jeuſh, and Jaalam, and Korah : theſe are the ſons of Eſau e, which were born unto him in the land of Canaan.

e He had alſo Daughters, ver. 6. though their names be not here mentioned.

† Heb. ſoules. 6 And Eſau took his wives, and his ſons, and his daughters, and all the † perſons of his houſe, and his cattle, and all his beaſts, and all his ſubſtance which he had got in the land of Canaan : and went f into the countrey g from the face of his brother Jacob.

f Queſt. 1. Why went he thither ? Anſw. Partly by his own choice, that Wild & Mountainous Countrey being very commodious for hunting to which he wholly addicted himſelf; partly by his Wives perſwaſions who were both utterly averſe from cohabitation with Iſaac or Jacob, and ſtrongly inclined to their own Country; but principally from the ſecret conduct of Divine Providence thus accompliſhing his promiſes. See Joſ. 24. 4. Mal. 1. 3. Queſt. 2. When went he thither ? Anſw. He went thither before this time in diſcontent at his Parents, and dwelt in Seir, before Jacobs return to Canaan, as appears from Gen. 32. 3 and 33. 14, 16. Yet ſo as he came ſometimes to Canaan and to his Fathers houſe, and did not quit his intereſt in his fathers eſtate. But when his Father was dead and Jacob and he agreed about the partition of the eſtate, he did totally and finally forſake Canaan, partly for the reaſon here following ; partly for the other reaſons now alledged ; and partly to avoid all occaſion both of Communication and Contention with his Brother. g (i e.) Further up into the Country : Or, into another Country, as the Chaldee renders it, namely into Seir : The word another being ſupplyed. If that ſeem too bold a ſupplement, the place may be rendred thus, he went into a Land diſtant or remote from the face of his brother, which ſupplement lies hid and is implied in the word Mipne, from the face : Or thus, he went out of the Land : For ſo the Hebrew prepoſition El is ſometimes uſed for Min, which ſignifies off or out of, as appears by comparing 1 King. 8. 30. with 2 Chron. 6. 21. and Iſaiah 59. 20. Rom. 11. 26. and Judg. 17. 2. 2 Chron. 1. 13. and many other places.

* chap. 13. 6, 11. * chap. 17. 8. and 28. 4. 7 * For their riches were more then that they might dwell together : and * the land wherein they were ſtrangers h, could not bear them, becauſe of their cattle.

h Which words contain the reaſon why that Land, which was large and fruitful could not bear them, becauſe they were not entire poſſeſſours of it, but onely ſojourners in it, and therefore muſt take the owners leavings, which were not ſufficient for both of them and their numerous Families.

* Joſh. 24. 4. 8 Thus dwelt Eſau in * mount Seir : Eſau is Edom i.

i This ſeems to be mentioned by the Holy Ghoſt by way of contempt or reproach, this is he who ſold his Birth-right for a meſs of red pottage and therefore was called Edom or Red.

† Heb. Edom. 9 And theſe are the generations of Eſau, the father of † the Edomites in mount Seir.

* 1 Chron. 1. 53, &c. 10 Theſe are the names of Eſaus ſons : * Eliphaz the the ſon of Adah the wife of Eſau, Reuel the ſon of Baſhemath the wife of Eſau.

11 And the ſons of Eliphaz were Teman, Omar, ‖ Or, Zephi. ‖ Zepho, and Gatam, and Kenaz.

12 And Timna was concubine to Eliphaz Eſaus ſon, and ſhe bare to Eliphaz, Amalek: theſe were the ſons of Adah, Eſaus wife.

13 And theſe are the ſons of Reuel: Nahath, and Zerah, Shammah and Mizzah: theſe were the ſons of Baſhemath, Eſaus wife.

14 And theſe were the ſons of Aholibamah, the daughter of Anah, the daughter of Zibeon, Eſaus wife, and ſhe bare to Eſau, Jeuſh, and Jaalam, and Korah.

15 Theſe were Dukes k of the ſons of Eſau; the ſons of Eliphaz, the firſt-born ſon of Eſau, Duke Teman, Duke Omar, Duke Zepho, Duke Kenaz, k Princes or Heads of their ſeveral Families and little Principalities, according to the manner of thoſe times, who ruled their Dominions, either ſeverally, each his own, or jointly by common advice, or, it may be, under one chief Prince, their ſuperiour either in Title or in power. And in this diviſion Eliphaz, as he was Eſaus firſt-born ſo he had more than a double portion, his ſix ſons being made Dukes, as Eſaus immediate Sons were. Compare 1 Chron. 5. 1.

16 Duke Korah l, Duke Gatam, and Duke Amalek. Theſe are the Dukes that came of Eliphaz, in the land of Edom: Theſe were the ſons of Adah.

l He is not mentioned among Eliphaz his ſons, and therefore is thought to be his Grand-ſon. There is another Korah, ver. 14. and 18.

17 And theſe are the ſons of Reuel, Eſaus ſon: Duke Nahath, Duke Zerah, Duke Shammah, Duke Mizzah. Theſe are the Dukes that came of Reuel, in the land of Edom. Theſe are the ſons of Baſhemath, Eſaus wife.

18 And theſe are the ſons of Aholibamah, Eſaus wife: Duke Jeuſh, Duke Jaalam, Duke Korah: Theſe were the Dukes that came of Aholibamah the daughter of Anah, Eſaus wife.

19 Theſe are the ſons of Eſau (who is Edom) and theſe are their Dukes.

* 1 Chron. 1. 38. 20 * Theſe are the ſons of Seir m the Horite, who inhabited the land o, Lotan, and Shobal, and Zibeon, and Anah.

m Who are here mentioned partly becauſe of their alliance with Iſaus Family, ver. 2, 20, 22, 24, 25. and partly becauſe the Government was tranſlated from his to Eſaus Family. o And ruled there, till Eſau and his poſterity drove them out, Deut. 2. 12, 22.

21 And Diſhon, and Ezer, and Diſhan: theſe are the Dukes of the Horites the children of Seir, in the land of Edom.

22 And the children of Lotan, were Hori, and ‖ Or, Homan 1 Chron 1. 39. ‖ Heman: and Lotans ſiſter was Timna.

‖ Or, Alian 1 Chron 1. 40. ‖ Or, Shephi 1 Chron. 1 40. 23 And the children of Shobal were theſe: ‖ Alvan, and Manahath, and Ebal, ‖ Shepho, and Onam.

* Lev. 19. 19. 24 And theſe are the children of Zibeon, both Ajah, and Anah: this was that Anah that found * the mules p in the wilderneſs, as he fed the aſſes of Zibeon his father.

p So moſt underſtand the word Jemim, which is no where elſe uſed, and give this ſenſe of it, that he found out the way of the generation of mules by the copulation of an Horſe and a Mare. Others render it waters, that he found out ſome ſprings of water, which in thoſe hot Countries were rare and pretious; or hot waters, ſome hot and medicinal ſprings. But the Chaldee renders it Giants, and the Samaritan verſion Emims, a ſort of Giants mentioned, Deut. 2. 10, 11. who alſo were Neighbours to the Horites here ſpoken of, as appears from Gen. 14. 5, 6. and therefore might, according to the manner of thoſe times, make inroads one upon another. So Jemim is put for Emim, either by an Apocope of the firſt letter, or by the change of the Hebrew letter Jod into Aleph, both which are frequent among the Hebrews. And the ſenſe is, that Anah the Horite found out the Emims, that is he met with them or came upon them ſuddenly & ſmote them. In this ſenſe the word finding is oft uſed, as Judg. 1. 5. 1 Sam. 31. 3. Pſal. 21. 8. Iſa. 10. 10.

25 And the children q of Anah were theſe: Diſhon, and Aholibamah the daughter of Anah.

q Heb. Sons, though but one Son be mentioned. Either then he had other Sons not here expreſſed: Or the plural number is put for the ſingular, as Gen. 21. 7.

26 And theſe are the children of Diſhon:
‖ Or, Amram 1 Chron. 1. 41. ‖ Hemdan, and Eſhban, and Ithran, and Cheran.

27 The children of Ezer are theſe: Bilhan, ‖ Or, Jakan 1 Chron. 1. 42. and Zaavan, and ‖ Akan.

28 The children of Diſhan are theſe: Uz, and Aran.

29 Theſe are the Dukes that came of the Horites: Duke Lotan, Duke Shobal, Duke Zibeon, Duke Anah, † Heb. Ed 30 Duke Diſhon, Duke Ezer, Duke Diſhan: theſe are the Dukes that came of Hori, among their Dukes r in the land of Seir.

r Among other Dukes which were in that Countrey. Or, according to their Dukedomes or Principalities: The word Duke being here put for Dukedom, as the word King is put for Kingdom. Iſa. 23. 15. Dan. 7. 17.

† Heb. Ed * 1 Chro. 1. 43. 31 And * theſe are the Kings that reigned in the land of Edom s, before there reigned any King over the children of Iſrael t.

s He ſpeaks of the poſterity of Eſau who after they had ſubdued the Horites erected a Kingdom there. t Here prophane wits triumph. How, ſay they, could Moſes write this, when as yet there was no King in Iſrael? Anſw. 1. The word may be taken for any chief Governour, in which ſenſe the Title of King is given to Moſes, Deut. 33. 5. and to the Judges, Judg. 17. 6. and to the others who were not Kings properly ſo called, Pſal. 119. 46. Luke 22. 25. Acts 9. 15. &c. Anſw. 2. Moſes might well ſay thus, becauſe he did by the ſpirit of Propheſie foreſee and therefore could foretell that the Iſraelites would have a King, as appears from Deut. 17. 14, 15. Anſw. 3. This, with other clauſes of the ſame nature might be inſerted afterwards by ſome holy and inſpired man of God, as it is confeſſed that part of the laſt chapter of Deutronomy was.

32 And Bela the ſon of Beor reigned in Edom, and the name of this City u was Dinhabah.

u Where he was born or dwelt, and ſo in the reſt. The diverſity of their Cities makes it probable, that theſe Kings had not their power by ſucceſſion, but either by election, or by uſurpation, according to Iſaacs propheſie of them, Gen. 27. 40. By the Sword thou ſhalt live.

Or, pie Judg. 5. Sam. 13 33 And Bela died, and Jobab the ſon of Zerah of Bozrah reigned in his ſtead.

34 And Jobab died, and Huſham of the land of Temani x reigned in his ſtead.

x Of which land ſee Jer. 49. 7, 20. ſo called either from the City Teman, or from Teman the ſon of Eliphaz, ver. 11. Or, of the South Countrey, as the antient Tranſlations render it.

35 And Huſham died, and Hadad the ſon of Bedad (who ſmote Midian in the field of Moab) reigned in his ſtead: and the name of his City was Avith.

36 And Hadad died, and Samlah of Maſrekah reigned in his ſtead.

37 And Samlah died, and Saul of Rehoboth, by the river y, reigned in his ſtead.

y Either Euphrates; or a branch of it called Chabras, by which there is even at this day, a City called Rahabath-Melic, i. e. Kings Rahabath, as the learned obſerve: Or ſome other River of note in thoſe times and parts.

38 And Saul died, and Baal-hanan the ſon of Achbor reigned in his ſtead.

1 AND Jacob dwelt in the land † wherein his father was a stranger, in the land of Canaan.

2 These are the generations a of Jacob: Joseph being seventeen years old, was feeding the flock with his brethren, and the lad was with the sons of Bilhah, and with the sons of Zilpah b, his fathers wives: and Joseph brought unto his father their evil report c.

a (i. e.) The events or occurrences which happened to Jacob in his Family and issue. So that word is used, Gen. 6. 9. and Numb. 3. 1. Or the word, These, may relate to what is said Gen. 35. 22. &c. The Genealogy of Esau being brought in by way of parenthesis, and that being finished, Moses returns to the Generations of Jacob, as his principal business, and proceeds in the History of their concerns. b Jacob placed Joseph, with them rather then with the sons of Leah, either to keep Joseph humble: Or for Josephs security, because the other sons retained the old grudge of their Mother, and were more like to envy, contemn, hate and abuse him; Or as an observer of their actions whom he most suspected, as the following words may seem to imply. c Acquainted him with their levvd and wicked courses to the dishonour of God and of their Family, that so his Father might apply such remedies as he thought meet.

3 Now Israel loved Joseph more then all his children; because he was the son of his old age d: and he made him a coat of many || colours e.

d Being born when Jacob was Ninety one years old. Such Children are commonly best beloved by their Parents, either because such are a singular blessing of God, and a more then common testimony of his favour, and a mercy least expected by them and therefore most prized; or because they have more pleasing conversation with them, and less experience of their misbehaviour, of which the elder oft times are guilty, whereby they alienate their Parents affections from them. The antient Translations, Chaldee, Persian, Arabick and Samaritan render the words thus a wife, or prudent son, old age being oft mentioned as a token of prudence, one born old, one wise above his years, one that had a gray head, as we say, upon green shoulders. This may seem the more probable, both because Joseph was indeed such a Child, and gave good evidence of it in a prudent observation of his brethrens trespasses, & a discreet choice of the fittest remedy for them; and because the reason here alledged seems proper and peculiar to Joseph, whereas in the other sense, it belongs more to Benjamin, who was younger then Joseph, and cost his Mother dearer, and therefore might upon that account claim a greater interest in his Fathers affections. e Probably made of threds of divers colours interwoven together. Compare 2 Sam. 13. 18. This he gave him as a token of his special love, and of the rights of the first-born, which being justly taken from Reuben he conferred upon Joseph, 1 Chron. 5. 1.

Judg. 5. 30. 2 Sam. 13. 18.

4 And when his brethren saw that their father loved him more then all his brethren, they hated him, and could not speak peaceably unto him f.

f Their hatred was so deep and keen, that they could not smother it, as for their own interest they should have done, but discovered it by their churlish words and carriages to him.

5 And Joseph dreamed a dream g, and he told it his brethren, and they hated him yet the more.

g Which it is probable he did not understand, for then he would never have told it to them, who, as he knew very well, were likely to make an evil construction and use of it.

6 And he said unto them, Hear, I pray you, this dream which I have dreamed.

* chap. 42. 6, 9. and 43. 26. and 44. 14.

h A secret insinuation of the occasion of Josephs advancement, which was from his counsel and care about the Corn of Egypt. i This was a posture of ministry and service, as is manifest both from Scripture and from common usage.

8 And his brethren said to him, shalt thou indeed reign over us? or shalt thou indeed have dominion over us? and they hated him yet the more, for his dreams, and for his words ||.

|| For his relation of his dreams, which they imputed to his arrogancy.

9 And he dreamed yet another dream k, and told it his brethren, and said, Behold, I have dreamed a dream more; and behold, * the Sun and the Moon l, and the eleven stars made obeisance to me.

* chap. 46. 29.

k That the repetition of the same thing, in another shape, might teach them; that the thing was both certain and very observable. l These were not mentioned in the first dream, because in the event, his brethren onely went at first to Egypt and there worshipped him, as afterwards his father went with them. Obj. His father did not worship him in Egypt. Ans. 1. He did worship him mediately by his sons, who in their fathers name and stead bowed before him, and by the presents, which he sent as testimonies of that respect which he owed to him. 2. It is probable, that Jacob did, before the Egyptians, pay that reverence to his son, which all the rest did, and which was due to the dignity of his place. As the Roman Consul was commended by his Father for requiring him to alight from his horse, as the rest did, when he met him upon the way.

10 And he told it to his father, and to his brethren; and his father rebuked him m, and said unto him, What is this dream that thou hast dreamed? shall I, and thy mother ||, and thy brethren indeed come to bowe down our selves to thee, to the earth?

m Not through anger at Joseph, or contempt of his dream, for it follows, he observed it, but partly lest Joseph should be puffed up upon the account of his dreams, and principally, to allay the envy and hatred of his brethren. || Either 1. Rachel, who was now dead, and therefore must rise again and worship thee: whence he may seem to infer the idleness of the dream, because the fulfilling it was impossible: or rather 2. Leah, his step-mother, one that filled his mothers place, being now Jacobs onely wife, and the mother of the Family.

11 And his brethren envied him: but his father * observed the saying n.

* Dan. 7. 28. Luk. 2. 19. 51.

n The words of Joseph, or the thing, the dream which he told, well knowing that God did frequently at that time, signifie his mind by dreams, and perceiving something singular and extraordinary in this dream, and especially in the doubling of it.

12 And his brethren went to feed their fathers flock in Shechem o.

o In the parts adjoyning to Shechem, in the lands which he had purchased there, Gen. 33. 19. Let none think strange that he should send his sheep so far from him, both because that land was his own, and because his sheep being exceeding numerous, and he but a stranger in the land, was likely to be exposed to many such inconveniencies. Compare Gen. 30. 36. One may rather wonder that he durst venture his sons and his cattle there, where that barbarous massacre had been committed, chap. 34. 25. But those pastures being his own, and convenient for his use, he did commit himself and them to that same good Providence, which watched over him then and ever since, and still kept up that terrour which then he sent upon them. Besides Jacobs sons and Servants made a considerable Company, and the men of Shechem being universally slain, others were not very forward to revenge their quarrel, where there was any hazard to themselves in such an enterprize.

13 And Israel said unto Joseph, Do not thy brethren feed the flock in Shechem? Come, and I will send thee unto them p: and he said, Here am I.

p Having kept him for some time at home, and supposing that length of time had cooled their hearts and worn out their hatred he now sends him to them.

14 And he said to him, Go, I pray thee, † see whether it be well with thy brethren, and well with the flocks, and bring me word again: so he sent him out of the vale of Hebron, and he came to Shechem.

† Heb. see the peace of thy brethren, &c.

15 And a certain man found him, and behold he was wandring in the field, and the man asked him, saying, What seekest thou?

16 And

16 And he said, I seek my brethren, tell me, I pray thee, where they feed their flocks.

17 And the man said, they are departed hence: for I heard them say, Let us go to Dothan q. And Joseph went after his brethren, and found them in Dothan.

20 Come now therefore, and let us slay him, and cast him into some pit s, and we will say, some evil beast hath devoured him t: and we shall see what will become of his dreams.

s Partly as unworthy of burial; partly to cover their villanous action; and partly that they might quickly put him out of their sight and minds. There being great store of such creatures in those parts. See 1 King. 13. 24. 2 King. 2. 24.

21 And * Reuben heard it, and he delivered him u out of their hands, and said, Let us not kill him.

* chap. 42. 22.

u He did so, as to the violent and certain dispatch of his life which was intended: Or the act is here put for the purpose and endeavour of doing it, in which sense Balak is said to fight against Israel, Jos. 24. 9. and Abraham to offer up Isaac, Heb. 11. 17. So here, he delivered him, i. e. used his utmost power to deliver him, that so he might recover his fathers favour lost by his incestuous action.

22 And Reuben said unto them, Shed no blood, but cast him into this pit that is in the wilderness, and lay no hand upon him, That he might rid him out of their hands, to deliver him to his father again.

23 And it came to pass, when Joseph was come unto his brethren, that they stript Joseph out of his coat, his coat of many ‖ colours that was on him.

24 And they took him, and cast him into a pit: and the pit was empty, there was no water in it.

25 And they sate down to eat bread x: and they lift up their eyes and looked, and behold, a company of * Ishmeelites y came from Gilead z, with their camels, bearing spicery, and balm a, and myrrhe, going to carry it down to Egypt.

27 Come, and let us sell him to the Ishmeelites, and let not our hand be upon him: for he is our brother, and our flesh: and his brethren † were content.

28 Then there passed by Midianites d, Merchantmen; and they drew and lift up Joseph out of the pit, and * sold Joseph to the Ishmeelites for * twenty pieces of silver: and they brought Joseph into Egypt.

* Psal. 105. 17. Wisd 10. 13. Act. 7. 9.
* See Mat. 27. 9.

d This story seems a little involved, and the persons to whom he was sold doubtful. Here seem to be two, if not three, sorts of Merchants mentioned, Ishmaelites, and Midianites here, and Medanites, as it is in the Hebrew ver. 36. which were a distinct people from the Midianites, as descending from Medan, when the Midianites descended from Midian, both Abrahams Sons, Gen. 25. 2. The business may be accommodated divers wayes, either 1. the same persons or people are promiscuously called both Ishmaelites and Midianites, as they also are Judg. 8. 1, 24, 28. either because they were mixed together in their dwellings, and by marriages: or because they were here joyned together and made one Caravan or company of Merchants. And the Text may be read thus, And the Midianite merchant-men (either the same who are called Ishmaelites, ver. 27. or others being in the same company with them) passed by, and they (i. e. not the Merchant-men, but Josephs brethren spoken of ver. 27. the relative being referred to the remoter antecedent, as it is frequently in the Scripture) lift up Joseph and sold him to the Ishmaelites or Midianites, &c. or 2. the persons may be distinguished, and the story may very well be conceived thus, The Ishmaelites are going to Egypt, and are discerned at some distance by Josephs brethren, while they were discoursing about their brother. In the time of their discourse the Midianites, who seem to be coming from Egypt, coming by the pit and hearing Josephs cries there, pull him out of the pit, and sell him to the Ishmaelites, who carry him with them into Egypt. There they sell him to the Medanites, though that, as many other historical passages, be omitted in the sacred story. And the Medanites, or Midianites, if you please, onely supposing them to be other persons then those mentioned, ver. 28. which is but a fair & reasonable supposition, sell him to Potiphar.

29 And Reuben returned unto the pit e, and behold, Joseph was not in the pit: and he rent his clothes f.

e That according to his brethrens order, ver. 27. he might take him thence and sell him. f As the manner was upon doleful occurrences. See below ver. 34. Numb. 14. 6. Ezra. 9. 3. Job. 1. 20. and 2. 12.

30 And he returned unto his brethren, and said, The child g is not h, and I whither shall I go i?

g So he calls him comparatively to his brethren, though he was 17 years old, ver. 2. h (i e.) Is not in the land of the living, or, is dead, as that phrase is commonly used, as Gen. 42. 13, 36. compared with Gen. 44. 20. Job 7. 21. Jer. 31. 15. Lam. 5. 7. Mat. 2. 18. i Either to find the child, or to flee from our father? He is more solicitous then the rest, because he being the eldest brother, his father would require Joseph at his hand, and being so higly incensed against him for his former crime, would be the more apt to suspect him, and deal more severely with him.

31 And they took Josephs coat, and killed a kid of the goats, and dipped the coat in the blood.

32 And they sent the coat of many colours, and they brought k it to their father, and said, This have we found: know now whether it be thy sons coat or no.

k They brought it by a messenger whom they sent: Men are commonly said to do what they cause others to do.

33 And he knew it, and said, It is my sons coat, an * evill beast hath devoured him; Joseph is without doubt rent in pieces.

* chap. 44.

34 And Jacob rent his clothes, and put sackcloth l upon his loins, and mourned for his son many days.

l (i. e.) A course and mournful habit. This is the first example of that kind, but afterwards was in common use upon these occasions. See 2 Sam. 3. 31. 1 King. 20. 31. and 21. 27. &c.

35 And all his sons, and all his daughters m rose up to comfort him: but he refused to be comforted: and he said, For I will go down into the grave n unto my son o mourning: thus his father wept for him.

m Dinah, and his daughters in law, and his sons daughters. n This Hebrew word Sheol is taken sometimes for hell, as Job 11. 8. Prov. 15. 11. but most commonly for the grave. Or the place or state of the dead, as Gen. 42. 38. and 44. 29, 31. Psal. 6. 5. and 16. 10. &c. And whether of those it signifies, must be determined by the subject and the circumstances of the place; here it cannot be meant of Hell, for Jacob neither could believe that good Joseph was there, nor would have resolved to go thither, but the sense is, I will kill my self with grief, or I will never leave mourning till I dye. o Or, For my Son: so the preposition El is oft used for Al, as 1 Sam. 1. 27. and 4. 19, 21, 22. and 2 Sam. 21. 2.

36 And the Midianites sold him into Egypt unto Potiphar, an † officer of Pharaohs, and † ‖ captain of the guard p.

CHAP. XXXVIII.

1 AND it came to pass at that time a; that Judah went down from his brethren b, and and turned in to a certain Adullamite c, whose name was Hirah.

a This story is not without difficulty, if we consider how little time is allowed for all the events of this chapter, there being not above twenty three years between Judahs marriage, and the birth of Pharez, yea and the birth of his sons too, Esrom, and Hamul, who are said to go into Egypt with Jacob, Gen. 46. 12. But there are two ways proposed for the resolution of it, as the phrase, at that time, may be understood two ways, either 1. More largely, for the time since Jacobs return from Padan to Canaan, and so the History may be conceived thus; Judah was married some years before the selling of Joseph, though it be here mentioned after it and so out of its place, as being the foundation of all the following events, which are here placed together because they followed the selling of Joseph. Judah, and Er, and Onan, and afterward Pharez, are supposed, each to marry and have a Child at fourteen years old, which though unusual, wants not examples both in sacred and prophane Writers. And they that will quarrel with the Scripture and question its authority for some such uncustomary occurrences which it relates, shew more of impiety then wisdom in it, and shall do well to consider, that God might so order things by his Providence, and record such things in his word, upon the same account on which he hath put several other difficult passages in Scripture, partly to try and exercise mens Faith, Humility and Modesty; and partly to punish the evil minds of ungodly men, and for their sins to lay an occasion of stumbling and cavilling at the Scriptures before them that greedily seek and gladly catch at all such occasions. Or 2. More strictly, for the time following the sale of Joseph, which seems the more probable way, and so the story lies thus; Judah was now about twenty years old, when he married, and the three first years he hath three sons, Er, Onan, and Shelah: The two first marry each when they were about seventeen years old. Three years after both their deaths, and when Shelah had been marriageable a year or two and was not given to Tamar, Judah lies with Tamar and begets upon her Pharez. But as for Esrom and Hamul, they are said to go into Egypt with Jacob, as also Benjamins ten sons are said to go with him thither, to wit in their fathers loins, because they were begotten by their Father in Egypt, whilest Jacob lived there, of which more in its proper place. b Probably in discontent, upon occasion of quarrels arisen among them about the selling of Joseph, whereof Judah was a great promoter, if not the first mover. c Of the City of Adullam. Of which see Jos. 12. 15. and 15. 35.

2 And Judah saw there a daughter of a certain
*1 Chron. 2. 3. Canaanite d, whose name was * Shuah e: and he took her, and went in unto her.

d Whom he married, against the counsel and example of his Parents. But when Judah had committed so great a crime as the selling of his Brother, and God had forsaken him, no wonder he adds one sin to another. e The name not of the daughter, but of her father, ver. 12.

3 And she conceived, and bare a son, and he called his name Er.
* Num. 26. 19. 4 * And she conceived again, and bare a son, and she called his name Onan.

5 And she yet again conceived, and bare a son, and called his name Shelah; and he was at Chezib f, when she bare him.

f A Place near Adullam, called also Aczib, Jos. 19, 29. Mich. 1. 14.

6 And Judah took a wife for Er his first-born, whose name was Tamar.
* Num. 26. 19. 7 And * Er, Judahs first-born was wicked in the sight of the LORD g, and the LORD slew him h.

g (i. e.) notoriously wicked. Compare Gen. 10. 9. and 13. 13. h In some extraordinary and remarkable manner, as ver. 10.

8 And Judah said unto Onan, Go in unto thy brothers wife, and marry her, i and raise up seed to thy brother k.

i This, as also divers other things, was now instituted and observed amongst Gods people, and afterwards was expressed in a written law, Deut. 25. 5. 6. See also Numb. 36. 6, 7. Ruth. 1. 11. Mat. 22. 24. k Beget a child which may have thy brothers name and inheritance, and may be reputed as his child. So it was with the first child, but the rest were reputed his own.

9 And Onan knew that the seed should not be his; and it came to pass when he went in unto his brothers wife, that he spilled it on the ground, lest that he should give seed unto his brother l.

l Two things are here noted 1. The sin it self, which is here particularly described by the Holy Ghost, that men might be instructed concerning the nature and the great evil of this sin of self-pollution, which is such, that it brought upon the actor of it the extraordinary vengeance of God, and which is condemned not only by Scripture, but even by the light of Nature and the judgment of heathens who have expressly censured it as a great sin and as a kind of murder. Of which see my Latin Synopsis. Whereby we may sufficiently understand how wicked and abominable a practice this is amongst Christians and in the light of the Gospel which lays greater and stricter obligations upon us to purity, and severely forbids all pollution both of Flesh and Spirit? 2. The cause of this wickedness; which seems to have been either hatred of his brother; or envy at his brothers name and honour, springing from the pride of his own heart.

10 And the thing which he did, † displeased the LORD m, wherefore he slew him also n.
† Heb. was evil in the eyes of the Lord.

m An expression noting a more then ordinary offence against God, as 2 Sam. 11. 27. n This just, but dreadful, severity of God is noted both for the terrour of such like transgressors, and to provoke love and thankfulness to God in those whom he useth more indulgently.

11 Then said Judah to Tamar his daughter in Law, Remain a widow at thy fathers house o, till Shelah my son be grown p: (for he said q, Lest peradventure he die also as his brethren did r) and Tamar went and dwelt in her fathers house.

o Whither he sent her from his house, that Shelah might not be insnared by her presence and conversation. p So he dismisseth her with a pretence of kindness, and a tacit promise of marriage to her, which he never intended to keep, as the following words imply. q Or rather, but he said: for the Hebrew chi oft signifies but, as Gen. 45. 8. Psal. 37 20. Eccl. 2. 10. and 6. 2. So here is an opposition betweeen what he said to Tamar, and what he said to himself or in his own heart, as that word said is oft used: He intimated to her, that he would give Shelah to her, but he meant otherwise, and said in himself, I will not do it. r Imputing the death of his two sons either to her fault, or to her unluckiness, rather than to his own or his sons miscarriages.

12 And † in process of time s the daughter of † Heb. the days were multiplyed. Shuah Judahs wife died: and Judah was comforted, and went up unto his Sheep-shearers t to Timnath u he and his friend Hirah the Adullamite.

s When many days had passed, and Shelah, though grown, was not given to Tamar. t To feast and rejoice with them at that time, as the manner was then and afterwards. See 1 Sam. 25. 36. u A place not far from Adullam: of which see Jos. 15. 57.

13 And it was told Tamar, saying, Behold thy father in law goeth up to Timnath to shear his sheep.

14 And she put her widows garments off from her, and covered her with a vail x, and wrapped her self, and sate in † an open place y, which is by the way to Timnath: for she saw that Shelah was grown, and she was not given unto him to wife.
† Heb. the door of eyes, or of Enajim.

x As Harlots used to do in those modester ages of the World, when they had not learnt to outface the Sun, nor to glory in their villanies. y Where she might be sooneſt discovered by Passengers. This is noted as the practice of Harlots, Prov. 7. 12. and 9. 14. Jer. 3. 2. Ezek. 16. 24, 25.

15 When Judah saw her, he thought her to be an harlot: because she had covered her face z.

z And was doubtless careful not to discover her self by her voice.

16 And he turned unto her by the way, and said, Go to, I pray thee, let me come in unto thee (for he knew not that she was his daughter in law) and she said, What wilt thou give me, that thou mayest come in unto me?

17 And he said, I will send thee † a kid from † Heb. a kid of the goats. the flock: and she said, Wilt thou give me a pledge till thou send it?

18 And he said, What pledge shall I give thee? And she said, Thy signet, and thy bracelets a, and thy staff that is in thine hand: and he gave it her, and came in unto her, and she conceived by him b.

a Or, handkerchief, or girdle, or any other ornament made of twisted thread which the Hebrew word signifies. b God so ordering things by his Providence, that his sin might be discovered. And this and other such horrid crimes committed sometimes by the Patriarchs and other eminent persons it hath pleased God for divers wise and holy reasons to leave upon record, partly to discover how great and deep the corruption of mans nature is, and that even in the best; partly to oblige all men to an humble sense of their own infirmity, and to a diligent application of themselves to God for his gracious succors, and to a greater circumspection and watchfulness to prevent those evils in themselves; partly to encourage even the greatest sinners to repentance and the hope of Pardon; and partly for the just punishment and obduration of incorrigible sinners who make such sad examples matter of their delight and imitation.

19 And she arose and went away, and laid by her vail from her, and put on the garments of her widowhood.

20 And Judah sent the kid by the hand of his friend the Adullamite, to receive his pledge from the womans hand, but he found her not.

21 Then he asked the men of that place, saying, Where is the harlot that was || openly by the way side? And they said, There was no harlot in this place.

22 And he returned to Judah, and said, I cannot find her: and also the men of that place said, That there was no harlot in this place.

23 And Judah said, Let her take it to her, Lest we † be ashamed b: behold I sent this kid, and thou hast not found her.

b Note that fornication was esteemed sinful and shameful amongst the heathens.

24 And it came to pass about three months after, that it was told Judah, saying, Tamar thy daughter in law hath played the harlot, and also behold, she is with child by whoredom: and Judah said, Bring her forth c, and let her be burnt d.

c To the Magistrate, from whom she may receive her sentence and deserved punishment. Judah had not the power of Life and Death, at least not over her who was a Canaanite, and who was not in his, but in her own fathers house. But he being a person of great estate and authority, & as it seems, of obliging conversation, could do very much to perswade those who then had the power of the Sword either to draw it forth at least in a just cause on his behalf, or to sheath it upon his desire and satisfaction. d As guilty of Adultery, which was punished with death by the laws of God, Deut. 22. 23, 24. and of Nations too, Jer. 29. 22, 23. He chargeth her with adultery, because she was betrothed to Shelah: See Deut. 22. 23. This eagerness of Judah proceeded not from zeal of Justice, for then he would not have indeavoured to destroy the innocent child with the guilty mother, against Gods law, Deut. 24. 16. Ezek. 18 20. but from worldly policy, that he might take her out of the way which he esteemed a burden and a blot to his family.

25 When she was brought forth, she sent to her father in law, saying, By the man whose these are, am I with child: and she said, Discern, I pray thee, whose are these, the signet, and bracelets, and staff.

26 And Judah acknowledged them e, and said, She hath been more righteous than I f: because that I gave her not to Shelah my son: and he knew her again no more g.

e His guilty conscience and the horrour of so foul a fact together with his sudden surprizal forced him to an ingenuous confession, whereas he might have used many pretences and evasions, which would easily have prevailed with such partial Judges. f She was more unchast, because she knowingly committed Adultery and Incest, when he designed neither; but he was more unjust, because he was the cause of her sin, both by withholding Shelah from her, who was hers both by right and by Judahs promise, and by whom her chastity should have been preserved; and by his solicitation and encouragement of her to the sin. g Shewing the sincerity of his confession by his forsaking of the sin confessed. See Job 34. 32. And it may be probably concluded that he neither knew her nor any other Woman afterward, because there is no mention of any Child which he had after this time.

27 And it came to pass in the time of her travail, that behold, twins were in her womb.

28 And it came to pass when she travailed, that the one put out his hand, and the midwife took and bound upon his hand a skarlet thread h, saying, This came out first.

b In token of his being the first-born, which she confidently expected he would be.

29 And it came to pass, as he drew back his hand, that behold his brother came out: and she said, || How hast thou broken forth? this breach be upon thee i: therefore his name was called || * Pharez.

i Be imputed to thee, as the same phrase is taken Genesis 16. 5.

30 And afterward came out his brother that had the scarlet thread upon his hand, and his name was called Zarah.

CHAP. XXXIX.

1 AND Joseph was brought down to Egypt, and * Potiphar, an officer of Pharaoh, captain of the guard, an Egyptian, bought him of the hand of the Ishmaelites, which had brought him down thither.

* Chap. 37.

2 And * the LORD was with Joseph a, and he was a prosperous man, and he was in the house b of his master the Egyptian.

* 1 Sam. 16. and 18. 28. Act. 7. 9.

a With his gracious presence and blessing, as this phrase is taken here ver. 21. and Gen. 21. 22. and 26. 24. b He doth not endeavour to make an escape to his Father, but demeaned himself patiently and faithfully in the station into which Gods Providence had brought him.

3 And his master saw that the LORD was with him c, and that the LORD made all that he did, to prosper in his hand d.

c The Heathens owned a supream God and his overruling Providence in affairs, though they did not glorifie him as God, but worshipped the Creature with and more than the Creator, Rom. 1. 25. d (i. e.) Under his ministry as this phrase is used Exod. 4. 13. Levit. 8. 36. Prov. 26. 6. and oft elsewhere.

4 And Joseph found grace in his sight, and he served him e, and he made him overseer over his house, and all that he had he put into his hand f.

e Not now as a slave, but in an higher degree. f (i. e.) Committed to his care and management, as Gen. 16. 6. Object. How could this be, when Joseph understood not the Egyptian Tongue? Answ. Joseph doubtless when he came thither did, as much as possibly he could, endeavour to get the knowledge of that Language, and being a person of excellent parts would soon obtain it, especially because of the great affinity between that Language and his own. Nor must we think that Joseph was thus highly advanced in an instant but by degrees, step by step, and after some considerable time.

5 And it came to pass from the time that he had made him overseer in his house, and over all that he had, that * the LORD blessed the Egyptians house for Josephs sake: and the blessing of the LORD was upon all that he had in the house, and in the field.

* Chap. 30.

6 And he left all that he had in Josephs hand: and he knew not ought he had, save the bread which he did eat g: and Joseph was a goodly person, and well-favoured.

g He took care for nothing, but that he might eat and drink and fare deliciously. Nor did he indeed take any care for that, it being provided for him by other hands. Others thus, he took care for nothing, but committed all to Joseph, except his bread, which he would not have provided by an Hebrew hand, because the Egyptians might not eat bread with the Hebrews, Gen. 43. 32. But that was no impediment, for neither did Joseph eat with his master, nor was he the cook to dress it for him. But he might provide food for him, as afterwards he did for all the Egyptians without any scruple on their side.

7 And it came to pass after these things, that his masters wife cast her eyes upon Joseph h, and she said, Lie with me.

h In a lascivious and unchast manner. See. Job 31. 1. Mat. 5. 28. 2 Pet. 2. 14.

8 But he refused, and said unto his Masters wife, Behold, my master wotteth not what is with me in the house, and he hath committed all that he hath to my hand:

9 There is none greater in this house than I: neither hath he kept back any thing from me, but thee, thee, because thou art his wife: how then can I do hap. 20. 6. this great wickedness, and * sin against God?

. 6. 2.
. 51. 4. 10 And it came to pass, as she spake to Joseph day by day, that he hearkned not unto her, to lie by her, or to be with her i.

i He avoided her company and familiar conversation, as evil in it self, the present circumstances considered, and as an occasion of further evil. See Prov. 1. 15. and 5. 8. 1 Cor. 15. 33. 1 Thess. 5. 22. 1 Tim. 5. 14.

11 And it came to pass about this time k, that Joseph went into the house to do his business l, and there was none of the men of the house there within *.

k Or, Upon a certain day, which she thought convenient for the reason following. l That which belonged to his charge; to cast up his accounts, as the Chaldee renders it, which requiring privacy gave her this opportunity. * To wit, in that part of the house where Joseph was.

12 And she caught him by his garment, saying, Lie with me: and he left his garment in her hand m and fled, and got him out.

m Which he would not strive to get from her partly for reverence to his mistress; partly in detestation of her wickedness whereby even his garment might seem to be infected; and partly to put himself and her out of the danger of further temptation.

13 And it came to pass, when she saw that he had left his garment in her hand, and was fled forth.

14 That she called unto the men of her house n, and spake unto them, saying, See, he o hath brought in an Hebrew p unto us, to mock q us r: he came in unto me to lie with me, and I cryed with a * loud voice.

Heb. great.

n To such as were in other parts of the house, whom she called in as witnesses for her husbands satisfaction. o (i. e.) My Husband, whom she would not name, as it were out of disdain and high displeasure for being the occasion of this horrid affront. Thus the pronouns he and they are oft used by way of contempt, as Luk. 14. 24. and 19. 27. John 7. 11. and 8. 10. p So she calls him to render him hateful and contemptible to the Egyptians. q To abuse me; or to vitiate and defile me: For that word is oft used in an obscene sense. r She insinuates, that this was not only an indignity to her, but an injury to all the Family, which therefore they were obliged to revenge.

15 And it came to pass, when he heard that I lifted up my voice, and cryed, that he left his garment with me, and fled, and got him out.

16 And she laid up his garment by her, until her Lord came home.

17 And she spake unto him according to these words, saying: The Hebrew servant which thou hast brought unto us s, came in unto me to mock me.

s So she makes her husband accessory to the crime, that she might provoke him to the sharper revenge.

8 And it came to pass, as I lift up my voice, and cryed, that he left his garment with me, and fled out t.

t An improbable story, and an evidence that the violence was on her side, otherwise if he had attempted violence upon her person, he would not have forborn violence to the recovery of his garment, which he very well knew might be made a pretence against him.

19 And it came to pass, when his master heard the words of his wife, which she spake unto him, saying, After this manner did thy servant to me, that his wrath was kindled.

20 And Josephs master took him, and put him into the prison u, a place where the Kings prisoners x were bound: and he was there in the prison.

u Quest. Why did he not kill him, the crime being capital and he having so undoubted a power in his hand to do it? Answ. 1. It is probable, he was a little moderated by Josephs Apology, which doubtless he made for himself, though it be not here recorded. 2. This is to be ascribed to the good Providence of God, which restrains the waves of the Sea, and the passions of men, and sets them their bounds which they shall not pass, which watched over Joseph in a peculiar manner. x Traitours or great offenders against the King, whose Prison doubtless was none of the easiest, and therefore it is called a Dungeon. Gen. 40. 15. and 41. 14. and he indured great hardship in it. See Psal. 105. 18.

21 But the LORD was with Joseph, and † shewed him mercy, and * gave him favour in the sight of the keeper of the prison y.

† Heb. extended kindness unto him.
* Exod. 3. 21. and 11. 3. and 12. 36. Psal. 106. 46. Prov. 16. 7. Dan. 1. 9.

y The Goaler who under Potiphar was the Keeper of that particular prison.

22 And the keeper of the prison committed to Josephs hand all the prisoners that were in the prison, and whatsoever they did there, he was the doer of it z.

z They did nothing but by Josephs command or permission.

23 The keeper of the prison looked not to any thing that was under his hand, because the LORD was with him: and that which he did, the LORD made it to prosper.

CHAP. XL.

1 AND it came to pass after these things, that the Butler of the King of Egypt, and his Baker, had offended their Lord the King of Egypt.

2 And Pharaoh was wroth against two of his Officers, against the chief of the Butlers, and against the chief of the Bakers.

3 And he put them in ward in the house of the Captain of the guard a into the prison, where Joseph was bound b:

a To wit Potiphar, Gen. 37. 36. who being informed by his underkeeper of Josephs great care and faithfulness began to have a better opinion of him, though for his own quiet and his Wives reputation he left him still in the prison. b Was a Prisoner, as that word is used, Isa. 22. 3. For Joseph, being now made Governour of the Prisoners, was doubtless freed from his bonds: Or, had been bound, and that with Irons in a cruel manner, Psal. 105. 18.

4 And the captain of the guard charged Joseph with them, and he served them, and they continued a season c in ward.

c Heb. Days, i. e. either many days, or a year, as that word sometimes signifies, See Gen. 24. 55.

5 And they dreamed a dream both of them, each man his dream in one night, each man according to the interpretation of his dream d, the Butler and the Baker of the King of Egypt which were bound in the prison.

d (i. e.) Not a vain and idle dream, but one that had in it a signification of future things, and needed interpretation, and the several dreams were proper and agreeable to the several events which befell them, and to the several interpretations which Joseph put upon them, the dream and interpretation did fitly answer one to the other.

6 And Joseph came in unto them in the morning, and looked upon them, and behold, they were sad e.

e Perplexed and terrified both because they perceived the dream was extraordinary and sent from God, compare Gen. 41. 8. Dan. 2. 1. Matth. 27. 19. and because they understood not the meaning of it.

7 And he asked Pharaohs Officers that were with him in the ward of his Lords house, saying, wherefore † look ye so sadly to day?

† Heb. are your faces evil.

8 And they said unto him, we have dreamed a dream, and there is no interpreter of it f. And Joseph said unto them, * Do not interpretations belong to God g? tell me h them, I pray you.

* See chap. 41. 16. Dan. 2. 11, 28.

f To wit, with us, or to whom we can now resort; for otherwise there were many in Egypt of that profession, chap. 41. 8. g In vain do you expect such things from your wisemen, for it is only that God who sends these dreams that can interpret them, and to him you should seek for it. h Who am the servant of the true God, who useth to communicate his secrets to his people, and who, I doubt not, will hear my prayers for this mercy. This he spoke by special direction and instinct from God who had given this gift to him.

9 And the chief Butler told his dream to Joseph, seph, and said to him, In my dream, behold a vine was before me.

10 And in the vine were three branches, and it was as though it budded, and her blossoms shot forth, and the clusters thereof brought forth ripe grapes.

11 And Pharaohs cup was in my hand, and I took the grapes, and pressed them into Pharaohs cup, and I gave the cup into Pharaohs hand.

12 And Joseph said unto him, This is the interpretation of it, the three branches are i, three dayes.

i (i.e.) Signifie. So that word is oft used, as ver. 18. and 41. 26, 27. Dan. 2. 38. and 4. 22. Matth. 13. 19, 38. and 26. 26, 28; Luk. 8. 11. 1 Cor. 10. 4. And indeed there is no proper Hebrew word which answers to signifie.

‖ Or, reckon thee 13 Yet within three days shall Pharaoh ‖ lift up thine head k, and restore thee unto thy place, and thou shalt deliver Pharaohs cup into his hand, after the former manner when thou wast his Butler.

k (i. e.) Advance thee to thy former dignity. So that phrase is used 2 King. 25. 27. Psal. 110. 7. Or, reckon thy head, i. e. thy name or thy person, to wit, among his servants, which is added ver. 20. Acording to the custom, which was this; At set times Governours of Families used to take an account of their servants, and to have the names of their servants read to them, and they either left them in the catalogue or put any of them out, as they saw fit, and inflicted such further punishments upon any of them as they deserved. This seems the truer interpretation, because it is said that Pharaoh lifted up the head of his Butler, and of his Baker, ver. 20. and therefore the phrase must be so expounded as to agree equally to both.

† Heb. remember me with thee. 14 But † think on me, when it shall be well with thee, and shew kindness, I pray thee, unto me, and make mention of me unto Pharaoh, and bring me out of this house l.

l Though he patiently endures his prison, yet he prudently useth all lawful means to get his freedom.

15 For indeed I was stollen away m out of the land of the Hebrews n, and here also have I done nothing o, that they should put me into the dungeon.

m Taken away by force and fraud without my own or Fathers consent. n Out of the land of Canaan, which he might call the land of Hebrews, either because they now dwelt in it, or by way of protestation of their right and claim to it by Gods gift. Or rather thus, out of that part of Canaan where the Hebrews dwell: For the word Land is not onely spoken of whole Countries, as of the whole Land of Canaan, but of any parts or parcels thereof, as Gen. 13. 6. and 22. 2. and 23. 15. and 34. 1. o Observe, that Joseph doth not accuse either his brethren or his mistress, but only asserts his own innocency, which was necessary for his deliverance.

16 When the chief Baker saw that the interpretation was good, he said unto Joseph, I also was in my dream, and behold, I had three ‖ white p baskets on my head.

p So called from the colour either of the baskets, which were made of pilled and so white twigs, or of the things contained in them as white bread, &c.

17 And in the uppermost basket there was of all manner of † bake-meats for Pharaoh, and the birds did eat them out of the basket upon my head.

† Heb. meat of Pharaoh the work of a Baker, or Cook.

18 And Joseph answered, and said, This is the interpretation thereof: the three baskets are three days:

‖ Or, reckon thee, and take thy office from thee. 19 Yet within three days shall Pharaoh ‖ lift up thy head from q off thee: and shall hang thee on a tree, and the birds shall eat thy flesh from off thee.

q This clause is industriously added here to the former phrase, to shew that it was now meant in another sense, He shall indeed lift up thy head, as well as the chief Butlers, but in another manner, not for thee, but from thee, or so as to take away thy head or thy Life (which eminently consists and appears in the head) from thee.

* Mark 6. 21. ‖ Or, reckoned. 20 And it came to pass the third day which was Pharaohs birth-day r, that he * made a feast unto all his servants: and he ‖ lifted up the head of the chief Butler, and of the chief Baker among his servants.

r Which by persons of eminency then was and since hath usually been celebrated with feasting and rejoycing.

21 And he restored the chief Butler unto his butlership again, and he gave the cup into Pharaohs hand.

22 But he hanged the chief Baker, as Joseph had interpreted to them.

23 Yet did not the chief Butler remember Joseph, but forgat him s.

s (i. e.) Neglected him and his desire, as men in Scripture are oft said to forget God when they do not remember him so as to love and obey him. as Psal. 106. 13, 21. Hos. 2. 13.

CHAP. XLI.

1 AND it came to pass at the end of two † full years a, that Pharaoh dreamed: and behold, he stood by the river b. † Heb. years of days.

a After the Butlers restitution to his place. Heb. years of days, for full years, as 2 Sam. 14. 28. Jer. 28. 3. as a month of days is put for a full month, Gen. 29. 14. which is compleat to a day. b Nilus, called the River simply, because of its eminency, as Homer or Virgil are called, the Poet.

2 And behold, there came up out of the river c, seven well-favoured kine d, and fat-fleshed, and they fed in a medow.

c This suits well with the nature of the thing, for both the fruitfulness and the barrenness of Egypt depended under God upon the increase or diminution of the waters of that River. d Which when they appeared in dreams did portend, in the opinion of the learned Egyptians, the years or times to come, and them either good or bad according to their quality.

3 And behold, seven other kine came up after them out of the river, ill-favoured, and lean-fleshed, and stood by the other kine upon the brink of the river e.

e Which shews how sparingly the river overflowed the Lands.

4 And the ill-favoured and lean-fleshed kine, did eat up the seven well-favoured and fat kine. So Pharaoh awoke.

5 And he slept, and dreamed the second time: and behold, seven ears of corn f came up upon one stalk, † rank and good. † Heb. fat.

f Which are fit and proper resemblances of the thing here intended, both because the fertility of a Land doth mainly consist in the abundance and goodness of these, and because, ears of Corn appearing to any in a dream did, in the judgment of the Egyptian wisemen, signifie years, as Josephus notes.

6 And behold, seven thin ears and blasted with the East-wind g sprang up after them.

g A boistrous wind, and in those parts of the World very pernicious to the fruits of the Earth, Ezek. 17. 10. and 19. 12. Hos. 13. 15.

7 And the seven thin ears devoured the seven rank and full ears: and Pharaoh awoke, and behold it was a dream h.

h Not a real thing, as Pharaoh in his sleep imagined it to be. Heb. behold the dream. i. e. The dream did not vanish, as dreams commonly do, but was fixed in his mind, and he could not shake it off: by which he saw that it was no common or natural, but a divine and significant, dream.

8 And it came to pass in the morning, that his spirit was troubled i, and he sent and called for all the Magicians k of Egypt, and all the wise men l thereof; and Pharaoh told them his dream m: but there was none that could interpret them unto Pharaoh.

i Because he understood not the meaning of it, and dreaded the consequences of it. Compare Gen. 40. 6. Dan. 2. 1, 3. Mat. 27. 19. k Whose profession it was to discover secret and future things, which they did either by the observation of the Stars, or by other superstitious practices and the help of evil spirits. See Exod. 7. 11. and 8. 19; Dan. 2. 2, 10. l Who were conversant in the study of nature, and by reason of their great sagacity did oft-times make happy conjectures. m He calls them both one dream, either because they seemed to portend the same thing, or because they were the product of one night, and were divided onely by a very little interruption.

9 Then spake the chief Butler unto Pharaoh, saying, saying, I do remember my faults n this day.

n Not against Joseph by ingratitude, but against the King: by which expression he both acknowlengeth the Kings justice in imprisoning him and his clemency in pardoning him.

10 Pharaoh was wroth with his servants, and put me in ward in the captain of the guards house, both me, and the chief baker.

11 And we dreamed a dream in one night, I and he: we dreamed each man according to the interpretation of his dream *.

* Of which phrase see on Gen. 40. 5.

12 And there was there with us a young man, an Hebrew, servant to the captain of the guard: and we told him, and he * interpreted to us our dreams, to each man according to his dream, he did interpret.

13 And it came to pass, as he interpreted to us, so it was, me he o restored unto mine office, and him he hanged.

o Either 1. Pharaoh. But then he would have mentioned either his name or title, and not have spoken so slightly and indecently of him. Or rather 2. Joseph, of whom he spake last, and who is here said to restore the one, and to hang the other, because he foretold those events, as Jeremy is said to pull down and destroy those Nations, Jer. 1. 10. whose destruction he did onely foretell.

* Psal. 105. 20. † Heb. made him run.

14 * Then Pharaoh sent and called Joseph, and they † brought him hastily out of the dungeon †: and he shaved himself p, and changed his raiment, and came in unto Pharaoh.

† Or, Prison, by a Synecdoche of the part for the whole. For it is not probable that Joseph who was now so much employed and entrusted with all the affairs of the prison and Prisoners, Gen. 39. 21, 22, 23. should still be kept in the dungeon properly so called. p For till then he suffered his hair to grow, as the manner was for persons in prison or under great sorrow, 2. Sam. 19. 24. But to appear in a mournful dress before the King was not convenient, nor usual. Compare Esth. 4. 4.

15 And Pharaoh said unto Joseph, I have dreamed a dream, and there is none that can interpret it: and I have heard say of thee, that ‖ thou canst understand a dream, to interpret it.

16 And Joseph answered Pharaoh, saying, it is not in me q: God shall give Pharaoh an answer of peace ‖.

q I cannot do this by any power or vertue or art of my own, for I am but a man, as your Magicians are, but onely by inspiration from the great God. Thus he gives the honour from himself unto God, and leads Pharaoh to the knowledge of the true God. For the phrase compare Matth. 10. 20. 1 Cor. 15. 10. ‖ Or, May God give, &c. It is my desire that God would vouchsafe to Pharaoh a comfortable and happy answer.

17 And Pharaoh said unto Joseph, In my dream, behold, I stood upon the bank of a River.

18 And behold, there came up out of the river seven kine, fat fleshed, and well-favoured, and they fed in a medow.

19 And behold, seven other kine came up after them, poor and very ill-favoured, and lean-fleshed, such as I never saw in all the land of Egypt for badness.

20 And the lean, and the ill-favoured kine, did eat up the first seven fat kine.

† Heb. come to the inward parts of them.

21 And when they had † eaten them up, it could not be known that they had eaten them r, but they were still ill-favoured, as at the beginning: So I awoke.

r They seemed to be neither fatter in the flesh, nor fuller in their bodies. As many times in Famine men eat much, but are not satisfied, because God withdraws his blessing from it, by which alone it is that meat nourisheth us.

22 And I saw in my dream, and behold, seven ears came up in one stalk, full and good.

‖ Or, small.

23 And behold, seven ears ‖ withered, thin, and blasted with the East-wind, sprung up after them.

24 And the thin ears devoured the seven good ears: and I told this unto the Magicians, but there was none that could declare it to me.

25 And Joseph said unto Pharaoh, The dream of Pharaoh is one s, God hath shewed Pharaoh what he is about to do.

s To wit, In its design and signification, both dreams portend the same thing.

26 The seven good kine are seven years, and the seven good ears are seven years: the dream is one.

27 And the seven thin and ill-favoured kine that came up after them, are seven years: and the seven empty ears blasted with the East-wind, shall be seven years of famine.

28 This is the thing which I have spoken unto Pharaoh: what God is about to do, he sheweth unto Pharaoh.

29 Behold, there come seven years of great plenty, throughout all the land of Egypt.

30 And there shall arise after them seven years of famine, and all the plenty shall be forgotten t in the land of Egypt: and the famine shall consume the land.

t There shall be no relicks of it to keep it in mens minds, which will be so taken up with the contemplation of their present misery and future danger, that they will have neither heart nor leasure to reflect upon their former plenty, the remembrance whereof will but aggravate the present calamity.

* Heb. heavy.

31 And the plenty shall not be known in the land, by reason of that famine following: for it shall be very † grievous.

‖ Or, prepared of God.

32 And for that the dream was doubled unto Pharaoh twice, it is because the thing is ‖ established by God: and God will shortly bring it to pass.

33 Now therefore let Pharaoh look out a man discreet and wise, and set him over the land of Egypt.

34 Let Pharaoh do this, and let him appoint ‖ officers over the land, and take up u the fifth part x of the land of Egypt, in the seven plenteous years.

u Not by force or violence, for Joseph would never be the author of such unrighteous Counsels, but by purchase at the common price, which was like to be very low in that case, and therefore might easily be compassed by that rich and mighty Prince. x Quest. Why not half, seeing the years of Famine were as many as the years of plenty? Answ. Because 1. Men would and should live more sparingly in times of Famine. 2. It was likely that very many men would lay up great quantities of Corn in those years, partly because they could not spend it all, and partly in expectation of a scarcer and dearer time, when they might either use it themselves or sell it to their advantage. 3. The fifth part of those years of great plenty, might be more then the half, yea equal to the whole crop of ordinary years.

35 And let them gather all the food of those good years that come, and lay up corn under the hand of Pharaoh, and let them keep food in the Cities.

36 And that food shall be for store to the land, against the seven years of famine, which shall be in the land of Egypt, that the land † perish not through the famine.

37 And the thing was good in the eyes of Pharaoh, and in the eyes of all his servants.

38 And Pharaoh said unto his servants, Can we find such a one as this is, a man in whom the spirit of God y is?

y Or, of the Gods, in his Heathen Language. One whom God hath endowed with such admirable Knowledge and Wisdome.

39 And Pharaoh said unto Joseph, Forasmuch as God hath shewed thee all this z, there is none so discreet and wise as thou art:

z i. e. Hath given thee this extraordinary gift of fore-seeing and foretelling things to come, and of giving such sage advise for the future.

* Psal. 105. 21. Mac. 2. 53. Act. 7. 10. † Heb. armed or kiss.

40 * Thou shalt be over my house, and according unto thy word a shall all my people be † ruled b: only in the throne c will I be greater than thou.

a (i. e.) direction and command. Heb. mouth, which is oft put put for command, as Exod. 17. 1. and 38. 21. Numb. 3. 16, 39, &c. b Or, be fed; they ſhall receive their proviſions from thy hand and according to thy diſpoſal. Others ſhall kiſs, viz. the hand, as inferious uſed to do upon their addreſs to or conference with great perſons. See Job 31. 27. Hoſea 13. 2. But it was frivolous for Joſeph to command them to do that which by the cuſtom of the place they were obliged and wont to do. Some render the words thus, and that agreable to the Hebrew, at thy mouth ſhall the people kiſs. Which may be underſtood either properly, as inferiours did ſometimes kiſs their ſuperiors in token of their homage. See 1 Sam. 10. 1. or rather metaphorically, as the ſame phraſe is uſed Pſal. 2. 12. Prov. 24. 26. receive all thy commands with reverence and ſubmiſſion. c i.e. In ſoveraign power and dignity.

41 And Pharaoh ſaid unto Joſeph, See, I have ſet thee over all the land of Egypt.

42 And Pharaoh took off his ring d from his hand, and put it upon Joſephs hand, and arayed him in veſtures of || fine linen e, and put a gold chain f about his neck.

d Which was both a token of higheſt dignity and an inſtrument of greateſt power, by which he had authority to make & ſign what decrees he thought fit in the Kings name. See Eſth. 3. 10. and 8. 2. e Wherewith the greateſt Potentates were arayed. See Prov. 31. 22, 24. Ezek. 16. 10. Luke. 16. 19. Rev. 19. 8. f Another badge of great honour. See Prov. 1. 9. Ezek. 16. 11. Dan. 5. 7, 16, 29.

43 And he made him to ride in the ſecond chariot which he had g: and they cryed before him, || Bowe the knee h: and he made him ruler over all the land of Egypt.

g In the Kings ſecond Chariot, that he might be known and owned to be the next perſon to the King in power and dignity. Compare 2 Chron. 35. 24. Eſth. 6. 8. and 10. 3. Dan. 5. 29. h They commanded all that paſſed by him or came to him to ſhew their reverent reſpect to him in this manner. Compare Eſth. 3. 2. Others, tender father, to ſignifie that he was to be owned as the father of the Countrey, becauſe by his prudence and care he had provided for them all, and ſaved them from utter ruine.

44 And Pharaoh ſaid unto Joſeph, I am Pharaoh i, and without thee ſhall no man lift up his hand or foot k in all the land of Egypt.

i (i.e.) I onely am the King, I reſerve to my ſelf the ſoveraign power over thee and over all. As the name of Cæſar among the Romans was commonly uſed for the Emperour, ſo the name of Pharaoh for the King. Or thus, I have the ſupreme power, and therefore as I have authority to give thee the following power, ſo I will make it good to thee and oblige all my people to obſerve and obey thee. k No man ſhall do any thing in the publick affairs of the Kingdom concerning matters of War or Peace, without thy commiſſion or licence.

45 And Pharaoh called Joſephs name Zaphnath-Paaneah l, and he gave him to wife Aſenath, the daughter of Poti-pherah m, || Prieſt n of On o: and Joſeph went out p over all the land of Egypt.

l (i. e.) The revealer of ſecrets, as the Hebrews generally underſtand it, and with them moſt others. m Not that Potiphar, Gen. 39. 1. both becauſe he had another Title and dwelt in another place, and becauſe it is not probable Joſeph would have married the daughter of ſo unchaſt a mother, but another and a greater perſon. It is the obſervation of a late ingenious and learned writer, that among the Egyptians there were three words or endings of words near akin, but differing in ſignification, and in the degree of dignity & authority to which thoſe names were annexed, Phar, which belonged to inferiour officers, and Pherah, which was given to thoſe of greater dignity and power, and Pharaoh, which was appropriated to the King. n Or Prince as the word ſignifies, Exod. 18. 1. 2 Sam. 8. 18. and 20. 26. and elſewhere. This ſenſe is the more probable both from Joſephs high quality, and from his holy diſpoſition, whereby he hated Idolatry, and would never have married the daughter of an idolatrous Prieſt. o A famous City of Egypt called alſo Aven, Ezek. 30. 17. and afterwards, as ſome think, Heliopolis, now Diamata. See Jer. 43. 13. p Upon his employment and to execute the Kings command, and his own counſel.

46 (And Joſeph was thirty years old q when he ſtood r before Pharaoh King of Egypt,) and Joſeph went out from the preſence of Pharaoh, and went throughout all the land of Egypt s.

q Which is here noted to teach us, 1. That Joſephs ſhort affliction was recompenſed with a much longer proſperity, even for 80 years. 2. That Joſephs excellent wiſdom did not proceed from his large and long experience, but from the ſingular gift of God. r As his chief miniſter: to ſtand before another is the poſture and deſignation of a ſervant, as 1 Sam. 16. 21. Dan. 1. 19. s To provide places for his ſtores, and to conſtitute officers for the management of them.

47 And in the ſeven plenteous years the earth brought forth by handfuls t.

t Or, unto handfuls, to wit, growing upon one ſtalk: or, unto heaps: or, as the antients render it, for the barns or ſtorehouſes, i. e. in ſuch plenty that all their ſtorehouſes were filled with heaps of corn.

48 And he gathered up all the food u of the ſeven years which were in the land of Egypt, and laid up the food in the cities: the food of the field which was round about every city, laid he up in the ſame.

u That is, either all ſorts of grain which was proper for food: or all which he intended to gather, to wit, the fifth part, ver. 34.

49 And Joſeph gathered corn as the ſand of the Sea, very much, until he left numbring: for it was without number.

50 * And unto Joſeph were born two ſons before the years of famine came, which Aſenath the daughter of Poti-pherah, || Prieſt of On bare unto him.

* chap. 46. 20. and 48. 5.
|| Or, Prince.

51 And Joſeph called the name of the firſt-born, || Manaſſeh: for God, ſaid he, hath made me forget x all my toil, and all my fathers houſe y.

x (i. e.) Hath expelled all ſorrowful remembrance of it by my preſent comfort and glory. y (i. e.) The toil of my fathers houſe, or the toil and miſery which for many years I have endured by means of my fathers family, and my own brethren who ſold me hither. A figure called Hendyadis.

52 And the name of the ſecond called he || Ephraim: for God hath cauſed me to be fruitful in the land of my affliction z.

z (i. e.) In the land which hitherto hath been to me a land of affliction.

53 And the ſeven years of plenteouſneſs that was in the land of Egypt, were ended.

54 * And the ſeven years of dearth began to come, according as Joſeph had ſaid, and the dearth was in all lands *: but in all the land of Egypt there was bread.

* Pſal. 105. 16.

* In all the neighbouring countries, as appears by comparing this with Gen. 42. 1.

55 And when all the land of Egypt was famiſhed; the people cryed to Pharaoh || for bread: and Pharaoh ſaid unto all the Egyptians, Go unto Joſeph: what he ſaith to you, do.

|| As to their King and common father. Compare 2 King. 6. 26.

56 And the famine was over all the face of the earth, and Joſeph opened all † the ſtore-houſes and ſold unto the Egyptians, and the famine waxed ſore in all the land of Egypt.

57 And all countries came into Egypt to Joſeph for to buy corn, becauſe that the famine was ſo ſore in all lands.

CHAP. XLII.

1 NOW when * Jacob ſaw a that there was corn in Egypt, Jacob ſaid unto his ſons, Why do ye look one upon another b.

* Act. 7. 12.

a (i. e.) heard, as the word is uſed, Exod. 20. 18. as ſeeing is put for ſmelling, Exod. 5. 21. and for taſting, Pſal. 34. 8. and for touching, Joh. 20. 29. b Like lazy, careleſs, and helpleſs perſons, each one expecting relief from the other, but none offering either counſel or help for all our ſubſiſtance.

2 And he ſaid, Behold I have heard c that there is corn in Egypt: get you down d thither, and buy for us from thence, that we may * live and not die e.

* chap. 43. 8. Pſal. 118. 17. Iſa. 38. 1.

c This word explains the word ſaw, ver. 1. d For Egypt was lower than Canaan; whence on the contrary they are ſaid to go up to Canaan, Gen. 45. 9. e An emphatical repetition of the ſame thing uſed here to make them more ſenſible of their danger.

3. And

3 And Joſephs ten brethren went down to buy corn in Egypt.

4 But Benjamin Joſephs brother, Jacob ſent not f with his brethren: for he ſaid, Leſt peradventure miſchief befall him.

f Becauſe he was very young, and now his beſt beloved ſon.

5 And the ſons of Iſrael came to buy corn among thoſe that came: for the famine was in the land of Canaan.

6 And Joſeph was the governour over the land, and he it was that ſold g to all the people of the land: and Joſephs brethren came, and bowed down themſelves before him h, with their faces to the earth.

g Either 1. by his Miniſters and Commiſſioners appointed to that end, as men in Scripture and in all Authors are ſaid to do that which others do by their authority and command? Or 2. he himſelf immediately contracted with the buyers, or at leaſt with ſuch as were forreigners; which he did upon prudential reaſons, both becauſe he would not have them to pry into the ſtate of Egypt, ver. 12. and becauſe he would by that opportunity underſtand the ſtate of other lands, and improve that knowlege for his maſters ſervice. h Thus unwittingly fulfilling Joſephs dream, Gen. 37. 7.

7 And Joſeph ſaw his brethren, and he knew them, but made himſelf ſtrange unto them, and ſpake † roughly unto them i: and he ſaid unto them, Whence come ye? And they ſaid, From the land of Canaan to buy food.

i Partly to bring their ſin to remembrance; partly to get the knowledge of the true ſtate of his Father and Family; and partly to further the following deſign, and make way for his and their greater happineſs.

8 And Joſeph knew his brethren, but they knew not him k.

k Becauſe his viſage was much altered by his beard and by other things, it being about 20 years ſince they ſaw him, and his Egyptian Language and Habit and Carriage together with the great dignity of his place prevented all ſuſpicions concerning their brother.

* chap. 37. 5. 9 And Joſeph * remembred the dreams which he dreamed of them, and ſaid unto them, Ye are ſpies l: to ſee the nakedneſs of the land m you are come.

l This he ſaith not becauſe they were ſo, or he thought them to be ſo, but that he might ſearch out the truth of their affairs, ſpeaking too much like a Courtier or Polititian. m (i. e.) The weak parts of it, and where it may be beſt aſſaulted or ſurprized.

10 And they ſaid unto him, Nay, my Lord, but to buy food are thy ſervants come.

11 We are all one mans ſons n; we are true men o: thy ſervants are no ſpies.

n And therefore not ſpies; for it is not likely either that a father would venture ſo many of his ſons upon ſo hazardous an employment: or that ſuch a work would have been truſted in the hands of one family, onely. o Who honeſtly and truly mean what we pretend, and have no other deſign in our coming hither.

12 And he ſaid unto them, Nay, but to ſee the nakedneſs of the land you are come.

13 And they ſaid, Thy ſervants are twelve brethren, the ſons of one man in the land of Canaan: and behold, the youngeſt is this day with our father, and one * is not p.

*Lam. 5. 7.

p (i. e.) Is dead, as that phraſe oft ſignifies both in Scripture, as Gen. 37. 30. and 44. 20. Jer. 31. 15. Mat. 2. 18, 19. and in other Authors, as Homer, Euripides, &c. They concluded with great probability that he was dead, chap. 44. 20. becauſe for 20 years together they had heard nothing either of him, or from him; which may ſeem ſtrange, conſidering the nearneſs of Egypt and Canaan: but this came to paſs partly from his own long impriſonment and afterward from his great and high imployments; partly from his loathneſs to bring ſo much miſchief to his father and brethren as the diſcovery of his caſe might have produced; and principally from the overruling Providence of God, which for its own glorious deſign diſpoſed of Joſephs mind and affairs ſo that he either did not ſend to his fathers houſe, or that the meſſages were intercepted, there being not then thoſe conveniencies for mutual correſpondencies which now there are. And it is not improbable that Joſeph might be further acquainted with the mind of God in this matter by dreams, which may ſeem to have been familiarly afforded to him together with the interpretation of them. See Gen. 40. 8. and 41. 16.

14 And Joſeph ſaid unto them, That is it that I ſpake unto you, ſaying, Ye are ſpies q.

q This juſtifies my accuſation; for it is not probable, that one man ſhould have ſo many ſons, all grown up and living together in one Family, and that he ſhould expoſe them all to the perils of ſuch a journey.

15 Hereby ye ſhall be proved: * by the life of Pharaoh r, ye ſhall not go forth hence, except your youngeſt brother come hither.

* See 1 Sam. 1. 26. & 17. 55.

r As ſure as Pharaoh lives. It ſeems to be the form of an oath in uſe among the Egyptians, as afterwards the Romans uſed to ſwear by the Name, Genius, Health and Life of their Emperors. Compare 1 Sam. 1. 26. and 17. 55. 2 King. 2. 2. Ezek. 33. 11. And it is not ſtrange that Joſeph through humane infirmity was carried by the ſtream of the general practice of the Court, eſpecially when the law of God was not yet delivered concerning the appropriation of Oaths unto God.

16 Send one of you, and let him fetch your brother, and ye ſhall be † kept in priſon, that your words may be proved, whether there be any truth in you: or elſe by the life of Pharaoh ſurely ye are ſpies.

17 And he † put them all together into ward ſeven days.

18 And Joſeph ſaid unto them the third day, This do, and live s: * for I fear God t.

* Neh. 5. 15.

s I will ſpare your lives, and not puniſh you with death as ſpies, and you ſhall carry proviſions that your family alſo may live. t And therefore will not be cruel to you, nor to your brother whom you ſhall leave with me. This might have raiſed ſome ſuſpition concerning Joſeph, but that they knew there were divers among the heathens who did own the true God, though they worſhipped Idols with him.

19 If ye be true men, let one of your brethren be bound in the houſe of your priſon *: go ye, carry corn for the famine of your houſes.

* In which you are now impriſoned, and are ſtill like to be ſo, if you accept not this condition.

20 But * bring your youngeſt brother unto me, ſo ſhall your words be verified, and ye ſhall not die: and they did ſo u.

* chap. 43. 5.

u (i. e.) Reſolved and promiſed to do ſo. Thoſe things are oft ſaid to be done in Scripture which were ſincerely reſolved upon, as hath been noted before.

21 And they ſaid one to another, We are verily guilty x concerning our brother, in that we ſaw the anguiſh of his ſoul, when he beſought us y, and we would not hear: therefore is this diſtreſs come upon us z.

x This is the juſt puniſhment of that great wickedneſs, which though we could cover from men, yet we now ſee and feel was known to God who is now reckoning with us for it. Thus divine Vengeance overtakes them and conſcience tortures them for a ſin committed above 20 years before, and their affliction brings them to repentance. y Compare Gen. 49. 23. Yet this paſſage is not mentioned in that hiſtory, chap. 37. Learn hence, that the ſilence of the Scripture, is no good argument that ſuch or ſuch a thing was not ſaid or done, except in ſome ſpecial caſes. z He is inexorable to us, as we were to him.

22 And Reuben anſwered them, ſaying, * ſpake I not unto you, ſaying, Do not ſin againſt the Child, and ye would not hear? therefore behold alſo, his blood a is required.

* chap. 37. 21.

a The puniſhment of his blood or death occaſioned by us.

23 And they knew not that Joſeph underſtood them: for † he ſpake unto them by an interpreter.

† Heb. an interpreter was between them.

24 And he turned himſelf about from them, and wept b, and returned to them again, and communed with them, and took from them Simeon c, and bound him before their eyes d.

b Tears partly of natural affection and compaſſion towards his brethren, now in great diſtreſs and anguiſh; and partly of joy to ſee the happy ſucceſs of his deſign and rigorous carriage in bringing them to the ſight of their ſins. c Whom he chuſeth to puniſh, partly becauſe next to Reuben, he was the eldeſt, and, as it may be probably gathered from his bloody diſpoſition Gen. 34.25. and 49.6. the moſt fierce and forward againſt Joſeph, when Reuben was for milder counſels as we ſee here, ver. 22. and chap. 37 29. and partly becauſe the detainment of one of ſo perverſe and furious a temper would leaſt afflict his father, and moſt ſecure Benjamin, who was to come with his Brethren. d That it might make deeper impreſſion upon their hard hearts, and make their repentance more effectual.

25 Then Joſeph commanded to fill their ſacks with corn, and to reſtore every mans money into his ſack, and to give them proviſion for the way, and thus did he unto them.

26 And they laded their aſſes with the corn, and departed thence.

27 And as one of them e opened his ſack, to give his aſs provender in the Inn, he eſpied his mony, for behold, it was in his ſacks mouth.

e And after him the reſt by his example and information, did ſo, as is affirmed, chap. 43 ver. 21. and it is not denied here.

28 And he ſaid unto his brethren, My money is reſtored, and lo, it is even in my ſack, and their heart † failed them, and they were afraid f, ſaying one to another, What is this that God hath done unto us †?

f Leſt this ſhould be a deſign to entrap and ſo deſtroy them. † Whoever were the inſtruments, they knew that God was the chief author of this occurrent, and wiſely reflect upon his providence in it, and their own guilt which provoked him againſt them.

29 And they came unto Jacob their father, unto the land of Canaan, and told him all that befell unto them, ſaying;

30 The man who is the Lord of the land, ſpake † roughly to us, and took us for ſpies of the countrey.

31 And we ſaid unto him, we are true men, we are no ſpies.

32 We be twelve brethern, ſons of our father: one is not, and the youngeſt is this day with our father in the land of Canaan.

33 And the man the lord of the countrey, ſaid unto us, Hereby ſhall I know that ye are true men: leave one of your brethren here with me, and take food for the famine of your houſholds, and be gone.

34 And bring your youngeſt brother unto me: then ſhall I know that you are no ſpies, but that you are true men: ſo will I deliver you your Brother and ye ſhall traffick in the land.

35 And it came to paſs as they emptied their ſacks, that behold every mans bundle of money was in his ſack: and when both they and their Father ſaw the bundles of money, they were afraid g.

g (i.e.) Their fear returned upon them with more violence, having now more leiſure to conſider things, and their wiſe and experienced father ſuggeſting new matters to them which might more deeply affect them.

36 And Jacob their father ſaid unto them, Me have ye bereaved of my Children; Joſeph is not, and Simeon is not h: and ye will take Benjamin away: all theſe things are againſt me i.

h He gave him up for loſt, as being, as he thought, in the power of a cruel enemy. i I am the great ſufferer in all theſe things: you carry your ſelves as if you were neither concerned nor affected with them.

37 And Reuben ſpake unto his Father, ſaying, Slay my two ſons k, if I bring him not to thee, deliver him into my hand, and I will bring him to thee again.

k Two of the four mentioned, Gen. 46. 9. An abſurd propoſition, neither fit for him to make, nor for Jacob to accept.

38 And he ſaid, My ſon ſhall not go down with you; for his brother is dead, and he is left alone l: if miſchief befall him by the way in the which ye go, then ſhall ye bring down my gray hairs with ſorrow to the grave.

l To wit, of his mother, my dear Rachel.

CHAP. XLIII.

1 AND the famine was ſore in the land.

2 And it came to paſs when they had eaten up the corn which they had brought out of Egypt, their father ſaid unto them, Go again, buy us a little food a.

a He ſaith, a little, either to ſhew that he took no thought to ſatisfie his or their curioſity or luxury, but only their neceſſity, for which a little would ſuffice, and that they muſt all moderate their appetites, eſpecially in a time of ſuch ſcarcity: or to encourage them to the journey by ſuggeſting to them that they needed not bring great ſtores but onely what was ſufficient for that year, and that God would provide better for them hereafter ſo as they ſhould not need to go ſo far for corn any more.

3 And Judah ſpake unto him, ſaying, The man did † ſolemnly proteſt unto us ſaying, Ye ſhall not ſee my face b except your * brother be with you.

* chap. 42. and 44. 23.

b See the ſame expreſſion 2 Sam. 14. 24, 32. Act. 20. 25, 38. Ye ſhall not be admitted into my preſence, nor to the purchaſing of any corn here.

4 If thou wilt ſend our brother with us, we will go down and buy thee food.

5 But if thou wilt not ſend him, we will not go down, for the man ſaid unto us, Ye ſhall not ſee my face, except your brother be with you.

c Becauſe we ſhall both loſe the end of our journey, viz. the getting of Corn, and run the utmoſt hazard of all our lives.

6 And Iſrael ſaid, Wherefore dealt ye ſo ill with me, as to tell the man whether ye had yet a brother?

7 And they ſaid, The man † asked us ſtraitly of our ſtate, and of our kindred, ſaying, Is your father yet alive? have ye another brother? and we told him according to the † tenour of theſe words d; * could we certainly know that he would ſay, Bring your brother down?

† Heb. mouth.
* Heb. knowing could we know.

d We gave anſwers ſuitable to his queſtions, or ſuch as his words required.

8 And Judah e ſaid unto Iſrael his father, Send the lad f with me, and we will ariſe and go, that we may live, and not die, both we and thou, and alſo our little ones.

e Who for his age and prudence and ſubmitent carriage for his youthful follies was moſt beloved and regarded by his father. f So he calls him, becauſe he was the youngeſt of all, though he was now 30 years old, and a father of divers children. See Gen. 30. 22. and 35. 18. and 41. 46. and 46. 21.

9 I will be ſurety for him: of my hand ſhalt thou require him: If I bring him not unto thee, and ſet him before thee, then let me bear the blame g for ever.

* chap. 44. 32.

g Heb. be an offender to thee, Let me bear the guilt and ſhame and puniſhment due to ſo great an offence.

10 For except we had lingered, ſurely now we had returned ‖ this ſecond time.

11 And their father Iſrael ſaid unto them, If it muſt be ſo now, do this: take of the beſt fruits in the land in your veſſels, and carry down the man a preſent, a little balm, and a little honey, ſpices, and myrrhe *, nuts h and almonds.

* Of all which ſee Gen. 37. 25. h That kind of nuts which we call piſtaches, as ſome Hebrew and other expoſitors render the word; for that was both an excellent fruit and peculiar to Judea and Syria, and well agreeing with the almonds which here follow.

12 And take double money i in your hand, and the money that was brought again in the mouth of your ſacks: carry it again k in your hand, peradventure it was an overſight l.

i Double to what you carried last, either to procure more corn, which may prevent the frequency of such perillous journies: or because the continuance and increase of the scarcity had advanced the price. k For it is their money, not ours, and therefore must be restored. l Either in you, or in the receiver of your money, who through multitude of buyers and haste in his business might easily be mistaken.

13 Take also your brother, and arise, go again unto the man.

14 And God Almighty give you mercy before the man, that he may send away your other brother, and Benjamin: ‖ If I be bereaved of my children, I am bereaved m.

‖ Or, and I, as I have been. &c.

m An expression whereby he submits himself and children to Gods will and providence, whatever the issue shall be. Compare Esth. 4. 16. Or thus, As I have been already bereaved of some of my dearest children, so I shall be bereaved of the rest, and I shall be left solitary, and if this be my portion, Gods will be done.

15 And the men took that present, and they took double money in their hand, and Benjamin, and rose up, and went down to Egypt, and stood before Joseph.

16 And when Joseph saw Benjamin with them, he said to the ruler of his house, Bring these men home, and † slay, and make ready: for these men shall † dine with me at noon n.

n The usual time for the more solemn meal in the East Countries, as the evening was the time, and the supper the great meal among the Romans.

17 And the man did as Joseph bade: and the man brought the men into Josephs house.

18 And the men were afraid, because they were brought into Josephs house, and they said, Because of the money that was returned in our sacks at the first time, are we brought in, that he may † seek occasion against us, and fall upon us, and take us for bondmen o, and our asses.

o The proper punishment for thieves.

19 And they came near to the Steward of Josephs house, and they communed with him at the door of the house;

20 And said, O Sir, * † we came indeed down at the first time to buy food.

* chap. 42. 3.
† Heb. coming down, we came down.

21 And * it came to pass when we came to the Inne, that we opened our sacks, and behold, every mans money was in the mouth of his sack, our money in full weight: and we have brought it again in our hand.

* chap. 42. 27.

22 And other money have we brought down in our hands to buy food: we cannot tell who put our money in our sacks.

23 And he said, Peace be to you p, fear not: your God, and the God of your Father q hath given you treasure in your sacks r: † I had your money. And he brought Simeon out unto them.

p No harm shall come to you for that matter. q Thus he speaks, because Joseph had instructed him, as well as others of his family, in the true Religion. r By his power and providence secretly putting it there.

24 And the man brought the men into Josephs house, and * gave them water, and they washed their feet, and he gave their asses provender.

* chap. 18. 4. and 24. 32.

25 And they made ready the present against Joseph came at noon: for they heard that they should eat bread there.

26 And when Joseph came home, they brought him the present which was in their hand, into the house, and bowed themselves to him to the earth.

27 And he asked them of their † welfare, and said, † is your father well, the old man * of whom ye spake? Is he yet alive?

† Heb. peace.
† Heb. is there peace to your father.
* chap. 42. 11, 13.

28 And they answered, Thy servant s our father is in good health, he is yet alive: and they bowed down their heads, and made obeisance.

s By which expression delivered in Jacobs name and by his order Jacob himself made obeisance to him, as was foretold, Gen. 37. 9.

29 And he lift up his eyes, and saw t his brother Benjamin, his mothers son, and said, Is this your younger bother, * of whom ye spake unto me? and he said, God be gracious unto thee my son u.

* chap. 42. 13.

t (i. e.) More narrowly observed him, having now more leasure, than he seems to have had when he saw him first, ver. 16. u So he calls him, not from special affection, which he intended not yet to discover; but because this compellation is commonly used when a man speaks to another who is his inferiour in age, or dignity.

30 And Joseph made haste: for his bowels did yern x upon his brother: and he sought where to weep, and he entred into his chamber, and wept there.

x His heart and inward parts were vehemently moved, as they commonly are upon occasion of any excessive passion, of love, pity, grief, or joy, &c.

31 And he washed his face, and went out, and refrained himself, and said, Set on bread.

32 And they set on for him by himself y, and for them by themselves; and for the Egyptians which did eat with him, by themselves: because the Egyptians might not eat bread with the Hebrews, for that is an abomination unto the Egyptians z.

y Partly because the dignity of his place and the custom of Princes required this state: and partly for the reason here following. z Not so much from their pride and disdain of other people, as from their superstition and Idolatry: partly because they worshipped the creatures, which the Hebrews and others did commonly eat: and partly because of some peculiar rites and customes which they had in the dressing and ordering of their diet. Whence Herodotus affirms, that the Egyptians would not use the pots nor knives of the Gracians about their food. Compare Gen. 46. 34. Exod. 8. 26.

33 And they sate before him, the first-born according to his birth-right, and the youngest according to his youth a: and the men b marvelled c one at another.

a Being so placed either by Josephs appointment: or rather by their own choice and according to their custome; by which the elder, though the handmaidens children, took place of the younger, who by that order were taught what veneration they owe to the aged, and how great a sin it is, though very customary, in young men to despise those whom they should reverence. b Not the Egyptians, but the Hebrews, the men last spoken of. c Either at the matter and manner of the feasts and entertainments of the Egyptians; or rather at the singular honour which Joseph did to them above all others, the reason whereof they could not conceive, and therefore marvelled at it.

34 And he took, and sent messes unto them from before him d: but Benjamins mess was five times so much as any of theirs e: and they drunk, and † were merry f with him.

d It was the antient custom of Egypt and other countries, in their feasts, that either all the meat, or at least some eminent parts and parcels of it, were not promiscuously set before all the guests, but peculiarly distributed by the master of the feast to the several guests, and that differently according to his respect and affection to them, or to their several qualities. See 1 Sam. 1. 5. and 9. 22, 23, 24. e Partly because of his nearer relation and dearer affection to him, and partly to observe whether thiswould raise that envy in them towards him, which was the occasion of their malicious enterprize against himself, that he might accordingly provide for his security. f The Hebrew word oft signifies to be drunk, but oft-times it is onely to drink liberally, though not to drunkenness, as may appear from Cant. 5. 1. Hag. 1. 6. Joh. 2. 10.

CHAP. XLIV.

1 AND he commanded the † Steward of his house, saying, Fill the mens sacks with food, as much as they can carry, and put every mans money in his sacks mouth.

† Heb. him that was over his house.

2 And put my cup, a, the silver cup, in the sacks mouth of the youngest b, and his corn-money: and he did according to the word that Joseph had spoken.

a It seems to have been a large cup and of great price and much used by Joseph. b With design to discover their intentions and affections towards Benjamin, whether they did envy him and would desert him in his danger, as they did Joseph; or would cleave to him, that hence he might take his measures how to deal with him and them.

3 As soon as the morning was light, the men were sent away, they, and their asses.

4 And when they were gone out of the city, and not yet far off, Joseph said unto his Steward, Up, follow after the men: and when thou dost overtake them, say unto them, Wherefore have ye rewarded evil for good?

5 Is not this it in which my lord drinketh? and whereby indeed he ‖ divineth c? ye have done evil * in so doing.

c Amongst the several kinds of divination in use among the Egyptians and other Heathens, this was one to do it by a cup or bason, which they filled with water and put in them plates of silver or precious stones in which certain characters were ingraven, by which and some words they used they called upon the Devil, who gave them answer. Joseph did not use this course nor was a diviner, but the people thought him such an one, and the Steward might represent him as such for the better covering or carrying on his design. But this sense agrees not with the 15th verse of this chapter, Wot you not, &c. Which words shew that he speaks of something which they all might easily know: but they did not know that Joseph was a Diviner, much less that he divined by that cup, whereas that kind of divination was generally performed by a glass, not by a cup. Others observe, that the Hebrew word oft-times signifies not to divine, but onely to observe and discover a thing, as Gen. 30. 27. 1 Kings 20. 33. and render the place thus, Whereby he will certainly observe or discover, to wit, what you are and do. But this also seems not to consist with ver. 15. and the supplement is too large and remote. The true sense then is this, the Hebrew, bo, is not to be rendered, by which, but concerning which, as the particle beth is oft used, and it notes not the instrument whereby, but the object about which, he did divine, and the words must be rendered, concerning which he can or would certainly divine. And this agrees well with ver. 15. q. d. did you think you could deceive my Master! did not you and all others know that he could divine and discover secret things, whence he had both his name and preferment! And this cup being much prized and used by him, you might easily judge that he would use his art to recover it. * (i. e.) Very evil, unjustly, unthankfully and foolishly.

6 And he overtook them, and he spake unto them these same words.

7 And they said unto him, wherefore saith my Lord these words? God forbid that thy servants should do according to this thing.

8 Behold, the money which we found in our sacks mouths, we brought again unto thee out of the land of Canaan: how then should we steal out of thy Lords house silver or gold d?

d It is not probable that we who restored that which was in our power to keep and to conceal without any danger should steal that which was likely to be discovered with so much shame and hazard to our selves.

9 With whom soever of thy servants it be found, * Chap. 31. 32. both * let him die, and we also will be my Lords bondmen e.

e This over-daring offer proceeded from hence that they were all conscious of their own innocency, and did not suspect any fraud or artifice in the matter.

10 And he said, Now also let it be according unto your words: he with whom it is found, shall be my servant, and ye shall be blameless f.

f Thus he moderates the conditions which they proposed, exempting the innocent, and exchanging the deserved and offered death of the innocent into slavery.

11 Then they speedily took down every man his sack to the ground, and opened every man his sack.

12 And he searched, and began at the eldest g and left at the youngest: and the cup h was found in Benjamins sack.

g To take off all their suspicion of his fraud. h He found doubtless the money there, but he accused them not about that matter, both because they had an answer ready to that charge from his own mouth, chap. 43. 23. and because the greater crime, the stealing of the cup which Joseph so much prized and used, might seem to extinguish the less, or at least cause him to neglect it.

13 Then they rent their clothes, and laded everyman his asse, and returned to the City i.

i Being afraid and ashamed to go to their father without Benjamin, concerning whom they had received so severe a charge, and made such solemn promises and imprecations.

14 And Judah and his brethren came to Josephs house: (for he was yet there) and they fell before him on the ground.

15 And Joseph said unto them, What deed is this that ye have done? wot ye not that such a man as I can certainly ‖ divine? ‖ Or, make trial.

16 And Judah k said, What shall we say unto my Lord? what shall we speak? or how shall we clear our selves? God hath found out the iniquity l of thy servants: behold, we are my Lords servants, both we, and he also with whom the cup is found. * Chap k Who speaks in the cause, as being one of the eldest, and a person of most gravity and discretion and readiness of speech, and most eminently concerned for his brother. l viz. This iniquity, of which it seems some of us are guilty, and God hath discovered it. Or, iniquity may be put for iniquities, whether we are guilty of this fact or not, we are certainly guilty of many other sins, for which God is now punishing us, to whose providence we therefore willingly submit.

17 And he said, God forbid that I should do so: but the man in whose hand the cup is found, he shall be my servant: and as for you, get you up in peace unto your father.

18 Then Judah came near unto him m, and said, O my Lord, let thy servant, I pray thee, speak a word in my Lords ears n, and let not thy anger burn against thy servant: for thou art even as Pharaoh o. * Chap

m Made a little nearer approach to him, that he might present his humble petition to him. n In thy hearing: For this phrase doth not necessarily imply that he whisper'd in his ears, as appears from Numb. 14 28. Deut. 32. 44. Judg. 17. 2. o As thou representest his person, so thou art invested with his Majesty and Authority, and therefore thy word is a law, thou canst do with us what thou pleasest, either spare or punish us, and therefore we do justly depricate thine anger, and most humbly intreat thy favourable audience and princely compassion to us.

19 My Lord asked his servants, saying have ye a father, or a brother?

20 And we said unto my Lord, we have a father, an old man, and a child of his old age, a little one p, and his brother is dead, and he alone is left of his mother, and his father loveth him. † Heb father p So they call him comparatively to themselves who were much elder; and withal to signifie the reason why he came not with them because he was young and tender and unfit for such a journey.

21 And thou saidest unto thy servants, Bring him down unto me, that I may set mine eyes upon him q.

q (i. e.) See him with my own eyes, and thereby be satisfied of the truth of what you say. Compare Gen. 42. 15, 16. Elsewhere this phrase signifies to shew favour to a person, as Jer. 39. 12. and 40. 4. But though that was Josephs intention, as yet he was minded to conceal it from them. † Heb forth in wo

22 And we said unto my Lord, The lad cannot leave his father: for if he should leave his father, his father would die. * A r Quest. Why would Joseph expose his father to the hazard of his life in parting with his dear child! Answ Joseph supposed that to be but a pretence, and might fear lest his brethren had disposed of Benjamin, as they did of him, and therefore could not bring him forth. And as for his father, the experience which he had of his continuance in life and health after the supposed untimely death of Joseph, gave him good assurance that his parting with Benjamin for a season, and that under the care and charge of his brethren, was not likely to make any dangerous impression upon him.

24 And it came to pass when we came up unto thy servant my father, we told him the words of my Lord.

25 And * our father said, Go again, and buy us a little food. * Chap. 43.

26 And

26 And we ſaid, we cannot go down: if our youngeſt brother be with us, then will we go down: for we may not ſee the mans face, except our youngeſt brother be with us.

27 And thy ſervant my father ſaid unto us, Ye know that my wife s bare me two ſons.

s He calleth her ſo by way of eminency, as Gen. 46. 19. becauſe ſhe only was his wife by deſign and choice, whereas Leah was put upon him by fraud, and might have been refuſed by him, if he had ſo pleaſed, and the other two were given to him by Rachel and Leah.

28 And the one went out from me, and I ſaid, *Chap. 37. 33. * ſurely he is torn in pieces: and I ſaw him not ſince.

29 And if ye take this alſo from me, and miſchief befall him, ye ſhall bring down my gray hairs with ſorrow to the grave.

30 Now therefore when I come to thy Servant my father, and the lad be not with us; (ſeeing that his life is bound up in the lads life) t.

t The death of the Child, which upon this occaſion he will firmly believe, will unavoidably procure his death alſo.

31 It ſhall come to paſs when he ſeeth that the lad is not with us, that he will die, and thy ſervants ſhall bring down the gray hairs of thy ſervant our father with ſorrow to the grave.

32 For thy ſervant became ſurety for the lad unto my father, ſaying, *Chap. 43. 9. * If I bring him not unto thee, then I ſhall bear the blame to my father for ever.

33 Now therefore, I pray thee, let thy ſervant abide in ſtead of the lad u, a bondman to my Lord, and let the lad go up with his brethren.

u Partly in compaſſion to our aged father; and partly for thy own advantage; becauſe I can be more ſeryiceable to thee than he, becauſe of my greater ſtrength and experience.

34 For how ſhall I go up to my father, and the lad be not with me, leſt peradventure I ſee the evil † Heb. find my father. that ſhall † come on my father.

CHAP. XLV.

1 THen Joſeph could not refrain himſelf before all them that ſtood by him, and he cryed, cauſe every man to go out from me a: and there ſtood no man with him, while Joſeph made himſelf known unto his brethren.

a Remove all the Egyptians out of my preſence and chamber. Which he did partly that he might maintain the honour of his place, and not make himſelf cheap and contemptible to the Egyptians, by his exceſſive tears and paſſions, and by his free and familiar and affectionate converſe with his brethren; and partly to preſerve the reputation of his brethren, by concealing their fault from the Egyptians.

† Heb. gave forth his voice in weeping. 2 And he † wept aloud b; and the Egyptians, and the houſe of Pharaoh heard *.

b His tears and voice which had been hitherto kept in by main force, now breaking forth with greater violence. * Some who were near, with their own ears, and others by report.

* Act. 7. 13. 3 And Joſeph ſaid unto his brethren, * I am Joſeph; Doth my father yet live c. And his brethren could not anſwer him: for they were ‖ troubled at his preſence ‖. ‖ Or, terrified.

c He repeats his former queſtion, Gen. 43. 27. either becauſe he queſtioned the truth of their former relation, or would be further ſatisfied in it, it being uſual with men to ask over and over again what they long to know, or becauſe he now deſired a more particular relation of his fathers condition, and how he did bear up under all his calamities ‖ From a ſudden and deep ſenſe of their horrid guilt and their juſt fear of ſome dreadful puniſhment.

4 And Joſeph ſaid unto his brethren, Come near to me d, I pray you: and they came near, and he ſaid, I am Joſeph your brother, whom ye ſold into Egypt e.

d Be not afraid of me, but come nearer to me with chearfulneſs and confidence, that you may be aſſured that I am he, and that we may more freely and privately diſcourſe together ſo as none others may hear. It is probable that Joſeph ſate in ſtate, and that they hitherto kept a due diſtance from him.

e (i. e.) Sold unto them that brought me into Egypt, and ſold me there. See Gen. 37. 28. and 39. 1. So they ſold him into Egypt occaſionally and eventually.

5 Now therefore be not grieved f, † nor angry with your ſelves g, that ye ſold me hither: † Heb. neither let there be anger in your eyes. * for God did ſend me h before you to preſerve life i. * Chap. 50. 20. Pſal. 105. 16. 17.

f To wit, immoderately, and for the injury which you did to me, or for the danger which you have brought upon your ſelves. Otherwiſe it doth not diſſwade them from a godly ſorrow, for their offence againſt God, for the procurement of which he deſigned and uſed that ſtrange and rough carriage towards them. g Neither exceſſively torment your ſelves with the remembrence of the fact, neither break forth into contentions and wrath, and upbraidings of one another. h God by his wiſe, powerful, and gracious Providence overruled your evil intentions to an happy end. i Not onely your lives, for the expreſſion is here indefinite and general, but the lives of all the people in this and the neighbouring Countries. Which though it doth not leſſen your ſin, yet ought to qualifie your ſorrow.

6 For theſe two years hath the famine been in the land: and yet there are five years, in the which there ſhall neither be earing nor harveſt k.

k Neither ſowing nor reaping, except in a few places near Nilus, becauſe the people could not ſpare ſeed-corn, and would not loſe it, underſtanding from Joſeph that their coſt and labour would be loſt, and that the famine would be of long continuance.

7 And God ſent me before you to † preſerve you a poſterity l in the earth, and to ſave your lives by a great deliverance m. † Heb. to put for you a remnant.

l That you and your Children might be ſuſtained and preſerved in this time of Famine, and afterwards abundantly multiplied, as God hath promiſed. Or, for a great remnant, or eſcaping, (i. e. that you who are now but an handful, eſcaping this danger, may grow into a vaſt multitude: The word evaſion or eſcaping is here put for the perſons that do eſcape, as it is 2 Chron. 30. 6. Iſa. 10. 20. and as captivity is oft put for the Captives, as it is Numb. 21. 1. Deut. 21. 10. And ſo what was ſaid in the former clauſe is repeated in this with an emphatical addition.

8 So now it was not you that ſent me hither, but God n: and he hath made me a father to Pharaoh o, and Lord of all his houſe, and a ruler throughout all the land of Egypt.

n That I came to this place and pitch of honour and power is not to be imputed to your deſign, which was of another nature, but to Gods over-ruling providence, which ordered the circumſtances of your action, ſo as I ſhould be brought to this place and ſtate. Compare Gen. 50. 20. o To adviſe him and to provide for him, as fathers do for their Children, and to have the authority reſpect and power of a father with him.

9 Haſte you, and go up to my father, and ſay unto him, Thus ſaith thy ſon Joſeph; God hath made me lord of all Egypt: come down unto me, tarry not.

10 And thou ſhalt dwell in the land of Goſhen p, and thou ſhalt be near unto me, thou, and thy children, and thy childrens children, and thy flocks, and thy herds, and all that thou haſt.

p A part of Egypt bordering upon Canaan, well watered and fit for cattel, and therefore moſt proper for the Iſraelites not onely for preſent uſe, and to keep them at ſome diſtance from the inward parts of Egypt and from the Court, but alſo that they might have Canaan always in their eye and mind, and in Gods time might with leaſt diſadvantage march thither. Joſeph promiſeth this place either becauſe it was leaſt inhabited, being in the borders of the Land, or becauſe he juſtly preſumed upon the Kings favour, and knew that the growing Famine would give him opportunity to diſpoſe of the people as he pleaſed.

11 And there will I nouriſh thee (for yet there are five years of Famine) leſt thou, and thy houſhold, and all that thou haſt, come to poverty.

12 And behold your eyes ſee, and the eyes of my brother Benjamin, that it is my mouth that ſpeaketh unto you q.

q Becauſe I ſpeak to you not by an interpreter, as hitherto I have done, but immediately and in the Hebrew Language.

13 And you ſhall tell my father of all my glory in Egypt, and of all that you have ſeen, and ye

* Acts. 7. 14. shall haste, and * bring down my father hither.

14 And he fell upon his brother Benjamins neck, and wept: and Benjamin wept upon his neck.

15 Moreover, he kissed all his brethren, and wept upon them: and after that his brethren talked with him r.

r To wit, freely and familiarly, being encouraged by his kindness.

16 And the fame thereof was heard in Pharaohs house, saying, Josephs brethren are come: and it † pleased Pharaoh well, and his servants s.

s Because they all owed their lives unto Joseph, and his favour was now fresh and present, and therefore he had more influence upon them, and they more kindness for him.

17 And Pharaoh said unto Joseph, Say unto thy brethren, This do ye, Lade your beasts, and go, get you into the land of Cannaan.

18 And take your father, and your households, and come unto me, and I will give you the good *chap. 27. 28. of the land of Egypt, and ye shall eat * the fat of the land t.

t The choisest fruits of the land. Fat oft is put for the best of any sort, as Numb. 18 12, 29. Deut. 32. 14. Psal. 63. 5. and 147. 14.

19 Now thou art commanded u, this do ye; Take you wagons out of the land of Egypt for your little ones, and for your wives, and bring your father and come.

u Besides that absolute power which I have given thee to dispose of all things as thou pleasest, I do particularly and especially command thee to do this thing.

† Heb. let not your eyes spare, &c. Also † regard not your stuff x: for the good of all the land of Egypt is yours.

x Heb. Let not your eye pity or spare any part of your stuff, as loath to leave it behind you, or afraid to lose it. Sparing or pitying is an act of the mind, but it is ascribed to the eye here, as also Ezek. 7. 4, 9. and 16. 5. partly because there it discovers it self by tears or otherwise; and partly because the sight of the eye doth oft affect the heart and move pity.

21 And the children of Israel did so: and Joseph gave them wagons, according to the † commandment of Pharaoh, and gave them provision for the way.

† Heb. mouth.

22 To all of them he gave each man changes of raiment y: but to Benjamin he gave three hundred pieces of silver, and five changes of raiment.

y New and handsome garments which upon their coming into Pharaohs presence and on other occasions they might wear instead of those more old and homely ones which they brought with them from Canaan. Compare Judg. 14. 12, 19. 2 King. 5. 5.

23 And to his father he sent after this manner z: ten asses † laden with the good things of † Heb. carrying. Egypt, and ten she asses laden with corn and bread, and meat for his father by the way.

z Heb. according to this. What? Either what went before, changes of raiment, or what follows, ten asses, &c.

24 So he sent his brerhren away, and they departed, and he said unto them, See that ye fall not out a by the way.

a Or, contend, one with another, each vindicating himself and laying the blame upon his brother.

25 And they went up out of Egypt, and came into the land of Canaan unto Jacob their father.

26 And told him, saying, Joseph is yet alive, and he is governour over all the land of Egypt.
† Heb. his. And † Jacobs heart fainted b, for he believed them not c.

b Or, was weakned, or failed, he fell into a swoon, as it is ordinary, because of the greatness and suddenness of the news and the conflict of contrary and violent passions, raised hereby, grief at the remembrance of his former loss, and excessive joy for Josephs recovery and felicity; hope that this might be true, and fear lest it should be but a fiction of theirs: any one of these passions are able to cause a fainting of the Spirits, but much more when all meet together, especially in an aged person. c Partly because of the greatness and strangeness and desirableness of the thing, compare Psal. 126. 1. and partly because they were by this very relation convicted of one lye about Joseph, in saying that he was dead, and therefore might easily be thought guilty of another.

27 And they told him all the words of Joseph which he had said unto them; and when he saw the wagons which Joseph had sent to carry him, the spirit of Jacob their father revived.

28 And Israel said, It is enough d; Joseph my son is yet alive: I will go and see him before I die.

d I desire no more, no greater happiness in this world, than to see him. Which when I have done, I am willing to die.

CHAP. XLVI.

1 AND Israel took his journey with all that he had, and came to Beersheba, and offered sacrifices a unto the God of his father Isaac b.

a Both in thankfulness to God for former favours, and especially for Josephs preservation and happiness; and by way of supplication to God for his direction in this great case, whether he might leave the promised land of Canaan and go into the idolatrous and impious land of Egypt; and for his protection and blessing as well in his journey as in Egypt. b Whom Isaac honoured and served, and who had constantly protected and provided for Isaac and confirmed his covenant with him. He mentions Isaac rather than Abraham, partly for Isaacs honour, to shew that though Isaac was much inferiour to Abraham in gifts and graces, yet God was no less Isaacs than Abrahams God, and therefore would be his God also notwithstanding his unworthiness: and partly for his own comfort, because Isaac was Jacobs immediate Parent and had transferred the blessing of the Covenant Esau to Jacob, and the validity of that translation depended upon Isaacs interest in God.

2 And God spake unto Israel in the visions of the night c, and said, Jacob, Jacob d: And he said, here am I.

c (i. e.) In that way or manner of visions which God affordeth to men by night and in their sleep. See Gen. 20. 3. Job 33. 15, 16. Mat. 1. 20. and 2. 13, 19. Act. 16. 9. and 18. 9. &c. d He doubles the name both in token of his friendship and familiarity with him, and to raise Jacobs attention. Compare Gen. 22. 11. 1 Sam. 3. 10.

3 And he said, I am God, the God of thy father, fear not e to go down into Egypt: for I will there make of thee a great nation.

e For here were many causes of fear; lest he should do evil in forsaking the promised and blessed land, and going to a place which had been incommodious to his grandfather, Gen. 12. 15. and forbidden to his father. Gen. 26. 2. lest he should expose his children to manifold perils, as, of being infected with the vices and particularly the Idolatry which reigned there above all other countries, and of being inveagled by the pleasantness and eminent fruitfulness of that soil to give up themselves to all manner of pleasures and to settle themselves there, and give over all thoughts of returning to Canaan; and of being brought into that grievous bondage and affliction which was spoken of Gen. 15. 13. and lest some mischief should befal him or his in so long and dangerous a journey.

4 I will go down with thee into Egypt, and I will also surely bring thee up again f: and Joseph shall put his hand upon thine eyes g.

f Though not in thy person, yet in thy body, Gen. 47. 29, 30. and 50. 5, 13. and in thy posterity, which are a part of thy self, or thy self multiplied. g Shall close thy eyes; which office was usually performed by the neareſt and deareſt relations of the dying party among the Jews, Greeks and Romans. Hereby Jacob is assured that he should die in peace, and that Joseph both now was alive, and should survive his father.

u He doth not ſay, which came with Jacob into Egypt, becauſe ſome of them came thither before him, and others with him, ſome in their perſons, and ſome in their Parents. As for the difficulty ariſing from comparing this place with Act. 7. 14. it will be more fit to ſpeake of it when we come to that place.

28 And he ſent Judah before him unto Joſeph, to direct his face unto Goſhen x, and they came into the land of Goſhen.

29 And Joſeph made ready his chariot, and went up to meet Iſrael his father to Goſhen, and preſented himſelf unto him y, and he fell on his neck, and wept on his neck a good while.

y And doubtleſs fell down before him with all that reverence which children owe to their Parents, and in this poſture Jacob falls upon his neck, &c. Of which poſture ſee Gen. 33. 4. and 45. 14. Luk. 15. 20. Act. 20. 37.

30 And Iſrael ſaid unto Joſeph, Now let me die z, ſince I have ſeen thy face, becauſe thou art yet alive.

31 And Joſeph ſaid unto his brethren, and unto his fathers houſe, I will go up, and ſhew Pharaoh, and ſay unto him, my brethren, and my fathers houſe, which were in the land of Canaan, are come unto me.

32 And the men are ſhepherds, for † their trade hath been to feed cattle: and they have brought their flocks and their herds, and all that they have. † Heb. they are men of cattle.

33 And it ſhall come to paſs, when Pharaoh ſhall call you, and ſhall ſay, What is your occupation?

34 That ye shall say, Thy servants trade hath been about cattle from our youth, even until now, both we, and also our fathers: that ye may dwell in the land of Goshen ‖; for every shepherd is an abomination to the Egyptians †.

‖ In which design and choice Joseph shews both his prudence and piety. He brings them not to Court, where it had been easie for him to have put them all into the best places and offices of the Court; and as he is not ashamed to own himself a brother to shepherds, which were contemptible among the Egyptians, so he seeks not to advance them higher, but continues them in their employment, and placeth them in Goshen: whereby, 1. He kept them together which was very convenient for them in many respects. 2 He secured them both from envy, and as far as he could, from the corruption of their Religion and Manners which was likely to follow their mixture with the Egyptians, and especially their being at the Court. 3. He put them into a capacity of returning to Canaan, when God gave them opportunity. † Either, 1. Because they did both kill and eat those creatures which the Egyptians adored. Or. 2. Because of the fresh remembrance of the horrid cruelties lately committed there by the Phœnician Shepherds, who as some very antient writers affirm, were seated in Egypt in great numbers and had arrived to great power, and waged a cruel War with other Egyptians, wherein they wasted divers Cities, and burned their Temples, and barbarously murdered a multitude of people. And therefore it is no wonder if the calling of Shepherds was grown out of use and credit among them. True it is, the Egyptians had some Sheep and other Cattle, Gen. 47. 6, 17. Exod. 8. 26. and 9. 3. which they kept for delight or profit by their milk, wool, &c. or for sale to others, but they did not use them, as other Shepherds generally did, kill and eat them. And it is probable that they committed even the keeping of their Sheep and Cattle to those strangers which were dispersed among them, and looked upon the employment as too vile and mean for any Egyptian. And though Pharaoh offered it to Josephs brethren as a favour to be Rulers over his Cattle, Gen. 47. 6. that might proceed onely from hence because he saw them firmly resolved upon that course of life and therefore could not bestow any higher perferment upon them.

CHAP. XLVII.

1 THen Joseph came and told Pharaoh, and said, my father, and my brethren, and their flocks, and their herds, and all that they have, are come out of the land of Canaan: and behold, they are in the land of Goshen a.

a Either to abide there: Or to remove thence to any other place which thou shalt appoint for them.

2 And he took some b of his brethren, even five men, and presented them unto Pharaoh.

b Or, part, as this Hebrew word is used Dan. 1. 2. Or, the extremity or end or tail of them, i. e. the meanest of them for person and presence, as the word is taken, 1 King. 12. 31. lest if he had presented the goodliest of them, Pharaoh might have required their attendance upon him, either at court or camp. And for the same reason for which he did industriously represent them to Pharaoh as contemptible in their employment he might also present those to him who were so in their persons.

3 And Pharaoh said unto his brethren, What is your occupation? And they said unto Pharaoh, Thy servants are shepherds both we, and also our fathers *.

† This employment is not pretended nor taken up by us in design or in contempt of thee or thy people, but was handed to us by our fathers, and hath been our business to this day.

4 They said moreover unto Pharaoh, For to sojourn in the land c are we come: for thy servants have no pasture for their flocks, for the famine is sore in the land of Canaan d: now therefore we pray thee, let thy servants dwell in the land of Goshen.

c Not to defraud thy people of their lands and habitations but onely to be here for a season as strangers and sojourners till we can conveniently return to our own Land. d Which being an higher ground then Egypt, and watered in a manner onely by Rain from Heaven, must needs sooner and sorer feel the effects of a drought and scarcity than Egypt which had relief from Nilus in that kind.

5 And Pharaoh spake unto Joseph, saying, Thy father and thy brethren are come unto thee.

6 The land of Egypt is before thee e, in the best of the land make thy father and thy brethren to dwell, in the land of Goshen let them dwell: and if thou knowest any man of activity f amongst them, then make them rulers over my Cattle.

e To view it and take thy choice where thou pleasest, it is in thy power. See Gen. 13. 9. f Or, of strength or vigour of body and mind, fit for the employment. By which expression it seems probable that those five presented to Pharaoh were of the meanest sort of them. See on ver. 2.

7 And Joseph brought in Jacob his father, and set him before Pharaoh: and Jacob blessed g Pharaoh.

g Not in an authoritative way, as the greater blesseth the less, but in a general manner. i. e. he saluted him, thanked him for all his favours to him and his, and prayed to God to bless and recompense him for it. Thus blessing is put for saluting, 1 Sam. 13. 10. 2 King. 4. 29. for praying, Numb. 6. 23, 24. for thanksgiving, Matth. 26. 26. compare with Luke 22. 19.

8 And Pharaoh said unto Jacob, † how old art thou?

† Heb. how many are the days of the years of thy life:

9 And Jacob said unto Pharaoh, * The days of the years of my pilgrimage i are an hundred and thirty years: few and evil have the days of the years of my life been, and have not attained unto the dayes of the years of the life of my fathers k, in the days of their pilgrimage.

* Heb. 11. 13.

i (i. e.) Of my unstable or unsettled life, in which I have been flitting from place to place, See Gen. 17. 8. Psal. 119. 19. Heb. 11. 9, 13. k Though I seem old in comparison of thy people, yet I fall much short of my Progenitours, Isaac and Abraham and Terah.

10 And Jacob blessed Pharaoh, and went out from before Pharaoh.

11 And Joseph placed his father and his brethren, and gave them a possession in the land of Egypt, in the best of the land, in the land of Rameses l, as Pharaoh had commanded.

l A part of the Land of Goshen, possibly that part where afterwards the City Rameses was built by the Israelitas. Exod. 1. 11. and 12. 37. whence it is so called here by anticipation. For the Israelites were not now numerous enough to possesse the whole land of Goshen: which was given to them, but contented themselves with a part of it, leaving the rest to the management of the Egyptians, and therefore when they encreased greatly they were forced to spread their habitations amongst the Egyptians. See Exod. 12. 7, 23, 35, 37.

12 And Joseph nourished his father and his brethren, and all his fathers household with bread, ‖ † according to their families m.

m Or, According to the mouth of the Family: mouth being put for their will or desire, as it is Gen. 24. 57. Isa. 30. 2. as much as every one desired, without any restraint: Or, according to the manner of a little child, he put their meat into their very mouths, it was brought to them without any more care or pains of theirs than an infant takes for its food.

13 And there was no bread in all the land: for the famine was very sore, so that the land of Egypt, and all the land of Canaan fainted by reason of the famine n.

n Quest. Whence came it that the people in this extremity did not take the corn by force out of the several storehouses? Answ. Besides that singular providence of God which watcheth over Kings and Rulers, and stilleth the tumults of the people, Joseph had no doubt foreseen this difficulty and took due care to prevent it, partly by disposing the stores in strong and well guarded places; partly by adding wealth and strength to the King, whereby he might more easily suppress any seditious risings; and principally by not permitting the people to despair or come to the utmost extremity, but giving them relief in all their exigencies.

14 And Joseph gathered up all the money, that was found in the land of Egypt o, and in the land of Canaan, for the corn which they bought: and Joseph brought the money into Pharaohs house.

o Wherein he did no more than any of the Subjects might have done: he bought great store of Corn in the plentiful years with the Kings money, and kept it till a time of Famine, and sold it at a rate which was agreeable to the season.

15 And when money failed in the land of Egypt, and in the land of Canaan, all the Egyptians came unto Joseph, and said, Give us bread: for why should we die p in thy presence? for the money faileth.

p Why ſhouldeſt thou ſee and ſuffer us to periſh for our want of money, when thou canſt relieve us?

16 And Joſeph ſaid, Give your cattle: and I will give for your cattle, if money fail.

17 And they brought their cattle unto Joſeph: and Joſeph gave them bread in exchange for horſes, and for the flocks, and for the cattle of their herds, and for the aſſes, and † he fed them with bread, for all their cattle, for that year.

18 When that year was ended, they came unto him the ſecond year q, and ſaid unto him, We will not hide it from my lord, how that our money is ſpent, my lord alſo had our herds of cattle: there is not ought left in the ſight of my lord, but our bodies, and our lands.

q Not the ſecond from the beginning of the Famine, but from their great extremity, the ſecond year after that laſt mentioned, wherein they had ſold their Cattle; but this ſeems to have been the laſt year of the Famine, becauſe he now gives them Corn for food and for ſeed too, ver. 23. whereas in the ſix firſt years there was no ſowing nor reaping, Gen. 45. 6.

19 Wherefore ſhall we die before thine eyes r, both we and our land s? buy us and our land for bread, and we and our land will be ſervants unto Pharaoh t: and give us ſeed u that we may live and not die, that the land be not deſolate x.

r (i. e.) Whilſt thou looked upon us like an idle ſpectatour, not pitying and relieving us! s The land is ſaid to die improperly, when it is deſolate and barren, and when the fruits of it dye, or which his equivalent to it, do not live. t Pharaoh ſhall be the ſole proprietor and we are content to be his Tenants to manage it for his uſe. u Becauſe this was the laſt year of Famine, as Joſeph informed them, & therefore they tilled & ſowed the ground for the following year. x Whithout inhabitants, as it will be if thou ſuffereſt us to die for want of bread.

20 And Joſeph bought all the land of Egypt for Pharaoh: for the Egyptians ſold every man his field, becauſe the famine prevailed over them: ſo the land became Pharaohs.

21 And as for the people, he removed them to cities y from one end of the borders of Egypt, even to the other end thereof z.

y Under the Cities are here comprehended the Villages and Lands belonging to the Territory and Government of each City, for the ſeed which he gave them was not to be ſown in Cities but in the Countrey: but the Cities onely are here mentioned, becauſe they were ſent thither firſt, either for the conveniency of nouriſhing them during this Famine out of the publick ſtore-houſes which were there; or that they might all profeſs their ſubjection to the Governments of the ſeveral Cities, which was convenient for the management of that numerous and tumultuous people; or that the Cities might be firſt and moſt repleniſhed with inhabitants, as being the principal honour and ſtrength and ſecurity of a Kingdom, and that Arts and Trades and Merchandiſe might flouriſh, without which the commodities of the Country would have been of leſs price and uſe. But the Cities being firſt ſupplied, the reſidue, which doubtleſs was vaſt, were diſperſed in the Countrey. z Far from their native ſoil and ancient Patrimonies, that none of them might plead preſcription, but that all might be forced to acknowledge that they owed their eſtates not to their own wit and induſtry, nor to their Parents gift, but wholly to the Kings favour, and that the remembrance of their patrimonial Lands might be worn out, and therewith the grief which would ariſe from their reſentment of their loſs of them, which probably would be matter of tumults and ſeditions, to which that people were very prone. And it is probable, that he ſo diſpoſed of this affair, that thoſe who were apt and likely and uſed to unite together in ſeditious inſurrections, whether kindred or others, ſhould be ſeparated one from another, as far as might be. If any think that Joſeph dealt hardly with them, and made an ill uſe of their neceſſity, he will ſee how moderately and mercifully he deals with them, ver. 24.

22 Only the land of the ‖ Prieſts a bought he not b: for the Prieſts had a portion aſſigned them of Pharaoh, and did eat their portion which Pharaoh gave them: wherefore they ſold not their lands.

a Under this name he underſtands chiefly thoſe who adminiſtred the Worſhip of the Gods or Idols of Egypt, and withal thoſe who applied themſelves to the ſtudy of the arts and vertues, called their wiſemen and magicians. Though ſome underſtand it of the princes (as that word ſometimes ſignifies) or Officers of Pharaoh, who were nouriſhed out of the Kings Treaſures. And poſſibly the ſame Hebrew word may here comprehend both, viz. the miniſters of the King and of their Idols too, for both enjoyed the ſame priviledges, as Diodorus Siculus relates. And that the Prieſts are included, if not mainly intended here, will be evident enough to any one that conſiders the ſtate of Egypt, how mad that people univerſally were upon their Idols, how numerous their Prieſts were, and in how great honour and veneration both with Prince and People. Beſides, reaſon of State obliged Pharaoh to ingage and ſecure to himſelf that ſort of men which bore ſo great ſway with the old inhabitants of their ſeveral places, and were likely to have the ſame authority with the new inhabitants, to quiet and ſatisfie them at their firſt change, which muſt needs be very ungrateful to them. b Of this immunity of the Prieſts that antient writer, Diodorus Siculus, makes mention. But this is not to be aſcribed to Joſephs will or choice, for he who abhorred their Idolatry, could not have a kindneſs for nor would have given encouragement to, the great upholders and promoters of it, but in this he was over-ruled either by Pharaohs expreſs command, (it being not probable; that ſo great an intereſt as that of the Prieſts ſhould not have friends at Court, or that their friends ſhould not plead for them, or that their pleas and deſires ſhould not be granted by an Idolatrous King) or by the Laws of Egypt, or by their cuſtoms and uſages in things of a like nature, which would have the force of a law among them.

23 Then Joſeph ſaid unto the people, Behold, I have bought you this day, and your land for Pharaoh: Lo, here is ſeed for you, and ye ſhall ſow the land ‖.

‖ For this was the laſt year of the Famine, as was noted before.

24 And it ſhall come to paſs in the increaſe, that you ſhall give the fifth part unto Pharaoh, and four parts ſhall be your own c, for ſeed of the field, and for your food, and for them of your houſholds, and for food for your little ones.

c Whereas he might have reſerved four parts to Pharaoh and have allowed them onely the fifth. Herein he ſhewed both his humanity and kindneſs in mitigating that hard bargain which themſelves had made and were neceſſitated to make, and his prudence, in compoſing, ſweetning, and winning the hearts of the people to the King, and making them pay their tribute for the future with more chearfulneſs.

25 And they ſaid, Thou haſt ſaved our lives d: let us find grace in the ſight of my Lord e, and we will be Pharaohs ſervants *.

d Whithout thy care and Providence we had all been dead men, and therefore if thou hadſt kept us to the firſt bargain, thou hadſt done us more kindneſs than wrong, much more when thou haſt uſed us with ſo much equity and clemency. e Be thou our friend with Pharaoh in this and upon all other occaſions. * To manage his land for him upon the terms which thou haſt propoſed.

26 And Joſeph made it a law over the land of Egypt unto this day, that Pharaoh ſhould have the fifth part f: except the land of the ‖ Prieſts only, which became not Pharaohs.

‖ Or, Princes.

f That the propriety of the land ſhould be Pharaohs, and that in token therefore the people ſhould pay the fifth part of the products of it to Pharaoh.

27 And Iſrael dwelt in the land of Egypt, in the country of Goſhen, and they had poſſeſſions g therein, and grew and multiplyed exceedingly.

g (i. e.) Lands, not for the dominion or propriety of them, for that reſted in Pharaoh, but for the uſe and profit of them for their preſent ſubſiſtance.

28 And Jacob lived in the land of Egypt, ſeventeen years: ſo † the whole age of Jacob was and hundred forty and ſeven years.

† Heb. the days of the years of his life.

29 And the time drew nigh that Iſrael muſt die, and he called his ſon Joſeph, and ſaid unto him, If now I have found grace in thy ſight, * put, I pray thee, thy hand under my thigh h, and deal i kindly and truly k with me, * bury me not, I pray thee, in Egypt.

* chap. 24. 2.

* See chap. 50. 25.

h (i. e.) Swear to me, as ver. 31. that thou wilt do what I am now deſiring of thee. See the notes on Gen. 24. 20. He requires this, not out of any diſtruſt of Joſephs promiſe, but partly as a more ſolemn proteſtation of his right to, and affection for that promiſed land: partly as a motive to all his children to have their minds and hearts there even when their bodies were in Egypt; and partly to give Joſeph an argument and excuſe to Pharaoh that he might more willingly permit Joſeph to fulfil his fathers deſire becauſe of his own oath. i Or, that thou wilt deal;

deal: as the Hebrew Vau joyned with the future tense is elsewhere used, as Psal. 24. 7. and 35. 24. and 51. 15 k Kindly in promising, and truly in performing thy promise.

30 But I will lie with my fathers l, and thou shalt carry me out of Egypt, and bury me in their burying-place: and he said, I will do as thou hast said.

l Abraham and Isaac in Canaan. See Gen. 23. 19. and 25. 9. and 35. 29. Which he desired not so much for himself, as knowing that wherever he was buried, he should rise to Glory; as for his children, to shew his own, and confirm their faith in Gods promise of Canaan, to discover his high valuation of that land not onely for it self, but as it was a type and pledge of the heavenly inheritance, to keep his childrens minds and hearts loose from Egypt, a place of so much sin and danger, and fixed upon Canaan, that they might be more willing to go thither when God called them, by vertue of that inclination which is in most persons to be buried with their Fathers: and in the mean time to declare his detestation of Idolaters, with whom he would have no communion either in life, as far as he could avoid it, or in the place of burial; and on the contrary to profess his communion with his godly Ancestours by his desire to be joyned with them in burial. And for the same reasons Joseph desired the translation of his bones thither, Gen. 50. 25.

31 And he said, Swear unto me: and he sware unto him. And * Israel bowed himself m upon the beds head n.

* Heb. 11. 21.

m Not to Joseph, who, being now not upon his throne, nor amongst the Egyptians, but in his fathers house, was doubtless more ready to pay that reverence as he did chap. 48. 12. than to receive veneration from him, which he owed to his father; but to God, who is here to be understood, as he is in the same phrase, 1 King. 1. 47. whom with this gesture he worshipped and praised as for the promise of Canaan, and the assurance which he had now received from Joseph of his being buried there, so for all his favours to him and to Joseph and by him to all his family. n Jacob at this time was bed-rid through age and infirmity, but, being now to give God solemn thanks, though the words and manner of it be not here expressed, he raised himself and sat upon the head or uppermost part of his bed, as he did also, Gen. 48. 2. that he might express his reverence to God as much as he could, by bowing, when he could not do it as much as he would, being unable to do it kneeling. Others for bed read staff, the discussion whereof I refer unto its proper place, Heb. 11. 21.

CHAP. XLVIII.

1 AND it came to pass after these things, that one told Joseph, Behold, thy father is sick: and he took with him his two sons a, Manasseh and Ephraim.

a To obtain his venerable and religious fathers blessing for them.

2 And one told Jacob, and said, Behold, thy son Joseph cometh unto thee: and Israel strengthned himself b, and sat upon the bed.

b He got new strength, his spirits being quickned and refreshed by the tidings of Josephs approach, and he put forth all the strength which he had.

3 And Jacob said unto Joseph, God Almighty appeared unto me at * Luz in the land of Canaan, and blessed me.

* chap. 28. 13. and 35. 6.

4 And said unto me, Behold, I will make thee fruitful, and multiply thee; and I will † make of thee a multitude of people; and I will give this land to thy seed after thee, for an everlasting possession.

† Heb. make thee a multitude of peoples.

5 And now thy * two sons, Ephraim and Manasseh, which were born unto thee in the land of Egypt, before I came unto thee into Egypt, are mine c: as Reuben and Simeon d they shall be mine.

* chap 41. 50. and 46. 20. Josh. 13. 7.

c By Adoption, I shall own them as if they were my immediate children, and each of them shall have equal share both in my present estate and future inheritance of Canaan with the rest of my children. Thus Jacob transfers the double portion, which was the right of the first-born, from which Reuben by his transgression fell, Gen. 49. 4. upon Joseph, 1 Chron. 5. 1. d Which two he names as the eldest, who, if any, might seem to claim a greater priviledge than the rest.

e Shall be reputed as thy children, and my grandchildren, and shall not have any distinct share, in my present or future inheritance, but shall have a part of their brethrens lot in such manner and proportion as thou shalt think fit, or as their succeeding Parents or Governours shall determine. But it doth not appear; nor doth Scripture any where mention, that Joseph had any other sons but these, and therefore it is probable he had no more: onely Jacob speaks this upon supposition, in case he should have any other. * Either Ephraimites or Manassites.

7 And as for me, * when I came from Padan, Rachel died by me f in the land of Canaan, in the way when yet there was but a little way to come unto Ephrath: and I buried her there in the way of Ephrath g: the same is Bethlehem.

* Gen. 35.

f Or, beside me, near me, before mines eyes, I seeing, but not being able to help her in her extremity: which makes the remembrance of it more grievous to me. This story he here mentions partly because the sight of Joseph and his children brought his beloved Rachel to his remembrance: partly to give the reason of this action of his to the rest of his children, which was not onely because Rachel was his first rightful wife by designation and contract, and therefore the right of the first-born was truly Josephs; but because by her early death he was cut off from all hopes of having more children by her, and therefore it was but fit he should supply that defect by adopting Josephs children. g Not out of disrespect to her, whose person was, and memory yet is, precious and honourable to me, but either because dying in child-bed they could not keep her till they came to the burying-place of the Patriarchs, at Hebron, Gen. 23. 19. especially when they were tyed to the slow motion of the flocks and herds: or because I would not bury her in the common burying-place with heathens and Idolaters, in the city of Ephrath. By which he tacitely implies, that he would not have Joseph joyned with the Egyptians in burial.

8 And Israel beheld Josephs sons, and said, who are these h?

h For Jacobs eyes were dim through age and infirmity, as is observed, ver. 10. and therefore he could not distinctly discern them.

9 And Joseph said unto his father, They are my sons, whom God hath given me in this place: and he said, Bring them, I pray thee, unto me, and I will bless them i.

i Or, that I may bless them, not with a common, but with a Paternal and Patriarchal and Prophetical blessing in the name and by the spirit of God, praying for and foretelling those blessings which God will confer upon them.

10 (Now the eyes of Israel were † dim for age, so that he could not see) and he brought them near unto him, and he kissed them, and imbraced them:

11 And Israel said unto Joseph: I had not thought to see thy face: and loe, God hath shewed me also thy seed.

12 And Joseph brought them out from between his knees k, and he bowed himself with his face to the earth l.

k Not his own knees, from which they had been taken before, but Jacobs knees, between which they stood, whilest Jacob kissed and embraced them; from which Joseph removed them, partly that they might not be burdensome to their aged and weak grandfather; and principally that he might place them in fit order and reverend posture to receive the blessing for which he longed. l Testifying thereby his reverence to his father, his thankfulness for that favour which he had now shewed to him and his, and his humble and earnest request for his blessing upon them.

14 And Israel stretched out his right hand m, and laid it upon Ephraims head n, who was the younger, and his left hand upon Manassehs head, guiding his hands wittingly o: for Manasseh was the first-born.

m Which was more honourable both in Scripture account, and amongst the Gentiles. n Which was a rite used often and in divers cases, as in the conferring of offices either sacred or civil, as Numb. 8. 10. Deut. 34. 9. Act. 6. 6. and 13. 3. and among other things, in giving benedictions, as Mat. 19. 13. o This proceeded not from chance or the mistake and weakness of his eyes, but from design and the wisdom of his hands: Heb. he disposed his hands prudently, or, he dealt wisely with his hands. Here was a double wiſdom ſhewed, 1. Humane, by which he gathered that Manaſſeh was the eldeſt, becauſe Joſeph placed him towards his right hand. 2. Divine and prophetical, by which he foreſaw Ephraims advantages above Manaſſeh, and wiſely ſuited the ceremony to the ſubſtance, giving the greater ſign of honour to him to whom God deſigned the thing.

Heb. 11. 21. chap. 17. 1. and 24. 40.

15 * And he bleſſed Joſeph p, and ſaid, God, * before whom my fathers, Abraham and Iſaac did walk, the God which fed me * all my life long unto this day.

p Not now in his perſon, but in his children, which yet is called here a bleſſing of Joſeph, becauſe they were a part of himſelf. In which ſenſe and upon the ſame ground the land of Canaan is oft-times ſaid to be not onely promiſed but given to Abraham, and Iſaac, &c. not as if they were in perſon to poſſeſs it, but becauſe it ſhould be given to their children. Thus Cham is ſaid to be curſed when his ſon is curſed, Gen. 9. 25. * (i. e.) Protected, ſuſtained and directed me.

16 The Angel q * which redeemed me from all evil, bleſs the lads, and let my name be named on them r, and the name of my fathers, Abraham, and Iſaac s, and let them grow † into a multitude in the midſt of the Earth.

† Heb. as fiſhes do increaſe. See Numb. 26. 34. 37.

q Not ſurely a created Angel, but Chriſt Jeſus, who is called an Angel, Exod. 23. 20. and the Angel of the covenant, Mal. 3. 1. who was the Conductor of the Iſraelites in the wilderneſs, as plainly appears by comparing Exod. 23. 20, 21. with 1 Cor. 10. 4, 9. Add hereunto, that this Angel is called Jacobs redeemer, which is the title appropriated by God to himſelf, Iſa. 43. 14. and 47. 4. and that from all evil, and therefore from ſin, from which no created Angel can deliver us, but Chriſt onely, Mat. 1. 21. and that Jacob worſhippeth and prayeth to this Angel no leſs than to God for the bleſſing, and that without any note of diſtinction, the word, bleſs, being in the ſingular number, and equally relating to God and to the Angel; and that the Angel to whom he here aſcribes his deliverances from all evil muſt in all reaſon be the ſame to whom he prayed for theſe very deliverances which he here commemorates, and that was no other than the very God of Abraham, as is evident from Gen. 28, 15, 20, 21. and 32. 9, 10, 11. and 35. 3. r [i. e.) Let them be called my name, owned for my immediate children, and inveſted with the ſame priviledges with my other children, be the heads of diſtinct tribes, and as ſuch receive diſtinct inheritances. And hence they are called the children of Jacob or Iſrael, no leſs than the children of Joſeph. For the phraſe, ſee Deut. 28. 10. 2 Chron. 7. 14. Iſa. 4. 1. Jer. 14. 9. s Let them be called their children, let them not only have my bleſſing, but the bleſſings of Abraham and Iſaac, let all meet together upon their heads, and let that gracious covenant of God made with Abraham, and confirmed with Iſaac and me, be ratified and made good unto them.

17 And when Joſeph ſaw that his father laid his right hand upon the head of Ephraim, it diſpleaſed him t: and he held up his fathers hand, to remove it from Ephraims head, unto Manaſſehs head.

t Becauſe of that affection which Parents generally have for their firſt-born. See Gen. 21. 11.

18 And Joſeph ſaid unto his father, Not ſo my father: for this is the firſt-born, put thy right hand upon his head.

19 And his father refuſed, and ſaid, I know it, my ſon, I know it: he alſo ſhall become a people, and he alſo ſhall be great: but truly his younger brother ſhall be greater than he u, and his ſeed ſhall become a † multitude of nations x.

u So the tribe of Ephraim was both in number, Num. 1. 32, 33, 35. and 2. 19, 21. and Deut. 33. 17. and in power and priviledges, for that Tribe was the ſeat firſt of the Tabernacle, and afterwards of the Kingdom. Whence the name of Ephraim is ſometimes put for all the ten Tribes, as Iſa. 7. 2. and ſometimes for Joſeph himſelf, as Numb. 1. 32. Rev. 7. 8. which Manaſſeh never is. x (i. e.) Equal to many nations, in number and ſtrength: Or, from them ſhall proceed many nations, i. e. Many numerous, potent and flouriſhing families, whereof each is equivalent to an ordinary nation. For as Nations are ſometimes called Families, as Zach. 14. 18. ſo the Tribes and Families of Iſrael are called Nations or People, as Ezek. 2. 2. Act. 4. 27.

20 And he bleſſed them in that day, ſaying, In thee y ſhall Iſrael bleſs, ſaying, God make thee as Ephraim, and as Manaſſeh: and he ſet Ephraim before Manaſſeh.

y (i. e.) In thy ſeed, as appears both from the relative, them, here, and from ver. 15. where his bleſſing of them is called the bleſſing of Joſeph, and from the following words, where this is interpreted of Ephraim and Manaſſeh. And in thee, or in thy ſeed, i. e. uſing their names in the form or words of bleſſing, as eminent examples of bleſſedneſs.

21 And Iſrael ſaid unto Joſeph, Behold I die z; but God ſhall be with you, and bring you again unto the land of your fathers a.

z (i. e.) I am about to die. The preſent time for that which will ſhortly and certainly be, as Gen. 19. 13. and 20. 3. Joh. 14. 2. a (i. e.) Canaan, their Land, 1. By habitation, as Nazareth is called Chriſts Countrey, becauſe he dwelt in it. 2. By the donation of God, who had promiſed and would in his time give the actual poſſeſſion of it to them. i. e. to their ſeed.

22 Moreover, I have given to thee b one portion c above thy brethren, which I took out of the hand of the Amorite with my ſword and with my bow d.

b (i. e.) I do now give to thee the right, and I do prophetically give, and God will really and actually give unto thy ſon Ephraim or his poſterity who ſhall poſſeſs this part over and above that portion which ſhall fall to him by lot. This was all the land which Jacob had in Canaan, which he here gives to Joſeph, partly in Teſtimony of his great affection and obligation to him; Partly as a ſign that he did conferre the right of the firſt-born upon him: And partly for the confirmation of the Faith of Joſeph and his brethren, and to oblige them to ſet up their reſt no where but in Canaan. c The Hebrew word is Shechem, which word indeed ſignifies a ſhoulder, as Gen. 9. 23. and is here put for a part of Land which is choice and good, as the ſhoulder is among the parts of the body: See 1 Sam. 9. 24. And he uſeth this word that by alluſion he might ſignifie what place he ſpeaks of, even Shechem, as may farther appear by comparing, Joſ. 24. 32. Joh. 4. 5. Yea ſome would have Shechem here to be the proper name of the place, which might be if the word one were not added to it. d This place is underſtood, either 1. Of the future conqueſt of the Land of the Amorites or Canaanites by his poſterity, vvhich he here aſcribes to himſelf, and ſpeaks of it in the paſt time, as of a thing already done, as the manner of the Prophets is. But Jacob would not attribute that to his Svvord, which his poſterity deny to be done by their Svvord, Pſal. 43. 4. And it is manifeſt, that Jacob here ſpeaks of that vvhich vas his by a ſpecial title, and vvhich in a peculiar manner he gave to Joſeph. Or, 2. Of the City and Territory of Shechem, vvhoſe inhabitants were rooted out by Simeon and Levi, and whoſe Land being void was poſſeſſed by Jacob. And this is ſaid to be got by Jacobs Svvord and Bow, becauſe it was got vvith the Svvord and Bow of his Sons Simeon and Levi, and a great number of his Family vvho doubtleſs vvere aſſociated vvith them in this expedition. But it is not likely that he would take to himſelf that which he declares his utter abhorrency of, Gen. 34. 30. and 42. 5, 6. or that he ſhould call that his Sword and his Bow here vvhich he calls inſtruments of cruelty in Simeon and Levi's hands, Gen. 49. 5. Or, 3. Which ſeems the trueſt, of that Land in the Territory of Shechem which Jacob bought of Hamor, Gen. 33. 19. which is ſaid to be got by his Sword and Bow, either 1. Properly, becauſe he did by force of Arms expel thoſe Amorites, who upon his retirement from thoſe parts after the ſlaughter of the Sichemites, had invaded his lands, though this ſtory be not elſewhere recorded; as many things are mentioned by the by in ſome one place of Scripture, without any particular account of the circumſtances of them, either there or elſewhere, as Gen. 36. 24. Deut. 2. 9, 10, 11. Joſ. 24. 11. And though Jacob was a man of peace, yet his Sons were Warriors, and they by his Permiſſion might drive out by their Arms thoſe ſtragling Canaanites which had taken poſſeſſion of his purchace, Jacob being the more willing to recover his right herein, becauſe it was an earneſt of his future poſſeſſion of the whole Land. And the neighbouring Canaanites would not concern themſelves in the defence of the invaders, both becauſe they vvere convinced of the right of Jacobs cauſe, and becauſe they were overruled by divine Providence, in which Jacob truſted, and of which he had ample experience. Or, 2. metaphorically, i. e. by his money, which he calls his Sword and his Bow, not onely becauſe money is anſwerable to the Sword and Bow and all other things, Eccleſ. 10. 19. and is a defence, Eccleſ. 7. 12. and therefore may well be ſo called, even as prayers and tears are called the arms of the Church, becauſe they ſerve for the ſame purpoſe that Arms do againſt their Enemies. But alſo and principally by way of oppoſition to the Sword and Bow of his cruel Sons, So the ſenſe may be this, I have given to thee one portion, or one Shechem, not the City of Shechem, which Simeon and Levi took from the hand of the Amorite with their Sword and their Bow, but a part of the Territory of Shechem which I took or received from the hand of the Amorite by my Sword and my bow, i. e. by my money, whereby I purchaſed it.

CHAP. XLIX.

1 AND Jacob called unto his ſons, and ſaid, Gather your ſelves together that I may tell you that which ſhall befall you in the laſt days a.

a Or, In the following times, or latter dayes, when you ſhall enter into and be ſettled in the land of promiſe. Hereby he signifies, that he speaks here of things which concern not so much their persons, as their posterity.

2 Gather your selves together, and hear ye sons of Jacob, and hearken unto Israel your father.

3 Reuben thou art my first-born, my might, and the beginning of my strength b, the excellency of dignity, and the excellency of power c.

b The first instance or evidence of my might or strength, or of that masculine vigour, whereby God enabled me to beget a Child. Compare Deut. 21. 17. Psal. 105. 36. Or the first of my Children, which are the strength, the stays and supports, of a Father and of his Family, thence called his Arrows, as Psal. 127. 4. and by other authors, the pillars of the house. c As first-born thou hadst the right of precedency before all thy brethren in point of dignity and power or priviledge, the double portion, the Priesthood, the Dominion over thy brethren were thine.

* chap. 35. 22. 1 Chro. 5 1.

4 Unstable as water d † thou shalt not excel e, because thou * wentest up to thy fathers bed, then defiledst thou it f. ‖ He went up to my couch g.

d This may concern either, 1. Something past, or Reubens fault; and so he is said to have been unstable or light and vain, as the word is used Judg. 9. 4. Zeph. 3. 4. like water, moved with every little wind of temptation, and unbounded in thy lust, as water of it self hath no bounds, but will scatter it self every way, if it be not kept within banks or in a vessel; or, hasty, violent, impetuous, in thy lust, like water, which either overflows or breaks its banks. Or, 2. Something to come, or Reubens punishment, and so the meaning is, thou, i. e. thy posterity, shall be unstable, or unsettled, fitting and vanishing, coming to nothing, or poured forth like water, useless, contemptible and weak. Such indeed was the state of that Tribe, of which we read nothing eminent in Scripture. See Judg. 5. 15, 16. This I prefer before the former, Because it is not probable that his fault should be described here in such general and ambiguous and dark termes, which is described so plainly and particularly in the following words. 2. Because this makes the coherence most plain. Here is a description, 1. Of Reubens excellent state to which he was born ver. 3. 2. Of his fall from that state, in these words and the immediately following, thou shalt not excell. 3. Of the reason of this fall, his great sin. 3. Because the similitude of water applied to men in this manner notes rather their impotency and calamity, than their sin, as Jos. 7. 5. Psal. 22. 14. e Or be the most eminent amongst thy brethren, thou hast lost thy preeminency due to thee by birthright both for thy self and for thy posterity, and it shall be given to others, the Priesthood to Levi, the Dominion to Judah, and the double portion to Joseph. f By committing incest with Bilhah. g He repeats the same thing and that in an emphatical manner turning his speech and face from Reuben to his brethren in a posture of indignation and detestation. Which you must not impute to Jacobs passion, he being now a dying man, and this being forty years after the crime committed, but to the spirit of God guiding his tongue to utter this, not onely nor chiefly for the punishment of Reuben, who, as many think, had repented of his sin, but for terrour, instruction, and caution to all others, and to assure them, that sin, though it may be long dissembled and born with, yet it will one time or other be sorely punished. g But those and the next foregoing words may be thus rendred, Then defiledst thou my bed: He went up to it, or rather, he is gone up, i. e. he is vanished, or perished or lost; for so this word is oft used, as Job 5. 26. Isa. 5. 24. Jer. 48. 15. And so here is an elegant figure, called Antanaclasis, whereby the same word is repeated in the same verse in a different sense, as Ps. 18. 26. Mat. 8. 22. So here He went up wickedly to his fathers bed, to commit a great sin, therefore now he is gone up penally, to receive condign punishment, his excellency is gone up like smoak, which ascendeth and is dispersed in the Air. And this may seem to be the truest Translation and Interpretation, because it keeps close to the Hebrew words and their order, whereas in our Translation, there is both a transplacing of the Hebrew words, and a supplement added unnecessarily.

* chap. 29. 33, 34.
‖ Or, their swords are weapons of violence.

5 * Simeon and Levi are brethen h, ‖ instruments of cruelty are in their habitations i.

h Not onely by nature, but in iniquity, of like cruel and bloody disposition, confederate in the same wicked design, Gen. 34. 25. So the word Brother is elsewhere used for him that agrees much with another, in his temper, or employment, or designs, as Job 30. 29. Prov. 18. 9. &c. i (i. e.) Their bloody Swords are yet in their dwellings, to bear witness against them for their barbarous cruelty. But these words may be and are by some both ancient and later Interpreters rendred otherwise. For the Hebrew word Mecheroth, here rendred habitations, is never so used, nor indeed is found elsewhere in Scripture. Nor doth that signification agree with the Hebrew root from whence this comes, which is machar and signifies to bargain or sell or exchange. And accordingly this word is by the Samaritan Translator & by other learned Interpreters rendred, their conventions or compacts, or civil contracts or agreements. And which is more, the Chaldee Verb, mechar, from whence this word may very well be deduced, signifies to espouse, and the noun mechirah derived from it, signifies a spouse. And so the words may be rendred thus, their contracts or agreements (or, their nuptial contracts) were instruments of cruelty. Which Translation seems better than the other, 1. because it keeps closest to the words of the text, and leaves out that particle in, which is not in the Hebrew Text, but was added by our Translators to compleat the sense. 2. Because this best agrees with the history recorded Gen. 34. where we read that they did cover their bloody design with a pretence of an agreement & nuptial contract with the Sichemites, which was a great aggravation of their villany, that those things, which to others are bonds of love and peace were made by them instruments of cruelty.

6 O my soul, come not thou into their secret k: unto their assembly mine honour l be not thou united: for in their anger they slew a man m, and in their self-will n they ‖ digged down a wall o.

k Or Counsel, or company, as the word is used, Psal. 64. 2. Jer. 15. 17. i. e. do not partake with them in their secret and wicked designs. Hereby he signifies to all posterity, that that bloody enterprize was undertaken without his consent or approbation, and that he could not think of it without detestation, nor let it pass without a severe censure. Or, O my soul, thou wast not in their secret, as the Chald. Syr. and Arab. take it, by a common Enallage of the future tense for the past. l Either 1. properly so called. So the sense is, let not my honour or good name be bound up with theirs: They gloried in this wickedness, which I abominate, and which indeed is their shame. Or 2. Improperly, so he understands either 1. His Soul, which is indeed the glory of a man: Though I do not remember any place of Scripture where that word must necessarily be so understood. So this is a repetition of the same thing in other words, which is usual in Scripture. Or rather, 2. His tongue, for which the word, honour or glory is commonly put, as Psal. 16. 9. compare with Acts 2. 26. Psal. 30. 12. and 57. 8. and 108. 1. because the Tongue or speech is the glory of a man, by which he is distinguished from unreasonable creatures, and, if well used, it brings much honour to God and to the man that speaks with it. So the sense is, as my Soul did not approve of that wicked action, So my Tongue never gave consent to it, nor shall it now by silence seem to own it, but shall publickly witness my abhorrency of it. m (i. e.) Men, the Sichemites, Gen. 34. 25. 26. the singular number for the plural, as Gen. 3. 2. and 32. 5. 1 Chron. 10. 1. compared with 1 Sam. 31. 1. He saith man rather then men, either with respect unto the prince, whose slaughter was principally designed; or to shew that they slew them all to a man. n It may note, that this cruelty of theirs was committed. 1. By their own will and choice, not by Jacobs will or consent, which they never asked nor obtained. 2. Whithout any necessity or sufficient provocation, but meerly by their own will and proper motion. 3. Not rashly and hastily, but wilfully and resolvedly after mature deliberation. 4. Not unwillingly, but chearfully and with delight and good will, as that word commonly signifies. o Not the walls of the City, but of private houses, it may be onely of the Princes house, who upon the first noise of the tumult, might and probably did retire and secure himself in some strong room of the house, whose wall they brake down that they might come at him. For neither were the walls of houses or Cities so strong then as now many are, nor were Simeon and Levi destitute of fit instruments to break down a wall which doubtless they brought with them, as easily foreseeing that difficulty in their enterprize. But because the Hebrew word is not Shur, a wall, but Schor, an Oxe, others translate the words thus, They houghed or killed an Oxe, or Bull, meaning Shechem, so called either from his lust, or from his strength and power, from which Princes are oft so called, as Deut. 33. 17. Psal. 22. 12. and 68. 30. Or, rather thus, They rooted out, or, drove away an Oxe, i. e. the Oxen, the singular number for the plural, as before, and under them are comprehended the other cattle of the Sichemites, which they drove away, as we read they did, Gen. 34. 28. For as the words may bear this sense, so it seems more reasonable to understand them of that which certainly was done by them, then of their breaking a wall, of which we do not read any thing in the history.

7 Cursed be p their anger, for it was fierce, and their wrath, for it was cruel: I * will divide them in Jacob, and scatter them in Israel q.

* Josh. 21. 5, 6, 7.

p Or, Cursed was. It was execrable and abominable both before God and Men, such as deserved and brought the curse of God upon themselves, which I, as Gods instrument, am now to pronounce against them. q (i. e.) I do here declare in the name of God that they shall be divided and dispersed in Jacob, &c. that is, among the children or Tribes of Jacob or Israel. Prophets are said to do what they foretel that God will do, as Jeremy is said to root out and pull down Kingdomes, Jer. 1. 10. and Ezekiel to destroy the city. Ezek. 43. 3. Adde Hos. 6. 5. Note here how suitable their punishment was to their crime. They sinned by conspiracy and confederation in the counsel and action, and they are punished with division or separation not onely of the two brethren and their tribes, but of the children and families of the several Tribes, one from another. This was eminently fulfilled in the tribe of Levi, which had no proper portion or inheritance, but was scattered among all the Tribes, Tribes, Joſ. 18. 7. though afterwards God turned this curſe into a bleſſing. And for Simeon, he had no part of his own in the diviſion of the land, but, the portion of Judah being too large for that Tribe, he was taken into that lot, and was as an inmate to them, Joſ. 19. 1, 2, 9. and afterwards part of them were forced to ſeek new ſeats, and ſo were divided from the reſt of their brethren, 1 Chron. 4. 27, 39, 42. And moreover the Jewiſh Doctors write, that that Tribe was ſo ſtraitned in their habitations and conveniencies, that a very great number of them were forced to ſcatter themſelves amongſt the other Tribes, to get a ſubſiſtence by teaching their Children.

8 Judah, thou art he whom thy brethren ſhall praiſe r:
1 Chro. 5. 2. thy hand ſhall be in the neck s of thine enemies,* thy fathers children t ſhall bow down before thee. u.

r Or rather, Thou art Judah, thy brethren ſhall praiſe or celebrate thee. So the expreſſion is like that, 1 Sam. 25. 25. as his name is, ſo is he: Nabal is his name, and folly is with him, or in him. So here the ſenſe is, As thy name ſignifies praiſe, Gen. 29. 35. So ſhalt thou have praiſe or honour from thy brethren. He alludes to his name and to the occaſion of it, but with an elegant variation, Thou art deſervedly called Judah, not only becauſe thy mother praiſed God for thee, but alſo becauſe thy brethren ſhall praiſe and bleſs thee for the reaſons here following. But this, as alſo the other bleſſings or predictions, do not ſo much declare the ſtate of Judah or the reſt in their own perſons as in their poſterity. s (i. e.) Thou ſhalt overthrow and ſubdue them. This was fulfilled in part Judg. 1. 1, 2, 4. and 3. 9, 10. but more fully in David, 2 Sam. 8. 1. and Solomon. 1 Chro. 22. 9. and moſt eminently, though ſpiritually, in Chriſt. The phraſe is taken either 1. From the practice of warriors, who uſe to aſſault their enemies in that part, that they may throw them down at their feet, of which ſee Job 15. 26. and 16. 12. Or, 2. from the cuſtom of conquerors, who are ſaid to put the yokes upon the necks of the conquered: See Gen. 27. 40. Deut. 28. 48. Iſa. 10. 27. Jer. 27. 8. and 28. 14.

9 Judah is a lions whelp x: from the prey, my ſon, Num. 23. 24. thou art gone up y: he *z ſtooped down, he couched d 24. 9. a as a lion, and as an old lion b: who ſhall rouſe him up c?

t (i. e.) All thy brethren and my poſterity: he ſaith not thy mothers children, for his ſons had divers mothers. u (i. e.) Shall own thee as their ſuperiour and lord, upon whom I have devolved this part of the right of the firſt-born. By this and the following words we plainly ſee that theſe bleſſings and predictions were not diſtributed according to Jacobs affections and inclinations (for then Judah ſhould never have been advanced above his worthily beloved Joſeph) but by the direction of Gods ſpirit. x (i. e.) Is as a lions whelp, or, as a young lion, for courage and ſtrength, and terrour to his enemies. The particle as is here wanting, as alſo ver. 14, 17, 21, 22. and in many other places, as Pſal. 11. 1. and 12. 6. and 22. 6. &c. And he is righty compared firſt to a lions whelp, then to an old lion, to ſignifie the growth of that Tribe in ſtrength and intereſt, and that from ſmall beginnings, and a precedency of order onely Judg. 1. 1, 2. it ſhould aſcend to the height of honour and power and happineſs in David, and eſpecially in the Meſſiah, who ſhould conquer all nations. y Having taken the prey, i. e. conquered thine enemies thou art gone up in triumph; or gone up, i. e. grovvn greater and higher after thy victories, as the manner is. Or he alludes to the Lions, which uſually dvvell in mountains, as diverſe writers obſerve, and come dovvn to prey in the valleys, and when they have got their prey, they go up to their habitations, and ſo ſhall Judah do. z A change of the perſon very frequent in Prophetical writings, as we ſhall oft have occaſion to note hereafter. a When he hath taken the prey, he doth not convey it away to his den vvith haſte and ſpeed for fear the enemy ſhould return and overtake him, but like a lion he ſtoops down to feed upon his prey, and coucheth or lieth down ſecurely to reſt himſelf after he hath eaten it without the leſt fear of any enemy, as it is obſerved of him, Iſa. 31. 4. Judahs conqueſts ſhall not be interrupted or followed vvith ill ſucceſſes, and defeats or overthrows afterward, as it frequently happens in the courſe of War, but he ſhall quietly poſſeſs his ſpoils, and after the bloody Wars to which he will be forced, ſhall enjoy a ſweet peace and tranquillity, vvhich his poſterity did, 1 King. 4. 25. b Or rather a grown lion, not a decrepit and impotent Lion, but one come to his full ſtrength. c Who ſhall preſume or dare to diſturb, or provoke him? All ſhall fear him and ſeek peace with him.

10 The Scepter d ſhall not depart from Judah,
*Pſal. 60. 7. & 108. 8. nor a * Law-giver e from between his feet f, * Luk. 1. 32. * until Shiloh † come: and unto him ſhall the gathering g of the people h be.

d (i. e.) The dominion or government, which is oft expreſſed by this word, as Numb. 24. 17. Pſal. 45. 6. Iſa. 14. 5. Ezek. 19. 11, 14. Amos 1. 5, 8. Zech. 10. 11. becauſe it is an enſign of government, Eſth. 4. 11. So it is a figure called a Metonymy of the ſign, then which nothing more frequent. The ſenſe is, That ſuperiority or dominion over his brethren, which I ſaid he ſhould obtain, ver. 8. he ſhall keep, it ſhall not depart from him. Others the Tribe, as the word Shebet ſignifies, 1 Sam. 10. 19, 20. 21. 1 King. 11. 32. &c. So the ſenſe is this, Whereas the other Tribes ſhall be captivated, diſperſed and confounded, the Tribe of Judah ſhall be kept entire and diſtinct until Chriſt come. This is a great and important truth, and a ſingular demonſtration of the all-diſpoſing providence of God, and of the truth and divine authority of the Scriptures, but it ſeems not to be the meaning of this place, 1. becauſe both the foregoing and following words do evidently ſpeak of Judahs power and greatneſs, and particularly this Shebet, or Scepter is explained and reſtrained by the following lawgiver: 2. becauſe this renders the phraſe, improper and abſurd, for the Tribe had not departed from Judah, nor had they ceaſed to be a Tribe, if the other Tribes had been mixed with them in their land, as indeed they were ſometimes, See 2 Chron. 11. 16. 3. becauſe this is not peculiar to the Tribe of Judah, for in this ſenſe the Tribe did not depart from Levi, nay that Tribe was kept more diſtinct than that of Judah: thus alſo the Tribe did not depart from Benjamin, as appears from Ezra. 1. 5. and 10. 9. Nehem. 11. 4. Nay it is queſtionable whether in this ſenſe, the Tribe departed from any of the other Tribes, not onely becauſe there is a diſtinct mention of the ſeveral Tribes, Ezek. 48. which was written after the diſperſion and ſuppoſed confuſion of the other Tribes, and which ſpeaks of the times after the coming of the Meſſiah, but alſo becauſe of the great care which the Iſraelites generally took in diſtinguiſhing not onely their Tribes, but their ſeveral families in exact genealogies, of which we have many proofs and inſtances, as 1 Chron. 4. 33. and 5. 1, 7, 17. and 7. 7, 9, 40. and 9. 1, 22. and Ezra 2. 62. and 8. 1, 3. Nehem. 7. 5, 64. The Jews indeed have another device to avoid the force of this Text. They ſay, Shebet ſignifies a rod, to wit, a rod of correction, as the word is taken Prov. 22. 15. And ſo they ſay the ſenſe is, The tyrannical Scepter, or the rod of the oppreſſour ſhall not ceaſe or depart from Iſrael, till the Meſſiah come who ſhall ſave them from all their oppreſſours and enemies. But this is a vain and frivolous conceit, for 1. the following ſentence, which expounds the former, as it is uſual in Scripture, plainly ſhews that this Shebet or Rod is ſuch as is proper to the Lawgiver, and therefore is a rod of authority, or a Scepter, which is called alſo a rod, Ezek. 19. 14. and not a rod of affliction. 2. This is contrary to the whole context, wherein there is nothing propheſied of Judah, but honour, and dominion, and victory and ſafety. 3. There was no reaſon why the rod of affliction ſhould be appropriated to Judah, which was common to all the Tribes, and came ſooner and fell heavier and abode longer upon the other Tribes than upon Judah. 4. This interpretation is confuted by the event or hiſtory, both becauſe the rod of correction did depart from Judah, and from them more than from the other tribes, for many generations before the coming of the Meſſiah; and becauſe that rod is not removed from them but hath continued longer and more dreadfully upon them ſince the coming of the Meſſias, than ever before; which one conſideration hath been the occaſion of the converſion of many Jews. 5. Howſoever the modern Jews pervert this word and text out of enmity to Chriſt and Chriſtians, it is certain that the antient Jews, the LXX and the Chaldee Paraphraſt, with many others take the word as we do, as the learned have proved out of their own writings. See my Latin Synopſis. e So the Hebrew word ſignifies, as here, ſo alſo Numb. 21. 18. Deut. 33. 21. Pſal. 60. 7. and 108. 8. Iſa. 33. 22. And the verb, from whence this word comes, ſignifies to make laws, as Prov. 8. 15, &c. and the Hebrew word, chok, which comes from the ſame root conſtantly ſignifies a law or ſtatute. Some render it the Scribe, and that either the civil Scribe, who belongs to the ruler; or the Eccleſiaſtical Scribe, the interpreter of the law, and ſo it ſignifies, that both the civil, and the Eccleſiaſtical power ſhould continue in Judah till Chriſt came, and then ſhould be taken away, both which the event did verifie. But indeed the Hebrew word for Scribe is Sopher, not Mechokek, which never is ſo uſed in Scripture, but always for a law-giver, as I have ſhewed, and ſo Kimchi and Aben Ezra, two late and learned Jews with others expound it. f From his poſterity, or from thoſe that come from between his feet, i. e. that are begotten and born of that Tribe. And thus Kimchi and the Chaldee Paraphraſt and other antient Jews underſtand this place. And the truth of this interpretation may apppear, by comparing this with other texts of Scripture, as Deut. 28. 57. where the young one is deſcribed to be one that cometh from between her (the womans) feet; and Ezek. 16. 25. and with thoſe places where the word feet is uſed for the ſecret parts, as Iſa. 7. 20. the hair of the feet, not properly ſo called, for hair ſeldom grows there, and 2 King. 18. 27. Iſa. 36. 12. where the water which comes from the ſecret parts is call'd the water of the feet. And poſſibly that phraſe of covering the feet applied to them that eaſed their bellies may note ſo much, becauſe the care of the Jews in that action was not to hide their feet properly ſo called, but their ſecret parts, which without due care might be diſcovered upon that occaſion. † (i. e. The Meſſias. Which we need not ſtand to prove, becauſe it is ſo expounded by all the three Chaldee Paraphraſts, and by the Jewiſh Talmud, and by divers of the latter Jews themſelves. And the word ſignifies, either a peace-maker or Saviour, or, as others, her ſon, or one that came out of the Womans Womb, or out of that skin, in which the child in the Womb is wrapped, which this word, or one near akin to it ſignifies. So it notes that the Meſſias ſhould be born of a Woman, though without the help of man: Or, as other the ſent, he who was oft promiſed and to be ſent. And this ſignification may ſeem to be warranted by comparing John 9. 7. thoſe places of the New Teſtament, in which the Meſſias is deſcribed by that periphraſis of one ſent or to be ſent, as Joh. 3. 39. &c. And the phraſe here uſed is remarkable, till the Shiloh come, for the Shiloh or Meſſiah oft goeth under the name of him that was to come, as Matth. 21. 9. Luke 7. 20. and 13. 35. And hence the Kingdom of the Meſſiah is called the World or Kingdom to come, i. e. of him who was to come, Heb. 2. 5. and 6. 5. g They ſhall be gathered together or united both among themſelves, and with the Jews under him as their head. Others, the reverence, obedience, or worſhip: Which comes to the ſame thing, for they that are gathered to him do alſo reverence, obey and worſhip him. The Hebrew word is uſed onely here & Prov. 30. 17. h (i.e.) The Gentiles, as the Jevvs themſelves underſtand it. And ſo it is a plain Propheſie of the converſion of the Gentiles by and under the Meſſiah, ſignifying, that vvhereas the Ordinances of God and means of Worſhip and Salvation were confined to the Jews before Chriſts coming, Pſa. 147. 19, 20. vvhen the Meſſiah ſhould come, the pale of the Church ſhould be enlarged, the partition vvall betvveen Jews and Gentiles taken down, and the Gentiles ſhould Worſhip the true God and the Meſſias. And this is no more than is foretold and promiſed in other Propheſies, as vve ſhall ſee hereafter. The ſumme of this verſe is, The Scepter or Dominion ſhall be ſeated in the Tribe of Judah, though he doth not determine when it ſhall come thither; but when once it ſhall come, it ſhall not depart from thence, till the Meſſiah come, and then Judah ſhall loſe his Scepter and other Priviledges, and the Gentiles ſhall come into the ſtead of the Jews, and ſhall embrace that Meſſiah, whom thy ſhall reject. So novv here is an undeniable argument to prove againſt the Jews that the Meſſiah is already come, and that the Lord Jeſus Chriſt is he, becauſe he was to come during the time wherein the Scepter was in the hands of Judah, and about that time when Jeſus Chriſt came the Scepter was taken away from Judah & the Jews, and hath now been loſt for ſixteen hundred years together. The Jews are mightily perplexed & confounded with this argument, one evidence whereof is their various and contradictory Expoſitions of the place, whileſt ſome of them affirm this Shiloh to be Moſes, others, Saul, others, Jeroboam, others, Nebuchadnezzar, which neither need, nor deſerve confutation; others David. Which, though ſome of the acuteſt of the Jewiſh Doctours aſſert, is as contemptible as any of the reſt, it being ridiculous to ſay the Scepter departed from Judah under him by whom it firſt came into that Tribe, having been till Davids time in other Tribes. But the great difficulty is, how this was accompliſhed, for if the event fully agrees with this Propheſie, the cauſe of the Jevvs is loſt, and Chriſt muſt be owned as the true Maſſias. The Scepter vvas for a time in other Tribes, as in Moſes of the Tribe of Levi, in divers of the Judges, who were of ſeveral Tribes, and laſtly in the Tribe of Benjamin under Saul, but the Scepter departed from all theſe. But this is propheſied as Judahs priviledge, that when once the Scepter or Government came into that Tribe, vvhich it did in Davids time, it ſhould not depart from it till Chriſt came, and then it ſhould depart. And thus it came to paſs. Concerning the time from David unto the Captivity of Babylon there is no diſpute, there being a conſtant ſucceſſion of Kings in that Tribe all that time. For the time of the Babyloniſh Captivity, vvherein there may ſeem to be more difficulty, it is to be conſidered. 1. That the Scepter or Government was not loſt or departed from Judah, but onely interrupted, & that but for ſeventy years at moſt, which in ſo long a ſpace of time as above a thouſand years is little to be regarded. As none will ſay, the Kingdom vvas departed from the houſe of David, becauſe of thoſe inter-reigns or interruptions vvhich ſometimes fell out in that Family. Add to this, that God had given them an abſolute promiſe and aſſured hope of the reſtauration of Judahs Scepter, ſo that this was rather a ſleep then the death of that Government. 2. That vvithin theſe ſeventy years there vvere ſome remainders and beams of Judahs Soveraignty, in Jehoiachin, 2 King. 25. 27. in Daniel, vvho was of that Tribe, Dan. 2. 25. and 5. 13. and of the Kings ſeed, Dan. 1. 3. and in the ſucceſſive Heads or Governours of the exiles, of vvhom the Jevviſh Writers ſay ſo much, and they affirm that they vvere alvvays of the houſe of David, and were more honourable than the Governours of the Jews which were left in the Land of Iſrael. 3. All that vvas then left of the Scepter of the Jews was in the Tribe of Judah, nor was the Scepter departed from Judah to any other Tribe; and that is the thing which ſeems eſpecially to be reſpected in this Propheſie: For Judah is here compared with the reſt of the Tribes, and it is here ſignified, that the Power and Dominion vvhich vvas in Judah, vvhen once it came thither, ſhould not ſhift from tribe to tribe, as it had done, but, whilſt there vvas any Scepter or ſupreme Government among the Jews, it ſhould be in that tribe even till the coming of the Meſſias. But if there ſhould happen any total but temporary interciſion or ceſſation of the Government among all the Tribes, which now vvas the caſe, that vvas no prejudice to the truth of this promiſe, nor to the priviledge granted to Judah above the reſt of the Tribes. After the captivity, the ſtate of the Jews vvas very various. Sometimes they had Governours put in by the Perſian King, as Zorobabel, who was alſo of the Tribe of Judah, and, as it is ſuppoſed, Nephew of Jehoiachin; and Nehemiah, whom Euſebius affirms to have been of the Tribe of Judah. And though he may ſeem to be numbred among the Prieſts, Nehem. 10. 8. yet a diligent reader will find that he is even there diſtinguiſhed from them by his Title the Tirſhatha, ver. 1. and the word prieſt, ver. 8. relateth onely to the reſt there mentioned beſides him, eſpecially if this be compared with chap. 9. 38. where the Princes (among whom ſurely Nehemiah was the chief) are diſtiguiſhed from the Prieſts. And ſometimes the people choſe Governours, or Captain-generals, as the Maccabees, and others. But under all their viciſſitudes, after their return from Babylon, the chief government vvas evidently and unqueſtionably ſeated in the great council called Sanhedrim or Synedrium, wherein though ſome of the Tribe of Levi were mixed vvith thoſe of the Tribe of Judah, yet becauſe they together with other members of that Council had their power both from that Tribe, by which they vvere choſen, and in it, and for it, the Scepter did truly remain in the Tribe of Judah: even as it was rightly called the Roman Empire when Trajan a Spaniard or other forreigners adminiſtred it: or as we call it the Kingdom of Poland, vvhen they chuſe a King of another Nation. Hovv great and venerable the authority of this Council vvas among the Jews may eaſily be gathered 1. from the divine inſtitution of it, Numb. 11. 16. vvhereby indeed it vvas at firſt to conſiſt of perſons indifferently choſen out of all the Tribes, but now the other Tribes being baniſhed and diſperſed in unknovvn places, and Benjamin & Levi being as it were acceſſions to the Tribe of Judah, and in a ſort incorporated with it, it novv becomes as it vvere appropriated to the Tribe of Judah, as acting in its name and by its authority; and the vvhole land is called Judæa, and all the people Jews, from the predominancy of that Tribe above the reſt. 2. From the great power and priviledges antiently granted to it, Deut. 17. 8. &c. 2 Chron. 19. 8, 11. Pſal. 122. 5. 3. From the teſtimony of Joſephus and other Jewiſh Writers, Which is moſt conſiderable in this argument, vvho largely deſcribe and magnifie the power and authority of it, vvho tell us, that the povver of their King was ſubject to that of this Council; and therefore one of them addreſſing his ſpeech to that Council, where alſo the King himſelf was preſent, firſt ſalutes the Senatours, and after them the King. They affirm alſo that the povver of making War or Peace was veſted in that Council; and that Herod was tried for his life by it. If it be ſaid, that the povver of this Council vvas in a great meaſure taken avvay, which the Jews confeſs, Joh. 18. 31. and that the Scepter of Judæa was in the hand of the Romans, and by them given to Herod, who was no Jew, but an Idumæan, and this before the coming of the Meſſias, vvhich is the onely remaining difficulty, to this many things may be ſaid, 1. That this hapned but a fevv years before the coming of Chriſt, vvhen Chriſt vvas even at the doors and about to come, and therefore might vvell be ſaid to be come, eſpecially in the Prophetical ſtile, whereby things are oft ſaid to be done, vvhich are near doing. 2. That the Jewiſh Senatours did long ſtruggle with Herod about the Government, and did not yield it up to him till his laſt year, when they took an oath of fealty to him, vvhich was after Chriſt vvas born. Nor indeed vvas the Scepter quite gone from them then, for that Council ſtill had the power, though not of life and death, yet of Civil and Eccleſiaſtical matters. See Joh. 18. 31. So that if the Scepter vvas gone, the Lawgiver remained there ſtill. Nor vvas their Government and Commonwealth quite deſtroyed until the deſtruction of Jeruſalem by Titus. And therefore ſome tranſlate the place thus, and that with great probability, The Scepter ſhall not depart — until the Shiloh come, and until (which word is repeated out of the former member, as is moſt uſual in the Scripture) the gathering of the people be to him, (i. e.) until the Gentiles be converted and brought in to Chriſt. And this interpretation receiveth countenance from Mat. 24. 14. The Goſpel ſhall be preached in all the world, — and then ſhall the end come, not the end of the whole world, as it is evident, but the end of the Commonwealth and Government of the Jews, when the Scepter and Lawgiver ſhould be wholly taken away from that tribe and people.

As oil is called the blood of the olive.

12 His eyes ſhall be red with wine m, and his teeth white with milk.

m Which ſhews not onely the plenty of wine, but alſo the excellency and ſtrength of it, which, though not drunk in great quantity or to exceſs, will make the eyes red. See Pro. 23. 29.

13 * Zebulun ſhall dwell at the heaven of the ſea, * Deut. 33. 18. Joſh. 19. 10.

sea n, and he shall be for an haven of ships: and his border shall be unto Zidon. o.

n Acknowledge here and adore the divine providence, which directed Jacob thus exactly to foretell the portion of Zebulon which fell to them 200 years after this, and that not by choice or any design of men, but meerly by lot. His portion was extended from the sea of Galilee, to the great Mediterranean sea, & to such parts of it, where there were convenient havens. o Or, his side or coast, to wit, that which is upon the Mediterranean sea, is near Sidon, understanding not the city but the territory belonging to it, unto which that Tribe reached upon the sea-coast. For though Asher might seem to intercept them, yet he did not reach to the sea. Or, his coast looks towards Sidon, hath it in view, and lies commodiously for commerce with that great City, which then was the mart of the Nations.

p Heb. an ass of bone, (i. e.) of great bulk and bones, and strength of body, but of little spirit and courage. q Which are laid upon his back, and which he is contented to bear. Or, lying down, i. e. enjoying his ease and rest, between the borders, to wit, of the other Tribes, with which he was encompassed and secured from foreign enemies, which made him more secure and slothful. Or, between the orders or folds of cattle, as a word very near akin to it, and proceeding from the same root signifies, Judg. 5. 16. to the feeding and minding whereof he wholly gave himself, neglecting more generous things.

15 And he saw that rest r was good, and the land that it was pleasant: and bowed his shoulder to bear, and became a servant unto tribute s.

r Or rather, his resting place, as this very word signifies, Gen. 8. 9. Psal. 116. 7. and 132. 8. Isa. 11. 10. (i. e.) his portion or habitation, as the Chald. and Syr. translate it. So this agrees with the following member, where, after the manner of the Hebrews, the same thing is repeated in other words. And if it be objected against this version, that it is not said his rest, but rest in the general, it may be replyed, that so it is in the following branch, the land, though it be apparently meant of his land or portion of land allotted to him. Besides the pronouns are often omitted and to be understood in the Hebrew text as may appear by comparing 1 King. 10. 7. with 2 Chro. 9. 6. and Psal. 41. 9. with Joh. 13. 18. and Mat. 3. 12. with Luk. 3. 17. s Willingly paying whatsoever Tributes were imposed upon him either by the neighbouring Tribes or by forreign powers rather than to forfeit his pleasant and fruitful country and his sweet repose.

t (i. e.) Rule and govern them. Though he be the son of my Concubine, yet he shall not be subject to any other Tribe, but shall have an absolute power within himself. What is said of him, is to be understood of the rest of the sons of the Concubines, and hereby all difference between the sons of the Wives and Concubines is taken away. It is said of Dan, because he is the first-mentioned of that sort. u As the rest of the Tribes do, having distinct Governments and Governours amongst them. See Numb. 1. 4, 16.

17 Dan shall be a serpent by the way, and † adder in the path x, that biteth the horse heels, so that his rider shall fall backward.

x Which covereth and hideth it self in the sand or dust of the high-way watching for men or beast that pass that way. He notes the subtilty of that Tribe, which should conquer their enemies more by craft and cunning than by strength or force of armes.

18 I have waited for thy salvation, O LORD y.

y I do earnestly wait and hope and pray for thy helping hand to save me and my posterity, from the manifold temporal calamities which I foresee will come upon them, and especially from spiritual & eternal mischiefs by that Messiah, which thou hast promised. Jacob, in the midst of his great work, doth take a little breathing, and finding himself weakned by his speech to his children, and drawing nearer death, he opens his arms to receive it, as the thing for which he had long waited, as the onely effectual remedy and mean of Salvation or deliverance from all his pains and miseries, and particularly from his present horrours upon the contemplation of the future state of his children. And this pathetical exclamation may look either, 1. backward to the state of the tribe of Dan, which he foresaw would be deplorable, both for its great straits and pressures of which see Jos. 19. 47. Judg. 1. 34. and especially for that Idolatry, which that Tribe would introduce, and promote, Judg. 18. 30. and 1 King. 12. 29. whereby they would ruine themselves and most of the other tribes with them. Or 2. forward, to the doubtful and miserable condition of Gad.

19 Gad, a troup z shall overcome him: but he shall overcome at the last a.

z (i. e.) Troops of enemies shall frequently invade his country, and for a time conquer and spoil it. And so it came to pass, because the inheritance of that tribe lay beyond Jordan, near to the Ammonites and Moabites two inveterate enemies of Israel, and to other hostile nations on the East. a Or, afterward. This was fulfilled 1 Chron. 5. 18. &c. He shews that the events of the Wars should be various, but Gad should one time or other spoil his spoilers. See Deut. 33. 20.

20 Out of Asher b, his bread shall be fat c, and he shall yield royal dainties d.

b (i. e.) Out of the land of Asher. Or, As for or concerning Asher. c His bread-corn shall be fuller and sweeter and better than ordinary. d Not onely oyl for Ointments, but also delicious and excellent fruits fit to be presented to a King. See Deut. 33. 24, 25.

21 Naphtali is a hind let loose e: he giveth goodly words f.

e Not pursued by hunters, nor shut up in some little enclosure, but wholly left to its own freedom to feed upon the best pastures; See Deut. 33. 23. Or, free from the yoke, which they, together with the other Tribes, did bear in Egypt, free from its former restraints, which make it run away more swiftly. So it may note their nimbleness and expedition either in encountring enemies, or in avoiding dangers. See Judg. 4. 6, 10. and 5. 18. Or like a tame hind, left to its liberty; in which the owner takes delight, as Prov. 5. 19. For he seems to be commended rather for arts of Peace, then War. And this may note that his temper and conversation was civil, obliging, and amiable, which sense the next words favour. f His speeches and discourses with others, are fair and friendly and winning. It is not strange, that this Tribe was generally of a sweeter disposition than others, seeing it is commonly observed that there is a great difference in the tempers of people of divers Provinces or cities bordering one upon another. But this verse may be otherwise rendred according to the opinion of a late learned writer. Napthali is a tree (so the Hebrew word signifies, onely jod is inserted here, as it is in the same word, Isa. 1 29. and 61. 3.) shot forth or spread forth, (into many branches: for the Hebrew verb Shalach is oft used concerning trees, and their shooting forth of branches, as Psal. 80. 11. Ezek. 17. 6. and 31. 5.) sending forth goodly branches, the word imre, which is by others rendred words, here signifying branches, as either the same word or one coming from the same root and consisting of the same radical Letters is taken Isa. 17. 6, 9. And it is usual in the Hebrew language for two words coming from the same root to exchange their significations. And this interpretation is favoured by the antient Interpreters, the LXX, and one of the Arabick Manuscripts, which make Naptuali here to be compared to a goodly tree bringing forth excellent fruit.

22 Joseph is a fruitful bough g, even a fruitful bough by a well h, whose † branches run over the wall i.

g In regard of those two numerous Tribes which proceeded from his two sons. h Or, fountain, or water-course, which situation doth much further the growth of trees. See Psal. 1. 3. and Ezek. 19. 10. i (i. e.) Which is planted by a wall, whose heat furthers its growth, no less than the moisture of the water doth.

23 The archers k have sorely grieved him l, and shot at him, and hated him:

k (i e.) His adversaries, as well his own brethren, as his Master and Mistress. l With their scoffes and slanders and injuries, which in Scripture are oft compared to Arrows.

24 But * his bow l abode in strength, and the armes of his hands were made strong, by the hands of the mighty God of Jacob m: from thence is the Shepherd, the stone of Isral n.

* Job 29. 20.

l Wherewith he opposed his enemies, which was no military bow, but that which he opposed to all their injuries, to wit, his own vertue, his innocence, his patience, his temperance, his faith and hope in God, whereby he resisted and vanquished all the temptations and difficulties, which he met with, so that all his enemies could neither defile, nor destroy, him. m (i. e.) Of my God, the noun for the pronoun, which is frequent. When men forsook and persecuted him, my God and his God stood by him, He sheweth, that it was not Josephs Wisdom or Courage, but Gods gracious assistance, that made him conquerour. n Either 1. From that great deliverance vouchsafed by God to Joseph it is, that Israel or Jacob hath a shepherd to feed him, a stone to lay his head upon, as once he did, Gen. 28. 11. or a rock of refuge to flie to in his great distresses, or a foundation stone or corner stone or pillar to sustain and preserve Jacobs house. Or rather 2. from the hands of the mighty God of Jacob, last mentioned, or from the God of his father, as it follows the next verse. So the sense is this, Though Joseph was a blessed instrument in this wonderful work, yet the God of Jacob was the chief authour of it, by whose wise and merciful providence it was so ordered that Joseph should be first sold, and afterward advanced, and all in order to this end, end, that his Israel, with whom he hath been pleased to make a gracious and everlasting Covenant, should have a shepherd to feed him in the time of Famine, and a stone or rock to support him.

25 Even by the God of thy father o, who shall help thee, and by the Almighty, who shall bless thee, with blessings of heaven above p, blessings of the deep that lieth under q, blessings of the breasts and of the womb r.

o Here he explains and determines that doubtful expression from thence, by adding, even by (or rather from, as this particle Mem properly signifies, and was just now used) the God of thy father, i.e. who hath chosen and loved thy father, and made a league with him, and blessed him with all manner of blessings. p (i. e.) The sweet and powerful influences of the heavenly bodies, and the dews and rains which fall from heaven, whereby the fruits of the earth are produced in great plenty. See Levit. 26. 4. Deut. 28. 12. and 33. 14. q (i.e.) Of that great sea of waters both about the earth and in the earth, whence come those springs and rivers by which the earth is moistned and made fruitful. See Gen. 1. 2. and 7. 11. and Deut. 8. 7. r Whereby both men and beasts shall be greatly multiplied and abundantly supplied with all necessaries.

26 The blessings of thy father have prevailed above the blessings of my progenitors s; unto the utmost bound of the everlasting hills t, they shall be ‖ on the head of Joseph, and on the crown of the head of him that was separate from his brethren u.

s The blessings which I thy Father have conferred upon thee are much more considerable than those which I received from my father Isaac or from my grandfather Abraham. This was true, 1. in the extent of the blessings. Ishmael was excluded from Abrahams blessing, and my brother excluded from Isaacs blessing, but both Josephs children are comprehended in Jacobs blessing. 2. In the distinctness and clearness of them. For that land of Canaan, which was transmitted to Isaac and to Jacob onely in the general, was now in some sort particularly distributed to Joseph and to the rest of his brethren, as afterwards it was by Joshua. 3. in the nearness of the accomplishment. Now there was a more likely prospect of the multiplication of their seed, then there was to Abraham or Isaac, and in not very many years after this they multiplied to astonishment, and drew nearer to the possession of the promised land. t These words seem to note the duration of Josephs blessing, that it should continue even to the bounds of the everlasting or lasting or antient hills, i. e. as long as the most solid and stable mountains shall last, i. e. for ever. Perpetuity is described by the continuance of the Mountains, as Isa. 54. 10. or of the Sun and Moon, as Psal. 72. 5, 7, 17. or of the heavens and earth, as Mat. 5 18. In the foregoing words of this verse he commends these blessings from their excellency above all former blessings, and here he commends them from their durableness. ‖ Or, let them be. For this may be a prayer to God that these blessings may be constant and perpetual. u So he was, when he was sold into Egypt, and abode there in the court when his brethren were in Goshen, or, the crowned of or among his brethren, i. e. who, though he was once scorned and trampled upon by his brethren, yet now is highly honoured and advanced above them. Others, the Nazarite of or among his brethren, as he may be called either for his purity and sanctity, or for his eminency and dignity. But we must remember that the Nazarites were as yet unknown, being instituted long after this time.

27 Benjamin shall ravine as a wolf x: in the morning he shall devour the prey: and at night he shall divide the spoil y.

x He notes the warlike and fierce disposition and carriage of that Tribe. Instances whereof we have, Judg. 3. 15. and 19. and 20. 1 Sam. 12. and 14. and 15. y This may be understood, either of the same wolf, which in the morning being more hungry and greedy devours his prey alone, but in the evening, being in some measure satisfied, is content that his brethren should share with him. Or rather of several sorts of wolves, whereof some hunt and devour alone, others hunt in couples or troups, and these divide the prey among themselves. He mentions both morning and evening, because there are the two seasons when the Wolves prey, and to note that this would be Benjamins carriage both in the first and last times of that Tribe, as indeed it was.

28 All these are the twelve tribes z of Israel, and this is it that their father spake unto them, and blessed them: every one according to his blessing a he blessed them.

z (i. e.) The Heads and Parents of the Twelve Tribes. A Metonymy of the effect. The tribes are generally accounted Twelve though they were Thirteen, because the Land was divided only into Twelve parts, Levi having no distinct part of his own. a (i. e.) According to that blessing which God in his purpose had allotted to each of them, which also he manifested unto Jacob by his Spirit. Object. There is no blessing here given to Reuben, Simeon and Levi, but rather a curse, how then is he said to bless every one of them? Answ. He blessed them all implicitly and really, though not expressly or in words, because he gave each of them a part in Canaan; and his taking away from Reuben onely the right of the first-born plainly supposeth that he left him his single portion and inheritance. And he might well be said to bless them all, because he left them all an interest in Gods Covenant, one article whereof, was the giving of Canaan or part of Canaan to them, and this was an earnest of the other branches or articles of it. Though it is probable he also added some short blessing or prayer to God for his blessing upon them all.

29 And he charged them, and said unto them, I am to be gathered unto my people: * bury me with my Fathers b, in the cave that is in the field of Ephron the Hittite. *chap. 47. 30 b In Canaan. Whereby he designed to withdraw their minds from Egypt, and fix them upon Canaan.

30 In the cave that is in the field of Machpelah, which is before Mamre c, in the land of Canaan, * which Abraham bought with the field of Ephron the Hittite, for a possession of a burying place. *chap. 23. 16 c He describes it so particularly, both for their direction, because they had been some years absent thence; and to express how much his heart was set upon this matter; and thereby to oblige them to the more careful performance of his command.

31 (* There they buryed Abraham, and Sarah, his wife, there they buried Isaac and Rebekah his wife, and there I buried Leah.) *chap. 23. 19 & 25. 9.

32 The purchase of the field, and of the cave that is therein, was from the children of Heth.

33 And when Jacob had made an end of commanding his sons d, he gathered up his feet into bed e, and yielded up the Ghost, and was gathered unto his people.

d To wit, concerning the place of his burial. Whilest he was employed in that most solemn and religious work of blessing his children in the name and by the Spirit of God, he used as reverend a posture as his infirm Body would permit, and therefore is supposed to sit upon his beds side with his feet hanging downwards. And when he had finished that great work, and wearied himself with so long speech delivered with a most raised and affected mind, he composed himself to rest, and waited for the comfortable approach of his death, which speedily followed it.

CHAP. L.

1 AND Joseph fell upon his fathers face a, and wept upon him, and kissed him.

a And doubtless closed his eyes, as God had promised, Gen. 46. 4. which may be implied in this general phrase.

2 And Joseph commanded his servants the Physitians to imbalm his father b: and the Physitians imbalmed Israel.

b The dead Corps of his Father with Spices and Ointments and other things necessary for the preservation of the body from putrefaction as long as might be. This Joseph did partly because he would comply as far as he could with the Egyptians, whose custom this was, from whom also the Jews took it, 2 Chron. 16. 14. John 19. 39, 40. Partly to do honour and shew his affections to his worthy Father; and partly because this was necessary for the keeping of the body so long as the times of mourning and the journey to Canaan required d.

3 And forty days were fulfilled for him c, (for so are fulfilled the days of those which are embalmed) and the Egyptians † mourned for him threescore and ten days d. † Heb. wept.

c (i. e.) For his embalming; that so the Drugs or Spices which were applied might more effectually reach to all the parts of the dead body, and keep it from corruption. And the effect of their diligence, and so long continuance in this work was that bodies have been preserved uncorrupt for some thousands of years. d (i. e.) Thirty days, according to the custom of the Hebrews, Numb. 20. 29. Deut. 34. 8. to which doubtless the Egyptians in this case did accommodate themselves, besides the forty days spent in embalming him, which also was a time of mourning. And thus I suppose, the Egyptians reckoned those seventy two days which Diodorus Siculus saith they spent in mourning for their deceased Kings.

4 And when the days of his mourning were past,

Joseph ſpake unto the houſe c of Pharaoh, ſaying, if now I have found grace in your eyes, ſpeak, I pray you, in the ears of Pharaoh f, ſaying, e The Houſhold or Family, namely thoſe of them which were chief in place and favour with the King. f Joſeph makes uſe of their interceſſion, either, 1. Leſt he might ſeem to deſpiſe them or to preſume too much upon his own ſingle intereſt. Or, 2. By engaging them in this matter to ſtop their mouths, who otherwiſe might have been ready enough to cenſure this action, which they would have a fair opportunity to do in Joſephs abſence. Or, 3. Becauſe it was the cuſtom here, as it was elſewhere, Eſt. 4. 2. that perſons in mourning habit might not come into the Kings preſence, partly becauſe they would not give them any occaſion of ſadneſs, and partly becauſe according to their ſuperſtitious conceits the ſight of ſuch a perſon was judged ominous.

5 * My father made me ſwear g, ſaying, Lo, I die: in my grave, which I have digged for me h, in the land of Canaan, there ſhalt thou bury me. Now therefore let me go up, I pray thee, and bury my father, and I will come again.

g Here is triple obligation upon Joſeph. 1 His duty to fulfil the will of the dead. 2. The obedience which he owed to his Fathers command. 3 The tye of a ſolemn Oath. All which had weight even with the Heathens, and were ſo many arguments to Pharaoh and his Courtiers. h According to the manner of thoſe antient and ſucceeding times. See 2 Chron. 16. 14. Iſa. 22. 16. Matth. 27. 60. In that large cave which Abraham bought for a burying place for his Family, Jacob had digged a particular and ſmall cell or repoſitory for himſelf, as others did after him upon the like occaſion. And this reaſon is prudently added, to ſhew that this deſire proceeded not from any contempt of Pharaoh or his Land, but from that common and cuſtomary deſire of perſons of all ages and Nations, to be buried in their Fathers Sepulchres.

6 And Pharaoh ſaid, Go up and bury thy father, according as he made thee ſwear h.

h The Heathens by the light of nature diſcovered the ſacredneſs of an Oath and the wickedneſs of perjury.

7 And Joſeph went up to bury his father: and with him went up all i the ſervants of Pharaoh k, the Elders of his houſe l, and all the Elders of the land m of Egypt.

i (i. e.) A great number of them, as that word is underſtood, Matth. 3. 5. and oft elſewhere. For many of them were aged and infirm, and many could not be ſpared from their attendance at Court, or upon their employments, &c. k Courtiers of an inferiour rank. l The chief Officers and under him Governours of his Family and Counſels, who uſed to reſide at or near the Court. m The great Officers Civil and Military, whoſe places of habitation and command were diſperſed in the ſeveral parts of the Land.

8 And all the houſe of Joſeph, and his brethren, and his fathers houſe: onely their little ones, and their flocks, and their herds n, they left in the land of Goſhen.

n And ſuch as were neceſſary to take care of them, which muſt needs be underſtood.

9 And there went up with him both chariots and horſemen o and it was a very great company.

o For their defence, in caſe of any oppoſition.

10 And they came to the threſhing-floor of Atad p which is beyond q Jordan, and there r they mourned with a great and very ſore lamentation s: and he made a mourning for his father ſeven days t.

p A man ſo called, or, of thorn, or thorns, as the word ſignifies, Judg. 9. 14. Pſal. 58. 9. So it might be a place either abounding or encompaſſed with thorns. q Or, on this ſide; for the word ſignifies both, and it may be taken either way here, the one in reſpect of Egypt, the other, in regard of the place in which Moſes wrote. It is certain they fetched a great compaſs, whether for the commodiouſneſs of the way for their charets, and for conveniencies for ſo great a company, or to prevent all jealouſies in the people as if they came thither with ill deſign, is not material. r Becauſe there was the entrance into that Countrey or Territory where he was to be buried. s The Egyptians though they were not much grieved nor concerned for Jacobs death, yet they uſed bitter cryes and lamentations, which poſſibly were made or aggravated by perſons hired and uſed upon ſuch occaſions. See Jer. 9. 17. t According to the cuſtom. ſee 1 Sam. 31. 13.

11 And when the inhabitants of the land, the Canaanites, ſaw the mourning in the floor of Atad, they ſaid, This is a grievous mourning to the Egyptians: wherefore the name of it was called ‖ Abel-Mizraaim, which is beyond Jordan.

‖ That is, the mourning of the Egyptians.

12 And his ſons did unto him according as he commanded them.

13 For * his ſons carried him into the land of Canaan, and buryed him in the cave of the field of Machpelah, which Abraham * bought with the field for a poſſeſſion of a burying-place of Ephron the Hittite, before Mamre.

* Act. 7. 16.
* chap. 23. 16.

14 And Joſeph returned into Egypt, he, and his brethren, and all that went with him to bury his father, after he had buried his father.

15 And when Joſephs brethren ſaw that their father was dead, they ſaid, Joſeph will peradventure hate us, and will certainly requite us all the evil which we did unto him.

16 And they † ſent a meſſenger unto Joſeph, ſaying, Thy father did command before he died u, ſaying,

u This looks like a lye; for Jacob either did not know this fact, or rather, was ſo well aſſured of Joſephs clemency and goodneſs, that he never feared his revenge. But guilt doth ſo awaken fear, that it makes a man never to think himſelf ſecure.

17 So ſhall ye ſay unto Joſeph, Forgive, I pray thee now, the treſpaſs of thy brethren, and their ſin: for they did unto thee evil: And now, we pray thee, forgive the treſpaſs of the ſervants of the God of thy father x. And Joſeph wept y when they ſpake unto him.

x For whoſe ſake pardon thoſe that join with thee in his worſhip. y Partly in compaſſion to their fear and trouble: And partly becauſe they ſtill retained a diffidence in his kindneſs after all his great and real demonſtrations of it.

18 And his brethren alſo, went and fell down before his face, and they ſaid, Behold, we be thy ſervants z.

z Ready and willing to undergo that ſervitude, into which we ſo wickedly ſold thee.

19 And Joſeph ſaid unto them, * Fear not: for am I in the place of God a?

* chap. 45. 5.

a It is Gods prerogative to take vengeance, which I dare not uſurp. See Deut. 32. 35. Or, Can I do what I pleaſe with you, without Gods leave? Therefore fear him rather than me, and upon your experience of his wonderful care and kindneſs to you, believe that God will not, and therefore that I neither can nor will, do you any hurt. But it is not unuſual to put the Hebrew he for halo, as it is Gen. 27. 36. 1 Sam. 2. 28. 2 Sam. 23. 19. 1 Kings 16. 31. &c. and ſo the words may be very well rendred, Am not I under God? i. e. Subject to his will, a miniſter of his Providence? Dare I deſtroy thoſe whom God ſo eminently deſigned to ſave? Dare I puniſh thoſe whom God hath pardoned?

20 But as for you ye thought evil againſt me b: but God meant it unto good, to bring to paſs, as it is this day, to ſave much people alive.

b Therefore I do not excuſe your guilt, though I comfort you againſt deſpondency.

21 Now therefore fear ye not: I will nouriſh you and your little ones c: And he comforted them, and ſpake † kindly unto them.

c Expect not only a free pardon from me, but all the kindneſs of a loving brother.

22 And Joſeph dwelt in Egypt, he and his fathers houſe: and Joſeph lived an hundred and ten years.

For though he had but one Son, viz. Gilead, by his firſt wife, yet he married a ſecond Wife, and by her had two other Sons, 1 Chron. 7. 16. which Joſeph lived long enough to ſee. Or under the name of children his grandchildren alſo might

So there is no need of that Enallage of Sons for one Son, which we meet with in other places. f Laid upon Josephs lap or knees, where Parents use oftimes to take up and repose their Infants, to express their love to them and delight in them. And some observe, that it was an antient custom, in divers Nations that the Infant as soon as it was born was laid upon the Grandfathers knees. So it is an Ellipsis whereby one word is put for two, or under one Verb. See more of this phrase on Gen. 30. 3. and 48. 12.

* Heb. 11. 22. Exod. 3. 16. * chap. 15. 14. and 26. 3. and 35 12. and 46. 4.

24 And Joseph said unto his brethren, * I die: and God will surely visit you g, and bring you out of this land, unto the land * which he sware to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob.

g (i. e.) Deliver you out of this place, where I foresee you will be hardly used after my decease; or, fulfill his promised kindness to you, as that word is used, Gen. 21. 1. Exod. 4. 31. There is a double visitation oft mentioned in Scripture, the one of Grace and Mercy, which is here meant, the other of Justice or Anger, as elsewhere.

* Exod. 13. 19. Josh. 24. 32. Acts. 7. 16.

25 And Joseph took an oath h of the children of Israel i, saying, * God will surely visit you, and ye shall carry up my bones k hence.

h For the same reason which moved Jacob to require an Oath from him, Gen. 47. 30, 31. i He saith not, of his brethren, but of Israels children, under which his Grandchildren are comprehended and seem principally intended here; either because his brethren were most of them dead, or rather because he knew that they were not to go out of Egypt in his brethrens time, but in their second or third Generation. k (i. e.) My dead body: but he mentions onely his bones, because part of his body was corrupted, and the other part, though preserved from corruption by the embalming, yet was so changed and adulterated with the Spices and other materials which they used, that it looked like another thing: Onely his bones remained intire and unchanged. Quest. Why did he not desire to be presently carried thither and buried there as his father did? Answ. 1. Lest he should disoblige the Egyptians, and provoke them against his brethren and children. The removal of his Father thither was necessary and forced from him by an Oath, but the order for the removal of himself would have been voluntary and designed, and therefore could not have escaped the censure of an ungrateful contempt of the Land of Egypt, which as it was thought good enough for him and his to live in, should have been judged so too for his burial. 2. That by these his remains his memory might be the longer and better preserved both with the Egyptians, who for his sake might shew kindness to his near Relations, and with the Israelites, to whom this was a visible pledge of their deliverance and an help to their Faith, and an obligation to them to persist in the true Religion.

26 So Joseph died, being an hundred and ten years old l: and they imbalmed him, and he was put in a coffin in Egypt.

l So for about Thirteen years of affliction he enjoyed Eighty years of Honour, and as much Happiness as Earth could afford him.

EXODUS.

THE ARGUMENT.

After the Death of Joseph, who had sent for his Fathers house into Egypt, the Children of Israel exceedingly multiplied, notwithstanding Pharaoh's cruel oppressing of them; from under which, God, hearing their cry, brought them with a strong hand. Wherefore this book is called by the Greeks Exodus, i. e. a going forth, containing an historical accompt of passages for about one hundred and forty years, with the wonderful raising up of Moses, who, together with Aaron, were to be instruments of their deliverance, and accordingly after the inflicting ten dreadful Plagues upon Pharaoh, brought them into the Wilderness through the Red Sea, wherein Pharaoh, (his heart being hardned under all these Plagues) and all his host pursuing of them, were drowned, God having first instituted the Passeover as an abiding Sacrament to bring to their remembrance in after times this great deliverance.

In their conduct through the Wilderness God gave them the signal mark of his presence in the pillar of a Cloud, and the pillar of fire, who notwithstanding their great, and reiterated murmurings gave them food, both bread, and flesh from Heaven, and drink out of the rock; and, when they were come to mount Sinai, he there gave them the Moral Law, beside other both Politick, and Ecclesiastical Ordinances: Afterwards, the breaking of the Tables being occasioned by the Idolatry of the golden Calf, God graciously renewed his Covenant with them: There being also a Tabernacle, and Ark, and other things to be made by God's command, the bounty of the People, in order to the making, and furnishing thereof, is here set down, which being finished, the Tabernacle is anointed, and filled with the glory of God.

CHAP. I.

* Gen. 46, 8. Exod. 6. 14.

1 NOW these are the names of the * children of Israel which came into Egypt a, every man and his houshold b came with Jacob.

a This list is here repeated that by comparing this small root with so vast a company of branches, as grew upon it, we may see the wonderful Providence of God in the fulfilling of his promises. b His Children and Grandchildren, as the word house is taken Ruth 4. 11. 2 Sam. 7. 11. 1 King. 21. 29.

2 Reuben, Simeon, Levi, and Judah.

3 Issacar, Zebulun, and Benjamin c.

c Who, though the youngest of all, is placed before Dan, Naphtali, &c. because these were the Sons of the handmaidens.

4 Dan, and Naphtali, Gad, and Asher.

5 And all the souls that came out of the † loyns of Jacob, were * seventy souls d: for Joseph was in Egypt already.

† Heb. th

d Including Jacob and Joseph and his two Sons. See Gen. 46. 26, 27. and Deut. 10. 22. Or if they were but sixty nine they are called seventy by a round number, of which we shall have many instances.

6 And Joseph died, and all his brethren, and all that generation e.

e (i. e.) All that were of the same age with Joseph and his brethren.

* Gen. 1

7 * And the children of Israel were fruitful, and increased abundantly and multiplied f, and waxed exceeding mighty g, and the land was filled with them.

* Acts. 7.

f Here are many words, and some very emphatical, to express their incredible multiplication. g This may relate either to their numbers, which greatly added to their ſtrength, or to their conſtitution, to note, that their off-ſpring was ſtrong as well as numerous. Atheiſtical wits cavil at this ſtory and pretend it impoſſible that out of ſeventy perſons ſhould come above ſix hundred thouſand men within two hundred and fifteen years. Wherein they betray no leſs ignorance than impiety. For to ſay nothing of the extraordinary fruitfulneſs of the Women in Egypt, who oft bring forth four or five Children at one birth, as Ariſtot. notes Hiſt. animal. 7. 4. nor of the long lives of the men of that age, nor of the plurality of Wives then much in uſe, nor of the ſingular bleſſing of God upon the Hebrews in giving them Conceptions and Births without Abortion: All which are but very reaſonable ſuppoſitions, the probability of it may plainly appear thus; ſuppoſe there were only 200 years reckoned, and onely fifty perſons who did beget Children, and theſe begin not to beget before they be tvventy years old, and then each of them beget onely three Children. Divide this time now into ten times twenty years. In the firſt time of 50 come 150. In the ſecond, of 150 come 450. Of them in the third come 1350. Of them in the fourth 4050. Of theſe in the fifth 12150. Of theſe in the ſixth 36450. Of them in the ſeventh 109350. Of them in the eighth 328050. Of theſe in the ninth 984150. And of them in the tenth 2952450. If it be objected, that we read nothing of their great multiplication, till after Joſephs death, which ſome ſay was not above 50 years before their going out of Egypt, it may eaſily be replyed. 1. This is a great miſtake, for there were above 140 years between Joſephs death and their going out of Egypt, as may appear thus: It is granted that the Iſraelites were in Egypt about 210 or 215 years in all. They came not thither till Joſeph was near 40 years old, as is evident by comparing Gen. 41. 46. with Gen. 45. 6. So there reſts only 70 years of Joſephs Life, which are the firſt part of the time of Iſraels dwelling in Egypt, and there remain 145 years, being the other part of the 215 years. 2. That the Iſraelites did multiply much before Joſephs death, though Scripture be ſilent in it, as it is of many other paſſages confeſſedly true, cannot be reaſonably doubted. But if there was any defect in the numbers propoſed in the firſt 55 years, it might be abundantly compenſated in the 145 years ſucceeding. And ſo the computation remains good.

* their

8 Now there aroſe up a new King g over Egypt, which knew h not Joſeph.

g (i. e.) Another King one of another diſpoſition, or intereſt, or Family: for the Kingdom of Egypt did oft paſs from one Family to another, as appears from the Hiſtory of the Dynaſtes recorded in antient writers. h Or, acknowledged not, the vaſt obligations which Joſeph had laid not onely upon the Kingdoms of Egypt, and the King under whom Joſeph lived, but upon all his Succeſſors, in regard of thoſe vaſt additions of wealth and power which he had made to that crown. This phraſe notes his ungrateful diſowning and ill requiting of Joſephs favours. For words of knowledge in Scripture commonly include the affections and actions, as men are oft ſaid not to know God, when they do not love nor ſerve him, and God is ſaid not to know men, when he doth not love them.

*Pſal. 105. 24.

9 And he ſaid unto his people, * Behold, the people of the children of Iſrael are more and mightier than we i.

i This was not a true, but an invidious, repreſentation and aggravation of the mattter, the better to juſtifie the ſeverities which he deſigned.

*Act. 7. 19.

10 Come on, * let us deal wiſely with them, leſt they multiply, and it come to paſs that when there falleth out any war k, they joyn alſo unto our enemies, and fight againſt us, and ſo get them up out of the land l.

k Which was not unuſual in that country. l Which they might eaſily learn from ſome of the Hebrews that they were in due time to do. And they were very unwilling to part with them, becauſe of the tribute and ſervice which they did receive and expect from them.

*Gen. 15. 13.

11 Therefore they did ſet over them taſk-maſters m, * to afflict n them with their burdens: and they built for Pharaoh treaſure-cities o, Pithom and Raamſes.

m Heb. maſters of tribute, who were to exact from them the tribute required, which was both mony and labour, that their purſes might be exhauſted by the one, their ſtrength by the other, and their ſpirits by both. n Or, oppreſs, or humble: to ſpend their ſtrength by exceſſive labours, and ſo diſenable them for the procreation of children. o Where they laid the Kings money, or corn, which is reckoned among treaſures, 2 Chro. 17. 12. and 32. 27. and wherein a great part of the riches of Egypt conſiſted: for they had corn enough not onely for themſelves, but to ſell to other countries: ſo that Egypt was accounted the granary of the Roman Empire. Or defenced Cities, in which Garriſons were to be placed, which ſeems beſt to agree with the place and uſe of them. For they were in the borders of the land, and among the Iſraelites, which appears concerning the one from Gen. 47. 11. (where the land in which they were placed is called Rameſes, which in Hebrew conſiſts of the ſame letters, with this Raamſes, and ſeems to be ſo called then by anticipation from the City of that name now built in it) and may be reaſonably preſumed concerning the other: and therefore it is moſt probable that they were built to keep the Iſraelites in ſubjection and to hinder them from going out of the land.

12 † But the more they afflicted them, the more they multiplyed p, and grew: and they were grieved *, becauſe of the children of Iſrael.

p Through Gods over-ruling providence and ſingular bleſſing, vvhich God gave them purpoſely to haſten firſt their ſorer affliction, and next, and by that means their glorious deliverance. * Through envy and fear.

13 And the Egyptians made the children of Iſrael to ſerve with rigour q.

q Or, cruelty, or tyranny, with hard words and cruel uſage, without mercy or mitigation. This God permitted for wiſe and juſt reaſons. 1. as a puniſhment of their Idolatry, into which divers of them fell there, Joſ. 24. 14. Ezek. 20. 5, 7, 8. and 23. 8, 2. to wean them from the land of Egypt, which otherwiſe was a plentiful and deſirable land, and to quicken their deſires after Canaan. 3. to prepare the way for Gods glorious works and Iſraels deliverance.

14 And they made their lives bitter with hard bondage, * in morter, and in brick, and in all manner of ſervice in the field r: all their ſervice wherein they made them ſerve, was with rigour.

*Pſal. 81. 6.

r Which was the baſeſt and moſt laborious of all their ſervices.

15 And the King of Egypt ſpake to the Hebrew midwives s, (of which the name of one was Shiphrah, and the name of the other s Puah.)

s Such as not onely were employed about the Hebrew women, but were Hebrews themſelves, not Egyptians, as ſome ſuppoſe, as may appear, 1. becauſe they are expreſly called not the midwives of the Hebrews, but the Hebrew midwives. 2. The Egyptian midvvives vvould not vvillingly employ their time and pains among the meaneſt and pooreſt of ſervants, as theſe were. And if they were ſent in deſign by the King, he had loſt his end, which was to cover his cruelty with cunning, and to perſwade the people that their death was not from his intention, but from the chances and dangers of child-bearing. 3. the Hebrew women as they had doubtleſs midvvives of their own, ſo they would never have admitted others. 4. They are ſaid to fear God, ver. 17. 21. t You are not to think that theſe were the only midwives to ſo many thouſands of Hebrew vvomen, but they vvere the moſt eminent among them, and it may be for their excellency in that profeſſion called to the ſervice of ſome Egyptian Ladies, and by them knovvn to Pharaoh, vvho might therefore think by their ovvn intereſt and by the promiſe of great rewards or by ſevere threatnings to oblige them to comply with his deſires; and if he met vvith the deſired ſucceſs by them, he meant to proceed further and to engage the reſt in like manner.

16 And he ſaid, When ye do the office of a midwife to the Hebrew women, and ſee them upon the ſtools u, if it be a ſon, then ye ſhall kill him x: but it be a daughter, then ſhe ſhall live y.

u A ſeat uſed by vvomen vvhen ready to be delivered, conveniently framed for the midvvives better diſcharge of her office. x Which it was not difficult for them to do, without much obſervation. y Either 1. becauſe he feared not them, but the males onely; and ſome add, that he was adviſed by one of their magicians, that a male-child ſhould be born of the Iſraelites, who ſhould be a dreadful ſcourge to the Egyptians: or 2. they reſerved them for their luſt, or for ſervice, or for the increaſe of their people and the raiſing of a fairer breed for them.

17 But the midwives feared God z, and did not as the King of Egypt commanded them, but ſaved the men-children alive.

z More then the King, and therefore choſe to obey God rather than the King, their commands being contrary each to other.

18 And the King of Egypt called for the midwives, and ſaid unto them, Why have ye done this thing, and have ſaved the men-children alive?

19 And the midwives ſaid unto Pharaoh, Becauſe the Hebrew women are not as the Egyptian women, for they are lively a, and are delivered ere the midwives come in unto them b.

a Or, vigorous and active in promoting the birth of their own children: or, like the beaſts; which without any help of others bring forth their young. So the Hebrew word ſignifies, and ſo there is only a defect of the particle of ſimilitude, which is frequent, as I have noted before. b This might be no lye, as many ſuppoſe, but a truth concerning many of them, and they do not affirm it to be ſo with all. And ſo it might be, either becauſe their daily and exceſſive labours, joyned with the fears of the execution of the Kings command, whereof they ſeem to have gotten notice, did haſten their birth, as the ſame cauſes do commonly in other women, or becauſe they, underſtanding their danger, would not ſend for the Midwives, but committed themſelves to Gods providence and the care of ſome of their neighbours preſent with them. So here was nothing but truth, though they did not ſpeak the whole truth, which they were not obliged to do.

20 Therefore c God dealt well with the midwives: and the people multiplied, and waxed very mighty.

c Becauſe they feared God, and ſpared the children, ver. 17. whereby they expoſed themſelves to the Kings diſpleaſure, becauſe they would not offend God by murdering the children, which they might have done many times ſecretly, and therefore it was onely the fear of God, which reſtrained them from it.

21 And it came to paſs, becauſe the midwives feared God, that he made them houſes d.

d (i.e.) God greatly increaſed their Families both in children and poſterity, and in wealth and other outward bleſſings. So this phraſe is uſed Gen. 30. 30. Deut. 25. 9. 1 Sam. 2. 35. 1 King. 2. 24. and 11. 38. Pſal. 127. 1. As houſes are commonly put for families, ſo building is put for procreating of children, Gen. 16. 2. and 30. 3.

22 And Pharaoh charged all his people ſaying, Every ſon that is born, ye ſhall caſt into the river, and every daughter ye ſhall ſave alive.

CHAP. II.

*1 Chron. 23. 13.

1 AND there went a * a man of the houſe of Levi b, and took to wife a daughter of Levi c.

a From the place of his abode to another place for the following purpoſe. b viz. Amram, Exod. 6. 20 Numb. 26. 58, 59. c Namely Jochebed, Numb. 26. 59. called a daughter not ſtrictly but more largely, to wit, a grandchild, as the words father and Son are oft uſed for a grandfather and a grandſon, as hath been ſhewed before. And ſo the word ſiſter, Exod. 6. 20. is to be taken largely, as brother is oft uſed for a couſin. This ſeems more probable, than that an Iſraelite ſhould marry his own ſiſter, which even heathens by the light of nature have condemned, eſpecially now when he had ſuch abundant choice elſewhere.

2 And the woman conceived and bare a ſon: and when ſhe ſaw him that he was a goodly child, ſhe * hid him three months.

* Act. 7. 20. Heb. 11. 23.

3 And when ſhe could not longer hide him d, ſhe took for him an ark of bulruſhes e, and daubed it with ſlime and with pitch * and put the child therein, and ſhe laid it in the flags f by the rivers brink.

d To wit, with ſafety to her ſelf, becauſe they now grew more violent in executing that bloody decree, and the child growing up was more likely to be diſcovered, eſpecially ſeeing the Egyptians dwelt among them, Exod. 3. 22. e That boats were made of ſuch materials in thoſe parts is evident from Iſa. 18 2. and from the teſtimonies of Herod, Pliny, and others. * Slime within, and pitch without. f Which grew near the rivers ſide, partly that the veſſel might not be carried away and overturned by the violence of the winds and water, and partly that the child might be ſooner diſcerned and more eaſily taken out thence by any kind hand, which ſhe hoped for.

4 And his ſiſter ſtood afar off g, to wit what would be done unto him.

g That ſhe might not be thought to have laid the child there, or to be related to it.

5 And the daughter of Pharaoh came down to waſh her ſelf at the river, and her maidens walked along by the river ſide: and when ſhe ſaw the ark among the flags, ſhe ſent her maid to fetch it.

6 And when ſhe had opened it, ſhe ſaw the child: and behold the babe wept. And ſhe had compaſſion on him, and ſaid, This is one of the Hebrews children h.

h This ſhe might very probably gueſs both from the circumſtances in which ſhe found him, and from the ſingular fairneſs and beauty of the child, far differing from the Egyptian hew, and ſhe might certainly know it by its circumciſion.

7 Then ſaid his ſiſter to Pharaohs daughter, Shall I go, and call to thee a nurſe of the Hebrew women, that ſhe may nurſe the child for thee?

8 And Pharaohs daughter ſaid unto her, Go: And the maid went and called the childs mother.

9 And Pharaohs daughter ſaid unto her, Take this child away and nurſe it for me, and I will give thee thy wages. And the woman took the child, and nurſed it.

10 And the child grew, and ſhe brought him unto Pharaohs daughter, and he became her ſon i. And ſhe called hi name || Moſes k: and ſhe ſaid, Becauſe I drew him out of the water.

i By adoption, Heb. 11. 24. For as Philo reports, ſhe, though long married, had no child of her own; and therefore treated him as her own, and gave him royal education and inſtruction: ſee Act. 7. 21. k It matters not whether this be an Egyptian name, or an Hebrew name anſwering to it in ſignification, ſeeing the meaning of it is here explained.

11 And it came to paſs in thoſe days l, when Moſes was grown m, that he went out unto his brethren n, and looked on their burdens, and he ſpied an Egyptian ſmiting an Hebrew, one of his brethren.

l Whileſt Moſes lived at court, and was owned as the ſon of Pharaohs daughter, and, as ſome write, deſigned to ſucceed Pharaoh in the Throne. m To maturity, being 40 years old, Acts. 7. 23. n Partly by natural affection and inclination, that he might learn the ſtate of his brethren, and help them as occaſion ſhould offer it ſelf; and partly by divine inſtigation, and in deſign, that he might give ſome manifeſtation to them that he was raiſed and ſent of God to deliver them, as may be gathered from Act. 7. 25.

12 And he looked this way and that way o, and when he ſaw that there was no man, he ſlew the Egyptian p, and hid him in the ſand.

o Not from conſcience of guilt in what he intended, but from humane and warrantable prudence. p This action of Moſes was extraordinary, and is not to be juſtified by the common right of defending the oppreſſed, which belongs not to private perſons, Rom. 12 19. but only by his divine and ſpecial vocation to be the ruler and deliverer of Iſrael. Which call of his, howſoever manifeſted, whether by his father, as Joſephus ſaith, or immediately to himſelf, was evident to his own conſcience, and he gave this as a ſignal to make it evident to the people.

13 And when he went out the ſecond day q, behold, two men of the Hebrews ſtrove together: And he ſaid to him that did the wrong, Wherefore ſmiteſt thou thy fellow?

q The next day after that atchievement he returns to execute the office in which God had ſet him, as a Judge, whoſe work it is both to deſtroy enemies and to reconcile brethren.

14 And he ſaid, Who made thee † a Prince and a judge over us? intendeſt thou to kill me, as thou killedſt the Egyptian? and Moſes feared r, and ſaid, Surely this thing is known.

r Through the weakneſs of his faith, which afterwards growing ſtronger, he feared not, that which now he did fear, the wrath of the King, Heb. 11. 27. Diſtinguiſh the times, and Scriptures agree which ſeemed to claſh together.

15 Now when Pharaoh heard this thing, he ſought to ſlay Moſes s. But Moſes fled from the face of Pharaoh, and dwelt in the land of Midian: and he ſate down by a well.

s Not out of zeal to punish a murderer, but to secure himself from so dangerous a person, probably supposing that this was the man foretold to be the scourge of Egypt, and the deliverer of Israel.

Or, Princes. 16 Now the || Priest t of Midian had seven daughters, and they came and drew water, and filled the troughs to water their fathers flock.

t Not of Idols, for then Moses would not have married into his family, but of the true God, for some such were in those antient times, here and there, as appears by Melchisedeck, though his manner of worshipping God might be superstitious and corrupt: Or the Hebrew Cohen may here signify a Prince, or a Potentate, as Gen. 41. 45. Nor doth the employment of his daughters contradict that translation, both because principalities were then many of them very small and mean, and because this employment then was esteemed noble and worthy of great mens daughters, as appears from Gen. 24. 15. and 29. 6. &c.

17 And the shepherds came and drove them away u: but Moses stood up and helped them x, and watered their flock.

u That they might enjoy the fruit of their labours, and make use of the water which they had drawn for their own cattle. x Either by perswading them with fair words, or by force, for Moses was strong and full of courage and resolution, wherewith the Shepherds were easily daunted.

18 And when they came to Reuel their father x, he said, How is it that you are come so soon to day?

x Either 1. Strictly, and then he is the same who elsewhere is called Jethro, Exod. 3. 1. and 18. oft-times, and, as some think, Hobab, Judg. 4. 11. Or 2. largely, i. e. their grandfather, for such are oft called fathers, as Gen. 31. 43. 2 King. 14. 3. &c. and 16. 2. and 18. 3. so he was the father of Jethro, or Hobab, Numb. 10. 29.

19 And they said, an Egyptian y delivered us out of the hand of the shepherds, and also drew water enough z for us, and watered the flock.

y So they guessed him to be by his habit and speech, or he told them that he came from thence. z Heb. in drawing drew, which notes that he drew it very diligently and readily, which caused their quick return.

20 And he said unto his daughters, And where is he? why is it that ye have left a the man? Call him, that he may eat bread.

a Heb. have left thus, or now, at this time of the day, when it is so late, and he a stranger and traveller.

21 And Moses was content b to dwell with the man, and he gave Moses Zipporah his daughter c.

b Or, consented to his desire or offer. And so his present and temporary repose there is turned into a settled habitation. c Whom Moses married not instantly, but after some years of acquaintance with the family, as may probably be gathered from the youngness and uncircumcisedness of one of his sons 40 years after this, Exod. 4. 25. In which time as Moses would not fail to instruct them in the knowledge of the true God, which he was able excellently to do, so it is likely he had succeeded therein in some measure, and therefore married Zipporah.

22 And she bare him a son, and he called his
* chap. 18. 3. name * Gershom: for he said, I have been * a
* Heb. 11. 13, 14. stranger in a strange land.

23 And it came to pass in process of time d, that the King of Egypt e died, and the children

d Heb. in those many days, viz. in which he lived or abode there, i. e. after them. In is put for after here, as it is Numb. 28. 26. Isa. 20. 1. Mark 13. 24. compared with Mat. 24. 29. Luk. 9. 36. After 40 years, as appears by comparing Exod. 7. 7. with Act. 7. 30. e And after him one or two more of his sons or Successors, and the rest who sought for Moses his life, Exod. 4. 19. † Because though their great oppressor was dead, yet they found no relief, as they hoped to do.

24 And God heard their groaning, and God

f Heb. knew them, so as to pity and help them, as words of knowledge are oft used, as Psal. 1. 6. and 31. 7. he, who seemed to have rejected them, now owned them for his people, and came for their rescue.

CHAP. III.

1 NOW Moses kept the flock of Jethro a his father in law, the Priest of Midian: and he led the flock to the back-side of the desert b, and came to the mountain of God c, even to Horeb d.

a Either the same with Reuel, or his son, who upon his fathers death, succeeded into his office. See Exod. 2. 18. b To its innermost parts which were behind Jethro's habitation and the former pastures, whither he went to fresh pastures. c So called, either as an high or eminent mountain: or, from the vision of God here following: See Act. 7. 30. or by anticipation, from Gods glorious appearance there and giving the law from thence. Exod. 18. 5. and 19. 3. See also 1 King. 19. 8. d Called also Sinai, Exod. 19. 1. Act. 7. 30. Or Horeb was the name of the whole tract or row of mountains, and Sinai the name of that particular mountain where this vision hapned and the law was delivered: Or Horeb and Sinai were two several tops of the same mountain.

2 And the Angel of the LORD e appeared unto him in a * flame of fire f out of the midst *Deut. 33. 16. of a bush, and he looked, and behold, the bush burned with fire, and the bush was not consumed g.

e Not a created Angel, but the Angel of the covenant, Christ Jesus, who then and ever was God, and was to be man and to be sent into the world in our Flesh as a messenger from God. And these temporary apparitions of his were presages or fore-runners of his more solemn mission and coming, and therefore he is fitly called an Angel. That this Angel was no creature plainly appears by the whole context, and specially by his saying I am the Lord, &c. The Angels never speak that language in Scripture, but, I am sent from God, and I am thy fellow-servant, &c. And it is a vain pretence to say that the Angel as Gods Ambassadour speaks in Gods name and person. For what Ambassadour of any King in the world did ever speak thus, I am the King, &c. Ministers are Gods Ambassadours, but if any of them should say, I am the Lord, they would be guilty of blasphemy, and so would any created Angel be too, for the same reason. f Whereby was fitly represented Gods Majesty and purity and power. g Which doubtless represented the condition of the Church and people of Israel, who were now in the fire of affliction, yet so as that God was present with them, and that they should not be consumed in it, whereof this vision was a pledge.

3 And Moses said, I will now turn aside, and see this great sight, why the bush is not burnt.

4 And when the LORD saw that he turned aside to see, God called unto him * out of the *Deut. 33. 16. midst of the bush, and said, Moses, Moses h; and he said, Here am I.

h He doubles the name, partly to shew kindness and familiarity, and principally to make Moses more attentive to the business before him.

5 And he said, Draw not nigh hither i, * put *Act. 7. 33. off thy shoes from off thy feet k, for the place whereon thou standest, is holy ground l.

i Keep thy distance; whereby he checks his curiosity and forwardness, and works him to the greater reverence and humility. Compare Exod. 19. 12, 21. Jos. 5. 15. k This he requires as an act and token, 1. of his reverence to the divine Majesty then and there eminently present. 2. of his humiliation for his sins whereby he was unfit and unworthy to appear before God: for this was a posture of humiliation, 2 Sam. 15. 30. Isa. 20. 2, 4. Ezek 24. 17, 23. 3. of purification, from the filth of his feet or ways or conversation, that he might be more fit to approach to God. See Job. 13. 10. Heb. 10. 22. 4. of his submission and readiness to obey Gods will, for which reason slaves used to be barefooted. l With a relative holiness at this time, because of my special presence in it.

6 Moreover, he said, * I am the God of thy *Mat. 22. 32. father, the God of Abraham, the God of Act. 7. 32. Isaac, and the God of Jacob m. And Moses hid his face: for he was afraid to look upon God n.

m The God ingaged to them by covenant or promise, which I am now come to perform. n As other excellent servants of God have been through the sense of their own meanness and sinfulness, and of Gods Majesty and holiness. See Gen. 18. 13. and 17. 3. 1 King. 19. 13. Isa. 6. 2, 5. &c.

7 And the LORD said, I have surely seen o the affliction of my people which are in Egypt,
* chap. 2. 23. and * have heard their cry, by reason of their task-masters: for I know their sorrows, o Heb. In seeing I have seen, (i. e.) I have seen and observed it diligently, accurately, and certainly for so much the doubling of the verb signifies.

8 And I am come down p to deliver them out of the hand of the Egyptians, and to bring them up out of that land, unto a good land and a large q, unto a land flowing with milk and honey r, unto the place of the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites, and the Jubusites s.

p This word notes Gods manifestation of himself and his favour, and giving help from heaven. See Gen. 18. 21. q So it was not onely comparatively to Goshen, where they now dwelt, and to the number of the Israelites at that time, but absolutely, if you take the land of promise according to its true and first and antient bounds of it, as you have them described, Gen. 15. 18. Deut. 1. 7. and 11. 24. and not according to those narrow limits to which they were afterwards confined for their unbelief, sloath, cowardise and impiety. r (i. e.) A bounding with the choicest fruits both for necessity and for delight. The excellency, and singular fruitfulness of this land, howsoever denied or disputed by some ill minded persons is sufficiently evident, 1. from express testimony not onely of Moses, Deut. 8. 7, 8, 9. but also of the spies who were sent to view it, and, though prejudic'd against it, yet acknowledged it, Numb. 13. 27. and of the holy Prophets that lived long in it, as David, Psal. 106. 24. Joel chap. 2. 3. and Ezekiel, who calls it the glory of all lands, Ezek. 20. 15. Which it it had not been true, it is ridiculous to think that they durst have said and writ so, when the people with whom they contested, and thousands of other persons there and then living, were able to confute them. After them Josephus, and St. Hierom, and others since who lived long in that land, have highly commended it. And whereas Strabo speaks of the barrenness of the soil about Jerusalem, that is true, but by himself it is limited to the compass of 60 furlongs from Jerusalem. And if at this day the land be now grown barren in a great measure, it is not strange considering both the great neglect and sloth of the people as to the improvement of it, and the great wickedness of its inhabitants for which God hath threatned to turn a fruitful land into barrenness, Psal. 107. 34. s These people are diverslly numbred, there are ten sorts reckoned, Gen. 15. 19, 20, 21. and seven, Deut. 7. 1. and here but six, because some of them were either destroyed or driven out of their land by others; or did by choice and design remove to some other place, as many in those times did, though it be not mentioned in Scripture: or by cohabitation and marriages with some of the other people did make a coalition and were incorporated with them and so their name was swallowed up in the other; or because the names of some of these people, as particularly the Canaanites, and the Amorites, were used sometimes more strictly, and sometimes more largely, so as to comprehend under them the other people, as the Girgashites, &c. whence it comes to pass that all the rest go under the names of the Canaanites, Gen. 13. 7. and of the Amorites in some places of Scripture, as hath been shewed.

9 Now therefore behold the cry * of the children of Israel is come unto me: and I have also seen the oppression wherewith the Egyptians oppress them.

* Either in prayer; or rather forced by their oppressions, as the next clause explains it.

10 Come now therefore, and I will send thee unto Pharaoh, that thou mayest bring forth my people the children of Israel out of Egypt.

* See Isa. 6. 5. Jer. 1. 6. 11 And Moses said unto God, * who am I t, that I should go unto Pharaoh, and that I should bring forth the children of Israel out of Egypt?

t What a mean, inconsiderable person am I, how unworthy and unfit for that employment. He was more forward in the work 40 years ago, by reason of the fervours of his youth, his inexperience in affairs, the advantage of his power and interest in the Court, by which he thought he could and should procure their deliverance. But now age had made him cool and considerate, the remembrance of his brethrens rejection of him, when he was a great man at Court, took away all probability of prevailing with them to follow him, much more of prevailing with Pharaoh to let them go. Thus Moses falls into that distemper to which most men are prone, of measuring God by himself, and by the probabilities or improbabilities of second causes.

12 And he said, Certainly I will be with thee; and this shall be a token unto thee u, that I have sent thee: When thou hast brought forth the people out of Egypt, ye shall serve God upon this mountain.

u Either 1. this vision, or 2. the fulfilling of this promise that I will be with thee by signs and wonders and a strong hand; or rather 3. this which here follows, that he and Israel should serve God there. Signs indeed are commonly given from things past or present, but sometimes from things to come, as here and 1 Sam. 2. 34. Isa. 7. 13, 14. and 9. 6. &c. Quest. How could Moses be confirmed in his present calling and work by a thing yet to come? Answ. Such things if they were single and the onely evidences of a mans calling might leave some ground for suspition: but when they are accompanied with other signs as it is here and in the other places produced, they are of great use for the corroboration of a mans faith. Moses was otherwise assured of the presence and power and faithfulness of that God who spake to him and was to expect more assurances that God would be with him to help him in and carry him through his work. And as an evidence that this work of bringing Israel out of Egypt should be compleated, he gives him a promise that he should serve God in that place: which promise coming from God, he knew to be as infallibly certain, as if it were already come to pass, and therefore this was an apt mean to strengthen his faith in his present undertaking.

13 And Moses said unto God, Behold, when I come unto the children of Israel, and shall say unto them, The God of your fathers hath sent me unto you, and they shall say to me, What is his name x? what shall I say unto them?

x Since I must go to them in thy name, and thou hast variety of names and glorious titles, and some of them are ascribed to Idols, not onely by the Egyptians, but by too many of thy own people; what name shall I use, whereby both thou maist be distinguished from false Gods, and thy people may be encouraged to expect deliverance from thee?

14 And God said unto Moses, I AM THAT I AM y: And he said, Thus shalt thou say unto the children of Israel, I AM † * hath sent me unto you.

* chap. 6. 3. 2 Cor. 1. 20. Heb. 13. 8. Rev. 1. 4.

y A most comprehensive and significant name, and most proper for the present occasion. It notes 1. the reality of his being: whereas Idols are nothings, 1 Cor. 8. 4. all their divinity is only in the fancies and opinions of men. 2. the necessariness, eternity, and unchangeableness of his being: whereas all other beings once were not, and, if he please, they shall be no more, and all their being was derived from him, and wholly depends upon him; and he only is by and from himself. 3. the constancy and certainty of his nature and will and word: The sense is, I am the same that ever I was, the same who made the promises to Abraham &c. and am now come to perform them, who as I can do what I please, so I will do what I have said. Heb. I shall be what I shall be. He useth the future tense, either, 1. because that tense in the use of the Hebrew tongue comprehends all times, past, present, and to come, to signify that all times are alike to God, and all are present to him, and therefore what is here I shall be is rendred I am by Christ, Joh. 8. 58. See Psal. 90. 4. 2 Pet. 3 8. or 2. to intimate, though darkly, according to that state and age of the Church, the mystery of Christs incarnation, I shall be what I shall be, i e. God-man, and I who now come in an invisible, though glorious, manner, to deliver you from this temporal bondage, shall in due time come visibly and by incarnation to save you and all my people from a far worse slavery and misery, even from your sins, and from wrath to come. Of this name of God see Rev. 1. 4. 8. and 16. 5. † Heb. Jehovah, a word of the same root and signification with I am. See Exod. 6. 3. This he adds because God was best known to the Israelites by that name, and to shew that though he had given himself a new name, yet he was the same God.

15 And God said moreover unto Moses, thus shalt thou say unto the children of Israel, The LORD God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob, hath sent me unto you: this is my Name for ever, and this is my memorial z unto all generations.

z By which I will be remembred, owned, and served by my people, and distinguished from all others. See Psal. 102. 12. and 105. 13.

16 Go and * gather the Elders a of Israel together, and say unto them, The LORD God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, of Isaac, and of Jacob, appeared unto me, saying, I have surely ly visited you, and seen that which is done to you in Egypt.

a Either by age, or rather by Office and authority. For though they were all slaves to the Egyptians, yet among themselves they retained some order and government, and had doubtless some whom they owned as their Teachers and rulers, as heads of Tribes and Families, &c.

17 And I have said, I will bring you up out of the affliction of Egypt, unto the land of the Canaanites, and the Hittites and the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites, and the Jebusites, unto a land flowing with milk and hony.

18 And * they shall hearken to thy voice, and thou shalt come, thou and the elders of Israel unto the King of Egypt, and you shall say unto him, The LORD * God of the Hebrews hath met with us b; and now let us go, (we beseech thee) three days journey c into the wilderness that we may sacrifice to the LORD our God d.

b Hath appeared to us, expressing his displeasure for our neglect of him, and his will that we should do what follows. c To Sinai, which, going the nearest way, was no further from Egypt: for here God had declared he would be served, ver. 12. Quest. Was not this deceitfully and unjustly spoken, when they intended to go quite away from him? Ans. No: for 1. Pharaoh had no just right and title to them to keep them in bondage, seeing they came thither only to sojourn for a time, and by Joseph had abundantly paid for their habitation there, and therefore they might have demanded a total dismission. 2. Moses doth not say any thing which is false, but onely conceals a part of the truth, and he was not obliged to discover the whole truth to so cruel a Tyrant and so implacable an enemy. 3. Moses cannot be blamed, both because he was none of Pharaohs subjects, and because herein he follows the direction and command of his master that sent him, And God surely was not obliged to acquaint Pharaoh with all his mind, but onely so far as he pleased. And it pleased him for wise and just reasons to propose onely this to Pharaoh, that his denial of so modest a request (which God foresaw) might make his Tyranny more manifest, and Gods vengeance upon him more just and remarkable. d Which they could not do freely and safely in Egypt, Exod. 8. 26.

19 And I am sure e that the King of Egypt will not let you go, || no not by a mighty hand f.

Or, but by strong hand.

e I know it infallibly before hand. f Though he see and feel the miraculous and dreadful works of a strong, yea almighty hand, yet he will not consent to your going: Which the History makes good. Nor did he let them go till he could hold them no longer, till the fear of his own Life and the clamours of his people forced him to give way to it. And yet, after that he repents of his permission and laboured to bring them back again. Others but or except by a strong hand, i. e. except by my almighty power he be forced to it. Both Translations come to the same sense.

20 And I will stretch out my hand, and smite Egypt with all my wonders which I will do in the midst thereof; and after that he will let you go.

21 And I will give this people favour in the sight of the Egyptians g, and it shall come to pass, that when ye go, ye shall not go empty:

g So that they shall readily grant what the Israelites desire. See Exod. 12. 36.

22 * But every woman shall borrow of her neighbour, and of her that sojourneth in her house, jewels of silver, and jewels of Gold, and raiment: and ye shall put them upon your sons, and upon your daughters, and ye shall spoil || the Egyptians h.

*chap. 11. 2. Gen. 15. 14.

Or, Egypt.

h Whether this was just or no, see on Exod. 12. 36.

CHAP. IV.

1 AND Moses answered and said, But behold, they will not believe me a, nor hearken unto my voice: for they will say, the LORD hath not appeared unto thee.

a Which he conjectured both from reason, because the greatness and strangeness of the deliverance made it seem incredible, and their minds were so oppressed with cares and labours, that it was not likely they could raise them up to any such expectation; and from the experience which he had of them forty years before, when their deliverance by his means and interest at Court seemed much more credible, then now it did.

2 And the LORD said unto him, What is that in thine hand? And he said, a Rod.

3 And he said, cast it on the ground. And he cast it on the ground, and it became a Serpent b: And Moses fled from before it.

b (i.e.) Was really changed into a serpent, whereby it was intimated what and how pernicious his Rod should be to the Egyptians.

4 And the LORD said unto Moses, put forth thine hand, and take it by the tail c: And he put forth his hand and caught it, and it became a Rod in his hand:

c The dangerous part: whereby God would try Moses his Faith, and prepare him for the approaching difficulties.

5 That they may believe d that the LORD God of their fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob hath appeared unto thee.

d An imperfect sentence, to be thus compleated, This thou shalt do before them that they may believe. See the like in 2 Sam. 5. 8. compared with 1 Chron. 11. 6. and Mark 14 49. compared with Matth. 26. 56.

6 And the LORD said furthermore unto him, Put now thine hand into thy bosom. And he put his hand into his bosom: and when he took it out, behold his hand was leprous * as snow e.

* 2 King. 5. 27.

e For whiteness. See Numb. 12. 10. Hereby God would suggest to them, how soon he could weaken and destroy the hard and strong hand by which the Egyptians Tyrannized over them. It might also be done to keep Moses humble and depending upon God, and to teach him and Israel to ascribe all the future Miracles not to the hand of Moses which was weak and liabe to many distempers, but wholly to the divine power and goodness.

7 And he said, Put thine hand into thy bosom again. And he put his hand into his bosom again, and plucked it out of his bosom, and behold it was turned again as his other flesh.

8 And it shall came to pass, if they will not believe thee, neither hearken to the voice of the first sign f, that they will believe the voice of the latter sign.

f To the voice or word of God delivered and confirmed by the first sign. For Moses did not make dumb shews before them, but acquainted them with the mind of God therein. Or he saith the voice, to note that Gods works have a voice to speak to us which we must diligently observe. See Mic. 6. 9.

9 And it shall come to pass, if they will not believe also these two signs, neither hearken unto thy voice, that thou shalt take of the water of the river g, and pour it upon the dry land: and the water which thou takest out of the river, † shall become h blood upon the dry land.

g Nilus, well known to Moses, and called so by way of eminency, as Euphrates also is. h Heb. shall be, even shall be, i. e. it shall assuredly be so.

10 And Moses said unto the LORD, O my Lord, I am not † eloquent i, neither † heretofore, nor since thou hast spoken unto thy servant k: but * I am slow of speech, and of a slow tongue.

† Heb. a man of words.

† Heb. since yesterday, nor since the third day.

* chap. 6. 12.

i Not able to deliver thy message acceptably and decently either to Pharaoh or to the Israelites. k Since thy appearance to me thou hast made some change in my hand, but none in my tongue, but still I am, as I was, most unfit for so high an employment. But inded he was therefore fit for it, as the unlearned Apostles, were for the preaching of the Gospel, that the honour of their glorious works might be entirely given to God, and not to the instruments which he used.

11 And the LORD, said unto him, * Who hath made mans mouth? or who maketh the dumb, or deaf, or the seeing, or the blind? have not I the LORD?

* Psal. 94. 9.

12 Now therefore go, and I will be * with thy mouth l, and teach thee what thou shalt say.

* Mar. 13. 11. Luk. 12. 11.

l By my spirit to direct and assist thee what and how to speak. Whence Moses though he still seems to have remained-mained slow in speech, yet was in truth mighty in words as well as deeds, Acts 7. 22. Compare Matth. 10. 19, 20.

13 And he said, O my Lord, send, I pray thee, by the hand of him whom thou ‖ wilt send m.

m By one who is fitter for the work than I am. Heb. send by the hand of him whom thou wilst send, i. e. shouldest send. For the future tense oft signifies what one should do. See Gen. 20. 9. and 34. 7. Mal. 1. 6. and 2. 7. Thou usest according to thy wisdom to chuse fit instruments, and to use none but whom thou dost either find or make fit for their employment, which I am not. Others, Send by the hand of Messias, whom thou wilst certainly send, and canst not send at a fitter time nor for better work. Moses and the Prophets knew that Christ would come, but the particular time of his coming was unknown to them. See 1 Pet. 1. 11.

14 And the anger of the LORD was kindled against Moses, and he said, It is not Aaron the Levite thy brother? I know that he can speak well. And also behold, he cometh forth to meet thee n: and when he seeth thee, he will be glad in his heart.

n By my instigation and direction: which, because I see thou art still diffident, I give thee for a new sign to strengthen thy belief that I will carry thee through this hard work.

15 And thou shalt speak unto him, and put words in his mouth o, and I will be with thy mouth, and with his mouth, and I will teach you what ye shall do.

o (i. e.) Instruct him what to speak, and command him freely and faithfully to express it. See Isa. 51. 16. and 59. 21.

16 And he shall be thy spokesman unto the people: and he shall be, even he shall be to thee in stead of a mouth; and thou shalt be to him in stead of God p.

p To teach and to command him. See Exod. 7. 1.

17 And thou shalt take this rod in thy hand, wherewith thou shalt do signs q.

q Both those which I have already made thee to do, and others as I shall direct and enable thee.

18 And Moses went and returned to Jethro his father-in-law, and said unto him, Let me go, I pray thee, and return unto my brethren which are in Egypt, and see whether they be yet alive r. And Jethro said to Moses, Go in peace.

r He pretends only a visit, and so indeed it was, and that no very long one neither: He knew that he should certainly return to this place, and there meet with his Father-in-law. So that he did not deceive him nor intended to do so, though he thought fit to conceal from him the errand, upon which God sent him, lest his Father or Wife should attempt to hinder or discourage him from so difficult and dangerous an enterprize. Moses shews here a rare example as well of modesty and humility, that such glorious and familiar converse with God and the high calling to which God had advanced him did neither make him forget the civility and duty which he owed to his Father, nor make him break forth into publick and vainglorious boasting of such a priviledge; as also of his piety and prudence, that he avoided all occasions and temptations to disobedience to Gods command.

19 And the LORD said unto Moses in Midian s, Go, return into Egypt, for * all the men are dead which sought thy life t.

* chap. 2. 15. 23.

s This seems to have been a second vision, whereby God calls him forth to the present and speedy execution of that command which before was more generally delivered. t To wit, to take it away. See the like expression, 1 Sam. 22. 23. 1 King. 19. 14. Matt. 2. 20. God knew very well that one great cause of Moses his unwillingness to this undertaking was his carnal fear, though he was ashamed to profess it, and therefore gives him this cordial.

20 And Moses took his wife, and his sons u, and set them upon an Asse x, and he returned to the land of Egypt. And Moses took the rod of God y in his hand.

u Gershom, Exod. 2. 22. and Eliezer, Exod. 18. 4. Whom he intended to carry with him, but afterwards observing that they were like to be impediments to him in his great business, and being well assured that it would not be long ere he returned to them, he sent them back to Jethro, as may seem from Exod. 18. 5. x One Asse might be sufficient for her and her two Children, because one of them was but little, ver. 25. Or, Asse may be put for Asses, which changes of the numbers is very frequent in Scripture. y His Shepherds rod so called, partly because it was appropriated to Gods special service, to be the instrument in all his glorious works; and partly to shew that whatsoever was done by that rod was not done by any vertue in the rod or in Moses his hand, but meerly by the power of God, who was pleased for the greater confusion of his Enemies to use so mean an instrument.

21 And the LORD said unto Moses, when thou goest to return into Egypt see that thou do all those wonders before Pharaoh, which I have put in thine hand z: but * I will harden his heart a that he shall not let the people go.

* chap. 7. 3. 9. 12. & 10. and 14. 8. Deut. 2. 30. Isa. 63. 17. John 12. 40. Rom. 9. 18.

z (i. e.) In thy power or commission, to be done by thy hand and the rod in it. a That he shall be unmerciful to all the groans and pressures of the Israelites, inexorable to the requests of Moses, unmovable and incorrigible by all my words and works. But God doth not properly and positively make mens hearts hard, but onely privatively, either by denying to them or withdrawing from them that grace, which alone, can make men soft and flexible and pliable to the Divine will, as the Sun hardens the Clay by drawing out of it that moisture which made it soft; or by exposing them to those Temptations of the World or the Devil which meeting with a corrupt heart are apt to harden it.

22 And thou shalt say unto Pharaoh, Thus saith the LORD, Israel is my son, * even my first-born b.

* Jer. 31. 9. Jam. 1. 18.

b By my choice and adoption. They are most dear to me and reserved by me out of all Nations to be my peculiar people; and therefore I will no longer suffer thee to invade my right, nor them to live in the neglect of my service.

23 And I say unto thee c, Let my son go, that he may serve me: and if thou refuse to let him go, behold, * I will slay thy son, even thy first-born d.

* chap. 11. and 12. 29.

c I command thee: For saying is put for commanding, Luk. 4. 3. and 9. 54. and in 1 Chron. 21. 19. compared with 2 Sam. 24. 19. d By which Plague coming after the rest thou wilt be enforced to do what I advise thee now to do upon cheaper terms.

24 And it came to pass by the way in the Inn, that the LORD * met him e; and sought to kill him f.

e (i. e.) Appeared to him in some visible shape. f Whom? Moses, spoken of and to before. He offered and endeavoured to kill him, either by inflicting some sudden and dangerous disease or stroke upon him, or by shewing himself in some threatning posture, possibly as the Angel did to Balaam and afterwards to David with a drawn Sword in his hand, ready to give him a deadly blow. The reason of this severity was not Moses his distrust of God, nor delay in his journey, nor the bringing of his Wife and Children along with him, (which it was convenient for him to carry with him, both that his father might not think he intended to desert them, and for the greater assurance and encouragement of the Israelites, when they saw that he exposed his dearest relations to the same hazards with them all) but the neglect of circumcising his Child, which also the Lord some way or other signified to Moses and Zipporah, as plainly appears, 1. From Zipporahs following fact upon that occasion. 2. From the Lords dismission of Moses upon the circumcision of the Child. 3. From the threatning of Death or cutting off for this sin, Gen. 17. 14. which, because there was now no Magistrate to do it, God himself offers to execute it, as he sometimes saith he would do in that case. And this was a greater sin in Moses than in another man, and at this time then it had been before, because he understood the Will and Law of God about it better then any man, and God had lately minded him of that Covenant of his with Abraham, &c. whereof circumcision was a seal; the blessings and benefits of which Covenant Moses was now going to procure for himself and for his people, whilest he remained under the guilt of grosly neglecting the condition of it. Besides, what could be more absurd than that he should come to be a Lawgiver who lived in a manifest violation of Gods Law, or that he should be the chief Ruler and Instructer of the Israelites, whose duty it was to acquaint them with their duty of circumcising their Children, and, as far as he could, to punish the wilfull neglect of it, and yet at the same time be guilty of the same sin; or that he should undertake to govern the Church of God that could not well rule his own house, 1 Tim. 3. 5. And this was not onely a great sin in it self, but a great scandal to the Israelites, who might by this great example easily be led into the same miscarriage; and moreover might not without colour of probability suspect the call of such a person, and conclude that God would not honour that man who should continue in such a visible contempt of his Law. And therefore it is no wonder that God was so angry at Moses for this sin. Quest. How came Moses to neglect this evident duty? Answ. From Zippo-

rahs averſeneſs to and dread of that painful, and, as ſhe thought, dangerous Ordinance of God, which ſhe her ſelf evidently diſcovers in this place; and the rather becauſe of the experience which ſhe had of it in her eldeſt Son. And as ſhe ſeems to have been a Woman of an eager and paſſionate temper, ſo Moſes was eminently meek and pliable and in this matter too indulgent to his Wife, eſpecially in her Fathers houſe, and therefore he put it off till a more convenient ſeaſon, when he might either perſwade or over-rule her therein. Which was a great fault, for God had obliged all the Children of Abraham not onely to the thing, but to the time alſo, to do it upon the eighth day, which ſeaſon Moſes had groſly and for ſome conſiderable time ſlipped, and ſo had preferred the pleaſing of his Wife before his Obedience to God.

Or, knife. Heb. made touch.

25 Then Zipporah g took a ſharp ‖ ſtone h, and cut off the foreskin of her ſon, and † caſt it at his feet i, and ſaid, ſurely a bloody husband art thou to me k.

g Perceiving the danger of her Husband, and the cauſe of it, and her Husband being diſenabled from performing that work, whether by ſome ſtroke or ſickneſs, or by the terrour of ſo diſmal and unexpected an apparition to him, and delays being highly dangerous, ſhe thought it better to do it her ſelf as well as ſhe could, rather than put it off a moment longer; whether becauſe the adminiſtration of that Sacrament was not confined to any kind or order of perſons, or becauſe, if it was ſo, ſhe did not apprehend it to be ſo, or becauſe ſhe thought this was the leaſt of two evils, and that it was ſafer to commit a circumſtantial errour, then to continue in a ſubſtantial fault. h Which ſhe took as next at hand in that ſtony Country, let none think this ſtrange, for not onely this work, but the cutting off of that part, which ſome uſed to do, was commonly performed with a flint or a ſharp ſtone, as is expreſly affirmed by Herodotus l. 2. Plin. 35. 12. See alſo Juvenal Satyr. 6. and Martial. Epigram. 3. 18. But the word may be rendred, a ſharp knife. See Joſ. 5. 2, 3. i The words are very ſhort and therefore ambiguous, and may be rendred, either thus, ſhe caſt her ſelf at his feet, either 1. At the feet of the Angel, as a ſuppliant for her Husbands Life. But it is moſt probable that ſhe directs this action and her following ſpeech to the ſame perſon. Or 2. The feet of her husband, to make requeſt to him that ſhe and her children might depart from him and return to her Father, which alſo he granted. But neither was ſhe of ſo humble a temper, nor at this time in ſo mild a frame, as to put her ſelf into ſuch a lowly poſture to her Husband, nor was ſhe likely to preſent her humble ſupplication to him to whom at the ſame time ſhe ſhewed ſuch ſcorn & indignation. Or rather thus, ſhe caſt it at his, i. e. her Husbands feet: it, either the Child. But that being tender and now in great pain, ſhe would not uſe it ſo roughly: Or rather the foreskin cut off, or at leaſt the blood which came from it: Which ſhe did in ſpight and anger againſt her Husband, as the cauſe of ſo much pain to the child and grief to her ſelf. k This ſome think ſhe ſpake to the Child, whom ſhe calls her Spouſe, as ſome late Rabbins affirm the Infant uſed to be called, when it was circumciſed; though they bring no competent proof for this uſage; or her Son, as the Hebrew word chathan ſignifies. But indeed that ſignifies onely a Son-in-law, as 1 Sam. 18. 18. which is not true nor proper here. Yet ſome make theſe to be the form or ſolemn words uſed in circumciſion, thou art a ſpouſe or a Son of bloods to me, i. e. made ſo to me by the blood of Circumciſion. But it doth not appear that this was the uſual form. Nor was it likely that ſhe being a Midianitiſh, not an Hebrew Woman, and doing this ſuddenly and in a rage, ſhould be ſo expert to know & ſo punctual to uſe the right form of words, when ſhe did not uſe a fit and decent carriage in the action, as appears by her caſting it at his feet. It is therefore more probable ſhe ſpoke thus to her Husband. And becauſe ſhe durſt not accuſe God, the author of this work, ſhe falls foul upon her Husband as the occaſion of it, and as a coſtly and bloody Husband to her, whoſe endangered Life ſhe was forced to redeem with blood, even the blood of her little Child, by which as he received a new Life after a ſort, ſo ſhe did anew and the ſecond time eſpouſe him; whence ſhe calls him chathan which properly ſignifies a ſpouſe, not an husband.

26 So he let him go l: then ſhe ſaid, A bloody husband thou art, becauſe of the circumciſion m.

l Or. He, i. e. God or the deſtroying Angel ſent from God, departed from him, i. e. from Moſes, and removed the tokens of Gods indignation, the ſickneſs or ſtroke laid upon him. m She both repeats and amplifies her former cenſure, and reproacheth not onely her Husband but alſo Gods Ordinance. Which perverſe and obſtinate ſpirit her Husband obſerving in her, and wiſely forecaſting how much diſturbance ſhe might give him in his great and difficult work in Egypt, he thought fit to ſend her and her Children back to her Father, as appears from Exodus 18. 1, 2, 3. In the Hebrew it is becauſe of the circumciſions, to wit, of her two Sons, who poſſibly were both circumciſed at this time, though it be not ſo expreſſed, but one being mentioned for an example, we are left to ſuppoſe the like concerning the other: Or, the circumciſion of this Child brings the other to her remembrance, and ſo ſhe upbraids him with both. Onely this doth more provoke her then it ſeems the other did, becauſe ſhe was forced to do this ſpeedily, and with her own hands, and that to a tender Infant, whereas the elder peradventure was circumciſed when he was more grown and ſtrong and able to bear the pain. Let none think it ſtrange that Zipporah ſhould quarrel ſo much at circumciſion, becauſe the Midianites were deſcended from Abraham, and therefore were circumciſed. For if they were ſo, it was done when they were grown up, about the 13th year of their age, from the example of Iſhmael, who was circumciſed at that age. But indeed it is more likely that thoſe people, being caſt out of Gods Covenant as to the benefit of it, would and did in a little time throw off the ſign of it, as having much more of pain and danger in it then of uſe and priviledge.

27 And the LORD ſaid to Aaron, Go into the wilderneſs to meet Moſes. And he went and met him in * the mount of God, and kiſſed him. * chap. 3. 1.

28 And Moſes told Aaron, all the words of the LORD, who had ſent him, and all the ſigns which he had Commanded him.

29 And Moſes and Aaron went, and gathered together all the Elders of the Children of Iſrael n.

n All of them whom they could eaſily and quickly bring together: Or all that were in thoſe parts. Of thoſe Elders. See Exod. 3. 16. and 24. 1, 9. and Numb. 11. 16.

30 And Aaron ſpake o all the words which the LORD had ſpoken unto Moſes, and did p the ſigns in the ſight of the people.

o Thus beginning to execute the Office which God had put upon him, which was to be Moſes his mouth or ſpokesman. p (i. e.) Aaron did them, as Moſes his Miniſter, or by the command and direction of Moſes.

31 And the people believed: and when they heard that the LORD had viſited q the children of Iſrael, and that he had looked upon their affliction, then * they bowed their heads and worſhipped r. * chap. 12. 27.

q (i. e.) Taken cognizance of their cauſe and condition and reſolved to deliver them. r Acknowledging and adoring the kindneſs and faithfulneſs of God therein.

CHAP. V.

1 AND afterward Moſes and Aaron a went in, and told Pharaoh b: Thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, Let my people go, that they may hold a feaſt c unto me in the wilderneſs.

a And with them ſome of the Elders of Iſrael, as may ſeem from Exod. 3. 18. though here onely the two chiefs be mentioned. Or, becauſe Moſes did not ſeem to be ſatisfied with the aſſiſtance of the Elders before offered him, Exod. 3. 18. God was pleaſed to give him a more acceptable aſſiſtant in their ſtead even Aaron his brother, Exod. 4. 14. b Either both ſucceſſively told him: Or Aaron did it immediately and with his tongue, Moſes by his interpreter, and by his command. c Or, offer a ſacrifice, as they expreſs it, ver. 3. and chap. 10. 9. For both went together and a good part of many ſacrifices was ſpent in feaſting before the Lord and unto the honour of the Lord. See Deut. 12. 6, 7, 11, 12.

2 And Pharaoh ſaid, * Who is the LORD, that I ſhould obey his voice d, to let Iſrael go? I know not the LORD, neither will I let Iſrael go. * Job 21. 15.

d I am the ſoveraign Lord of Egypt, and I own no ſuperiour here.

3 And they ſaid, The God of the Hebrews hath met with us e, let us go, we pray thee, three days journey into the deſart, and ſacrifice unto the LORD our God, leſt he fall upon us f with peſtilence, or with the ſword.

e (i. e.) Hath appeared to us lately, and laid this command upon us. Others, is called upon us, i. e. his name is called upon us, or we are called by his name. But why ſhould Moſes ſo ſolemnly tell that to Pharaoh which all the people knew, to wit, that the Hebrews did Worſhip the God of the Hebrews? And our Tranſlation is confirmed by comparing this with Exod. 3. 18. where this very meſſage is preſcribed. f Leſt he puniſh either us if we diſobey his command, or thee, if thou hindereſt us from obeying it: But this latter they onely imply as being eaſily gathered from the former.

4 And the King of Egypt ſaid unto them, Wherefore do ye, Moſes and Aaron, let the people from their works? Get you unto your burdens g.

g Either 1. Ye, the Elders of Iſrael, who are here come with Moſes and Aaron: ſee ver. 1. Or, 2. Ye. Moſes and Aaron. So far am I from granting the liberty which you desire for the people, that as a just punishment upon you for your seditious attempt, I command you also to go with the rest, and to take your share in their burdens, and to perform the task which shall be required of you. And that so cruel a Tyrant did not proceed further against them, must be ascribed to the mighty power of God who governs the spirits and restrains the hands of the greatest Kings, when he pleaseth.

for

5 And Pharaoh said, Behold, the people of the land now are many h, and you make them rest from their burdens.

h The Israelites in this Land are very numerous, and therefore it were a madness in me to permit them all to meet and go together, as you desire, which may tend to the ruin of my whole Kingdom, and probably it is designed by you to that purpose. Or, Therefore your injury to me is the greater in attempting to rob me of the benefit of their labours. This I prefer, because it suits best with the following words.

6 And Pharaoh commanded the same day the task-masters of the people, and their officers *, saying.

* The Task-masters were Egyptians, and the Officers were Israelites under officers to them, ver. 14, 15, 19.

7 Ye shall no more give the people straw to make brick i as heretofore: let them go and gather straw for themselves.

i The straw was used either to mingle with the clay, that it might not be too brittle: or to cover the Clay when it was formed into Bricks, that the heat of the Sun might not dry them too much, which might easily be done in that hot Country: Or for fewel either wholly or in part to burn their bricks with, straw being abundant there and much used for that purpose.

8 And the tale of the bricks which they did make heretofore, you shall lay upon them: you shall not diminish ought thereof: for they be idle, therefore they cry, saying, Let us go and sacrifice to our God.

† Heb. let the work be heavy upon the men.

9 † Let there more work be laid upon the men, that they may labour therein, aud let them not regard vain words k.

k The words of Moses and Aaron which are vain, or false, i. e. which they falsly pretend to come from God, when it is onely an ill design of their own to advance themselves by raising sedition.

10 And the task-masters of the people went out, and their officers, and they spake to the people, saying, Thus saith Pharaoh, I will not give you straw.

11 Go ye, get you straw where you can find it: yet not ought of your work shall be diminished.

12 So the people were scattered abroad throughout all the land of Egypt *, to gather stubble in stead of straw.

* (i. e.) All that part of it: which is a very usual Synecdoche.

13 And the task-masters hasted them, saying, Fulfill your works, your † daily tasks, as when there was straw.

14 And the officers of the children of Israel, which Pharaohs tasks-masters had set over them, were beaten, and demanded, Wherefore have ye not fulfilled your task in making brick, both yesterday, and to day, as heretofore?

15 Then the officers of the children of Israel came and cryed unto Pharaoh, saying, wherefore dealest thou thus with thy servants?

16 There is no straw given unto thy servants, and they say to us, Make brick: and behold, thy servants are beaten; but the fault is in thine own people l.

l (i. e.) The Egyptian task-masters, who by sending us abroad to gather straw hinder us from doing the work which they require: And so they are both unjust and unreasonable. They charge the task-masters, not the King, either in civility and duty casting his fault upon the instruments: or because they did not know or at best not believe that this was the Kings act. Others. Thy people, i. e. the Egyptians, make themselves guilty, and will bring the vengeance of God upon them for their cruelty.

17 But he said, ye are idle, ye are idle: therefore ye say, Let us go and do sacrifice to the LORD.

18 Go therefore now and work, for there shall no straw be given you: yet shall ye deliver the tale of bricks.

19 And the officers of the children of Israel did see that they were in evil case m, after it was said, ye shall not minish ought from your bricks of your daily task.

m Or, looked upon them with sadness or with an evil eye, i. e. with a sorrowful and angry countenance, as those that could obtain no relaxation for themselves or for their brethren.

20 And they met Moses and Aaron, who stood in the way, as they || came forth from Pharaoh:

|| The Officers who went to pour out their complaints to Pharaoh, ver. 15.

21 And they said unto them, The LORD look upon you, and judge, because you have made our savour † to be abhorred in the eyes of Pharaoh, and in the eyes of his servants, to put a sword in their hand to slay us n.

† Heb. to stink Gen. 34. 30.

n To give them, what they have long sought and thirsted after, to wit, an occasion to destroy and root us out.

22 And Moses returned unto the LORD o, and said, Lord, wherefore hast thou so evil intreated this people p? why it is that thou hast sent me?

o To expostulate with him and pray to him. To the people he saith nothing, but meekly passeth by their severe censures, as forced from them by intolerable oppression, and because their minds being now imbitter'd and exasperated they were uncapable of admonition. p By giving occasion to their greater bondage. He expostulates the matter with God not from pride and arrogance, as one that would censure and condemn his actions, but from zeal for Gods glory and his peoples happiness, as one that would prevail with God to relieve them. Though it must be confessed that Moses exceeded his bounds being transported with grief and passion, which the gracious God was pleased to pass by.

23 For since I came to Pharaoh to speak in thy Name q, de hath done evil to this people, neither hast thou † delivered thy people at all r.

q Not of my own head, but by thy command and commission. r According to thy promise and mine and the peoples just expectation.

* Quest. How is this true, when God was known to them and called by the name Jehovah, Gen. 15. 7. and 26. 24. &c. Ans. 1. He speaks not of the letters or syllables, but of the thing signified by the name. For that denotes all his perfections, and, amongst others, the eternity, constancy and immutability of his nature and will, and the infallible certainty of his word and promises. And this saith he, though it was believed by Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, yet it was not experimentally known to them: for they onely saw the promises afar off, Heb. 11. 13. Ans. 2. This negative expression may be understood comparatively, as many others are, as Gen. 32. 29. Mat. 9. 13. 1 Cor. 1. 17. q. d. They knew this but darkly and imperfectly, which will now be made known more clearly and fully.

chap. 2. 24. 5 And * I have alſo heard the groaning of the children of Iſrael, whom the Egyptians keep in bondage, and I have remembred my Covenant.

6 Wherefore ſay unto the Children of Iſrael, I am the LORD, and I will bring you out from under the burdens of the Egyptians, and I will rid you out of their bondage, and I will redeem you with a ſtretched out arm b, and with great judgments c.

7 And I will take you to me for a people d, and I will be to you a God e: and ye ſhall know that I am the LORD your God, which bringeth you out from under the burdens of the Egyptians.

d (i. e.) For my people: you ſhall no longer be the people and ſlaves of the King of Egypt, but my people and ſervants, whom I will bleſs and preſerve. e To judge and deliver you.

Heb. lift up my hand. ee Gen. 14. 22. Deut. 32. 40. Gen. 15. 14. & 46. 3. & 35. 12. 8 And I will bring you in unto the land concerning the which I did † ſwear * to give it to Abraham, to Iſaac, and to Jacob, and I will give it you for an heritage. I am the LORD f.

f And therefore have authority and power to diſpoſe of lands and kingdoms, as I pleaſe; and faithful to give you what I have promiſed.

Heb. ſhortneſs / ſtraitneſs. 9 And Moſes ſpake ſo unto the children of Iſrael: but they hearkened not unto Moſes, for † anguiſh of ſpirit g, and for cruel bondage.

g Their minds were ſo oppreſſed with their preſent burdens and future expectations, that they could not believe nor hope for any deliverance, but deemed it impoſſible, and having been once deceived in their hopes they now quite deſpaired, and thought their entertainment of new hopes or uſe of further endeavours would make their condition worſe; as it had done.

10 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

11 Go in, ſpeak unto Pharaoh King of Egypt, that he let the children of Iſrael go out of his land.

12 And Moſes ſpake before the LORD, ſaying, Behold the children of Iſrael have not hearkened unto me, how then ſhall Pharaoh hear me, * who am of uncircumciſed lips h:

* chap. 4. 10.

h (i. e.) Of polluted lips. Uncircumciſion, being a great defect and blemiſh, wh reby men were rendred profane, contemptible, and unfit for many ſervices and privileges, may note any defect, whether moral and of the Spirit, or natural and of the body. So here it notes Moſes his inability to cloath Gods commands in ſuch words as might prevail with Pharaoh. But this was a great weakneſs of faith, as if God could not effect his purpoſe, becauſe the inſtrument was unfit.

i This genealogy he deſcribes here to ſhew the linage of Moſes and Aaron, by whom this great work was to be effected. Onely he premiſeth in brief the genealogy of his two elder brethren, Reuben and Simeon, to make way for the third, which he intended more largely to inſiſt upon. And he mentions them rather than any other, either to advance the favour of God in preferring that tribe before the deſcendants of their elder brethren: or to ſhew that, although the parents were ſharply cenſured and rather curſed than bleſſed by Jacob, Gen 49. yet their poſterity was not rejected by God, but received to mercy, and admitted to the ſame priviledge with their brethren.

And eſpecially there were many marriages made between the Tribes of Judah and Levi, to ſignifie that both were united in Chriſt, who was to be both King and Prieſt. It is obſervable that Moſes is here ſilent in his own progeny, but gives a particular account of his brothers, not onely from his great humility and modeſty, which ſhines forth in many other paſſages, but becauſe it was of more concernment, and the honour of Prieſthood given to Aaron was to be hereditary and peculiar to his ſeed, and therefore it was neceſſary they ſhould be exactly known, whereas Moſes his honour and government was onely perſonal, and did not paſs to his children.

CHAP. VII.

1 AND the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, See I have made thee a god to Pharaoh a, and Aaron thy brother ſhall be thy Prophet b.

a To repreſent my perſon, to act like God, by requiring his obedience to thy commands, and by puniſhing his diſobedience with ſuch puniſhments as none but God can inflict, to which end thou ſhalt have my omnipotent aſſiſtance. b (i. e.) Thy Interpreter, or ſpokeſman, as chap 4. 16. to deliver thy commands to Pharaoh.

2 Thou ſhalt ſpeak all that I command thee, and Aaron thy brother ſhall ſpeak unto Pharaoh, that he ſend c the children of Iſrael out of his land.

c Heb. and he will ſend or diſmiſs, to wit, at laſt, being forced to it. Succeſs ſhall attend your endeavours.

3 And I will harden Pharaohs heart, and multiply my ſigns, and my wonders in the land of Egypt.

4 But Pharaoh ſhall not hearken unto you, that I may lay my hand upon Egypt, and bring forth mine armies, and my people the children of Iſrael *chap. 6. 6. out of the land of Egypt, * by great judgments.

5 And the Egyptians ſhall know that I am the LORD, when I ſtretch forth mine hand upon Egypt, and bring out the children of Iſrael from among them.

6 And Moſes and Aaron did as the LORD commanded them, ſo did they d.

d An emphatical repetition to ſhew their courage in attempting to ſay and do ſuch things to ſo great a Monarch in his own dominions, and their fidelity in the execution of all Gods commands.

7 And Moſes was fourſcore years old, and Aaron fourſcore and three years old, when they ſpoke unto Pharaoh e.

e The ages of Moſes and Aaron here, as of Levi and Kohath chap. 6. 16, 18. and before them of Jacob and Joſeph, are ſo exactly ſet down, that thence we may underſtand the accompliſhment of Gods prediction, Gen. 15. 13. and the time of Iſraels being in Egypt.

8 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, and unto Aaron, ſaying,

9 When Pharaoh ſhall ſpeak unto you, ſaying, Shew a miracle for you: then thou ſhalt ſay unto *chap. 4. 2, 17. Aaron f, * Take thy rod g, and caſt it before Pharaoh, and it ſhall become a ſerpent h.

f By whoſe hands this and other miracles were to be done, and not by Moſes immediately, partly to take off the ſuſpition that theſe miracles were wrought by ſome magical artifice of Moſes; and partly for the greater honour of Moſes, that he might be, what God had ſaid, ver. 1. a God to Pharaoh, who not onely could work wonders himſelf, but alſo give power to others to do ſo. g The ſame rod is called the rod of God, and of Moſes, and of Aaron, here and ver. 12. becauſe it was appointed and as it were conſecrated by God, and uſed both by Moſes and Aaron in their great works. And this rod Moſes ordinarily held in his hand, and delivered it to Aaron upon occaſion, for the execution of his commands. h Heb. A dragon, which is a great ſerpent: Others, a Crocodile, to whoſe jaws he had expoſed the Iſraelitiſh Infants.

10 And Moſes and Aaron went in unto Pharaoh, and they did ſo as the LORD had commanded: and Aaron caſt down his rod before Pharaoh, and before his ſervants, and it became a ſerpent.

11 Then Pharaoh alſo called the wiſemen * and the ſorcerers: now the Magicians i of Egypt, they alſo did in like manner k with their inchantments.

* Under which general title he ſeems to comprehend all who were moſt eminent in any ſort of wiſdome either natural, or civil, or divine, who were all called to give their opinion and advice in theſe matters. i The ſame now called ſorcerers, who acted by the power of the Devil, whom by certain rites and ceremonies they engaged to their aſſiſtance. Of theſe the two chief were Jannes and Jambres, 2 Tim. 3. 8. k In ſhew and appearance, which was not difficult for the devil to do either by altering the air and the ſpectators ſight, and by cauſing their rods both to look and move like ſerpents: or by a ſudden and ſecret conveyance of real ſerpents thither, and removing the rods. Nor is it ſtrange that God permitted thoſe deluſions, partly becauſe it was a juſt puniſhment upon the Egyptians for their horrid and manifold Idolatry, and barbarous cruelty towards the Iſraelites, and their other wickedneſs, and partly becauſe there was a ſufficient difference made between their impoſtures, and the real miracles wrought by Moſes and Aaron, as appears from the next verſe and from chap. 8. 18. and from other paſſages. And this is a great evidence of the truth of Scripture-ſtory, and that it was not written by fiction and deſign. For if Moſes had written theſe books to deceive the world, and to advance his own reputation, (as ſome have impudently ſaid) it is ridiculous to think that he would have put in this and many other paſſages, which might ſeem ſo much to eclipſe his honour and the glory of his works.

12 For they caſt down every man his rod, and they became ſerpents l: but Aarons rod ſwallowed up their rods m.

l Either 1. in appearance. For the Scripture oft ſpeaks of things otherwiſe then they are, becauſe they ſeem to be ſo. And therefore as the Devil appearing to Saul in the likeneſs of Samuel is called Samuel, ſo may theſe rods upon the ſame account be called Serpents, becauſe through Diabolical illuſion they ſeemed to be ſo. Or 2. really in manner expreſſed, ver. 11. m By which it was evident, either that Aarons rod was turned into a real ſerpent, becauſe it had the real properties and effects of a ſerpent, viz. to devour; or, at leaſt, that the God of Iſrael was infinitely more powerful then the Egyptian Idols or Devils.

13 And he † hardened Pharaohs heart that he hearkened not unto them, * as the LORD had * chap. 4.
ſaid.

† The Lord to whom this act of hardening is frequently aſcribed both in this book and elſewhere.

14 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, * Pharaohs * chap. 8. heart is hardened n: he refuſeth to let the people & 10. 1, 2 go.

n Is obſtinate and reſolved in his way, ſo as neither my word nor works can make any impreſſion upon him.

15 Get thee unto Pharaoh in the morning, lo he goeth out unto the water o, and thou ſhalt ſtand by the rivers brink, againſt he come: and the rod which was turned to a ſerpent, ſhalt thou take in thine hand.

o (i. e.) Nilus, whither he went at that time, either for his recreation: or to pay his morning-worſhip to that river, which the Egyptians had in great veneration, as Plutarch teſtifies.

16 And thou ſhalt ſay unto him, The LORD God of the Hebrews hath ſent me unto thee, ſaying, Let my people go, * that they may ſerve me in * chap. 3. 12 the wilderneſs: and behold, hitherto thou wouldeſt not hear. 18. & 5. 1, 3

17 Thus ſaith the LORD, In this thou ſhalt know that I am the LORD p: * behold, I will * chap. 4.
ſmite q with the rod that is in my hand, upon the waters which are in the river r, and they ſhall be turned * to blood s. * Rev. 16.

p Becauſe thou ſaidſt, Who is the Lord? and, I know not the Lord, chap. 5. 2. thou ſhalt know him experimentally and to thy coſt. q viz. by Aarons hand, who ſhall do it by my command and direction. Thus Pilate is ſaid to give Chriſts body to Joſeph, Mark. 15. 45. becauſe he commanded it to be delivered by others to him. The ſame action is aſcribed to the principal and inſtrumental cauſe. r Nilus, which was one of their principal Gods; and therefore it was inexcuſable in them, that they would not renounce thoſe feeble Gods which were unable to help not onely their worſhippers, but even themſelves, nor embrace the ſervice and commands of that God who's almighty power they ſaw and felt. s Which was a very grievous Plague to them; both becauſe it was an eternal diſhonour to their Religion, and becauſe from hence they had both their drink, Deut. 11. 10, 11. Jer. 2. 18. and their meat, Numb. 11. 5. for greater and leſſer cattel they would not eat, Exod. 8. 26. And it was a very proper puniſhment for them, who had made that river an inſtrument for the execution of their bloody deſign againſt the Iſraelitiſh infants, Exod. 1. 22.

18 And the fiſh that is in the river ſhall die, and the river ſhall ſtink, and the Egyptians t ſhall loath u to drink of the water of the river.

t Therefore the Iſraelites were free from this plague, and thoſe branches of Nilus which they uſed were uncorrupted, when all others were turned into bloud. u Or, ſhall weary themſelves, in running hither and thither in hopes of finding water in ſome parts or branches of the river.

19 And

19 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, Say unto Aaron, Take thy rod, and ſtretch out thine hand upon the waters of Egypt, upon their ſtreams, upon their rivers, and upon their ponds, and upon all their † pools of water x, that they may become blood, and that there may be blood throughout all the land of Egypt, both in veſſels of wood, and in veſſels of ſtone.

x Not that he was to go to every pool to uſe this ceremony there, but he ſtretched his hand and rod over ſome of them in the name of all the reſt, which he might ſignifie either by his words, or by the various motions of his rod ſeveral ways.

20 And Moſes and Aaron did ſo, as the LORD commanded: and he * lift up the rod, and ſmote the waters that were in the river, in the ſight of Pharaoh, and in the ſight of his ſervants: and all the * waters that were in the river, were turned to blood.

* chap. 17. 5.

* Pſal. 78. 44. and 105. 29.

21 And the fiſh that was in the river died: and the river ſtunk, and the Egyptians could not drink of the water of the river, and there was blood throughout all the land of Egypt.

22 * And the Magicians of Egypt did ſo with their inchantments y and Pharaohs heart was hardened: neither did he hearken unto them, as the LORD had ſaid.

* Wiſd. 17. 7.

y It was not difficult for the Devil to convey blood ſpeedily and unperceivably and that in great quantity: which might ſuffice to infect with a bloody colour thoſe ſmall parcels of water which were left for them to ſhew their art in. Qu. Whence could they have water, when all their waters were turned into blood? Anſw. 1. It might be had, either 1. by rain, which at that time God was pleaſed to ſend down either for this purpoſe, or to mitigate the extremity of the plague, or for other reaſons known to him though not to us. For that rain ſometimes falls in Egypt, though not much, nor often, is affirmed by antient writers, and late travellers. Or 2. from Goſhen, which was not far from the Court, or from ſome houſes of the Iſraelites, who dwelt amongſt the Egyptians, as appears from many places of this hiſtory, and who were free from theſe Plagues. See Exod 8. 22. and 9. 26. and 10. 23. and 12. 13. &c Or 3. from the pits which they digged. ver. 24. Or 4. from ſome branch of Nilus, or ſome veſſels in their houſes, whoſe waters were not yet changed: For this change might be wrought not ſuddenly (which is not affirmed in this relation) but by degrees, which God might ſo order for this very end that the Magicians might have matter for the trial of their experiment.

23 And Pharaoh turned, and went into his houſe, neither did he ſet his heart to this z alſo.

z He did not ſeriouſly conſider it, nor the cauſes or cure of this plague, and was not much affected with it, becauſe he ſaw this fact exceeded not the power of his Magicians.

24 And all the Egyptians digged round about the river for water to drink ‖: for they could not drink of the water of the river.

‖ It is not much material to us, whether they loſt their labour, and found onely blood there, as Joſephus affirms; or whether they ſucceeded, and found water there, which ſeems more probable, becauſe theſe come not within the compaſs of Moſes his commiſſion, ver. 17, 19, 20. or whether they found the water ſomething purified and leſs bloody, though mixed with blood. But it is obſervable, that though the Devil could do ſomething which might increaſe the plague, or imitate it, yet he could do nothing to remove it.

25 And ſeven days were fulfilled † after that the LORD had ſmitten the river.

† Ere all the waters of Egypt were perfectly free from this infection. Queſt. How could the Egyptians ſubſiſt ſo long without water? Anſ. 1. Philo tells us, that many of them died of this plague. 2. As the plague might come on, ſo it might go off by degrees, and ſo the water, though mixed with blood, might give them ſome relief 3. The juyces of herbs, and other liquors, which were untouched with this plague, might refreſh them. 4 They might have ſome water, either from their pits, or by rain from heaven, as was ſaid before; or from Goſhen: for though it be ſaid, that the blood was in all their veſſels, ver. 19. yet it is not ſaid, that all that ſhould afterwards be put into them, ſhould be turned into blood.

CHAP. VIII.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, Go unto Pharaoh, and ſay unto him, Thus ſaith the LORD, let my people go, that they may ſerve me.

2 And if thou refuſe to let them go, behold, I will ſmite all thy borders a with * frogs.

* Rev. 16. 13.

a All thy land, which is within thy borders. A Synecdoche, ſo that word is uſed alſo, Exod. 10. 14. 19. 1 King. 1. 3. Pſal 147. 14. Jer. 15. 13. So the gate and the wall are put for the city to which they belong, Gen. 22. 17. Amos 1. 7, 10, 14.

3 And the river b ſhall bring forth frogs abundantly, which ſhall go up and come into thine houſe, and into thy bedchamber c, and upon thy bed, and into the houſe of thy ſervants, and upon thy people, and into thine ovens, and into thy ‖ kneading-troughs.

b Under which are comprehended all other rivers, ſtreams, and ponds, as appears from ver. 5. But the River Nilus is mentioned, becauſe God would make that an inſtrument of their miſery, in which they moſt gloried, Ezek. 29. 3. and to which they gave divine honours, and which was the inſtrument of their cruelty againſt the Iſraelites, chap. 1. 22. c Either becauſe God made the doors and windows to fly open, which it is eaſie to believe concerning God, ſeeing this hath been many times done by evil Angels; or becauſe whenſoever men entred into any houſe or any room of their houſe, which their occaſions would oft force them to do, the frogs, being alwayes at their heels in great numbers, would go in with them. This plague was worſe than the former, becauſe it was more conſtant and more general; for the former was onely in the waters, and did onely moleſt them when they went to drink or uſe the water, but this infected all liquors and all places, and at all times, and annoyed all their ſenſes with their filthy ſubſtance and ſhape and noiſe and ſtink, and mingled themſelves with their meats and ſauces and drinks, and crawling into their beds made them reſtleſs. And many of them probably were of a more ugly ſhape and infectious nature than ordinary.

4 And the frogs ſhall come up both on thee, and upon thy people d, and upon all thy ſervants.

d Not upon the Iſraelites, whom he hereby exempts from the number of Pharaohs people and ſubjects, and owns them for his peculiar people. The frogs did not only invade their houſes, but aſſault their perſons, which is not ſtrange, conſidering that they were armed with a divine commiſſion and power.

5 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes e, Say unto Aaron, Stretch forth thine hand with thy rod over the ſtreams, over the rivers, and over the ponds, and cauſe frogs to come up upon the land of Egypt.

e By inward inſtinct or ſuggeſtion to his mind; for he was now in the Kings preſence.

6 And Aaron ſtretched out his hand over the waters of Egypt, and * the frogs came up, and covered the land of Egypt.

* Pſal. 78. 45. and 105. 30.

7 * And the Magicians did ſo with their inchantments f, and brought up frogs upon the land of Egypt.

* Wiſd. 17. 7.

f Nor was it hard for the Devil to produce them out of their own ſpawn and the ſlime of the river.

8 Then Pharaoh called for Moſes and Aaron, and ſaid, Intreat the LORD, that he may take away the frogs from me, and from my people; and I will let the people go, that they may do ſacrifice unto the LORD.

9 And Moſes ſaid unto Pharaoh, ‖ Glory over me g: * When ſhall I intreat for thee h, and for thy ſervants, and for thy people, to † deſtroy the frogs from thee and thy houſes, that they may remain in the river only?

‖ Or, have this honour over me. * Or, againſt whom † Heb. to cut off.

g As I have gloried over thee in laying firſt my commands, and then my plagues upon thee, ſo now lay thy commands upon me for the time of my praying, and if I do not what thou requireſt, I am content thou ſhouldeſt inſult over me, and puniſh me. Or Glory, or boaſt thy ſelf of, or concerning me, as one that by Gods power can do that for thee which all thy Magicians cannot, of whom therefore thou now ſeeſt thou canſt not glory nor boaſt as thou haſt hitherto done. h Appoint me what time thou pleaſeſt. Hereby he knew that the hand and glory of God would be more conſpicuous in it. And this was no preſumption in Moſes, becauſe he had a large commiſſion, chap. 7. 1. and alſo had particular direction from God in all that he ſaid or did in theſe matters.

‖ Or, againſt to morrow.

10 And he ſaid, ‖ To morrow i. And he ſaid, Be it according to thy word, that thou mayeſt know that there is none like unto the LORD our God.

i Why not preſently? Anſw. 1. Becauſe he hoped e're that time they might be removed either by naturall cauſes or by chance, and ſo he ſhould not need the favour of Moſes or his God. 2. Becauſe he thought it an hard and long work to remove ſo vaſt a number of frogs, and that Moſes might uſe divers Ceremonies, as the Magicians did, in his addreſſes to God, which would require ſome conſiderable time.

11 And the frogs ſhall depart from thee, and from thy houſes, and from thy ſervants, and from thy people; they ſhall remain in the river only.

12 And Moſes and Aaron went out from Pharaoh, and Moſes cryed unto the LORD k, becauſe of the frogs which he had brought againſt Pharaoh l.

k Though he was aſſured that the frogs would depart at his word, yet he would uſe the means appointed by God for the accompliſhment of it. l Or, as the place is fitly rendred by others, becauſe of the word or matter of or about the frogs which he had given or propounded to Pharaoh. Becauſe he had given his word both for the thing and the time of it, he prayed more earneſtly, leſt God ſhould be diſhonoured and Pharaoh have occaſion of triumph. The Hebrew verbs to put and to give are frequently exchanged, as appears by comparing 1 King. 10. 9. with 2 Chron. 9. 8. and Iſa. 42. 1. with Mat. 12. 18.*

13 And the LORD did according to the word of Moſes: and the frogs died out of the houſes m, out of the villages, and out of the fields.

m A ſhort ſpeech for, they died and were removed out of, &c. as appears from the next verſe. It being frequent in the Hebrew tongue under one verb expreſſed to underſtand another agreeable to it. See Examples in the Hebrew, Gen. 43. 33, 34. Exod. 18. 12. and 25. 2. Prov. 25. 22.

14 And they gathered them together upon heaps n, and the land ſtank.

n Which doubtleſs they caſt into their rivers, or pits, &c. though that be not here mentioned. God would not inſtantly and wholly take them away, both to convince them of the truth of the miracle, and to make them more ſenſible of this judgment and more fearful of bringing another upon themſelves.

15 But when Pharaoh ſaw that there was reſpite, * he hardened his heart, and hearkened not unto them, as the LORD had ſaid.

* chap. 7. 14.

16 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Say unto Aaron o, Stretch out thy rod, and ſmite the duſt of the land, that it may become lice p throughout all the land of Egypt.

o God, it ſeems, gave him no warning, becauſe he ſhewed himſelf in the very laſt plague to be both perfideous and incorrigible. Others think, he was forewarned, though that be not here expreſſed. p So the Hebrew word is rendred by all the Jewiſh and moſt other Interpreters. But it is probable, that what is ſaid of the locuſts, Exod. 10. 14. was true of theſe, that they were much more loathſome and troubleſome then ordinary.

17 And they did ſo: for Aaron ſtretched out his hand with his rod, and ſmote the duſt q of the earth, and it became lice, in man and in beaſt: all the duſt of the land * became lice, throughout all the land of Egypt.

q Which was not fit matter to produce lice, and therefore ſhews this work to be divine and miraculous. * i. e. A great part of it, the word all being commonly ſo underſtood in Scripture.

18 And the Magicians did ſo r with their inchantments to bring forth lice, but they could not s: ſo there were lice upon man and upon beaſt.

r (i. e.) Indeavoured to do ſo. Thus to enter, Mat. 7. 13. is put for ſtriving to enter, Luk. 13. 24. Thus men are ſaid to deliver, Gen. 37. 21. to fight, Joſ. 24. 9. to return, Joſ. 10. 15. when they onely attempted or endeavoured to do ſo. And therefore when it is ſaid in any of the plagues that the Magicians did ſo, it is not to be underſtood, that they really did the ſame thing, but that they endeavoured to do ſo, and that they did ſomething which looked like it. s It was as eaſie for them to produce lice as frogs, but God hindred them, partly to confound them and their deviliſh arts, and to ſhew that what they did before was only by his permiſſion, and partly to convince Pharaoh and the Egyptians of their vanity in truſting to ſuch impotent Magicians, and in oppoſing that God who could controll and confound them, when he pleaſed.

19 Then the Magicians ſaid unto Pharaoh, This is * the finger t of God u. And Pharaohs heart was hardened, and he hearkened not unto them x, as the LORD had ſaid.

* 1 Sam. 6.

t Which is put either Synecdochically for the hand, as it is Exod. 31. 18. Pſal. 8. 3. and 144. 1. or metaphorically for the power or vertue, as Luk. 11. 20. compared with Mat. 12. 28. u Of that ſupreme God, whom both the Egyptians and other heathen Idolaters, acknowledged as ſuperiour to all men and Idols and Devils. This they ſaid, leſt they ſhould be thought inferiour to Moſes and Aaron in magical art. But hereby they own the ſoveraign God to be on Iſraels ſide, and yet like the Devils they proceed to fight againſt him. x Either to his Magicians, of whom he laſt ſpake: or rather, to Moſes and Aaron, as the following words ſhew. For relatives oft belong to the remoter antecedents, as Gen. 19. 13. 1 Sam. 7. 17. Mark 2. 13.

y Heb. a mixture, of inſects or flies, as appears from Pſal. 78. 45. which were of various kinds, as bees, waſps, gnats, hornets, &c. infinite in their numbers, and doubtleſs larger, and more venomous and pernicious than the common ones were.

Or rather 2. of Goſhen, the words being properly thus rendred, that I the Lord am in the midſt of that land, to wit, the land of Goſhen now ſpoken of, to defend and preſerve it. For God is ſaid to be in the midſt of them whom he protects. Deut. 7. 21. and 23. 14. Joſ. 3. 10. Pſal. 46. 5. and not to be in the midſt of others whom he forſakes and deſigns or threatens to deſtroy, Num. 14. 42. Deut. 1. 42. and 31. 17. i For we know not what kind or number of ſacrifices to offer to him, till we come thither.

28 And Pharaoh ſaid, I will let you go, that ye may ſacrifice to the LORD your God in the wilderneſs: only you ſhall not go very far away: intreat for me.

29 And Moſes ſaid, Behold, I go out from thee, and I wiſl intreat the Lord, that the ſwarms of flies may depart from Pharaoh, from his ſervants, and from his people to morrow: but let not Pharaoh deal deceitfully any more, in not letting the people go to ſacrifice unto the LORD.

30 And Moſes went out from Pharaoh, and intreated the LORD

31 And the LORD did according to the word of Moſes: and he removed the ſwarms of flies from Pharaoh, from his ſervants, and from his people: there remained not one.

32 And Pharaoh hardened his heart at this time alſo, neither would he let the people go.

CHAP. IX.

1 THEN the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Go in unto Pharaoh, and tell him, Thus ſaith the LORD God of the Hebrews, Let my people go, that they may ſerve me.

2 For if thou refuſe to let them go, and wilt hold them ſtill,

3 Behold the hand of the LORD a is upon thy cattle b which is in the field, upon the horſes, upon the aſſes, upon the camels, upon the oxen, and upon the ſheep: there ſhall be a very grievous murrain.

a In an immediate manner, not by my rod, that thou mayeſt know, it is not I, but the Lord, which doth all theſe things to thee. b Which they kept for their wool or milk, or manifold uſes and ſervices, though not for food and ſacrifice.

4 And * the LORD ſhall ſever between the cattle of Iſrael and the cattle of Egypt, and there ſhall nothing die of all that is the childrens of Iſrael.

* chap 8. 22.

5 And the LORD appointed a ſet time, ſaying, To morrow the LORD ſhall do this thing in the land.

6 And the LORD did that thing on the morrow, and * all c the cattle of Egypt died, but of the cattle of the children of Iſrael died not one.

* Pſal. 78. 48.

c Either of all ſorts; or a very great number of them, as the word all is frequently uſed; or rather, all that were in the field, as it is expreſly limited, ver. 3. but not all abſolutely, as appears from ver. 9. 19, 25. and chap. 14. 23.

7 And Pharaoh ſent, and behold, there was not one of the cattel of the Iſraelites dead. And * the heart of Pharaoh was hardened, and he did not let the people go.

* chap. 7. 14.

8 And the Lord ſaid unto Moſes, and unto Aaron, Take to you handfuls of aſhes of the furnace d, and let Moſes e ſprinkle it towards the heaven, in the ſight of Pharaoh.

d To mind them of their cruel uſage of the Iſraelites in their furnace, of which ſee Deut. 4. 20. Jer. 11. 4. e Both were to take them up, but Moſes onely to ſprinkle them, as at other times Aaron onely did the work, to ſhew that they were but inſtruments, which God could uſe as he pleaſed, and God was the principal Authour of it.

9 And it ſhall become ſmall duſt in all the land of Egypt, and ſhall be a * boil breaking forth with blains f, upon man, and upon beaſt, throughout all the land of Egypt.

f A burning ſcab, which quickly raiſed blains and bliſters: whereby they were both vehemently inclined to ſcratch themſelves, and yet utterly diſenabled from it by its great ſoreneſs.

10 And they took aſhes of the furnance, and ſtood before Pharaoh, and Moſes ſprinkled it up toward heaven: and it became a * boil g breaking forth with blains, upon man, and upon beaſt.

* Deut. 28. 27.

g God multiplying that duſt and heating it and then diſperſing it over all the land and cauſing it to fall and reſt upon the bodies of the Egyptians.

11 And the Magicians could not ſtand before Moſes h, becauſe of the boiles: for the boil was upon the Magicians, and upon all the Egyptians.

h As they hitherto had done, both as ſpies and as adverſaries, for though their underſtandings were convinced of Gods hand and infinite power, yet their hearts were not changed, but for their worldly intereſt they perſiſted to rebel againſt their light, and therefore are juſtly plagued. It was no favour to Pharaoh, that the plague was not upon him, but onely a reſervation to a greater miſchief, as it follows.

12 And the LORD hardened the heart of Pharaoh, and he hearkened not unto them, * as the LORD had ſpoken unto Moſes.

* chap. 4. 21.

13 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Riſe up early in the morning, and ſtand before Pharaoh, and ſay unto him, Thus ſaith the LORD God of the Hebrews, Let my people go that they may ſerve me.

14 For I will at this time, ſend all my plagues upon thine heart i, and upon thy ſervants, and upon thy people: that thou mayeſt know that there is none like me in all the earth.

i Or, into thy heart: Thou haſt hitherto not felt my plagues upon thy own perſon, or thy body, but I ſhall ſhortly reach and wound it, and that not onely in the skin; as the magicians and others are now ſmitten, but even to thy heart, ſuch as ſhall make thy heart ſick, Mic. 6. 13. ſuch as ſhall give thee a mortal and irrecoverable wound. Some underſtand it of inward and ſpiritual judgments upon Pharaohs heart, ſuch as hardneſs of heart. But that plague had been inflicted upon him, and is recorded before this time. And Pharaohs heart being here oppoſed to his ſervants and people ſeems rather to denote his perſon, the heart or ſoul being often put Synecdochically for the whole man.

15 For now I will ſtretch out mine hand, that I may ſmite thee and thy people with peſtilence k, and thou ſhalt be cut off from the earth.

k (i. e.) Not properly ſo called, but largely, as the word is uſed Hoſ. 13. 14. with an utter and irrecoverable deſtruction. This relates partly to the killing of the firſt-born, which plague did more immediately and nearly concern both him and his people, and principally to their deſtruction in the Red Sea.

16 And in very deed, for this cauſe have I † raiſed thee up l, for to ſhew in thee my power m, and that my Name n may be declared throughout all the earth.

† Heb. made thee ſtand.

l So the Hebrew word is tranſlated; Rom. 9. 17. I have raiſed thee up out of thy firſt nothing into thy being and life and kingdom, and upheld thy being and reign even in the midſt of thy tyranny. Heb. I have made thee to ſtand, i. e. to remain alive and untouched, when thy Magicians could not ſtand, ver. 11. I have preſerved thee in life, not for want of power to deſtroy thee, as thou mayſt fancy, nor for want of provocation from thee, but for my own glory. m In thoſe mighty works which have been occaſioned by thy rebellion, and obſtinancy. n My being and providence, and my manifold perfections, my patience ence in bearing thee so long, my justice in punishing thee, my power in conquering thee, my wisdom in over-ruling thy pride and tyranny and cruelty to thy own destruction and the redemption of my oppressed people, and my faithfulness in making good my promises to them, and my threatnings to thee.

17 As yet exaltest thou thy self against my people o, that thou wilt not let them go?

o (i. e.) Against me acting for my people. The gracious God takes what is done to or against his people, as done to or against himself. See Zech. 2. 8. Matth. 25. 40, 45. Act. 9. 4, 5.

18 Behold, to morrow about this time I will cause it to rain a very grievous hail, such as hath not been in Egypt since the foundation thereof p, even until now.

p Since they were a Kingdom or a Nation.

19 Send therefore now, and gather thy cattel q, and all that thou hast in the field: for upon every man and beast which shall be found in the field, and shall not be brought home, the hail shall come down upon them, and they shall die.

q This forewarning God gives, partly to mitigate the severity of the judgment; partly that a considerable number of Horses might be reserved for Pharaohs expedition chap. 14 partly to shew the Justice of God in punishing so wicked and obstinate people, as would take no warning neither from Gods words, nor from his former works; and partly to make a difference between the penitent and the incorrigible Egyptians.

20 He that feared the word of the LORD amongst the servants of Pharaoh made his servants and his cattel flee into the houses.

† Heb. set not his heart unto.

21 And he that † regarded not the word of the LORD, left his servants and his cattel in the field.

22 And the LORD said unto Moses, stretch forth thine hand toward heaven, that there may be * hail in all the land of Egypt upon man r, and upon beast, and upon every herb of the field, throughout all the land of Egypt.

* Rev. 16. 21.

r (i. e.) Upon those men that presumed to continue in the field after this admonition.

23 And Moses stretched forth his hand toward heaven, and the LORD sent thunder and hail, and the fire ran along upon the ground s, and the LORD rained hail upon the land of Egypt.

s Devouring both Herbs and Cattel which were upon it Ps. 78. 47, 48. and 105. 32, 33.

24 So there was hail, and fire mingled with the hail t, very grievous, such as there was none like it, in all the land of Egypt, since it became a Nation u.

t Which strange mixture much increased the miracle. u For that Hail and Rain did sometimes, though but seldom, fall in Egypt, is attested by divers eye witnesses.

25 And the hail smote throughout all the land of Egypt, all that was in the field, both man and beast, and the hail smote every herb of the field, and brake every tree of the field x.

x (i. e.) Most of them, or Herbs and Trees of all sorts, as appears from chap. 10. 12, 15. See before ver. 6.

* chap. 8. 22. and 11. 7.

26 * Onely, in the land of Goshen y, where the children of Israel were, was there no hail.

y It seems the Egyptians that dwelt there were spared for the sake of their Neighbours the Israelites: Which great obligation probably made them more willing to lend their jewels to them, chap. 12. 35.

27 And Pharaoh sent, and called for Moses and Aaron, and said unto them, I have sinned this time y: the LORD is righteous, and I and my people are wicked.

y I now plainly see and freely acknowledge my sin in striving with God. He seems not to deny that he had sinned before, for even the light of nature would discover his sin in breaking his Faith and the word of a King given to Moses for Israels dismission.

† Heb. voices of God.

28 Intreat the LORD, (for it is enough) that there be no more z † mighty thundrings and hail, and I will let you go, and ye shall stay no longer.

z Or, and let it be enough, (let God content himself that he hath punished me so long, and that I have confessed my sin, and promised amendment) that there may be hereafter no more.

29 And Moses said unto him, Assoon as I am gone out of the City, I will spread abroad my hands unto the LORD, and the thunder shall cease, neither shall there be any more hail: that thou mayest know how that the * earth is the LORDS a.

* Psal. 24. 1.

a Or, that this land is the Lords, even his whom thou deniedst to have any jurisdiction in it, or over thee, Exod. 5. 2. Or the Earth is put for the World, the Heaven and the Earth, q. d. That thou mayst see that he can either cause the Heavens to send forth such Thunders and Hails, or restrain them, as he pleaseth.

30 But as for thee and thy servants, I know that ye will not yet fear the LORD God.

31 And the flax and the barly b was smitten: for the barly was in the ear, and the flax was boiled.

b Which were not so necessary for humane life as the Wheat and Rye. Thus God still sends smaller judgments to usher in the greater.

32 But the wheat and the rie were not smitten: for they were † not grown up c.

c The Hebrew word may be rendred either dark or hid, to wit, under the ground, whereby it was secured from this stroke: or late, as divers of the Hebrews and other Interpreters render it. This kind of Corn coming later up, was now tender and hidden either in the ground, or in the Herb: whereby it was in some measure secured both from the fire by its greenness and moisture, and from the hail by its pliableness and yielding to it, whereas the stalks of Barly were more dry and stiff, and therefore more lyable to the Hail and Fire.

33 And Moses went out of the City d from Pharaoh, and spread abroad his hands unto the LORD: and the thunders and hail ceased, and the rain was not poured upon the Earth.

d That being solitary he might pour forth his heart in fervent prayers.

34 And when Pharaoh saw that the rain, and the hail, and the thunders were ceased, he sinned yet more, and hardned his heart, he and his servants.

35 And the heart of Pharaoh was hardened; neither would he let the children of Israel go, as the LORD had spoken † by Moses.

† Heb. by the hand of Moses.

CHAP. X.

1 AND the LORD said unto Moses, Go in unto Pharaoh: for * I have hardened his heart, and the heart of his servants, that I might shew these my signs before him.

* chap. 4. and 7. 14.

2 And that * thou mayst tell in the ears of thy son * and of thy sons son, what things I have wrought in Egypt, and my signs which I have done amongst them: that ye may know how that I am the LORD.

* Psal. 78.

3 And Moses and Aaron came in unto Pharaoh, and said unto him, Thus saith the LORD God of the Hebrews, How long wilt thou refuse to humble thy self before me? Let my people go, that they may serve me.

4 Else, if thou refuse to let my people go, behold, to morrow will I bring the * locusts into thy coasts.

* Wisd. 16.

† Heb. eye.

5 And they shall cover the † face of the Earth, that one cannot be able to see the Earth, and * they shall eat the residue of that which is escaped a, which remaineth unto you from the hail, and shall eat every tree b which groweth for you out of the field.

* Joel. 1. 4.

a The Wheat and the Rye, the staffe of their lives. b The fruits and leaves of every tree.

6 And they shall fill thy houses, and the houses of all thy servants, and the houses of all the Egyptians, which neither thy fathers, nor thy fathers fathers have seen c, since the day that they were upon the Earth unto this day. And he turned himself, and went out from Pharaoh.

c Such for number, or shape, or mischievous effects, as were never seen before.

7 And Pharaohs servants said unto him, How long fathers have seen c, since the day that they were upon the Earth unto this day. And he turned himself, and went out from Pharaoh.

c Such for number, or shape, or mischievous effects, as were never seen before.

7 And Pharaohs servants saith unto him, How long shall this man be a snare d unto us? let the men go, that they may serve the LORD their God: knowest thou not yet, that Egypt is destroyed?

d An occasion of sin and destruction. See Exod. 23. 32. Jos. 23. 13.

8 And Moses and Aaron were brought again unto Pharaoh: and he said unto them, Go serve the LORD your God: but † who are they that shall go?

† Heb. who and who, &c.

9 And Moses said, We will go with our young, and with our old, with our sons, and with our daughters, with our flocks, and with our herds will we go, for we must hold a feast unto the LORD e.

e A feast upon a sacrifice, wherein all are concerned, and therefore all must be present and ready to do what God requires us.

10 And he said unto them, Let the LORD be so with you, as I will let you go f, and your little ones. Look to it, for evil is before you g.

f I wish God may be no more ready and willing to be with you and to do you good than I am willing to let you go. g Either 1. Evil of sin. You have some ill design against me, either to stir up Sedition or War against me, or utterly to depart out of my Kingdom. Or rather 2. Evil of calamity or mischief. 1. Because it is here said to be before their faces, whereas evil designs are in mens hearts, and the fair pretences wherewith they cover them are said to be before their faces. 2. The word of caution he gives to them, look to it or take heed, seems to imply that he speaks not of the evil they designed against Pharaoh, but of that which they would unavoidably bring upon themselves from so potent a King, by the refusal of such fair offers and continuing in such insolent and unreasonable demands.

11 Not so: go now ye that are men and serve the LORD, for that ye did desire †: and they were driven out from Pharaohs presence.

† Which was not true, but only was gathered by him out of their declared intention of going to sacrifice, wherein he thought the presence of the Women and Children wholly unnecessary.

12 And the LORD said unto Moses, stretch out thine hand over the land of Egypt for the locusts, that they may come up upon the land of Egypt, and eat every herb of the land h, even all that the hail hath left.

h This is no unusual Plague in Africa and Arabia, where, when the harvest is ripe, they frequently come in vast numbers and eat up all their Corn, and what they do not eat they infect with their touch and the moisture coming from them, and afterwards dying in great numbers they poison the Air and cause a pestilence. So that it is no wonder that Pharaoh and his Servants were so concerned for this Plague, so well known to them, especially considering, that this was like to be far worse then all of the same kind which they had either seen or heard of.

13 And Moses stretched forth his rod over the land i of Egypt, and the LORD brought an East-wind k upon the land, all that day, and all that night, and when it was morning, the East-wind brought the locusts.

i Over divers parts of the Land, shaking his rod towards the several quarters of it. k Which in those parts is a most violent and pernicious wind, Exod. 14. 21. Numb. 11. 31. and a dry wind, and therefore fit for the ingendring of those Creatures. This wind brought them from Arabia, where they are in great numbers, as we have seen ver. 12. though God miraculously increased their numbers and their power of doing mischief.

14 And * the locusts went up over all the land of Egypt, and rested in all the coasts of Egypt: very grievous were they: before them there were no such locusts as they, neither after them shall be such †

* Psal. 78. 46. 105. 34.

† Quest. How can this be true, when the same words are used of the locusts in Joels time? Answ. It might be true of both in divers respects, of these for number and quality, of them for long continuance, for they lasted three or four years, when these were but for a little time; of these for Egypt, of them for Judea, where they were fixed.

15 For they covered the face of the whole earth, so that the land was darkned l, and they did eat every herb of the land, and all the fruit of the trees, which the hail had left m, and there remained not any green thing in the trees, or in the herbs of the field, through all the land of Egypt.

l Either by their flying in vast numbers and so darkning the air, as they have oft-times done: or by covering the green and lightsome herbs and productions of the earth with their dark and direful bodies. m How could this be, when the hail had smitten every herb, and broken every tree, chap. 9. 25. Ans. 1. There seems to have been some distance of time between these two plagues, in which space, new productions might be sprouting forth both out of the ground and from the trees. 2 The words all and every are commonly understood of the greatest part.

16 Then Pharaoh † called for Moses and Aaron in haste n: and he said, I have sinned against the LORD your God, and against you o.

n Because this kind of plague in it self was most pernicious, whereby whole countries had been wasted, and grievous famines and pestilences caused, and was mightily aggravated by the vengeance of God, and by the peculiar quality of these Locusts, which did not only fall upon their herbs and fruits, as they use to do, but invade their very houses, ver. 6. infect their meats, fill their beds, poison them with their stink and with their venemous bitings, whereby they killed many men, as it is written in the book of Wisdom, chap. 16. ver. 19. o By contempt of your great and terrible works, by breach of my promise made to you, and by my denial of your just desires and commands given to me in his name whom I now find and feel to be the almighty and soveraign God.

17 Now therefore forgive, I pray thee, my sin only this once p, and intreat the LORD your God, that he may take away from me this death q only.

p I desire no further favour, I will no more offend nor need your pardon. q This deadly plague, compare 2 King. 4. 40. and 2 Cor. 11. 23. Besides it did destroy the life of herbs and trees, yea of beasts and men, either directly, or at least by consequence, in depriving them of the necessary supports of life.

18 And he went out from Pharaoh, and intreated the LORD.

19 And the LORD turned a mighty strong West-wind r, which took away the locusts, and † cast them s * into the Red-sea t: there remained not one locust in all the coasts of Egypt.

† Heb. hastned. * Joel 2. 20.

r Heb. a wind of the Sea, i. e. coming from the Sea, called there the great Sea, and the Mediterranean Sea, from whence came the North-west wind, which did blow the locusts directly into the Red-sea. s cast them, as the Hebrew word signifies, with a great noise, and with great force, so as they should never rise against to molest them. Heb. the sea of bulrushes, so called from the great number of bulrushes near its shore, Or the sea of bounds or limits, q. d. the narrow sea, whereas they could see no bounds nor shore beyond the Mediterranean Sea. It was called the Arabian gulf, and by others the Red-sea, either from its red sand; or rather from Esau, called also Edom, which signifies red, Gen. 25. 30. from whom as the adjoyning country was called Edom, or red, so this was called the Red-sea.

20 But the LORD * hardened Pharaohs heart, so that he would not let the children of Israel go.

* chap. 4. 21.

21 And the LORD said unto Moses, Stretch out thine hand toward heaven, that there may be darkness over the land of Egypt, † even darkness which may be felt u.

† Heb. that one may feel darkness.

u It is an hyperbolical expression, such being very frequent both in Scripture and in all authors. For darkness being only a privation cannot be properly felt, yet it might be felt in its cause, to wit, those thick and gross vapours which filled and infected the Air. But the place may be rendred thus, that there may be darkness —— after that (so the Hebrew Vau is sometimes used, as Mech. 7. 13.) the darkness (i. e. the darkness of the night, or the common and daily darkness) is departed or removed, and the time of the day come: for so the root, from whence this word may be derived, signifies, Exod. 13. 22. And to this purpose the words are rendred by the Chaldee and Syriak, and some others, and the sense is, that the darkness may continue in the day-time as well as in the night.

22 And Moses stretched forth his hand toward heaven: and there was a * thick darkness in all the land of Egypt three dayes.

* Psal. 105. 28

23 They

23 They saw not one another x, neither rose * Wisd. 18. 1. any from his place y for three days: * but all the chap. 8. 22. children of Israel had light in their dwellings z.

x Because these gross and moist fogs and vapours did not onely quite shut out the light of the heavenly bodies, but also put out their candles or other artificial lights, or at least so darken them that men could have no benefit by them. y Place here may be taken, either 1. more strictly and particularly: so the sense is, the horrour of that darkness was so great that they durst not remove at all, but stood or sat where the darkness found them, like men astonished or affrighted, and therefore unmoveable, having their minds disturbed, being terrified with their guilty Consciences, which most affect men in the dark, and with the dreadful noises which they heard, Wisd. 17. 5. and with the apparitions of evil Angels as may seem from Psal. 78. 49. where the plague of evil Angels is put instead of this plague of darkness, which therefore is omitted in that place where all the rest are reckoned up. Or rather 2. more largely, for their own houses or dwellings, for so the Hebrew word is certainly used, Exod. 16. 29. So the sense is, they did not stir abroad out of their houses upon their most necessary occasions. Obj. He saith not that they could not go, but that they could not rise from their place, which may seem to limit this expression to their particular places. Ans. The word, to rise, is commonly put for going about any business, and here it is a pregnant word, as they call it, and implies going in it, none arose, viz. to go or remove, from his place. And rising cannot be properly taken here for that particular posture, unless we will suppose that this darkness found all men sitting, which is absurd to imagine. z Whereby they might have conveyed themselves and families & goods away, as afterwards they did in haste: but they waited for Moses his orders, and he for Gods command, and God intended to bring them forth not by stealth, but in a more honourable and publick manner, in spight of all opposition.

24 And a Pharaoh called unto Moses, and said, Go ye, serve the LORD: only let your flocks and your herds be stayed b: let your little ones c also go with you.

a Or, Therefore: or Then, to wit, after the darkness was either wholly or in part removed. b Either as a pledge of your return after your sacrifice is ended: or as a recompence for the cattle which I have lost by your means. c And consequently the women, whose help and service was necessary for their little ones in diverse regards.

† Heb. into our hands. 25 And Moses said, Thou must give † us * also sacrifices, and burnt-offerings, that we may sacrifice unto the LORD our God.

* i. e. Suffer us to take of our own stock.

26 Our cattle also shall go with us, there shall not an hoof be left behind, for thereof must we take to serve the LORD our God: and we know not with what we must serve the LORD until we come thither d.

d Which was not a pretence, but a real truth. For this being a solemn and extraordinary sacrifice by the express and particular appointment of God, they knew not either of what kinds, or in what number or manner their sacrifices must be offered. And for all these things they did not receive particular directions till they came to mount Sinai.

* chap. 14. 4, 8. 27 But the LORD * hardened Pharaohs heart, and he would not let them go.

28 And Pharaoh said unto him, Get thee from me, take heed to thy self: see my face no more: for in that day thou seest my face, thou shalt die.

29 And Moses said, thou hast spoken well e, I will see thy face again no more.

e Heb. right, not morally, for so it was very ill said; but logically, that which agrees though not with thy duty, yet with the event and truth of the thing: for as thou hast warned me to see thee no more, so I in the name of God assure thee, that thou shalt see me no more, to beg my prayers, or to be helped out of thy troubles by my means. And therefore that discourse of Moses to Pharaoh, which follows chap. 11. 4, &c. though it be put there out of its order and proper place, as many other passages are, yet was delivered at this time and upon occasion of these words.

CHAP. XI.

1 AND the LORD said unto Moses a, Yet will I bring one plague more upon Pharaoh, and upon Egypt, afterwards he will let you go
* chap. 12. 31, 33, 39. hence, * when he shall let you go, he shall surely thrust you out hence altogether b.

a Either 1. Whilest Moses was not yet gone out of Pharaohs presence: So God might suggest this to his mind, as he did other things to Michaiah, when he was before Ahab and Jehosaphat, 1 King. 22. or rather 2. before his last coming to Pharaoh, and the words may be rendred thus, Now the Lord had said unto Moses. And this is here added, as the reason why Moses spake so boldly to Pharaoh, because God had assured him of a good issue. b Men and women and children and cattel, and all that they had, which he would never do before.

2 Speak now in the ears of the people, and let every man borrow of his neighbour c, and every woman of her neighbour, * jewels d of silver, * chap. 3. 22. and 12. 35. and jewels of gold.

c The Israelites who at first lived distinctly by themselves when they were greatly multiplyed, and Pharaoh began to cast a jealous eye upon them, and to take cruel counsels against them, were more mixed with the Egyptians, as appears from chap. 12. 12, 13. and many other places, either by their own choice, that they might receive protection and sustenance from them; or rather by Pharaohs design, who planted many of his own people among them, to watch and chastise them, Exod. 1. 11. and, it may be, removed some of them from Goshen to the parts adjoyning to it which were inhabited by his people. d Or, vessels, as the Hebrew word properly signifies; for they might more plausibly ask, and the Egyptians would with less suspition lend them vessels, which might be proper and useful both for their sacrifices and feasts, than Jewels for which they had no present need or use.

3 And the LORD gave the people favour in the sight of the Egyptians; Moreover, the man * Moses was very great in the land of Egypt, in * Eccl. 45. the sight of Pharaohs servants, and in the sight of the people e.

e Therefore they complyed with their request not onely out of love to the people, but out of fear of Moses, lest he should punish them severely in case of refusal.

4 And Moses said f, Thus saith the LORD, About Midnight will I go out g into the midst of Egypt.

f To Pharaoh, before his departure, as appears by comparing ver. 8. with chap. 10. 29. And therefore the three first verses of this chapter come in by way of parenthesis, and now he returns to the story, and sets down the last words which Moses spake to Pharaoh for a final parting. g God is said to go out or go forth, or come down, &c. by way of condescension to the custom and capacity of men, when he doth any eminent act of power either in way of Justice or mercy.

5 And all the first-born of the land of Egypt shall die, from the first-born of Pharaoh that sitteth upon his throne h, even unto the first-born of the maid-servant that is behind the mill i, and all the first-born of beasts.

h Either now actually, ruling with his father, as Solomon did even whilest David lived, 1 King. 1. 34. or more probably, he that is to sit, the present time for the future, he whose right this is by the custom of Egypt, and by the law of Nations. i The poor captive slave that was in the prison, as it is, chap. 12. 29. and there did grind at the Mill. In those times and places they had diverse Mills, which were not turned about by wind or water, as ours are, but by the hands of their servants, who for that purpose stood behind the mill, and so with hard labour turned it about. See Judg. 16. 21. Isa. 47. 1, 2. Lam. 5. 13.

6 And there shall be a great cry throughout all the land of Egypt, such as there was none like it, nor shall be like it any more.

7 * But against any of the children of Israel * chap. 8. 22. shall not a dog move his tongue k, against man or beast: that ye may know how that the LORD doth put a difference between the Egyptians and Israel.

k In stead of those loud cries of the Egyptian families, there shall be so great a tranquility among the Israelites, that even the dogs, which are sensible of and awaked and provoked by the least noise, shall not be stirred up by them.

8 And * all these thy servants l shall come down * chap. 12. 33. unto me ‖, and bowe down themselves unto me, saying, Get thee out, and all the people that † follow thee m; and after that I will go out: and he went out from Pharaoh in † a great anger n.

l Thy Courtiers and great Officers, who now are so insolent and obstinate. ‖ Both by their own inclination and necessity, and in thy name and by thy command. m That are under thy conduct and command, as this or the like expression is used Judg. 4. 10. 1 King. 20. 10. 2 King. 3. 9. Isa. 41. 2. n Not so much for the affront offered to himself, as for his incurable rebellion against God. Compare Mark 3. 5.

9 And

9 And * the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Pharaoh ſhall not hearken unto you, that * my wonders may be multiplied in the land of Egypt.

* chap. 3. 19.
* chap. 7. 3.

10 And Moſes and Aaron did all theſe wonders before Pharaoh: and the LORD hardened Pharaohs heart, ſo that he would not let the children of Iſrael go out of his land.

CHAP. XII.

1 AND the LORD ſpake a unto Moſes and Aaron, in the land of Egypt, ſaying:

a Had ſpoken, before the three days darkneſs, as may appear by comparing ver. 3. and 6. of this chapter with chap. 11. 4. And the mention of it was put off by him till this place, aſwell that he might not interrupt the hiſtory of all the plagues, as that he might give the whole inſtitution of the Paſſover together.

2 This month b ſhall be unto you the beginning c of months: it ſhall be the firſt month of the year unto you d.

b The firſt month after the vernal Equinox, called Abid, Exod. 13. 4. and 23. 15. Deut. 16. 1. and Niſan, Neh. 2. 1. Eſth. 3. 7. containing part of our March, and part of April. c Heb. the head: which, I conceive, notes not ſo much the order, which is more plainly mentioned in the following words, as the eminency of it, that it ſhall be accounted the chief and principal of all months, as the Sabbath hath been called by ſome, the queen of days. And juſtly muſt they preſer this month before the reſt, whether they looked backward to their prodigious deliverance from Egypt therein, or forward to their ſpiritual redemption by Chriſt, and to the acceptable year of the Lord, Luk. 4. 19. for in this very month our Lord Jeſus ſuffered, Joh. 18. 28. d Heretofore your firſt month for all affairs hath been Tiſri, which in part anſwers to our September, and is the firſt month after the Autumnal Equinox; and ſo it ſhall be to you ſtill as to Civil affairs, as it appears from Exod. 23. 16, and 34. 22. and Levit. 25. 8, 9, 10. but as to Sacred and Eccleſiaſtical matters this ſhall henceforth be your firſt month.

3 Speak ye unto all the Congregation of Iſrael, ſaying, in the tenth day e of this month, they ſhall take to them f every man a lamb g, according to the houſe of their fathers †, a † lamb for an houſe.

e Partly, that they might have the lamb ready for the Sacrifice, and might not be diſtracted about procuring it when they ſhould be going to uſe it; partly, that by the frequent contemplation of the lamb, as a ſign appointed by God, they might have their faith ſtrengthned as to their approaching deliverance, and afterwards might have their minds quickned to the more ſerious conſideration of that great deliverance out of Egypt, and of that more glorious deliverance from Hell by Chriſt the true Paſſover, which ſhould be offered for them; partly, to teach the Church in all ages, how neceſſary a thing preparation is to the ſolemn duties and exerciſes of Religion; and partly to ſignifie, that Chriſt ſhould be firſt ſet apart and ſeparated to the Miniſtry, which was done three or four Prophetical days, i. e. years, before his death, and afterwards offered: Moſt of which reaſons being perpetual, it may ſeem this uſage was ſo too, and not for the firſt Paſſover only. f Into their houſes, where the Jews tell us he was tied to the beds poſt. g Or, Kid, ver. 5. for the ſame word ſignifies both, though a lamb was commonly uſed, and a kid only in caſe of the want of a lamb: and the Chaldee and LXX do almoſt conſtantly tranſlate the Hebrew word lamb. And Chriſt is ſeldom or never typified by a kid, but generally by a lamb, as he is called Joh. 1. 29. partly for his innocency, meekneſs, patience, &c. but principally with reſpect to this Paſchal lamb; in ſtead whereof he was in due time to be offered, whence he is called our Paſſover, 1 Cor. 5. 7. † A Lamb was to be diſpoſed of to every houſe or family, according to its quantity or the numbers of perſons in it, as the next verſe explains it. The ſeveral families are called the houſes of their fathers, becauſe they conſiſt of thoſe perſons which come from one father or grandfather. The people were divided into Tribes, the Tribes were ſubdivided into Families, and the Families again into Houſes, which were like ſprigs taken from the greater branches and planted apart, and each of theſe had their ſeveral fathers, from whom they were denominated, as here they are.

h (i. e.) For the eating of the whole lamb at one meal, according to the rule, ver. 8, 10. If the perſons be ſo few that they cannot eat it up without gluttony. i Or rather thus, word for word, And, or Then he (the maſter of that Family) ſhall take alſo his neighbour next unto his houſe, he ſhall take him and his family into ſociety with himſelf, they ſhall join together. k Or, perſons, i. e. as the two families ſhall conſiſt of more or fewer perſons. I ſuppoſe, the meaning is, that if his next neighbours family were of itſelf ſufficient for the eating of the whole lamb, that he ſhould paſs over that to the next ſmall family, which being joyned with his might make up a fit number, which, as the Hebrew Doctors tell us, was ten, beſides women and children, † (i. e.) According to the proportion which he can or commonly doth eat. The meaning is this, The whole lamb being to be eaten at once, and a ſufficient number being neceſſary to that end, and there being great variety in mens ſtomachs and meals, they were to give allowance for that, and to take either more or fewer perſons, as their ſtomachs were better or worſe.

5 Your lamb ſhall be without blemiſh l, a male m † of the firſt year n: ye ſhall take it out from the ſheep, or from the goats n.

l Without any deformity or diſtemper of body. Heb. perfect. Of which ſee Levit. 22. 22, &c, Deut. 15. 21. and 17. 1. And this the very light of nature taught the heathens to obſerve in their Sacrifices. This property was required, both to typifie Chriſt, a lamb without ſpot or blemiſh, Heb. 9. 14. 1 Pet. 1. 19. and to inſtruct us, that all our ſervices to God muſt be as perfect as poſſibly may be. m Partly becauſe that was better and more perfect than the female, whence a male is oppoſed to a corrupt thing, Mal. 1. 14. and partly to typifie the man Chriſt Jeſus. n (i. e.) A year old, when it is in its vigour and perfection and the fitteſt type of Chriſt. Moſt explain it thus, that it was not to be more than a year old, but it might be much leſs, ſeeing it might be offered to God any time after it was 8 days old, Exod. 22. 30. Levit. 22. 27. But though it was then fit to be offered to God, it was not very fit to be eaten by men. And the Hebrew phraſe the ſon of a year ſeems to require a years age, as Saul is called the ſon of one year, 1 Sam. 13. 1. when he had reigned one whole year. And it is remarkable, that he doth not ſay the ſon of this or that year, which might agree to one brought forth that year, though it was much younger than a year, but the ſon of a year, without any reſtrictive article. n Heb. and from the goats: If you want a lamb, you ſhall take a kid of or from the goats. But the particle and is here well rendred or as it is uſed, Gen. 13. 8. Exod. 21. 17. compared with Mat. 15. 4. Pſal. 8. 4. compared with Heb. 2. 6.

6 And ye ſhall keep it up o until the fourteenth day of the ſame month: and * the whole aſſembly p of the Congregation of Iſrael ſhall kill it † in the evening q.

* Lev. 23. 5. Numb. 9. 3. and 28. 16. Deut. 16. 1.

o Separate it from the reſt of the flock, and keep it in a ſafe place: the reaſons of which ſee ver. 3. p Or rather, every aſſembly, to wit, every ſuch ſociety as meet together for the eating of the lamb. And the aſſembly is ſaid to kill it, becauſe one perſon did it in their name and by their appointment, in which manner and upon which reaſon the whole congregation is ſaid to ſtone a man, Levit. 24. 14, 16. Numb. 15. 35. Deut. 22. 21. It is probable it was killed by the maſter of the family, who was a Prieſt in his own Family, &c. q Heb. between the evenings or the two evenings, i. e. between the beginning and end of the evening. The evening is one third part of the day, and one of the appointed and uſual times of devotion, as appears from Pſal. 55. 17. Dan. 6. 10. and it begun at their ninth, or our third, hour, as may be gathered from Act. 3. 1. For then the Sun began more ſenſibly to decline, whence that time is fitly called by the Jews the firſt evening, and that was the time of the evening Sacrifice; the ſecond evening was when the Sun was ſetting or ſet. Between theſe it was to be killed. This had a reſpect both to the time of the Worlds age when Chriſt came, which was its evening, or declining time, or end, Heb. 1. 2. and 9. 26. 1 Pet. 1. 20. and the time of the day in which Chriſt our Paſſover was killed, Mat. 27. 46.—50. Mark 15. 25, 33, 34.

7 And they ſhall take of the blood r, and ſtrike it s on the two ſide-poſts, and on the upper door-poſt of the houſes wherein they ſhall eat it t.

r This was afterwards reſtrained to the Prieſts, but at this time it was allowed to the maſters of families, as their preſent circumſtances required. s With a bunch of hyſſop, ver. 22. t As a badge of diſtinction between their houſes and the Egyptians, not to direct the deſtroying Angel where they were, who could as well diſcern the houſes as the blood in the night, but to direct their thoughts to Chriſt, whoſe blood was hereby evidently typified, by whoſe merits and mediation they obtained this preſervation and deliverance from Egypt, as well as that great deliverance from Hell.

8 And they ſhall eat the fleſh in that night u, roſt with fire x, and unleavened bread y, and with bitter herbs z they ſhall eat it.

u (i. e.) The u (i. e.) The night following the fourteenth, and beginning the fifteenth, day, The lamb was killed upon the 14th day, in the evening or close thereof, but it was eaten upon the 15th day, to wit, in the beginning of it: whence the Passover is said to be offered sometimes upon the 14th, and sometimes upon the 15th day, which may serve for the reconciliation of some seemingly contrary Scriptures. x Partly for expedition, ver. 11. and principally to be a type of the lamb of God, Christ, and of the sharp and dreadful pains which he suffered not only from men, but from God too, and from the fire of his sore displeasure against sinners, whose place and person Christ sustained in his sufferings. y Partly as a Monument of their speedy departure out of Egypt, which gave them not time to leaven their bread, ver. 34. which is the reason alledged for it, Deut. 16. 3. partly to teach us how men should be qualified that come to the Sacrament, they should be purged from error, and pride, and malice, and hypocrisie, which are called and compared to leaven, Mat. 16. 6, 11. Luk. 12. 1. 1 Cor. 5. 8. and partly to signifie the singular purity of Christ from all kinds of spiritual leaven. z Both to remind them of their hard service and bitter usage in Egypt, Exod. 1. 14. from which God delivered them, Deut. 16. 3. and to prefigure the further crosses and troubles which they were to expect between their going out of Egypt and coming to Canaan. Or, with bitternesses, i. e. with great bitterness, or with grief of heart, that together with faith in God and in Christ and hope and joy for their approaching deliverance they might exercise bitter and hearty repentance for their Idolatries and other sinful practises whereof they were guilty in Egypt. And this instructs us as well as them of the absolute necessity of true and bitter repentance in all those that would profitably feed upon Christ our Passover.

a (i. e.) Not throughly roasted, for such we also say is raw, and so the Hebrew word na is understood by the Jewish and other Doctors. It signified, that Christ should suffer, as well as save, to the uttermost, all that was due for our sins. b Heb. the inwards, which were to be taken and washed, and then to be rosted together with the rest. Some do here except the fat and caul and kidneys, which were reserved by God for himself, 2 Chron. 35. 12, 14. But that exception was not made till after this time, and it seems not certain that that exception extended to the Paschal lamb. These and the head and legs are here mentioned not to exclude other parts but because they are not commonly roasted, but God would have the whole lamb roasted and eaten, to signifie, that we must have either nothing of Christ or the whole Christ, and all his benefits, his spirit to sanctifie and rule us as well as his blood to save us.

10 * And ye shall let nothing of it remain until the morning: and that which remaineth of || it until the morning, ye shall burn with fire c.

* chap. 23. 18. and 34. 25.

|| Which either was not usually eaten, or was more than all of you could conveniently eat. c To prevent either 1. the superstitious use of the relicks of that lamb by the Israelites, who thereby had received a greater benefit than they did afterwards by the brasen serpent, which upon that account they worshipped: or, 2. the profane abuse of that which had been consecrated to Gods service. Compare Exod. 29. 34.

11 And thus shall ye eat it d: with your loins girded e, your shooes on your feet f, and your staff in your hand g: and ye shall eat it in haste h: it is the LORDS Passover i.

d To wit, for this time, because their circumstances required it, that, they being suddenly to take a great journey, might be in a travellers habit. But that these, and some other circumstances now enjoyned and used, were only temporary, and not perpetual, nor obligatory, sufficiently appears from the practise not only of the Jews in following ages, but also of Christ and of his Apostles. And in like manner there are some institutions in the New-Testament which did only oblige that age and not all that follow them, as Act. 15. 28, 29. e Like Travellers, and persons undertaking some difficult service; for such used to gird up their garments, which in those parts were long and troublesome. See 2 King, 4. 29. and 9. 1. Luk. 12. 35. f A badge, 1. of their readiness for their journey, Isa. 5. 27. Act. 12. 8. 2. Of their freedom, for slaves, such as the Israelites now were in Egypt, used to go barefooted. 3. Of joy, as on the contrary going barefoot was a badge of mourning, 2 Sam. 15. 30. g Like persons upon the point of departing, which was a very comfortable circumstance. h For so the word signifies, Deut. 16. 3. Isa. 52. 12. i This lamb, or your eating of it, is the Lords Passover, i. e. it is a sign of Gods passing over you and your houses, when he comes to destroy the Egyptians on every side of you, ver. 13. 23. It is a Metonymy usual in Sacramental speeches, as Gen. 17. 10. Mat. 26. 26, 27, 28.

12 For I will pass through the land of Egypt this night, and will smite all the first-born in the land of Egypt, both man and beast, and * against all the || gods of Egypt I will execute judgment k: I am the LORD.

* Num. 33. 4.

k Either 1. by exposing them to shame and contempt, as vain and impotent Gods that could not save their worshippers. But that appeared before. Or, 2. by destroying those beasts which they worshipped, and it is not unlikely, but those particular beasts, which were their chief Idols, as Apis, Mnevis, &c. were first-born and therefore perished in this plague, Or, 3. by overthrowing their Idols, as he afterwards did Dagon. And so some Hebrew writers tell us, that this very night all their Idols were broken and thrown down. And there are some foot-steps hereof even in heathen Authors: Of whom some tell us, that most of the Temples of Egypt at one time fell down by an earth-quake: and others affirm, that the Egyptian Gods for fear of one Typho (by whom it is apparent they meant Moses) did hide themselves for a season, &c.

13 And the blood shall be to you for a token l upon the houses where you are: and when I see the blood m, I will pass over you, and the plague shall not be upon you † to destroy you, when I smite the land of Egypt.

† Heb. for destruction.

l Both to you, as he now said, a sign and a pledge to confirm your faith in the expectation of the promised deliverance; and to the Angel, that he may know and pass over your houses, as the following words intimate. See on ver. 7. m This is spoken of God after the manner of men; the sence is, If I find, that you keep the condition which I require, you may expect the priviledge which I have promised you; otherwise not.

14 And this day shall be unto you for a memorial n: and you shall keep it a feast * to the LORD throughout your generations: you shall keep it a feast by an ordinance for ever o.

n Or, Monument, both of this deliverance from Egypt, and moreover of your redemption by Christ, of which that is a Type, as even the antient Jews understood it, who also noted that Israel was to be redeemed in the days of the Messias upon the same day on which they were delivered from Egypt, to wit, upon the fifteenth day of the month of Nisan. Upon which day our blessed Lord was crucified for the redemption of his people. * You shall observe it for a solemn feast or festival time. o (i. e.) So long as your State and Church continues, or till the coming of the Messias. This word doth not always signifie eternity, but any long time, as Prov. 29. 14. Dan. 3. 9. and oft elsewhere.

15 * Seven days p shall ye eat unleavened bread q: even the first day ye shall put away leaven out of your houses: For whosoever eateth leavened bread from the first day until the seventh day, * that soul shall be cut off from Israel r.

* chap. 13. 6. and 23. 15. 34. 18.
* Gen. 17. 14.

p Besides and after the day of eating the Passover, which was a distinct feast and no part of the feast of unleavened bread. q To remind them of their departure out of Egypt, which was so sudden, that they had not leisure to leaven their dough. See more on ver. 8. r Either by excommunication, or by death to be inflicted by the Magistrate, and, in case of his neglect, by God himself. Nor let any one think, that this was too severe a punishment for what may seem no great offence. For this was indeed a very great crime, being a manifest contempt of God and a rebellion against Gods authority and express command, which surely deserves as severe a punishment as is inflicted upon Rebels against their Prince, especially considering that the Israelites were the people and subjects of God in a peculiar manner. It was also a tacit renunciation of their Religion, and of the covenant of God with them, and of their interest both in that past deliverance out of Egypt, and in the future deliverance by the Messias. See more on Gen. 17. 14.

16 And in the first day there shall be an holy convocation s: and in the seventh day t there shall be an holy convocation to you: no manner of work u shall be done in them, save that which every † man must eat x, that only may be done of you.

s A solemn day for the people to assemble together and to attend upon the publick worship and service of God in hearing his Word, Prayers, Praises, and Sacrifices. t Because then Pharaoh and his host were drowned in the Sea; as on the first day the first-born were killed. So their deliverance was begun on the first and compleated on the seventh day, and therefore those days deserved a special character of honour. And indeed that there were seven days between those two miracles, the Jews unanimously affirm and it seems probable from the account of their journeys. u (i. e.) Of servile work, Lev. 23. 7. x Herein, as many think, these days were inferiour to the Sabbath, in which that was forbidden. But of this see my notes on Exod. 16. 23. and 35. 3.

17 And

17 And ye shall observe the feast of unleavened bread: for in this self-same day have I brought your armies y out of the land of Egypt: therefore shall ye observe this day in your generations, by an ordinance for ever.

y So called, not from their Military force or courage, but from their numbers and the order and manner in which they came forth. See chap. 13. 18.

Levit. 23. 5. Numb. 28. 16. 18 * In the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month, at even ye shall eat unleavened bread until the one and twentieth day z of the month at even.

z Inclusively. For otherwise they were obliged to eat unleavened bread eight days, viz. on the day of the Passover, ver. 8. and seven days after, which is strictly and properly called the Feast of unleavened Bread, because in them they were tyed to that ceremony only, except the two days of an Holy Convocation.

19 Seven days shall there be no leaven found in your houses: for whosoever eateth that which is leavened, even that soul shall be cut off from the Congregation of Israel, whether he be a stranger a, or born in the land †.

a To wit, a Proselyte: for strangers unconverted to the Jewish Religion were not obliged nor admitted to the celebration of the Passover or Feast of unleavened Bread. Though I see no inconvenience, if all Strangers, though Heathens, were forbidden to have or use any unleavened Bread at that time, lest the Jews, who conversed with them might be tempted to desire or partake of it with them. † To wit of Canaan, which I have promised to you and to which I am now leading you, which was so well known to all of them that it was needless to express it in this place.

20 Ye shall eat nothing leavened: in all your habitations shall ye eat unleavened bread.

21 Then Moses called for all the elders of Israel, and said unto them, draw out and take you a || lamb according to your families, and kill the Passover.

Heb. 11. 28. 22 * And ye shall take a bunch of hyssop b, and dip it in the blood that is in the bason, and strike the lintel and the two side-posts with the blood that is in the bason: and none of you shall go out at the door of his house c until the morning d.

b So the Hebrew word is rightly rendred, as appears from Heb. 9. 19. c (i. e.) Of the house wherein he did eat the Passover, which oft-times was his Neighbours house: See ver. 4. d Till the beginning of the morning after midnight and after the slaughter of the Egyptians first-born: which may reconcile those Scriptures, that seem to contradict one another, while some affirm they went out of Egypt by night, and others by day, for they went out in the morning very early, when it was yet dark, as it is expressed in a like case, John 20. 1.

23 For the LORD will pass through to smite the Egyptians: and when he seeth the blood upon the lintel, and on the two side-posts, the LORD will

* Ezek. 9. 6. Rev. 7. 3. and 9. 4. pass over the door, and * will not suffer e the destroyer f to come in unto your houses to smite you.

e Heb. not give him license or commission. f (i. e.) The destroying Angel, which whether it were a good or bad Angel is not agreed, nor is it necessary to determine.

24 And ye shall observe this thing g for an ordinance to thee, and to thy sons for ever.

g viz. The substance of the thing, the Passover and Feast of unleavened Bread, though not all the Rites and Ceremonies, whereof divers were peculiar to the first time.

25 And it shall come to pass when ye be come to the land h, which the LORD will give you according as he hath promised, that ye shall keep my service.

h Viz. of Canaan, as ver. 19. For in the Wilderness they kept this Feast but once, and that by Gods particular direction, Numb. 9. 2.

*Jos. 4. 6. 26 * And it shall come to pass, when your children shall say unto you, what mean you by this service i?

i Or, part of Divine Worship. God expects this even from the Jewish Children, and much more from Christian men, that they should enquire and understand what is said or done in the publick Worship or Service of God, and therefore not to rest in dumb signs whereof they neither enquire nor know the meaning, or in the service of God in a Language which they understand not.

27 That ye shall say, It is the sacrifice of the LORDS Passover k, who passed over the houses of the children of Israel in Egypt, when he smote the Egyptians. And the people * bowed the head l, and worshipped. * chap. 4. 31.

k The Passover was both a Sacrifice, as it was offered to God, as it appears from Exod. 23. 18. and 34. 25. Numb. 9. 7, 13. Deut. 16. 2, 5. and because there was in it the shedding and sprinkling of blood, wherein the essence of a Sacrifice consists, 2 Chron. 30. 16. and 35. 11, 13. and also a Sacrament, as it was received and eaten by men. l In token of their thankful acknowledgment of Gods favours, and of their chearful submission to Gods command and ordinance. See 2 Chron. 29. 30.

28 And the children of Israel went away, and did as the LORD had commanded Moses and Aaron, so did they m.

m They killed and did eat the Paschal Lamb in such manner as God prescribed.

29 * And it came to pass, that at midnight n * the LORD smote all the first-born o in the land of Egypt, * from the first-born of Pharaoh that sate on his throne, unto the first-born of the captive that was in the † dungeon, and all the first-born of cattle. * chap. 11. 4. * Numb. 8. 17. and 33. 4. Psal. 78. 51. and 105. 36. and 135. 8. & 136. 10. * Wisd. 18. 11. chap. 4. 23. † Heb. house of the pit.

n A great aggravation of the Plague: For then darkness itself strikes men with horrour and makes any calamity more terrible, then they were asleep and secure and least expected such a stroke. o Both of man and beast, whether Male or Female. Some extend it to all that were first-born, and so many persons might be killed in one house, as both Father and Mother, and several Sons, which might be the first-born by several Mothers, and Sons sons or Daughters, &c. Others confine it to the first-born Child in the Family. I conceive the heads of the Family are not included, for these though they might be the first-born Children of their Parents Families, yet were not nor ever are called or accounted the first-born of their own Families, but the heads and roots of them: But for all the rest I conceive they are all included, because all such were really first-born and did first open their mothers Womb, and all such were to be set apart unto the Lord, instead of these first-born of the Egyptians now slain, chap. 13. 12, 15. and therefore are in both places to be understood in the same latitude.

30 And Pharaoh rose up in the night, he and all his servants, and all the Egyptians, and there was a great cry in Egypt: for there was not an house p where there was not one dead.

p To wit, of those houses which had any first-born in them, for in divers families there might be no first-born. And such restrictions of the universal particles are frequently understood.

31 And he called for Moses and Aaron q by night, and said, Rise up, and get you forth from amongst my people, * both you, and the children of Israel, and go, serve the LORD, as ye have said. * chap. 10. 9.

q (i. e.) He sent this message to them, for they came no more to him, chap. 10. 29.

32 * Also take your flocks and your herds, as ye have said, and be gone, and bless me also r. * chap. 10. 26.

r Pray to God for me, that I may not perish by this or any other plague.

33 And the Egyptians were urgent s upon the people, that they might send them out of the land in haste: for they said, We be all dead men.

s Not by force, which they durst not now use, but by earnest and importunate intreaties, Exod. 11. 8. This was the ground of that fable of the heathens mentioned in Tacitus, that the Jews were driven out of Egypt for their Scabs: so they falsly and maliciously ascribed their own ulcers and scabs sent upon them by God to the Israelites.

34 And the people took their dough before it was leavened, their || kneading-troughs t being bound up in their clothes upon their shoulders. || Or, dough, t Or, as others rightly render it, their dough-lumps, or food, or lumps of paste unleavened.

35 And the children of Israel did according to the word of Moses: and they borrowed of the
* chap. 3. 22. Egyptians u * jewels x of silver, and jewels of gold, and raiment.

u Either before this time as they had opportunity, when their hearts were mollified by the foregoing plagues: Or even at this time, when the Israelites might well take confidence to borrow, and the Egyptians would be willing to lend them, partly that they might gain their affections and prayers, and partly that they might more readily depart from them. x Wherewith they used to adorn themselves in the worship of their Idols, and therefore supposed the Israelites might use them in the worship of their God. Or, vessels; of which see on chap. 11. 2.

36 And the LORD gave the people favour in the sight of the Egyptians y, so that they lent unto them
* Gen. 15. 14. chap. 3. 22. Psal. 105. 37. such things as they required z: and they * spoiled the Egyptians a.

y (i. e.) Inclined their hearts to do it willingly, and not only out of fear. z Heb. and they lent them, to wit, the jewels or vessels mentioned ver. 35. a To wit, of their ornaments. Quest. Was not this unjustly done of the Israelites to borrow these jewels, which they never paid again? Answ. No, 1. Because they did nothing in this matter but by Gods appointment, chap. 11. 1, 2. so that if there be any injustice, it must be in God, in whom there neither can be in any thing, nor is in this thing, the least blot or shadow of injustice, as well because he hath an unquestionable right in, and power to dispose of, all persons and things, as being the Maker, and Giver, and Lord of all; as because there was great and evident reason both why the Israelites should be recompensed for all their hard labours and sufferings, and why the Egyptians should be spoiled for their Idolatry, luxury, and cruelty to the Israelites, and the great benefits which they had received from Joseph, and from the service of the Israelites. 2. Because the supreme Lord of all forbad them to restore what they borrowed, and gave them the entire right and sole propriety therein. 3. Because though there was a form and appearance of borrowing and lending, yet indeed the Israelites did not so much borrow, as desire, as the Hebrew word rendred borrow, ver. 35. signifies, and the Egyptians did not reckon these things as lent, and to be restored, but as given, and never to be expected again; even as Pharaoh and his people rightly judged, that if the Israelites were once permitted to go out of the land with their whole families and estates, they would never return again, chap. 14. 5. And in truth the Egyptians did and might esteem it a good bargain to give these things to redeem their lives, and to engage the Israelites to a speedy departure, knowing that otherwise both their persons and all their estates were in extreme hazard. 4. Because, if these jewels were properly borrowed, yet the Egyptians by their causeless and hostile pursuit after the Israelites with intent to destroy them, did fully discharge them from all obligations to restitution, and give them a right not only to keep these goods, but to take any other which they could from the Egyptians, according to the known and approved laws of War.

* Numb. 33. 3. * Gen. 47. 11. * chap. 38. 26. Numb. 1. 46. and 11. 21. 37 * And the children of Israel journeyed from * Rameses to Succoth b, about * six hundred thousand c on foot, that were men d, beside children e.

b A place so called, either because there the Israelites first lodged in booths or tents, whereas before they dwelt in houses: or because there God first spread his cloud of fire over them, for a covering, Psal. 105. 39. c To wit, grown and strong men, and fit for War, among whom there was none feeble or sick, Psal. 105. 37. Thus the Heathen Writer Chæremon, mentioned by Josephus, speaking of this matter, reckons up first 250 thousand, and then 380 thousand more. d The Hebrew word properly signifies strong and able men, fit to go on foot in battel aray: so decrepit or weak old men are not comprehended in this number. e And women, whose presence and assistance is necessary to them. See Exod. 10. 24. Some say, the Hebrew word taph signifies their households or families, which consist principally of women and children.

† Heb. a great mixture. Numb. 11. 4. 38 And a † mixed multitude f went up also with them, and flocks, and herds, even very much cattel.

f Consisting of Egyptians or other people, who went with them, either because they were their servants, or that by this means they might free themselves from the servitude which they endured under hard masters in Egypt; or because the glorious works which they had seen had raised their esteem of God and of his people, and made them expect a share in the great felicities which they presumed would be conferred upon a people so highly honoured and beloved of such an almighty and allsufficient God. And because their hearts were not sincere, and their ends right, they soon repented of their choice, Numb. 11. 4. Compare Zech. 8. 23.

39 And they baked unleavened cakes of the dough which they brought forth out of Egypt, for it was not leavened g: because * they were thrust * chap. 6. 1. and 11. 1. out of Egypt h, and could not tarry, neither had they prepared for themselves any victuals.

g Both because leaven was forbidden to them at that time, and because the great haste required gave them not time for leavening it. h Not by force, but by important requests, as was observed on ver. 33. Thus men are said to be driven to worship the Sun, Moon, &c. when they are persuaded to it, Deut. 4. 19.

40 Now the sojourning of the children of Israel, who dwelt in Egypt, was * four hundred and thir-
* Gen. 15. 13. Act. 7. 6. Gal. 3. 17. ty years i.

i It is plain that those years are to be computed from the first promise made to Abraham, Gen. 12. 1, 2. to the giving of the law, from Gal. 3. 17. where this is affirmed. And although it doth not plainly appear, when that promise was made, because the Scripture mentions not Abrahams age, neither when it was made, nor when Abram came to Haran with his father, Gen. 11. 31. but only when he went out of Haran being 75 years old, Gen. 12. 4. yet a good while after it was made, and, as it may seem more than probable, 30 years afterward, it is manifest there were only 400 years of this time to come, Gen. 15. 13. And many more years passed ere there was such a man as Israel or Jacob, and more ere there were any children of Israel, or of Jacob, and yet more ere they came into Egypt. How then can this be true which is here said? Answ. 1. Some affirm that they were in Egypt 430 years, which is sooner said than proved. 2. Some antient Hebrew copies are said to have had more words than ours now have; for the LXX, and Samaritan Interpreters after the words in Egypt, read, and, in the land of Canaan. And some other copies after the word who, add, together with their fathers, or, and their fathers. And so the difficulty vanisheth. And if it should be granted, that there were some few such errours in our present copies in matters purely historical or chronological, which God might permit to be there for many wise and holy reasons, yet this is no prejudice to our faith, or to Gods providence, which hath been pleased to have so special a care of those Texts which concern the essentials of Faith and a good life, that all copies are agreed in them. 3. These 430 years are not by the Text confined to Egypt, but may be extended to any place, where they were sojourners, and the Hebrew word asher, is not to be rendred which, as relating to the time of their sojourning, but who, as belonging to the persons sojourning, as our Translation well renders it, and the sense is, that they were sojourners, or, which is all one, strangers or dwellers in a land that was not theirs, as it is said Gen. 15. 13. for 430 years. And the emphasis lies in the Hebrew word moshab, which is here fitly rendred sojourning, as toshab, coming from the same root, is commonly used for a sojourner, or one that lives in a place or land which is not his, as Levit. 22. 10. and 25. 35, 40. Numb. 35. 15. Psal. 39. 12. There is now but one difficulty remains, how the children of Israel can be said to be sojourners so long, seeing much of this time passed before they were born? Answ. As Levi is said to pay tythes in Abraham, Heb. 7. 9. because he was in the loyns of Abraham when Abraham paid tythes, with much more reason might the children of Israel be said to sojourn so long, because they sojourned a great part of it in their own persons, and the rest in the loyns of their parents. And as oft-times when the parents only are mentioned, the children are included or intended, as Gen. 12. 3. In thee, i. e. in thy seed: and Gen. 13. 17. I will give it (the land) unto thee, i. e. to thy seed: and Jacob is said to be brought up again out of Egypt, Gen. 46. 4. to wit, in his posterity, and David is oft put for his posterity, as 1 King. 12. 16. Ezek. 34. 23. and 37. 24, 25. why may not parents also be understood sometimes, when the children only are mentioned? But we need not make suppositions, seeing we have examples, the persecution in Egypt and deliverance out of it, which happened to the parents only, being attributed to their posterity, who neither felt the one, nor saw the other, Deut. 26. 5. &c. Compare Psal. 66. 6. Judg. 10. 11, 12. And the souls of the house of Jacob (i. e. of the children of Israel, for by house it is evident he means only children) which came with Jacob into Egypt are said to be threescore and ten souls, Gen. 46. 26, 27. In which number and title Jacob himself is confessedly included. And therefore upon the very same ground, under this title of the children of Israel, we must understand Israel himself, who being the chief author and subject of this sojourning in Egypt, it were unreasonable to exclude him from the number of these sojourners. And this phrase being once extended to their immediate parent, may by a parity of reason be extended to their great grandfather Abraham, as being the first author of that famous peregrination or sojourning which being begun in Canaan, ended in Egypt. Add to this, that the word Israel, as it is put for the people or children of Israel, is elsewhere used for the whole Church of God, as Rom. 9. 6. and therefore may well include Abraham as the father, and, under God, the founder of it. And the title of the children of Israel might well be given to all that people, and to the family from which they descended, because they were now known by that name. And that this indeed was Moses his meaning, which is here produced, may be further gathered from hence, that otherwise Moses had contradicted himself: for by the years of the lives of Jacob, and Levi, and Kohath, and Amram, and Moses himself, which he precisely sets down, it appears that the sojourning of the children of Israel, strictly so called, in Egypt, was not above 215 years. And it is absurd to think, that so wise and learned a man as all acknowledge Moses to have been, should commit so gross an errour, especially seeing that Generation could easily have confuted him.

41 And it came to pass at the end of the four hundred and thirty years ‖, even the self same day k it came to pass, that all the hosts of the LORD went out from the land of Egypt.

‖ If this be the right translation, the 430 years mentioned Gal. 3. 17. are to be taken in a latitude, for about, or near so many years, as is very frequent in Scripture and other Authors, else there wants one year of it, because the Law was not given till about a year after their coming out of Egypt. Nor was it of any concernment to the Apostles argument there, whether it wanted a year of that number or no, as here it is. But the words may be rendred here, as Gen. 7. 12. in the body or strength of the day, i. e. when the day-light was full and clear and strong, when it was broad day-light, the Egyptians seeing, and not being able to hinder them. If it be said, they went out by night, Deut. 16. 1. that is true, in regard of their resolution and preparation, and the beginning of their journey, but their actual marching forth was by day-light, or in the morning; nor could it be done sooner from the nature of the thing, and the time necessarily required for so great a work. k This circumstance is noted to set forth the accurateness and infallibility of Gods foreknowledge, and the efficacy of his providence in accomplishing all his own counsels in his own appointed time.

* See Deut. 16. 16. † Heb. a night of observations.

42 It is * a † night to be much observed unto the LORD for bringing them out from the land of Egypt: This is that night of the LORD to be observed of all the children of Israel in their generations.

43 And the LORD said unto Moses and Aaron, This is the Ordinance of the Passover l: there shall no stranger m eat thereof.

l This which here followeth is the Law, or appointment, of God concerning the celebration of the Passover. m Or, foreigner, who is so both by Nation and Religion: for, if he were circumcised, he might eat of it, ver. 44, 48.

44 But every man-servant that is bought for money, when thou hast circumcised him n, then shall he eat thereof.

n For the master had a power to circumcise such persons, Gen. 17. 12. And though it is probable, that by their interest in them, and a diligent instruction of them, they made them willing to receive circumcision, yet it seems they had a power to compel them to it; but then circumcision was not to them a seal of Gods Covenant, nor of their Religion, for that must be matter of choice, but only a civil badge, or a note of that family or people into which they were politically incorporated.

45 A foreigner, and an hired servant shall not eat thereof o.

o Except he submit to circumcision, as ver. 43. See Numb. 9. 14.

* Numb. 9. 12. 46 * In one house shall it be eaten, thou shalt not carry forth ought of the flesh abroad out of the house p, neither shall ye break a bone thereof q.

p Partly because they were all obliged not to go out of the house till the morning, ver. 22. and to leave none of it till that time, ver. 10. partly, lest it should be either superstitiously or profanely abused; and partly to signifie, that Christ and Salvation are not to be had out of Gods House or Church. q To take out and eat the marrow of it. This was required partly to mind them of their hasty departure out of Egypt, wherein they had no leasure to break and empty the bones, and principally, that it might be an evident type of the Lord Jesus, in whom this was literally fulfilled, Joh. 19. 36. The bones were burnt with the other remainders of the Lamb.

47 All the Congregation of Israel shall † keep it.

† Heb. do it. * Numb. 9. 14. 48 And * when a stranger shall sojourn with thee, and will keep the Passover to the LORD, let all his males be circumcised, and then let him come near, and keep it: and he shall be as one that is born in the land: for no uncircumcised person shall eat thereof.

42 One law shall be to him that is home-born, and unto the stranger that sojourneth among you.

50 Thus did all the children of Israel: as the LORD commanded Moses and Aaron, so did they.

51 And it came to pass the self-same day, that the LORD did bring the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt * by their armies. * chap. 6. 26.

CHAP. XIII.

1 AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 * Sanctifie unto me a all the first-born b, whatsoever openeth the womb c among the children of Israel, both of man and of beast d: it is mine e. * chap. 22. 29. & 34. 19. Lev. 27. 26. Num. 3. 13. and 8. 16. Luk. 2. 23.

a To my use and service, in manner as I shall hereafter explain. And Sanctifie, i. e. command all the people to sanctifie as Moses did, ver. 12. b viz. if they be males, as it is limited ver. 12. c Every child which is the first-born of his mother: So that if a man had many wives, either together or successively, his first child by every one of these was a first-born. d Whether clean or unclean, though in different manner, whereof see Numb. 18. 13, 15, 17. e By special right and title, as being by my singular care and favour preserved from the common destruction, and therefore I challenge a peculiar interest in them, and do hereby require that they be devoted to me.

3 And Moses said unto the people, Remember this day, in which ye came out from Egypt, out of the house of † bondage: for by strength of hand the LORD brought you out from this place: there shall no leavened bread be eaten. † Heb. servants.

4 This day came ye out, * in the month Abib f. * chap. 23. 15. Deut. 16. 1.

f See Exod. 12. 2. in the spring time, the most proper season for a long journey.

5 And it shall be when the LORD shall bring thee into the land of the Canaanites, and the Hittites and the Amorites, and the Hivites, and the Jebusites: which he sware unto thy fathers to give thee, a land flowing with milk and honey, * that thou shalt keep this service g in this month. * ch. 12. 25, 26.

g Which is spoken of before, and in the following verses. From this place it is evident, the Israelites were not obliged to this service in the wilderness without a particular command from God. See Deut. 12. 1, 9.

6 * Seven days thou shalt eat unleavened bread, and in the seventh day shall be a feast to the LORD. * ch. 12. 15, 16.

7 Unleavened bread shall be eaten seven days: and there shall no leavened bread be seen with thee: neither shall there be leaven seen with thee in all thy quarters.

8 And thou shalt shew thy son in that day, saying, This is done because of that which the LORD did unto me, when I came forth out of Egypt.

9 And it shall be for * a sign unto thee upon thine hand h, and for a memorial between thine eyes i, that the LORDS Law may be in thy mouth: for with a strong hand hath the LORD brought thee out of Egypt. * See Verse 16. Numb. 15. 38. Deut. 11. 18. Prov. 1. 9. Mat. 23. 5.

h The celebration of this feast shall be to thee instead of a mark which a man makes, or a ring or any thing else which he puts, upon his hand or arm, to bring any thing to his remembrance. For such things his eye is most frequently fixed upon. Compare Cant. 8. 6. Isa. 49. 16. Jer. 22. 24. Hag. 2. 23. i Instead of any monument or memorial, which is placed between, and therefore directly before, a mans eyes, which he can scarcely overlook, and therefore must needs bring to remembrance the thing which he would not forget. Such proverbial phrases are usual in Scripture, as Deut. 6. 8. Prov. 3. 3. and 6. 21. and 7. 3. and are not to be understood literally as the superstitious Jews understood them, who hence derive their custom of wearing scrowls of parchment upon their foreheads, and arms and garments, which they call Phylacteries, wherein they wrote certain portions of Scripture. But they might as well have added parcels of Gods law to be kept in their mouths, because it follows, that the Lords law may be in thy mouth: from whence we may better infer, that neither mouth nor hand nor eyes are to be properly understood, for then it had been an improper method to fasten a parchment between their eyes that it might be in their mouths, but figuratively, as they are commonly understood in Scripture.

10 Thou shalt therefore keep this Ordinance in his season from year to year k.

k Heb. from days to days. But days in the Hebrew tongue are oft put for a compleat year: of which see Gen. 4. 3. Lev. 25. 29. Amos 4. 4.

11 And it shall be when the LORD shall bring thee into the land of the Canaanites l, as he sware unto thee, and to thy fathers, and shall give it thee:

l Under which general name all the other nations are contained, as being all the children of Canaan.

* chap. 22. 29. & 34. 19. Deut. 15. 19. Ezek. 44. 30.

12 * That thou shalt † set apart m unto the LORD all that openeth the matrix, and every firstling that cometh of a beast, which thou hast, the males shall be the LORDS n.

m (i. e.) Separate it from the rest; resign thy right in it to God: Heb. cause it to pass, not through the fire, as that verb is used Deut. 18. 10. 2 Kings 16. 3. but under the rod, as it is used, and more fully expressed, Lev. 27. 32. which was the rite when any thing was separated and consecrated to God. n Devoted to him, either to be sacrificed, if it was clean, or to be otherwise destroyed, if it was unclean, as it here follows.

13 And every firstling of an ass o thou shalt redeem with a † lamb: and if thou wilt not redeem it, then thou shalt break his neck p, and all the first-born of man amongst thy children shalt thou redeem.

o An unclean creature, and therefore this rule was to be observed in all other unclean creatures, as appears, 1. because the reason of this law is common to all such. 2. by comparing this place with Numb. 18. 15. 3. because the first-born of all beasts were appropriated to God, and because many of them were unclean and so could not be sacrificed, there was no other way of offering them to God but by redemption or a price paid for them. And the single exception of the price of a dog in this case, Deut. 23. 18. doth sufficiently intimate, that the price of all other unclean creatures was allowed and required. The ass alone is here named for all the rest, because this creature was most common and most useful, and yet was not to be spared: whence it was easie to infer, that this course was much rather to be observed in other creatures which were of less use. p Or, cut off his neck or head, as the word is used Deut. 21. 4. Isa. 66. 3. because being consecrated to God it was not to be applied to any prophane or common use.

† Heb. to morrow.

14 And it shall be when thy son asketh thee † in time to come, saying, What is this? that thou shalt say unto him, By strength of hand the LORD brought us out from Egypt, from the house of bondage q.

q Which is added to teach Parents in all succeeding ages that it is their duty to instruct their children in the word and works of God, and in the nature and reasons of every particular kind or part of Gods worship and service. See Deut. 15. 5. Psal. 66. 4. Hos. 12. 4.

15 And it came to pass, when Pharaoh would hardly let us go, that the LORD slew all the first-born in the land of Egypt, both the first-born of man, and the first-born of beast; therefore I sacrifice to the LORD all that openeth the matrix, being males: but all the first-born of my children I redeem.

16 And it shall be for a token upon thine hand, and for frontlets r between thine eyes: For by strength of hand the LORD brought us forth out of Egypt.

r In stead of frontlets. The sence is, This practice shall make your deliverance from Egypt as fresh and evident to you and to your children, as any thing which you see hanged or written upon one anothers foreheads. See Ezek. 9. 4. It seems strange to me, that they that understand the sign on the hand, and the memorial between the eyes, ver. 9. metaphorically should understand the frontlets between the eyes in this place properly, seeing the phrase is perfectly the same; only here is a more particular allusion to the custom of the Egyptians, which used to wear some devices upon their foreheads, which probably they called totaphoth, which were memorials of their Idols, or of something relating to them. And therefore it seems unlikely that he would here prescribe the use of the same things to the Jews, and the more probable meaning of the phrase is only this, that this practice would be as effectual and useful a remembrancer of this mighty and glorious work of God in bringing them out of Egypt, as those contrivances were to the Egyptians of their Idols.

17 And it came to pass when Pharaoh had let the people go, that God led them not through the way of the land of the Philistines s, although that was near t: For God said, Lest peradventure u the people repent them when they see war x, and they return to Egypt y.

s A fierce and warlike people, whereof they had sad and late experience, 1 Chron. 7. 21. t There being this way but a few days journey between Egypt and Canaan. u God speaks after the manner of men, for nothing was unknown nor uncertain to him. Though the Hebrew particle, pen, doth not always imply doubting, but oft-times only signifies, lest, as Gen. 3. 3. and 38. 23. Numb. 20. 18. x Which they were likely to do, because the war would probably be long and hot, and their bodies were much weakned, and their spirits and courage broken, by a tedious and grievous bondage. And therefore it was fit that before they were called to such sharp conflicts, they should be hardened by the labours of a long and troublesome journey, and their faith should be strengthened by further experience of Gods power and faithfulness and goodness, and by the glorious appearance of God at Mount Sinai, and those commands, promises and encouragements there given them. But though this which is here mentioned was one, yet it was not the only reason of this counsel, but there were other causes for it, the Egyptians were to be drowned in the sea, the Israelites to be further tried, Deut. 8. 2. and full measure to be allowed to the iniquity of the Amorites. y As afterwards they attempted to do Numb. 14. upon a like occasion.

* chap. 14.

18 But God * led the people about through the way of the wilderness of the red sea, and the children of Israel went up ‖ harnessed z out of the land of Egypt.

z Or, armed, or girt with swords and belts about the fifth rib, as the Hebrew word may imply. But it doth not appear how or whence they should get their arms, nor how the Egyptians would permit so numerous a people to have and to keep arms, especially when they had a long time oppressed and exasperated them, and made them desperate. It is true, some few of them might procure arms, but this word is here used concerning the whole body of them. Others render it; by fives, five and five in a rank, that is, by an usual Synecdoche, in military order, not doubtfully and fearfully but confidently and couragiously, not confusedly, as men that steal or run away, but in good order, so as one might not hinder another. Which interpretation is strengthened by comparing Jos. 1. 14. It may be rendred, girt, to wit, about the fifth rib, as the word implies, the place where men used to gird their garments, this being the usual posture for travellers: He implies that they went out resolved upon and prepared for their journey.

* Gen. 50. Josh. 24.

19 And Moses took the bones of Joseph a with him; for he had straitly sworn the children of Israel b, saying; * God will surely visit you, and ye shall carry up my bones away hence with you.

a And the other Patriarchs, as appears from Act. 7. 16. b The Oath was taken only by the Parents, but because the matter of it was not personal and of particular concernment to them, but common to them and to their children, therefore it obliged both the Parents and their Children, as Moses here signifieth.

c The Son of God, whose presence and conduct the Israelites had in the Wilderness, as appears from 1 Cor. 10. 4, 9. Compare Heb. 11. 26. who is sometimes called the Angel of the Lord, chap. 14. 19. because he was, and was to be, his Fathers Angel or Messenger sent by God unto men to ratifie his Covenant with them, whence he is called the Angel of the Covenant, Mal. 3. 1. as he is upon another account called the Angel of his presence, Isa. 63. 9. d Not by local motion, but by his gracious and powerful operations for and about them. e It was but one pillar, Numb. 9. 15, 16. having two different appearances and uses, of a Cloud by day to defend them from the heat, Psal. 105. 39. which in those parts was excessive, and of a fire by Night to illuminate them. It was a Cloud erected towards Heaven like a pillar upwards, but downwards flat and broad, spread over the body of the people, and afterwards more eminently over the Tabernacle. f Which was altogether necessary in those vast and pathless Deserts, Numb. 10. 33. Deut. 1. 33.

22 He took not away the pillar of the Cloud by *Neh. 9. 19. day, * nor the pillar of fire by night from before the people g.

g Whilst they continued in the Wilderness, and had need of such direction.

CHAP. XIV.

1 AND the LORD spake a unto Moses, saying, a Or rather, had spoken, to wit, before they came to Succoth, chap. 12. 37. For what was there briefly and generally expressed, is here more largely and particularly declared, together with the occasion of it, which was Gods command.

*chap. 13. 8. *Numb. 33. 7. 2 Speak unto the children of Israel, * that they turn and encamp before * Pi-hahiroth b, between Migdol c and the Sea, over against Baal-zephon d: before it shall ye encamp by the Sea.

b Heb. the mouth of Hiroth, i. e. the entrance or straits of Hiroth, two great mountains, between which they marched and were enclosed on both sides. c A City in Egypt, Jer. 44. 1. wherein it is thought there was a Garison. d Another place of note, situated in an high place, and having a fair and large prospect, and possibly a Garison too.

3 For Pharaoh will say of the children of Israel, They are entangled in the land, the Wilderness hath shut them in e.

e They are inclosed with Mountains, and Garisons, and Deserts.

*chap. 4. 21. 4 And * I will harden Pharaohs heart, that he he shall follow after them, and I will be honoured f upon Pharaoh, and upon all his host, that the Egyptians may know that I am the LORD. And they did so.

f By the manifestation of my Power and Justice.

5 And it was told the King of Egypt, that the Psal. 105. 25. people fled g: * and the heart of Pharaoh and of his servants was turned against the people, and they said, Why have we done this h, that we have let Israel go from serving us?

g Did not only depart for three days to sacrifice at Horeb, as Moses pretended, but designed an escape and flight, as appeared by their speedy march and other circumstances. h They who never truly repented of their sins, now heartily repent of their only good action.

6 And he made ready his chariot, and took his people with him.

7 And he took six hundred chosen chariots i, and all k the chariots of Egypt, and captains over every one of them l.

i Quest. How could he use or carry his Chariots, when all his Horses were killed by that Plague, Exod. 9. 6. Answ. That Plague slew only the Horses which were in the Field, chap. 9. 3. not those kept in Houses, as the Chariot-Horses generally were, and now are. k (i. e.) A great number, all that could be got together in haste, which the present service required. l Over the men that fought out of every Chariot. Or, over all of them, the command of all these Chariots being distributed to several Captains or Commanders.

8 And the LORD hardned the heart of Pharaoh
Numb. 33. 3. King of Egypt, and he pursued after * the children of Israel: and the children of Israel went out with an high hand m.

m Either, 1. Of God, with a Divine hand or power, by comparing Exod. 13. 16. Or, 2. Their own, not with hands hanging down, a posture betraying weakness and fainting, fear and shame, Heb. 12. 12. but with hands lifted up, with courage and confidence, not like fugitives, but like valiant and victorious Souldiers, openly, boldly, resolvedly; as men are said to sin with an high hand, Numb. 15. 30. that sin in such a manner.

Josh. 24. 6. Mac. 4. 9. 9 But the * Egyptians pursued after them, (all the horses and chariots of Pharaoh, and his horsemen, and his army) and overtook them encamping by the Sea, beside Pi-hahiroth before Baal-zephon.

10 And when Pharaoh drew nigh, the children of Israel lift up their eyes, and behold, the Egyptians marched after them, and they were sore afraid n: and the children of Israel cryed out o unto the LORD.

n Which is not strange: these being now a people of low spirits, depressed by long and grievous servitude, being also generally unarmed, wearied with their journey, and their fears aggravated by the presence and out-cries of their Wives and Children. But they should have supported themselves by the consideration of the mighty power of God, of which they had late and great experience. o Partly by petition, and partly by complaint and expostulation.

11 And they said unto Moses, Because there were no graves in Egypt, hast thou taken us away to die in the wilderness? Wherefore hast thou dealt thus with us, to carry us forth out of Egypt?

12 * Is not this the word that we did tell thee in *chap. 5. 21. and 6. 9. Egypt, saying, Let us alone, that we may serve the Egyptians, for it had been better for us to serve the Egyptians, than that we should die in the wilderness.

13 And Moses said unto the people, * Fear ye *2 Chron. 20. 15, 17. not, stand still p, and see the Salvation of the LORD, which he will shew to you to day: ‖ for the Egyptians whom ye have seen q to day, ye shall see them again no more for ever.

‖ Or, for whereas you have seen the Egyptians to day, &c.

p Heb. make your selves to stand, let not your hearts fail and sink, or stagger through unbelief, but with quiet minds look up to God. It notes the frame of their minds, not the posture of their bodies. q Or, as ye have seen them, to wit, alive and armed, and ready to devour you: for otherwise they did see them dead and disarmed, ver. 30.

14 The LORD shall fight for you, and ye shall hold your peace r.

r (i. e.) Ye shall contribute nothing to the victory, neither by your words, nor by your deeds: for this Hebrew word signifies a cessation not only from speech, but from action too, as 2 Sam. 19. 11. Psal. 83. 1. Isai. 42. 14, 15. Or, rather do you hold your peace, the future tense for the imperative, as it is very frequent, cease your murmuring against the Lord and me.

15 And the LORD said unto Moses, Wherefore cryest thou unto me s? Speak unto the children of Israel, that they go forward.

s By fervent, though secret, Prayer: For which he doth not reprove him, but only bids him turn his Prayer into action. Compare Jos. 7. 10, 13.

16 But lift thou up thy rod, and stretch out thine hand over the Sea, and divide it t: and the children of Israel shall go on dry ground through the midst of the sea.

t (i. e.) Do thou command it in my name to divide it self hither and thither, and I will divide it.

17 And I, behold, I, will harden the hearts of the Egyptians, and they shall follow them: and I will get me honour upon Pharaoh, and upon all his host, upon his chariots, and upon his horse-men.

18 And the Egyptians shall know that I am the LORD, when I have gotten me honour upon Pharaoh, upon his chariots, and upon his horse-men.

19 And the Angel of God * which went before *chap. 13. 21. the camp of Israel removed and went behind them u, and the pillar of the cloud went from before their face, and stood behind them.

u Not changing his place, for he was the omnipresent God, ver. 15. but his operation, from leading the Israelites forward in their way to the protecting of them from their pursuers.

20 And it came between the camp of the Egyptians, and the camp of Israel, and * it was a cloud *See Isai. 8. 14. and darkness to them x, but it gave light by night 1 Cor. 10. 1. to these ‖: so that the one came not near the other all the night.

x viz. The Egyptians, to whom it brought their former horrible darkness to mind, and did both exceedingly affright them, and altogether hinder them from motion or action, as that also did for three days. ‖ To the Israelites, as the opposition sheweth.

21 And Moses stretched out his hand over the Sea, and the LORD caused the Sea to go back by a strong strong East-wind y all that night, and made the sea

* Josh. 3. 16. & 4. 23. Nehem. 9. 11. Psal. 106. 9. and 114. 3. dry land, and the waters were * divided z.

y A proper instrument both to divide that Sea, which lay North and South, and to dry and harden the mud at the bottom of the Sea, that the Israelites might walk upon it. See Gen. 8. 13. Exod. 15. 8. Yet the wind could never have done so great a work, especially not so speedily, if there had not been an higher, even a divine, hand to manage and improve it. z So largely, that a great number of the Israelites might march in one rank, and the whole number might go a good way in it in the time here mentioned.

* Numb. 33. 8. Psal. 78. 13. 1 Cor. 10. 1. Heb. 11. 29.

22 And * the children of Israel went a into the midst of the sea upon the dry ground, and the waters were a wall b unto them on their right hand and on their left.

a About midnight, as may be gathered from ver. 24. b Both for height, and for their defence.

23 And the Egyptians pursued, and went in after them, to the midst of the sea, even all Pharaohs horses, his chariots, and his horse-men.

24 And it came to pass, that in the morning-watch c the LORD d looked e unto the host of the Egyptians, through the pillar of fire, and of the cloud, and troubled f the host of the Egyptians.

c The night was anciently divided not by hours, as now it is, but by watches, which sometimes were accounted four, and sometimes but three. However soever the last of them was called the morning-watch. Then when they hoped for most advantage in the pursuit, they met with their greatest disaster. d Called the Angel of God, ver. 19. By which promiscuous use of these Titles it sufficiently appears, that this was no ordinary Angel, but the Son of God. e With an eye of indignation and vengeance, as that phrase is used, Job 40. 12. See also Amos 9. 4. f With most terrible and prodigious Winds and Rains, and Lightnings, and both claps and bolts of Thunder, as may be gathered from Exod. 15. 10. Psal. 77. 18, 19. and as some antient Historians relate; with terrours also in their minds, &c.

25 And took off their chariot-wheels g, ‖ that they drave them heavily h: so that the Egyptians said, Let us flee from the face of Israel: for the LORD fighteth for them, against the Egyptians i.

g Either burning them with Lightning, or tearing them in pieces with Thunder-bolts, or loosening them and making them to fall off. h Heb. and he made him, or them, the singular number for the plural, i.e. The Egyptians or their Chariots, to go heavily, hardly and slowly, either for want of wheels, or for breaches in them, or because the Rain had softened the bottom of the Sea, or because the Lightnings and Thunders affrighted and dispirited their Horses. i Prodigious stupidity! They did not understand nor consider this, though it was notorious, to them especially, by many great and fresh instances, till it was too late to prevent it, therein being a Type of most sinners, who will not be convinced nor repent, till they be past all benefit by it.

26 And the LORD said unto Moses, stretch out thine hand over the sea, that the waters may come again upon the Egyptians, upon their chariots, and upon their horsemen.

27 And Moses stretched forth his hand over the sea, and the sea returned to his strength k when the morning appeared: and the Egyptians fled against it l: and the LORD † overthrew the Egyptians in the midst of the sea.

k To its natural and ordinary course, and motion, which is swift and strong, from which it had been hitherto restrained by a stronger hand, and rendred in a manner impotent and weak. But now Sampson-like, when its bonds are broken, it puts forth its former and natural strength. But indeed this word may belong to the morning, and so a learned man translates the place, and that very agreeably to the use and order of the Hebrew words, the Sea returned, to wit, to its course, when the morning appeared according to or in his strength, i.e. when it was full and clear morning, as we oft read of the strength of the day. See Gen. 7. 13. Job 21. 23. So the strength of the morning is here opposed to the morning-watch. l Against the Sea, for which way soever they fled, the waters met them and fought against them.

* Hab. 3. 8, 10. 28 And the * waters returned, and covered the chariots, and the horsemen, and all the host of Pharaoh that came into the sea after them m: there remained not so much as * one of them.

* Psal. 106. 11.

m (i.e.) After the Children of Israel. Note here, the relative is put without an antecedent before it, the antecedent being to be understood and gathered out of the following verse, or out of the course of the story. An observation which is very useful for the understanding of many Scriptures. See the note on Gen. 3. 1.

29 But the children of Israel walked upon dry land in the midst of the sea; and the waters were a wall unto them on their right hand and on their left.

30 Thus the LORD saved Israel that day out of the hand of the Egyptians: and Israel saw the Egyptians dead upon the sea-shore n.

n Which was done either 1. By the natural power of the Sea, which casteth up its dead bodies, after a certain time, till which time God caused the Israelites to abide near the Sea, that they might see this for their comfort. Or, 2. By the mighty power of God, which brought them, and their arms too, as many probably conceive to shore, before the usual time. Quest. How could the Israelites, both they and their Cattle, in so little time get over that great Sea? Answ. 1. The Hebrew and some other interpreters deny, that they went over, and tell us, that they only went into the Sea, and fetched a compass in it, that they might allure the Egyptians to follow them, and then by Moses his conduct returned to the Egyptian shore again. The principal ground of which opinion is this, that as they went into the Sea out of the Wilderness of Etham, Exod. 13. 20. So they came again out of the Sea into the Wilderness of Etham, Numb. 33. 8. But the sameness of the name doth not prove that it is the same place, nothing being more frequent in Scripture than for divers places to be called by one and the same name. And the Israelites might possibly give the name of Etham to this Desert on the Arabian side of the Red-Sea, either for its great resemblance to that Desert so called on the Egyptian side, or to intimate that God, by dividing the Sea, had made that and this to be one continued Desert. Or the name of Etham might be common to all that Desert at the end of the Red-Sea and on both sides of it. Answ. 2. They might all conveniently pass over the Sea to the Arabian shore in the time allowed for it, either by the mighty power of God which could easily make both men and beasts to do it in much less than ordinary time, or even by the course of nature. For that part of the Sea was not above eight or nine miles over, as Geographers and others affirm. And the time allotted for their passage seems to me to be much more than Interpreters have assigned for it. For the Egyptians and Israelites were divided one from another by the cloudy pillar all the night, ver. 20. and a strong East wind blew all that night, ver. 21. The next morning, as I apprehend it, the Cloud still keeping between them, and possibly covering the Egyptians with gross and horrible darkness which hindred their march, the whole body of the Israelites, and their Cattle too are drawn by Moses his direction near the shore, and, it may be, the Cattle were put into the Sea, all which might well take up most of that day, then towards the evening they enter into the Sea and so proceed, and the Cloud withdrawing further from the Egyptians and following the Israelites, the Egyptians pursue after them, and, as it is very probable from the nature and reason of the thing, stand debating some considerable time, when they came to the shore, whether they should venture to follow them into the Sea or no. At last, the worst Counsel prevails, as it general happens, when a people are under a divine infatuation, and into the Sea they go, and by the beginning of the morning-watch they draw near the Israelites, when God seasonably appears for Israels succour, and puts a stop to the march of the Egyptians. So the morning-watch mentioned ver. 24. I take to be, not the morning-watch of that night mentioned ver. 20. 21. (for all that night, and therefore the morning-watch of that night, which was a third, or, at least, a fourth part of it, was now past and gone) but the next morning-watch after that night and the succeeding day: which seems much more reasonable, than to shrink up the march first of the Israelites, and then of the Egyptians, into about three hours time, which is the time between the midnight and the morning-watch. Nor is there any thing in the text which in the least contradicts this opinion, but only that this days interval and work is not mentioned in this story, whereas such omissions are frequent in Scripture-relations, in which the substance only is mentioned and many circumstances omitted, whereof we have seen some instances already, and shall meet with many more hereafter.

See Numb. 12. 2. and Mic. 6. 4. x Queſt. Why not of Moſes alſo? Anſw. 1. She might be Moſes his Siſter only by one Parent, Aarons by both. 2. She was beſt known to the people by her relation to Aaron, with whom ſhe had lived for many years, when Moſes was baniſhed. y According to their antient cuſtom in publick ſolemnities. See Judg. 11. 34. and 21. 21. 1 Sam. 18. 6. 2 Sam. 6. 14, 21. Jer. 31. 4, 13.

22 So Moſes brought Iſrael from the red ſea, and they went out into the wilderneſs of Shur a: and they went three days in the wilderneſs, and found no water.

a So uſually called, Gen. 16. 7. and by the Iſraelites, Etham, as may be gathered by comparing this place with Numb. 33. 8. for both there and here it is ſaid they went three days in the Wilderneſs.

23 And when they came to Marah, they could not drink of the waters of * Marah, for they were bitter: therefore the name of it was called † Marah.

* Numb. 33. 8. † That is, bitterneſs.

24 And the people murmured againſt Moſes, ſaying, What ſhall we drink?

25 And he cryed unto the LORD: and the LORD ſhewed him a * tree, which when he had caſt into the waters, the waters were made ſweet b: there he made for them a ſtatute and an ordinance c, and there * he proved them *.

* Eccleſ. 38. 5. * chap. 16. 4.

b Not so much by any virtue in that tree, as by the power of God, who used this rather as a sign to the Israelites, than as an instrument to himself in this work. c God, or Moses in Gods Name, and by his order, constituted and published to them a Statute. Which seems to be understood not of any particular Statute or Law, as that concerning the Sabbath, or their duty to their Parents, or the like, for the specifying of their duties is reserved to another time and place; but of a general Law or Rule formerly given, and now solemnly renewed by Moses at Gods command, like that given to Abraham their Father, Gen. 17. 1. Walk before me and be perfect. God, having thus far performed his part of that Covenant made with Abraham and his seed, to bring them out of Egypt towards Canaan, tells them that he expects and requires of them their observance of the condition of that Covenant, and gives them this indefinite and universal Law or Precept, that they should obey and fulfil all the commands which God had already laid upon them or their Parents, and which he should hereafter reveal to them. This sense may be gathered out of the following verse, wherein he explains what he meant by this Statute, even all Gods Statutes or Commandments, which if they would keep, he engageth himself to preserve and deliver them. So it is only a change of the number, the singular, Statute, being put for the plural, Statutes, which is a figure very frequently used both in Scripture and in other Authors. God having now eased them of the hard and iron yoke of the Egyptians, puts his sweet and easie yoke upon them; and having undertaken to be their King, and Protector, and Captain, he claims their subjection to himself and to his Laws or Statutes. * Or, tryed them, i.e. the Israelites. There he tryed both their Faith by the difficulty now mentioned, viz. their want of water, and their future Obedience by this general command which he is about to branch forth into divers particulars.

26 And said, If thou wilt diligently hearken to the voice of the LORD thy God, and wilt do that which is right in his sight, and wilt give ear to his
* Deut. 7. 15. Commandments, and keep all his Statutes: * I will put none of these diseases upon thee d, which I have brought upon the Egyptians: for I am the LORD
* chap. 23. 25. Psal. 103. 3. & 147. 3. * that healeth thee e.

d Nor other evils or plagues: But on the contrary, I will bless thee with all manner of blessings. Under one branch or part of the blessings of Gods covenant he includes all the rest, by a very common Synecdoche. e Or, Thy Physitian, for all thy maladies, both of Soul and Body.

* Numb. 33. 9. 27 * And they came to Elim: where were twelve wells of water, and threescore and ten palm-trees f, and they encamped there by the waters.

f Which were both pleasant for their shade, and refreshing for their sweet fruit. Thus the Israelites are obliged and encouraged to the obedience commanded by being put into better circumstances than they were under in their last station.

CHAP. XVI.

1 AND they took their journey from Elim, and all the Congregation of the children of Israel came a unto the wilderness of Sin b, which is between Elim and Sinai, on the fifteenth day of the second month, after their departing out of the land of Egypt.

a Though not immediately: for there is another stage of theirs by the Red-sea mentioned Numb. 33. 10. (in which Chapter Moses designed exactly to set down all their stations) but omitted here, because nothing remarkable happened in it, and Moses in this place designed to record only the memorable passages. b A great Wilderness between the Red-sea and Mount Sinai, but differing from that Sin mentioned Numb. 20. 1.

2 And the whole Congregation of the children of Israel murmured c against Moses and Aaron in the Wilderness.

c For want of meat, as appears from the following verse, their provisions brought out of Egypt being now spent.

3 And the children of Israel said unto them, Would to God we had died by the hand of the
* Numb. 11. 4, 5. LORD d in the land of Egypt, * when we sate by the flesh-pots, and when we did eat bread to the full e: for ye have brought us forth into this Wilderness, to kill this whole assembly with hunger f.

d By any of those Plagues wherewith God destroyed the Egyptians. e Which is not probable: but they amplifie their former mercies, that they might aggravate their present calamity, as the manner of impatient and ungodly men is. f Quest. What danger was there of dying with hunger, seeing they had their flocks and their herds which they brought out of Egypt? Answ. 1. There was no great danger of it, but they use aggravating expressions, as discontented persons use to do. 2. Their flocks and herds were not so numerous as to suffice them for above a months provision, if they had all been slain and eaten, as it is implyed Numb. 11. 21, 22. So there was some danger of it, though neither immediate, nor great. 3. They were it seems resolved to spare these, partly for increase and for their future subsistence, and partly for sacrifice, as not knowing how many of them they should be required to offer. See Exod. 10. 26.

4 Then said the LORD unto Moses, Behold, I will rain * bread g from heaven || for you: and the people shall go out, and gather † a certain rate every day h, that I may * prove them i, whether they will walk in my Law or no.

g (i. e.) Manna, which shall serve them in stead of bread, Numb. 11. 8. and was a more delicate and pleasant kind of bread, called therefore, The bread of Angels, Psal. 78. 24, 25. || The air, oft called Heaven, in which Manna is produced. h Heb. The thing, (i. e.) the provision, of a day in his day, i. e. every day as much as was sufficient for a mans sustenance that day. i Either, 1. Whether by my giving them such miraculous and excellent provision they will be won to love and obey me. Or, 2. Whether by raining it down upon them for several days together, they will learn to trust me for the following days, and therefore gather no more than that day required.

5 And it shall come to pass, that on the sixth day they shall prepare k that which they bring in, and it shall be * twice as much as they gather daily.

k Lay up, grind, bake or seethe. See ver. 23. and Numb. 11. 8.

6 And Moses and Aaron said unto all the children of Israel, At even, then ye shall know that the LORD hath brought you l out from the land of Egypt.

l And not we by our own Authority or Counsel, as you suggest, ver. 3.

7 And in the morning, then ye shall see the glory of the LORD m, for that he heareth your murmurings against the LORD: And what are we that ye murmur against us?

m Either this glorious work of God in giving Manna: Or rather the glorious appearance of God in the Cloud, as is evident from ver. 10.

8 And Moses said, This shall be when the LORD shall give you in the evening flesh to eat, and in the morning bread to the full: for that the LORD heareth your murmurings, which ye murmur against him, and what are we? your murmurings are not against us, but * against the LORD.

9 And Moses spake unto Aaron, Say unto all the Congregation of the children of Israel, Come near before the LORD n: for he hath heard your murmurings.

n Either before the cloudy pillar, where God was especially present: or in the place of Gods Worship. For though the great Tabernacle was not yet built, yet it seems from Exod. 33. 7. there was a little Tabernacle. For as the solemn and publick and Sabbath-worship was among them before the Tabernacle was built: So it was necessary there should be some place where they did assemble together, and perform that worship which was proper to those times, and there God was supposed to be present in a peculiar manner.

10 And it came to pass as Aaron spake unto the whole Congregation of the children of Israel, that they looked toward the wilderness, and behold, the glory of the LORD o * appeared in the cloud.

o An extraordinary brightness suddenly appearing in the pillar of Cloud. See Levit. 9. 6, 23.

11 And the LORD spake p unto Moses, saying, p Or, had spoken, to wit, before, by comparing this with verse 7.

12 I have heard the murmurings of the children of Israel: speak unto them, saying, At even ye shall eat flesh, and in the morning ye shall be filled with bread q: and ye shall know that I am the LORD your God.

q God chuseth the proper time for each kind of provision, the evening for the quails, which being brought from remote parts by their days flight, about evening came thither; and the morning for Manna, which usually falls at that time.

Numb.11.31. Psal. 105.40. 13 And it came to pass, that at even * the quails came up, and covered the camp: and in the morning the dew lay r round about the host.

r Heb. there was a bed of dew, wherewith the Manna was covered, *ver.*14. To this the hidden manna, *Revel.*2.17. alludes.

Numb.11.7. Psal. 78.24. and 105.40. Wisd. 16.20. 14 And when * the dew that lay was gone up s, behold, upon the face of the wilderness there lay a small round thing, as small as the hoar frost upon the ground.

s To wit, into the Air, or, was vanished, as the word ascend is used, Jer. 48.15.

Or, what is this, or it is portion. Joh. 6.31. Cor. 10.3. 15 And when the children of Israel saw it, they said one to another, ‖ It is Manna t: for they wist not what it was. And Moses said unto them, * This is the bread which the LORD hath given you to eat.

t Or, what is this? which best suits with the following reason, for they wist not what it was. Man signifies what in the Egyptian Tongue; and it is not strange that the Israelites use one of their words, being newly come out of their Land. Hence this is called Manna, but it is of a different nature from the ordinary Manna which now we use only as physick for purging, whereas this Manna was food and nourishing, being prepared by the great God for this use.

16 This is the thing which the LORD hath commanded: gather of it every man according to his eating u: an Omer x † for every man, according to the number of your † persons take ye every man for them which are in his tents.

Heb. by the poll or head. Heb. souls.

u (i.e.) As much as is sufficient for his eating. x Which contains the tenth part of an Ephah, and therefore was a very liberal allowance, and such as might abundantly suffice a man of greatest strength and stomach. It might seem too much, but it must be remembred, that it was a very light meat, and easie of digestion: nor was every one obliged to eat up his whole portion, as we shall see.

17 And the children of Israel did so, and gathered some more, some less y.

y Either, 1. According as their Families were more or less numerous. Or rather, 2. As the gatherers were more or less strong and active in gathering it.

18 And when they did mete it with an Omer, he that gathered much, had nothing over, and he that gathered little, had no lack z: they gathered every man according to his eating.

z All that was gathered by the members of one Family was put into an heap, and then distributed to each person an Omer, neither more nor less: To which St. Paul alludes 2 *Cor.*8.13,&c.

19 And Moses said, Let no man leave of it till the morning a.

a (viz.) For the provision of the next day, as distrusting Gods care and goodness in giving them more. Not that every one was bound to eat all of it, which certainly many of their stomachs could not bear, but that they were to dissolve it, or burn it, as they did the remains of some sacrifices, Exod. 12.10. and 29.34. or consume it some other way.

20 Notwithstanding, they hearkned not unto Moses, but some of them left of it b until the morning, and it bred worms and stank c: and Moses was wroth with them.

b Either distrusting Gods providence for their future provisions: Or, out of curiosity to learn the nature of this Manna, and what they might do when occasion required. c Not so much from its own nature, which was pure and durable, as from Gods judgment.

21 And they gathered it every morning, every man according to his eating: and when the Sun waxed hot, it melted d.

d To wit, as much of it as was left upon the ground. This was not from its own nature, which was so solid that it could indure the fire, and was bruised by a pestel, but from Gods wise providence; partly, that it might not be corrupted or trodden under foot, or otherwise abused and so despised; partly, that it might not remain there to tempt any of them, to gather more of it than they should; and partly, that all their stock of provision being wasted, they might be obliged to the more entire dependance upon God. And this is here mentioned as a reason why they gathered it in the morning.

e Considering Gods present providence in causing it to fall in double proportion, and remembring that the next day was the Sabbath day, which God had blessed and sanctified to his own immediate service, Gen. 2.3. and therefore was not to be employed in servile works, such as the gathering of Manna was, they rightly concluded, that Gods commands delivered *ver.*16.19. reached only to ordinary days, and must in all reason give place to the more antient and necessary Law of the Sabbath. f Either to acquaint him with this increase of the miracle, or to take his direction for their practise, because they found two commands seemingly clashing together, and therefore needed and desired his advice.

23 And he said unto them, This is that which the LORD hath said g, to morrow is the rest of the holy Sabbath unto the LORD: bake h that which you will bake, to day i, and seethe k that ye will seethe, and that which remaineth over, lay up for you to be kept until the morning ‖.

g Either to Moses by inspiration: or to the former Patriarhs upon like occasions; this practise is agreeable to the former word and law of God, concerning the Sabbath, as it follows. h The Manna was dressed these two ways, *Numb.*11.8. i These words, to day, are not in the original, and possibly are better left out than taken in, or, if they be taken in, they do not seem to me, as they do to many others, to prove, that they were commanded to bake or seethe on the sixth day all that they were to eat both that day and upon the following Sabbath, or that they were forbidden to bake or seethe it upon the Sabbath day; for there is not a word here to that purpose, and it is apparent from the whole context, that the rest of the Sabbath is not opposed to their baking or seething of it, but to their going out into the field to gather it. Nay, the contrary is here implyed, because after they had baken and sodden what they intended to bake or seethe, part of the Manna did, as is here expressly added, remain over, and was reserved for the Sabbath days provision, and that unbaken and unsodden, otherwise it would not have been noted as a miraculous thing, that it did not stink nor breed worms, *ver.*24. ‖ What you do not eat this day, keep for the next days provision.

24 And they laid it up till the morning, as Moses bade: and it did not stink, neither was there any worm therein k.

k As there was before, ver. 20. So great a difference there is between the doing of a thing upon Gods command and with his blessing, and the doing of the same thing against his will and with his curse.

25 And Moses said, Eat that to day l, for to day is a Sabbath unto the LORD m: to day ye shall not find it in the field.

l These words were spoken upon the morning of the Sabbath day, as appears from the foregoing verse. m (i.e.) Wholly consecrated to his service, and therefore not to be employed in servile works.

26 Six days ye shall gather it, but on the seventh day which is the Sabbath, in it there shall be none.

27 And it came to pass, that there went out some of the people on the seventh day for to gather, and they found none.

28 And the LORD said unto Moses n, How long o refuse ye to keep my commandments, and my laws?

n That he might speak it to the people. o He signifies that this was an old disease in them, to disobey Gods precepts, and to pollute his Sabbaths.

29 See, for that the LORD hath given you the Sabbath p, therefore he giveth you on the sixth day the bread of two days: abide ye every man in his place: let no man go out of his place q on the seventh day.

p Hath given to you and to your fathers that great command and priviledge of the Sabbath. q Out of his house or tent into the field to gather Manna, as appears from the occasion and reason of the law here before mentioned. For otherwise they might and ought to go out of their houses to the publick assemblies, as appears from *Lev.*23.3. *Act.*15.21. and to lead their cattle to watering, *Luk.*13.15. or to help them out of a pit, *Mat.*12.11. And a Sabbath-days journey was permitted, *Act.*1.12.

30 So the people rested r on the seventh day.

r Or ceased, to wit, from gathering Manna, by comparing this with *ver.*27. and consequently from all works of that nature.

31 And the house of Israel called the name thereof
*Numb. 11.7. Manna: and * it was like Coriander seed s, white: and the taste of it t was like wafers made with honey.

s In shape and figure, but not in colour, for that is dark-coloured, but this white, as it follows here, like Bdellium, &c. Numb. 11. 7. t When it was raw: but when it was dresst, it was like fresh oyl, Numb. 11.8.

32 And Moses said, This is the thing which the LORD commandeth; Fill an Omer of it to be kept for your generations, that they may see the bread wherewith I have fed you in the wilderness, when I brought you forth from the land of Egypt.

*1 King. 8.9. Heb. 9.4. 33 And Moses said unto Aaron, * Take a pot, and put an Omer full of Manna therein, and lay it up before the LORD u, to be kept for your generations.

u In the tabernacle and by the ark, when they shall be built, and at present in the place where you meet for the solemn worship of God.

34 As the LORD commanded Moses, so Aaron laid it up before the Testimony x, to be kept.

x (i. e.) Before the ark, which is called, the ark of the testimony, *Exod.*25.16. and here, by way of abbreviation, the testimony or witness, because in it were the tables of the covenant, or the law of God, which was a testimony of Gods authority and will, and of mans subjection and duty, or of the covenant made between God and man. See Deut. 10. 5. and 31. 26. Quest. How could this be laid up before the Ark, when the Ark was not yet built? Answ. This text only tells us, that Aaron did lay it up, but it doth not determine the time, nor affirm that it was done at this instant, but rather intimates the contrary, and that it was done afterwards when the testimony, i. e. the Ark was built. As the next verse also speaks of what was done in the following forty years.

*Josh. 5.12. Neh. 9.15. 35 And the children of Israel did eat Manna forty years, * until they came to a land inhabited: they did eat Manna, until they came to the borders of the land of Canaan y.

y This Moses might well write: for though he did not go into Canaan, yet he came to the borders of Canaan. And though he did not see the cessation of the Manna, yet he sufficiently knew both from the nature of the thing, and by revelation from God, that it would forthwith cease upon their entrance into Canaan.

36 Now an Omer is the tenth part of an Ephah.

CHAP. XVII.

1 AND all the Congregation of the children of Israel journeyed from the wilderness of Sin after their journeys a, according to the Commandment of the LORD b, and pitched in Rephidim: and there was no water for the people to drink.

a By divers stations, recorded Numb. 33. 12, 13. &c. but here omitted, because there was nothing extraordinary hapned in them. b Expressed either by word of mouth, or by the motion or rest of the cloudy pillar, Exod. 13. 21.

*Numb. 20.4. 2 Wherefore the * people did chide with Moses, and said, Give us water that we may drink. And Moses said unto them, Why chide you with me?
*Psal. 78.41. 1 Cor. 10.9. Wherefore do ye * tempt the LORD c?

c By distrusting Gods power and providence, and faithfulness and goodness, upon such a small occasion, by refusing to submit to Gods will, and to wait upon him by humble and fervent prayers for relief, and in stead thereof quarrelling with me as if it were my fault, and murmuring against God under my name.

3 And the people thirsted there for water, and the people murmured against Moses, and said, Wherefore is this, that thou hast brought us up out of Egypt, to kill us and our children, and our cattle with thirst?

4 And Moses cryed unto the LORD, saying, What shall I do unto this people? they be almost ready to stone me.

5 And the LORD said unto Moses, Go on before the people, and take with thee of the Elders of Israel d: and thy rod wherewith * thou smotest the * chap.7.2 river e, take in thine hand, and go.

d That they may be eye-witnesses of this glorious work, and may report it to the people. e Either the Red-sea; for an arm of the Sea is sometimes called a river: or, the river Nilus.

and there shall water come out of it. And Moses and 105.41.
did so h, in the sight of the Elders of Israel. Wisd. 11.4.

f In my cloudy pillar, which shall stand over that place. g Horeb and Sinai are sometimes spoken of as the same place, and sometimes as two differing places, as here compared with Exod. 19.2. The learned write, that this was one long mountain, whereof there were two eminent parts or tops, the one at a considerable distance from the other, and Horeb was the first part of it, and near Rephidim, and Sinai, the more remote, to which they came afterwards. h (i.e.) Smote the rock, and the waters flowed out plentifully and continually, making a river, which God caused to follow them to their several stations. See 1 Cor. 10. 4.

7 And he called the name of the place || Massah, || That is,

8 * Then k came Amalek, and fought with Israel *Deut. 25.

Wisd. 11.4

k When they were upon their march from Rephidim to Horeb, *Deut.*25.17,18. l The ground of the quarrel was the prosecution of the old hatred of Esau against Jacob, and the revenging of themselves and their father upon the posterity of Jacob: for which they thought this the fittest season, they being now a great and potent people, *Numb.*24. 20. and Israel now weak and unarmed, and dispirited with long servitude.

m Out of the camp, to meet the enemy. n Both to observe thy carriage, and success or defeat, that I may govern my self accordingly, and that I may in that retirement pour out my soul unto the Lord of hosts that he may give thee victory. o By which having done so great exploits formerly, doubt not of the same divine assistance to accompany it, and make thee victorious.

10 So Joshua did as Moses had said to him, and fought with Amalek: and Moses, Aaron, and Hur p went up to the top of the hill.

p A person of eminency both for wisdom and experience, and for place and authority, supposed to be the husband of Miriam. See Exod. 24.14.

11 And it came to pass when Moses held up his hand q, that Israel prevailed: and when he let down his hand, Amalek prevailed r.

q With the rod of God in it. This gesture, though fervent prayer was doubtless joyned with it, seems not to have been the gesture of one praying, which is the lifting up of both hands, but of an Ensign-bearer, or of one ready to smite his enemies. Howsoever this was only a sign whereby Moses strengthned his faith, and quickned his prayers, and heightned the courage of the Souldiers below, and protested that he expected victory not from the skill and prowess of his Army, but from the assistance of God. r God so dispensing his favour, that the honour of the day and victory might be wholly ascribed to the rod and power of God, not to Israel.

12 But

12 But Moſes hands were heavy, and they took a ſtone, and put it under him, and he ſat thereon: and Aaron and Hur ſtayed up his hands s, the one on the one ſide, and the other on the other ſide, and his hands were ſteady until the going down of the Sun.

s Not that both hands were erected and joyned together, which was not a fit poſture for one holding a rod in his hand, but that Moſes ſhifted the rod out of one hand into the other when the former was weary, and that Aaron and Hur did each of them with both hands hold up that hand which was next to them ſucceſſively, that they alſo might relieve one the other.

13 And Joſhua diſcomfited Amalek, and his people t, with the edge of the ſword.

t Either 1. The King of the Amalekites, and his people: Or, 2. the people of the Amalekites, and thoſe other people who were leagued with them.

14 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Write this for a memorial in a book u, and rehearſe it in the ears of Joſhua x: for * I will utterly put out the remembrance of Amalek y from under heaven z.

See Exod. 34. 27. Deut. 31. 9, 22. x Thy ſucceſſour and the captain of my people, that he and all ſucceeding governours may watch all occaſions to execute this command. y (i. e.) I will utterly deſtroy them: for a perſon or people dead or deſtroyed are ſoon forgotten. Pſal. 31. 12. and the grave is called the land of forgetfulneſs, Pſal. 88. 12. Or thus, though they are now a numerous and flouriſhing people and in great repute, I will make them few and inglorious, for ſuch are little minded or remembred: for this is not to be underſtood abſolutely of a ſpeedy and utter extinction of them, for he ſuppoſeth their being from generation to generation v. 16. but comparatively. z From the face of the whole earth.

15 And Moſes built an Altar a, and called the name of it b ‖ JEHOVAH-niſſi.

‖ That is, the LORD my banner.

a Both for the offering of ſacrifices of praiſe unto God, and to be a monument of this victory and of the Author of it. b viz. Of the Altar, which he ſo calls metonymically, becauſe it was the ſign and monument of Jehovah Niſſi; even as circumciſion is called Gods Covenant, Gen. 17. 13. and the lamb, the paſſover, Exod. 12. 11. and the cup, the New Teſtament, Luk. 22. 20. becauſe they were the ſigns of them. Or the word, altar, is to be repeated out of the former member, which is frequent, and the place to be read thus, he called the name of it, the altar of Jehovah-niſſi. Or the name given to it ſignifies only the inſcription ingraven upon it, which was not the ſingle name of God, but an entire ſentence, the lord is my banner. By which words he takes all the praiſe of the victory from the Iſraelites, and gives it to God.

16 For he ſaid, ‖ Becauſe d † the LORD hath ſworn that the e LORD will have war with Amalek from generation to generation.

c Or, And, as the Hebrew particle properly ſignifies; for theſe words are not a reaſon of the paſſage next preceding, but an additional ſentence. d Or, ſurely, as that particle is oft uſed, as Job 8. 6. and 20. 20. Pſal. 10. 14. and 44. 22. &c. e Heb. the hand upon the throne of the Lord, for the hand of the Lord upon his throne, which is perfectly the ſame thing, only the order of the words is a little varied after the manner of the Hebrew tongue. Theſe words then are a paraphraſtical deſcription of a ſolemn oath, by the uſual poſture of it, viz. the lifting up the hand, which is uſually put for ſwearing, and in that ſenſe is aſcribed both to men, as Gen. 14. 22. and to God, as Deut. 32. 40. And this hand of God lifted up upon his throne, where his Majeſty doth peculiarly and gloriouſly dwell, ſignifies that God ſwears by himſelf, as is ſaid, Heb. 6. 13. And thus the Chaldee and Arabick Interpreters underſtand it. Others render the place thus, Becauſe the hand (or, his hand, the pronoun being here underſtood, as it frequently is in the Hebrew language, of which ſeveral inſtances have been given before, i. e. the hand of Amalek, which may eaſily be underſtood out of the following clauſe in which Amalek is named) was againſt the throne of the Lord; i. e. was ſtretched out againſt God himſelf; for ſo God eſteems it, becauſe it was done againſt that people among whom God had placed his throne or ſeat or dwelling according to his covenant made with them; which alſo was well known to the Amalekites by the relation of their progenitors, who in all probability had acquainted them with their own rights, and with Jacobs arts whereby he robbed Eſau, the father of Amalek, Gen. 36. 15, 16. of his birthright and bleſſing and conſequently of the land of Canaan, to which now God was bringing them, that he might plant them there and ſet up his throne among them. And the Amalekites doubtleſs heard, as the other neighbours alſo did, in what a miraculous manner God had brought them out of Egypt and over the Red-ſea. And they knew better than others, by tradition from their Parents that God had promiſed Canaan to them, and now they ſaw that he was conducting them thither. And therefore to prevent this they now commence a War againſt them and againſt God or his Throne, whoſe preſence with and conduct over them was moſt manifeſt: which was a great aggravation of their ſin. And this later tranſlation and interpretation ſeems moſt probable, 1. becauſe it exactly agrees with the Hebrew words, and the order in which they are placed. 2. It makes the coherence more clear than our tranſlation doth, the former part of the verſe containing a reaſon of the later, to wit, of that ſevere curſe and everlaſting war denounced againſt Amalek, becauſe they attempted by force to overthrow Gods throne and people, and that with ſo many aggravating circumſtances, of which ſee Deut. 25. 17, 18.

CHAP. XVIII.

1 WHen * Jethro the Prieſt of Midian, Moſes father in law, heard of all that God had done for Moſes, and for Iſrael his people, and that the LORD had brought Iſrael out of Egypt:

* chap. 2. 16.

2 Then Jethro Moſes father in law took Zipporah Moſes wife, after he had ſent her back a.

a From the way to Egypt, upon the occaſion mentioned, Exod. 4. 24, 25. and becauſe he found by experience that ſhe was likely to hinder him from or diſcourage him in the diſcharge of his great and dangerous office, and to give an ill example to the Iſraelites.

3 And her two ſons, of which the * name of the one was ‖ Gerſhom: for he ſaid, I have been an alien in a ſtrange land.

* chap. 2. 22. ‖ That is, a ſtranger there.

4 And the name of the other was ‖ Eliezer, for the God of my father, ſaid he, was mine help, and delivered me from the ſword of Pharaoh.

‖ That is, My God is an help.

5 And Jethro Moſes father in law came b with his ſons and his wife unto Moſes into the wilderneſs, where he encamped at * the mount of God.

* chap. 3. 1.

b Not at this time, but after the delivery of the law at mount Sinai, as may appear 1. becauſe he finds them encamped, as it here follows, at the mount of God, i. e. Sinai, whither they came not till Exod. 19. 2. 2. becauſe the laws of Sacrifices were given before his coming, as appears from ver. 12. 3. becauſe the execution of this counſel here given about the choice of Magiſtrates, ver. 19. is related after the Iſraelites departure from Sinai, Deut. 1. 7. &c. And therefore here is a tranſpoſal in this Hiſtory, which is alſo frequent in other places of holy Scripture.

6 And he ſaid c unto Moſes, I thy father in law Jethro am come unto thee, and thy wife, and her two ſons with her.

c Not by word of mouth, as the next verſe ſheweth, but either by a letter, or by a meſſenger, as that word is uſed, Mat. 8. 6, 8. compared with Luk. 7. 3, 6.

7 And Moſes went out to meet his father in law, and did obeiſance, and kiſſed him: and they asked each other of their † welfare d, and they came into the tent.

d Heb. of their peace, i. e. proſperity and all happineſs, which alſo they wiſhed one to the other, as this phraſe implies. See 1 Sam. 10. 4. & Pſal. 122. 6.

8 And Moſes told his father in law all that the LORD had done unto Pharaoh, and to the Egyptians for Iſraels ſake e, and all the travel that had † come upon them by the way, and how the LORD delivered them.

e Or, concerning Iſraels buſineſs.

9 And Jethro rejoyced for all the goodneſs which the LORD had done to Iſrael: whom he had delivered out of the hand of the Egyptians.

10 And Jethro ſaid, Bleſſed be the LORD, who hath delivered you out of the hand of the Egyptians, and out of the hand of Pharaoh, who hath delivered the people from under the hand of the Egyptians.

11 Now I know f that the LORD is greater than all gods: * for in the thing wherein they g dealt proudly, he was above them.

* chap. 1. 10, 16, 22. and 5. 7. & 14. 18.

f viz.

f עין. More clearly and by certain experience, as that phrase signifies, Gen. 22. 12. 1 King. 17. 18, 24. For otherwise it is more than probable, that Jethro had the knowledge of the true God before this time, not only because he was the great grand-child of Abraham, but also because of his long conversation with a person of so great knowledge and wisdom and piety as Moses was. g Either 1. their false Gods, who wrought strange things in and by their servants the Magitians, who contended with Moses, and proudly boasted of their skill as not a whit inferiour to that of Moses, but at last were forced to yield up the cause, Exod. 8. 19. or rather 2. the Egyptians, spoken of ver. 10. who dealt proudly and scornfully and tyrannically with the Israelites, but God shewed himself to be above them and above their King, though Pharaoh would not own him for his Superiour, Exod. 5. 2. but lift up his horn against God and against his people: but the Lord brought that proud Prince upon his knees, and forced him oft to confess his faults and to become suppliant to Moses for deliverance from the plagues, and at last, when he continued incorrigible, he drowned him in the Sea.

12 And Jethro Moses father in law took h a burnt-offering and sacrifices i for God: and Aaron came, and the Elders of Israel to eat bread k with Moses father in law before God l.

h (i. e.) Gave or offered, as that verb is used Psal. 68. 18. compared with Eph. 4. 8. also Exod. 25. 2. Which he did that he might publickly testifie both his embracing of the true Religion, and his thankfulness to God for the great deliverance given to his people, wherein also himself and family were concerned. And he took or offered these not immediately or by himself, (which would have seemed a presumptuous and unwarrantable action for a stranger to undertake in the Church of Israel) but by those who were appointed to do it, in which sence David is said to have sacrificed, 2 Sam. 24. 25. and Solomon, 1 King. 8. 63. and all those who brought their offerings to the Priests to offer for them. i To wit, of thanksgiving, as is expressed Exod. 24. 5. for part of these the offerers with others did eat, Levit. 7. 15. whereas no man might eat of the burnt-offerings, Lev. 1. 9. k (i. e.) to feast together of the remainders of the sacrifices. l Either before the cloudy pillar: Or rather, before the altar, and in the place of publick worship: For some such place undoubtedly they had, though the Tabernacle was not yet built: and that was the place appointed for such feasts. See Deut. 12. 7. and 27. 7: 1 Chron. 29. 21. Psal. 116. 17.

13 And it came to pass on the morrow, that Moses sate to judge the people m: and the people stood by Moses from the morning unto the evening.

m As a civil Magistrate by hearing and determining causes and controversies arising among the people.

14 And when Moses father in law saw all that he did to the people, he said, What is this thing that thou doest unto the people? Why sittest thou thy self alone, and all the people stand by thee from morning unto even?

15 And Moses said unto his father in law, Because * the people come unto me to enquire of God n.

* Lev. 24. 12. Num. 15. 34.

n (i. e.) Of the mind and will of God both as to his worship and service, and as to their mutual duties to one another. See 1 Sam. 9. 9.

16 When they have a matter, they come unto me, and I judge between † one and another, and I do make them know o the Statutes of God, and his Laws.

† Heb. a man and his fellow.

o (i. e.) Do interpret and apply them to their several cases and circumstances.

17 And Moses father in law said unto him; The thing that thou doest, is not good p.

p Not convenient either for thy self or for the people.

18 † Thou wilt surely wear away q, both thou, and this people r that is with thee: for this thing is too heavy for thee: * thou art not able to perform it thy self alone.

† Heb. fading thou wilt fade.

* Num 11. 14. Deut. 1. 9.

q Waste and destroy thy health and strength by excessive labour of mind and body. r By tedious attendance and expectation ere their turn comes for the decision of their matters.

19 Hearken now unto my voice; I will give thee counsel, and God shall be with thee s: Be thou for the people to God-ward t, that thou mayst bring the causes unto God:

s (i. e.) I doubt not, God will assist and bless thee as well in the course which I propose to thee, as in that which thou now dost use, because God is a God of order and loves order, and he is a God of mercy, and would not have thee destroy thy self in his work. Or it may be taken for a prayer, and God be with thee; i. e. bless and assist thee therein. t Heb. before God, i. e. in hard and weighty causes which the inferiour Judges cannot determine, as it is explained, ver. 22. where they need and seek direction from God, there thou shalt be as a mediatour between God and them, to bring their matters to God, as it here follows, and to receive directions and commands from him. See Numb. 15. 33, 34. and 27. 5, 6.

20 And thou shalt teach them Ordinances and Laws u, and shalt shew them the way wherein they must walk, and the work that they must do.

u Thou alone shalt deliver and explain Gods laws to them, which they may apply to their particular causes and occasions and so end their differences among themselves without giving thee any trouble.

21 Moreover thou shalt provide out of all the people * able men x, such as fear God y; men of truth z, hating covetousness a, and place such over them to be rulers of thousands, and rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties, and rulers of tens.

* Deut. 1. 13. and 16. 18. 2 Chro. 19.

x Heb. men of might, not for strength of body, but for greatness, resolution, courage, and constancy of mind, which is the best preservative against partiality and corruption in judgment, to which men of little minds or narrow souls are easily swayed by fears or hopes or gifts. y Which will restrain them from all injustice, even when they have ability and opportunity to do wrong so cunningly or powerfully, that they may escape the observation and censure of men. z Or, of faith, or faithful, such as love the truth, and diligently labour to find it out in all causes, and then pass a true and righteous sentence, not at all respecting persons, but only the truth and right of their causes, such as hate lies and slanders, and will severely rebuke and punish them. a This, though included in the former, is particularly expressed, because gifts and brides are the great corrupters of Judges and Judgments.

22 And let them judge the people at all seasons: and it shall be, that every great matter they shall bring unto thee, but every small matter they shall judge: so shall it be easier for thy self, and they shall bear the burthen with thee.

23 If thou shalt do this thing, and God command thee so b, then thou shalt be able to endure, and all this people shall also go to their place c in peace d.

b If God approve of the course which I suggest, to whose wisdom I submit my opinion. For Jethro might well think, that Moses neither would nor might make so great an alteration in the government, without consulting God about it and expecting his answer. Others render the place thus, both God will give thee his commands, i. e. thou wilt have leisure to ask and take his counsel in all emergencies, which now thou hast not, and thou wilt be able to endure. c To their several habitations, which are called mens places, Judg. 7. 7. and 9. 55. and 19. 28, 29. where their calling and business lies, from which they are now diverted and detained by fruitless and wearisome attendances. d Orderly and quietly, having their minds much eased by this course and their contentions soon ended.

24 So Moses hearkened to the voice of his father in law e, and did all that he had said f.

e This is one evidence of that meekness for which Moses is justly magnified, that he disdained not to receive advice from one so much his inferiour in Wisdom and Learning and knowledge of the things of God. And God would have this wise Counsel to come from Jethro, not from Moses himself, to shew how variously he distributes his gifts, and to teach all men not to think too highly of themselves nor to despise the counsels even of their inferiours. f Not immediately, but after he had received Gods approbation, Numb. 11. 16. and the peoples consent, Deut. 1. 14.

25 And Moses chose g able men out of all Israel, and made them heads over the people, rulers of thousands, rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties and rulers of tens.

g Not solely, but together with the people, as appears from Deut. 1. 13.

26 And they judged the people at all seasons: the hard causes they brought unto Moses, but every small matter they judged themselves.

27 And

27 And Moſes let his father in law depart b, and he went his way into his own land.

b (i. e.) Diſmiſſed him honourably. See Numb. 10. 29.

CHAP. XIX.

1 IN the third month a when the children of Iſrael were gone forth out of the land of Egypt, *Num. 33. 15. the ſame day b * came they into the wilderneſs of Sinai.

a Heb. Third new Moon, called Sivan, including the later part of May, and the former part of June. b Heb. in that day, to wit, when the month or new-moon began, and when they departed from Rephidim, to note, that there was no Station between theſe two. This is ſet down thus accurately, becauſe it gives an account of the original of the feaſt of Pentecoſt, becauſe the giving of the Law, which was 3 or 4 days after this time, was 50 days after the Paſſover, whereof 46 or 47 were paſt at their firſt coming to Sinai, reckoning from the 15th day of the firſt month, when they came out of Egypt, to this time.

2 For they were departed from Rephidim, and were come to the deſert of Sinai c, and had pitched in the wilderneſs, and there Iſrael camped before the mount.

c (i. e.) To that part of the deſert which adjoyned to mount Sinai, as Rephidim, from whence they came, was in that part of the wilderneſs adjoyning to Horeb, which was another part of the ſame mountain. See Exod. 17. 6. So they ſeem to have fetched a large compaſs and to have come from one ſide of the mountain to the other.

Act. 7. 38. 3 And * Moſes went up to God d: and the LORD called unto him out of the mountain, ſaying, Thus ſhalt thou ſay to the houſe of Jacob, and tell the children of Iſrael:

d Into the mount of God, to the place where God had now fixed his cloudy pillar, and where he was about to manifeſt himſelf in a glorious manner. So it is an anticipation.

Deut. 29. 2. 4 * Ye have ſeen what I did unto the Egyptians, and how I bare you on Eagles wings e, and brought you unto my ſelf f.

e (i. e.) ſafely, out of the reach of danger; and ſtrongly, againſt all oppoſition. Compare Deut. 32. 11. Iſa. 63. 9. Rev. 12. 14. f Into my preſence and favour and fellowſhip, to be my peculiar people, to ſerve and worſhip me as your only Lord and King.

Deut. 5. 2. Deut. 4. 20. d 7. 6. and 2. & 26. 18. 32. 8, 9. Pſal. 35. 4. Cant. 8. 2. Iſai. 43. 1. r. 10. 16. al. 3. 17. Tit. 14. Deut. 10. 14. al. 24. 1. 5 Now *therefore if ye will obey my voice indeed g and keep my Covenant, then * ye ſhall be a peculiar treaſure unto me h above all people: for * all the earth is mine i.

g Heb. obeying ye will obey, i. e. if ye will obey me ſincerely, diligently, and conſtantly: h Highly prized and loved and carefully kept by me, as mens treaſures generally are. i For all people upon earth are mine by creation and dominion, and I can diſpoſe of them all as I pleaſe, and either chuſe or refuſe any of them as I think fit, and therefore though I might refuſe you, as well as any others, yet it is my pleaſure to ſingle you out of all the world, upon whom to confer my chieſeſt and peculiar bleſſings. Or, though all the earth be mine, by general right, yet you only are mine by ſpecial title and priviledge.

1 Pet. 2. 9. cv. 1 6. & 5. o. & 20. 6. 6 And ye ſhall be unto me a * kingdom of Prieſts k, and an holy nation l. Theſe are the words which thou ſhalt ſpeak unto the children of Iſrael.

k So they are called in regard, 1. of their exemption and ſeparation from all the people of the world, as Prieſts are taken out of the multitude of men. 2. of their conſecration to the worſhip and ſervice of God, every ſubject of this Kingdom being in ſome ſort a Prieſt to offer up ſome kind of ſacrifices to God. 3. of their priviledges, becauſe God conferred upon them ſingular honour, ſafety and immunity, and liberty of coming near to him, as Prieſts among all nations have been eſteemed priviledged perſons. l Purged from the Idolatry and other abominations of the heathen world, and ſeparated from them by a wall of partition, allied to me by an holy covenant, and conſecrated to my uſe and ſervice.

7 And Moſes came and called for the Elders of the people, and laid before their faces all theſe words which the LORD commanded him.

chap. 24. 3, 7. eut. 5. 27. nd 26. 17. 8 And * all the people anſwered together, and ſaid, All that the LORD hath ſpoken, we will do. And Moſes returned the words of the people unto the LORD m.

m Not for Gods information, but for the peoples greater obligation; and to learn what anſwer he ſhould return from God to them.

9 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Lo, I come unto thee n in a thick cloud o, that the people may hear when I ſpeak with thee, and * believe thee for ever: and Moſes told the words of the people p unto the LORD. *chap. 14. 31.

n As to the mediatour between me and them and the interpreter of my mind to them. o See ver. 16. and compare 1 King. 11 12 2 Chron. 6. 1. p Thoſe mentioned ver. 8. This is here repeated, becauſe Gods anſwer to them now follows.

10 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Go unto the people, and Sanctifie them q to day, and to morrow, and let them * waſh their cloaths r. * Gen. 35. 2.

q (i. e.) Command them to ſanctifie and cleanſe themſelves from all filthineſs of fleſh and ſpirit, and to prepare their hearts for the right receiving of my laws and ſolemn entring into covenant with me. Compare Lev. 11. 45. Joſ. 3. 5. and 7. 13. r By which external waſhing, which was agreeable to that ſtate of the Church, they were taught to cleanſe their inward man.

11 And be ready againſt the third day: for the third day s the LORD * will come down t in the ſight of all the people, upon mount Sinai. * chap. 34. 5. Deut. 33. 2.

s From this time, and the fiftieth day from the Paſſover, as was noted before. t In a viſible and glorious manifeſtation of his preſence.

12 And thou ſhalt ſet bounds to the people round about, ſaying, Take heed to your ſelves, that ye go not up into the mount, or touch the border of it: * whoſoever toucheth the mount, ſhall be ſurely put to death u. * Heb. 12. 22.

u By this ſymbolical injunction God deſigned, 1. to reſtrain mens curious and bold enquiries into the things of God. 2. to poſſeſs the Iſraelites then preſent and all ſucceeding generations with the dread and reverence of the Divine Majeſty, and of his holy law. 3. to prepare and inure the people to the obedience of Gods commands, even when they diſcern not the reaſons of them, 4. to make them ſenſible of their own impurity and infirmity, and of their abſolute need of a Mediatour through whom they might have acceſs to God. See Gal. 3. 39.

13 There ſhall not a hand touch it x, but he ſhall ſurely be ſtoned or ſhot through, whether it be beaſt y or man, it ſhall not live: when the ‖ trumpet ſoundeth long z, they ſhall come up to the mount a. ‖ Or, comes.

x (i. e.) The mountain. But 1. This ſeems to be a groſs tautology, for it was twice forbidden in the words next foregoing. 2. So the word hand would ſeem to be aſcribed both to man and beaſt. Others therefore render it, touch him, i. e. they ſhall look upon ſuch an impudent tranſgreſſor of my expreſs command as an abominable perſon, whom they cannot touch without defilement, and therefore he ſhall be put to death in ſuch a manner as may be performed without touching him. y For though the beaſts are not capable of a law, yet they might be threatned for mans caution, and puniſhed for the fault of their owners in not keeping them at a diſtance from the mount. z (i. e.) With one continued, equal and gentle ſound, as is uſual in the end of the Muſick-ſong, which is oppoſed to a rough and loud and unequal ſound. There was no real trumpet here, but an Angel made a ſound like that of a trumpet. a Obj. This was forbidden to them, ver. 12. Anſw. 1. They were forbidden to come up to the mount whilſt God was delivering his laws, but allowed it afterwards when that action ceaſed, which was ſignified by the long ſound of the trumpet. 2. They might not come into the mount, or towards the top of it, but they might come to the bottom or lower parts of it, where the bounds were ſet, or at leaſt towards or near it, as the Hebrew preposition, beth, is ſometimes uſed. So the mount may be underſtood more ſtrictly, ver. 12. for an eminent part or top of it, where the thick cloud appeared, and where Moſes was, and here more largely for the whole mountain.

14 And Moſes went down from the mount unto the people, and ſanctified the people b, and they waſhed their cloaths.

b By commanding them to ſanctifie themſelves, and directing them how to do it.

15 And he ſaid unto the people, Be ready againſt the third day, * come not at your wives c. * 1 Sam. 21. 4, 5. Zech. 7. 3. 1 Cor. 7. 5.

c Abſtain from the uſe of the marriage-bed, partly becauſe your wives may haply have their uncleanneſs upon them, though unknown to themſelves, at leaſt to you, whereby you may be legally defiled; See Lev. 15. 18. and partly that your minds may be abſtracted from all ſenſual delights and wholely employed about this great and holy work and ſervice. There is a like command, 1 Cor. 7. 5. but both this and that do indifferently concern both miniſters and people and are limited to a certain time, and therefore are very impertinently alledged for the perpetual celibacy of Miniſters. See alſo 1 Sam. 21. 5.

16 And it came to paſs on the third day in the
* Heb. 12. 18. morning, that there were * thunders and lightnings d, and a thick cloud e upon the mount, and the voice of the trumpet f exceeding loud, ſo that all the people g that was in the camp, trembled.

d Sent partly as evidences and tokens both of Gods glorious preſence, and of the anger of God and the dreadful puniſhments due to the tranſgreſſours of the law, now to be delivered, and partly as means to humble and awaken, and convince and terrifie proud and ſecure ſinners that they might more reverently attend to the words and commands of God, more willingly yield obedience to them, and be more afraid of the violation of them. e Which was both a fit mean for the production and reception of the thunders and lightnings, and a ſignification as well of the inviſible and unconceivable nature of God, as of the obſcurity of the legal diſpenſation in regard of its types and ſhadows, &c. 2 Cor. 3. 13, 18. and 4. 6. f A fit inſtrument both for the promulgation of Gods law, and for the ſignification of that war that is between God and ſinners. g Moſes himſelf not excepted, as appears from Heb. 12. 21.

* Deut. 4. 10. 17 And * Moſes brought forth the people out of the camp to meet with God, and they ſtood at the nether part of the mount h.

h Therefore one part of the mount they might come to, though not to another, to wit, the higher: which may clear the difficulty and ſeeming contradiction betwixt ver. 12. and 13.

* Deut. 4. 11. and 33. 2. Judg. 5. 4. Hab. 3. 3. * Heb. 12. 26. 18 And * mount Sinai was altogether on a ſmoak, becauſe the LORD deſcended upon it in fire i, and the ſmoak thereof aſcended as the ſmoak of a furnace, and * the whole mount quaked greatly k.

i For further terrour to obſtinate ſinners. Hence this law is called a fiery law. Deut. 33. 2. k By an earthquake, as appears from Pſal. 60. 2. and 104. 32.

19 And when the voice of the trumpet ſounded long, and waxed louder and louder l, Moſes ſpake,
* Neh. 9. 13. and * God anſwered him by a voice m.

l Heb. went on or increaſed and grew very ſtrong or vehement or loud. This is oppoſed to the ſounding long, ver. 13. m (i. e.) By plain, diſtinct and audible words, as Pſal. 81. 7. Joh. 12. 29. ſo as the people alſo might hear, as appears from ver. 9. See Deut. 5. 24. 5 King. 19. 12, 13. Heb. 12. 19.

20 And the LORD came down upon mount Sinai, on the top of the mount n: and the LORD called Moſes up to the top of the mount, and Moſes went up.

n So here are three parts of the mount manifeſtly diſtinguiſhed, the top, where the cloud was, the middle part, where Moſes now ſtood, and about which the bounds ſeem to have been put, and the nether or lower part, where the people were.

21 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Go down, † Heb. contеſt. † charge the people, leſt they break through unto the LORD to gaze o, and many of them periſh.

o Through curioſity to know in what form or manner I appear to thee.

22 And let the Prieſts p alſo which come near to the LORD q ſanctifie themſelves, leſt the LORD break forth upon them.

p For though the Aaronical Prieſthood was not yet appointed, it is certain, that as there were ſacrifices before, ſo there were Prieſts to offer them, which were either the firſt-born who were conſecrated to God and did execute the office of Prieſts, as may be gathered from Exod. 13. 2. and 24. 5. Numb. 3. 12. and 8. 26. or ſome other perſons appointed by God for doing that work till the office was ſettled in Aarons family. q Not at this time, for both Prieſts and people are now kept at equal diſtance, ver. 22. but uſually, q. d. whoſe duty and priviledge it is to approach unto God and to preſent the peoples prayers and ſacrifices to him, and therefore are here particularly admoniſhed, becauſe they above all others are obliged to this care, and becauſe they might ſeem to claim this priviledge by their function.

23 And Moſes ſaid unto the LORD, The people cannot come up r to mount Sinai, for thou chargedſt us, ſaying, Set bounds about the mount, and ſanctifie it.

r The people are ſufficiently admoniſhed in that particular, becauſe as thou didſt command this ſame thing before ver. 12. ſo I have informed and warned them of it, ſo that it may ſeem ſuperfluous for me to go down again to acquaint them herewith. But God, who better knew the dulneſs and the hardneſs of their hearts than Moſes did, ſaw it neceſſary to repeat the ſame command again and again. Some read the words interrogatively, Lo, for halo, as it is 2 Sam. 13. 26. 2 King. 5. 26. Job 2. 10. Mal. 2. 15. May not the people (i. e. ſome of the people the prieſts at leaſt, which, as thou haſt now ſaid, may come near to the Lord) go up? Is this an univerſal prohibition? To this, anſwer is given by a diſtinction in the next verſe, that he and Aaron might come up, but no other.

24 And the LORD ſaid unto him, Away, get thee down, and thou ſhalt come up, thou, and Aaron with thee: but let not the Prieſts and the people break through, to come up unto the LORD, leſt he break forth upon them.

25 So Moſes went down unto the people, and ſpake unto them.

CHAP. XX.

1 AND a God ſpake b all theſe words c, ſaying, a Or, Then, to wit, when Moſes was returned into the mount. b Immediately, and not by an Angel. For though an Ambaſſadour or Meſſenger may act in the name of his maſter, yet it is againſt the uſe of all ages and places for ſuch to call themſelves by his name. As well might an Ambaſſadour of France ſay, I am the King of France, which all men would account abſurd, arrogant, and ridiculous, as an Angel might ſay, I am the Lord. c (i. e.) Commands, for ſo word is uſed Deut. 17. 19. Eſth. 1. 12.

2 * I am the LORD thy God d, which have * Deut. 5. 6.

* chap. 13.

d The only true God, and thy God by ſpecial title, having entred into covenant with thee, and choſen thee for my peculiar people to protect, and rule, and bleſs thee above all others. Gods authority and right over them is fitly put in the front as the foundation of all Gods commands and their duties. e And ſo by right of redemption thou art mine. f (i. e.) The place: for ſo the word houſe, is ſometimes uſed as Judg. 16. 21.

3 Thou ſhalt have no other Gods g before me h.

g Heb. There ſhall not be to thee another God or other Gods, to wit, Idols, which others have, eſteem and worſhip as Gods, and therefore Scripture ſo calls them by way of ſuppoſition, Deut. 32. 21. 1 Sam. 12. 21. 1 Cor. 8. 4, 5. but thou ſhalt not have them in any ſuch reputation or veneration, but ſhalt forſake and abhor them and cleave unto me alone. q (i. e.) In my preſence, in my Houſe or Church, which you are, where I am eſpecially preſent, and therefore for you to worſhip any other God is moſt impudent Idolatry, even as when a Woman commits Adultery before her husbands face. He may alſo intimate, that all the Idolatry which any of them ſhall hereafter commit, though never ſo cunningly and ſecretly managed, is manifeſt to his eyes, Pſal. 44. 20, 21. Others Tranſlate it with me, or beſides me, as it is rendred Matth. 12. 30. He forbids the worſhip of all others not only in oppoſition to him, but alſo in conjunction with him, or ſubordination to him. See 2 King. 17. 33. Exod. 32. Act. 7. 41. Revel. 19. 10. and 22. 8, 9.

4 * Thou ſhalt not make i unto thee k any graven * Lev. 26. 1.
image l, or any likeneſs of any thing that is in hea- Pſal. 97. 7.
ven m above, or that is in the earth n beneath, or that is in the water o under the earth p.

i Either in thy mind, or with thy hand, Act. 17. 29. or by thy command. k (i. e.) For thy uſe, or for thee to worſhip: for otherwiſe they were not abſolutely forbidden to make any images, but only to make them for worſhip, as may appear by comparing this place with Levit. 19. 4. Deut. 4. 15. and Amos 5. 26. with Acts 7. 43. and from Levit. 26. 1. where the ſetting up of a pillar or ſtone is as abſolutely forbidden as the making of an Image. And therefore as the former is not forbidden to be done ſimply and univerſally, as appears from Joſ. 24. 20. 1 Sam. 7. 12. but only to be done in order to worſhip, ſo alſo is the later. Moreover there were Cherubims bims and other Images in the Temple, and afterwards the braſen Serpent, which, becauſe they were not made to be worſhipped, neither were indeed, nor were ever eſteemed to be, any contradictions to this Law. l Or, molten, or any other, Image, as is moſt evident from the nature and reaſon of the precept. Nor is any thing more common than ſuch ſynecdochical expreſſions, wherein under one kind named all other things of the like nature are contained. But for more abundant caution, and to put all out of doubt, he adds a more general word, nor any likeneſs. m As of God, Deut. 4. 15. Eſa. 44. 9, 20. Angels, Sun, Moon or Stars, which the Heathens worſhipped, Deut. 4. 19. and 17. 3. n As of Men and Beaſts, and creeping things, which the Egyptians and other Gentiles worſhipped as Gods. See Deut. 4. 16, 17. Iſa. 44. 13. Ezek. 23. 14. o As of Fiſhes, ſuch as Dagon was, or Serpents, Crocodiles, and ſuch other Egyptian Deities. p This is emphatically added, to note the ſingular care of Divine Providence in bringing the waters under the Earth, which naturally are lighter and higher than it, and therefore might eaſily overwhelm it. Compare Pſal. 104. 6.

5. Thou ſhalt not bowe down thy ſelf q to them r, nor ſerve them s: for I the LORD thy God am a * jealous t God u, * viſiting x the iniquity of the fathers upon the children y, unto the third and fourth generation z of them that hate me a:

q Not only inward reverence is forbidden, but alſo all outward geſtures that naturally or cuſtomarily expreſs reverence, whether bowing down the body, as here, or bending the knee, as 1 King. 19. 18. or kiſſing the Idol, or ones hand towards it, as Job 31. 27. Hoſ. 13. 2. one geſture being by a Synecdoche named for all. r Nor before them: for to bowe to them, and to bowe before them, are expreſſions in Scripture of the ſame extent and uſe, as appears by comparing this place with Levit. 26. 1. 2 Chron. 25. 14. and 2 Sam. 7. 22. with 1 Chron. 17. 25. and Matth. 4. 9. with Luk. 4. 7. s Or, Worſhip him either inwardly in thy mind, or outwardly by any ſenſible mean or ſign of worſhip given to them, as incenſe or ſacrifice, vowing to them, or ſwearing by them, or the like. t (i. e.) Impatient of any partner in thy love and worſhip, and full of wrath againſt them that give my glory to Images, Iſa. 42. 8. as jealouſie is the rage of a man, Prov. 6. 34. againſt the defiler of his marriage-bed. God is pleaſed to call and account himſelf the husband of his Church and People, Jer. 2. 2. Hoſ. 2. 19. and therefore Idolatry is called Adultery, Deut. 31. 16. Jer. 3. 3, 10. and Gods anger againſt Idolaters, Jealouſie. u The word el, properly ſignifies the ſtrong God, and ſhews Gods ability to avenge himſelf, as the word jealous notes his readineſs and reſolution to do it. x (i. e.) Remembring; enquiring into, or puniſhing, as that word is commonly uſed, as hath been noted before. y Queſt. How can this be juſt? Anſw. 1. All are born ſinners, and are children of wrath, and therefore juſtly puniſhable for their own ſins. Anſw. 2. He ſpeaks not here of eternal damnation, but of temporal puniſhments, in which there is no ſhadow of injuſtice, as appears, 1. Becauſe the ſins of parents are oft puniſhed in their children even in human Courts, as is manifeſt in Traitors, which practiſe being acknowledged to be juſt, it cannot with any ſenſe be accounted unjuſt in God. 2. Becauſe ſuch external puniſhments have more good than evil in them, and are in many, and may be ſo in others, if themſelves do not hinder it, inſtruments of the greateſt good, exerciſes of their virtues and graces, and means of their eternal happineſs. 3. Becauſe children are a part and the poſſeſſion of their Parents, and therefore it is not unjuſt if they ſuffer with them and for them. Anſw. 3. This is to be underſtood with an exception of Repentance and penitent children, as appears from Ezek. 18. And if any ſuch be temporally puniſhed for their fathers ſins, God will abundantly recompenſe it to them ſome other way. But if children tread in their fathers ſinful ſteps, it is but juſt that they ſhould partake of their plagues. z And further too, as appears in the Ten Tribes, and afterwards in the Two Tribes, upon whom the iniquity of their Fathers hath been viſited now for many Generations. But he mentions them in particular, partly becauſe a Parent may live ſo long and ſee the dreadful effects of his ſin in his Childrens Children; partly becauſe ſo far the memory of a Father may extend and be matter of imitation to his Children, and partly to ſhew the difference between his exerciſe of juſtice and mercy, as appears by comparing the next verſe. a This word is oppoſed to the conceit that Idolaters, at leaſt many of them, have of themſelves, that they love God, more than others do, becauſe they love, and honour, and worſhip the Creatures for his ſake, and for thoſe Excellencies that he hath wrought in them. But this will no more excuſe their Idolatry, than it will excuſe him that commits Adultery with his friends wife, that he did it for his friends ſake, and from the love he had to his friend and for his Relations.

* Deut. 7. 9.
Pſal. 89. 34.

6 And * ſhewing mercy unto thouſands b of them that love me, and keep my commandments c.

b To wit, of their Generations, i. e. for ever: whereas his puniſhment extended only to three or four of them. So far is Gods mercy exalted above his juſtice, compare Pſal. 103. 17. c This conjunction is very obſervable both againſt thoſe that falſly and fooliſhly pretend or inſinuate, that the inward affection of love to God is not abſolutely and always neceſſary to Salvation, and alſo againſt them who pretending inward love to God, live in the cuſtomary breach of Gods known commands.

7 * Thou ſhalt not take ‖ the Name of the LORD d thy God in vain e: for the LORD will not hold him guiltleſs f, that taketh his Name in vain.

* Lev. 19. 12.
Deut. 5. 11.
Matth. 5. 33.

‖ Or, not carry, or not take or lift up, to wit, in or into thy mouth, as the phraſe is more fully expreſſed, Job 4. 2. Pſal. 16 4. and 50. 16. So men are ſaid to take up a proverb or a lamentation, Iſa. 14. 4. Ezek. 26. 17. d Not only the proper Name of the Lord, but any of his Attributes, Ordinances and Works, by which God hath made himſelf known. e Or, unto vanity, or, vainly. Either, 1. Falſly, or in a falſe Oath: thou ſhalt not ſwear falſly by the Name of the Lord, or, not lift up the Name of God into thy mouth in an Oath to the confirmation of a lye. Or, 2. In vain, as we render it, and as the word Schave is frequently uſed, as Job 7. 3. and 15. 31. Pſal. 60. 11. and 89. 47. Iſai. 1. 13. and you ſhall not uſe the Name of God either in Oaths or in common diſcourſe, lightly, raſhly, irreverently, or unneceſſarily, or without weighty or ſufficient cauſe. Which being a duty enjoyned not only in many places of Sacred Scripture, but alſo in the Apocryphal Eccleſiaſticus 23. 15, 16, 17. and even by Heathen authors, as Plato in his Book of Laws, and it being evident by the light of Nature to mans reaſon, it were ſtrange if it were not here underſtood, eſpecially conſidering, that it is moſt reaſonable to take theſe ſhort Laws in the moſt comprehenſive ſenſe, ſuch as this, not the former, is, for the prohibition of uſing it vainly and raſhly doth certainly include that of ſwearing by it falſely, but this later doth not include the former. Beſides the former Expoſition reſtrains the words to ſwearing, whereas the words are now general, and ſpeak of any taking Gods Name into their mouths either by Oaths or any other way. And it becomes not us to ſet limits to Gods Words where God hath ſet none. It is alſo here to be obſerved, as well as in the other commands, that when this ſin is forbidden, the contrary duty is commanded, to wit, to uſe the Name of God both in ſwearing and otherwiſe holily, cautiouſly and reverently. f Or, innocent, (i. e.) free from guilt and the puniſhment of it: the meaning is, the Lord will look upon him as a guilty perſon, and will ſeverely puniſh him. And ſo this or the like phraſe is uſed, 1 King. 2. 9. And it is a common figure, called Meioſis, where more is underſtood than is expreſſed, as 1 Sam. 12. 21. Pſal. 25. 3. Prov. 10. 2. And this reaſon is here added, becauſe ſinners of this ſort are uſually held innocent by men, either becauſe they cannot diſcover their fault, when they forſwear themſelves, or becauſe they take no care to puniſh the abuſers of Gods Name by vain and cuſtomary Oaths, Curſes or Blaſphemies, q. d. Though men ſpare them, I will aſſuredly puniſh them.

8 Remember g the Sabbath day, to keep it holy †.

g This word is here very emphatical, and 1. It re-minds us of a former delivery of the ſubſtance of this command, to wit, Gen. 2. 3. 2. It inſinuates the great neceſſity of conſideration and preparation of the Sabbath before it comes. 3. It ſhews the ſingular importance of this command, which is therefore placed in the heart and center of the reſt, to ſhew that the religious obſervation of this is the beſt way to ſecure our obedience to all the reſt, and that the neglect of this will bring in the violation of all the other, as common experience ſhews. † (i. e.) To uſe it holily, by a careful abſtinence from ſervile works, or worldly buſineſs, and by a diligent employing of the day holy in thoughts, words and exerciſes, in the worſhip of God in publick and private, and the celebration of his works, and the furthering of our own and others Sanctification and Salvation. See Iſa. 58. 13.

9 * Six days ſhalt thou labour h, and do all thy work:

* chap. 23. 12. and 31. 14. Levit. 23. 3. Ezek. 20. 12. Luk. 13. 14.

h This may be either, 1. A command to employ thoſe days in our worldly occaſions, yet ſo as God and Religion be not neglected on thoſe days, as many Scriptures teach us. Or, 2. A permiſſion to do ſo; which I prefer, 1. Becauſe ſo it is a proper argument to enforce the obſervation of the Sabbath, q. d. Grudge not me one day, when I allow you ſix for it. 2. Becauſe the command of diligence in our callings would ſeem improperly placed here, as being of a quite differing nature, and belonging to the ſecond table, and being provided for in a diſtinct command, as we ſhall ſee.

10 But the ſeventh day i the Sabbath of the LORD i thy God: in it thou ſhalt not do any work k, thou, nor thy ſon, nor thy daughter, thy man-ſervant, nor thy maid-ſervant l, nor thy cattle m, nor thy ſtranger n that is within thy gates o:

i Or, To the Lord, (i. e.) Conſecrated to his uſe, honour and ſervice. Hence God calls them my Sabbaths, Lev. 26. 2. Iſa. 56. 4. becauſe they are commended by his example, and enjoyned by his command. k (i. e.) Any ſervile, laborious, common or worldly worldly work, tending to thy own profit or pleasure. See Exod. 34.21. *Lev.*23.7. *Numb.*28.18. *Isa.*58.13. l This clause is added, not as if children or servants were not immediately obliged by this command, or were excused by God for the breach of this Law at their masters commands, which were to obey God rather than men, contrary to St. Peters command and practice, *Act.*5. 29. and which were to limit the foregoing word thou, and the law of the Sabbath only to those that have children and servants, which is an idle, senseless and absurd, as well as prophane, opinion, but to restrain hard-hearted and covetous, or ungodly persons, that they should neither command nor suffer their children or servants to prophane the Sabbath, so far as they can hinder it. Which how far it concerns thousands of Governours of Families at this day, they shall do well seriously and in time to consider. m Partly, to teach us to exercise mercy towards the brute creatures: compare Deut. 5.14. Partly, because the use of cattel must have drawn along with it the attendance or employment of men; and partly, that by observing the rest of the cattel, they might be more minded and quickened to the observation of this sacred rest. n (i. e.) The Gentile that sojourneth with thee: lest their example should provoke the Israelites to imitate them; and lest the Gentiles should have opportunity of gaining at that time when, and by that thing whereby, the Israelites were losers, even by the religious observation of the Sabbath. o (i. e.) That dwells within thy cities which have walls and gates, or within thy villages or territories. So the word gates is oft taken, as Gen. 22. 17. and 24. 60. and 2 *Sam.*10.8. compared with 1 Chron. 19. 9.

* Gen. 2. 2. 11 For * in six days p the LORD made heaven and earth, the Sea, and all that in them is, and rested q the seventh day: wherefore the LORD blessed r the Sabbath day s, and hallowed it t.

p And neither in more nor less time, as he could have done. q (i. e.) Ceased from his creating works: otherwise he worketh still, Joh. 5. 17. by his providence and grace, and neither is idle, nor weary, Isa. 40. 28. but this rest is ascribed to him for our admonition and imitation. r (i. e.) Made it a day of blessing, as well of receiving blessings and praises from men, as of conferring his blessings and favours upon those that religiously observe it. The day is said to be blessed when men are blessed by it and in it, by a common Metonymy, as a mans field, Gen. 27. 27. and basket and store, Deut. 28. 5. and the work of his hands, Job 1. 10. are said to be blessed, when a man is blessed in them. s It is remarkable, the blessing and sanctification are not appropriated to the seventh day, but to the Sabbath day, whether it should be the seventh day, as to the Jews it then was, or the first day, as to us Christians now it is, which change seems hereby to be insinuated. t (i. e.) Separated it from the rest of the days, and from all common employments, and consecrated it to his own holy service, and mans holy use.

* Levit. 19. 3. Deut. 5. 16. Ephes. 6. 2. 12 * Honour u thy father and thy mother x: that thy days may be long y upon the land, which the LORD thy God giveth thee.

u Which word doth not only note the reverence, love, and obedience we owe them, but also support and maintenance, as appears from Mat. 15. 4, 5, 6. and from the like signification of that word 1 Tim. 5. 3, 17. which is so natural and necessary a duty, that the Jews say, a man is bound even to beg, or to work with his hands, that he may relieve his parents. x The father is put first here, and the mother, Lev. 19. 3. to shew that we owe this duty promiscuously and indifferently to both of them. Compare Exod. 21. 15, 17. Deut. 21. 18. and 27. 16. Prov. 20. 20. and 30. 17. And, because these laws are brief and yet comprehensive, under these are contained all our Superiours and Governours. y Heb. that they, i. e. thy Parents, may prolong thy days, or, the days of thy life, to wit, instrumentally, by their prayers made to God for thee, and by their blessing in my Name conferred upon thee: though the active verb is commonly taken impersonally, as Job 7. 3. Prov. 9. 11. Luk. 12. 10. and so it may be here, they prolong, for be prolonged.

* Rom. 13. 9. 13 * Thou shalt not kill z.

z To wit, any man or woman, without authority, and without just cause: which exception must necessarily be understood, because many other Scriptures command the Magistrate to kill great offenders. And this prohibition, being delivered by God who made, and searcheth, and commands mens hearts, must be extended not only to the external act of killing, but to all motions of the heart or tongue which tend that way, as anger, hatred, envy, malice, strife, blows, and the challenges of Duellists, which is clearly manifest by comparing this with other Scriptures, as Mat. 5. 21. 1 Joh. 3. 15, &c. And here, as in the rest, is commanded the contrary duty of preserving the lives of our neighbours, as much as lies in our power.

14 Thou shalt not commit adultery a.

a Here is mentioned one kind of uncleanness, as being eminently sinful, and unjust, and pernicious to human society. But under this are comprehended and forbidden all other kinds of filthiness, as beastiality, Sodomy, whoredom, fornication, &c. and all means, occasions and appearances of them, as it appears, 1. From other Scriptures that forbid those things, which either belong to this command, or to none of the ten, which is very improbable. 2. From the large extent of the other commands, noted before. 3. From our Saviours Explication Matth. 5. 27. And contrariwise, all chastity and sobriety in thoughts, affections, words, habits and gestures is here prescribed. See 1 Thes. 4. 3, 4. Heb. 13. 4.

15 Thou shalt not steal b.

b (i. e.) Either by deceit or violence, or without his knowledge and consent, take away another mans goods, Ephes. 4. 28. but on the contrary shalt preserve and increase them, as need requires, and occasion is offered.

16 * Thou shalt not bear false witness c against thy neighbour d. * Deut. 19. 16.

c Heb. not answer, viz. when thou art asked in judgment, Lev 5. 1. 19. 16. or, not speak a false testimony, or, as a false witness. Which doth not only forbid perjury in judgment, but also all unjust censure, slander, backbiting, scorning, false accusation, and the like, and also requires a just and candid judgment of him and of his words and actions, speaking well of him, as far as truth and justice will permit, and defending his good name against the calumnies and detractions of others. d No nor for thy neighbour, but he saith against, both because such perjuries, slanders, &c. are most commonly designed against them, and because this is a great aggravation of the sin, when a man not only speaks evil and falsehood, but doth this from malice and ill-will. But under this kind are contained other sins of a like, though less sinful, nature, as in the other commands. d A mans neighbour here is not only the Israelite, as some would have it, but any man, as plainly appears, 1. Because that word is frequently used in that sense not only in the New, as all agree, but also in the Old Testament, as *Gen.*11.3. Lev. 20. 10. Esth. 1.19. *Prov.*18.17. 2. Because it is so explained *Luk.*10.29,36. Rom. 13. 9. compared with Mat. 22. 39. 3. From the reason of the thing, which is common to all: unless a man will be so hardy to say, that he may bear false witness against a stranger, though not against an Israelite; and, in like manner, that when God forbids a man to commit adultery with his neighbours wife, *Lev.*20.10. he may do it with a strangers wife; and that though a man be commanded to speak the truth to his neighbour, Zech. 8. 16. he may tell lyes to a stranger. 4. Because the great law of love and charity, which is the life and soul of this and all the commands, and binds us to all, binds us, and bound the Israelites to strangers, as appears from Exod. 23. 4. and Lev. 19. 33, 34.

17 * Thou shalt not covet e thy neighbours house, thou shalt not * covet thy neighbours wife, nor his man-servant, nor his maid-servant, nor his oxe, nor his ass, nor any thing that is thy neighbours. * Acts 20. 33. Rom. 7. 7. * Job 31. 9.

e The coveting here forbidden is, either, 1. The inward and deliberate purpose and desire of a deceitful or violent taking away of another mans goods. But this is forbidden in the eighth commandment. And it is hard to conceive, that St. Paul should think, that this command did not forbid such a practise, *Rom.*7.7. which even the better sort of heathens esteemed a sin, whose words are, that they who are with-held from incest, or whoredom, or theft, only from a principle of fear, are guilty of those crimes, especially seeing the Old Testament Scriptures, which doubtless he diligently studied, do so plainly condemn evil purposes of the heart, as *Lev.*19.17. *Deut.*9.4,5. and 15.7,9, &c. Or, 2. The greedy desire of that which is another mans, though it be without injury to him. Thus Ahab sinned in desiring Naboths vineyard, though he offered him money for it, 1 Kings 21. 2. Or rather, 3. Those inward motions of the heart, which from the fountain of original corruption do spring up in the heart, and tickle it with some secret delight, though they do not obtain the deliberate consent of the will. For seeing this law of God is spiritual and holy, Rom. 7. 12, 14. and reacheth the thoughts, intents, and all the actual motions of the heart, as is apparent from the nature of God and of his law, and seeing such motions are both the fruits of a sinful nature, and the common causes of sinful actions, and are not agreeable either to mans first and uncorrupted nature, or to Gods law, they must needs be a swerving from it, and therefore sin. And this is the reason why this command is added as distinct from all the rest.

18 And * all the people saw the thunderings f and the lightnings, and the noise of the trumpet, and the mountain smoaking: and when the people saw it, they removed g, and stood afar off. * Heb. 12. 18.

f (i. e.) Heard them. One sense is oft put for another, as seeing, Gen. 42. 1. for hearing, Act. 7. 12. g From the bottom of the mountain, where it seems they stood.

19 And they said unto Moses, * Speak thou with us, and we will hear: but let not God speak with us, lest we die h. * Deut. 5. 24. and 18. 16. Heb. 12. 19.

h This

b This they speak from a sense of their own guilt, and of the greatness and holiness of the Divine Majesty, to whom they durst not approach but by a Mediatour. See Deut. 5. 28. and 18. 16. Gal. 3. 19.

20 And Moses said unto the people, Fear not: for God is come to prove you i, and that his fear may be before your faces k, that ye sin not.

i Or try or search you, whether you are innocent, and such as delight in my presence, or conscious of your guilt, and therefore afraid of my appearance; whether you have such a righteousness as can abide the trial of a severe Judge, or whether you are such as have cause to fear my wrath, and to flee to my grace and mercy; which of you are sincere and upright, and which are hypocrites and ungodly persons, or, to try, whether this terrible appearance will produce in you that reverence, fear and obedience which I call for: Or, to give you a law, by which you will be proved whether you do indeed love and fear me, as you pretend you do, or whether you do not. k Gods fear is properly in mens hearts, but here the sense seems to be this, That his fear, i. e. this dreadful manifestation of his Majesty and Justice (the act being here put for the object) may be now and ever before your eyes and in your memories, as an effectual preservative from sin.

21 And the people stood afar off, and Moses drew near unto * the thick darkness, where God was.

* chap. 19. 16. 1 King. 8. 12.

22 And the LORD said unto Moses, Thus thou shalt say unto the children of Israel, Ye have seen l that I have talked with you * from heaven m.

* Deut. 4. 36.

l (i. e.) Heard, as ver. 18. He may use the word seen, here to intimate, that this was all they could see of God, to wit, his voice and speech, and that they saw no image of him, as is expressed in a parallel place, and therefore should make no resemblances of him as it here follows. m (i. e.) From the lower Heaven, to wit, the Air or the Clouds, which were over the top of mount Sinai, Deut. 4. 36. Neh. 9. 13. and so the word Heaven is oft understood, as Gen. 1. 20. Job 35. 11. Psal. 79. 2. And so this place may be reconciled with Heb. 12. 25. where this is said to be spoken upon Earth.

23 Ye shall not make * with me n gods o of silver p, neither shall ye make unto you gods of gold.

* 1 Sam. 5. 4, 5. 2 King. 17. 23. Ezek. 20. 39. & 43. 8. 2 Cor. 6. 14, 15, 16.

n (i. e.) To worship together with me. I will allow no companion: or, to me, as it follows, unto you: and ver. 24. unto me: and the particle eth, is sometimes used for el, or lamed, as 1 Sam. 22. 14. 2 King. 22. 14. or, for me, either to represent my person, by comparing this with the parallel place, Deut. 4. 15, 16. or to worship me by, as it is apparent that the Israelites afterwards did intend to worship Jehovah in the golden Calf, and therefore Aaron calls the feast of the Calf a feast to Jehovah, Exod. 32. 5. and that with the approbation of the people, whom he then complyed with, and durst not resist. o (i. e.) Idols or Images, to whom you may give the name and worship of Gods. p And consequently not of any other materials, as wood or stone: It is a Synecdoche.

24 An Altar of Earth thou shalt make unto me q, and shalt sacrifice thereon thy burnt-offerings, and thy peace-offerings, * thy sheep, and thine oxen: in all places r where I record my Name s, I will come unto thee, and I will bless thee.

* Lev. 1. 2.

q For thy present use, or whilst thou art in the wilderness: This he commanded, partly that they might easily and readily erect an Altar upon all occasions, which it might be hard for them to do there of better materials; partly, to mind them how much more God regarded the inward holiness, than the outward pomp of their devotions; partly, because God would make a conspicuous difference between them and Idolaters, who used much cost and curiosity about their Altars; partly, that the Altars might, after they left them, fall down and moulder away, and not remain as lasting monuments, which might be afterward abused to Idolatry by any persons that came thither; partly, because they were uncertain of their stay any where, except at Sinai, and therefore must raise such Altars as they could suddenly do. But this command only concerned their wilderness-state: for there were better and more durable Altars, in the Tabernacle and Temple. r Therefore there is no need of building any stately Altar in a certain place, as if my presence were fixed there, and not to be enjoyed elsewhere. s Or, cause my Name to be remembred by you: i. e. Not in every place which you shall invent, but in all such places as I shall appoint, for the remembrance or celebration of my Name, or for the service of my Majesty, whether it be in the wilderness, and in divers parts thereof, or in the Tabernacle and Temple.

25 And * if thou wilt make me an Altar of stone t, thou shalt not † build it of hewen stone u: for if thou lift up thy tool upon it, thou hast polluted it x.

* Deut. 27. 5. Josh. 8. 31. † Heb. build them with hewing.

t Which in those rocky parts might be as easie for them to make as one of earth. u Which would require both time and cost and art. The reasons of this precept are in part the same with the former, ver. 24. x By thy disobedience to my express command now given: and howsoever they think to gratifie me by this curiosity, I shall not look upon it as a sacred thing, by which the sacrifices offered on it shall be sanctified, but as a prophane thing which will defile them. So little doth God value or approve the inventions of men in his worship, how colourable soever they be.

26 Neither shalt thou go up by steps y unto mine Altar, that thy nakedness be not discovered thereon z.

y He seems to mean the steps of Ladders or others of the same nature, which could suddenly be made, and were proper for their present condition, where there was danger of the following inconvenience. For afterwards God appointed an Altar ten cubits high, 2 Chron. 4. 1. Though some conceive they went not up to that by steps, but by an insensible ascent upon the ground raised by degrees for that purpose. But if the Priests did go up to it by steps, God provided against the indecency here mentioned by prescribing linnen breeches to them in that service. z For these linnen breeches were not yet appointed, and the manner then and there was for men to wear long coats or gowns like women. God would remove all appearance or occasion of immodesty, especially in sacred persons and things; and the rather, to shew his detestation of that impudence and filthiness which was very usual in some of the solemnities and worships of the heathen.

CHAP. XXI.

1 NOW these are the Judgments a, which thou shalt * set before them.

* chap. 24. 3, 4.

a Or, the judicial Laws, by which thou and the Judges before mentioned shall govern thy self and the people in civil and criminal causes.

2 * If thou buy an Hebrew servant b, six years he shall serve: and in the seventh year c he shall go out free for nothing.

* Deut. 15. 12.

b Of which practise see Jer. 34. 14. This was allowed in two cases: 1. When a man for his crimes was condemned by the Judges to be sold. Of which see Exod. 22. 3. 2 King. 4. 1. Mat. 18. 25. 2. When a man pressed by great poverty, sold himself or his children: Of which see Lev. 25. 39, 40. c Which is to be numbred, either, 1. From the last Sabbatical year, or year of release, which came every seventh year: and then the sense of the place is, not that he shall always serve six full years, but that he shall never serve longer, and that his service shall last only till that year comes. Or rather, 2. From the beginning of his service; for, 1. It were a very improper speech to say he shall serve six years, of one who possibly entred into his service but a month before the year of release. 2. In the law of the Sabbatical year there is no mention of the release of servants, as there is of other things, Lev. 25. Deut. 15. and in the year of Jubilee, when servants are to be released, it is expressed so, as Lev. 25. 54, 55.

3 If he came in † by himself d, he shall go out by himself: if he were married, then his wife shall go out with him.

† Heb. with his body.

d (i. e.) With his own person only, not with a wife, as the opposite branch sheweth.

4 If his master have given him a wife, and she have born him sons or daughters: the wife and her children shall be her masters e, and he shall go out by himself f.

e That being a true rule, and approved both by Scripture and by heathen Authors, that the birth follows the belly, Gen. 21. 10. Gal. 4. 24, 25. and he that owns the tree hath right to all its fruit. f Quest. How was this separation of man and wife agreeable with the first institution of marriage, by which that bond is made indissoluble? Answ. 1. That bond was not necessarily dissolved by this law, both because the separation was at the mans choice, who might have stayed there, if he so pleased; and because the distinction of their habitations might consist with the right and use of matrimony, which the master also would probably permit for his own advantage. Answ. 2. God might here, as well as in the case of divorces, dispense with his own laws and institutions, especially in this case, where he might design this for a punishment to the man for marrying a stranger; which was not pleasing to God, as appears from Deut. 21. 11. Ezra 10. 2. Neh. 13. 23. And that this woman was a stranger and not an Hebrewess is manifest, because then she also must have gone out free, ver. 7, 8, 9. and Deut. 15. 12.

5 And if the ſervant † ſhall plainly ſay, I love my maſter, my wife, and my children, I will not go out free:

6 Then his maſter ſhall bring him unto the Judges g, he ſhall alſo bring him to the door h, or unto the door-poſt, and his maſter ſhall bore his ear through with an awl i, and he ſhall ſerve him for ever k.

g Partly, that it may appear he chuſeth this freely, and is not over-awed nor over-reached by his maſter; and partly, that the agreement being ſo publickly and ſolemnly confirmed, might be irrevocable. h To wit, of his maſters houſe, as it is expreſſed Deut. 15. 17. A token that he was fixed there, and never to go a freeman out of theſe doors. i As a note of a ſervant, as it continued to be long after this in Syria and Arabia, as Juvenal and Petronius Arbiter affirm: And it did fitly repreſent his ſettled and perpetual obligation to abide in that houſe, and there to hear and obey his maſters commands. See Pſal. 40. 6. k (i. e.) Not only for ſix years more, but without any limitation of time, as long as he lives, until the Jubilee, which is an exception made by God to this law, Lev. 25. 40. Deut. 15. 17. The Hebrew word olam, here uſed, oft ſignifies not eternity, but only a long time. See Exod. 12. 14.

7 And if a man l ſell his daughter to be a maid-ſervant m, ſhe ſhall not go out as the men-ſervants do n.

l (i. e.) An Hebrew, as appears by the oppoſition of one of a ſtrange nation, ver. 8. m Which was allowed in caſe of extream neceſſity, becauſe of the hardneſs of their hearts. n But upon better terms, as being one of the weaker and more helpleſs Sex. Queſt. How doth this agree with Deut. 15. 17. Alſo unto thy maid-ſervant thou ſhalt do likewiſe? Anſw. 1. Diſtinguiſh perſons. She, Deut. 15. was ſold by her ſelf, and that to mere ſervitude: this here was ſold by her father, not only for ſervice, but in order to her marriage, as the following verſes ſufficiently imply. 2. Diſtinguiſh things. The likeneſs between men-ſervants and maid-ſervants was only in the rites uſed in caſe ſhe conſented to perpetual ſervitude: the difference here is in caſe they both were made free, in which caſe ſhe had ſome priviledges, which here follow.

† Heb. be evil in the eyes of, &c.

8 If ſhe † pleaſe not her maſter who hath betrothed her to himſelf o, then ſhall he let her be redeemed p: to ſell her unto a ſtrange nation he ſhall have no power q, ſeeing he hath dealt deceitfully with her r.

o For a concubine or ſecondary wife. Not that maſters did always take maid-ſervants upon theſe terms, as ſome conceive, but that ſome did ſo, and of them this place ſpeaks. Though here is a differing reading, and as the margent hath lo the pronoun ſignifying, to him, ſo the text hath lo the adverb ſignifying not, and ſo the text may be tranſlated thus, ſo that he doth not betroth her, to wit, to himſelf, or to his ſon, as he gave her hopes he intended. Either reading or ſenſe is proper and probable. p Either by her ſelf or friends or any other perſon that will redeem her. Queſt. How could he part with her and ſell her, when ſhe was betrothed to him? Anſ. 1. This might be one of thoſe many indulgences given to them for the hardneſs of their hearts: and there is no doubt God could diſpenſe with his own poſitive laws. 2. The latter reading avoids this difficulty. q This was in general prohibited for all Hebrew ſervants, but it is particularly mentioned here, becauſe there was ſpecial reaſon for it, both becauſe there was more danger of her corruption in chaſtity and religion in regard of her Sex, and becauſe the maſter in that caſe was under a greater temptation of ſelling her to a forreigner, becauſe no Iſraelite would buy her or give ſo much money for her as an heathen would, who would and might keep her for a perpetual ſervant which the Iſraelites might not do. r viz. In breaking his promiſe of marriage made to her, or blaſting the hopes he encouraged her to have of it. The Hebrew words are exactly rendred thus, in dealing deceitfully or falſly with her or againſt her, and they may be added as an aggravation of that ſin of ſelling her to a ſtrange nation, wherein there was a double falſe-dealing, the one towards God who by his law forbad this, the other towards her, whom he hired upon other terms and not with a power to diſpoſe of her contrary to the law and manner of the Iſraelites.

9 And if he have betrothed her unto his ſon, he ſhall deal with her after the manner of daughters s.

s (i. e.) Give her a convenient portion, as he doth to his own daughters, chap. 22. 16.

10 If he take him another wife, her food, her raiment, and her duty of marriage t ſhall he not diminiſh u.

t Called due benevolence, 1 Cor. 7. 3. Or, her dwelling, as the word is oft uſed. So here are the three great conveniencies of life, food and raiment and habitation, all which he is to provide for her: or, her cohabitation, or, her time, the convenient and appointed times for conjugal converſe with her: for ſome times were diſallowed for it, Lev. 15. and when there were plurality of wives, they had their viciſſitudes, Gen. 30. 15, 16. u Or rather, not withdraw, or deny it, as the word ſignifies, and as the LXX. Chaldee, Samaritan, Vulgar, and others render it.

11 And if he do not theſe three unto her, then ſhall ſhe go out free x without money.

x And with gifts alſo by vertue of the law, Deut. 15. 14. The ſum is this, The maſter was either 1. willing to part with her, and then he was to let her be redeemed by her ſelf or any of her friends, but not by an heathen, ver. 8. Or 2. willing to keep her, and then as he had betrothed her, he was to perform all the duties of an husband to her, although he had another wife beſides her, ver. 10, if he would keep her and yet deny thoſe duties to her, then as his fault was aggravated, ſo was his puniſhment, for now he cannot ſell her, but muſt let her go freely, in this verſe.

12 * He that ſmiteth a man y ſo that he die, ſhall be ſurely put to death z. * Gen. 9. 6. Lev. 24. 17.

y Knowingly and wilfully, as appears by the next verſe. z Neither the friends of the party ſlain, nor the Magiſtrate ſhall give him a pardon or accept a ranſom for him, Numb. 35. 31.

13 And if a man lie not in wait a, but God deliver him into his hand b, then * I will appoint thee a place whither he ſhall flee c. * Deut. 19. 3. Joſh. 20. 2.

a If it appear, that the manſlayer did not intend nor deſire it, but only it fell out by his heedleſneſs, or by ſome caſualty. b By ſome ſpecial unexpected providence: or, God and not man, God without the mans contrivance or deſign: for otherwiſe in a general ſenſe and way God delivered Chriſt into the hands of Judas and the Jews who did adviſedly and maliciouſly kill him. c (i. e.) A city or place of refuge, Numb. 35. 11. Deut. 19. 5.

14 But if a man come preſumptuouſly d upon his neighbour to ſlay him with guile, * thou ſhalt take him from mine Altar e, that he may die. * 1 Kin. 2. 28.

d (i. e.) Do this proudly, boldly, purpoſely and malitiouſly; for ſo the word ſignifies. e Which not only in the wilderneſs, but afterward, ſeems to have been eſteemed a place of refuge, 1 King. 1. 50. as it alſo was among the Heathens. But God ſo far abhors murder, that he will rather venture the pollution of his own Altar than the eſcape of the murderer. See 2 King. 11. 15.

15 And he that ſmiteth e his father, or his mother, ſhall be ſurely put to death.

e Either 1. So as is before mentioned, ver. 12. ſo as they die! And to ſmite ſometimes ſignifies to kill, as Gen. 14. 15. 2 King 14. 5. compared with 2 Chron. 25. 3. And this may be here added by way of diſtinction, q. d. That killing of another man which is puniſhed with death muſt be done preſumptuouſly, but the killing of parents, though not done preſumptuouſly, is a capital crime. Or 2. the mere ſmiting of them, to wit, wilfully, and dangerouſly. Nor will any think this law too ſevere that conſiders that this is an act full of horrid impiety againſt God, who hath ſo expreſly and emphatically commanded children to honour their Parents, of higheſt and moſt unnatural ingratitude, and utterly deſtructive to human Society.

16 And he that ſtealeth a man, and ſelleth him, or if he be found in his hand f, he ſhall ſurely be put to death.

f (i. e.) In the man-ſtealers hand: q. d. though he keep him in his own hands for his own uſe: for ſtill it is a theft, and he is made that mans ſlave, and it is in his power to ſell him to another when he pleaſeth, and therefore deſerves death.

17 And * he that † curſeth || his father or his mother, ſhall ſurely be put to death. * Lev. 20. 9. Prov. 20. 20. Mat. 15. 4. Mar. 7. 10.

|| Or, revileth, to wit, wilfully, malitiouſly, obſtinately againſt all admonition, by comparing Deut. 21. 18. † Or, reviles.

18 And if men ſtrive together, and one ſmite † another with a ſtone g, or with his fiſt, and he die not, but keep his bed: † Or, his neighbour.

g Or any other inſtrument fit for ſuch a miſchievous purpoſe. An uſual Synecdoche.

19 If he ariſe again, and walk abroad upon his ſtaff, then ſhall he that ſmote him, be quit: only he ſhall pay for † the loſs of his time h, and ſhall cauſe him to be throughly healed i. † Heb. ceaſing.

h (i. e.) Of the profit which he could or commonly did make of his time in the way of his calling. i (i. e.) Pay the charges of the cure.

20 And

20 And if a man ſmite his ſervant k or his maid, with a rod l, and he die under his hand m, he ſhall † Heb. avenged. be ſurely † puniſhed n:

k Namely a ſtranger: for an Iſraelite was to be better uſed: See Lev. 25. 39, 40. &c. l A fit and uſual inſtrument for correction, whereby it is implyed, that if he kill'd him with a ſword or any ſuch weapon, he was to die for it. m (i. e.) Whilſt the maſter is correcting him. n Not with death, for then it would have been ſaid ſo, as it is before and after, but as the Magiſtrate or Judge ſhall think fit, according to the diverſity of circumſtances; and therefore no particular puniſhment is ſet down.

21 Notwithſtanding, if he continue a day or two, he ſhall not be puniſhed, for he is his money o.

o (i. e.) His poſſeſſion bought with his mony; and therefore, 1. had a power to chaſtiſe him according to his demerit, which might be very great. 2. is ſufficiently puniſhed with his own loſs: 3. may be preſumed not to have done this purpoſely and maliciouſly.

22 If men ſtrive and hurt a woman with child p, ſo that her fruit depart from her, and yet no miſchief follow q, he ſhall be ſurely puniſhed, according as the womans husband will lay upon him, and he ſhall pay as the Judges determine r.

p To wit, the wife of the other perſon, who interpoſed her ſelf to ſuccour her husband. q Neither to the woman, nor child, for it is generally expreſſed ſo as to reach both, in caſe the abortive had life in it. r The husband ſhall impoſe the fine, and, if it be unreaſonable, the Judges ſhall have a power to moderate it.

23 And if any miſchief s follow, then ‖ thou ſhalt give life for life, s Either to the mother or to the child, whether it be death, or any maime or miſchief. ‖ Who? Anſw. Not the private perſon, which would have introduced infinite miſchiefs and confuſions, but the Magiſtrate: for theſe laws are given to Moſes, and the execution of theſe things was committed to Moſes, and others under him.

Lev. 24. 20. Deut. 19. 21. Matth. 5. 38. 24 * Eye for eye t, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot, t This is called the law of retaliation, and from hence the heathen Lawgivers took it and put it into their laws. But though this might ſometimes be practiſed in the letter, yet it was not neceſſarily to be underſtood and executed ſo, as may appear, 1. by the impoſſibility of the juſt execution of it in many caſes, as when a man that had but one eye or hand was to loſe the other, which to him was a far greater miſchief than what he did to his neighbour, whom he deprived but of one of his eyes or hands: And this is a ſure and righteous rule, puniſhments may be leſs, but never ſhould be greater, than the fault. And how could a wound be made neither bigger nor leſs than that which he inflicted? 2. by comparing this with other laws, wherein a compenſation is allowed in like caſes, as ver. 18, 30. And when it is enjoyned, that no ſatisfaction ſhall be taken for the life of a wilful murderer, Numb. 35. 31. it ſeems therein implyed, that ſatisfaction may be taken for leſſer injuries. And indeed the payment of ſuch a price, as the loſs of an eye or hand or foot required, though it might not ſo much ſatisfie the revenge of the party ſo injured, yet it was really more to his benefit. This Law therefore was only minatory, but ſo as it was literally to be inflicted, except the injuring party would give ſuch ſatisfaction as the injured perſon accepted or the Judges determined.

25 Burning for burning, wound for wound, ſtripe for ſtripe.

26 And if a man ſmite the eye of his ſervant u, or the eye of his maid, that it periſh, he ſhall let them go free for his eyes ſake.

u Which ſome confine to the *Iſraeliti*ſh ſervants, but the text doth not ſo limit it, and the reaſon of the law ſeems to reach to Gentile-ſervants, this being a juſt puniſhment to unmerciful maſters, (who ought to be merciful to their beaſts much more to ſuch ſervants) and a fit recompence to a ſervant for ſuch a loſs. And this law reacheth the loſs of any other member, theſe two being inſtanced in, the one as the chief, and the other as the meaneſt, to intimate that other parts of a like or middle nature are included.

27 And if he ſmite out his man-ſervants tooth, or his maid-ſervants tooth, he ſhall let him go free for his tooths ſake.

28 If an ox x gore a man or a woman that they
Gen. 9. 5. die, then * the oxe ſhall be ſurely ſtoned y, and his flesh ſhall not be eaten ‖: but the owner of the oxe ſhall be quit.

x Under which you are to underſtand any other creatures of like nature which hurt a man in ſuch a dangerous manner, whether with their horns or teeth or feet, but he mentions only the oxe or bull and his goring with his horn, becauſe this is moſt frequently done. y Partly to prevent future miſchiefs from that creature: partly to puniſh its maſter for his negligence in not keeping it in: and principally, for mans admonition, for whom ſeeing the beaſts were made, it is not ſtrange nor unjuſt if it be deſtroyed for mans good, God would hereby ſhew, that he would not, and men ſhould not, ſpare a wilful murderer. ‖ Both becauſe it was forbidden food, its blood being not let out, and for the puniſhment of the owner who was hereby hindred from the ſale of it, to beget in all the greater deteſtation of murderers, when they obſerve the poor beaſt upon this account accurſed and therefore not to be touched or taſted.

29 But if the oxe were wont to puſh with his horn in time paſt, and it hath been teſtified z to his owner, and he hath not kept him in, but that he hath killed a man or a woman a, the oxe ſhall be ſtoned, and his owner alſo ſhall be put to death.

z Which the Jews ſay was to be done thrice, and before the Magiſtrate. a To wit, an Iſraelite, or a ſtranger who is free, by comparing this with ver. 32.

30 If there be laid on him b a ſum of money, then he ſhall give for * the ranſom of his life, * Num. 35. 31. whatſoever is laid upon him.

b Either by the avenger of blood, the next a-kin to the party ſlain, who is willing to exchange the puniſhment; or by the Judge, who may diſcern ſome circumſtances, which may much leſſen the crime, as if an oxe had broken his cords wherewith he was tyed, or broke forth through the careleſneſs or wickedneſs of his ſervant to whoſe care he was committed.

31 Whether he have goared a ſon c, or have goared a daughter c, according to this judgment ſhall it be done unto him.

c Names ſignifying their tender age, in reſpect of the man or woman, ver. 29. And this is added, leſt the foregoing ſenſe ſhould be reſtrained to their parents, whoſe lives were more precious, and therefore their loſs greater.

32 If the oxe ſhall puſh a man-ſervant, or a maid-ſervant, he ſhall give unto their maſter thirty ſhekels d, and the oxe ſhall be ſtoned.

d The half of the freemans price. See on Mat. 26. 15.

33 And if a man ſhall open a pit, or if a man ſhall dig a pit e, and not cover it, and an oxe or an aſs fall therein:

e If a man ſhall either open an old pit, which hath been covered with earth, or dig a new pit, to wit, in a publick way, as the reaſon of the law ſhews; for if it were done in a mans own houſe or ground, there was no danger of ſuch an accident, except the beaſt tranſgreſſed his bounds, and then the man was not culpable.

34 The owner of the pit ‖ ſhall make it good, and give money f unto the owner of them, and the dead beaſt ſhall be his.

‖ (i. e.) He by whoſe hand or command it was made. f Equal to the worth of the dead beaſt, in the opinion of the Judge.

35 And if one mans oxe hurt another, that he die, then they ſhall ſell the live oxe, and divide the money of it g, and the dead oxe alſo they ſhall divide.

g Not equally, for ſo the owner of the miſchievous oxe might be gainer by the miſchief, his oxe being much worſe than that which was killed, but in ſuch proportions as the Judges ſhall think fit conſidering the worth of the cattle, and the circumſtances of the action.

36 Or if it be known that the oxe hath uſed to puſh in time paſt, and his owner hath not kept him in, he ſhall ſurely pay oxe for oxe h, and the dead ſhall be his own.

h An oxe of equal value with that ſlain oxe, or the price and worth of it.

CHAP. XXII.

† Or, goat.

1 IF a man ſhall ſteal an oxe, or a † ſheep a, and kill it, or ſell it b; he ſhall reſtore five oxen for an oxe, and * four ſheep for a ſheep c.

*2 Sam. 12.6. Luk. 19. 8. See Prov. 6. 31.

a Or, an Aſs, which is added ver. 4. and conſequently any other living creature, to be valued according to its worth and uſe to man, proportionably to the rule here laid down. Only theſe are inſtanced in, for their uſefulneſs in the ſervice both of God and of men. b Which was an aggravation of the crime, and a token of greater boldneſs, reſolvedneſs, and expertneſs in the trade of thieving, than was in him who kept it at home, ver. 4. c Queſt. 1, Why ſo much, ſeeing the ſtealer of other things was tyed to reſtore but double? Anſw. 1. For terrour, becauſe theſe beaſts being kept in the fields might more eaſily be ſtoln. 2. Becauſe the loſs of theſe was greater than of other things: for they did not only loſe what the cattle might be ſold for, but all the ſervice, increaſe, and other benefits, which a man might receive from them. Queſt. 2. Why more for oxen, than for ſheep? Anſ. 1. Becauſe it argued greater boldneſs and cuſtomarineſs in the thief to ſteal that which might more eaſily be diſcovered. 2. Becauſe, beſides the intrinſecal worth of the oxe, the labour of the oxe was very conſiderable to his owner, Prov. 14. 4. and therefore the loſs greater.

2 If a thief be found breaking up d, and be ſmitten that he die, there ſhall no bloud be ſhed for him e.

d To wit, an houſe, which the Chaldee here adds, and by night, as appears from the next verſe. e (i. e.) For the thief, though he be killed by a man in his own defence. Becauſe in that caſe, the thief might be preſumed to have a worſe deſign, and the owner of the houſe could neither expect or have the help of others to ſecure him from the intended violence, nor guide his blows with that diſcretion and moderation, which in the day-time he might uſe.

3 If the Sun be riſen upon him, there ſhall be blood ſhed for him f: for he ſhould make full reſtitution: if he have nothing, then he ſhall be ſold g for his theft.

f He that kills him ſhall be put to death, becauſe he puniſhed him more than his crime deſerved, and might have been otherwiſe either ſecured or righted, and in that caſe, it is probable the thief deſigned not murder, but theft only. But if it were evident, that the houſe-breaker deſigned murder, he might doubtleſs kill him in his own defence. g Either ſo long till his ſervice was worth the thing ſtollen, or rather for the ordinary time of ſix years, becauſe this was not a ſimple thief, but an houſe-breaker, which was much worſe. Queſt. How can he be ſold, who is ſuppoſed to be killed? Anſ. The Hebrew word may be better rendred, ſhould be ſold, as the forgoing word, of the ſame future time, is rendred, ſhould make reſtitution, to wit, if he were not killed; and therefore the killer of him being ſufficiently ſecured againſt this injury was more culpable in killing him without neceſſity.

4 If the theft be certainly found in his hand alive h, whether it be oxe, or aſs, or ſheep, he ſhall reſtore double i.

h Nor killed, nor ſold, as ver. 1. i Not more, 1. becauſe in that caſe it was preſumed, either that he intended to reſtore it, or at leaſt that he was but raw and unexerciſed in the trade of ſtealing, and ſo ſhould be more gently puniſhed: 2. Becauſe the right owner recovered his goods with leſs charge and trouble, or 3. becauſe it was but a ſingle crime, whereas the other ver. 1. was an aggravated and complicated crime, where one ſin and injury was added to another. Obj. It is ſaid, he ſhall reſtore ſeven-fold, Prov. 6. 31. Anſ. 1. Seven-fold is put for abundantly, as that word is oft uſed as Gen. 4. 24. Pſal. 12. 6. and 79. 12. and a learned man obſerves it is never uſed for that definite number, Anſ. 2. This ſeven-fold or ſeven-times may relate not to the proportion of his reſtitution, but to the number of his Thefts, or rather of his detections, and the ſenſe is this, Though he be found guilty of theft ſeven times, all his puniſhment is, that he ſhall reſtore, as the law preſcribes. Whereas Adultery, of which he there ſpeaks in the following verſes, is a crime of that nature, that if a man be once found guilty of it, reſtitution cannot be made nor will it ſerve his turn, but he falls into all all the miſchiefs there reckoned up.

5 If a man ſhall cauſe a field or vineyard k to be eaten, and ſhall put in his beaſt, and ſhall feed in another mans field: of the beſt of his own field, and of the beſt of his own vineyard ſhall he make reſtitution.

k Or, Orchard, or other things of like nature, which is generally to be obſerved in Laws.

6 If fire break out, and catch in thorns, ſo that the ſtacks of corn, or the ſtanding corn, or the field be conſumed therewith; he that kindled the fire l, ſhall ſurely make reſtitution m.

l Whether wilfully for ſuch a purpoſe, or careleſly in ſuch a time or place as was dangerous. m Which if he were not able to do, it is probable he was to be ſold for it, as in like caſes was provided.

7 If a man ſhall deliver unto his neighbour money or ſtuff n to keep, and it be ſtollen out of the mans houſe; if the thief be found, let him pay double.

n Heb. Veſſels, garments, utenſils, or any kind of houſhold-ſtuff.

8 If the thief be not found, then the maſter of the houſe ſhall be brought unto the Judges to ſee o whether he have put his hand unto his neighbors goods p.

o That they may examine all circumſtances, and uſe all means to find out the truth, by offering him his Oath, or otherwiſe. p Either to take and reſerve them for his own uſe, or to diſpoſe of them to another for his own advantage.

9 For all manner of treſpaſs q, whether it be for oxe, for aſs, for ſheep, for raiment, or for any manner of loſt thing, which another challengeth to be his r: the cauſe of both parties ſhall come unto the Judges, and whom the Judges ſhall condemn s, he ſhall pay double unto his neighbour.

q To wit, about matters depoſited upon truſt, and loſt, of which alone this place ſpeaks. r Or, when or concerning which he ſhall ſay, this is it, viz. the thing that I have loſt: Or rather, this is he, to whom I committed it, and whom I ſuſpect and charge as guilty. s Whether the perſon with whom the things were depoſited, if they judged him guilty of Theft, or the depoſitor, if he were convicted of a falſe-accuſation.

10 If a man deliver unto his neighbour an aſs, or an oxe, or a ſheep, or any beaſt to keep t, and it dye, or be hurt, or driven away, no man ſeeing it;

t As his ſervant, not freely, but for wages.

11 Then ſhall an Oath of the LORD u be between them both x, that he hath not put his hand unto his neighbours goods: and the owner of it ſhall accept thereof, and he ſhall not make it good.

u So called here, as alſo 1 Kings 1. 43. becauſe it is taken by his authority and appointment, and for his honour, and in his name alone, God being made both witneſs and judge and avenger thereby. x (i. e.) Shall end the difference between them both, the one ſhall give his Oath, and the other ſhall accept of it: Or be taken by them both, by the one, that he did deliver them to him upon agreement and for hire; by the other, that he put not his hand to them.

12 And if it be ſtollen from him y, he ſhall make reſtitution unto the owner thereof.

y Heb. from with him, which is an emphatical expreſſion, and notes that this was taken away, either 1. From thoſe things which were with him, or which were his, i. e. from the midſt of his own goods, which ſuppoſeth fraud in him: Or 2. From under his eye, when he either did know of it, or with common care and diligence might have been known and prevented, and this argues groſs neglect in him. And this is one reaſon, why this man is bound to make reſtitution, when the other ver. 7. is not; another reaſon of the difference is, becauſe thoſe things ver. 7. were only or principally dead things and ſuch things as required no great care, or, if they did, for in that caſe alſo were included, Oxen, Aſſes, &c. v. 9. yet he with whom they were left received no recompence for them and therefore was not obliged to any ſingular care about them; but here, the things were ſuch as needed great care and diligence, which alſo this man was obliged to perform by the hire which he received upon that account, which was Jacobs caſe, Gen. 31. 39.

13 If it be torn in pieces, then let him bring it for witneſs z, and he ſhall not make good that which was torn.

z It (i. e.) Some part of the torn Creature, which the wild Beaſt haply had left, Amos 3. 11, 12. Queſt. What if the whole creature were carried away, as a Sheep or Lamb is ſometimes by the Wolf! Anſw. 1. I ſuppoſe this was not frequent, and that thoſe ravenous creatures did ſpeedily fall to their meal, and that ſomething was left, not far from the place, which the Shepherd might eaſily procure. 2. The words may be otherwiſe rendred, dred, he shall bring a witness, as the Chaldee and Samar. render it, or a Testimony, (i. e.) Some evidence whereby the judge might be satisfied, as for instance, that some Wolf or Lion, &c. was seen in those parts, &c. or some witness of his diligence and faithfulness in all other things, which therefore might well be presumed in this.

14 And if a man borrow ought a of his neighbour, and it be hurt, or die, the owner thereof being not with it, he shall surely make it good b.

a (i. e.) Any living thing, which may be hurt or die, as it follows. b This may seem hard, but all things considered, is reasonable; because in doubtful cases, wherein it is not evident whether the borrower was faulty or not, as it is here, it ought to be interpreted in favour of the lender, rather than of the borrower, partly to oblige the borrower to the greater fidelity and care in such things, which being not his own, men are commonly more careless about; partly because the benefit being wholly the borrowers, the loss also in all reason ought to be his, and the lender ought not to suffer for his kindness, lest he should be discouraged from such actions for the future.

15 But if the owner thereof be with it c, he shall not make it good d: if it be an hired thing, it came for his hire e.

c In which case, the Law reasonably presumes, both that the borrower would not abuse it in the sight of its owner, and that the lender might and would take due care about it. d Except there be some manifest fault in the borrower, as if he should kill or wound the beast in the lenders presence: which exception is easily to be understood from divers other Laws of God. e (i. e.) The benefit was the lenders, and not the borrowers, and therefore the former reason ceaseth, and whether the master were present or absent, he that receives the gain or hire shall bear the loss, except when it came through the borrowers gross and wilful default.

Deut. 22.28. 16 And * if a man entice a maid f that is not betrothed g, and lie with her, he shall surely endow her to be his wife.

f By perswasions, promise of Marriage, allurements, or rewards. g But if she were betrothed, it was punished with death, Deut. 22. 23.

17 If her father utterly refuse h to give her unto him, he shall † pay money according to the dowry of Virgins i.

h Which shews the necessity of Parents consent in Marriage. i (i. e.) In such proportion as the Virgins quality requires, for there was no certain and equal dowry appointed for all Women. See 1 Sam. 18. 25. Quest. Why is there no punishment for the Woman? Answ. 1. She had no distinct estate, being yet in her Fathers house. 2. The loss of her Virginity was a sufficient punishment, especially in Israel, where it was a great reproach and prejudice. 3. She was not so culpable as the man, both because she was of the weaker sex, and because she was drawn to the sin by the mans perswasion.

Lev. 19. 26, 31. 18 * Thou shalt not suffer a witch k to live.

k (i. e.) Any person that is in league with the Devil, and by his help either doth any mischief, or discovers and practises things above the reach of other men or women. Of which see Exod. 7. 11. Levit. 20. 27. Deut. 18. 10. 1 Sam. 28. 9. The word is of the feminine gender, partly because Women are most prone to these Devilish arts, and most frequently guilty of them; and partly to intimate that no pity should be shewed to such offenders, though they were of the weaker sex.

19 Whosoever lieth with a beast, shall surely be put to death.

Deut. 13. 13, 14, 15. Mac. 2. 24. 20 * He that sacrificeth l unto any God save unto the LORD only, he shall be utterly destroyed m.

l Or otherwise worshippeth, as appears from Deut. 17. 2, 3, 4, 5. and many other places. One act of worship put for all by a very familiar Synecdoche. m Heb. anathematized, i. e. esteemed execrable, and as such destroyed without mercy. See Deut. 13. 15. &c. and 18. 20.

chap. 23. 9. Lev. 19. 33. and 25. 35. Deut. 10. 18. and 24. 17. and 27. 19. Isa. 1. 17. Zech. 7. 10. Jam. 1. 27. 21 * Thou shalt neither vex a stranger, nor oppress him: for ye were strangers in the land of Egypt.

22 * Ye shall not afflict any widow, or fatherless child.

23 If thou afflict them in any wise, and they cry at all unto me, I will surely hear their cry.

24 And my wrath shall wax hot, and I will kill you with the sword: and your wives shall be widows, and your children fatherless.

25 * If thou lend money to any of my people n that is poor o by thee, thou shalt not be to him as an usurer, neither shalt thou lay upon him usury p.

* Lev. 25. 37. Deut. 23. 19. Psal. 15. 5. Neh. 5. 7. Ezek. 18. 8, 17.

n (i. e.) Any Israelite: for it was permitted to take usury of the Gentiles, Deut. 23. 20. o This seems to be added not by way of apposition, as if Gods people and the poor were all one, because such are commonly poor, but by way of restriction; for God had promised greatly to bless and enrich the generality of his people, if they by their wickedness did not hinder it, and that there should be few poor among them, yet some such there should be for the tryal and exercise of their charity. See Lev. 19. 10. Deut. 15. 4, 7, 11. p The Hebrew word signifies biting: so usury is called not by way of distinction as if moderate usury were allowed in this case, which is manifestly false, because the borrower is here supposed to be poor, to whom not the use only, but oft-times even the principal, is to be remitted, Luk. 6 34, 35. but by way of explication, because all usury is of a biting or eating nature, which commonly consumes the person that pays it.

26 * If thou at all take thy neighbours q raiment to pledge, thou shalt deliver it unto him by that the Sun goeth down r.

* Job 24. 3, 9. Prov. 20. 16. and 22. 27. Amos 2. 8.

q To wit, that is poor, as appears by comparing this with the next verse, where he is supposed to have but one garment, and with Deut. 24. 12, 13. r Because he speaks of such raiment or covering, wherein he used to sleep, ver. 27. But you are not to think that the creditor would every morning take and every night redeliver his pledge; and therefore this is rather a prohibition to take any such thing for a pledge as a man hath great and daily need of by this argument that if he did take it he could not keep it. Compare Deut. 24. 6.

27 For that is his covering only, it is his raiment for his skin: wherein shall he sleep? and it shall come to pass, when he cryeth unto me, that I will hear: for I am gracious.

28 Thou shalt not revile the || gods s, nor curse the ruler of thy people t.

|| Or, judges:

s Not Gods falsly so called, as some would have it, as appears by 1 Kings 18. 27. Jer. 10. 11. but Magistrates and governours, whether Civil or Ecclesiastical, as it is evident both from Act. 23. 3, 4, 5. and from the following words which explain the former, according to the common use of Scripture, and from the title of Gods commonly given to such, as Exod. 7. 1. Psal. 82. 6. Joh. 10. 34, 35. t Compare Eccl. 10. 20. Jude ver. 8.

29 Thou shalt not delay u to offer the † first of thy ripe fruite x; and of thy † liquors: * the firstborn of thy sons shalt thou give unto me y.

† Heb. thy fulness. † Heb. tear. * chap. 13. 2, 12. and 34. 19. Deut. 15. 19.

u Beyond the times appointed, lest this delay grow to a total neglect. And delay may here be put for neglect, as that word is used, Deut. 7. 10. and 23. 21. Hab. 2. 3. which may seem to be favoured by the following clause, which commands the giving or offering of the first-born without any mention of the hastning or delaying of it. x Heb. thy fulness; and whereas this word is sometimes applied to seed or corn, as Numb. 18. 27. and sometimes to the vintage, as Deut. 22. 9. the circumstances must determine, as it doth in like cases, how it must be taken; which here seem to restrain it to dry fruits, as corn, &c. because it is opposed to liquors; and so all sorts of fruits are comprehended here. Unless you will make this an usual figure called Hendyadis, as judgment and justice, Deut. 16. 18. is put for judgment of Justice, or just judgment, so here thy fulness and liquors, for the fulness of thy liquors; and so this may be one kind mentioned for all the rest, than which nothing more frequent. y Not in kind, but by a price of redemption to be paid to me in their stead.

30 Likewise z shalt thou do with thine oxen, and with thy sheep: seven days it shall be with his dam, on the eighth day a thou shalt give it me.

z (i. e.) Ye shall offer their first-born. a Not sooner, because it was till then tender and imperfect and therefore not fit to be offered to God: but it was not tyed to that day, for it might be offered afterwards, as appears from Lev. 22. 27. even till it was a year old.

31 And ye shall be holy b men unto me: neither shall ye eat any flesh that is torn of Beasts c in the field; ye shall cast it to the dogs.

b (i. e.) Separated from all filthiness both moral and ceremonial. c Partly because the blood was not taken out of it, partly because the clean beast was ceremonially defiled by the touch of the unclean, and partly to beget in them a detestation of cruelty, even in the beasts, and much more in men.

CHAP. XXIII.

* Pſal 15. 3. † Or, receive.

1 THou * ſhalt not † raiſe a a falſe report: put not thine hand b with the wicked to be an unrighteous witneſs.

a Heb. not take up, to wit, into thy mouth, as Exod. 20. 7. either by the firſt raiſing, or further ſpreading of it: Or, not bear, or endure, as that word oft ſignifies; not hear it patiently, delightfully, readily, approvingly, as perſons are very apt to do, but rather ſhalt diſcourage and reprove the ſpreader of it, according to Prov. 25. 23. Poſſibly the Holy Ghoſt might chuſe a word of ſuch general ſignification to ſhew that all theſe things were forbidden. b (i. e.) Not conſpire or agree with them, which is ſignified by joyning hands, Prov. 11. 21. not give them an helping hand in it, not incourage them to it by gifts or promiſes, not aſſiſt them by counſel or intereſt. Others not ſwear with them. But ſwearing is noted by putting the hand, but by lifting it up.

* Lev. 19. 15. Deut. 1. 17. † Heb. anſwer.

2 * Thou ſhalt not follow a multitude c to do evil d: neither ſhalt thou † ſpeak e in a cauſe, to decline after many, to wreſt judgment f.

c Either their counſel or example. But the Hebrew rabbim both here and in the following clauſe is by ſome rendred great men, men in power and authority, whom we are commanded not to follow. And as the word is thus uſed, Job 32. 9. Jer. 41. 1. ſo this ſenſe may ſeem moſt probable: 1. Becauſe in the laſt clauſe he ſpeaks of cauſes or controverſies, as the Hebrew rib ſignifies and matters of judgement, which were not determined by the multitude, but by great men. 2. Becauſe theſe are oppoſed to the poor in the next verſe. 3. Becauſe the examples of ſuch men are moſt prevalent. d Either in general, or particularly, to work miſchief, to oppreſs or cruſh another. e Heb. anſwer, when thou art ſummoned as a witneſs in any cauſe. f Or, to turn aſide right, or, to pervert thy ſelf, the verb being taken reciprocally, as Hiphil is oft put for Hithpael, or, which is all one, to do perverſly, i. e. unrighteouſly.

3 Neither ſhalt thou countenance g a poor man in his cauſe.

g Heb. Honour, i. e. reſpect, or prefer, his cauſe, when the richer mans cauſe is more juſt: The meaning of this and the former verſe is, there ſhall be no reſpect of perſons, whether rich or poor, but an impartial conſideration of the cauſe. See Levit. 19. 15. Pſal. 72. 1, 2.

* Deut. 22. 1. Job 24. 3. Prov. 24. 17. & 25. 21. Mat. 5. 44. Rom. 12. 20.

4 * If thou meet thine enemies oxe h or his aſs going aſtray, thou ſhalt ſurely bring it back to him again.

h So far ſhalt thou be from revenging his injuries, that thou ſhalt render good to him for them, whereby if thou doſt not reconcile him, thou wilt procure peace to thy ſelf, and honour to Religion.

* Deut. 22. 4. ‖ Or, wilt thou ceaſe to help him? and wouldeſt ceaſe to leave thy buſineſs for him: thou ſhalt ſurely leave it to join with him.

5 * If thou ſee the aſs of him that hateth thee, lying under his burden, ‖ and wouldeſt forbear to help him; thou ſhalt ſurely help with him i.

i This tranſlation depends upon this ſuppoſition, that the Hebrew word azab, which is thrice uſed in this verſe, ſignifies not only to leave, but alſo to help, or erect, or lift up or ſtrengthen or reſtore: which ſignification of the verb may be proved. 1. From that uſe of it, Nehem. 3. 8. and 4. 2. 2. From the parallel place, Deut. 22. 4. where inſtead of this verb, azab, is hakim which is properly to erect or lift up. But if the verb did ſignifie only to leave, it may be thus rendred according to the Hebrew words, then or therefore, or ſurely, (for all theſe ways the Hebrew particle Vau is uſed) thou ſhalt forbear to leave it, to wit, the aſs groaning under his burden, or the lifting up of the aſs and burden, to him alone: but if thou wilt be leaving, I will appoint thee a better object for it, thou ſhalt ſurely leave or lay aſide what thou haſt againſt him, i. e. whatſoever controverſie thou haſt with him, that ſhall not hinder thee from ſuccouring him or his in any diſtreſs. The Hebrew preposition, im, doth oft ſignifie againſt, as Gen. 26. 20. Pſal. 85. 4. and 94. 16. Hoſ. 9. 8. And it is a conciſe or ſhort way of ſpeaking, which is very common in the Hebrew language, againſt him for, what thou haſt againſt him. Or thus, and wouldeſt forbear to leave, to wit, thy buſineſs which thou art going about, for him, i. e. for the ſake of him who is thine enemy, as the Hebrew prepoſition, lamed, is oft uſed, as Exod. 14. 25. Numb. 25. 13. Joſ. 10. 14. &c. thou ſhalt repreſs thoſe malitious deſires, and thou ſhalt ſurely leave it to be or to tarry or to help with him to lift up the aſs. So there is only an Elliplis of the verb, which is moſt common in the Hebrew tongue.

6 Thou ſhalt not wreſt the judgment of thy poor k in his cauſe.

k (i. e.) Of the poor which is among thee, not of the poor Jews only, as ſome peradventure may conceive, for common right muſt be done even to the Gentiles. Compare Deut. 27. 19.

7 Keep thee far l from a falſe matter m: and the innocent and righteous ſlay thou not n: for * I will not juſtifie the wicked o.

* chap. 34. 7.

l (i. e.) Abſtain from all occaſions, degrees, or appearances of it. Compare Job 22. 23. Prov. 4. 14. 15. m (i. e.) An unrighteous judgment: for he is ſpeaking to the Judges, as appears both by the foregoing and following verſes. n Condemn not to death, nor to any other unjuſt penalty, for the ſame reaſon. o And therefore not condemn the innocent, one contrary being here underſtood from the other, as is frequent in the book of the Proverbs, and what I do not, thou who acteſt in my name and ſtead ſhouldeſt not do. Or rather thus, Know, O Judge, for to ſuch he ſpeaks, if thou doſt pronounce ſuch a wicked ſentence, I will not juſtifie thee, or hold thee guiltleſs, i. e. I will ſeverely puniſh thee, as Exod. 20. 7.

* Deut. 16. 19. † Heb. the ſeeing.

8 And * thou ſhalt take no gift p: for the gift blindeth † the wiſe q, and perverteth the words of the righteous r.

p Namely from ſuch whoſe cauſes are depending before thee, becauſe if thou doſt not ſell Juſtice for it, yet thou wilt both ſeem to do ſo and be tempted to do ſo. Compare Deut. 16. 19. 1 Sam. 8. 3. Prov. 17. 8, 23. and 19. 6. q Or, the open eyed, the quick-ſighted, who in this caſe cannot ſee, partly becauſe they will not ſee, and partly becauſe intereſt and affection do exceedingly corrupt the judgment, and render it very partial. r (i. e.) The judgment of the righteous Judges, i. e. of them who before were ſuch and are enclined to be ſo, and probably would be ſo, were they not tempted with bribes, or, of them who by their place ſhould be righteous. So they are called righteous to admoniſh them of their duty to be ſo, and to aggravate their ſin when they are unrighteous, and conſequently to aggravate the miſchief of gifts, which make thoſe unrighteous whoſe office obligeth them to be righteous. Or thus, the matters or cauſes of the righteous, which may be underſtood not of the Judges, but of the parties pleading, whoſe righteous cauſe is by this means perverted by the Judge, and a wrong ſentence given.

t (i. e.) From manuring, plowing, tilling and ſowing, and reaping alſo, by comparing Levit. 25. 3, 4, 5. And this God ordained not only for the reaſon here mentioned, the more comfortable proviſion for the poor, and for the cattel, but for other weighty reaſons, as 1. That the heart and ſtrength of the land might not be eaten out by continual tillage. 2. that he might both try and exerciſe and alſo ſecure the obedience of the Iſraelites. 3. That he might keep them in dependance upon himſelf, and give to them and to all their neighbours a manifeſt proof of his ſingular and gracious providence over his people. 4. that by this kind of quit-rent they might be admoniſhed that God alone was the Lord and proprietary of the land, and they were only Tenants at his will. 5. That being freed from their great labours about the land they might have the more leaſure to meditate upon Gods works, and to attend upon the law, which was to be ſolemnly read at this time; Deut. 31. 10, &c. u Queſt. What had the poor to eat? Anſ. Not only the fruits of the vines and olives and other fruit-trees, but alſo all that grew of its own accord, Levit. 25. 5. from thoſe ſeeds which in the laſt reaping time were ſcattered here and there, which were much more numerous now than in other years, becauſe God gave a ſpecial bleſſing to the ſixth year, whereby it did bring forth the fruit of three years, Lev. 25. 21. and in years of ſo great plenty men are generally more negligent in their reaping, and therefore the relicks are more. x (i. e.) Thou ſhalt not prune nor dreſs them, nor gather and appropriate to thy own uſe what they ſhall produce, but ſhalt leave them to the poor.

y This command is here repeated, lest any should think the weekly rest might cease when the whole year was consecrated to rest. There were three sorts of Sabbaths to the Jews, 1. Of Days. 2. Of Years, to wit, the Seventh year. 3. Of Weeks of Years, two wit. the Jubilee, and all these are types of the eternal rest in Heaven.

13 And in all things that I have said unto you, be
* Deut. 12. 3. circumspect: and * make no mention of the names of other gods z, neither let it be heard out of thy mouth.

z To wit, with honour and delight, or without detestation; as fornication is not to be named among Saints, Eph. 5. 3. Or, not mention them in your worship, or in oaths, or, in common discourse, and without special occasion, lest the frequent mention of them might keep up their memory or introduce their worship. Hence the names of Idols and Idolatrous places were ofttimes changed by the Israelites. See Numb. 32. 38. Jos. 23. 7. Compare Psal. 16. 4. Hos. 2. 17. Zech. 13. 2.

* chap. 24. 23. Deut. 16. 16. 14 * Three times thou shalt keep a feast unto me in the year.

* chap. 13. 3. & 34. 18. 15 * Thou shalt keep the feast of unleavened bread: thou shalt eat unleavened bread as I have commanded thee, in the time appointed of the month Abib: for in it thou camest out from Egypt:
* Deut. 16. 16. Eccl. 35. 4. * and none shall appear before me empty a:

a This may be either 1. a precept, as it is generally understood, that none should ever come at those times without some offering or other, for the support of the Levites and of the worship of God: But the determination of this, or what they would give was left to their choice. Or 2. A promise to encourage them to come so oft from their remotest habitations to Jerusalem, because they should never appear before God in vain, i. e. to no purpose, or without some benefit, for so the word, rekam, oft signifies. So it may be parallel to Isa. 45. 19. I said not unto the seed of Jacob, seek ye me in vain. But the former sense is more probable by comparing this with its parallel place, Deut. 16. 16, 17.

16 And the feast of harvest b the first-fruits of thy labours c, which thou hast sown in the field: and the feast of in-gathering d which is in the end of the year e, when thou hast gathered in thy labours out of the field.

b (i. e.) Of Wheat-harvest: for Barley-harvest was before this time. This feast was otherwise called Pentecost. c How were these the first-fruits, when a sheaf was offered to God in the feast of the Passover? Ans. That sheaf was generally of barly, which was less considerable than their wheat, but this was the first-fruits of their Wheat, which was their principal grain, and they had no bread before this time from the growth of that year. d To wit, of all the rest of the fruits of the earth, as of the vines and olives. This was called also the feast of booths, and of Tabernacles. See Levit. 23. 34. Numb. 29. 12. Deut. 16. 13. All their three feasts had a respect to the harvest, which began in the Passover, was carried on at Pentecost, and was fully compleated and ended in this feast. e Of the common or civil year which began in September, as the sacred year began in March.

17 Three times in the year all thy males f shall appear before the LORD God g.

f To wit, such as are of competent years, and health and strength, and such as were at their own dispose: for that servants were not bound to this may seem probable, because none of these concerned were to appear before the Lord empty or without an offering, but the generality of servants had not any thing to offer. And the care and management of their domestick affairs did require the presence and care of many of their males. g (i. e.) In that place where God shall record his name, Exod. 20. 24. as the Tabernacle or Temple.

* Lev. 2. 11. Deut. 16. 3. † Or, feast. 18 * Thou shalt not offer the bloud of my sacrifice with leavened bread h, neither shall the fat of my † sacrifice remain untill the morning i.

h This and the following clause most understand of the Passover, by comparing this place with its parallel, Exod. 34. 25. where the Passover is mentioned. But the words being here universal, by the laws of interpretation they ought to be universally understood, if they can bear that sense, which here they may: for both these clauses agree to other sacrifices. For as every sacrifice had a Minchah or a meat-offering of flour attending upon it and offered with it, so it was expresly cautioned, that no leaven should be in that Minchah, Lev. 2. 11. And the fat of every sacrifice was consecrated to God, Lev. 3. 16. 2 Chron. 35. 14, &c. and was presently to be burnt upon the Altar; Lev. 7. 2, 3. And for Exod. 34. 25. what hinders, but what is here more generally prescribed, may be there particularly applied to the Passover? And that seems more reasonable, than to make that an idle repetition of the same thing. And my sacrifice may be here put for my sacrifices, by the common Enallage. Moreover the two principal things which were offered to God in every sacrifice were blood and fat, Lev. 17. 6, 11, &c. i This if understood of the Passover may seem superfluous, because nothing of it, neither fat nor lean, was to remain untill the morning, Exod. 12. 10. but all of it was to be eaten even the purtenance thereof, ver. 9. and that, for ought I see, without any exception of the fat, as there was in other sacrifices, Lev. 3. 16. And therefore in that parallel place, Exod. 34. 25. where the Passover is mentioned, there is not a word of the fat, but only it is said in the general, neither shall the sacrifice of the feast of the Passover be left until the morning. And in that 2 Chron. 35. 14. where there is mention of the fat, it is manifestly restrained to the burnt-offerings, which are there distinguished from the Passover, ver. 11. 12.

19 The first of the first-fruits k of thy land, thou shalt bring into the house of the LORD thy God.
* Thou shalt not seethe a kid in his mothers milk l. * Deut. 14. 21

k This seems to be a general rule extending to all the fruits which the earth first produced in every kind, of which the very first are here enjoyned to be offered unto God, before they should presume to eat any of them. It may seem to be repeated here where the year of rest is mentioned, to teach them the first-fruits were to be given to God of all that the earth produced, not only by their labour and seed, as might be thought from ver. 16. but also of its own accord, as is here implied. l He names one kind, under which he understands a lamb or a calf, &c. according to the use of Scripture-style. This law many understand literally, and that it is forbidden to them, because the Idolaters had such a custom; whereof yet there seems to be no sufficient proof: Nor, if there were, doth it seem to be a rite of that importance or probability to intice the Israelites to imitate it, that there needed a particular law against this, more than against an hundred such ridiculous usages, which were among the heathen, and are not taken notice of in the book of Gods laws. The words may be rendred thus, Thou shalt not seethe or rost (for the word bashal signifies to rost as well as to boil, as it is evident from Deut. 16. 7. a kid being of whilst it is (which is to be understood, there being nothing more common than an Ellipsis of the verb substantive) in his mothers milk: which it may be said to be, either 1. Whilst it sucks its mothers milk, and so it may admit of a twofold interpretation, 1. That this is to be understood of the Passover, of which most conceive he had now spoken, ver. 18. in which they used either a lamb or a kid, Exod. 12. 5. and then the word bashal must be rendred rost. 2. That this speaks not of sacrifice to God, wherein sucking creatures were allowed, Exod. 22. 30. Levit. 22. 27. 1 Sam. 7. 9. but of mans use, and so God ordained this, partly because this was unwholsome food, and principally to restrain cruelty, even towards brute-creatures, and luxury in the use of them. Or rather 2. Whilst it is very tender and young, rather of a milky than of a fleshy substance, like that young kid of which Juvenal thus speaks, Qui plus lactis habet quam sanguinis, i. e. which hath more milk than blood in it. And it may be said to be in its mothers milk, by an usual Hypallage, when its mothers milk is in it, i. e. whilst the milk it sucks as it were remains in it undigested and unconverted into flesh, even as a man is oft said to be in the spirit, when indeed the spirit is in him. And what is here indefinitely prohibited, is elsewhere particularly explained and the time defined, to wit, that it be not offered to God before it was eight days old. And this interpretation may receive light and strength from hence, that the law of the first-fruits, which both here and Exod. 34. 26. goes immediately before this law, doth in Exod. 22. 30. immediately go before that law of not offering them before the eighth day, which implies, that both of them speak concerning the same thing, to wit, the first-fruits or first-born of the cattel, which were not to be offered to God, while they were in their mothers milk, saith this place, or till they were eight days old, saith that place. And consequently, if they might not be offered to God, they might not be used by men for food.

20 * Behold, I send an Angel m before thee, to keep thee in the way, and to bring thee into the place which I have prepared. * chap. 33. 2. 14. Num. 20. 16.

m To wit, Christ, the Angel of the Covenant, as may be gathered both from the following words, because pardon of sin, which is Gods Prerogative, Mark 2. 7. is here ascribed to him, and Gods name is in him, and by comparing other Scriptures, as Exod. 32. 34. Act. 7. 38, 39. 1 Cor. 10. 9. See Exod. 13. 21. and 14. 19.

21 Beware of him, and obey his voice, provoke him not: for he will not pardon your transgressions n: for my Name is in him o.

n (i. e.) He will severely punish you for them, by a common Meiosis, as Exod. 20. 7. Understand, if you continue obstinate in your sins. o Heb. Is in his inward parts; i. e. is intimately united to him, according to Joh. 10. 38. I am in the father and the father in me. It not only signifies that he acts in his name, and by his power and authority, which even the Apoſtles did, and other Miniſters of the Goſpel do; and therefore it is unreaſonable to think, no more is aſcribed to this Angel, but that his divine nature or eſſence is in him, whence he is called the Lord our righteouſneſs, Jer. 23. 6. and god who will not give his glory to another, Iſa. 42. 8. hath given it to Chriſt, that all men ſhould honour the ſon even as they honour the father, Joh. 5. 23. which never was nor can be ſaid of any Angel without blaſphemy. Add to this, that the word name is oft put for the thing or being, whether it be human or divine, as is manifeſt from Deut. 28. 58. Pſal. 20. 1. and 115. 1. Iſa. 30. 27. Act. 1. 15. Revel. 3. 4. and 11. 13. And ſo it muſt be here, becauſe this name is not ſaid to be given to him, as it would be, if it were properly taken, but to be in him, or, in his inwards, which agrees well to the Divine nature or eſſence, but not to the mere name.

and

22 But if thou ſhalt indeed obey his voice, and do all a Properly ſo called, as may be gathered from Joſ. 24. 12. Deut. 7. 20. Hornets are of themſelves very troubleſome and miſchievous, but theſe, it is very probable, were like thoſe Egyptian flies, Exod. 8. 21. of an extraordinary bigneſs and perniciouſneſs. Nor is it ſtrange, that ſuch creatures did drive many of theſe people from their habitations, for many heathen writers give us inſtances of ſome people driven from their ſeats by frogs, others by mice, others by bees and waſps: of which ſee Herodotus, Diodorus, Plin. Ælian, Juſtin, &c. b He names theſe three people, either for all the reſt, becauſe they were the moſt potent about the time of Iſraels firſt entrance into Canaan, and gave them moſt trouble, or becauſe theſe three were more infeſted with Hornets than the other Nations, as being more numerous and dangerous.

* Deut. 7. 22. 29 * I will not drive them out from before thee in one year; leſt the land become deſolate c, and the beaſt of the field multiply againſt thee.

CHAP. XXIV.

1 AND he ſaid unto Moſes, Come up a unto the LORD, thou and Aaron, Nadab and Abihu b, and ſeventy of the Elders of Iſrael c: and worſhip ye afar off d.

a After thou haſt gone down and acquainted the people with my will, and received their anſwer, then come up again. This ſenſe is gathered from the repetition of this command after that was done, ver. 12. b Aaron and his two eldeſt ſons, whom by this ſpecial honour and favour he prepared for that office to which they were to be called, chap. 28. c Not the ſeventy governours, which were choſen after this time, as appears from Numb. 11. 24. compared with Numb. 33. 16. but ſeventy perſons ſelected by Moſes out of thoſe rulers choſen and mentioned Exod. 18. 25. and poſſibly theſe were the chief heads of thoſe ſeveral families which went with Jacob into Egypt, which were about 70. See Gen. 46. 26, 27. d Though they may come up into the mount further than the people, yet do thou, and let them eſpecially, keep their diſtance; and what worſhip either thou or they ſhall offer to me, ſhall be performed afar off from the top of the mountain whither thou only ſhalt be admitted and that not to pray to me, but only to receive laws and oracles from me. See ver. 2.

2 And Moſes alone e ſhall come near the LORD but they ſhall not come nigh, neither ſhall the people go up with him f.

e (i. e.) Without the perſons now mentioned, though not without Joſhua his miniſter, as ſome conceive from ver. 13. though even there Moſes ſeems to aſcend into the mount without Joſhua. f To any part of the mount, as Aaron, and Nadab, &c. did, but they ſhall tarry at the bottom. See Exod. 19. 12.

3 And Moſes came g and told the people all the words of the LORD, and all the judgments: and all the people anſwered with one voice, and ſaid, * All
* chap. 19. 8. Ver. 7. Deut. 5. 27. the words, which the LORD hath ſaid, will we do h.

g Down from the mount to the people, after he had received the laws from God. h This they ſo readily and raſhly promiſe, becauſe they were not ſenſible of their own weakneſs, and becauſe they did not underſtand the comprehenſiveneſs and ſpirituality and ſtrictneſs of Gods law, but thought it conſiſted only in the external performances and abſtinences expreſſed.

4 And Moſes wrote i all the words of the LORD and roſe up early in the morning, and builded an altar k under the hill, and twelve pillars l, according to the twelve tribes of Iſrael.

i To wit, in a book, Heb. 9. 19. And the Ten Commandments God himſelf wrote alſo in tables of ſtone, Exod. 31. 18. k Repreſenting God in Chriſt, as one party in the Covenant. l Repreſenting the people of Iſrael, the other party. So here are the outward ſigns and ſymbols of a Covenant made between God and the Iſraelites.

5 And

5 And he ſent young men m of the children of Iſrael, which offered burnt-offerings, and ſacrificed peace-offerings of oxen n unto the LORD.

m It matters not whether they were the firſt-born, or others: it is ſufficient that they were perſons appointed and authorized for the preſent ſervice, not without Gods direction. n One kind, as the principal, is named for all; for there were offered alſo goats, as appears both from Heb. 9. 19. and from hence, that burnt-offerings were uſually made of the goats, Lev. 1. 10. Numb. 7. 28.

6 And Moſes took half of the bloud o, and put it in baſons; and half of the bloud he ſprinkled on the altar ‖.

o Of the beaſts killed, which for conveniency of ſprinkling was mixed with a little water, Heb. 9. 19. whereby alſo Chriſt was moſt fitly repreſented, who came by water and blood, 1 Joh. 5. 6. ‖ To ſignifie, as well that God was appeaſed and atoned by this blood as it repreſented the blood of Chriſt, as alſo that Chriſt was ſanctified with his own blood, Heb. 9. 12.

7 And he took the book of the covenant p, and read in the audience of the people q, and they ſaid, * All that the LORD hath ſaid, will we do, and be obedient.

p Wherein Moſes had written the conditions of this Covenant, to wit, the words and laws of God, above ver. 4. q (i. e.) In the hearing of a great number of them, or of ſome in the name of all the people, by whom it was read or otherwiſe publiſhed to all the people ſucceſſively.

8 And Moſes took the bloud r, and ſprinkled it on the people s, and ſaid, Behold *, the bloud of the covenant t, which the LORD hath made with you, concerning all theſe words.

* 1 Pet. 1. 2.

r The other half of the blood, which was put in the baſons for this end, ver. 6. s Either upon the 12 pillars repreſenting the people: or upon the peoples repreſentatives, to wit, the Elders mentioned ver. 1. as when the people are commanded to lay on their hands, the Elders do it in their name and ſtead, Lev. 4. 15. Deut. 21. 2. or upon thoſe of the people which were neareſt him, which was imputed to all the reſt, and was to be taken by them as if it had reached unto them all. Now this ſprinkling of the bloud upon the people did ſignifie, 1. their ratification of the Covenant on their parts, and their ſecret wiſhing of the effuſion of their own blood if they did not keep it. 2. the ſprinkling of their conſciences with the blood of Chriſt, and their obtaining redemption, juſtification, and acceſs to God through it alone. See Heb. 9. 20, 22. and 13. 20. t Whereby the Covenant is made and confirmed, as was uſual both in Scripture, Mat. 26. 28. Luk. 22. 20. and among heathens.

9 Then went up u Moſes and Aaron, Nadab and Abihu, and ſeventy of the Elders of Iſrael.

u In obedience to that command of God, given ver. 1.

10 And they ſaw the God of Iſrael x and there was under his feet, as it were a paved work * of a Saphire ſtone y, and as it were the body of heaven in his clearneſs z.

* Ezek. 1. 26. and 10. 1.

x Not any viſible reſemblance of the Divine nature which is expreſly denied, Deut. 4. 15. 1 Tim. 6. 16. and was refuſed to Moſes when he deſired it; Exod 33. 18, 20. and therefore ſurely would never be granted to the Elders of Iſrael, but ſome glorious appearance or token of Gods ſpecial preſence, or rather, the ſecond perſon in the Trinity, who now ſhewed himſelf to them in an human and glorious ſhape, as an eſſay and teſtimony of his future incarnation. This may ſeem probable, 1. Becauſe here is mention of his feet, 2. Becauſe this way of Chriſts appearance was not unuſual. See Gen. 18. &c. 3. Becauſe the perſon who delivered the law in Sinai was Chriſt, as appears from Act. 7. 38. though he be there called an Angel, a name oft given to Chriſt, as hath been formerly ſhewed. y Which is of a clear ſky-colour, mixed with golden ſpots, like ſtars in the ſky. z Or, for clearneſs. A clear ſky in Prophetical ſtyle ſignifies Gods favour, as a cloudy ſky notes his anger.

11 And upon the nobles a of the children of Iſrael he laid not his hand b: alſo they ſaw God, and did eat and drink c.

a Or ſeparated or ſelect ones, i. e. the perſons who were ſingled out to go up with Moſes ver. 1. 9. the ſame of whom it is ſaid here and ver. 10. that they ſaw God. b (i. e.) Did not hurt or deſtroy them, as they might expect according to the vulgar opinion, Gen. 16. 13. and 32. 20. &c. and the conſcience of their own guilt, as being now before their Lord and Judge. And ſo the phraſe of putting or ſtretching forth the hand is moſt frequently uſed, as Gen. 37. 22. 1 Sam. 26. 11. 23. Eſth. 2. 21. Job 1. 11, 12. Pſal. 138. 7, &c. c So far were they from being deſtroyed, that they were not affrighted at this glorious appearance of God, but were refreſhed and comforted by it, and did joyfully eat and drink together in Gods preſence, celebrating the ſacred feaſt made of the remnant of the peace-offerings, according to the manner. Thus God gave them a taſte of his grace and mercy in this covenant, and an aſſurance that he would not deal with them according to the rigors of the Law, but for the ſake of the blood of Chriſt typically repreſented here, would graciouſly pardon and accept all thoſe that ſincerely, though imperfectly, obey him.

12 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Come up to me into the mount, and be d there: and I will give thee * tables of ſtone e, and a law and commandments f, which I have written; that thou mayſt teach them.

* chap. 31. 18. and 32. 16.

d (i. e.) Abide, as that verb is uſed 1 Tim. 4. 15. and elſewhere. e He choſe that material, partly as very durable, yet ſo that it was capable of being broken, which God, foreſeeing their wickedneſs, intended to do, and partly for ſignification, to note the hardneſs of their hearts, upon which no impreſſion could be made, but by the finger of God. f Or, the Law, and becauſe that is ambiguous to the moral, and ceremonial, and judicial, he adds, even the Commandment, or Commandments, to wit, the Ten Commandments, ſo called by way of eminency, for theſe only were written by God upon the ſtony tables, as appears by Exod. 34. 28. the reſt were written only by Moſes in a book, above ver. 4.

13 And Moſes roſe up, and his miniſter Joſhua g: and Moſes went up into the mount of God.

g Who did not go up with Moſes to the top of the mount, as is ſufficiently implyed both here and above ver. 1, 2. but abode in ſome lower place, waiting for Moſes his return, as appears from Exod. 32. 17. And there Joſhua abode 40 days, not faſting all the while, but having, as the reſt had, Manna for his meat, and, for his drink, water out of the brook that deſcended out of the mount, as we read Deut. 9. 21.

14 And he ſaid unto the elders, Tarry ye here for us h, until we come again unto you: and behold, Aaron and Hur i are with you: if any man have any matters to do, let him come unto them.

h (i. e.) For me and Joſhua, and here, i. e. in the camp, where he was when he ſpake theſe words; for it was where not only Aaron and Hur, but the people might come, as it here follows, and therefore not upon the mount. i Whom Moſes had made joint-commiſſioners to determine hard cauſes which were brought to them from the Elders, according to the order, Exod. 18. 22. Some make Aaron the Eccleſiaſtical head, and Hur the civil head. But Aaron was not authorized for Eccleſiaſtical matters till chap. 28.

15 And Moſes went up into the mount, and a cloud covered the mount.

16 And * the glory of the LORD k abode upon mount Sinai, and the cloud covered l it ſix days: and the ſeventh day m he called unto Moſes out of the midſt of the cloud.

* Num. 14. 14.

k (i. e.) The tokens of his glorious preſence in the fire, ver. 17. Deut. 4. 36. l From the eyes of the people. m So long God made Moſes wait, either to exerciſe his humility, devotion and dependence upon God: Or to prepare him by degrees for ſo great a work: Or becauſe this was the Sabbath day, called therefore the ſeventh with an emphatical article: And God might chuſe that day, for the beginning of that glorious work, to put the greater honour upon it, and oblige the people to a ſtricter obſervance of it. So it was upon a Lords Day that St. John had his Revelation delivered to him, Rev. 1. 10.

17 And the ſight of the glory of the LORD was like * devouring fire n on the top of the mount, in the eyes of the children of Iſrael.

* Deut. 4. 36.

n He ſaith like it, for it was not devouring fire, as appears by Moſes his long abode in it. Note here, whatſoever the Elders of Iſrael ſaw before, the people ſaw no ſimilitude of God, as Moſes obſerves Deut. 4. 15.

18 And Moſes went up into the midſt of the cloud o, and gat him up into the mount: and Moſes was in the mount forty days and forty nights p.

o The God that called him enabling him to enter and abide there, whereas, when he was left to himſelf, he could not enter into the Tabernacle, Exod. 40. 35. p In which he did neither eat nor drink, Exod. 34. 28. Deut. 9. 9, 18. whereby it ſeems moſt probable the ſix days mentioned ver. 16. were a part of theſe 40 days, becauſe Moſes being in perpetual expectation of Gods call, ſeems not to have had leiſure for eating and drinking, nor proviſion neither. Beſides, he is not ſaid to be in the midſt of the cloud ſo long, but only in the mount, where he was thoſe ſix days, ver. 15, 16.

CHAP. XXV.

1 AND the LORD ſpake a unto Moſes, ſaying, a Having delivered the Moral and Judicial Laws, he now comes to the Ceremonial Law, wherein he ſets down all things very minutely and particularly, whereas in the other Laws he was content to lay down general rules, and leaveth many other things to be by analogy deduced from them. The reaſon of the difference ſeems to be this, That the light of reaſon implanted in all men gives him greater help in the diſcovery of Moral and Judicial things, than in Ceremonial matters, or in the external way and manner of Gods Worſhip; which is a thing depending wholly upon Gods inſtitution, and not left to mans invention, which is a very incompetent Judge of thoſe things, as appears from hence, becauſe the wittieſt men, deſtitute of Gods Revelation, have been guilty of moſt foolery in their devices of Gods Worſhip.

2 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, that they † bring me an ‖ offering: * of every man that giveth it willingly with his heart, ye ſhall take my offering.

‖ Or, heave-offering.
* chap. 35. 5.

3 And this is the offering which ye ſhall take of them; gold, and ſilver, and braſs,

4 And blue b, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine † linen c, and goats hair d.

† Or, ſilk.

b Or, Skie-coloured, But here you muſt not underſtand the mere colours, which could not be offered, but ſome materials proper for the work, and of the colours here mentioned, to wit, Wool, or Threeds, or ſome ſuch like things, as appears from Heb. 9. 19. and from the teſtimony of the Jews. c Which was of great eſteem in antient times, and uſed by Prieſts and great Officers of State. See Gen. 41. 42. Rev. 19. 8, 14. d Heb. Goats. But that their hair is underſtood is apparent from the nature of the thing, and from the uſe of the word in that ſenſe, in other places.

5 And rams ſkins died red, and badgers ſkins, and ſhittim-wood e.

e A kind of Wood growing in Egypt, and the Deſerts of Arabia, very durable and pretious. See Exod. 35. 24. Numb. 33. 49. Iſa. 41. 19. Joel 3. 18.

f For the Lamps or Candleſticks, ver. 37. g Wherewith the Prieſts, and the Tabernacle, and the Utenſils thereof, were to be anointed. h Heb. Incenſe of Spices or Sweet-odors: So called to diſtinguiſh it from the incenſe of the fat of Sacrifices, which was burnt upon the Altar.

7 Onyx-ſtones i, and ſtones to be ſet k in the * Ephod, and in the * breaſt-plate l.

* chap. 28. 4.
* chap. 28. 15.

i Or, Sardonyx-ſtones. Note, that the ſignification of the Hebrew Names of the ſeveral ſtones are not agreed upon by the Jews at this day, and much more may we ſafely be ignorant of them, the religious uſe of them being now aboliſhed. k Stones of fulneſs, or filling, or perfecting ſtones, ſo called either becauſe they did perfect and adorn the Ephod, or becauſe they filled up the ouches or the hollow places, which were left vacant for this purpoſe. l What the Ephod and Breaſt-plate were, ſee Exod. 28.

9 According to all that I ſhew thee, after the pattern of the tabernacle, and the pattern of all the inſtruments thereof, even ſo ſhall ye make it.

10 * And they ſhall make an ark o of Shittim-wood: two cubits p and an half ſhall be the length thereof, and a cubit and an half the breadth thereof, and a cubit and an half the height thereof.

* chap. 37. 1.

o Or, Little cheſt or coffer, for the uſes after mentioned. p Underſtand it of the common cubit, which is generally conceived to contain a foot and an half of our meaſure. See Gen. 6. 15.

11 And thou ſhalt overlay it with pure gold, within and without ſhalt thou overlay it, and ſhalt make upon it a crown q of gold round about.

q Or, A border, raiſed up above the reſt of the Ark as a Crown is above that which it is applied to, only a crown is round, and this was ſquare. This was both for ornament, and for the faſtning of the covering of the Ark to it.

12 And thou ſhalt caſt four rings of gold for it, and put them in the four corners r thereof; and two rings ſhall be in the one ſide of it, and two rings in the other ſide of it.

r In the middle of each corner for conveniency of carriage. See 1 King. 7. 30.

13 And thou ſhalt make ſtaves of ſhittim-wood, and overlay them with gold.

14 And thou ſhalt put the ſtaves into the rings, by the ſides of the ark, that the ark may be born with them.

15 The ſtaves ſhall be in the rings of the ark: they ſhall not be taken from it.

16 And thou ſhalt put into the ark, * the Teſtimony s, which I ſhall give thee.

* Deut. 10. 1.
1 King. 8. 9.

s To wit, The two Tables of ſtone, wherein the Decalogue was written, called the Teſtimony here, and Exod. 30. 6. Levit. 16. 13. and more fully the Tables of the Teſtimony, Exod. 31. 18. Numb. 1. 50. becauſe they were witneſſes of that Covenant made between God and his People, whence they are called the Tables of the Covenant, Deut. 9. 9. and the Ark, the Ark of the Covenant, Numb. 10. 33. This being as a publick Record both of Gods Mercy promiſed to them, and of the duty and conditions required of them. See Exod. 16. 34.

17 And thou ſhalt make a mercy-ſeat t of pure gold two cubits and an half ſhall be the length thereof, and a cubit and an half the breadth thereof.

t Or, Propitiatory: Which ſeems from the ſameneſs of dimenſions, to be nothing elſe but the covering of the Ark, upon which God is ſaid to ſit, whence the Ark is called Gods footſtool. This covering is a manifeſt Type of Chriſt, who is therefore called the propitiation, or propitiatory, Rom. 3. 25. 1 John. 2. 2. and 4. 10. becauſe he interpoſeth himſelf between God our Judge, and the Law by which we all ſtand condemned and accurſed, Gal. 3. 10. 13. that God may not deal rigorouſly with us according to that Law, but mercifully for his ſake who hath fulfilled the Law and therefore boldly preſents himſelf to his Father on our behalf.

18 And thou ſhalt make two cherubims u of gold: of beaten work x ſhalt thou make them in the two ends of the mercy-ſeat.

u Figures of human ſhape, in which alone the Angels uſed to appear: But they had wings to ſignifie their expedition in Gods work and meſſages. And between theſe Angels God is ſaid to ſit and dwell. So this place was a repreſentation of Heaven, where God ſitteth and dwelleth among the Cherubims, and other glorious Angels. x Not made of ſeveral parcels joyned together, as Images commonly are, nor yet melted and caſt in a frame or mould, but beaten by the hammer out of one continued piece of Gold, poſſibly to note the exact unity or indiviſibility and the ſimplicity of the Angelical Nature.

19 And make one cherub on the one end, and the other cherub on the other end: even ‖ of the mercy-ſeat y ſhall ye make the cherubims on the two ends thereof.

‖ Or, of the matter of the mercy-ſeat.

y (i. e.) Of one and the ſame piece of maſſie Gold out of which the Cherubims were made.

20 And the cherubims ſhall ſtretch forth their * wings on high, covering the mercy-ſeat with their wings, and their faces ſhall look one to another: toward the mercy-ſeat z ſhall the faces of the cherubims be.

z Towards God, who is ſuppoſed to ſit there; whoſe face the Angels in Heaven always behold, and upon whom their eyes are fixed to obſerve and receive his commands; and towards Chriſt, the true propitiatory, which myſtery they deſire to look into, 1 Pet. 1. 12. not envying mankind their near and happy relation to him, but taking pleaſure in the contemplation of it.

21 And thou ſhalt put the mercy-ſeat above upon the ark, and in the ark thou ſhalt put a the teſtimony that I ſhall give thee.

a Or, After thou ſhalt have put in the Ark: For the Ark was not to be opened after the covering was put upon it. The Hebrew particle Vau oft ſignifies after that, as Jer. 43. 13. and 51. 60.

22 And

22 And there I will meet with thee b, and I will commune with thee, from above the mercy-seat from * between the two cherubims c which are upon the ark of the Testimony, of all things which I will give thee in commandment unto the children of Israel.

* chap. 29. 42. and 30. 36. Lev. 16. 2. Numb. 7. 89.

b There I will be in a special and gracious manner present with thee. c Which spreading forth their wings formed a kind of seat, which the Divine Majesty was pleased to possess.

23 * Thou shalt also make a table of shittim-wood: two cubits shall be the length thereof, and a cubit the breadth thereof, and a cubit and a half the height thereof.

* chap. 37. 10. 1 King. 7. 48. 2 Chro. 4. 8.

24 And thou shalt overlay it with pure gold, and make thereto a crown d of gold round about.

d A square-border at the top of it, as ver. 11. partly for Ornament, and principally to keep what was put upon it from falling off.

25 And thou shalt make unto it a border e of an hand-breadth round about, and thou shalt make a golden crown f to the border thereof round about.

e Which encompassed and kept together the feet of the Table, and seems to have been towards the bottom of it. f Not the same mentioned before, ver. 24. but another for further Ornament to the Table.

26 And thou shalt make for it four rings of gold, and put the rings in the four corners that are on the four feet thereof.

27 Over against the border g shall the rings be for places of the staves to bear the table.

g As much below the top, as the border was above the bottom, of the feet of the Table, which was a convenient place for the carriage. Others, near the border, in that part of the feet which is next to it.

28 And thou shalt make the staves of shittim-wood, and overlay them with gold, that the table may be born with them.

29 And thou shalt make the dishes h thereof, and spoons i thereof, and covers k thereof, and bowls thereof, † to cover withal l: of pure gold shalt thou make them.

† Or, to pour out withal.

h In which the bread and Frankincense upon it were put, Levit. 24. 7. Of this sort there were twelve, one for every Loaf. i In which incense was put, as appears from Numb. 7. 14. and by which incense was either put into the dishes, or taken out of them, as occasion required. k So the Hebrew word is used Exod. 37. 16. Numb. 4. 7. Herewith either the Bread or Incense, or both was covered. l To cover the same things. So this and the former were two several sorts of covers, the one deeper than the other, one to cover the bread, another, the incense. Or, Bowls thereof, to pour out withall, to wit, liquid things, as Wine and Oyl, when they were offered. See Gen. 35. 14. Or, these last words may relate not only to the bowls, but the other things here mentioned, and may be thus rendred, wherewith it, to wit, the Table, shall be covered, as indeed it was in a manner quite covered with these vessels.

30 And thou shalt set upon the table * shew-bread m before me alway.

* Lev. 24. 5.

m Heb, Bread of faces, or of the presence, so called because it was constantly placed in Gods presence. This bread was divided into twelve loaves, one for every Tribe, and they were in their name presented to God in the nature of an offering, as the Frankincense shews, as a publick acknowledgment, that they received all their bread or food both corporal and spiritual from Gods hand, and were to use it as in Gods presence.

31 * And thou shalt make n a candlestick of pure gold: of beaten work shall the candlestick be made: his shaft o, and his branches, his bowls, his knops p, and his flowers shall be of the same q.

* chap. 37. 17. 1 King. 7. 49. Zech. 4. 2. Rev. 1. 12. and 4. 5.

n Either by thy self, or by some other person whom thou shalt cause to make it. o The trunk or main body of it. p Or, Apples, made in form of a Pomegranate. q To wit, beaten out of the same piece by the hammer. Compare ver. 36.

32 And six branches shall come out of the sides of it r, three branches of the candlestick out of the one side, and three branches of the candlestick out of the other side.

r In every one of which was a Lamp, and there was a seventh Lamp in the chief stem of it, as appears from ver. 37. And all these together represent the seven Spirits of God, Revel, 1. 4. and 4. 5. and 5. 6. Or the spirit of God, the great enlightner of the Church, with his sevenfold or various gifts and operations.

33 Three bowls made like unto almonds with a knop and a flower in one branch: and three bowls made like almonds in the other branch, with a knop and a flower: so in the six branches that come out of the candlestick.

34 And in the candlestick s shall be four bowls t, made like unto almonds, with their knops and their flowers.

s (i. e.) In the shaft or trunk of the Candlestick, which is here distinguished from its branches. t Whereas there were but three in each of the branches.

35 And there shall be a knop under two branches of the same, and a knop under two branches of the same, and a knop under two branches of the same, according to the six branches u that proceed out of the candlestick.

u And, to compleat the number of four mentioned in the foregoing verse, we must understand, that there was another knop and bowl and flower in the upper part of the shaft, above all the branches, as the rules of proportion and common use in making such things will easily evince.

36 Their knops and their branches shall be of the same: all it shall be one beaten work of pure gold.

37 And thou shalt make the seven lamps thereof: and * they x shall † light the lamps thereof, that they may give light over against ‖ it y.

* chap. 27. 20. and 30. 8. Lev. 24. 3, 4.
† Or, cause to ascend.
‖ Heb. the face of it.

x Whom I shall appoint for that work. y (i. e.) Either 1. The Table of Shew-bread. Or rather 2. The Candlestick, as it is expressed, Numb. 8. 2. where by the Candlestick you are to understand, as here verse 33. 34. the stem or main body of it, and the sense is, that the lamps shall be so placed, that they and their light may look towards that stem: unless you will suppose that the seven lamps were distinct and separated from the Candlestick and fastned to the sides of the Tabernacle, in several places, and all giving light to or over against the great Candlestick which was in the midst, as the candlestick did over against them, which is also now usual among us.

38 And the tongs thereof, and the snuff-dishes thereof shall be of pure gold.

39 Of a talent z of pure gold shall he make it, with all these vessels.

z Which contains three thousand shekels, Exod. 38. 25. or 125 pound.

CHAP. XXVI.

1 MOreover, * thou shalt make the tabernacle a with ten curtains of fine twined linen, and blue, and purple, and scarlet b: with cherubims † of cunning work c, shalt thou make them.

* chap. 36. 8.
† Heb. the work of a cunning workman or embroiderer.

a Or, Tent, a little house, wherein the Ark, Table, and Candlestick were to be placed. b (i. e.) With materials of these colours, to wit, Wool, as may be gathered from hence, that it is opposed to Linen. Compare Exod. 25. 4. c Either woven, or rather wrought with needle, wherein is more skill and curiosity.

2 The length of one curtain shall be eight and twenty cubits, and the breadth of one curtain four cubits: and every one of the curtains shall have one measure.

3 The five curtains shall be coupled together † one to another, and other five curtains shall be coupled one to another.

† Heb. the woman to her sister.

4 And

4 And thou shalt make loops d of blue upon the edge of the one curtain, from the selvedge e in the coupling f: and likewise g shalt thou make in the uttermost edge of another curtain, in the coupling of the second.

d Which together with the taches were for the joyning the curtains together, as appears from verse 11. which way of conjunction was most convenient for the often taking them down and setting them up. e Or, from or in the extremity, or end, or edge. Heb. lip. f (i. e.) In the place where the two curtains are coupled together. g The second curtain is to be made exactly like the first.

5 Fifty loops shalt thou make in the one curtain, and fifty loops shalt thou make in the edge of the curtain that is in the coupling of the second; that the loops may take hold one of another.

6 And thou shalt make fifty taches of gold, and couple the curtains together with the taches h: and it shall be one Tabernacle.

h Or hooks or buttons, which were put into the loops to unite and fasten the curtains.

7 And thou shalt make curtains of goats hair i to be a covering k upon the Tabernacle: eleven curtains shalt thou make.

i Spun, Exod. 35. 26. and woven into a stuff, like our camlet. k To be put next above the curtains.

8 The length of one curtain shall be thirty cubits, and the breadth of one curtain four cubits: and the eleven curtains shall be all of one measure.

9 And thou shalt couple five curtains by themselves, and six curtains by themselves, and shalt double the sixth curtain l in the forefront of the tabernacle.

l For the better security of the inward covering.

10 And thou shalt make fifty loops on the edge of the one curtain that is out-most in the coupling, and fifty loops in the edge of the curtain which coupleth the second.

11 And thou shalt make fifty taches of brass, and put the taches into the loops, and couple the ‖ tent together, that it may be one.

‖ Or, covering.

12 And the remnant that remaineth of the curtains of the tent, the half curtain that remaineth shall hang over the side of the tabernacle.

13 And a cubit on the one side, and a cubit on the other side † of that which remaineth in the length of the curtains of the tent, it shall hang over the sides of the tabernacle on this side, and on that side to cover it.

† Heb. in the remainder or surplusage.

14 And thou shalt make a covering for the tent, of rams skins died red, and a covering above of badgers skins m.

m To preserve the rest from the injury of the weather.

15 And thou shalt make boards for the tabernacle of shittim-wood standing up.

16 Ten cubits shall be the length of a board, and a cubit and an half shall be the breadth of one board.

† Heb. hands.

17 Two † tenons n shall there be in one board, set in order one against another: thus shalt thou make for all the boards of the tabernacle.

n Heb. hands, (i. e.) parts of the boards so cut and framed, that like hands they may take hold of and be fastned into the sockets, ver. 19.

18 And thou shalt make the boards for the tabernacle, twenty boards on the south-side southward.

19 And thou shalt make fourty sockets o of silver under the twenty boards: two sockets under one board for his two tenons, and two sockets under another board for his two tenons.

o Or bases, or pedestals, or feet, upon which the boards stood, and to which they were fastned.

20 And for the second side of the tabernacle, on the north-side there shall be twenty boards,

21 And their fourty sockets of silver: two sockets under one board, and two sockets under another board.

22 And for the sides of the tabernacle westward, thou shalt make six boards.

23 And two boards p shalt thou make for the corners of the tabernacle in the two sides.

p Which were of another fashion than the former, as may be gathered both from the distinct nomination and use of them, and from the laws of building. And whereas the rest were but single boards, these were double for greater strength and conveniency of joyning them together.

24 And they shall be † coupled together q beneath, and they shall be coupled together above the head of it unto one ring r: thus shall it be for them both, they shall be for the two corners.

q Heb. as twins, i. e. equal and equally joyned together, and exactly answering one to the other. r Which ring was exactly in the corner, and with the help of the bars kept the corner-boards, and with them the other boards of the Tabernacle close together. But you must note, that here were two rings in each corner, the one in the upper, the other in the lower parts.

25 And they shall be eight boards, and their sockets of silver sixteen sockets: two sockets under one board, and two sockets under another board.

26 And thou shalt make bars s of shittim-wood; five for the boards of the one side of the tabernacle.

s By bars you may understand either, 1. Several rows or orders of bars, one bar beginning at the end of the other, and each containing four cubits in length, and all together twenty cubits, which was the length of the Tabernacle: Or 2. single bars, which seems truer, 1. Because the word signifies bars, not rows of bars: And why should we go from the proper signification of the word without cause. 2. If bars be put for rows of bars, there must be five rows of bars on a side, there being so many bars said to be on a side. But the abettors of that opinion allow only four rows of bars on a side, and it is apparent the middle bar, which is one of the five, is but one single bar, ver. 28. and therefore it may be presumed the rest were so too. 3. The name of the middle bar implies, that of the other four bars two were above it and two below it. Obj. But if they were each single bars, reaching the whole length of the building, why is it said peculiarly of the middle bar, that it should reach from end to end or from extremity to extremity, ver. 28? Ans. This may be peculiarly said of this, either because the other four might want something of the just length of the building, or because the middle bar might stand out beyond the two ends of it, for conveniency of carriage of the building.

27 And five bars for the boards of the other side of the tabernacle, and five bars for the boards of the side of the tabernacle for the two sides westward t.

t There was but one side westward. Either therefore here is a transposition of the Hebrew words, which is usual, and the words are thus to be placed and rendred, westward looking to both sides, or, west-ward, according to both the other sides, now mentioned, to note that the number and length of bars in the west end should be equal to those on either of the other sides: or here is an Enallage of the number, the dual or plural for the singular, of which there are many examples, and so the words are to be rendred, for the side looking westward.

28 And the middle bar in the midst of the boards u, shall reach from end to end.

u Not within the thickness of the boards, as the Jews conceive, but in the length of them, as appears, 1. Because this bar, as well as the rest, was gilded, ver. 29. which was frivolous if it were never seen. 2. Because all the bars had rings made to receive and hold them up, ver. 29.

29 And thou shalt overlay the boards with gold, and make their rings of gold, for places for the bars: and thou shalt overlay the bars with gold.

30 And thou shalt rear up the tabernacle, * according to the fashion thereof, which was shewed thee x in the mount.

a Not that for Incenſe, but another for ſacrifices.

2 And thou ſhalt make the horns of it b upon the four corners thereof: his horns ſhall be of the ſame c: and * thou ſhalt overlay it with braſs d.

b Which were elevated above the body of the Altar, in form either of pyramids or ſpires, or rather of horns, as the word ſignifies: Nor is there any neceſſity of departing from the proper ſignification. Theſe were not only for ornament, but for uſe alſo, either to keep things put upon it from falling, or that beaſts to be offered might be bound to them. See Pſal. 118. 27. c Of the ſame piece with the altar, for its uſe required ſtrength. d With plates of braſs of competent thickneſs, both above the wood and under it, that the fire might not take hold of the wood.

See Numb. 16. 6.

3 And thou ſhalt make his pans to receive his aſhes, and his ſhovels, and his ‖ baſins e, and his fleſh-hooks f, and his fire-pans g: all the veſſels thereof thou ſhalt make of braſs.

e To receive the blood of the ſacrifices, which they were to ſprinkle. f Wherewith they took fleſh out of the pot in which it was ſeethed; as 1 Sam. 2. 14. But this ſeems not proper here, becauſe the fleſh was never boiled upon the Altar, but in other places appointed for that uſe. And the Hebrew word is general and may ſignifie either tongs, or fire-forks. g In which they carried live coals from this Altar to that of Incenſe, as occaſion required.

4 And thou ſhalt make for it a grate of network h of braſs, and upon the net i ſhalt thou make four brazen rings k in the four corners thereof.

h Which was competently ſtrong and thick, this being as it were the hearth of the Altar upon which they laid both the wood and the ſacrifices, and it was full of holes, through which the blood and aſhes might fall down into the place appointed for them. i Or rather at or beſide, or under, the net, for ſo the rings were placed, as their uſe ſhews, and the Hebrew prepoſition, al, is oft ſo uſed. k Which were either 1. peculiar to the grate, which by theſe was carried apart from the Altar, having the perpetual fire kept in it: for had it been carried with the Altar, the cloth wherewith the Altar was covered Numb. 4. 12. would have been endangered by the fire. Or 2. common to the Altar, to which theſe were fixed on the outſide, as on the inſide to the grate, that by them the grate might be both kept even and upright, and alſo carried together with the Altar, and that with ſuch caution, that the fire included might not hurt the covering-cloth, which was not difficult to do.

5 And thou ſhalt put it under the compaſs l of the altar beneath, that the net may be even to the midſt of the altar m.

l (i. e.) Within the ſquare and hollow ſpace of the Altar m Or, and the net ſhall be at (the Hebrew, ad, being here uſed for el, as Hoſ. 14. 2. Joel 2. 12. Amos 4. 6, 8.) the midſt of the altar. And theſe words ſeem added to explain the word, beneath, to ſhew that as it was not to be at the top, ſo neither at the bottom of the Altar, but in the midſt of it.

6 And thou ſhalt make ſtaves for the altar, ſtaves of ſhittim-wood, and over-lay them with gold.

7 And the ſtaves ſhall be put into the rings n, and the ſtaves ſhall be upon the two ſides of the altar to bear it.

n Which ſeem to be the ſame both to the Altar and the grate, though ſome alledge that place for the contrary.

9 And thou ſhalt make the court of the tabernacle p for the ſouth-ſide ſouthward there ſhall be hangings for the court q, of fine twined linen of an hundred cubits long, for one ſide.

z Beaten out of the olives with a pestel, which is freer from dregs than that which is squeezed out with a press. a (i. e.) At all the times appointed, daily, though not continually, as the lamb offered only every morning and every evening is called a continual burnt offering, Exod. 29. 42. For that these were lighted only at the evening may seem probable from the next verse, and from Exod. 27. 21. and 30. 8. Lev. 24. 3. 1 Sam. 3. 3. 2 Chron. 13. 11. But because Josephus and Philo, who were eye-witnesses of the Temple-service, and had no temptation to lye in this matter, expressly affirm, that some lights did burn in the day-time, and it may seem indecent and improbable, that God should dwell and the Priests minister in darkness, and there were no windows to give light to the Tabernacle by day, it may be granted, that some few burnt in the day, and all in the night, and that the later is only mentioned in the places alledged, as being the more solemn time when all are lighted.

CHAP. XXVIII.

* Heb. 5. 1, 4.
1 AND take thou unto thee a * Aaron thy brother, and his sons with him, from among the children of Israel, that he may minister unto me in the priests office, even Aaron, Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar, Aarons sons.

a Cause them to come near unto thee, that thou mayst before them and before the people declare the will of God therein, and solemnly set them apart for this office.

* chap. 39. 2.

Rev. 7. 9.
2 And * thou shalt make † holy garments b for Aaron thy brother, for glory and for beauty c.

b Garments to be used only in Holy ministrations. c (i. e.) Such as are glorious and beautiful, partly to mind the people of the dignity and excellency of their office and employment, and principally to represent the glorious robes wherewith Christ is both clothed himself and clotheth all his people, who are made Priests unto God.

* chap. 36. 1.
* chap. 31. 2. and 35. 30.
3 And * thou shalt speak unto all that are wisehearted d, * whom I have filled e with the spirit of wisdom, that they make Aarons garments to consecrate him f, that he may minister unto me in the priests office.

d (i. e.) Skilful Artists. The Hebrews make the heart, not the brain, the seat of Wisdom. See Job. 9. 4. e Either 1. By my ordinary providence and assistance, giving them both ability and opportunity to learn the arts: Or rather 2. by extraordinary inspiration, which was necessary for the Israelites, whose base and laborious drudgery took off their minds and hands from all ingenious studies and arts. f (e. e.) To be an outward sign of my calling and consecration of him to my Holy service. A Metonymical expression.

4 And these are the garments which they shall make; a breast-plate, and an ephod g, and a robe h, and a broidered coat i, a mitre k, and a girdle l: and they shall make holy garments for Aaron thy brother, and his sons, that he may minister unto me in the priests office.

g This was a short upper garment, made without sleeves, which was girt about the body. And it was twofold, the one made of fine linen, which was common not only to all the Priests, as 1 Sam. 2. 18. and 22. 18. but to some others also upon solemn and sacred occasions, as 2 Sam. 16. 14. the other made of divers stuffs and colours, peculiar to the High-priest, the parts whereof were not sewed, but tied together. h An upper garment, like a surplice. i An under coat curiously wrought with circular works like Eyes, as the word notes, and richly adorned with gems and other things. k A kind of bonnet or cap for the covering of the head, supposed to be something like a Turkish Turband for the form of it. l To enclose and fasten all the other garments, which were loose in themselves, that he might be more expeditious in his work.

5 And they shall take gold, and blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine linen.

6 And they shall make the ephod of gold m, of blue, and of purple, of scarlet, and fine twined linen, with cunning work.

m Beaten out into plates and cut into wires.

7 It shall have the two shoulder-pieces * thereof joyned at the two edges thereof; and so it shall be joyned together.

n Which were two parts of the Ephod going up from the body of the Ephod, the one before, the other behind, which when the Priest had put over his head, were tied together and covered the Priests shoulders and part of his back and breast.

8 And the || curious girdle of the ephod o, which is upon it p shall be of the same q, according to the work thereof, even of gold, of blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine twined linen.

o Which was for the closer fastening and girding of it. p This is added to distinguish it from the other girdle ver. 4. which was to gird all the garments, and was tied in a lower place: q Either 1. of the same piece: Or rather 2. of the same kind of materials and workmanship, as the following words explain it.

9 And thou shalt take two onyx stones, and grave on them the names of the children of Israel:

10 Six of their names on one stone, and the other six r names of the rest on the other stone, according to their birth:

r Levi seems to be omitted here, as being sufficiently represented by the High-priest himself.

11 * With the work of an engraver in stone, like the engravings of a signet shalt thou engrave the two stones, with the names of the children of Israel: thou shalt make them to be set in ouches s of gold.
* Wisd. 18.

s Hollow places, such as are made in golden rings to receive and hold the precious stones, which are put into them.

12 And thou shalt put the two stones upon the shoulders of the ephod t, for stones of memorial unto the children of Israel. And Aaron shall bear their names before the LORD u, upon his two shoulders for a memorial x.

t (i. e.) In the place where the two shoulder-pieces were joyned together. u Into the Holy of Holies. An evident type of Christs entring into Heaven with the names and in the stead of his people, the true Israel, upon his shoulders, and presenting them to his father with acceptance. x Not so much to the High-priest, that he should not forget to pray for them, as to God, that he, beholding their names there according to his order, might graciously remember them, and shew mercy unto them. Such a memorial to God was the Rainbow, Gen. 9. 13. Such things are spoken of God after the manner of men.

13 And thou shalt make ouches y of gold:

y Not for the stones, ver. 12. who had other ouches, ver. 11. but for the chains, ver. 14.

14 And two chains of pure gold at the ends z: of wreathen work shalt thou make them, and fasten the wreathen chains to the ouches.

z Or,

z Or, with ends, (i. e.) not like chains that are faſtened about ones neck or arm, which ſeem to have no end, but two diſtinct chains with two ſeveral ends, both hanging downward. Compare verſe 22. The Syriack render it double, others equal, or of equal length.

15 And thou ſhalt make the breaſt-plate of judgement a with cunning work, after the work of the ephod thou ſhalt make it: of gold, of blue, and of purple, and of ſcarlet, and of fine twined linen ſhalt thou make it.

a This was a ſquare and curiouſly wrought piece put over the Ephod upon ones breaſt, called of judgement, becauſe from thence the Iſraelites were to expect and receive their judgment and the mind of God in all thoſe weighty matters of war or peace, wherein they conſulted God for direction.

16 Four ſquare it ſhall be, being doubled b: a ſpan ſhall be the length thereof, and a ſpan ſhall be the breadth thereof.

b For greater ſtrength, that it might better ſupport and ſecure the precious ſtones which were put into it, and that it might receive the Urim and Thummim, Lev. 8. 8.

† Heb. fill in it fillings of ſtone. 17 And thou ſhalt † ſet in it ſettings of ſtones, even four rows of ſtone c: the firſt row ſhall be a || ſardius, a topaz, and a carbuncle: this ſhall be the firſt row.

c It is needleſs to trouble the reader with the explication of theſe ſtones, which the Jewiſh Doctors themſelves are not agreed in, ſeeing this uſe of them is now abolished. It may ſuffice to know, that they were precious ſtones ſeverally allotted to the names of the ſeveral tribes according to Gods good pleaſure, poſſibly with reſpect to ſome diſpoſition or concernment of each tribe, which at this diſtance we cannot learn.

18 And the ſecond row ſhall be an emeraud, a ſaphir, and a diamond.

19 And the third row, a ligure, an agate, and an amethyſt.

20 And the fourth row, a beryl, and an onyx, and a jaſper: they ſhall be ſet in gold in their † incloſings.

21 And the ſtones ſhall be with the names of the children of Iſrael, twelve, according to their names, like the engravings of a ſignet: every one with his name ſhall they be according to the twelve tribes d.

d (i. e.) According to the order of their birth, the firſt ſtone to the eldeſt, the ſecond to the next, &c.

22 And thou ſhalt make upon the breaſt-plate chains at the ends e, of wreathen work of pure gold.

e Some think, theſe are the ſame with thoſe mentioned, ver. 14. But it ſeems improbable and without example, that God ſhould in this ſhort deſcription, and that within a few verſes, give a new and ſecond command concerning the ſame thing. It may rather ſeem, that theſe are other chains faſtened to the breaſt-plate, as it follows, whereas thoſe chains ver. 14. ſeem to have been faſtened to the ephod, to thoſe ouches made in it for that purpoſe, ver. 13. And whereas theſe chains alſo are faſtened in the ſaid ouches, ver. 25. two ſeveral chains may well enough be faſtened in divers parts of each of the ouches, and there ſeems to be this difference between the chains, thoſe chains mentioned ver. 14. are ſaid to be faſtened only at one end, even to the ouches of the Ephod, whence they might hang down looſely, whereas theſe are manifeſtly faſtened at both ends, ver. 24. 25.

23 And thou ſhalt make upon the breaſt-plate two rings of gold; and ſhalt put the two rings on the the two ends of the breaſt-plate.

24 And thou ſhalt put the two wreathen chains of gold in the two rings which are on the ends of the breaſt-plate.

25 And the other two ends of the two wreathen chains, thou ſhalt faſten in the two ouches, and put them on the ſhoulder-pieces of the ephod before it f.

f (i. e.) In the fore-part of the Ephod: or before him, i. e. the High-prieſt, in his fore-part, upon his breaſt.

26 And thou ſhalt make two rings of gold, and thou ſhalt put them upon the two ends g of the breaſt-plate, in the border thereof, which is in the ſide of the ephod inward h.

g To wit, upon the lower ends, for there were other rings put upon the upper ends, ver. 23, 24, 25. h (i. e.) In the inner ſide of the Ephod, under which theſe rings were hid: for the Ephod was double, ver. 16.

27 And two other rings i of gold thou ſhalt make, and ſhalt put them on the two ſides of the ephod underneath k, towards the forepart thereof l, over againſt the other coupling thereof m, above the curious girdle of the ephod.

i To anſwer the two rings in the breaſt-plate, that by all theſe the breaſt-plate might be the better faſtened to the Ephod. k In the lower part of the Ephod, or in that part of it which is under the loweſt part of the breaſt-plate. l Towards the breaſt. m (i. e.) Over againſt the ouches on the ſhoulder-pieces, where the upper part of the breaſt-plate was faſtened to the Ephod.

28 And they ſhall bind the breaſt-plate by the rings thereof, unto the rings of the ephod with a lace of blue, that it may be above the curious girdle of the ephod, and that the breaſt-plate be not looſed from the ephod.

29 And Aaron ſhall bear the names of the children of Iſrael, in the breaſt-plate of judgment, upon his heart n, when he goeth in unto the holy place o, for a memorial before the LORD continually.

n Partly to admoniſh the High-prieſt of that dear affection he ſhould have to his people, and with what ardency he ſhould pray for them, and principally to repreſent the tender compaſſions of Chriſt, the great High-prieſt, towards his people, and how mindful he is of them and of all their concerns, even when he is in the Holy of Holies, that is, in heaven, where he remembers them ſtill and unceſſantly intercedes for them. o (i. e.) Into the moſt Holy place, the poſitive degree being put for the ſuperlative.

30 And * thou ſhalt put in the breaſt-plate of judgment, the Urim and the Thummim p, and they ſhall be upon Aarons heart, when he goeth in before the LORD: and Aaron ſhall bear the judgment of the children of Iſrael q upon his heart, before the LORD continually r.

* Deut. 33. 8. Ezra 2. 63. Neh. 7. 65.

p The words confeſſedly ſignifie light or illuminations and perfections, which may be underſtood either of two differing things, the one noting the knowledge, the other the perfection, to wit, of virtues and graces, which were required in the High-prieſt, and which were in Chriſt in an eminent degree, and from him alone communicated to his people, or of one and the ſame thing, noting perfect light or illumination, by a figure called Hendyadis, oft uſed in Scripture, as Deut. 16. 18. Mat. 4. 16. compared with Job 10. 20. Joh. 3. 5. Act. 17. 25. compared with Gen. 2. 7. Which may ſeem probable, 1. becauſe the great uſe of this inſtrument was to give light and direction in dubious and difficult caſes, and not to confer any other perfection upon any perſon. 2. Becauſe ſometimes both theſe words or things are expreſſed only by one of them, and that is by Urim, Numb. 27. 21. 1 Sam. 28. 6. which ſignifies lights. And the name ſeems to be given from the effect, becauſe hence the Iſraelites had clear light, and perfect or certain direction in dark and doubtful matters. But the great queſtion is, What this Urim and Thummim was, and in what manner God anſwered by it. Which God having on purpoſe concealed from us, and not ſet down the matter or form of it, as he hath done of all the other particulars, it may ſeem curioſity and preſumption for men ſolicitouſly to inquire and poſitively to determine. Many conceive, it was nothing elſe but the twelve precious ſtones, wherein the names of the Twelve Tribes were engraven, and that the anſwer of God was compoſed out of thoſe Letters which either ſhew more brightly, or thruſt themſelves further outward than the reſt did. Which ſeems a frivolous and ungrounded conjecture, both becauſe all the Letters of the Alphabet were not there, and ſo all anſwers could not be given by them, and becauſe it was ſhut up within the duplicature of the breaſt-plate, and therefore could not be ſeen by the High-prieſt, and there is not a word to ſignifie that he was to take it out thence and look upon it, but rather the contrary is evident. And that this Urim and Thummin are not the ſame thing with thoſe twelve ſtones may be eaſily proved. 1. Becauſe the ſtones were ſet and ingraven in the breaſt-plate, ver. 17, 21. this was only put into it, which is a word of quite different and more looſe and large ſignification, and therefore probably doth not deſign the ſame thing. 2. It is not likely, that in ſuch a brief account of the ſacred utenſils, the ſame command would be repeated again, eſpecially in more dark and general words than it was mentioned before. And how could Moſes now put it in, when the workmen had faſtened it there before? Or why ſhould he be required to put it in the breaſt-plate, when it was faſtened to it already, and could not without violence be taken from it: 3. Becauſe the ſtones were put in by the workmen, Exod. 39. 10. the Urim and Thummim by Moſes himſelf, Lev. 8. 8. It is objected, that where the ſtones are mentioned, there is no mention of Urim and Thummim, as Exod. 39. and that where the Urim and Thummim are mentioned, there is no mention of the ſtones, as Lev. 8. 8. which ſhews they were one and the ſame thing. But that is not neceſſary, and there is an evident reaſon of both thoſe omiſſions; of the former Exod. 39. becauſe he mentions only thoſe things which were made by the workmen, whereas the Urim and the Thummim ſeems to have been made immediately by God, or by Moſes with Gods direction: Of the later Lev. 8. becauſe the ſtones are implied in the breaſt-plate as a part of it and being faſtened to it, whereas there he only mentions what was put in by Moſes himſelf. There are other conjectures, as that it was the name Jehovah, or ſome viſible repreſentations, &c. But ſuch conjectures are as eaſily denied as affirmed. It is therefore more modeſt and reaſonable to be ſilent where God is ſilent, than to indulge our ſelves in boundleſs and groundleſs fancies. It may ſuffice us to know, that this was a ſingular piece of Divine Workmanſhip, which the High-prieſt was obliged to wear upon ſolemn occaſions, as one of the conditions upon which God engaged to give him anſwers. Which anſwers God might give to him either by inward ſuggeſtion to his mind, or by a vocal expreſſion to his ear. But which of thoſe ways, or whether by any other way, it is needleſs now to ſearch, and impoſſible certainly to diſcover. q A ſhort ſpeech. As the teſtimony is oft put for the ark of the teſtimony, ſo is the judgment here for the breaſt-plate of judgment, i. e. that breaſt-plate which declared the judgment or oracle or mind of God to the Iſraelites in thoſe caſes which they brought to the Lord. r (i. e.) At all times when he ſhall appear before the Lord in the Holy-place.

31 And thou ſhalt make the robe of the ephod s all of blue.

s Not the Ephod it ſelf, for that was preſcribed before ver. 6. but a long and looſe robe called the robe of the Ephod, becauſe it was worn next under it, and was girded about the High-prieſts body with the curious girdle of the Ephod.

‖ Or, Skirts.

33 And beneath upon the ‖ hem of it thou ſhalt make pomegranates t of blue, and of purple, and of ſcarlet, round about the hem thereof, and bells u of gold between them round about.

t The figures of Pomegranates, but flat and embroidered. u By the ſound whereof the people might be admoniſhed of the work which the Prieſt was employed in, and thereby be provoked to joyn their affections and devotions with his. Theſe pomegranates and bells might note either 1. the qualifications of the Prieſt, who was both to declare or give forth the ſound of pure and wholeſom doctrine, and to adorn his doctrine with the fragrancy and fruitfulneſs of a good converſation. Or 2. The glorious atchievements of Chriſt, who cauſed the ſound of his doctrine to be heard by all men, and offered up himſelf as a ſacrifice to God for a ſweet-ſmelling ſavour, Eph. 5. 2.

34 A golden bell and a pomegranate, a golden bell and a pomegranate, upon the hem of the robe round about.

* Eccl. 45. 9.

35 * And it ſhall be upon Aaron to miniſter, and his ſound ſhall be heard when he goeth in unto the holy place before the LORD, and when he cometh out, that he die not u.

u For his diſobedience or careleſneſs. For though the matter might ſeem ſmall in it ſelf, yet it was an errour in Gods Worſhip, wherein God is more ſevere than in other things, and it was an errour of the High-prieſt, who had more knowledge of Gods mind herein, and was obliged to more care and diligence, not only for himſelf, but for the influence of his bad example upon the people.

36 And thou ſhalt make a plate x of pure gold, and grave upon it, like the engravings of a ſignet, HOLINESS TO THE LORD y.

x Like an half coronet, reaching, as the Jews ſay, from ear to ear. y To mind the Prieſt of his ſpecial conſecration to God, and of that ſingular holineſs which was required of him as at all times ſo eſpecially in his approaches to God. It might alſo repreſent Chriſt who is called the holy one of God, and who is a crowned Prieſt, or both King and Prieſt.

37 And thou ſhalt put it on a blue lace z, that it may be upon the mitre, upon the fore-front of the mitre it ſhall be.

z The words may be rendered, thou ſhalt put it on, or, bind it, as the vulgar renders it, with a blue lace, to wit, upon the mitre, as it follows.

38 And it ſhall be upon Aarons forehead, that Aaron may bear the iniquity of the holy things a, which the children of Iſrael ſhall hallow in all their holy gifts b: and it ſhall be always c upon his forehead, that they may be accepted before the LORD.

a Either. 1. that he, being conſecrated to God for this end, that he ſhould take care as far as he could, that both perſons and things preſented to God ſhould be holy or agreeable to the mind of God, might bear the puniſhment for any miſcarriage committed therein, which he could have prevented. Or rather, 2. That he being an holy perſon and appointed by God to make a typical reconciliation for the ſins of the people, and to intercede for them, might take away, or obtain from God the pardon of, their iniquity, wherewith even their holy things are defiled, if God ſhould ſeverely mark what is amiſs them. Which ſence the laſt words of the verſe favour. And the High-Prieſt was herein eminently a Type of Chriſt, who properly and truly bare and took away the iniquity of his peoples holy things, by his ſacrifice and interceſſion. b (i. e.) Shall ſeparate or conſecrate unto God in all their offerings or gifts. If there be any thing amiſs either in the thing offered or in the manner of offering, God upon the Prieſts interceſſion will pardon it. c (i. e.) At all times of his ſolemn appearance before God.

39 And thou ſhalt embroider the coat d of fine linen, and thou ſhalt make the mitre of fine linen, and thou ſhalt make the girdle of needle-work.

d This was a looſe and large garment made with ſleeves, worn under the Ephod, reaching down to the feet, which was girt with a girdle, Lev. 8. 7.

40 And for Aarons ſons thou ſhalt make coats e, and thou ſhalt make for them girdles, and bonnets ſhalt thou make for them, for glory and for beauty.

e Not of woollen, Ezek. 44. 17. but of linen, Exod. 39. 27. Theſe were Ephods, 1 Sam. 22. 18.

41 And thou ſhalt put them upon Aaron thy brother, and his ſons with him: and * ſhalt anoint them, and † conſecrate them f, and ſanctifie them, that they may miniſter unto me in the prieſts office.

* chap. 29. and 30. 30.
† Heb. fill the hand.

f Heb. fill their hands, i. e. preſent them to God with part of the ſacrifice in their hands, as we find, Exod. 29. 24. by that rite putting them into their office.

42 And thou ſhalt make them linen breeches to cover † their nakedneſs, from the loins even unto the thighs g they ſhall † reach.

g Including both. Compare Exod. 20. 26.

43 And they ſhall be upon Aaron, and upon his ſons, when they come in unto the tabernacle of the congregation, or when they come near unto the altar, to miniſter in the holy place: that they bear not iniquity, and die. It ſhall be a ſtatute for ever, unto him, and his ſeed after him.

CHAP. XXIX.

1 AND this is the thing that thou ſhalt do unto them to hallow them, to miniſter unto me in the prieſts office. * Take one young bullock, and two rams without blemiſh a:

* Lev. 8. 1, 2.

a See Exod. 12. 5. Mal. 1. 13, 14.

2 And * unleavened b bread, and cakes unleavened, tempered with oyl, and waters unleavened, anointed with oil: of wheaten flower ſhalt thou make them.

* Lev. 6. 24.

b To ſhew that the Prieſts ſhould be, and that Chriſt really was, free from all malice and hypocriſie, both which are compared to leaven, Luk. 12. 1. 1 Cor. 5. 8. and that all the ſervices offered to God by the Prieſts were to be pure and unmixed.

3 And thou ſhalt put them into one basket, and bring them c in the basket with the bullock and the two rams.

c To the door of the Tabernacle, as it follows, ver. 4.

4 And

4 And Aaron and his ſons thou ſhalt bring unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and ſhalt waſh them with water d.

d Taken out of that laver, Exod. 30. 18. This ſignified the univerſal pollution of all men, and the abſolute need they have of waſhing, eſpecially when they are to draw nigh to God. And this outward waſhing was only typical of their ſpiritual waſhing by the blood and ſpirit of Chriſt in order to their acceptance with God.

5 And thou ſhalt take the garments, and put upon Aaron the coat, and the robe of the ephod, and the ephod, and the breaſt-plate, and gird him with chap. 28. 8. * the curious girdle of the ephod e.

e Not about the loins, but about the paps, or breaſt, as Chriſt and his Miniſters are repreſented, Rev. 1. 13. The linen breeches are here omitted, becauſe they were put on privately before they came to the door of the Tabernacle, where the other things were put on.

6 And thou ſhalt put the mitre upon his head, and put the holy crown f upon the mitre.

f (i. e.) The plate of gold, chap. 28. 36. as appears by comparing Lev. 8. 9.

chap. 30. 25. 7 Then ſhalt thou take the anointing * oyl, and pour it upon his head, and anoint him g.

g Which ſignified the gifts and graces of the Holy Ghoſt, wherewith Chriſt was, and the Prieſts ought to be, repleniſhed. See Iſa. 61. 1. 1 Joh. 2. 27. But here ariſeth a difficulty; for this anointing is ſometimes ſpoken of, as peculiar to the High-prieſt, as Lev. 21. 10. ſometimes as common to all the Prieſts, Exod. 30. 30. and 40. 14. 15. which may be thus reconciled, The oil was ſprinkled upon all the Prieſts and their right ears, thumbs and toes and their garments, ver. 20, 21. Lev. 8. 30. but it was poured out upon the head only of the High-prieſt, Pſal. 133. 2. who herein was a type of Chriſt who was anointed above his fellows, Pſal. 45. 7. Heb. 1. 9.

8 And thou ſhalt bring his ſons, and put coats upon them:

9 And thou ſhalt gird them with girdles (Aaron ‡ Heb. bind. and his ſons) and † put the bonnets on them: and the prieſts office ſhall be theirs, for a perpetual † Heb. fill the hand of. ſtatute h: and thou ſhalt † * conſecrate Aaron and
* chap. 28. 41. his ſons.

h So long as the Jewiſh Pedagogy and Policy laſts.

10 And thou ſhalt cauſe a bullock to be brought before the tabernacle of the congregation: and
* Lev. 1. 4. * Aaron and his ſons ſhall put their hands upon the head of the bullock i.

i To ſignifie that they offered it for themſelves and for their own ſins, which the offerer performing this rite was to confeſs, Lev. 16. 21. that they acknowledged themſelves to deſerve that death which was inflicted upon this innocent creature for their ſakes, and to teſtifie their faith in the future ſacrifice of Chriſt, upon whom their ſins were to be laid, and by whoſe blood they were expiated, and that they humbly begged Gods mercy in pardoning their ſins and accepting them to and in their holy office.

11 And thou k ſhalt kill the bullock before the LORD, by the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

k Moſes, who though no Prieſt yet for this time and occaſion was called by God to this work.

12 And thou ſhalt take of the bloud of the bul-
* chap. 27. 2. and 30. 2. lock, and put it upon * the horns of the altar l with thy finger, and pour all the bloud beſide the bottom of the altar.

l Not of incenſe, as ſome would have it, but of the burnt-offerings, as may appear, 1. Becauſe it was that altar at the bottom whereof the bloud was to be poured, as it is here expreſſed: But that was not done at the altar of Incenſe, as is evident and confeſſed. Compare Lev. 16. 18, &c. 2. It was that altar, upon which the parts of the ſacrifices were burnt, as it here follows, ver. 13. for there is no diſtinction here between the two altars. It is true, in the following ſin-offerings of the Prieſts the bloud was put upon the horns of the altar of Incenſe, Lev. 4. 7. But it muſt be conſidered, 1. That the bloud was not poured out at the bottom of that altar. 2. Becauſe Aaron and his ſons were not yet compleat Prieſts, but private perſons, and therefore did this at the ſame altar which the people uſed in their ſin-offerings, Lev. 4. 25, 30.

13 And thou ſhalt take all the fat that covereth the inwards, and ‖ the caul that is above the liver, ‖ It ſeemeth by anatomy, and the Hebrew Doctors to be the midriff.
and the two kidneys, and the fat that is upon them m, and burn them upon the altar.

m The parts which in all ſacrifices were burned unto God, Lev. 3. 3. and 4. 19. to ſignifie either the mortification of their inward and moſt beloved luſts, or the dedication of the beſt of all ſacrifices, and of their inward and beſt parts to God and his ſervice.

14 But the fleſh of the bullock, and his skin, and his dung, ſhalt thou burn with fire without the camp: it is a ſin-offering n.

n To wit, for the high-prieſt, as is plain from the whole context and therefore ought to be burnt, by that law Lev. 4. There was indeed a law, that that ſin-offering, whoſe bloud was not carried into the Tabernacle, which was the caſe here, ſhould not be burnt, but eaten, Lev. 6. 30. and 10. 18. But that concerned the people, not the prieſts, who did not eat, but burn, their own ſin-offerings, Lev. 4. 3, 12.

15 Thou ſhalt alſo take one ram, and Aaron and his ſons ſhall put their hands upon the head of the ram.

16 And thou ſhalt ſlay the ram, and thou ſhalt take his bloud, and ſprinkle it round about upon the altar o.

o Which ſignifies, that not only our perſons, but our very Altars and Sacrifices and beſt ſervices, need the ſprinkling of Chriſts bloud upon them to render them acceptable to God.

17 And thou ſhalt cut the ram in pieces, and waſh the inwards of him, and his legs, and put them unto his peices, and ‖ unto his head. ‖ Or, upon.

18 And thou ſhalt burn the whole ram upon the altar: it is a burnt-offering unto the LORD: it is a ſweet ſavour p, an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

p Heb. A ſavour of reſt, wherewith God will be well-pleaſed, and for which, as repreſenting Chriſt who offered up himſelf, he will graciouſly accept of the offerings of the prieſts for themſelves and for the people.

19 And thou ſhalt take the other ram q: and Aaron and his ſons ſhall put their hands upon the head of the ram.

q For a peace-offering. So here were all the three ſorts of ſacrifices, which were afterwards to be offered by them for the people.

20 Then ſhalt thou kill the ram, and take of his bloud, and put it upon the tip of the right ear r of Aaron, and upon the tip of the right ear of his ſons, and upon the thumb of their right hand r, and upon the great toe r of their right foot, and ſprinkle the blood upon the altar round about.

r Theſe parts are conſecrated in the name and ſtead of all the reſt, the ear, as the inſtrument of hearing and receiving the mind and will of God in all their ſacred adminiſtrations and in their whole converſation; the hand and foot, as the inſtruments of action and execution of that which they hear and underſtand to be the mind of God. And the right parts are choſen, rather than the left, as being uſually more vigorous and expeditious. And all theſe parts are ſprinkled with this blood, to ſhew the abſolute neceſſity of Chriſts blood to qualifie them for an acceptable and ſucceſsful diſcharge of their office.

21 And thou ſhalt take of the blood that is upon the altar, and of * the anointing oyl, and ſprinkle * chap. 30. 25. it upon Aaron, and upon his garments, and upon his ſons, and upon the garments of his ſons with him: and * he ſhall be hallowed, and his garments, * Heb. 9. 22. and his ſons, and his ſons garments with him.

22 Alſo thou ſhalt take of the ram the fat, and the rump, and the fat that covereth the inwards, and the caul of the liver, and the two kidneys, and the fat that is upon them, and the right ſhoulder: for it is a ram of conſecration s:

s Of the Prieſts in their office. Therefore the right ſhoulder was burnt, which in other ſacrifices was given to the Prieſt.

23 And one loaf of bread, and one cake of oiled bread, and one wafer out of the basket of the unleavened bread, that is before the LORD.

24 And thou shalt put all this in the hands of Aaron, and in the hands of his sons, and shalt ‖ wave them t for a wave-offering before the LORD.

‖ Or, Shake to and fro.

t Either toss them from one hand to another, as giving all from themselves to God; or shake them to and fro, towards the several parts of the world, to note Gods dominion over all places and people, and the extent of that true and great sacrifice, represented in these types, to all.

25 And thou shalt receive them of their hands, and burn them upon the altar for a burnt-offering, for a sweet savour before the LORD: it is an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

26 And thou shalt take * the breast of the ram of Aarons consecrations, and wave it for a wave-offering before the LORD, and it shall be thy part u.

* Lev. 8. 29.

u To wit, the breast alone, whereas both shoulder and breast were given to Aaron afterwards: The reason whereof might be, either because Moses was not a proper and compleat Priest, as Aaron afterward was, but only appointed by God for this time to do that work: Or, because now there were in a manner two Priests, the one consecrating, to wit, Moses, the other consecrated, to wit, Aaron, and therefore these parts were divided, the breast given to the former to be eaten, the shoulder offered unto God for the later, verse 22. he being not yet a perfect Priest and therefore not in a capacity of eating it.

27 And thou shalt sanctifie * the breast of the wave-offering, and the shoulder of the heave-offering, which is waved, and which is heaved up x of the ram of the consecration, even of that which is for Aaron, and of that which is for his sons y.

*. Lev. 7. 34. Numb. 18. 18. Deut. 18. 3.

x This was done by throwing the parts upward and catching them again. y The words may be rendred thus, of which, breast and shoulder of the ram, shall be Aarons portion, and of which shall be the portion of his sons: So there is only an Ellipsis of the verb substantive, which is most common, and the Hebrew prefix Lamed designs a thing belonging to the person to whom that is prefixed, as it is in other like cases, as Gen. 40. 8. Deut. 1. 17. Psal. 47. 9.

28 And it shall be Aarons and his sons, by a statute for ever, from the children of Israel: for it is an heave-offering z: and it shall be an heave-offering from the children of Israel, of the sacrifice of their peace-offerings, even their heave-offering unto the LORD.

z Under which is comprehended also the wave-offering, as plainly appears both from the context, and from the parity of reason, these offerings being of the same nature and designed for the same purpose.

29 And the holy garments of Aaron shall be his sons a after him, to be anointed therein, and to be consecrated b in them.

a (i. e.) His eldest sons successively. b By some other Priest, there being no other higher person who could do it, and therefore the necessity of it made it warrantable.

30 And † * that son that is priest in his stead, shall put them on seven days c when he cometh into the tabernacle of the congregation, to minister in the holy place d.

† Heb. he of his sons.
* Num. 20. 28.

c For so long the solemnity of the consecration lasted, ver. 35. d Both that strictly so called, and in the most Holy place: for as none could go into the most Holy place except the High-Priest, so there were some things to be done in the Holy place, which none but he could do. See Levit. 4. 7, 8.

31 And thou shalt take the ram of the consecration, and seeth his flesh in the holy place e.

e In the Court-yard at the door of the Tabernacle, where it was both boiled and eaten, as appears from this and the next verse, and from Leo. 8. 31. And part of this was eaten by the person or persons that brought the offering, though they were of the people, who were not admitted into any other Holy place but this.

32 And Aarons and his sons shall eat the flesh of the ram, and the * bread that is in the basket, by the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

* Lev. 8. 31. Matth. 12. 4.

33 And they shall eat those things f wherewith the atonement was made to consecrate, and to sanctifie them: but a stranger g shall not eat thereof, because they are holy.

f (i. e.) The remainders of the oblations mentioned verse 32. g (i e.) One who is not of the Priestly race, whereas in other peace-offerings the offerer did eat a part.

34 And if ought of the flesh of the consecrations, or of the bread remain unto the morning, then thou shalt burn the remainder h with fire: it shall not be eaten, because it is holy.

h According to the Law of all Peace-offerings, except those which were vows or voluntary offerings, Levit. 7. 16, 17. which these were not, compare Exod. 12. 10.

35 And thus shalt thou do unto Aaron, and to his sons, according to all things which I have commanded thee: seven days shalt thou consecrate them.

36 And thou shalt offer every day a bullock for a sin-offering for atonement i: and thou shalt cleanse the altar, when thou hast made an atonement for it, and thou shalt anoint it, to sanctifie it.

i As well for the Priests, as for the Altar, both which as they were or might be polluted, so they needed the sprinkling of this blood to sanctifie them, to shew that all persons and things were fitted for Gods service and accepted by him only for and thorough the blood of Christ.

37 Seven days thou shalt make an atonement, for the altar, and sanctifie it: * and it shall be an altar most holy k: ‖ * whatsoever toucheth the altar shall be holy l.

* chap. 40. 10.
‖ Or, whosoever. Lev. 6. 18.
* chap. 30. 29.

k As appears from the following reason, because it was not only holy in itself, but by its touch communicated a legal Holiness to other things. l This may be understood either 1. Of persons, as a caution that none should touch the Altar but holy and consecrated persons, Or rather 2. Of things, yet not of all things, for polluted things were not made holy by the touch of holy things, which is affirmed Hagga. 2. 12. but of things belonging to the Altar of offerings which by Gods appointment were to be offered, which were sanctified by being laid upon this Altar, and therefore the Altar was greater and more holy than the gift, as our blessed Saviour notes, Matt. 23. 19.

38 Now this is that which thou shalt offer m upon the altar, * two lambs of the first year * day by day continually n.

* Numb. 28.

m This is the chief end and use of this Altar, though it served also for other sacrifices. n To shew partly, that men do daily contract new defilement, and daily need new pardons; and partly that God is not only to be Worshipped upon Sabbath-days and other set and solemn times, but every day.

39 The one lamb thou shalt offer in the morning o, and the other lamb thou shalt offer † at even o.

* Heb. between the two evenings.

o Which two seasons were selected, as most commodious, that men might both begin and end their worldly actions and businesses with God, and might see their need of Gods assistance and blessing in all their concerns and the justness of giving him the praise and glory of all.

40 And with the one lamb a tenth-deal p of flour, mingled with the fourth part of an hin of beaten oil, and the fourth part of a hin q of wine, for a drink-offering.

p The tenth part of an Ephah, as is evident from Numb. 28. 5. which is an Omer, Exod. 16. 36. q An Hin was a measure for liquid things, as the Ephah was for dry things, containing six pints of our measure.

41 And the other lamb thou shalt offer at even, and shalt do thereto according to the meat-offering of the morning, and according to the drink-offering thereof, for a sweet savour, an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

42 This shall be a continual burnt-offering throughout your generations, at the door of the tabernacle † of the congregation before the LORD where r I will meet you, to speak there unto you.

† Heb. of meeting.

r Either 1. At which door, for there the Lord stood and talked with Moses, Exod. 33. 9, 10. Or rather 2. In which Tabernacle, to wit in the innermost part of it, because that was the principal place where God did ordinarily reside and meet with his people, Exod. 30. 6. Levit. 16. 2. whereas God met but once at the door of the Tabernacle, and that with Moses only, not with the people, with whom he is said to meet in this place, verse 43. Add to this, that the place where God

God meets them is the same place which is sanctified by his glory, and that was the Tabernacle, ver. 43. as it is expressed in the Translation, and sufficiently implied in the Hebrew, by a common Ellipsis of the pronoun it, i. e. that place where I meet with you, to wit, the Tabernacle, shall be, &c.

43 And there I will meet with the children of Israel: and || the tabernacle shall be sanctified by my glory s.

Or, Israel.

s (i. e.) By my glorious presence and appearance, of which see Exod. 40. 34. 35. Levit. 9. 24.

44 And I will sanctifie the tabernacle of the congregation, and the altar: I will sanctifie also both Aaron and his sons to minister to me in the Priests office.

45 And * I will dwell t amongst the children of Israel, and will be their God.

chap. 25. 8. Lev. 26. 12. 2 Cor. 6. 16.

t By my special grace, and favour, and blessing, for by his essence he fills all places.

46 And they shall know that I am the LORD their God, that brought them forth out of the land of Egypt, that I may dwell amongst them: I am the LORD their God.

CHAP. XXX.

1 AND thou shalt make * an altar to burn incense upon a: of shittim-wood shalt thou make it.

chap. 37. 25.

a Incense signifies the prayers of Gods people, Psal. 141. 2. Revel. 8. 3. which are not acceptable to God, except they be offered upon the true Altar, Christ. This incense also was useful to correct the bad smell of the sacrifices, which were offered on another Altar, not far from it. Yea some sacrifices were offered upon this Altar, as appears from ver. 10. Levit. 4. 7. But here only the principal and constant use of it is noted.

2 A cubit shall be the length thereof, and a cubit the breadth thereof (four-square shall it be) and two cubits shall be the height thereof, the horns thereof b shall be of the same.

b See Exod. 27. 2. Though these horns as they were for another use, so they seem to be here of another form, and for ornament more than for service.

3 And thou shalt overlay it with pure gold, the † top thereof c, and the † sides thereof round about, and the horns thereof: and thou shalt make unto it a crown d of gold round about.

Heb. roof. Heb. wall.

c This was made hollow like a grate that the ashes might fall thorough it. d A border which encompassed the Altar, that the things laid on it might not fall off.

4 And two golden rings shalt thou make to it, under the crown of it, by the two † corners thereof, upon the two sides of it shalt thou make it: and they shall be for places for the staves to bear it withal.

Heb. ribs.

5 And thou shalt make the staves of shittim-wood, and overlay them with gold.

6 And thou shalt put it before the vail e, that is by the ark of the testimony, before the mercy-seat, that is over the testimony, where I will meet with thee.

e Before the second vail, in the Holy place, and near to the Holy of Holies, and consequently to the Ark and Mercy-seat.

7 And Aaron shall burn thereon † sweet incense f every morning: when * he dresseth the lamps g he shall burn incense upon it.

Heb. incense of spices, chap. 27. 20.

f Aaron was to do this for the first time, but afterwards any Priest might do it, as appears from Luk. 1. 9. This not being done in the Holy of Holies, which was the High-Priests peculiar. g (i. e.) Cleansed them, and prepared them for the receiving of the new lights.

8 And when Aaron || † lighteth the lamps † at even h he shall burn incense upon it, a perpetual incense before the LORD, throughout your generations.

Or, setteth up. † Heb. causeth to ascend. Heb. between the two evens.

h The time when all the lamps were to be lighted, 1 Sam. 3. 3. See Exod. 27. 20, 21.

9 Ye shall offer no strange incense i thereon nor burnt-sacrifice, nor meat-offering, neither shall ye pour drink-offering thereon.

i (i. e.) Of any other sort than what I shall here appoint, ver. 34, &c.

10 And * Aaron shall make an atonement upon the horns of it once in a year k: with the blood of the sin-offering of atonements l; once in the year shall he make atonement upon it throughout your generations: it is most holy unto the LORD.

* Lev. 16. 14. and 23. 27.

k On the day of expiation, Lev. 16. 19. Numb. 29. 7.

l To note, that the prayers of the Saints are acceptable to God no otherwise, but through the blood of Christ who was offered for the expiation of our sins.

11 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

12 * When thou takest the sum of the children of Israel after † their number, then shall they give every man a ransom for his soul m unto the LORD, when thou numbrest them n, that there be no plague amongst them, when thou numbrest them.

* chap. 38. 25. Numb. 1. 2, 3. and 26. 2.] † Heb. them that are to be numbred. See Numb. 31. 50.

m A certain price for the redemption of their lives: whereby they acknowledged the right and power which God had over their lives, and that they had forfeited them by their sins, and that it was Gods mercy to continue their lives to them. n To wit, upon any just occasion, either now in the Wilderness, or afterward: It may seem that this payment was neither to be made at this time only, as some would have it, nor yet every year, as Josephus and others affirm, because it is not said to be a perpetual statute, as other things of constant observance are, but upon any eminent occasions, when the service of the Tabernacle (which is the end and use of this collection) or Temple required it, as may be gathered from 2 Kings 12. 4. compared with 2 Chron. 24. 6. Compare Neh. 10. 32. Matth. 17. 24. And as now it was imployed in the building of the Tabernacle, so afterwards it might be laid out upon the repairs or other services of it.

13 This they shall give, every one that passeth among them that are numbred * half a shekel, after the shekel of the sanctuary o, (a shekel is twenty gerahs:) an half shekel shall be the offering of the LORD p.

* Matth. 17. 24.

o Which though it hath been commonly conceived to be double to the common shekel, yet divers late learned men seem more truely to judge that it was no more than the common shekel consisting of half a crown of English-money, which is called the shekel of the Sanctuary, because the standard by which all shekels were to be examined was kept in the Sanctuary, as afterwards the just weights and measures were kept in Christian Temples or other publick places. See Levit. 27. 25. Numb. 3. 47. Ezek. 45. 10, 11, 12. add to this, that it was a part of the Priests office to look to the weights and measures, as plainly appears from 1 Chron. 23. 29. p Not less, lest it should be contemptible, nor more, lest it should be too burdensome for the poor.

14 Every one that passeth among them that are numbred, from twenty years old and above q, shall give an offering unto the LORD.

q The time when they began to be fit for employment and capable of getting and paying money. Women and Children are not included here, because they are reckoned in their fathers or husbands.

15 The rich shall not † give more, and the poor shall not || give less r than half a shekel when they give an offering unto the LORD, to make an atonement for your souls.

† Heb. multiply. || Heb. diminish.

r This was partly to teach them, that all souls are of equal worth in themselves and price with God, that there is no respect of persons with God and in Gods Worship and Service, but Gospel-graces, Ordinances and Priviledges are common and equal to all, Exod. 12. and 16. 18. Gal. 3. 28. Col. 3. 11. that all persons are alike obnoxious to divine justice, and are redeemed by one and the same price; partly to check the arrogance and vanity of the rich, who are very apt to despise the poor; and partly that by this means the number of the people might be exactly known when occasion required it.

16 And thou shalt take the atonement-money of the children of Israel, and * shalt appoint it for the service of the tabernacle s of the congregation, that it may be a memorial t unto the children of Israel before the LORD, to make an atonement for your souls.

* chap. 38. 25.

s For the building and furniture of it, and the maintenance of Gods Worſhip in it. t Either to the people who hereby profeſs God to be their Lord and owner, and themſelves his ſubjects and tributaries; or to God, who hereby takes occaſion to remember them and to own them for his people.

17 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes u, ſaying, u The frequent repetition of this phraſe, and the ſhortneſs of theſe diſcourſes in compariſon of the length of the forty days, ſhew, that God did not deliver all theſe Laws and Preſcriptions at one time, but ſucceſſively at ſeveral times, poſſibly upon the Sabbath-days.

18 Thou ſhalt alſo make a laver of braſs x, and his foot alſo of braſs, to waſh withal y, and thou ſhall put it between the tabernacle of the congregation and the altar z, and thou ſhalt put water therein.

x See the accompliſhment Exod. 38. 8. y Both the Prieſts and the parts of the ſacrifices. z To wit, of burnt-offerings.

* Pſal. 25. 6. Iſa. 52. 11. Heb. 10. 22.

19 For Aaron and his ſons * ſhall waſh their hands and their feet a thereat.

a To ſignifie their natural impurity and unworthineſs either to handle holy things or to come into the Holy place, and their need of waſhing with the blood and ſpirit of Chriſt, which was typified by this waſhing.

20 When they go into the tabernacle of the congregation, they ſhall waſh with water, that they die not b: or when they come near to the altar to miniſter, to burn an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

b For though the fault might ſeem ſmall, yet the command was evident and eaſe, and therefore the diſobedience was worſe, arguing preſumption, rebellion, and contempt. And God is more ſevere in the matters of his Worſhip than in other caſes.

21 So they ſhall waſh their hands and their feet that they die not: and it ſhall be a ſtatute for ever to them, even to him, and to his ſeed throughout their generations.

22 Moreover, the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

23 Take thou alſo unto thee c principal ſpices d, of pure myrrhe e five hundred ſhekels, and of ſweet cinamon half ſo much, even two hundred and fifty ſhekels, and of ſweet calamus f two hundred and fifty ſhekels, c The words are very emphatical, and the Jews from hence do rightly infer, that this ointment was but once made, and that by Moſes his own hands. d See Cant. 4. 14. Ezek. 27. 22. and compare Pſal. 45. 8. Amos 6. 6. e Heb. myrrhe of liberty, either, 1. Free from adulteration or mixture, or rather 2. Freely dropping from the Tree, which is eſteemed better than that which is forced out of it. f A ſweet reed, of which ſee Iſa. 43. 24. Jer. 6. 20.

* chap. 29. 40.

24 And of caſſia g five hundred ſhekels, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, and of oil olive an * hin.

g Not the common kind of Caſſia, which we uſe in purging, but another kind of it, there being ſeven ſeveral kinds of it, as the learned note.

‖ Or, perfumer.

25 And thou ſhalt make it an oil of holy ointment, an ointment compound after the art of the ‖ Apothecary: it ſhall be an holy anointing oil.

26 And thou ſhalt anoint h the tabernacle of the congregation therewith, and the ark of the teſtimony.

h This was only an outward ceremony ſignifying the ſeparation and ſanctification of theſe things for the ſervice of God, as the anointing of Kings and Prieſts noted their deſignation to their Offices.

27 And the table and all his veſſels, and the candleſtick and his veſſels, and the altar of incenſe, 28 And the altar of burnt-offering with all his veſſels, and the laver, and his foot.

29 And thou ſhalt ſanctifie them, that they may be moſt holy; whatſoever toucheth them ſhall be holy.

30 And thou ſhalt anoint Aaron and his ſons i, and conſecrate them, that they may miniſter unto me in the prieſts office:

i Not all of them, but only thoſe who ſucceed him in the High-Prieſts Office, as appears from Exod. 40. 15. Levit. 4. 3, 5, 16. and 16. 32. and 21. 10. This anointing of them ſignified both Gods election or calling them to this office, and the inward qualifications requiſite for it, to wit, the gifts and graces of the Holy Ghoſt, which are oft deſigned by this word of anointing, as Iſa. 61. 1. Dan. 9. 24. 1 John 2. 27. and the ſolemn ſetting a part of Chriſt, the true High-Prieſt, for the mediatorial office.

31 And thou ſhalt ſpeak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, This ſhall be an holy anointing oil unto me k throughout your generations.

k (i. e.) Reſerved for my ſervice alone, nor employed to any profane or civil uſe, as it follows.

32 Upon mans fleſh ſhall it not be poured l, neither ſhall ye make any other like it, after the compoſition of it: it is holy, and it ſhall be holy unto you m.

l Except thoſe whom God himſelf, the author of this Law, excepts, to wit, the High-prieſts, of which ſee verſe 30. and ſome of the Kings, of which ſee 1 King. 1. 39. Pſal. 89. 20. though others think the Kings were only anointed with common oil. m As it is unto me, verſe 31. you ſhall account it holy, as I do.

* Gen. 17.

33 Whoſoever compoundeth any like it, or whoſoever putteth any of it upon a ſtranger n, * ſhall even be cut off from his people.

n The word ſtranger is commonly uſed to note the Gentiles, or ſuch as were not of Iſraels race, but ſometimes it notes thoſe that are not of the Prieſtly race, as Exod. 29. 33. Levit. 22. 12, 13. And ſo it ſeems to be here. And if any of the Kings were anointed with this oil, it was done by Gods ſpecial appointment, who may diſpenſe with his own Laws.

34 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, take unto thee ſweet ſpices, ſtacte, and onycha, and Galbanum o: theſe ſweet ſpices, with pure frankincenſe, of each ſhall there be a like weight p.

o The Jews themſelves are not agreed what theſe were, and it concerns not Chriſtians much to know, the uſe of them being aboliſhed. It is evident they were each of them ſweet ſpices, and therefore this Galbanum was not of the common kind, which gives a very bad ſcent. p Heb. Alone ſhall be with alone, i. e. Each of theſe alone ſhall be with another alone, to wit, in equal quantity. Or it may note, that each of theſe was to be taken and beaten apart, and then mixed together. Or, it ſhall be alone alone, i. e. abſolutely and certainly alone, the doubling of the word increaſing the ſignification, and thus it doth not belong to all the ingredients, becauſe the Hebrew verb is here of the ſingular number, but only to the Frankincenſe, and the ſenſe may be, that whereas the other things ſhall be tempered together, the Frankincenſe ſhould be alone, which may ſeem moſt agreeable both to the common uſe of Frankincenſe, and to its differing nature from the other things mentioned, two of them at leaſt being confeſſedly liquid things.

† Heb. ſalted

35 And thou ſhalt make it a perfume, a confection after the art of the apothecary, † tempered together q pure r and holy.

q Heb. Salted, either 1. properly, for ſalt was to be offered with all offerings, Lev. 2. 13. And the Hebrew Doctors tell us that ſix eggſhels full of ſalt were uſed, or, 2. Metaphorically, well mixed together, as ſalt was with things either offered to God or eaten by man. r Of the beſt of each kind of drugs, the moſt perfect and uncorrupted.

† Heb. of moſt ing. * chap. 29. Lev. 16. 2.

36 And thou ſhalt beat ſome of it s very ſmall, and put of it before the teſtimony in the tabernacle † of the congregation, * where I will meet with thee: it ſhall be unto you moſt holy.

s So much as is ſufficient for the daily incenſe.

37 And as for the perfume which thou ſhalt make, ye ſhall not make to your ſelves according to the compoſition thereof: it ſhall be unto thee holy for the LORD.

38 Whoſoever ſhall make like unto that to ſmell thereto, ſhall even be cut off from his people.

CHAP. XXXI.

1 AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 See, I have called by name Bezaleel the son of Uri, the son of Hur a of the tribe of Judah.

a He seems to be the same mentioned, 1 Chron. 2. 20.

3 And I have filled him with the spirit of God b, in c wisdom, and in understanding, and in knowledge, and in all manner of workmanship.

b Which was now necessary, because the Israelites in Egypt wanted ingenuous education to learn these things, and therefore needed inspiration. c Or, with, the following clauses being explicatory of the former, shewing what gifts of the spirit God had filled him with, to wit, Wisdom, &c.

4 To devise cunning works, to work in gold, and in silver, and in brass.

5 And in cutting of stones, to set them, and in carving of timber, to work in all manner of workmanship.

6 And I, behold I, have given with him Aholiab the son of Ahisamach, of the tribe of Dan: and in the hearts of all that are wise-hearted d I have put wisdom, that they may make all that I have commanded thee:

d That have wisdom and skil sufficient to do these things under the inspection and direction of Bezaleel and Aholiab, the principal workmen.

7 The tabernacle of the congregation, and the ark of the testimony, and the mercy-seat that is thereupon, and all the † furniture of the tabernacle:

† Heb. vessel.

8 And the table, and his furniture, and the pure candlestick e, with all his furniture, and the altar of incense:

e So called by way of eminency, not only because it was made of pure gold, and was not defiled with blood, for so some other things were, but especially to mind the Priests of their duty in keeping it neat and clean, it being more subject to defilement than other things.

9 And the altar of burnt-offering, with all his furniture, and the laver and his foot:

10 And * the clothes of service f, and the holy garments for Aaron the priest, and the garments of his sons, to minister in the priests office:

f Wherein the Ark and other sacred utensils were wrapped up when they were to be removed. See Exod. 35. 19. and Numb. 4.

11 And the anointing oil, and † sweet incense for the holy place: according to all that I have commanded thee shall they do.

† Heb. incense of spices.

12 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

13 Speak thou also unto the children of Israel, saying, Verily my sabbaths ye shall keep g: for it is a sign between me and you h, throughout your generations, that ye may know that I am the LORD that doth sanctifie you i?

g This precept is here repeated, either 1. to shew the chief use of the Tabernacle and all this cost and trouble about it, to wit, that they might there acceptably serve God, as in some measure upon every day, so especially upon the Sabbath day. Or rather 2. To restrain the time for the doing of the forementioned works, q. d. Though the work of the Tabernacle and Utensils be Holy, and for an Holy use, yet I will not have it done upon my Holy day. The Sabbath was not made for them, but they for it, and therefore they shall give place to it. h The Sabbath is a five-fold sign, 1. Commemorative, of Gods Creation of and Dominion over them and all other things, to whom they do hereby profess their subjection. 2. Indicative, shewing that they were made to be Holy, and that their Sanctification can be had from none but from God, as it here follows, and from the observation of Gods days and appointments. 3. Distinctive, whereby they owned themselves to be the Lords peculiar people by a religious keeping of those Sabbaths, which the rest of the World grosly neglected and profanely scoffed at. 4. Prefigurative of that rest which Christ should purchase for them, to wit, a rest from the burden of the ceremonial, and from the curses and rigours of the moral, Law, as also from sin and the wrath of God for ever. See Heb. 4. 5. Confirmative, both assuring them of Gods good will to them, and that as he blessed the Sabbath for their sakes so he would bless them in the holy use of it with temporal, spiritual and everlasting blessings, as he declares in many places of Scripture, and assuring God of their standing to that Covenant made between God and them. So that this was a mutual stipulation or ratification of the Covenant of grace on both sides. i That selecteth you out of all people and consecrate you to my self and to my service and worship, a great part whereof is the observation of the Sabbath. Or, that sanctifieth you by my Word and Ordinances, which are in more eminent and solemn manner dispensed upon the Sabbath day, by the observation whereof you declare that you own me as your only sanctifier. And so we may observe, the Sabbath owns the Lord as our Creatour and as our Redeemer and as our Sanctifier; and therefore it is no wonder God so severely enjoyns the sanctification of the Sabbath and punisheth the neglect of it, it being a tacit renouncing or disowning of God the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost.

14 * Ye shall keep the Sabbath therefore: for it is holy unto you: every one that defileth it, shall surely be put to death k: for * whosoever doth any work l therein, that soul shall be cut off from amongst his people.

* chap. 20. 8. Deut. 5. 12. Ezek. 20. 12.
* Num. 15. 35.

k Of which see an example, Numb. 15. 32, &c. l (i. e.) Servile work, as it is explained, Lev. 23. 7. &c.

15 Six days † may work be done, but in the seventh is the sabbath of rest m: † holy to the LORD: whosoever doeth any work in the sabbath day, he shall surely be put to death.

† Heb. shall be done.
† Heb. holiness.

m Heb. the sabbath of sabbaths, or of sabbaths, i. e. the great and chief sabbath, as the song of songs is the most excellent song, the holy of holies is the most holy, &c. The Jews had many sabbaths or days of rest, but This is here preferred before them all by this emphatical repetition of the same word, and by this argument the foregoing duty is pressed upon them.

16 Wherefore the children of Israel shall keep the sabbath, to observe the sabbath n throughout their generations for a perpetual covenant o.

n Or, shall keep the sabbath by observing or celebrating the sabbath, i. e. by observing or celebrating it, the antecedent being put for the relative, as is frequently done. So here is another most emphatical repetition to oblige us to the greater caution and diligence in this great duty, and to shew what stress God lays upon it, who hath therefore placed this in the midst of the commands of the Decalogue, as the heart which gives life and vigour to all the rest. Or it may be rendered thus, shall observe the day of rest to celebrate the sabbath, and so the phrase is like that, in the fourth Command, Remember the sabbath day to keep it holy. So here, Observe the sabbath, i. e. watch its coming and approach, consider attentively the nature and use of it, and that not as a matter of idle speculation, but of serious practise, or so that you may do or celebrate the sabbath, i. e. perform all the duties of it, Or thus, shall observe the sabbath, to make it a sabbath, or day of rest, and that no idle or carnal rest, but a rest, holy to the Lord, as it is called in the foregoing verse. o Or, by a perpetual covenant: or, it is a perpetual covenant, i. e. condition or part of that agreement made between me and them, they have solemnly covenanted or promised that they will do all that I commanded them, Exod. 24. 7, 8. among which this is a chief branch, and I have covenanted to bless and sanctifie them in so doing. And this word perpetual, as also the word for ever being added to it in the next verse, may intimate, that this hath a longer perpetuity than the ceremonies, to which this phrase is sometimes ascribed, the rather because the reason of this perpetuity given in the next verse is such as hath its force not only till Christ, but even till the end of the World, and it is fit and just that men should retain this monument or memorial of the Worlds Creation even till its dissolution.

17 It is a sign p between me and the children of Israel for ever: for * in six days the LORD made heaven, and earth, and on the seventh day he rested, and was refreshed q.

* Gen. 2. 2.

p A sign of the covenant between us, that I will be their God and they will be my people, both which depend upon this, amongst other, duties, and upon this in an eminent degree. q Not as if he had been weary with working, which surely he could not be with speaking a few words, nor can God be weary with any thing, Isa. 40. 28. but it notes the pleasure or delight God took in reflecting upon his works, beholding that every thing he had made was very good, Gen. 1. 31.

18 And he gave unto Moses, when he had made an end of communing with him upon mount Sinai, * two tables of testimony r, tables of stone s, written with the finger of God t.

* chap. 32. 15. Deut. 9. 10. 2 Cor. 3. 3.

r (i. e.) The r (i. e.) The tables of the law, which was the witness of Gods will and Israels duty. See Exod. 16. 34. s Whereby was signified both the durable and perpetual obligation of the moral law, whereas the ceremonial law was to end with the Jewish policy at Christs coming, and the stoniness of mens hearts by nature, in which the law of God could not be written but by a divine and omnipotent hand. t (i. e.) With the power or spirit of God, by comparing Mat. 12. 18. not by any art of man, but immediately by a divine hand.

CHAP. XXXII.

1 AND when the people saw that Moses delayed to come down out of the mount a, the people b gathered themselves together unto
* Act. 7. 40. Aaron c, and said unto him, * Up, make us gods d which shall go before us e: for as for this Moses f, the man that brought us up out of the land of Egypt, we wot not what is become of him g.

a Where he had now been for near 40 days. b (i. e.) Most or some of the people, as it is expressed, 1 Cor. 10. 7. c As the chief person in Moses his absence. d (i. e.) Images or representations of God, whom, after the manner of Idolaters, they call by Gods name. For it is ridiculous to think, that the body of the Israelites, who were now lately instructed by the mouth, and words and miraculous works of the eternal God, should be so senseless as to think that was the true God, which themselves made, and that out of their own ear-rings, much more, that That was the God that brought them out of Egypt, as they say, ver. 4. e To guide us through this vast wilderness to the land of promise, where they longed to be, for as to the cloud, which hitherto had guided them, that seemed now to be fixed upon the mount, and they thought both that and Moses had deserted them. The Jewish Doctors note, that he doth not say, Make us Gods whom we may worship, but, which shall go before us, which, as they truly say, shews that they wanted not a God, whom they knew by infallible evidences they had, but a visible guide, who might supply the want of Moses, as the next words shew. f An expression of contempt towards their great deliverer. g Whether he be not consumed by the fire in the cloud, or taken up to heaven, or conveyed away by God to some other place.

2 And Aaron said unto them, Break off the golden ear-rings h which are in the ears of your wives i, of your sons, and of your daughters, and bring them unto me.

h Which were of good value and common use among the Eastern people, who seem to have used them superstitiously, Gen. 35. 4. Judg. 8. 24. and therefore Aaron demands these, partly that he might take away one vice or occasion of vice, whilst the people were intent upon another, and partly that the proposed loss of their precious ear-rings might cool their idolatrous desires. i Whom he thought most fond of their jewels and most unlikely to part with them.

3 And all the people brake off the golden ear-rings k which were in their ears l, and brought them unto Aaron.

k Whereby they shew both their madness upon their Idols, and their base ingratitude to their God, who had transferred these jewels from the Egyptians to them, Exod. 12. 35, 36. which therefore God upbraids them with, Ezek. 16. 11, &c. l (i. e.) The mens ears, for the affix is of the masculine gender: whereby it seems the men were more set upon Idolatry than the women, parting with their ear-rings for it, which the women would not do.

* 1 King. 12. 28. Ps. 106. 19. 4 * And he received them at their hand, and fashioned it with a graving tool, after he had made it a molten calf m, and they said, These be thy gods n, O Israel, which brought thee up out of the land of Egypt.

m The meaning of this Translation is, That Aaron, to wit, by Artificers did first melt the gold into one mass, and then by the graving tool form it into the shape of a calf and polish it; or as others render the words, he formed it in a type or mould, made in the shape of a calf, into which he cast the molten gold, and so made it a molten calf. But the words may be translated thus, he put it or them into a purse, for so the Hebrew verb and noun both are used, 2 King. 5. 23. and in like manner Gideon disposed the ear-rings given him for like use, Judg. 8. 24. and afterwards he made of them a molten calf. Now the people desired and Aaron in compliance with them made this in the form of a calf or an ox (for the word signifies both) in imitation of the Egyptians, as Philo the Jew expressly affirms, and the learned generally agree, and it may thus appear, 1. the great idols of the Egyptians, Apis, Serapis and Isis were oxen and cows, as is confessed. 2. The Egyptians, besides those creatures which they adored as Gods, did also make and keep and worship their images, as even the heathen writers, Mela and Strabo, affirm. 3. The Israelites whilst they were in Egypt, were many of them infected with the Egyptian Idolatry, as it appears from Jos. 24. 14. Ezek. 20. 7, 8. and 23. 3. Act. 7. 39. And it is not unlikely divers of them hanker'd no less after the Idols than after the garlick and onions of Egypt. And, being now, as they thought, forsaken by Moses, they might think of returning to Egypt, as afterwards they did, and therefore chose a God of the Egyptian mode, that they might more willingly receive them again. n (i. e.) This is thy God, the plural number being put for the singular as it is usual in this case. The meaning is, this is the sign or symbol or image of thy God, for such expressions are very frequent: thus this image of a calf is called a calf frequently, and the images of the temple of Diana are called shrines or little temples, Act. 19. 24. So they intended to worship the true God by this image, as afterwards Jeroboam did by the same image, as we shall plainly see when we come to that place of Scripture. And it is absolutely incredible, that the generality of the Israelites should be so void of all sense and reason as to think that this new-made calf did bring them out of Egypt before its own creation, and that this was the same Jehovah, who had even now spoken to them from heaven with an audible voice, saying, I am the Lord thy God who brought thee out of the land of Egypt.

5 And when Aaron saw o it he built an altar before it, and Aaron made proclamation, and said, To morrow is a feast to the LORD p.

o (i. e.) Observed with what applause they received it and with what fury and resolution they prosecuted their former desire, he was born down with the stream, and, as it is probable, by the peoples instigation built an altar to it. p Heb. to Jehovah. Which title being peculiar to the true God, and being here given by Aaron to the calf with the approbation of the people, makes it more than probable that the people designed to worship the true God in this calf, which they made only as a visible token of Gods presence with them, and an image by which they might convey their worship to God.

6 And they rose up early on the morrow, and offered burnt-offerings, and brought peace-offerings q: and the * people sat down to eat and to * 1 Cor. 10.
drink r and rose up to play s.

q But no sin-offerings, which they most needed. r For the sacrifices were accompanied with feasting both among the worshippers of the true God and among Idolaters. See Exod. 18. 12. and 24. 11. s By shouting and singing and dancing, as it appears from ver. 17, 18, 19.

7 And the LORD said unto Moses, * Go, get * Deut. 9. thee down: for thy people t which thou broughtest out of the land of Egypt, have corrupted themselves.

t No longer my people, as God had called them hitherto, Exod. 3. 7. and 5. 1, &c. they have forsaken me, and I do hereby renounce them.

8 They have turned aside quickly out of the way which I commanded them: they have made them a molten calf, and have worshipped it, and have sacrificed thereunto, and said, * These be thy gods, * 1 Kin. 12.

a mighty hand?

z Emphatically

z Emphatically ſo called, q. d. Moſes had not loſt his intereſt in God, though Iſrael had. a So hot as to conſume them utterly. For though he ſaw reaſon enough why God ſhould be angry with them, yet he humbly expoſtulates with God whether it would be for his honour utterly to deſtroy them. Or, this is a petition delivered in form of an interrogation or expoſtulation, as Mat. 8. 29. compared with Luk. 8. 28. b An ingenious retortion, q. d. They are not my people, as thou calledſt them, ver. 7. but thy people, which he proves in the following words.

* Num. 14. 13. Deut. 9. 28. and 32. 27.

12 * Wherefore ſhould the Egyptians ſpeak, and ſay, For miſchief did he bring them out, to ſlay them in the mountains c, and to conſume them from the face of the earth? Turn from thy fierce wrath, and repent of this evil againſt thy people.

c (i. e.) In or at mount Sinai, the plural number for the ſingular: or, in this mountainous deſert.

* Gen. 12. 7. & 13. 15. & 15. 18. & 26. 4. & 28. 13.

13 Remember Abraham, Iſaac, and Iſrael thy ſervants, to whom thou ſwareſt by thy own ſelf, and ſaidſt unto them, * I will multiply your ſeed as the ſtars of heaven, and all this land that I have ſpoken of, will I give unto your ſeed, and they ſhall inherit it for ever.

14 And the LORD repented d of the evil which he thought to do unto his people.

d (i. e.) Changed his ſentence. See on Gen. 6. 6.

15 And Moſes turned, and went down from the mount, and the two tables of the teſtimony were in his hand: the tables were written on both their ſides e: on the one ſide, and on the other ſide were they written.

e Not in the inſide and outſide, which is unuſual and unneceſſary, but in the inſide only, ſome of the ten Commands being written on the right hand, and others on the left, not for any myſtery, but only for conveniency of writing.

* chap. 31. 18.

16 And the * tables were the work of God, and the writing was the writing of God, graven upon the tables.

17 And when Joſhua f heard the noiſe of the people as they ſhouted, he ſaid unto Moſes, There is a noiſe of war in the camp.

f Who had waited all this while upon the middle of the hill for Moſes his return, and ſo neither knew what the people had done, nor heard what God had ſaid to Moſes.

† Heb. weakneſs.

18 And he ſaid, It is not the voice of them that ſhout for maſtery g, neither is it the voice of them that cry for † being overcome h: but the noiſe of them that ſing do I hear.

g Heb. of a cry of ſtrength, i. e. of ſtrong men or of the ſtronger and victorious party, who uſe to expreſs themſelves with triumphant ſhouts. h Heb. of a cry of weakneſs, i. e. of weak and wounded and vanquiſhed men who uſe to break forth into doleful cries.

19 And it came to paſs aſſoon as he came nigh unto the camp, that he ſaw the calf, and the dancing: and Moſes anger waxed hot, and he caſt the tables out of his hands, and brake them i beneath the mount.

i Not through raſh anger, but by Divine inſtinct, partly to puniſh their Idolatry with ſo great a loſs, and partly to ſhew that the covenant made between God and them ſo much to their advantage, which was contained in thoſe tables, was by their ſin broken and now of none effect, and not to be renewed but by bitter repentance.

* Deut. 9. 21.

20 * And he took the calf which they had made, and burnt it in the fire, and ground it to powder k, and ſtrawed it upon the water l, and made the children of Iſrael m to drink of it n.

k Melted it either into one great maſs, or rather into divers little fragments, which afterwards by a file or other inſtruments he by the help of many others might ſoon grind to powder or duſt of gold. l Upon the brook, which came out of the rock Horeb. Exod. 17. 6. m Not all, which would require long time, but ſome in the name of the reſt, and moſt probably either the chief promoters of this idolatrous deſign, or the chief rulers of the people who ſhould by their power and authority have reſtrained the people from this wickedneſs. n Of the water into which that duſt was caſt, partly to make them aſhamed of their madneſs in worſhipping a God which now muſt be drunk and caſt out into the draught, and partly to fill them with terrour and dreadful expectation of ſome ill effect or curſe of God to come upon them either by this draught or by other means.

21 And Moſes ſaid unto Aaron, What did this people unto thee o, that thou haſt brought ſo great a ſin upon them p?

o What injury or miſchief had they done to thee which thou didſt ſo ſeverely revenge! p The ſin of the people is charged upon Aaron, both becauſe he did not reſiſt and ſuppreſs their wicked ſuggeſtion ver. 1. by his counſel and by the authority which Moſes had left in his hand, which he ſhould have done even with the hazard of his life, as the Rabbins ſay that Hur did, whom they report to have been ſlain by the people whileſt he diſſwaded them from their attempt, and becauſe he did not promote and direct and manage their enterprize, ver. 4, 5.

22 And Aaron ſaid, Let not the anger of my lord wax hot: thou knoweſt the people, that they are ſet on miſchief q.

q Heb. are in evil, i. e. are altogether wicked, addicted to or bent upon wickedneſs, ſo that it was impoſſible for me to ſtop or divert their courſe.

23 For they ſaid unto me, Make us gods which ſhall go before us: for as for this Moſes, the man that brought us up out of the land of Egypt, we wot not what is become of him.

24 And I ſaid unto them, Whoſoever hath any gold, let them break it off: ſo they gave it me: then I caſt it into the fire, and there came out this calf r.

r Not that he meant, or thought to perſwade Moſes, that the melted gold came out of the fire in the form of a calf by accident without any art or induſtry of his, which was a ridiculous conceit and eaſily confuted, but only he conceals his own ſin in the forming and graving of it, and lays the whole blame upon the people.

† Heb. thoſe that roſe up againſt them.

25 And when Moſes ſaw that the people were naked s (for Aaron had made them naked t unto their ſhame amongſt † their enemies u.)

s (i. e.) That they were ſtripped both of their ornaments which was not ſo much the jewels of their ears, as the innocency of their minds and lives, and of their defence, to wit, of the favour and protection of God, by which alone they were ſecured from the Egyptians, and were to be defended againſt thoſe many and mighty enemies towards whom they were about to march, and that being thus diſarmed and helpleſs they would be a prey to every enemy; when Moſes conſidered this, he took the following courſe to cover their nakedneſs, to expiate their ſins, to regain the favour of God, and by puniſhing the moſt eminent and incorrigible offenders to bring the reſt to repentance. t As Ahaz is ſaid to have made Judah naked, 2 Chron. 28. 19. u Queſt. How were they made naked or aſhamed amongſt their enemies when at this time they were in their own camp, remote from all their enemies? Anſ. He ſpeaks not only of their preſent ſhame, but of their everlaſting reproach, eſpecially among their and Gods enemies, who being conſtant to their idols would juſtly ſcorn the Iſraelites for their levity in forſaking their God ſo quickly and eaſily. See Jer. 2. 11. But the Hebrew word may be and is by ſome tranſlated thus, amongſt thoſe that do or ſhall riſe up or be born of them, i. e. that ſhall ſucceed them, for ſo the word riſing is uſed Exod. 1. 8. Mat. 11. 11. And ſo the Chaldee here renders it, amongſt their generations, and the other Chaldee Interpreter and the Syriack, in their later days, or in after-times. So the ſence is, That Aaron had put a note of perpetual infamy upon them even to all after-ages.

26 Then Moſes ſtood in the gate of the camp x and ſaid, Who is on the LORDS ſide y? let him come unto me. And all the ſons of Levi z gathered themſelves together unto him.

x He choſe that place, 1. As the uſual place of Judicature, 2. That he might withdraw himſelf from the company of Idolaters as far as he might. 3. As a fit place of concourſe and reſort for thoſe that were on Gods ſide: 4. To prevent the eſcape of the greateſt delinquents, the reſt of the camp being probably ſurrounded with ſome trench, or ſuch like thing, elſe gates had been ſuperfluous and unprofitable. y Who will take Gods part and plead his cauſe againſt Idolatry and Idolaters? z (i. e.) The moſt of that tribe, as that univerſal particle is oft underſtood, for ſome of them were deſtroyed as guilty.

27 And he ſaid unto them, Thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, Put every man his ſword by his ſide, and go in and out from gate to gate throughout the camp, and ſlay every man his brother a, and every man his companion, and every man his neighbour.

a The meaning, Slay every principal offender, whom you meet with without any indulgence or exception though brother or companion or neighbour. There was no fear of killing the innocent in this case, because, 1. The people were generally guilty. 2. Moses had called to himself all that were on Gods side, who thereby were separated from the guilty: 3. The innocent might easily be discerned from the transgressours, either by the personal knowledge which the Levites or others had of the most forward Idolaters, or by their abiding in their tents as ashamed and grieving for their sin whilest the transgressours were impudently walking about in the camp, as trusting to their numbers, or by the direction of Gods providence, if not by some visible token.

28 And the children of Levi did according to the word of Moses; and there fell of the people that day about three thousand men b.

b And no more, for it is probable they slew only those whom they knew to have been the ringleaders to others in this mischeif.

‖ Or, and Moses said, consecrate yourselves to day to the LORD, because every man hath been against his son, and against his brother, &c. † Heb. fill your hands.

29 ‖ For Moses had said, † Consecrate your selves to day to the LORD c, even every man upon his son, and upon his brother, that he may bestow upon you a blessing this day.

c Offer up your selves to the honour and service of the Lord in this work, which because it was joyned with the hazard of their lives he calls it a consecration or oblation of themselves, as Abraham for the like reason is said to have offered up Isaac. Heb. Fill your hands, &c. i. e. offer a sacrifice, for so that phrase is oft used, as Exod. 28. 41. Judg. 17. 5, 12. That work of justice which they were going to execute might seem an inhuman and barbarous act, but he tells them it was an acceptable Sacrifice to God, as the destruction of Gods enemies is called a sacrifice, Isa. 34. 6. Ezek. 39. 17. Or, he hereby intimates, that this Tribe was designed by God for his immediate service, and therefore recommends this work to them as an excellent initiation into their office, and as a demonstration that they were in some sort worthy of that great trust.

30 And it came to pass on the morrow, that Moses said unto the people, Ye have sinned a great sin: and now I will go up unto the LORD, * peradventure d I shall make an atonement for your sin.

* 2Sam. 16. 12. Amos 5. 15.

d He speaks doubtfully, partly because he was uncertain how far God would pardon them, and partly to quicken them to the more serious practise of repentance.

31 And Moses returned unto the LORD, and said, Oh, this people have sinned a great sin, and have made them gods of gold.

32 Yet now, if thou wilt forgive their sin e: and if not, blot me, I pray thee, out of thy book f, which thou hast written.

e Understand here, forgive it, or, it is well, or, I and others shall praise thy name. His great passion for his people stops his words and makes his speech imperfect. f (i. e.) Out of the book of Life, as appears by comparing this with other places, as Psal. 69. 28. Dan. 12. 1. Luk. 10. 20. Phil. 4. 3. Rev. 3. 5. and 13. 8. and 20. 12. Or, out of the Catalogue or number of those that shall be saved. I suppose Moses doth not in this case wish his eternal damnation, because that state implies both wickedness in himself and the dishonour of God, but his annihilation, or the utter loss of this life and of that to come and of all the happiness of both of them. Nor doth Moses simply desire this, but only comparatively expresseth his singular zeal for Gods glory, and charity to his people, signifying that the very thoughts of the destruction of Gods people and of the reproach and blasphemy which would be cast upon God by means thereof were so grievous and intolerable to him, that he rather wisheth, if it were possible, that God would accept of him as a sacrifice in their stead, and by his utter destruction prevent so great a mischief. And it is to be considered, that Moses speaks this, as also many other things, as the Mediatour between God and Israel, and as the type of the true Mediatour, Jesus Christ, who was in effect to suffer this which Moses was content to suffer.

33 And the LORD said unto Moses, * Whosoever hath sinned ‖ against me, him will I blot out of my book g.

* Ezek. 18. 4.

‖ Or, doth sin, to wit, presumptuously, obstinately, and impenitently. g Him will I cut off out of the land of the living, and eternally deprive of my favour and glory, and not thee who art innocent and righteous.

34 Therefore now go lead the people unto the place of which I have spoken unto thee. * Behold mine angel h shall go before thee. Nevertheless * in the day when I visit, I will visit their sin upon them i.

* chap. 33. 2. * Deut. 32. 35.

h Not Christ, the Angel of the covenant, who had hitherto gone before them, but a created Angel, as appears by comparing this with Exod. 33. 2, 3, 12. Though Moses obtained the revocation of this threatning, Exod. 33. 14. 17. i When I shall punish them for their other sins, which I foresee they will commit, I will remember and punish this also.

35 And the LORD plagued the people k, because they made the calf which Aaron made l.

k This relates either to the destruction of 3000 of them by the Levites, or rather to the future plagues, in which God also reckoned with them for this sin. l They made it, because they urged Aaron to make it, as Judas is said to purchase the field, Act. 1. 18. which was purchased by his mony, and Aaron made it, by giving command to make it. The Chaldee, Syriack, Arabick and Samaritan render the words thus, they worshipped or sacrificed to the calf which Aaron made. And the word which signifies to make is oft used for worshipping or sacrificing, as Exod. 10. 25. Judg. 13. 15. 1 King. 18. 26.

CHAP. XXXIII.

1 AND the LORD said unto Moses, Depart, and go up hence, thou and the people, which thou hast brought up out of the land of Egypt, unto the land which I sware unto Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, saying, * Unto thy seed will I give it.

* Gen. 12. 7.

2 * And I will send an Angel before thee, and I will drive out the Canaanite, the Amorite, and the Hittite, and the Perizzite, the Hivite, and the Jebusite.

* chap. 32. 34. Deut. 7. 22. Josh. 24. 11. * Gen. 3 Numb. 1

3 Unto a land flowing with milk and honey: for I will not go up in the midst of thee a: for thou art a * stiff-necked people, lest I consume thee in the way b.

* chap. 32. Deut. 9.

a By my own special and gracious presence, as hitherto I have done, but I will depart from thee. In pursuance hereof God removes his tabernacle without the camp, ver. 7. I will only make good my promise to thy fathers, and send an Angel to accomplish it, but I will shew no peculiar and further kindness to thee. b Lest thy sins should be aggravated by my presence and favour, and thereby I should be provoked utterly to destroy thee. So he shews that their perverseness makes this severity necessary for them, and that God even in his judgment remembers mercy to them.

4 And when the people heard these evil tidings, they mourned: and no man did put on him his ornaments c.

c Their precious garments, or jewels, which the women reserved, as we saw ver. 3. This was a visible sign and profession of their inward humiliation and repentance for their sin and of their deep sense of Gods displeasure.

5 For the LORD had said unto Moses, Say unto the children of Israel, Ye are a stiff-necked people: I will come up into the midst of thee d in a moment, and consume thee e: therefore now put off thy ornaments from thee, that I may know what to do unto thee f.

d To wit, in anger; not in favour, ver. 3. where the words are the same, but the sence differing. e Obj. But God had promised he would not do so, ver. 14. Ans. That was signified to Moses, not to the people, to whom the threatning was most proper and profitable; and this threatning hath a condition implied, to wit, except they repent, as the next words plainly shew. f That I may either inflict my judgments or suspend them, as thou art penitent or impenitent.

6 And the children of Israel stript themselves of their ornaments by the mount Horeb.

7 And Moses took the tabernacle g, and pitched it without the camp, afar off from the camp h, and called it the tabernacle of the congregation i: and it came to pass, that every one which sought the LORD k, went out unto the tabernacle of the congregation, which was without the camp.

g A tent set up by Moses for the people to meet in for sacrifice and seeking of God and other parts of Gods Worship, until the great Tabernacle should be finished: for such a place was necessary or highly expedient for that use, and therefore it is not probable they would be without it for a years space. h In testimony of Gods alienation from them and displeasure against them, this being a kind of excommunication, and all was too little to bring

bring them to a thorough repentance. i It was ſo before, but he called it ſo now, to ſhew that God had not wholly forſaken them, and that, if they truly repented, he ſtill permitted them to come into his preſence and to ſeek the Lord. k Either for his favour, or for counſel and direction: See Exod. 18. 15, 19, 20.

8 And it came to paſs, when Moſes went out unto the tabernacle that all the people roſe up, and ſtood every man at his tent door and looked after Moſes l until he was gone into the tabernacle.

l Teſtifying their grief for Gods departure, their reſpect to Moſes whom they had lately deſpiſed, their earneſt deſire of his interceſſion for them, their longing for Gods favour, and their humble expectation of a gracious return from God by the hands of Moſes.

9 And it came to paſs as Moſes entred into the tabernacle, the cloudy pillar deſcended m, and ſtood at the door of the tabernacle, and the LORD talked with Moſes.

m Whereby God teſtified his approbation of Moſes and of that which Moſes had done, which might ſeem to ſome ſevere and cruel.

10 And all the people ſaw the cloudy pillar ſtand at the tabernacle door and all the people roſe up and worſhipped, every man in his tent door.

* Gen. 32. 30. Numb. 12. 8. 11 And * the LORD ſpake unto Moſes face to face n, as a man ſpeaketh to his friend. And he turned again into the camp, but his ſervant Joſhua the ſon of Nun, a young man, departed not out of the tabernacle o.

n Or, mouth to mouth, as Num. 12. 8. Not that God hath face or mouth, or that Moſes could behold it, which is denied, verſe 20. but the ſence is, he ſpake with him freely and familiarly, and immediately, not by an Angel in a dream or viſion, as he did to other Prophets. See Deut. 34. 10. o Who abode there either to keep it from injury or inconvenience, for as it was ſet up by mans help, ſo it needed mans care to preſerve it; or to aſſiſt and direct thoſe who reſorted thither to ſeek God in Moſes his abſence. And Joſhua ſeems to be appointed for this work rather than Aaron or any other of the Elders, becauſe they had one way or other been guilty of the late Idolatry, and God would hereby puniſh them with a temporary ſuſpenſion from his ſervice and their office.

12 And Moſes ſaid unto the LORD, ſee, thou ſayeſt unto me, bring up this people, and thou haſt not let me know whom thou wilt ſend with me p. Yet thou haſt ſaid, I know thee by name q, and thou haſt alſo found grace in my ſight.

p (i. e.) What Angel it is, whether it be a created Angel, for then I profeſs I am unſatisfied with him, verſe 15. or the ſame increated Angel Chriſt, who hath hitherto accompanied us, and then I am content. But I am at a great loſs by thy withdrawing thy cloudy pillar from the people to whom it is to be a guide. q (i. e.) Diſtinctly and familiarly, as one whom I have much converſe with and great kindneſs for: thy name is written in my book. Compare Exod. 32. 32, 33. Pſal. 87. 5, 6. Phil. 4. 3. And knowing here notes approbation and affection, as Pſal. 1. 6. Matth. 7. 23. compare Jer. 1. 5.

13 Now therefore I pray thee, If I have found grace in thy ſight, ſhew me now thy way r, that I may know thee s, that I may find grace in thy ſight, and conſider that this nation is thy people t.

r The courſe and manner of thy dealings with men, and particularly thy purpoſe and will concerning me and thy people, and the method which thou wilt chuſe for the fulfilling of thy promiſe, and the courſe which thou wouldſt have me take, and the way by which I ſhall conduct thy people to the promiſed Land. s (i. e.) Thy mind herein: men are ſaid to know God, when they know his mind and will: Or, that I may experimentally know thee to be what thou haſt promiſed thou wilt be to me and to thy people: Or rather, that I may thereby know thee, namely that I ſhall find grace in thy ſight, as it follows, that I may be aſſured that thou wilt be reconciled to and preſent with me and thy people. t Both by thy own choice, and purpoſe and promiſe to their parents, and by their recognition of thee for their God, and their returning to thee again.

* 2 Sam. 17. 11. 14 And he ſaid *, my preſence u ſhall go with thee, and I will give thee reſt x.

u Heb. My face, i. e. I my ſelf, by comparing this with 2 Sam. 17. 11. The Angel of my preſence, Iſa. 63. 9. the pledge of my preſence, the cloudy pillar, and I will not turn thee over to an Angel, as I threatned, ver. 2. See Deut. 4. 34. x Not only reſt from thy preſent anguiſh and perplexity of mind for thy people, but in due time I will bring them to their reſting-place and ſettled habitation: for it is evident from ver. 15, 16. that Moſes his care and prayer was more for the people than for himſelf.

15 And he ſaid unto him, if thy preſence go not with me, carry us not up hence y.

y Let us rather live and die in the Wilderneſs with thy preſence and favour, than go into Canaan without it: for even that promiſe of reſt I value not without thy preſence. So he ecchoes back Gods words to himſelf, and turns Gods promiſe into a prayer.

16 For wherein ſhall it be known here z, that I and thy people have found grace in thy ſight? is it not in that thou goeſt with us? ſo * ſhall we be ſeparated, I, and thy people, from all the people a that are upon the face of the earth. * chap. 34. 10.

z By what other token ſhall other nations and after-ages know. a (i. e.) Diſtinguiſhed by thy peculiar kindneſs and priviledges afforded to us. Or, be made wonderful or eminent or glorious above all other people.

17 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, I will do this thing alſo that thou haſt ſpoken: for thou haſt found grace in my ſight, and I know thee by name.

18 And he ſaid, I beſeech thee ſhew me thy glory b.

b (i. e.) Thy glorious Majeſty, the brightneſs of thy countenance, ſome ſuch manifeſtation of thy ſelf as becomes thy excellency, and ſuch as ſhall be ſeen in the other life, or that glorious ſhape which together with an human voice thou haſt now aſſumed. But for the eſſence of God, as that was, and is and ever will be inviſible to bodily eyes, 1 Tim. 6. 16. ſo a man of ſuch great reaſon and deep knowledge in divine things and univerſal Learning could not be ignorant of it, and therefore would not deſire it.

19 And he ſaid, I will make all my goodneſs c paſs before thee, and I will proclaim the Name of the LORD d before thee: * and will be gracious to whom I will be gracious e, and will ſhew mercy on whom I will ſhew mercy. * Rom. 9. 15.

c Or, My beauty, for ſo that Hebrew word is ſometimes uſed, Gen. 6. 2. 1 Sam. 9. 2. Or, my excellency, or my glory, as appears from ver. 22. which was the thing Moſes deſired to ſee: And the difference between his requeſt and Gods anſwer doth not lye in glory and goodneſs, but in ſhewing his glory ſo as Moſes might gaze upon it, and making it only, as it follows, to paſs before him, to wit, in a ſudden and very tranſitory viſion. Though it may be underſtood properly of Gods goodneſs and kindneſs to men, of which the following words ſpeak, and that was the great, if not the only, thing aſcribed to God, chap. 34. 6, 7. d (i. e.) My name: The noun for the pronoun, as is very frequent. I will give thee notice when I come that thou mayſt attend, I will not ſurprize thee, nor ſteal by thee. Or, I will proclaim or publiſh of the name of the Lord, or, of my name, i. e. ſome part of it, eſpecially my goodneſs which may ſeem to be here principally intended, 1. by comparing this with chap. 34. 6, 7. 2. By the following words, which ſeem a limitation of this general expreſſion. q. d. I will proclaim, manifeſt, and impart my goodneſs, but with a difference, not to all men, but to whom I pleaſe. 3. By other places, where the name of the Lord is principally, if not ſolely, underſtood of his goodneſs, as Iſa. 50. 10. and in many places of the Pſalms. e This may ſeem to be added with reference to the people for whom Moſes is interceding, leſt Moſes ſhould miſunderſtand or miſapply what is ſaid here and chap. 34. 6, 7. The ſence is, I will ſhew this peculiar favour to thee, I will alſo be gracious towards the people thou pleadeſt for, but not promiſcuouſly. Some of them I will ſeverely and eternally puniſh for this and their other ſins; and ſome of them I will pardon and ſave, not becauſe they are righteous or innocent, or leſs ſinners than the reſt, but merely out of my own good pleaſure and moſt free grace, whereby I will ſhew mercy to ſome when I will not ſhew mercy to others. Thus this place is interpreted by the Apoſtle, Rom. 9. 16, &c.

20 And he ſaid, Thou canſt not ſee my face f: for * there ſhall no man ſee me, and live g. * Gen. 32. 30. Deut. 5. 24. Jud. 13. 22. Rev. 1. 16, 17.

f Either 1. My eſſence. But that no man can ſee, neither in this life, nor in the next. Or rather 2. My glorious preſence. g This may note either 1. Gods purpoſe that that bliſsful viſion of God in glory ſhall be given to no man here, but is reſerved for the future life. Or rather 2. The impoſſibility of the thing from mans weakneſs, which is ſuch, that if God ſhould diſplay all the beams of his glory to him, it would certainly aſtoniſh, overwhelm, and deſtroy him.

21 And the LORD said, Behold, there is a place by me b, and thou shalt stand upon a rock.

b In this mountain where my residence and glorious presence now is, and in that part of it whence my voice now cometh to thine years.

22 And it shall come to pass, while my glory passeth by, that I will put thee in a clift of the rock, and will cover thee with my hand i while I pass by.

i That thou mayst not be undone by thy own desires, nor swallowed up with the sight of my glory.

23 And I will take away mine hand, and thou shalt see my back parts k: but my face shall not be seen.

k (i. e.) Imperfectly and in part, as when we see only a mans back-parts and not his face. Thou shalt see a shadow or obscure delineation of my glory, as much as thou canst bear, though not as much as thou dost desire.

CHAP. XXXIV.

*Deut. 10. 1. 1 AND the LORD said unto Moses, * Hew thee two tables of stone a, like unto the first: and I will write upon these tables the words that were in the first tables b which thou brakest.

a The first Tables were made immediately by God, who of his own mere grace and good pleasure, and without mans merit or contrivance entred into Covenant with Abraham and his Seed; these Tables must be made by Moses, partly in token of Gods displeasure for their sin, and partly to signific, that though the Covenant of grace was first made without mans care and counsel, yet it should not be renewed but by mans repentance. And as the Tables of stone signified the hardness of their hearts, so the hewing of them by Moses might signifie the circumcision and plowing up of their hearts that they might be fit for the receiving of Gods mercies and the performance of their duties. b To shew Gods reception of Israel into his favour and their former state, and that the Law and Covenant of God was neither abolished nor changed by their sin.

2 And be ready in the morning, and come up in the morning unto mount Sinai, and present *chap. 19. 20. thy self there to me * in the top of the mount.

*chap. 19. 12. 3 And no man shall * come up with thee, neither let any man be seen throughout all the mount, neither let the flocks nor herds feed before that mount c.

c This is said, not for the beasts, which are not capable of a Law, but to restrain the presumption and curiosity of the people by this argument, that even the beasts that come too near shall be destroyed, and much more man, whose knowledge aggravates his sin and punishment.

4 And he hewed two tables of stone like unto the first, and Moses rose up early in the morning, and went up unto mount Sinai, as the LORD had commanded him, and took in his hand the two tables of stone.

5 And the LORD descended in the cloud d, and stood with him there e, and proclaimed the Name of the LORD.

d In the cloudy pillar, which ordinarily stood up in the air above the Mount, but came down to the top of it, when God spake with Moses. See Exod. 33. 9. Numb. 11. 17, 25. e To wit, in the Mount, ver. 2, 4. and the clift of a rock, chap. 33. 22. which was in the Mount, and near the top of it, as appears by comparing these places together.

6 And the LORD passed by before him, and proclaimed, The LORD, The LORD God f, merciful and gracious, long-suffering, and abundant in goodness and truth g.

f This title shews his glorious being, power and authority, the following titles note his goodness to men. g In fulfilling all his gracious promises made to Abraham and to his seed and to all his people, wherein he is said to be abundant, because he generally is better than his word and gives more than he promised. There is a truth in divine threatnings, but here the situation of this word in the midst of the Attributes of divine Goodness plainly shews, that it is to be restrained to the promises, this being usual and reasonable, that general words have their signification limited by the context. And indeed here seems to be a Hendyadis, goodness and truth, for true, sincere and hearty goodness, as mercy and truth are oft put for true and real mercy. See Psal. 25. 10. and 57. 3. &c.

7 Keeping mercy for thousands h, forgiving iniquity, and transgression and sin i, and * that will by * Deut. 5. 9.
no means clear the guilty k,* visiting the iniquity of the Jer. 32. 18.
fathers upon the children, and upon the childrens *chap. 33. 7. children, unto the third and to the fourth generation. 21. Josh. 24. 19.
Job 10. 14.
Nah. 1. 3.

h The Chaldee and some others render it, for a thousand generations. i Sins of all sorts and sizes, secret or open, infirmities or presumptions, against God or Men, as the heap of various words here put together signifies. k This is commonly esteemed a title of Justice or Vengeance, which is here added by way of correction, lest men should mistake or abuse Gods mercy. God is most gracious indeed, but so as he is also just and will not pity nor spare impudent and impenitent transgressours, but will severely punish them. And the Jewish Doctors hereupon observe, that the mercy of God doth far exceed his justice, here being as they number them, thirteen Attributes of Mercy, and but one of Justice. But this translation and interpretation is rejected by some late Learned Interpreters, who make this an attribute of Gods Goodness or Clemency, and render the words thus, in destroying he will not utterly destroy, though visiting, &c. q. d. He is so gracious, that though he will severely punish the iniquity of the fathers, and especially their Idolatry, upon themselves, and upon their Children, &c. as he hath said Exod. 20, 5. yet in judgment he will remember mercy, and will not utterly destroy his people for their sins. There are many things which favour this interpretation. 1. This suits most with Moses his solicitude and prayer for the people of Israel, which was, that God would not utterly destroy them, as he threatned to do. 2. This sense best agrees with Gods promise, chap. 33. 19. I will make all my goodness to pass before thee, which general promise is particularly explained and performed in these two verses. 3. This place doth not speak of Gods disposition and carriage towards his enemies, against whom he proceeds with great severity, and commands the Israelites to do so in the verses here following, but towards his people, whose cause Moses is all along pleading with God. See chap. 32. 11. 12, 13. 31, 32. and 33. 13, 15. and 34. 9. 4. The Hebrew verb here used frequently signifies to make empty or desolate, to empty men of their goods, or places of men. See Isa. 3. 26. Amos 4. 6. So here he will not utterly empty or destroy. Though he will leave the marks of his vengeance for this sin upon thy people even to their third and fourth generation, or, it may be further, yet he will not utterly root them out, which is the great thing thou feareſt and laboureſt to prevent. And this very phrase here used we have in Jer. 30. 11. and repeated Jer. 46. 28. where though interpreters generally render it, I will not leave thee altogether unpunished, which may make a good sense, yet it seems much better to be rendred, I will not utterly destroy thee, 1. Because hereby these words exactly answer to the foregoing clause, yet will I not make a full end of thee, and so the same thing is elegantly repeated in other words, which is very frequent in Scripture. 2. Because here is an opposition between the severity God useth to other people, and the kindness he useth to his own people, which is manifest in the former member of the verse, and therefore most probable and agreeable in this. 5. This is much confirmed from Numb. 14. 18. where Moses, pleading with God for the pardon of his peoples sin, useth this very phrase and argument, as taken out of Gods mouth, which in this sense is very proper and prevalent, Thou hast said, that even when thou dost visit iniquity, &c. thou wilt not utterly destroy them. And God answers him, ver. 20. I have pardoned, according to thy word, i. e. so as not to utterly destroy them. But truly as I live, &c. ver. 21, 22, 23. i. e. But I will severely punish them. But if this had been the meaning, Lord thou hast said, ——thou wilt by no means clear the guilty, as we render it, it was a most improper argument and puts a sword into the Lords hand to slay them even by vertue of this consideration.

8 And Moses made haste, and bowed his head toward the earth, and worshipped.

9 And he said, If now I have found grace in thy sight, O LORD, let my LORD, I pray thee, go amongst us, (for it is a stiff-necked people l,) and pardon our iniquity, and our sin, and take us for thine inheritance m.

l And therefore need thy glorious and powerful presence to rule them. Or rather, though it be a stiff-necked people, as thou sayst, yet forsake them not. The Hebrew particle, chi, oft signifies though, as Exod. 5, 11. Isa. 54. 6. m (i. e.) Deal with us as men do with their inheritances, dwell among us, protect us, improve us.

10 And he said, Behold, * I make a covenant n: * Deut. 5. 2.
before all thy people I will do marvels, such as have not been done in all the earth, nor in any nation: and all the people amongst which thou art shall see the work of the LORD: for it is a terrible thing that I will do with thee o.

n (i. e.) I n (i. e.) I do hereby renew my Covenant with thy people which they had violated and voided by their ſin. But the ſhortneſs of the phraſe, there being no mention here of any with whom this covenant is made or renewed, and the following words, make it more probable, that this covenant is nothing but a ſolemn promiſe or engagement that God will do the thing which here follows. And the word covenant is oft uſed for a mere promiſe, as Gen. 9. 9. &c. Levit. 24. 8. Numb. 18. 19. and 25. 12. o Either 1. By thy Miniſtery, as that phraſe is ſometimes uſed, as 1 Cor. 15. 10. Or 2. In the midſt of thee, i. e. of thy people, as ver. 11. before thee, i. e. before thy people. This I prefer, becauſe the next verſe explains this of ſuch things as were not done by Moſes his Miniſtery, nor in his time, but afterwards.

11 Obſerve thou that which I command thee this day. Behold, I drive out before thee the Amorite, and the Canaanite, and the Hittite, and the Perizzite, and the Hivite, and the Jebuſite.

*chap. 23. 32. Deut. 7. 2. 12 * Take heed to thy ſelf, leſt thou make a covenant with the inhabitants of the land, whither thou goeſt, leſt it be for a ſnare in the midſt of thee.

*chap. 23. 24. Deut. 12. 3. †Heb. ſtatues. *Judg. 6. 25. 2 King. 18. 4. and 23. 14. 13 But ye ſhall deſtroy their altars, and * break their † images, and * cut down their groves p.

p Which at firſt were uſed by good men for their devotion, as Gen. 21. 33. but afterwards being horribly abuſed to ſuperſtition and Idolatry were by Gods command to be deſtroyed.

*chap. 20. 5. 14 For thou ſhalt worſhip no other God: for the LORD, whoſe name is jealous q is a * jealous God.

q Who hath made himſelf known by, and glories in that name, the jealous God, who cannot endure any competitor or corrival; wheras the falſe and puny Gods of the Heathens were contented with multitudes of partners. So this is properly ſaid to be the name of God, whereby he is known and diſtinguiſhed from all other Gods.

15 Leſt thou make a covenant r with the inhabitants of the land, and they go a whoring s after their gods, and do ſacrifice unto their gods, and one call thee, and thou eat of his ſacrifice t.

r For cohabitation, or to ſuffer them quietly to live among you, whom you ſhould drive out. s (i. e.) Commit Idolatry which is oft called and compared to ſpiritual Whoredom. See Jer. 2. and 3. and Ezek. 16. t To wit, of the parts or remainders of his ſacrifices, whereby thou wilt partake with him in an Idolatrous Worſhip, becauſe ſuch feaſts were a part of the Worſhip offered to the Idol, and were accompanied with ſolemn benedictions and thankſgivings to the Idol. See Numb. 25. 2. Pſal. 106. 28. Ezek. 18. 6. and 22. 9. 1 Cor. 10. 20. Rev. 2. 20.

17 Thou ſhalt make thee no molten gods u.

u Nor graven, nor any other, as it plainly appears both from the nature of the things, and from many parallel Scriptures: But he mentions molten, becauſe their late Idol was of that kind.

*chap. 12. 15. &c. 23. 15. 18 The feaſt of * unleavened bread ſhalt thou keep: ſeven days ſhalt thou eat unleavened bread, as I commanded thee, in the time of the month Abib: for in the * month Abib thou cameſt out from Egypt.

x Heb. And (for, That is, as the particle, and, is oft uſed, the words following here and verſe 20. being a pecular explication of the general ſentence in the beginning of this verſe) all thy cattle which (a particle oft underſtood) ſhall be born male, as it is alſo explained Exod. 13. 12.) the opening, or whatſoever (to wit of the male kind) openeth the matrix (which word is fitly underſtood out of the former member, which is very uſual) of Ox or (and put for or, as it is oft done) Sheep.

*chap. 13. 13. ‖ Or, kid. 20 But the * firſtling of an aſs thou ſhalt redeem with a ‖ lamb: and if thou redeem him not, then ſhalt thou break his neck. All the firſt-born of thy ſons thou ſhalt redeem: and none ſhall appear before me * empty y.

*chap. 23. 15. 1 Sam. 9. 7, 8. 2 Sam. 24. 24.

y Either without a gift to me, ſo it is a precept; or without benefit to himſelf, ſo it is a promiſe. See Exod. 23. 15.

*chap. 23. 12 Deut. 5. 12. Luk. 13. 14. 21 * Six days thou ſhalt work, but on the ſeventh day thou ſhalt reſt: in earing time, and in harveſt thou ſhalt reſt z.

z Which times are expreſſed, becauſe the great profit and ſeeming neceſſity of working at that time was likely to be a powerful temptation to make men break the Sabbath.

*chap. 23. 16. †Heb. revolution of the year. 22 * And thou ſhalt obſerve the feaſt of weeks a, of the firſt-fruits of wheat harveſt b, and the feaſt of in-gathering c at the † years end d.

a (i. c.) Which is numbred by weeks, being juſt ſeven weeks after the Paſs-over, whence it is called Pentecoſt, i. e. the fiftieth day, to wit, after the Paſs-over. See Levit. 23. 15. and 25. 8. b So this is a deſignation of the time and buſineſs of the feaſt of weeks. c To wit, of the fruits of the Earth. d So it was in regard of the jubilee and civil contracts.

*chap. 23. 14, 17. Deut. 16. 16. 23 * Thrice in the year ſhall all your men children appear before the LORD God, the God of Iſrael.

e So thou ſhalt have no inteſtine enemy to do thee or thine miſchief. This God promiſed to do, but upon condition of Iſrael's diſcharge of their duty in following God in this work of driving them out, which they neglecting, it was not fully done. f I will not only tye their hands, that they ſhall make no invaſion upon you, but I will take off their thoughts and affections from ſuch an enterprize, which it was very eaſie for God to effect many ways.

*chap. 23. 18. 25 * Thou ſhalt not offer the blood of my ſacrifice with leaven, neither ſhall the ſacrifice of the feaſt of paſſ-over be left unto the morning.

*chap. 23. 19. Deut. 14. 21.

g Thou ſhalt not delay to do this, but ſhalt bring the very firſt of them. Or, the firſt-fruits, even the firſt-fruits of thy land. Which limitation ſeems here conveniently added, becauſe they were not bound to bring thither all their firſt-fruits, to wit, thoſe of their own bodies, their children.

27 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Write thou theſe words h: for after the tenour of theſe words I have made a covenant with thee, and with Iſrael.

h Object. God ſaith I will write, verſe 1, Anſw. 1. Moſes was to write the ritual precepts mentioned here above, God wrote the Moral Law. 2. Moſes wrote what he wrote in a book. See Exod. 24. 7. but what was written upon the Tables of ſtone was written by God himſelf, not by Moſes, who had no graving inſtruments with him in the Mount, and could not without them write upon the ſtone.

*chap. 31. 18. and 34. 1. Deut. 4. 13. †Heb. words, 28 And he was there with the LORD fourty days and forty nights i: he did neither eat bread nor drink water: and he * wrote k upon the tables the words of the covenants the Ten † Commandments.

i As he had been before, being now to renew the broken covenant. This forty days faſt of his is mentioned four times, Exod. 24. 18, and here, and Deut. 9. 18. and 10. 10. but it is evident it was performed but twice, as the occaſion of it happened only twice. k Not Moſes, but the Lord, as appears from verſe 1. and from Deut. 10. the relative pronoun being here referred to the remoter antecedent, of which there are many inſtances, as Gen. 10. 12. 1 Sam. 21. 14. and 27. 8. Pſal. 99. 6.

29 And it came to paſs, when Moſes came down from mount Sinai, (with the two tables of teſtimony in Moſes hand, when he came down from the mount) that Moſes wiſt not that the skin of his face ſhone l, while he talked with him.

l Queſt. Why now, and not when he came down from God before? Anſw. 1. Becauſe now he obtained what he did not before, to wit, a glimpſe of the Divine Glory, which though but very tranſient, left its print upon his face. 2. Now it was more neceſſary than before, to procure the greater honour to Moſes and to the law, 2 Cor. 3. 7, 8, 11. becauſe of the late horrid violation and contempt of them which the Iſraelites had fallen into.

30 And when Aaron and all the children of Iſrael ſaw Moſes, behold, the skin of his face ſhone, and they were afraid to come nigh him.

31 And Moſes called unto them: and Aaron, and all the rulers of the congregation returned unto him m, and Moſes talked with them.

m To the Tabernacle which was ſtill at a diſtance from the camp, though afterwards, God being reconciled, it was ſet up in the camp, Exod. 40. 34.

32 And afterward all the children of Iſrael came nigh: and he gave them in commandment all that the LORD had ſpoken with him in mount Sinai.

33 † And till Moſes had done ſpeaking with them, he put * a vail on his face n.

n In condeſcenſion to their weakneſs.

*2 Cor. 3. 13.

34 But when Moſes went in before the LORD to ſpeak with him, he took the vail off, until he came out: and he came out and ſpake unto the children of Iſrael, that which he was commanded.

35 And the children of Iſrael ſaw the face of Moſes, that the skin of Moſes face ſhone: and Moſes put the vail upon his face again, until he went in to ſpeak with him.

CHAP. XXXV.

1 AND Moſes gathered all the congregation of the children of Iſrael together, and ſaid unto them, Theſe are the words which the LORD hath commanded, that ye ſhould do them.

* chap. 20. 9. Lev. 23. 3. Deut. 5. 12. Luk. 13. 14. †Heb. Holineſs.

2 * Six days ſhall work be done, but on the ſeventh day there ſhall be to you an † holy day, a ſabbath of reſt to the LORD a: whoſoever doth work therein ſhall be put to death.

a This command of the Sabbath is repeated here, as alſo Exod. 31. 13. together with the inſtructions for the building of the Tabernacle and its Utenſils, to ſhew that they were made for no other uſe than the ſervice of God, which was to be performed, as every day, ſo in an eminent and peculiar manner upon the Sabbath day, and to teach them the abſolute neceſſity of minding that precept in and above all their ceremonial obſervations.

3 Ye ſhall kindle no fire b throughout your habitations upon the ſabbath day.

b This command ſeems to be only temporary and extraordinary during the preſent ſeaſon and condition, and not extending to ſucceeding generations. For 1. There are inſtances of temporary precepts both in the Old and New Teſtament, which yet are not in their places ſaid to be ſo. Such were ſome of the precepts concerning the Paſſover, Exod. 12. 11. as is confeſſed. And ſuch was that law of abſtaining from things ſtrangled and blood, Act. 15. 2. This precept is nakedly propoſed, and not called a perpetual ſtatute, nor enjoyned to be obſerved in their generations, as other precepts are, to whom thoſe or ſome like clauſes are frequently added. 3. The Sabbath is rather a feaſt-day than a faſt-day. And the Jews did make feaſts and invited gueſts upon the Sabbath-day, which could not probably be without kindling a fire. And, which is more conſiderable, Chriſt himſelf, who fulfilled all righteouſneſs and therefore would not have joined in the violation of the Sabbath, went to one of thoſe feaſts, Luk. 14. And the Corinthians, as they received the Lords Supper upon that day, which none queſtion, ſo they had their feaſts, as is confeſſed, and apparent from 1 Cor. 11. 28, 22, &c. 4. The kindling of a fire was no greater hinderance to the religious obſervation of the Sabbath than other things which were allowed upon that day, ſuch as the waſhing and dreſſing of themſelves, eating and drinking, &c. 5. This prohibition doth not ſeem to concern the dreſſing of meat, as many underſtand it by comparing this with Exod. 16. 23. (which place I humbly conceive is miſunderſtood, as I have there intimated, for that was lawful to be done upon their moſt ſolemn days, Exod. 12. 16.) but the ſervice of the Tabernacle, which is the ſubject of this chapter and the occaſion of theſe words, and the ſence ſeems to be this, You ſhall kindle no fire for any handy-work throughout your habitation, no not for the ſervice of this Tabernacle, for the heating of any tools, or the melting of any metals, or other things belonging to it, which being to be made for Gods ſervice, and deſerving and requiring all expedition, they might probably conceive, that ſuch work might be done upon that day. And here alſo, as oft elſewhere, under one kind all the reſt are comprehended and forbidden.

4 And Moſes ſpake unto all the congregation of the children of Iſrael, ſaying, This is the thing which the LORD commanded, ſaying, 5 Take ye from amongſt you an offering unto the LORD: * whoſoever is of a willing heart c, let him bring it, an offering of the LORD, gold, and ſilver, and braſs. * chap. 25.

c For God values not forced or grudged ſervices, 2 Cor. 9. 7.

6 And blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine linen, and goats hair.

13 The table, and his ſtaves, and all his veſſels, and the ſhew-bread i:

i But neither did God preſcribe the making of the ſhew-bread amongſt the other Utenſils, Exod. 25, nor was this made by the workmen here ſpoken of, but by others. How then comes this to be mentioned here? Anſ. 1. The ſhew-bread may be here put for the veſſels for the receiving of the ſhew-bread, by an uſual Metonymy of the adjunct, the thing contained put for the thing containing, as treaſures are put for the place where the treaſures are put, Pſal. 135. 7. Mat. 2. 11. and 12. 35. and the gifts or offerings of God for the treaſury where they were put, Luk. 21. 4. Hence Tremellius renders this place, and the veſſels of the ſhew-bread. Obj. All the veſſels of the Table are mentioned before, of which this was one. Anſ. It is not unuſual, after a general expreſſion comprehending all diſtinctly, to name one eminent member of that kind, ſuch as this unqueſtionably was, the table being made principally for this uſe. Thus Mark 16. 7. Tell my Diſciples and Peter. Like examples are in 2 Sam. 2. 30. 1 King. 11. 1. Pſal. 18. the Title, Act. 1. 14. and in other Authors. And for the particle Vau, and, which may ſeem to imply that theſe were things of another kind, and not any veſſels of the Table, that is oft put for eſpecially, as Joſ. 2, 1. Mark 16. 7. and ſo only notes an eminent thing of the ſame kind, as hath been ſaid. Anſ. 2. Though God did not preſcribe the making of the ſhew-bread, yet he mentions it, together with the table, Exod. 25. 30. and therefore it is conveniently mentioned with the table in this place alſo, where Moſes, to ſhew his exactneſs and fidelity, doth punctually repeat the ſame things to the people which he had received in command from God. In like manner the oyl, which fed the light of the lamps, is mentioned here in the next verſe, becauſe the lighting of the lamps was preſcribed, Exod. 25. 37.

the anointing oyl, and the ſweet incenſe, and the hanging for the door, at the entring in of the Tabernacle:

16 * The altar of burnt-offering, with his brazen grate, his ſtaves, and all his veſſels, the laver and his foot:

17 The hangings of the court, his pillars, and their ſockets, and the hanging for the door of the court:

18 The pins of the Tabernacle, and the pins of the court, and their cords:

19 The clothes of ſervice, to do ſervice in the holy place, the holy garments for Aaron the Prieſt, and the garments of his ſons to miniſter in the prieſts office.

20 And all the congregation of the children of Iſrael departed from the preſence of Moſes.

21 And they came every one whoſe heart ſtirred him up k, and every one whom his ſpirit made willing, and they brought the LORDS offering to the work of the tabernacle of the congregation, and for all his ſervice, and for the holy garments.

k (i. e.) Whoſe heart being deſirous and ready to ſerve God ingaged his hand to offer what he had to his ſervice.

22 And they came both men and women, as many as were willing-hearted, and brought bracelets, and ear-rings l, and rings, and tablets, all jewels of gold, and every man that offered, offered an offering of gold unto the LORD.

l Obj. Aaron had got theſe from them for the making of the calf, Exod. 32. Anſ. Though the generality of the people did then part with their ear-rings, yet there was a conſiderable number who did not, as being unſatisfied with that Idolatrous deſign, and it may ſeem that the women would not part with theirs being more fond of their ornaments than of their Idols. See the notes on Exod. 32. 3.

23 And every man with whom was found blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine linen, and goats hair, and red skins of rams, and badgers skins, brought them.

24 Every one that did offer an offering of ſilver and braſs, brought the LORDS offering: and every man with whom was found ſhittim-wood for any work of the ſervice, brought it.

25 And all the women that were wiſe-hearted, did ſpin with their hands, and brought that which they had ſpun, both of blue, and of purple, and of ſcarlet, and of fine linen.

26 And all the women whoſe heart ſtirred them up in wiſdom m, ſpun goats hair.

m This word ſeems better to agree with the following than with the foregoing word, they ſpun with wiſdom, i. e, with skill and art.

27 And the rulers brought onyx-ſtones, and ſtones to be ſet for the ephod, and for the breaſt-plate.

28 And * ſpice, and oyl for the light, and for the anointing oyl, and for the ſweet incenſe. * chap. 30. 23.

29 The children of Iſrael brought a willing offering unto the LORD, every man and woman, whoſe heart made them willing to bring for all manner of work, which the LORD had commanded to be made, by the hand of Moſes.

30 And Moſes ſaid unto the children of Iſrael, See, * the LORD hath called by name Bezaleel the ſon of Uri, the ſon of Hur, of the tribe of Judah. * chap. 31. 2.

31 And he hath filled him with the Spirit of God, in wiſdom, in underſtanding, and in knowledge, and in all manner of workmanſhip.

32 And to deviſe curious works, to work in gold, and in ſilver, and in braſs;

33 And in the cutting of ſtones, to ſet them, and in carving of wood, to make any manner of cunning work.

34 And he hath put in his heart, that he may teach n, both he, and Aholiab the ſon of Ahiſamach of the tribe of Dan.

n To wit, others to work under him: for the work required many hands: and it is a peculiar gift of God to be apt to teach, which every skilful man hath not.

35 Them hath he filled with wiſdom of heart, to work all manner of work of the ingraver, and of the cunning workman, and of the embroiderer, in blue, and in purple, in ſcarlet, and in fine linen, and of the weaver, even of them that do any work, and of thoſe that deviſe cunning work.

CHAP. XXXVI.

1 THen wrought Bezaleel and Aholiab, and every wiſe-hearted man, in whom the LORD put wiſdom and underſtanding, to know how to work all manner of work, for the ſervice of the ſanctuary a, according to all that the LORD had commanded.

a Or, of the holy place, to wit, of the Tabernacle, ſo called by a Prolepſis, and Synecdoche.

2 And Moſes called b Bezaleel and Aholiab, and every wiſe-hearted man, in whoſe heart the LORD had put wiſdom, even every one whoſe heart ſtirred him up, to come unto the work to do it.

b God had qualified them before, but that is not ſufficient without a call.

3 And they received of Moſes all the offering which the children of Iſrael had brought for the work of the ſervice of the ſanctuary, to make it withal. And they brought yet unto him free-offerings every morning c.

c Which time they choſe as the firſt and beſt part of the day and therefore fitteſt for Gods ſervice.

4 And all the wiſe-men that wrought all the work of the ſanctuary, came every man from his work which they made.

5 And they ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, The people bring much more than enough, for the ſervice of the work which the LORD hath commanded to make.

6 And Moſes gave commandment, and they cauſed it to be proclaimed throughout the camp, ſaying, Let neither man nor woman d make any more work, for the offering of the ſanctuary: ſo the people were reſtrained from bringing.

d For the women did part of this work as well as the men, See Exod. 35. 25.

7 For the ſtuff they had was ſufficient for all the work to make it, and too much.

8 And every wiſe-hearted man among them that wrought the work of the tabernacle, * made ten curtains of fine twined linen, and blue, and purple, and ſcarlet: with cherubims of cunning work made he them. * chap. 26. 3, 4.

9 The length of one curtain was twenty and eight cubits, and the breadth of one curtain four cubits: the curtains were all of one ſize.

10 And he coupled the five curtains one unto another: and the other five curtains he coupled one unto another.

11 And he made loops of blue on the edge of one curtain, from the ſelvedge in the coupling: likewiſe he made in the uttermoſt ſide of another curtain in the coupling of the ſecond.

12 * Fifty loops made he in one curtain, and fifty loops made he in the edge of the curtain which was in the coupling of the ſecond: the loops held one to another. * chap. 26. 10.

13 And he made fifty taches of gold, and coupled pled the curtains one unto another with the taches. So it became one tabernacle.

14 And he made curtains of goats hair, for the tent over the tabernacle e: eleven curtains he made them.

e (i. e.) For the outward covering of the Tabernacle. See Exod. 35. 11.

15 The length of one curtain was thirty cubits, and four cubits was the breadth of one curtain: the eleven curtains were of one size.

16 And he coupled five curtains by themselves, and six curtains by themselves.

17 And he made fifty loops upon the uttermost edge of the curtain in the coupling, and fifty loops made he upon the edge of the curtain which coupleth the second.

18 And he made fifty taches of brass, to couple the tent together that it might be one.

19 And he made a covering for the tent, of rams skins died red, and a covering of badgers skins above that.

20 And he made boards for the tabernacle, of shittim-wood, standing up.

21 The length of a board was ten cubits, and the breadth of a board one cubit and an half.

22 One board had two tenons, equally distant one from another: thus did he make for all the boards of the tabernacle.

23 And he made boards for the tabernacle: twenty boards for the south-side, southward.

24 And fourty sockets of silver he made under the twenty boards: two sockets under one board for his two tenons, and two sockets under another board for his two tenons.

25 And for the other side of the tabernacle, which is toward the north corner, he made twenty boards.

26 And their fourty sockets of silver: two sockets under one board and two sockets under another board.

27 And for the sides of the tabernacle westward, he made six boards.

28 And two boards made he for the corners of the tabernacle in the two sides.

†Heb. twinned. 29 And they were † coupled beneath, and coupled together at the head thereof, to one ring: thus he did to both of them in both the corners.

30 And there were eight boards, and their sockets were sixteen sockets of silver: † under every board two sockets.

†Heb. two sockets, two sockets under one board.

31 And he made * bars of shittim-wood: five for the boards of the one side of the tabernacle.

*chap. 25. 28. and 30. 5.

32 And five bars for the boards of the other side of the tabernacle, and five bars for the boards of the tabernacle for the sides westward.

33 And he made the middle bar to shoot through the boards from the one end to the other.

34 And he overlaid the boards with gold, and made their rings of gold to be places for the bars, and overlaid the bars with gold.

*chap. 26. 31. 35 And he made * a vail f of blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine twined linen: with cherubims made he it of cunning work.

f To wit, the second vail, which separated between the Holy place, and the Holy of Holies, because the first vail is described, ver. 37.

36 And he made thereunto four pillars of shittim-wood, and overlaid them with gold: their hooks were of gold: and he cast for them four sockets of silver.

*chap. 26. 36. 37 And he made an * hanging for the tabernacle door g of blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine twined linen † of needle work.

†Heb. the work of a needle-worker or embroiderer.

g Which divided the Holy place from the Court.

38 And the five pillars of it with their hooks: and he overlaid their chapiters, and their fillets with gold h, but their five sockets were of brass.

h Whereas the pillars are said to be overlaid with gold, Exod. 26. 37. That hence appears to be a Synedochical expression, in regard the tops and knobs of the pillars were wholly overlaid with gold, and the rest of the pillars adorned with divers golden girds or hoops: for that place is in all reason to be explained by this as coming after it, and containing the execution of that prescript, and that more particularly than is there expressed.

CHAP. XXXVII.

1 AND Bezaleel made the ark of shittim-wood: * two cubits and an half was the length of it, and a cubit and an half the breadth of it: and a cubit and an half the height of it.

* chap. 25.

2 And he overlaid it with pure gold within and without, and made a crown of gold to it round about.

3 And he cast for it four rings of gold, to be set by the four corners of it: even two rings upon the one side of it, and two rings upon the other side of it.

4 And he made staves of shittim-wood, and overlaid them with gold.

5 And he put the staves into the rings, by the sides of the ark, to bear the ark.

6 And he made the * mercy-seat of pure gold: two cubits and an half was the length thereof, and one cubit and an half the breadth thereof.

* chap. 25.

7 And he made two cherubims of gold, beaten out of one piece made he them, on the two ends of the mercy-seat.

9 And the cherubims spread out their wings on high, and covered with their wings over the mercy-seat, with their faces one to another: even to the mercy-seat-ward were the faces of the cherubims.

10 And he made * the table of shittim-wood: two cubits was the length thereof, and a cubit the breadth thereof, and a cubit and an half the height thereof.

* chap. 25.

11 And he overlaid it with pure gold, and made thereunto a crown of gold round about.

12 Also he made thereunto a border of an hand-breadth round about: and made a crown of gold for the border thereof round about.

13 And he cast for it four rings of gold, and put the rings upon the four corners that were in the four feet thereof.

14 Over against the border were the rings, the places for the staves to bear the table.

15 And he made the staves of shittim-wood, and overlaid them with gold, to bear the table.

16 And he made the vessels which were upon the table, his * dishes, and his spoons, and his bowls, and his covers ‖ to cover withall, of pure gold.

‖Or, to pour withal.

17 And he made the * candlestick of pure gold, of beaten work made he the candlestick, his shaft, and his branch, his bowls, his knops, and his flowers were of the same.

18 And six branches going out of the sides thereof: three branches of the candlestick out of the one side thereof, and three branches of the candlestick out of the other side thereof.

19 Three bowls made after the fashion of almonds in one branch, a knop and a flower: and three bowls made like almonds in another branch, a knop and a flower: so throughout the six branches going out of the candlestick.

† 20 And

20 And in the candleſtick were four bowls made like almonds, his knops, and his flowers;

21 And a knop under two branches of the ſame, and a knop under two branches of the ſame, and a knop under two branches of the ſame, according to the ſix branches going out of it.

22 Their knops and their branches were of the ſame: all of it was one beaten work of pure gold.

23 And he made his ſeven lamps, and his ſnuffers, and his ſnuff-diſhes of pure gold.

24 Of a talent of pure gold made he it, and all the veſſels thereof.

chap. 30. 1. 25 * And he made the incenſe-altar of ſhittim-wood: the length of it was a cubit, and the breadth of it a cubit: (it was fourſquare) and two cubits was the height of it: the horns thereof were of the ſame.

26 And he overlaid it with pure gold, both the top of it, and the ſides thereof round about, and the horns of it: alſo he made unto it a crown of gold round about.

27 And he made two rings of gold for it, under the crown thereof, by the two corners of it, upon the two ſides thereof, to be places for the ſtaves to bear it withal.

28 And he made the ſtaves of ſhittim-wood, and overlaid them with gold.

chap. 30. 25, 35. 29 And he made * the holy anointing oyl, and the pure incenſe of ſweet ſpices, according to the work of the apothecary.

CHAP. XXXVIII.

chap. 27. 1. 1 AND * he made the altar of burnt-offering of ſhittim-wood: five cubits was the length thereof: and five cubits the breadth thereof: (it was fourſquare) and three cubits the height thereof.

2 And he made the horns thereof on the four corners of it: the horns thereof were of the ſame, and he overlaid it with braſs.

3 And he made all the veſſels of the altar, the pots, and the ſhovels, and the baſins, and the fleſh-hooks, and the fire-pans, all the veſſels thereof made he of braſs.

4 And he made for the altar a brazen grate of net-work, under the compaſs thereof, beneath unto the midſt thereof.

5 And he caſt four rings for the four ends of the grate of braſs, to be places for the ſtaves.

6 And he made the ſtaves of ſhittim-wood, and overlaid them with braſs.

7 And he put the ſtaves into the rings on the ſides of the altar, to bear it withal; he made the altar hollow with boards.

a Which as now they are ſometimes made of poliſhed ſteel, ſo antiently were made of poliſhed braſs, as appears both from ſacred and from prophane writers. See Job 37. 18. Plin. 33. 9. &c. b It ſeems to note a company of religious women who in a more peculiar manner devoted themſelves to the ſervice of God in or about his Tabernacle, by Faſting, Prayer, &c. See 1 Sam. 2, 22. and Luk. 2. 37. And whereas ſome object, that the Tabernacle was not yet built, it may be replied, either that this is to be underſtood of the Tabernacle, ſpoken of Exod. 33. 7. which might ſerve for that purpoſe till this was built, or that here is a prolepſis or anticipation, and that he ſpeaks not of what the women now did, but of what they did after the Tabernacle was built, which was before Moſes writ theſe words.

* chap. 27. 9. 9 And he made * the court: on the ſouth-ſide ſouth-ward, the hangings of the court were of fine twined linen an hundred cubits.

10 Their pillars were twenty, and their brazen ſockets twenty: the hooks c of the pillars and their fillets were of ſilver.

c Upon which they hanged the beaſts to be ſacrificed, as the Jews affirm.

11 And for the north-ſide, the hangings were an hundred cubits, their pillars were twenty, and their ſockets of braſs twenty: the hooks of the pillars, and their fillets of ſilver.

12 And for the weſt-ſide were hangings of fifty cubits, their pillars ten, and their ſockets ten: the hooks of the pillars, and their fillets of ſilver.

13 And for the eaſt-ſide eaſt-ward fifty cubits.

14 The hangings of the one ſide of the gate were fifteen cubits, their pillars three, and their ſockets three.

15 And for the other ſide of the court-gate on this hand, and that hand, were hangings of fifteen cubits, their pillars three, and their ſockets three.

16 All the hangings of the court round about were of fine twined linen.

17 And the ſockets for the pillars were of braſs, the hooks of the pillars, and their fillets of ſilver, and their overlaying of the chapiters of ſilver, and all the pillars of the court were filletted with ſilver.

18 And the hanging for the gate of the court was needle-work, of blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine twined linen: and twenty cubits was the length, and the height in the breadth d was five cubits anſwerable to the hangings of the court.

d The height relates to its ſtanding or hanging upright, and the breadth relates to the hanging it ſelf, and the height of the hanging was taken in the breadth.

19 And their pillars were four, and their ſockets of braſs four, their hooks of ſilver, and the overlaying of their chapiters, and their fillets of ſilver.

20 And all the * pins of the tabernacle, and of the court round about were of braſs. * chap. 27. 19.

21 This is the ſum of the tabernacle e, even of the tabernacle of teſtimony, as it was counted, according to the commandment of Moſes, for the ſervice of the Levites f, by the hand of Ithamar ſon to Aaron the Prieſt.

e This doth not belong to the following account of Gold and Silver, but to the foregoing particulars of holy things relating to the Tabernacle, for theſe only were committed to the care of the Levites, as it here follows, but this Gold and Silver was put into other hands. f (i. e.) For thoſe holy uſes and ſervices which the Levites adminiſtred.

22 And Bezaleel the ſon of Uri, the ſon of Hur, of the tribe of Judah, made all that the LORD commanded Moſes.

23 And with him was Aholiab, ſon of Ahiſamach, of the tribe of Dan, an engraver and a cunning workman, and an embroiderer in blue, and in purple, and in ſcarlet, and fine linen.

24 All the gold that was occupied for the work, in all the work of the holy place, even the gold of the offering, was twenty and nine talents g, and ſeven hundred and thirty ſhekels, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary.

g Every talent contained three thouſand ſhekels. See Gen. 23. 15. Exod. 30. 13. It is not ſaid, that all this Gold and following Silver were uſed about the building of the Tabernacle, for the people brought much more than enough, Exod. 36. 5. And theſe remains, it is probable, were put into the ſacred treaſury to be uſed as occaſion ſhould require.

25 And the ſilver of them that were numbred of the congregation was an hundred talents, and a thouſand ſeven hundred and threeſcore and fifteen ſhekels after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary.

28 And of the thousand seven hundred seventy and five shekels, he made hooks for the pillars, and overlaid their chapiters, and filletted them.

29 And the brass of the offering was seventy talents, and two thousand and four hundred shekels.

30 And therewith he made the sockets to the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and the brazen altar, and the brazen grate for it, and all the vessels of the altar.

31 And the sockets of the court round about, and the sockets of the court-gate, and all the pins of the tabernacle, and all the pins of the court round about.

CHAP. XXXIX.

1 AND of the blue, and purple, and scarlet, they made clothes of service, to do ser-
* chap. 31. 10. and 35. 19. vice in the holy place, and * made the holy garments for Aaron, as the LORD commanded Moses.

2 And he made the ephod of gold, blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine twined linen.

3 And they did beat the gold into thin plates, and cut it into wiers, to work it in the blue, and in the purple, and in the scarlet, and in the fine linen with cunning work.

4 They made shoulder-pieces for it, to couple it together: by the two edges was it coupled together.

5 And the curious girdle of his ephod that was upon it was of the same, according to the work thereof, of gold, blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine twined linen, as the LORD commanded Moses.

* chap. 28. 9. 6 * And they wrought onyx-stones inclosed in ouches of gold, graven as signets are graven, with the names of the children of Israel.

7 And he put them on the shoulders of the
* chap. 28. 12. Ephod, that they should be stones for a * memorial to the children of Israel, as the LORD commanded Moses.

8 And he made the breast-plate of cunning work like the work of the ephod, of gold, blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine twined linen.

9 It was foursquare, they made the breast-plate double: a span was the length thereof, and a span the breadth thereof being doubled.

10 And they set it in four rows of stones: the ‖ Or, Ruby. first row was a ‖ Sardius, a Topaz, and a Carbuncle: this was the first row.

11 And the second row an Emerauld, a Saphir, and a Diamond.

12 And the third row a Ligure, an Agate, and an Amethyst.

13 And the fourth row a Beryl, an Onyx, and a Jasper: they were inclosed in ouches of gold in their inclosings.

14 And the stones were according to the names of the children of Israel, twelve according to their names, like the ingravings of a signet, every one with his name according to the twelve Tribes.

15 And they made upon the breast-plate chains at the ends, of wreathen work of pure gold.

16 And they made two ouches of gold, and two gold rings: and put the two rings in the two ends of a breast-plate.

17 And they put the two wreathen chains of gold in the two rings on the ends of the breast-plate.

18 And the two ends of the two wreathen chains they fastned in the two ouches, and put them on the shoulder-pieces of the Ephod before it.

19 And they made two rings of gold, and put them on the two ends of the breast-plate upon the border of it, which was on the side of the Ephod inward.

20 And they made two other golden rings, and put them on the two sides of the Ephod underneath, toward the fore-part of it, over-against the other coupling thereof, above the curious girdle of the Ephod.

21 And they did bind the breast-plate by his rings unto the rings of the Ephod with a lace of blue, that it might be above the curious girdle of the Ephod, and that the breast-plate might not be loosed from the Ephod, as the LORD commanded Moses.

22 And he made the robe of the Ephod of woven work, all of blue.

23 And there was a hole in the midst of the robe, as the hole of an habergeon, with a band round about the hole, that it should not rent.

24 And they made upon the hems of the robe, pomegranates of blue, and purple, and scarlet, and twined linen.

25 And they made * bells of pure gold, and put * chap. 28. 33. the bells between the pomegranates, upon the hem of the robe, round about between the pomegranates.

26 A bell and a pomegranate, a bell and a pomegranate round about the hem of the robe to minister in, as the LORD commanded Moses.

27 And they made coats of fine linen of woven work, for Aaron and for his sons,

28 And a mitre of fine linen, and goodly bonnets of fine linen, and * linen breeches of fine twined * chap. 28. 42. linen,

29 And a girdle of fine twined linen, and blue, and purple, and scarlet of needle-work; as the LORD commanded Moses.

30 And they made the plate of the holy crown of pure gold, and wrote upon it a writing, like to the ingravings of a signet, * HOLINESS TO THE * chap. 28. 36. LORD.

31 And they tied unto it a lace of blue, to fasten it on high upon the mitre, as the LORD commanded Moses.

32 Thus was all the work of the tabernacle of the tent of the congregation finished: and the children of Israel did according to all that the LORD commanded Moses, so did they.

33 And they brought the tabernacle unto Moses, the tent, and all his furniture, his taches, his boards, his bars, and his pillars, and his sockets.

34 And the covering of rams skins died red, and the covering of badgers skins, and the vail of the covering.

35 The ark of the testimony, and the staves thereof, and the mercy-seat,

36 The table and all the vessels thereof, and the shew-bread,

37 The pure candlestick, with the lamps thereof, even with the lamps, to be set in order, and all the vessels thereof, and the oyl for light,

38 And the golden altar, and the anointing oyl, and † the sweet incense, and the hanging for the † Heb. the incense of sweet spices. tabernacle-door.

39 The brazen altar, and his grate of brass, his staves, and all his vessels, the laver, and his feet,

40 The hangings of the court, his pillars, and his sockets, and the hanging for the court-gate, his his cords, and his pins, and all the veſſels of the ſervice of the tabernacle, for the tent of the congregation, 41 The cloaths of ſervice to do ſervice in the holy place, and the holy garments for Aaron the prieſt, and his ſons garments to miniſter in the prieſts office.

42 According to all that the LORD commanded Moſes, ſo the children of Iſrael made all the work.

43 And Moſes did look upon all the work, and behold, they had done it as the LORD had commanded, euen ſo had they done it: and Moſes bleſſed them a.

a (i. e.) Both the people for their liberal contribution, and the workmen for their great care and induſtry.

CHAP. XL.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 On the firſt day of the firſt month a ſhalt thou ſet up the tabernacle of the tent of the congregation.

a To wit, Of the ſecond year after their coming out of Egypt, as is evident.

3 And thou ſhalt put therein the ark of the teſtimony, and cover the ark with the vail.

4 And * thou ſhalt bring in the table, and ſet in order † the things that are to be ſet in order upon it b, and thou ſhalt bring in the candleſtick, and light the lamps thereof.

* chap. 26. 35.
† Heb. the order thereof.

b The veſſels belonging to it, and the ſhew-bread, Exod. 25. 29, 30.

5 And thou ſhalt ſet the altar of gold for the incenſe before the ark of the teſtimony, and put the hanging of the door to the tabernacle.

6 And thou ſhalt ſet the altar of the burnt offering before the door of the tabernacle of the tent c of the congregation.

c (i. e.) The Tabernacle which is covered with a Tent. See Exod. 35 11. Though elſewhere the words, Tabernacle and Tent are promiſcuouſly uſed.

7 And * thou ſhalt ſet the laver between the tent of the congregation and the altar, and ſhalt put water therein.

* chap. 30. 18.

8 And thou ſhalt ſet up the court round about, and hang up the hanging at the court-gate.

9 And thou ſhalt take the anointing oil, and * anoint the tabernacle, and all that is therein, and ſhalt hallow it, and all the veſſels thereof, and it ſhall be holy.

* chap. 30. 26.

10 And thou ſhalt anoint the altar of the burnt-offering, and all his veſſels, and ſanctifie the altar: and * it ſhall be an altar † moſt holy.

* chap. 29. 37.
† Heb. holineſs of holineſſes.

11 And thou ſhalt anoint the laver and his foot, and ſanctifie it.

12 And thou ſhalt bring Aaron and his ſons unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and waſh them with water.

13 And thou ſhalt put upon Aaron the holy garments, and anoint him, and ſanctifie him, that he may miniſter unto me in the prieſts-office.

14 And thou ſhalt bring his ſons, and cloath them with coats.

15 And thou ſhalt anoint them, as thou didſt anoint their father, that they may miniſter unto me in the prieſts office: for their anointing ſhall ſurely be an everlaſting prieſt-hood d, throughout their generations.

d (i. e.) A ſign or ſeal that their Prieſthood ſhall continue as long as their policy laſts, till the coming of the Meſſias. He ſignifies that this unction ſhould be ſufficient for all ſucceeding Prieſts, they ſhould not need to be anointed again, except the ſucceſſive High-prieſts. See Exod. 29. 7, 29. Levit. 4. 3. and 16. 32. and 21. 10.

16 Thus did Moſes: according to all that the LORD commanded him, ſo did he.

17 And it came to paſs in the firſt month, in the ſecond year e, on the firſt day of the month, that the tabernacle was reared up.

e After their coming out of Egypt, Numb. 7, 1.

18 And Moſes reared up the Tabernacle, and faſtned his ſockets, and ſet up the boards thereof, and put in the bars thereof, and reared up his pillars.

19 And he ſpread abroad the tent over the tabernacle, and put the covering of the tent above upon it, as the LORD commanded Moſes.

20 And he took and put * the teſtimony into the ark, and ſet the ſtaves on the ark, and put the mercy-ſeat above upon the ark.

* chap. 25. 16.

21 And he brought the ark into the Tabernacle, and * ſet up the vail of the covering, and covered the ark of the teſtimony, as the LORD commanded Moſes.

* chap. 35. 12.

22 And he put the table in the tent of the congregation upon the ſide of the tabernacle northward without the vail.

23 And he ſet the bread in order upon it before the LORD: as the LORD had commanded Moſes.

24 And he put the candleſtick in the tent of the congregation, over againſt the table, on the ſide of the tabernacle ſouthward.

25 And he lighted the lamps before the LORD; as the LORD commanded Moſes.

26 And he put the golden altar in the tent of the congregation before the vail.

27 And he burnt ſweet incenſe thereon; as the LORD commanded Moſes f.

f This is wiſely and ſeaſonably added, becauſe this was a work peculiar to the Prieſt, and not to be done by Moſes without Gods expreſs command.

28 And he ſet up the hanging at the door of the tabernacle.

29 And he put the altar of burnt-offering by the door of the tabernacle of the tent of the congregation, and offered upon it the burnt-offering, and the meat-offering g; as the LORD commanded Moſes.

g For the conſecration of the Altar, this being the firſt ſacrifice.

30 And he ſet the laver between the tent of the congregation and the altar, and put water there, to waſh with.

31 And Moſes, and Aaron and his ſons, waſhed their hands and their feet thereat.

32 When they went into the tent of the congregation, and when they came near unto the altar, they waſhed; as the LORD commanded Moſes.

33 And he reared up the court round about the tabernacle, and the altar, and ſet up the hanging of the court-gate, ſo Moſes finiſhed the work.

34 * Then a cloud covered the tent of the congregation, and the glory of the LORD h filled the tabernacle.

* Lev. 16. 2. Numb. 9. 15. 1 King. 8. 10. Iſa. 6. 4. Rev. 15. 8.

h (i. e.) The glorious preſence of God, which having been forfeited and loſt, was now returned to them and took its habitation among them.

35 And Moſes was not able to enter into the tent i of the congregation, becauſe the cloud abode thereon, and the glory of the LORD filled the tabernacle.

i Partly becauſe of the extraordinary thickneſs and brightneſs of the Cloud, which both dazzled his eyes and ſtruck him with horrour, as 1 King. 8. 11. and partly becauſe of his great reverence and dread of that eminent and glorious appearance of God,

God, and partly becauſe he was not called to it, as he was not able to go up into the mount till he was called, Exod. 24. 16.

36 And when the cloud was taken up from over the Tabernacle, the children of Iſrael † went onward in all their journeys.

† Heb. journeyed,

37 But if the cloud were not taken up, then they journeyed not, till the day that it was taken up.

38 For the cloud of the LORD was upon the tabernacle by day, and fire k was on it by night, in the ſight of all the houſe of Iſrael, throughout all their journeys.

k The ſame pillar which in the day time was like a cloud, in the night time had the appearance of fire. See Exod. 13. 21.

ON LEVITICUS.

The ARGUMENT.

THis Book, containing the actions of about one Months ſpace, acquainteth us with the Levitical Ceremonies uſed after the Tabernacle was erected, and anointed in the Wilderneſs, and is therefore called Leviticus: It treats of Laws concerning Perſons, and Things unclean, and clean, by infirmity, or accident, as alſo Purifiings in general once a year, and divers particular Cleanſings, with a brief Repetition of divers Laws, Chap. 19. together with certain Feaſts, of Seven years Reſt, of the Jubilee, and the Redemption of things conſecrated to God, &c. but eſpecially of ſuch Ceremonies, as were uſed about Offerings, and Sacrifices, which were both expiatory, for Treſpaſſes, wittingly or unwittingly committed, whether by the People or the Prieſts; and alſo Euchariſtical, in the owning of Gods Bleſſings, here are declared alſo Laws for the Regulating of theſe, and preſcribing the lawful time for Marriages; here is ſet down how ſeveral abominable Sins are puniſhable by the Magiſtrate, and how theſe things are to be managed by certain Perſons appropriated to the Tribe of Levi, whoſe Office is confirmed from Heaven, and the Male-adminiſtration of it threatned, and the Judgment particularly inflicted on Nadab and Abihu for an Example; here are alſo Bleſſings, Promiſes, and Threatnings, to the Obſervers, or Breakers of this Law.

CHAP. I.

1 AND the LORD called unto Moſes a, and ſpake unto him out of the tabernacle of the congregation b ſaying.

a Who ſtood without, Exod. 40. 35. waiting for Gods call. b From the mercy-ſeat in the Tabernacle.

2 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, * If any man of you bring an offering c unto the LORD, ye ſhall bring your offering of the cattle, even of the herd, and of the flock d.

* chap. 22. 18.

c There are divers kinds of ſacrifices here preſcribed, ſome by way of acknowledgement to God for mercies either deſired or received: Others by way of ſatisfaction to God for mens ſins: Others were mere exerciſes of piety and devotion. And the reaſon why there are ſo many kinds of them was partly reſpect to the childiſh eſtate of the Jews, who by the cuſtom of nations and their own natural inclinations were much addicted to outward rites and ceremonies, that they might have full employment of that kind in Gods ſervice and thereby be kept from temptations to Idolatry; and partly to repreſent as well the ſeveral perfections of Chriſt the true ſacrifice and the various benefits of his death, as the ſeveral duties which men owe to their creator and redeemer, all which could not be ſo well expreſſed by one ſort of ſacrifices. d Or, of the ſheep: though the Hebrew word contains both ſheep and goats, as appears both from the uſe of the word, Gen. 12. 16. and 27. 9. and 38. 17. and from ver. 10. and other places of Scripture. Now God choſe theſe kinds of creatures for his ſacrifices either 1. In oppoſition to the Egyptian Idolatry, to which divers of the Iſraelites had been uſed and were ſtill in danger of revolting to again, that the frequent deſtruction of theſe creatures might bring ſuch ſilly Deities into contempt. Or 2. becauſe theſe are the fitteſt repreſentations both of Chriſt and of true Chriſtians, as being gentle, and harmleſs, and patient, and moſt uſeful to men. Or 3. as the beſt and moſt profitable creatures, with which it is fit God ſhould be ſerved, and which we ſhould be ready to part with when God requires us to do ſo. Or 4. As things moſt common and obvious, that men might never want a ſacrifice when they needed, or God required it.

3 If his offering be a burnt ſacrifice e of the herd, let him offer a male f without blemiſh g: he ſhall offer it ‖ of his own voluntary will h, at the door of the Tabernacle of the Congregation i before the LORD.

‖ Or, to be accepted for him

Iſa. 56. 7. & 58. 5. & 60. Jer. 6. 20.

e Strictly ſo called, ſuch as was to be all burnt, the skin excepted, Levit. 7. 8. See Gen. 8. 20. and 1 King. 3. 15. For otherwiſe every ſacrifice was burnt, more or leſs. Theſe ſacrifices did partly ſignifie, that the whole man, in whoſe ſtead the ſacrifice was offered, was to be intirely and unreſervedly offered or devoted to Gods ſervice; and that the whole man did deſerve to be utterly conſumed, if God ſhould deal ſeverely with him; and directed us to ſerve the Lord with all ſingleneſs of heart without ſelf-ends, and to be ready to offer to God even ſuch ſacrifices or ſervices wherein we our ſelves ſhould have no part nor benefit. f As being more perfect than the female, Mal. 1. 14. and more truly repreſenting Chriſt. g Of which ſee Exod. 29. 1. Levit. 22. 22, &c. To ſignifie, 1. that God ſhould be ſerved with the beſt of every kind. 2. That man, repreſented by theſe ſacrifices, ſhould aim at all purity and perfection of heart and life, and that Chriſtians ſhould one day attain to it, Eph. 5. 27. 3. The ſpotleſs and compleat holineſs of Chriſt, Heb. 9. 13, 14. 1 Pet. 1. 18, 19. and 2. 22. h According to this tranſlation, the place ſpeaks only of free-will offerings, or ſuch as were not preſcribed by God to be offered in courſe, but were offered at the pleaſure and by the voluntary devotion of any perſon either by way of ſupplication for any mercy which he needed or deſired, or by way of thankſgiving for any favour or bleſſing received. But it may ſeem improper to reſtrain the rules here given to freewill offerings, which were to be obſerved in other offerings alſo. And the Hebrew word is by the 70, Chaldee, Syr. and Arab. and others rendred to this purpoſe, for his acceptation, or that he may be accepted with God, or that God may be atoned, as it is ver. 4: And ſo this phraſe is uſed, Levit. 23. 11. i In the Court near to the door, where the Altar ſtood, ver. 5. For here it was to be ſacrificed, and here alſo the people might behold the oblation of it. And this further ſignified, that men could have no entrance neither into the earthly tabernacle, the Church, nor into the heavenly venly tabernacle of glory, but by Christ, who is the door, Joh. 10. 7, 9. by whom alone we have access to God.

Exod. 29. 10, 15.

4 * And he shall put his hand k upon the head of the burnt-offering l, and it shall be accepted from him to make atonement for him m.

k (i. e.) Both his hands, Levit. 8. 14, 18. and 16. 21. A common Enallage. l Whereby he signified, 1. That he willingly gave it to the Lord. 2. That he did legally unite himself with it, and judged himself worthy of that death which it suffered in his stead, and that he laid his sins upon it in a ceremonial way, and had an eye to him upon whom God would lay the iniquity of us all, Isa. 53. 6. and that together with it he did freely offer up himself to God. m To wit, ceremonially and sacramentally, as directing his faith and thoughts to that true propitiatory sacrifice which in time was to be offered up for him. See Rom. 3. 25. Heb. 9. 15, 25, 26. And although burnt-offerings were commonly offered by way of thanksgiving, Gen. 8. 20. Psal. 51. 16, 17. yet they were sometimes offered by way of atonement for sin, to wit, for sins in general, as appears from Job 1. 5. but for particular sins there were special sacrifices as we shall see.

5 And he n shall kill the bullock before the LORD: and the Priests Aarons sons shall bring the bloud, and sprinkle the blood round about upon the Altar o that is by the door of the Tabernacle of the Congregation.

n Either 1. the offerer, who is said to do it, to wit, by the Priest: For men are commonly said to do what they cause others to do, as Joh. 4. 1, 2. Or 2. The Priest, as it follows, or the Levite, whose office this was. See Exod. 29. 11. Levit. 8. 15. Numb. 8. 19. 1 Chron. 23. 28, 31. 2 Chron. 30. 16. and 35. 11. o Which was done in a considerable quantity, as may be gathered from Zech. 9. 15. and whereby was signified, 1. That the offerer deserved to have his blood spilt in that manner. 2. That the blood of Christ should be poured forth for sinners, and that That was the only mean of their reconciliation to God and acceptance with him.

6 And he shall slay the burnt-offering p, and cut it into his pieces q.

p Partly for decency, because the sacrifices being as it were Gods food and feast, it was incongruous to offer to God that which men refused to eat; and partly to signifie that the great thing which God required and regarded in men was not their outward appearance, but their inside, and that as he doth see all mens insides, Heb. 4. 13. so he will one day make them visible to others. q To wit, the head, and fat, and inwards and legs, ver. 8, 9.

7 And the sons of Aaron the Priest shall put fire r upon the altar, and lay the wood in order upon the fire.

r Or, dispose the fire, i. e. blow it up, and put it together so as it might be fit for the present work. For the fire there used and allowed came down from heaven, Levit. 9. 24. and was to be carefully preserved there, and all other fire was forbidden, Levit. 10. 1. &c.

8 And the priests Aarons sons shall lay the parts, the head and the fat s in order upon the wood that is in the fire which is upon the Altar.

s All the fat, which was to be separated from the Flesh, and to be put together, to increase the flame, and to consume the other parts of the sacrifice more quickly. Others translate it, the trunck of the body, as distinguished from the head and joints and inward parts.

9 But the inwards and his legs shall he wash t in water, and the Priests shall burn all u on the Altar, to be a burnt-sacrifice, an offering made by fire of a sweet savour x unto the LORD.

t To signifie the universal and perfect purity both of the inwards, or the heart, and of the legs, or ways or actions, which was in Christ, and which should be in all Christians. u Not only the parts, now mentioned, but all the rest, the trunck of the body and the shoulders, as is apparent from the practise or execution of these precepts. x Not in it self, for so it rather caused a stink, but as it represented Christs offering up himself to God as a sweet smelling savour, Eph. 5. 2. and to admonish us of the excellent virtue of Divine institution, without which God values no worship, though never so glorious, and by which even the meanest things are pretious and acceptable to God.

10 And if his offering be of the flocks, namely, of the sheep, or of the goats for a burnt-sacrifice, he shall bring it a male, without blemish.

11 And he shall kill it on the side of the Altar Northward y, before the LORD: and the Priests Aarons sons shall sprinkle his blood round about upon the Altar.

y Here this and other kinds of sacrifices were killed, Levit. 6. 25. and 7. 2. because here seems to have been the largest and most convenient place for that work, the Altar being probably near the middle of the East end of the building, and the entrance being on the South-side: So the Northside was the only vacant place. Besides, this might design the place of Christs death both more generally; to wit, in Jerusalem, which was in the sides of the North, Psal. 48. 2. and more specially, to wit, on Mount Calvary, which was on the North and West side of Jerusalem.

12 And he shall cut it into his pieces with his head and his fat: and the Priest shall lay them in order on the wood that is on the fire which is upon the altar:

13 But he shall wash the inwards, and the legs with water, and the Priest shall bring it all, and burn it upon the altar: it is a burnt-sacrifice, an offering made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the LORD.

14 And if the burnt-sacrifice for his offering to the LORD be of fowles, then he shall bring his offering of * turtle doves, or of young pigeons z. * chap. 5. 7.

z These birds were appointed for the relief of the poor who could not bring better. And these birds are preferred before others, partly because they were easily gotten, and partly because they are fit representations of Christs chastity and meekness or gentleness, for which these birds are remarkable. The Pigeons must be young, because then they are best, but the Turtle-doves are better when they are more grown up, and therefore they are not confined to that age.

15 And the Priest shall bring it unto the altar: and ‖ wring off a his head, and burn it on the altar: and the blood thereof shall be wrung out † at the side of the altar. ‖ Or, pinch off the head with the nail. † Heb. upon the wall.

a To wit, from the rest of the body, as sufficiently appears because this was to be burnt by it self, as it here follows, and the body afterwards, ver. 17. And whereas it is said, Levit. 5. 8. he shall——wring his head from his neck, but shall not divide it asunder, that is spoken not of the burnt-offering, as here, but of the sin-offering, in which there might be a differing rite.

16 And he shall pluck away his crop with ‖ his feathers b, and cast it beside the altar on the East part c; by the place of the ashes d. ‖ Or, the filth thereof.

b Or, with its dung or filth, to wit contained in the crop and in the guts. c To wit, of the Tabernacle. Here the filth was cast, because this was the remotest place from the Holy of Holies, which was in the West-end, to teach us, that impure things and persons should not presume to approach to God, and that they should be banished from his presence. d The place where the ashes fell down and lay, whence they were afterwards removed without the camp. See Levit. 4. 12. and 6. 10, 11. and 8. 17.

17 And he shall cleave it with the wings thereof, but shall not divide it asunder e: and the Priest shall burn it upon the altar, upon the wood that is upon the fire: it is a burnt-sacrifice, an offering made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the LORD.

e Shall cleave the bird thorough the whole length, yet so as not to separate the one side from the other, and so as there may be a wing left on each side. See Gen. 15. 10.

CHAP. II.

1 AND when † any will offer a meat-offering a unto the LORD, his offering shall be of fine flour b: and he shall pour oyl upon it c, and put frankincense thereon d. † Heb. a soul

a This was of two kinds, the one joyned with other offerings, Numb. 15. 4. 7, 10. which was prescribed together with the measure or proportion of it: the other, of which this place speaks, was a distinct and separate offering, and was left to the offerers good will both for the thing, and for the quantity. And the matter of this offering was things without life, as meal, corn, cakes, &c. Now this sort of sacrifices were appointed, 1. because these are things of greatest necessity and benefit to man, and therefore it is meet that God should be served with them them and owned and praiſed as the giver of them. 2. In condeſcenſion to the poor, that they might not want an offering for God, and to ſhew that God would accept even the meaneſt ſervices when offered to him with a ſincere mind. 3. Theſe were neceſſary proviſions for the feaſt which was here to be repreſented to God, and for the uſe of the Prieſts, who were to attend upon theſe holy miniſtrations. b Searched or ſifted, and purged from all bran, it being fit that the beſt things ſhould be offered to the beſt being. c Which may note the graces of the Holy Ghoſt, which are compared to oyl and anointing with it, Pſal. 45. 7. 1 Joh. 2. 20. and which are neceſſary to make any offering acceptable to God. d Which manifeſtly deſigned Chriſts ſatisfaction and interceſſion, which is compared to a ſweet odour, Eph. 5. 2. and to incenſe, Rev. 8. 3.

2 And he ſhall bring it to Aarons ſons the Prieſts: and he e ſhall take thereout his handfull of the flour thereof, and of the oyl thereof with all the frankincenſe thereof, * and the Prieſt ſhall burn the memorial of it f, upon the altar, to be an offering made by fire of a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD.

* chap. 5. 12. & 6. 15.

e (i. e.) That Prieſt to whom he brought it and who is appointed to offer it. f That part thus ſelected and offered, which is called a memorial, either 1. to the offerer, who by offering this part is minded, that the whole of that he brought and of all which he hath of that kind is Gods, to whom this part was paid as a quit-rent or acknowledgment. Or 2. To God, whom (to ſpeak after the manner of men) this did put in mind of his gracious covenant and promiſes of favour and acceptance of the offerer and his offering. See Exod. 30. 16. Levit. 6. 15. Numb. 5. 26.

3 And * the remnant of the meat-offering ſhall be Aarons and his ſons ‖ : it is a * thing moſt holy g of the offerings of the LORD made by fire.

* chap. 7. 6. Eccl. 7. 31. * Numb. 18. 9.

‖ To be eaten by them, Levit. 6. 16. g (i. e.) Moſt Holy, or ſuch as were to be eaten only by the Prieſts, and that only in the Holy place near the Altar. See Levit. 6. 26. and 7. 6, 9. and 21. 22.

4 And if thou bring an oblation of a meat-offering baken in the oven h, it ſhall be an unleavened cake of fine flour mingled with oyl, or unleavened wafers anointed with oyl.

h Made in the Sanctuary for that uſe, as may ſeem from 1 Chron. 23. 28, 29. Ezek. 46. 20.

5 And if thy oblation be a meat-offering baken ‖ in a pan, it ſhall be of fine flour unleavened, mingled with oyl.

‖ Or, on a flat plate or ſlice.

6 Thou ſhalt part it in pieces i, and pour oyl thereon: it is a meat offering.

i Becauſe part of it was offered to God, and part given to the Prieſt.

7 And if thy oblation be a meat-offering baken in the frying pan, it ſhall be made of fine flour with oyl.

8 And thou ſhalt bring the meat-offering that is made of theſe things unto the LORD, and when it is ‖ preſented unto the Prieſt, he ſhall bring it unto the altar.

‖ Or, offered.

9 And the Prieſt ſhall take from the meat-offering * a memorial thereof, and ſhall burn it upon the altar: it is an * offering made by fire of a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD.

* Verſe 2. *Exod. 29. 18.

10 And that which is left of the meat-offering, ſhall be Aarons and his ſons: It is a thing moſt holy, of the offerings of the LORD made by fire.

11 No meat-offering k which he ſhall bring unto the LORD, ſhall be made with leaven l: for ye ſhall burn no leaven, nor any honey m in any offering of the LORD made by fire.

k To wit, which is offered of freewill, for in other offerings it might be uſed, Levit. 7. 13. and 23. 17. l This was forbidden, partly to mind them of their deliverance out of Egypt, when they were forced through haſte to bring away their meal or dough (which was the matter of this oblation) unleavened; partly to ſignifie what Chriſt would be, and what they ſhould be, pure and free from all errour in the faith and worſhip of God, and from all hypocriſie and malice or wickedneſs, all which are ſignified by leaven. Mat. 16. 12. Mark 8. 15. Luk. 12. 1. 1 Cor. 5. 8. Gal. 5. 9. m Either 1. becauſe it hath the ſame effect with leaven in paſte or dough, making it ſower and ſwelling. Or 2. In oppoſition to the ſacrifices of the Gentiles, in which the uſe of hony was moſt frequent; Or 3. To teach us, that Gods worſhip is not to be governed by mens fancies and appetites, to which hony might have been grateful, but by Gods will. The Jews conceive, that under the name of hony all ſweet fruits, as figs, dates, &c. are contained and forbidden.

12 As for the oblation ‖ of the firſt fruits, ye ſhall offer them n unto the LORD, but they ſhall not † be burnt o on the altar for a ſweet ſavour.

‖ Or, of the ſ of the firſt fruits. † Heb. aſce Exod. 27.

n Or, The offering, or For the offering of the firſt-fruits you ſhall or may offer them, or either of them, to wit, leaven or hony, which were offered and accepted in that caſe, Levit. 23. 17. 2 Chron. 31. 5. o But reſerved for the Prieſts, Numb. 18. 13. Deut. 18. 4.

13 And every oblation of thy meat-offering * ſhalt thou ſeaſon with ſalt p, neither ſhalt thou ſuffer the ſalt of the covenant of thy God q to be lacking from thy meat-offering: with all thine offerings r thou ſhalt offer ſalt.

* Mar. 9. 4

p Either 1. for the decency and conveniency of the feaſt, which God would have here repreſented. Or 2. for the ſignification of that incorruption of mind and ſincerity of grace, which in Scripture is ſignified by ſalt, Mark 9. 49. Col. 4. 6. and which is neceſſary in all them that would offer an acceptable offering to God. Or 3. In teſtimony of that communion which they had with God in theſe exerciſes of his worſhip: ſalt being the great ſymbol of friendſhip in all nations and ages. q So ſalt is called, either 1. Becauſe it fitly repreſented the durableneſs and perpetuity of Gods covenant with them, which is deſigned by ſalt, Numb. 18. 19. 2 Chron. 13. 5. Or 2. Becauſe it was ſo particularly and rigorouſly required as a condition of their covenant with God, this being made abſolutely neceſſary in all their offerings, as it follows, and as the neglect of ſacrifices was a breach of covenant on their part, ſo alſo was the neglect of ſalt in their ſacrifices. r Not theſe only, but all other, as appears from Eccl. 43. 24. Mark 9. 49.

14 And if thou offer a meat-offering of thy firſt-fruits s unto the LORD, thou ſhalt offer for the meat-offering of thy firſt-fruits, green ears of corn dried by the fire, even corn beaten out of full ears.

s To wit, of thine own free-will: for there were other firſt-fruits, and that of ſeveral ſorts, which were preſcribed and the time, quality and proportion of them appointed by God. See Levit. 23. 10.

15 And thou ſhalt put oyl upon it, and lay frankincenſe thereon, it is a meat-offering.

16 And the Prieſt ſhall burn the memorial of it, part of the beaten corn thereof, and part of the oyl thereof, with all the frankincenſe thereof: it is an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

CHAP. III.

1 AND if his oblation be a ſacrifice of peace-offering a, if he offer it of the herd, whether it be a male or female b, he ſhall offer it without blemiſh, before the LORD.

a Which was an offering for peace and proſperity and the favour and bleſſing of God, either 1. obtained, and ſo this was a thank-offering, as Levit. 7. 12, 16. or 2. deſired, and ſo it was a kind of ſupplication to God. as Judg. 20. 26. 1 Chron. 21. 26. b Which were allowed here, though not in burnt-offerings, becauſe thoſe principally reſpected the honour of God, who is to be ſerved with the beſt, but the peace-offerings did primarily reſpect the benefit of the offerer, and therefore the choice was left to himſelf.

2 And * he ſhall lay his hand upon the head of his offering, and kill it at the door of the Tabernacle of the Congregation c: and Aarons ſons the Prieſts ſhall ſprinkle the blood upon the altar round about.

* Exod. 29. 1

c Not on the North-ſide of the Altar, where the burnt-offering was killed, Lev. 1. 11. as alſo the ſin-offering and the treſpaſs-offering, Lev. 6. 25. and 7. 2. but in the very entrance of the court, where the brazen altar ſtood, which place was not ſo holy as the other, as appears both becauſe it was more remote from the Holy of Holies, and becauſe the aſhes of the ſacrifices were to be laid here. And the reaſon of this difference is not obſcure, both becauſe part of this ſacrifice was to be waved by the hands of the offerer, Levit. 7. 30. who might not come into the Court; and becauſe this offering was not ſo Holy as the other, which were to be eaten only by the Prieſt, when part of theſe were eaten by the offerer.

3 And

3 And he shall offer of the sacrifice of the peace-offering, an offering made by fire unto the LORD, * the ‖ fat that covereth the inwards, and all the fat that is upon the inwards.

Exod. 29. 13.

Or, suet.

4 And the two kidneys, and the fat that is on them, which is by the flanks: and the ‖ caul above the liver, with the kidneys, it shall he take away.

Or, midriff over the liver, and over the thighs.

5 And Aarons sons shall burn it on the altar upon the burnt sacrifice d, which is upon the wood that is on the fire: it is an offering made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the LORD.

d Either 1. Upon the remainders of it, which not were burning, or rather 2. after it; for the daily burnt-offering was first to be offered, both as more eminently respecting Gods honour, which ought to be preferred before all things, and as the most solemn and stated sacrifice, which should take place of all voluntary and occasional oblations, and as a sacrifice of an higher nature and use, being for expiation and atonement, without which no peace could be obtained, nor peace-offering offered with acceptance.

6 And if his offering for a sacrifice of peace-offering unto the LORD, be of the flock, male or female, he shall offer it without blemish.

7 If he offer a lamb for his offering, then shall he offer it before the LORD.

8 And he shall lay his hand upon the head of his offering, and kill it before the Tabernacle of the Congregation: and Aarons sons shall sprinkle the blood thereof, round about upon the altar.

9 And he shall offer of the sacrifice of the peace-offering, an offering made by fire unto the LORD: the fat thereof and the whole rump e, it shall he take off hard by the back-bone: and the fat that covereth the inwards, and all the fat that is upon the inwards:

e Which in sheep is fat and sweet, and in these parts was very much larger and better than ours, as is agreed both by antient and modern writers, and therefore was fitly offered to God.

10 And the two kidneys, and the fat that is upon them, which is by the flanks, and the caul above the liver with the kidneys, it shall he take away.

11 And the Priest shall burn f it upon the altar: it is † the food g of the offering made by fire unto the LORD.

Heb. the bread, ver. 16. chap. 21. 6.

f (i. e.) The parts now mentioned, and for the rest, they fell to the Priest, Levit. 7. 31. g (i. e.) The fewel of the fire, or the matter of the offering. It is called food, Heb. bread, to note Gods acceptance of it and delight in it, as men delight in their food.

12 And if his offering be a goat, then he shall offer it before the LORD.

13 And he shall lay his hand upon the head of it, and kill it before the Tabernacle of the Congregation: and the sons of Aaron shall sprinkle the blood thereof upon the altar round about.

14 And he shall offer thereof his offering, even an offering made by fire unto the LORD, the fat that covereth the inwards, and all the fat that is upon the inwards.

15 And the two kidneys and the fat that is upon them, which is by the flanks, and the caul above the liver, with the kidneys, it shall he take away.

16 And the Priest shall burn them g upon the altar: it is the † food of the offering made by fire for a sweet savour. All the fat h is the LORDS.

Heb. bread.

g The parts mentioned, among which the tail is not one, as it was in the sheep, because that in goats is a refuse part. h This is to be limited, 1. To those beasts, which were offered or might be offered in sacrifice, as it is explained and restrained, Levit. 7. 23, 25. 2. To that kind of fat which is here above mentioned and required to be offered, which was separated, or easily separable from the flesh: for the fat which was here and there mixed with the flesh they might eat, Deut. 32. 14. Neh. 8. 10.

17 It shall be a perpetual statute for your generations, throughout all your dwellings i, that ye eat neither fat k, nor * blood l.

* Gen. 9. 4. chap. 7. 23, 26. & 17. 10, 14. Deut. 12. 16. 1 Sam. 14. 33. Ezek. 44. 7.

i Not only at or near the Tabernacle, nor only of those beasts which you actually sacrifice, but also in your several dwellings, and of all that kind of beasts. k This was forbidden, 1 To preserve the reverence of the holy rites, and sacrifices. 2. That they might be taught hereby to acknowledge God as their Lord and the Lord of all the Creatures, who might reserve what he pleased to himself. 3. To exercise them in obedience to God and self-denial and mortification of their appetites, even in those things which probably many of them would much desire. l This was forbidden partly to maintain reverence to God and his worship; partly out of opposition to Idolaters, who used to drink the blood of their sacrifices; partly with respect unto Christs blood, thereby manifestly signified; and partly for moral admonition about avoiding cruelty, &c.

CHAP. IV.

1 AND the LORD spake a unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, * If a soul shall sin a through ignorance b against any of the commandements of the LORD (concerning things which † ought not to be done) c and shall do against any of them d:

* Num. 15. 24.

† Heb shall not be done.

a This must necessarily be understood of more than common sins and daily infirmities, for if every such sin had required an offering, it had not been possible either for most sinners to bear such a charge, or for the altar to receive so many sacrifices, or for the Priests to manage so infinite a work. And for ordinary sins, they were ceremonially expiated by the daily offering, and by that on the great day of atonement, Levit. 16. 30. b Or, errour, either not knowing his fact to be sinful, as appears by comparing, ver. 13, 14. or not considering it, but rashly and unadvisedly falling into sin through the power of some sudden passion or temptation, as the Hebrew word signifies, Psal. 119. 67. Compare Job 19. 4. Psal. 19. 13. The words may be thus rendred, in or about every or any of the commandments of the Lord which should not be done, or, which concern things that should not be done, to wit, in any negative commands. And there is great reason why a sacrifice should be more necessary for these than for other sins, because affirmative precepts do not so strictly and constantly bind men as the negative do, and if a man through ignorance have neglected them, he may yet recover his errour, and fulfil them. d Then he shall offer according to his quality, which is here to be understood, out of the following verses.

3 If the Priest that is anointed e, do sin f according to the sin of the people g, then let him bring for his sin which he hath sinned, * a young bullock h without blemish, unto the LORD for a sin-offering i.

* chap. 9. 2.

e (i. e.) The High-priest, who only was anointed after the first time. See Exod. 29. 7. and 30. 30. and 40. 15. Lev. 10. 7. Numb. 3. 3. His anointing is mentioned, because he was not compleat High-priest till he was anointed. f Either in doctrine or practise, which it is here supposed he may do. And this is noted as a blot and character of imperfection in the Priesthood of the law, whereby the Israelites were directed to expect another and better High-priest, even one who is holy, harmless and separate from sinners, Heb. 7. 26. g In the same manner as any of the people do: which implies that God expected more circumspection and care from him than from the people. But the words may be rendred, to the sin or guilt of the people, which may be mentioned as a reason of the law, and an aggravation of his sin, that by it he commonly brings sin and guilt and punishment upon the people, who are infected or scandalized by his example. h The same sacrifice, which was offered for all the people, to shew how much his sin was aggravated by his quality. i Heb. sin, Which word is oft taken in that sense, as Exod. 29. 14.

4 And he shall bring the bullock unto the door of the Tabernacle of the Congregation before the LORD, and shall lay his hand upon the bullocks head k, and kill the bullock l, before the LORD.

k To testifie both his acknowledgment of his sin, and his faith in Gods promise for the expiation of his sins, through Christ, whom that sacrifice typified. l To wit, by one of the Priests, whom he shall cause to do it, for this Priest is distinguished from the anointed Priest, ver. 5.

5 And the Priest that is anointed shall take of the bullocks bloud, and bring it to the Tabernacle of the congregation m.

m Into

m Into the tabernacle: which was not required nor allowed in any other ſacrifice, poſſibly to ſhew the greatneſs of the High-prieſts ſin, which needed more than ordinary diligence in him and favour from God to expiate it.

6 And the Prieſt ſhall dip his finger in the blood, and ſprinkle of the blood ſeven times n before the LORD, before the vail o of the ſanctuary.

n A number much uſed in Scripture, as a number of perfection; and here preſcribed, either to ſhew that his ſins needed more than ordinary purgation, and more frequent and manifeſt exerciſes of his faith and repentance, both which graces he was obliged to joyn with that ceremonial rite. o To wit, the ſecond vail, dividing between the Holy of Holies, which is generally called by the name here uſed, as Exod. 26. 31, &c. and 35. 12. and 40. 3, 21. Numb. 4. 5.

7 And the prieſt ſhall put ſome of the blood upon the horns of the altar of ſweet incenſe before the LORD, which n is in the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and ſhall pour all the blood o of the bullock at the bottom of the altar of the burnt-offering, which is at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

n Which altar: for the altar of burnt-offerings was without the Tabernacle. o So alſo below ver. 18. 30, 34. to wit, all the reſt, as it is expreſſed Lev. 5. 9. for part was diſpoſed elſewhere.

8 And he ſhall take off from it all the fat of the bullock for the ſin-offering: the fat that covereth the inwards, and all the fat that is upon the inwards,

9 And the two kidneys, and the fat that is upon them, which is by the flanks, and the caul above the liver, with the kidneys, it ſhall he take away,

* chap. 3. 3. 10 * As it was taken off from the bullock of the ſacrifice of peace-offerings: and the Prieſt ſhall burn them upon the altar of the burnt-offering.

* Exod. 29. 14. Numb. 19. 5. 11 * And the ſkin of the bullock, and all his fleſh, with his head and with his legs, and his inwards and his dung, † Heb. to without the camp. † Heb. at the pouring out of the aſhes. 12 Even the whole bullock p ſhall he carry forth q † without the camp r, unto a clean place, where the aſhes are poured out s, and burn him on the wood with fire: † where the aſhes are poured out, ſhall he be burnt.

p So no part of this was to be eaten by the Prieſts, as it was in other ſin-offerings, Levit. 6. 26. The reaſon is plain, becauſe the offerer might not eat of his own ſin-offering, and the Prieſt was the offerer in this caſe, as alſo in the ſin-offering for the whole congregation below ver. 21. of which the prieſt himſelf was a member. q Not himſelf, which would have defiled him, but by another whom he ſhall appoint for that work, as may be gathered from Levit. 16. 27, 28. r To ſignifie, either 1. The horrible and abominable nature of ſin, eſpecially in high and holy perſons, or when it overſpreads a whole people. Or 2. The removing of the guilt and puniſhment of that ſin from the people, and their duty of keeping ſuch wickedneſs out of the camp for time to come. Or 3. That Chriſt ſhould ſuffer without the camp or gate, as he did. See Heb. 13. 11, 12. s For the aſhes, though at firſt they were thrown down near the Altar, Levit. 1. 16. yet afterwards they, together with the filth of the ſacrifices, were carried into a certain place without the camp. See Lev. 6. 10, 11.

* chap. 5. 2, 3, 4. 13 And if the whole Congregation of Iſrael t ſin through ignorance, * and the thing be hid from the eyes of the aſſembly, and they have done ſomewhat againſt any of the commandments of the LORD, concerning things which ſhould not be done, and are guilty:

t The body of the people, or the greater part of them, their rulers concurring with them.

14 When the ſin which they have ſinned againſt it † is known, then the Congregation ſhall offer a young bullock u for the ſin, and bring him before the tabernacle of the congregation.

† Againſt any one of the ſaid commandments. u But if the ſin of the congregation was only the omiſſion of ſome ceremonial duty, a kid of the goats was to be offered, Numb. 15. 24.

15 And the Elders of the Congregation x ſhall lay their hands upon the head of the bullock, before the LORD: and the bullock ſhall be killed before the LORD.

x (i. e.) The Rulers of the people, of whom ſee Exod. 3. 16. and 24. 1. who here acted in the name of all the people, who could not poſſibly perform this act in their own perſons.

16 And the Prieſt that is anointed, ſhall bring of the bullocks blood to the Tabernacle of the congregation.

17 And the Prieſt ſhall dip his finger in ſome of the bloud, and ſprinkle it ſeven times before the LORD, even before the vail.

18 And he ſhall put ſome of the bloud upon the horns of the altar, which is before the LORD y, that is in the tabernacle of the congregation, and ſhall pour out all the blood at the bottom of the altar of burnt-offering, which is at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

y That is, before the Holy of Holies, where the Lord was in a more ſpecial manner preſent, namely, the altar of incenſe, as before ver. 7.

19 And he ſhall take all his fat from him, and burn it upon the altar.

20 And he ſhall do with the bullock as he did * with the bullock for a ſin-offering z, ſo ſhall he do with this: and the Prieſt ſhall make an atonement for them, and it ſhall be forgiven them. * Ver. 3.

z To wit, for the Prieſts ſin-offering, called the firſt bullock, ver. 21.

21 And he ſhall carry forth the bullock, without the camp, and burn him as he burned the firſt bullock: it is a ſin-offering for the congregation.

22 When a Ruler a hath ſinned, and done ſomewhat through ignorance b againſt any of the commandments of the LORD his God, concerning things which ſhould not be done, and is guilty:

a To wit, of the people, or a civil Magiſtrate. b Either not knowing it to be ſin, or not obſerving and conſidering it, till it be done. See before on ver. 2.

23 * Or c if his ſin wherein he hath ſinned, come to his knowledge: he ſhall bring his offering, a kid of the goats, a male without blemiſh. * Or, A c The diſjunctive, or, is here put for the copulative, and, as it is, 1 Cor. 12. 13. and 13. 8. and 15. 11. For it is evident, that he ſpeaks of the ſame perſon, and of the ſame ſin.

24 And he ſhall lay his hand upon the head of the goat, and kill it in the place where they kill the burnt-offering d before the LORD: it is a ſin-offering e.

d So called by way of eminency, to wit, the daily burnt-offering, of which Exod. 29. 38. of which place ſee Lev. 1. 11. e And therefore to be killed where the burnt-offering is killed, as is expreſſed, Lev. 6. 25, and 7. 2. Whereby it is diſtinguiſhed from the peace-offerings, which were killed elſewhere, Lev. 3. 2.

25 And the Prieſt ſhall take of the bloud of the ſin-offering with his finger, and put it upon the horns of the altar of burnt-offering, and ſhall pour out his blood at the bottom of the altar of burnt-offering.

26 And he ſhall burn all his fat upon the altar, as * the fat of the ſacrifice of peace-offerings: and the Prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him, as concerning his ſin, and it ſhall be forgiven him f. * chap. 3.

29 And he shall lay his hand upon the head of the sin-offering, and slay the sin-offering in the place of the burnt-offering.

it upon the altar, for a * sweet savour unto the LORD; and the Priest shall make an atonement for him, and it shall be forgiven him.

32 And if he bring a lamb for a sin-offering, he shall bring it a female without blemish.

33 And he i shall lay his hand upon the head of the sin-offering, and slay k it for a sin-offering in the place where they kill the burnt-offering.

i To wit, the Offerer. k Not by himself, but by the hands of the Priest.

34 And the Priest shall take of the blood of the sin-offering with his finger: and put it upon the horns of the altar of burnt-offering, and shall pour out all the blood thereof at the bottom of the altar.

35 And he shall take away all the fat thereof, as the fat of the lamb is taken away from the sacrifice of the peace-offerings: and the Priest shall burn them l upon the altar, according to the offerings made by fire m unto the LORD; and the Priest shall make an atonement for his sin that he hath committed, and it shall be forgiven him.

l (i. e.) The fat, but he useth the plural number, because the fat was of several kinds, as we saw ver. 8, 9. m Heb. upon them, together with them, or after them, because the burnt-offerings were to have the first place. See on chap. 3. 5.

CHAP. V.

‖ Or, adjuration.

1. AND if a soul sin, and a hear the voice of ‖ swearing b, and is a witness, whether he hath * seen or known c of it; if he do not utter it, then he shall bear his iniquity d.

a And for that is, as that Particle is oft used, as Gen. 13. 15. 1 Chron. 21. 12. compared with 2 Sam. 24. 13. For this declares in particular what the Sin was. b Either, 1. of adjuration upon Oath, when the Judge adjures a Witness to speak the whole Truth; of which see Mat. 26. 63. But this seems too much to narrow the sence, and this and the other Laws both before and after it, speak of private Sins committed through Ignorance. Or, 2. Of false swearing before a Judge. But that is expresly forbidden, Lev. 6. 3. Or rather, 3. Of cursing or blasphemy, or execration, as the word commonly signifies; and that either, 1. against ones Neighbour, as 2 Sam. 16. 7. or, 2. against God, as Levit. 24. 10, 11. which may seem to be principally intended here, because the Crime here spoken of is of so high a nature, that he who heard it was obliged to reveal it and prosecute the guilty. And though God be not here mentioned, yet the general word is here to be understood of the most famous particular, as it is frequently in all Authors, of which there are many Instances. * Being present, when it it was said. c By sufficient Information from others. d (i. e.) The Punishment of it, as that word is oft used, as Gen. 19. 15. Numb. 18. 1. See of this Phrase Levit. 17. 16. and 20. 20. Isa. 53. 11.

* Chap. 11. 24, 28, 31, 39.

2 Or * if a soul touch any unclean thing e, whether it be a carkass of an unclean beast, or a carkass of unclean cattel, or the carkass of unclean creeping things, and if it be hidden from him f; he also shall be unclean, and guilty g:

e To wit, ceremonially. Of which see more fully, chap. 11. &c. and Deut. 14. f If he do it unwittingly, yet that would not excuse him, because he should have been more diligent and circumspect to avoid all unclean things. Hereby God designed to awaken Men to Watchfulness against, and Repentance for their unknown or unobserved Sins. See Psal. 19. 13. 1 John 3. 20. g Not morally, for the Conscience was not directly polluted by these things, Mat. 15. 11, 18. but ceremonially.

* Chap. 12. and 13. and 15.

3 Or if he touch the * uncleanness of man, whatsoever uncleanness it be that a man shall be defiled withal: and it be hid from him, when he knoweth of it h, then he shall be guilty i.

h As soon as he knoweth it, he must not delay to make his Peace with God. And though it was Sin before, though not known, yet the knowledge of it made it worse, and therefore required the more speedy Repentance. i Not only ceremonially by that touch, but morally for his violation and contempt of God's Authority and Command.

* Psal. 49. 18.

4 Or if a soul swear k, pronouncing with his lips to do evil l, or * to do good m, whatsoever it be that a man shall pronounce with an oath, and it be hid from him n; when he knoweth of it o, then he shall be guilty in one of these p.

k To wit, rashly, without consideration either of God's Law, or his own Power or Right, as David did, 1 Sam. 25. 22. l Either, 1. to himself, to wit, to punish himself, either in his Body, or Estate, or something else which is dear to him. Or rather, 2. to his Neighbour, as 1 Sam. 25. 22. Act. 23. 22. m To wit, to his Neighbour, as Mark 6. 23. when a Man either may not or cannot do it, which may frequently happen. n (i. e.) He did not know, or not consider that what he swore to do was, or would be impossible or unlawful. o When he discovers it to be so, either by his own consideration, or by information from others. p Either in the good or evil which he swore to do.

5 And it shall be when he shall be guilty in one of these things q, that he shall confess r that he hath sinned in that thing.

q In one of the three forementioned cases, either by sinful silence and compliance with others in their Sin, ver. 1. or by an unclean touch, as ver. 2, 3. or by rash swearing, ver. 4. r. Before the Lord in the place of publick Worship. And this confession is not to be restrained to the present case, but by a parity of Reason, and comparing of other Scriptures to be extended to other Sacrifices for Sin, to which this was a constant Companion, and as it was signified by the guilty Persons laying his hand upon his Offering, so it is probable it was expressed in words. See Numb. 5. 6, 7.

6 And he shall bring his trespass-offering ‖ unto the LORD for his sin which he hath sinned, a female s from the flock, a lamb or a kid of the goats, for a sin-offering: and the Priest shall make an atonement for him concerning his sin.

‖ Quest. How comes Confession and a Sacrifice to be necessary for him that touched an unclean thing, when such Persons were cleansed with simple washing, as appears from Levit. 11. and Numb. 19? Ans. This place speaks of him that being so unclean did come into the Tabernacle, as may be gathered by comparing this place with Numb. 19. 13. which if any Man did, knowing himself to be unclean, which was the case there, he was to be cut off for it; and if he did it ignorantly, which is the case here ver. 2. he was upon discovery of it to offer this Sacrifice. Interpreters dispute much what the difference is between Sins and Trespasses, and between Sin-offerings and Trespass-offerings. Some make the one for omissions, the other for commissions; the one for greater, the other for lesser Sins; the one for known Sins, the other for Sins of Ignorance. In all which there seems to be more curiosity than solidity. Either they seem to be the same, as may be gathered from ver. 6. where those two words, asham, and chata, which they so carefully and critically distinguish, are both used concerning the Trespass-offerings, and from ver. 9. or the difference may be this, that Sin-offerings were more indefinite or general, being for any particular Sin, and Trespass-offrings more restrained and particular, for such Sins as were more scandalous and injurious, either to God by Blasphemy, as ver. 1. or to his Sanctuary, by approaching to it in ones uncleanness, ver. 2, 3. as hath been now said; or to ones Neighbour, by swearing to do to them either the good which we afterwards cannot or do not, or the evil which we should not; or to the Priests and holy things of God, ver. 15. s Because those Sins were less than others, as being committed ignorantly or unwittingly, and therefore God would accept a meaner Sacrifice for them.

* Chap. 14. 21 † Heb. his hand cannot reach to the sufficiency of a lamb.

7 And * if † he be not able t to bring a lamb, then he shall bring for his trespass which he hath committed, two turtle doves, or two young young pigeons u unto the LORD; one for a sin-offering x, and the other for a burnt-offering.

t Through Poverty, as ver. 11. and 25. 26. And this exception was allowed also in other Sin-offerings. u Of which see Levit. 1. 14. x Which was for that particular Sin, and therefore is offered first before the burnt-offering, which was for Sins in general, to teach us not to rest in general Confessions and Repentances for Sin, as Hypocrites commonly do, but distinctly and particularly, as far as we can, to search out and confess and loath and leave our particular Sins, without which God will not accept our other Religious Services. Note that the Burnt-offering was for the expiation of Sin, as well as the Sin-offering, Lev. 1. 4. only that was for Sin in general, and this for particular Sins.

8 And he shall bring them unto the Priest, who shall offer that which is for the sin-offering first, * Chap. 1. 15. and * wring off his head from his neck, but shall not divide it asunder.

9 And he shall sprinkle of the blood of the sin-offering upon the side of the altar, and the rest of the blood shall be wrung out at the bottom of the altar: it is a sin-offering y.

y This is added as the reason why its Blood was so sprinkled and spilt. See Lev. 4. 7, 18, 30, 34.

10 And he shall offer the second for a burnt-offering, according to the ‖ * manner z: and the Priest shall make an atonement for him a for his sin which he had sinned, and it shall be forgiven him.

‖ Or, Ordinance. * Chap. 1. 14.

z Or order appointed by God. a Either declaratively, he shall pronounce him to be pardoned: or typically, with respect to Christ.

11 But if he be not able to bring two turtle doves, or two young pigeons, then he that sinned shall bring for his offering the tenth part of an Ephah b of fine flour for a sin-offering: he shall put no oil upon it, neither shall he put any frankincense thereon c: for it is a sin-offering.

b About a pottle of our Measure. See Exod. 16. 36. c Either to distinguish these from the Meat-offerings, Lev. 2. 1. or as a fit expression of their true sorrow for their Sins, in the sense whereof they were to abstain from things pleasant and delightful: See Numb. 5. 15. or to signifie that by his Sins he deserved to be utterly deprived both of the Oil of Gladness, the Gifts, Graces and Comforts of the Holy Ghost, and of God's gracious acceptance of his Prayers and Sacrifices, which is signified by Incense, Psal. 141. 2. or to teach them how evil a thing Sin was, how hateful to God, and how uncomfortable to themselves.

12 Then shall he bring it to the Priest, and the Priest shall take his handful of it, * even a memorial thereof, and burn it on the altar, * according to to the offerings made by fire unto the LORD: it is a sin-offering.

* Chap. 2. 2. * Chap. 4. 35.

13 And the Priest shall make an atonement for him as touching his sin, that he hath sinned in one of these, and it shall be forgiven him: and the remnant shall be the Priests, as a Meat-offering d.

d As it was in the Meat-offering, where all except one handful fell to the share of the Priests. See Lev. 2. 3. and 7. 9. And this is the rather mentioned here, because in the foregoing Sacrifices, Levit. 4. 3, &c. 13, &c. the Priest had no part reserved for him.

14 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

15 If a soul commit a trespass e, and sin through ignorance f in the holy things of the LORD g: then he shall bring for his trespass unto the LORD, a ram h without blemish out of the flocks, with thy estimation i by shekels of silver, after the * shekel of the sanctuary * for † a trespass-offering.

* Exod. 30. 13. † Heb. a trespass.

e Against the Lord and his Priests. f For if a Man did it knowingly, he was to be cut off, Numb. 15. 30. g In things consecrated to God and to holy Uses, of which see Lev. 22. 2. such as Tithes and First-fruits, or any things due, or devoted, or offered to God, which possibly a Man might either with-hold or employ to some common use. See Exod. 34. 26. Deut. 12. 17, 18. and 15. 19. Jer. 2. 3. h A more chargeable Sacrifice than the former, as the Sin of Sacriledge was greater. i As thou shalt esteem or rate it, thou O Priest, as appears from ver. 16, 18. and Levit. 6. 6. See also Lev. 22. 14. and 27. 2, 3. and at present, thou O Moses, Lev. 27. 3. for he as yet performed the Priests part. And this either, 1. may be referred to the Ram, which was to be of such a Price and Worth as the Priest shall appoint. Or rather, 2. is an additional Charge and Punishment to him, which besides the Ram, he was to pay for the holy thing which he had with-held or abused, so many Shekels of Silver as the Priest should esteem proportionable to it: which was as it were another part or branch of his trespass-offering. * Of which see on Gen. 23. 15.

16 And he shall make amends for the harm that he hath done in the holy thing: and shall * add the fifth part k thereto, and give it unto the Priest: and the Priest shall make an atonement for him with the ram of the trespass-offering, and it shall be forgiven him.

* Chap. 22. 14. & 27. 13, 15, 27. Num. 5. 7.

k So much they were to add to holy things redeemed, Lev. 27. 13, 15, 19.

17 And if a * soul sin and commit any of these things l which are forbidden to be done by the commandments of the LORD, though he wist it not m, yet is he guilty, and shall bear his iniquity.

* Chap. 4. 2. Numb. 5. 6.

l To wit, concerning holy things, of which he is yet speaking, though with some difference and addition as it may seem. The former Law concerns the Alienation of holy Things from the sacred to a common use, and this may concern other miscarriages about holy Things and holy Duties, as may be gathered from ver. 19. where this is said to be a Trespass against the Lord, not in a general sense, for so every Sin was, but in a proper and peculiar sense. m For if he did it knowingly, he must die, Numb. 15. 30.

18 And he shall bring a ram without blemish out of the flock, with thy estimation, for a trespass-offering unto the Priest: and the Priest shall make an atonement for him, concerning his ignorance wherein he erred, and wist it not; and it shall be forgiven him.

19 It is a trespass-offering: he hath certainly trespassed against the LORD.

CHAP. VI.

1 AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 If a soul sin and commit a trespass against the LORD a, and lie unto his neighbour in that which was delivered him to keep b, or in ‖ † fellowship c, or in a thing taken away by violence d, or hath deceived his neighbour e:

‖ Or, in dealing. † Heb. putting of the hand.

a This Sin, though directly committed against Man only, is here emphatically said to be done against the Lord, not only in general, for so every Sin against Man is also against the Lord, whose Image in Man is thereby injured, and whose Law, which obligeth us to Love, and Fidelity, and Justice to other Men, is thereby violated; but in a more special sense, because this was a violation of human Society, whereof God is the Author and President, and Defender; See Numb. 5. 6. and because it was a secret Sin, of which God alone was the Witness and Judge; see Act. 5. 4. and because God's Name was abused in it by Perjury, ver. 3. b To wit, in trust. c Heb. or in putting of the hand. Which may be either, 1. another expression of the same thing immediately going before, which is very frequent in Scripture; and so the sense is, when one Man puts any thing into another Mans hand to keep for him, and when he requires it, to restore it to him. Or, 2. a distinct branch, which seems more probable, and so it belongs to Commerce or Fellowship in trading, which is very usual, when one Man puts any thing into anothers hand, not to keep it, as in the foregoing word or member, but to use and improve it for the common benefit of them both, in which cases of Partnership it is easie for one to deceive the other, and therefore provision is here made against it. And this is called a putting of the hand, because such Agreements and Associations used to be confirmed by giving or joyning their hands together, Jer. 50. 15. Gal. 2. 9. compare Exod. 23. 1. d To wit, secretly; for he seems to speak here of such Sins as could not be proved by witness. e Get any thing from him by Calumny, or Fraud, or Circumvention; for so the word signifies.

3 Or have found that which was lost, and lieth concerning it, and * sweareth falsly f: in any of all these that a Man doeth, sinning therein:

* Numb. 5. 6.

f His Oath being required, seeing there was no other way of discovery left.

4 Then

4 Then it shall be, because he hath sinned, and is guilty g, that he shall restore that which he took violently away, or the thing which he hath deceitfully gotten, or that which was delivered him to keep, or the lost thing which is found:

g This guilt of his being manifested either by his refusing to swear when called to it, as in some of the cases alledged: or by his voluntary confession upon remorse, whereby he reapeth this benefit, that he only restores the Principal without the addition of a fifth part, whereas if he were convicted of his fault, he was to pay double, Exod. 22. 9.

5 Or all that about which he hath sworn falsly: he shall even * restore it in the principal, and shall add the fifth part more thereto, and give it unto him to whom it appertaineth, ‖ † in the day of his trespass-offering h.

* Chap. 5. 16.

‖ Or, in the day of his being found guilty.

† Heb. the day of his trespass.

h It must not be delayed, but restitution to Man must accompany Repentance towards God. Compare Mat. 5. 23.

6 And he shall bring his trespass-offering unto the LORD, a ram without blemish out of the * flock, with thy estimation, for a trespass-offering unto the Priest.

* Chap. 5. 15.

7 And the Priest shall make an atonement for him before the LORD: and it shall be forgiven him, for any thing of all that he hath done, in trespassing therein.

8 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

9 Command Aaron and his sons i, saying, This is the Law of the burnt-offering k: (it is the burnt-offering, ‖ because of the burning upon the altar all night, unto the morning l, and the fire of the altar shall be burning in it.)

‖ Or, for the burning.

i Hitherto he hath prescribed the Sacrifices themselves, now he comes to the manner of them. k To wit, of the daily one, of which Exod. 29. 38. Numb. 28. 3. as the following words shew. l The meaning is the Evening burnt-offering was to be so managed and laid on piece after piece, that the Fire might be constantly maintained by it. It is to be understood, that the Offerings were to be kept burning all the day from morning to night also, but he mentions not that, because there was so great a number, and such a constant succession of Sacrifices in the day time, that there needed no Law for feeding and keeping in the Fire then; the only danger was for the night, when other Sacrifices were not offered, but only the Evening-burnt-offering, which if it had been consumed quickly, as the morning Burnt-offering was, there had been danger of the going out of that Fire, which they were commanded diligently and constantly to keep in and maintain, here below, ver. 13.

10 And the Priest shall put on his linen garment m, and his linen breeches shall he put upon his flesh, and take up the ashes which the fire hath consumed n with the burnt-offering on the altar, and he shall put them besides the altar.

m (i. t.) His Linen Coat: Of which see Exod. 28. 39, 40. n The Ashes are said to be consumed improperly, when the wood is consumed into Ashes, as Meal is said to be ground, Esa. 47. 2. when the Corn is ground into Meal; and the naked to be stripped of their clothing, Job 22. 6. when by being stripped they are made naked.

11 And he shall put off his garments, and put on other garments o, and carry forth the ashes without the camp, unto a clean place p.

o Because this was no sacred, but a common work. p Where no dung or filth was laid. See Levit. 4. 12. and compare Levit. 14. 40, 41.

12 And the fire upon the altar shall be burning in it: it shall not be put out q; and the priest shall burn wood on it every morning r, and lay the burnt-offering in order upon it, and he shall burn thereon s * the fat of the peace-offerings.

* Chap. 3. 9, 9, 14.

q The Fire coming down from Heaven, Levit. 9. 24. was to be perpetually preserved, and not suffered to go out, partly that there might be no occasion nor temptation to offer strange Fire, nor to mingle their Inventions with God's Appointments; and partly to teach them whence they were to expect the acceptance of all their Sacrifices, even from the divine Mercy and Grace, signified by the Fire which came down from Heaven, which was an usual token of God's favourable acceptance. See the Notes on Gen. 4. 4, 5. r Though the Evening also be doubtless intended, as it appears from ver. 9. and from the nature of the thing, yet the Morning only is mentioned, because then the Alar was cleansed and the Ashes taken away, and a new Fire made. s (i. t.) Upon the Burnt-offering, which thereby would be sooner consumed, that so way might be made for other Sacrifices, which were many.

13 The fire shall ever be burning upon the altar, it shall never go out.

14 * And this is the law of the meat-offering t: the sons of Aaron shall offer it before the LORD, before the altar.

* Chap. 2. 1. Numb. 15. 4.

t To wit, of that which was offered alone, and that by any of the People, not by the Priest, for then it must have been all burnt. This Law delivered, Levit. 2. is here repeated for the sake of some additions here made to it, as it is a common practice of Law-makers, when they make additional Laws, to recite such Laws to which such Additions belong.

15 And he shall take of it his handful of the flour of the meat-offering, and of the oil thereof, and all the frankincense which is upon the meat-offering, and shall burn it upon the altar, for a sweet savour, even the * memorial of it unto the LORD.

* Chap. 2. 29.

16 And the * remainder thereof shall Aaron and his sons u eat: † with unleavened bread x shall it be eaten in the holy place: * in the court of the tabernacle of the congregation y they shall eat it.

* Chap. 2. 3.

† Heb. It shall be eaten unleavened, chap. 10. 12.

* Chap. 10. 12.

u The Males only might eat these, because they were most holy things; whereas the Daughters of Aaron might eat other holy things, Numb. 18. 11. x Or rather, unleavened, for with is not in the Hebrew, and it disturbs the sense: For since the meat-offering it self was fine Flour, Levit. 2. 1. It is not likely that they eat it with unleavened bread. y In some special room appointed for that purpose. See Levit. 8. 31. 1 Sam. 3. 3. Ezek. 42. 13. and 46. 19, 24. The reason why this was to be eaten only by holy Persons, and that in an holy place, is given ver. 17. because it is most holy, and therefore to be treated with greater Reverence.

17 It z shall not be baken with leaven: * I have given it unto them for their portion of my offerings made by fire: it is * most holy, as is the sin-offering, and as the trespass-offering.

* Numb. 18. 9, 10.

* Chap. 2. 3.

z That part which remains to the Priest: for the part here offered to God seems not to have been baked at all.

18 All the males among the children of Aaron shall eat of it: it shall be a statute for ever in your generations, concerning the offerings of the LORD made by fire: * every one that toucheth them shall be holy a.

* Chap. 22. 4, 5, 6.

a It may be understood either, 1. Of Persons that none should touch, or eat them but consecrated Persons, to wit, Priests. Or this may be an additional Caution, that they who eat them should be not only Priests, or their Male-Children, but also holy, i. e. having no uncleanness upon them, for in that case even the Priests themselves might not touch them. Or rather, 2. Of things, as may be gathered by comparing this with ver. 27, 28. Whatsoever toucheth them, as suppose the Dish that receives them, the Knife, or Spoon, &c. which is used about them, those shall be taken for holy, and not employed for common uses. See Exod. 29. 37.

19 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

20 This is the offering of Aaron, and of his sons, which they shall offer unto the LORD, in the day when he is anointed b: the tenth part of an * Epha of fine flour for a meat-offering perpetual c, half of it in the morning, and half thereof at night d.

* Exod. 16. 36.

b When any of them are anointed for High-Priest, for he only of all the Priests was to be anointed in future Ages. This Law of his Consecration was delivered before Exod. 29. 2, 24, 25. and is here repeated because of some Additions made to it. c To wit, whensoever any of them shall be so anointed. d Or, In the Evening: the one to be annexed to the Morning Sacrifice, the other to the Evening Sacrifice, over and besides that Meat-offering which every day was to be added to the daily Morning and Evening Sacrifices, Exod. 29. 40.

21 In a pan it shall be made with oil, and when it is baken e, thou f shalt bring it in: and the baken pieces of the meat-offering shalt thou offer for a sweet savour unto the LORD.

e Or, Fryed, so that it swells and bubbles up. f Who art so anointed and consecrated, ver. 22.

22 And the Priest of his sons * that is anointed in his stead shall offer it: it is a statute for ever unto the LORD, * it shall be wholly burnt.

* Chap. 4. 3.

* Exod. 29. 25.

23 For every meat-offering for the priest shall be wholly burnt: it shall not be eaten f.

f No part of it shall be eaten by the Priest, as it was when the offering was for the People. The reason of the difference is, partly because when he offered it for the People, he was to have some recompence for his Pains, which he could not expect when he offered it for himself; partly to signifie the Imperfection of the Levitical Priests, who could not bear their own Iniquity; for the Priest eating part of the Peoples Sacrifices, did signifie his typical bearing of the Peoples Iniquity, as appears from Levit. 10. 17. and partly to teach the Priests and Ministers of God, that it is their Duty to serve God with singleness of Heart, and to be content with God's Honour, though they have no present advantage by it.

24 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

25 Speak unto Aaron, and to his sons, saying, This is the Law of the sin-offering: * in the place where the burnt-offering is killed, shall the sin-offering be killed before the LORD: it is most holy.

* Chap. 1. 3, 5, 11. and 4. 24, 29, 33.

* Chap. 21. 22.

26 * The Priest that offereth it for sin g, shall eat it: in the holy place shall it be eaten, in the court of the tabernacle of the congregation.

g For the Sins of the Rulers, or of the People, or any of them, but not for the Sins of the Priest; for then its Blood was brought into the Tabernacle, and therefore it might not be eaten.

‖ Or, whosoever, ver. 18.

27 ‖ Whatsoever shall touch the flesh thereof, shall be holy: * and when there is sprinked of the blood thereof upon any garment h, thou shalt wash that whereon it was sprinkled in the holy place i.

* Of which see the Note on verse 18. h Upon the Priests Garment, for it was he only that sprinkled it, and in so doing he might easily sprinkle his Garments. i Partly out of Reverence to the Blood of Sacrifices, which hereby was kept from a prophane or common touch: and partly that such Garments might be decent and fit for sacred Administrations.

28 But the earthen vessel wherein it is sodden, * shall be broken k: and if it be sodden in a brazen pot, it shall be both scoured, and rinsed in water l.

* Chap. 11. 33.

k Because being full of Pores, the Liquor in which it was sodden might easily sink into it, whereby it was ceremonially holy, and therefore was broken, lest afterwards it should be abused to prophane or common uses. l And not broken, as being of considerable value, which therefore God would not have unnecessarily wasted. And this being of a more solid substance than an earthen Vessel, was not so apt to drink in the humour.

29 All the males among the Priests shall eat thereof: it is most holy.

30 * And no sin-offering m whereof any of the blood is brought into the tabernacle of the congregation to reconcile withal in the holy place, shall be eaten: it shall be burnt in the fire.

* Heb. 13. 11.

m Such were the Sacrifices offered for the High-Priest, or for the whole Assembly, either severally, Levit. 4. 7, 18. or jointly for both in the yearly atonement, Levit. 16. 27, 33.

CHAP. VII.

1 LIkewise * this is the law of the trespass-offering: * it is most holy.

* Chap. 5. & 6.
* Chap. 21. 22.

2 In * the place where they kill the burnt-offering, shall they kill the trespass-offering, and the blood thereof shall he sprinkle round about upon the altar.

* Chap. 1. 3, 5, 11. and 4. 24, 29, 33.

3 And he shall offer of it * all the fat thereof, the rump, and the fat that covereth the inwards,

* Exod. 29. 13. chap. 3. 4, 10. & 4. 8, 9.

4 And the two kidneys, and the fat that is on them which is a by the flanks, and the caul that is above the liver, with the kidneys, it shall he take away.

a Or, and that which is, &c. So this is another fat, as may seem probable from the mention of the several parts, the kidneys, and the flanks. For it seems preposterous after a plain and exact description of the very particular place of the Fat, the kidneys, to add another more dark and doubtful description of it from the flanks. And the Hebrew Writers, whose common practise of these things makes them the best Interpreters of it, make these divers kinds or parts of Fat. And so there is only an Ellipsis of the conjunction copulative, which is Psal. 133. 3. and in many other places, as hath been already shewed.

5 And the Priest shall burn them upon the altar, for an offering made by fire unto the LORD: it is a trespass-offering.

6 * Every male b among the priests shall eat thereof: it shall be eaten in the holy place: it is most holy.

* Num. 18. 9, 10.

b Supposing him not to have any Uncleanness upon him, verse 20. or other Impediment.

7 As the sin-offering is, so is * the trespass-offering c: there is one law for them: the priest that maketh atonement therewith shall have it d.

* Chap. 6. 25.

c To wit, in the matter here following, for in other things they differed. d (i. e.) By a Synecdoche, that part of it which was by God allowed to the Priest. See Levit. 6. 26.

8 And the priest that offereth any mans burnt-offering, even the priest shall have to himself the skin of the burnt-offering which he hath offered.

9 And all * the meat-offering e that is baken in the oven, and all that is dressed in the frying-pan, and ‖ in the pan, shall be the priests that offereth it f.

* Chap. 2. 3, 10.

‖ Or, on the fire plate, or slice.

e Except the part reserved by God, Levit. 2. 2, 9. f Because these were ready dresst and hot, and to be presently eaten; and because the priest who offered it, was in reason to expect, and have something more than his Brethren who laboured not about it; and that he had only in this offering, for the other were equally distributed.

10 And every meat-offering mingled with oil, and dry g, shall all the sons of Aaron have, one as much as another h.

g Without Oil, or Drink-offering, as those Levit. 5. 11. Numb. 5. 15. h The sense may be either, 1. That every Priest shall have equal right to this, when the course of his Ministration comes. But then there was no reason to make so great an alteration of the Phrase, nor to make any distinction of the differing kinds of Meat-offerings, if in both they were to be the Priests that offered them, as is expressed verse 9. and here, as they say, intended. Or rather, 2. That these were to be equally divided among all the Priests. And there was manifest reason for this difference, because these were in greater quantity than the former, and being raw, might more easily and commodiously be divided and reserved for the several Priests, to dress it in that way which each of them best liked.

11 And * this is the law of the sacrifice of peace-offerings which he shall offer unto the LORD.

* Chap. 3. 1. & 22. 18, 21.

12 If he offer it for a thanksgiving i, then he shall offer with the sacrifice of thanksgiving unleavened cakes mingled with oil, and unleavened wafers anointed with oil, and cakes mingled with oil, of fine flour fried.

i For Mercies received. See Levit. 22. 29. 2 Chron. 29. 31. and 33. 16.

13 Besides the cakes, he shall offer for his offering leavened bread k, with the sacrifice of thanksgiving of his peace-offerings l.

k Partly because this was a Sacrifice of another kind than those in which Leaven was forbidden, this being a Sacrifice of thanksgiving for God's Blessings, among which leavened Bread was one; partly to shew that Leaven was not so strictly forbidden in other Sacrifices as if it were evil in it self, but to teach us wholly to rest in the Will of God in all his Appointments without too scrupulous an enquiry into the particular reasons of them. Obj. Leaven was universally forbidden, Lev. 2. 11. Ans. 1. That Prohibition concerned only things offered and burnt upon the Altar, which this Bread was not, but it was offered only towards the Priests Food. 2. That was another kind of Sacrifice, and therefore it is no wonder if it had other Rites. 3. That Leaven was not universally forbidden, appears from Levit. 23. 17. l Or, With the Sacrifice of thanksgiving for his Peace or Prosperity.

14 And of it m he shall offer one out of the whole oblation for an heave-offering n unto the LORD, and it shall be the priests that sprinkleth the blood of the peace-offerings.

m Of it, (i. e.) Either of the Loaves of leavened Bread, mentioned verse 13. or of the offering, one of each part of the whole Oblation, as it follows, it being most probable and agreeable to the Rules and Laws laid down before and afterward, that the Priest should have a share in the unleavened Cakes and Wafers as well as in the leavened Bread. Concerning the heave-offerings. See Exod. 29. 24, 28.

15 And the flesh of the sacrifice of his peace-offerings for thanksgiving shall be eaten n the same day that it is offered: he shall not leave any of it untill the morning.

n By the Priests and Officers, Levit. 22. 30.

* Chap. 19. 5, 6. 16 But * if the sacrifice of his peace-offering be a vow o, or a voluntary offering p, it shall be eaten the same day that he offereth his sacrifice: and on the morrow also the remainder of it shall be eaten q.

o Offered in performance of a Vow, the Man having desired some special favour from God, and vowed the Sacrifice to God if he would grant it. p Which a Man freely offered to God, in testimony of his Faith and Love to God, without any particular injunction from God, or design of his own special advantage thereby. See Levit. 22. 23. Ezek. 46. 12. q Which was not allowed for the Thank-offering. The reason of which difference is to be fetched only from God's good Pleasure and Will, to which he expects our Obedience, though we discern not the reason of his Appointments.

17 But the remainder of the flesh of the sacrifice, on the third day, shall be burnt with fire r.

r That it might neither putrefie, and thereby be exposed to contempt; nor yet be reserved either for superstitious abuse, or for the Priests domestick use, which would savour of Covetousness, and of distrust of God's Care for their future Provisions.

* Chap. 19. 8. 18 * And if any of the flesh of the sacrifice of his peace-offerings be eaten at all on the third day, it shall not be accepted, neither shall it be imputed unto him s that offereth it: it shall be an abomination, and the soul that eateth of it shall bear his iniquity.

s For an acceptable Service to God.

19 And the flesh t, that toucheth any unclean thing u, shall not be eaten: it shall be burnt with fire: and as for the flesh x, all that be clean y shall eat thereof.

t To wit, of the holy Offerings, of which he is here treating, and therefore the general word is to be so limited; for other Flesh one might eat in this case, Deut. 12. 15, 22. u After its Oblation: which might easily happen, as it was conveyed from the Altar to the place where it was eaten: for it was not eaten in the holy place, as appears, because it was eaten by the Priests together with the Offerers, who might not come thither. x (i. e.) The other Flesh, that which shall not be polluted by any unclean touch. y Whether Priests or Offerers, or Guests invited to the Feast. See 1 Sam. 9. 12. and 20. 26. Both the Flesh and the Eaters of it must be clean.

20 But the soul that eateth z of the flesh of the sacrifice of peace-offerings, that pertain unto
* Chap. 15. 3. Gen. 17. 14. the LORD, * having his uncleanness upon him a, even that soul * shall be cut off from his people.

z Knowingly: for if it were done ignorantly, a Sacrifice was accepted for it, Levit. 5. 2. a (i. e.) Not being cleansed from his Uncleanness according to his appointment, Levit. 11. 24, &c. This Verse speaks of Uncleanness from an internal Cause, as by an Issue, &c. for what was from an external Cause is spoken of in the next Verse.

21 Moreover, the soul that shall touch any un-
* Chap. 12. and 13. and 15. * Chap. 11. 24, 28. clean thing, as * the uncleanness of man b, or any * unclean beast, or any abominable unclean thing, and eat of the flesh of the sacrifice of peace-offerings, which pertain unto the LORD: even that soul shall be cut off from his people.

b Or, Of Woman, for the word signifies both, and that there were such things coming from Men or Women, the touch whereof did pollute Men and Things, may be seen Levit. 15. and elsewhere. Others make it an Hypallage, Uncleanness of Man, for a Man of Uncleanness, or, an unclean Man. But that seems not necessary here.

22 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

23 Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, Ye shall eat no manner of fat of ox, or of sheep, or of goat c.

c The general prohibition of eating Fat, Lev. 3. 17. is here explained of, and restrained to those kinds of Creatures which were sacrificed to God.

† Heb. carcass. 24 And the fat of the † beast that dieth of it self, and the fat of that which is torn with beasts d, may be used in any other use: but ye shall in no wise eat of it.

d He speaketh still of the same kinds of Beasts, and sheweth that this Prohibition reacheth not only to the Fat of those Beasts which were offered to God, but also of those that died or were killed at home. And if this seems a superfluous Prohibition concerning the Fat, since the Lean as well as the Fat of such Beasts was forbidden, Levit. 22. 8. it must be noted that that Prohibition reached only to the Priests, verse 4.

25 For whosoever eateth the fat of the beast, of which men offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD, even the soul that eateth it, shall be cut off from his people.

26 * Moreover, ye shall eat no manner of blood, whether it be of fowl, or of beast, in any of your dwellings. * Gen. 9. 4. chap. 3. 17. and 17. 14.

27 Whatsoever soul it be that eateth any manner of blood, even that soul shall be cut off from his people.

28 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

29 Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, He that offereth the sacrifice of his peace-offerings unto the LORD, shall bring e his oblation f unto the LORD g, of the sacrifice of his peace-offerings.

e Not by another, but by himself, as it is explained ver. 30. f (i. e.) Those parts of the Peace-offering, which are in a special manner offered to God, to wit, the Fat, and Breast, and Shoulder, as it follows. g (i. e.) To the Tabernacle, where the Lord was present in a special manner. He shews, that though part of such Offerings might be eaten in any clean place, Levit. 10. 14. yet not till they had been killed and part of them offered to the Lord in the place appointed by him for that purpose.

30 * His own hands shall bring h the offer- * Chap. 3. 3, 4, 13, 14. ings of the LORD made by fire i, the fat with the breast, it shall he bring, that the breast may be waved k for a wave-offering before the LORD.

h After the Beast was killed and the parts of it divided, the Priest was to put the parts mentioned into the hands of the Offerer. See Exod. 29. 22, 23, 24. i So called not strictly, as Burnt-offerings are, because some parts of these were left for the Priest, ver. 31. but more largely, because even these peace-offerings were in part, though not wholly, burnt. k To and fro, by his hands, which were supported and directed by the hands of the Priest.

31 And the priest shall burn the fat upon the altar: but the breast shall be Aarons and his sons l.

l (i. e.) The portion of every succeeding High-priest and his Family: compare Exod. 29. 26.

32 And the right shoulder shall ye give unto the priest for an heave-offering of the sacrifices of your peace-offerings.

33 He among the sons of Aaron that offereth the blood of the peace-offerings, and the fat, shall have the right shoulder for his part.

34 For * the wave-breast and heave-shoulder m * Exod. 29. 28. chap. 10. 14. Numb. 18. 18. Deut. 18. 3. have I taken of the children of Israel, from off the sacrifices of their peace-offerings, and have given them unto Aaron the priest, and unto his sons, by a statute for ever, from among the children of Israel.

m The Breast or Heart is the seat of Wisdom, and the Shoulder of strength for Action, and these two may denote that Wisdom and Vertue, or Power which was in Christ our High-Priest, 1 Cor. 1. 24. and which ought to be in every Priest.

35 This is the portion of the anointing n of Aaron, and of the anointing of his sons, out of the offerings of the LORD made by fire, in the day o when he presented them, to minister unto the LORD in the priest office.

n (i. e.) Of the Priesthood, the Sign put for the thing signified: and the anointing, by a like Figure, is put for the right, or part of the Sacrifices belonging to the Priest by virtue of his anointing, as plainly appears from the words here following, out of the offerings, &c. o This was their Portion appointed them by God in that day, and therefore to be given to them in after Ages. Or, from the day, &c. and thence-forward, the Hebrew Preposition Beth being put for Min, as it is frequently.

36 Which the LORD commanded to be given them of the children of Israel, * in the day that * Exod. 40. 13, 15. chap. 8. 12, 30. he anointed them, by a statute for ever throughout their generations.

37 This is the law of the burnt-offering, of the meat-offering, and of the sin-offering, and of the trespass-offering, and of the consecrations p, and of the sacrifice of the peace-offerings:

p (i. e.) Of the Sacrifice offered at the Consecration of the Priests.

38 Which

38 Which the LORD commanded Moſes in mount Sinai in the day that he commanded the children of Iſrael to offer their oblations unto the LORD, in the wilderneſs of Sinai.

CHAP. VIII.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes a, ſaying,

a This is here premiſed, to ſhew that Moſes did not confer the Prieſthood upon Aaron by virtue of his Relation or Affection to him, but by God's Appointment, which alſo appears from the following ſtory.

* Exod. 29. 1. 2 * Take Aaron and his ſons with him, and *Exod.28.2,4. the * garments, and * the anointing oil, and a *Exod.30.23. bullock for the ſin-offering, and two rams, and a basket of unleavened bread.

3 And gather thou all the congregation b together, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

b The Elders which repreſented all, and as many of the People, as would and could get thither, that all might be witneſſes both of Aaron's Commiſſion from God, and of his work and buſineſs.

4 And Moſes did as the LORD commanded him, and the aſſembly was gathered together unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation,

5 And Moſes ſaid unto the congregation,
* Exod. 29. 4. * This is the thing which the LORD commanded to be done.

6 And Moſes brought Aaron and his ſons, and waſhed them with water.

7 And he put upon him the coat c, and girded him with the girdle, and clothed him with the robe, and put the Ephod upon him, and he girded him with the curious girdle of the Ephod, and bound it unto him therewith.

c The Linen Breeches preſcribed Exod. 28. 42. are not here mentioned, becauſe they were not to be put on at his Conſecration, but afterwards in the execution of his Office.

8 And he put the breaſt-plate upon him: alſo
* Exod.28.30. * he put in the breaſt-plate the Urim and the Thummim.

9 And he put the mitre upon his head: alſo upon the mitre, even upon his forefront did he put
* Exod. 28. 39, &c. the golden plate, the holy Crown *, as the LORD ‖ commanded Moſes.

‖ Of which ſee Exod. 29. 6.

*Exod.30.26. 10 * And Moſes took the anointing oil, and anointed the tabernacle, and all that was therein, and ſanctified them.

11 And he ſprinkled thereof upon the altar ſeven times d, and anointed the altar, and all his veſſels, both the laver e, and his foot, to ſanctifie them.

d To ſignifie the ſingular uſe and holineſs of it, which it was not only to have in it ſelf, but alſo to communicate to all the Sacrifices laid upon it. e Where the Prieſts waſhed themſelves and the Sacrifices, and Veſſels, or Inſtruments of the holy Miniſtration. See Levit. 6. 28.

* Exod. 29. 7. Eccluſ. 45. 15. 12 And he * poured f of the anointing oil upon Aarons head, and anointed him, to ſanctifie him.

f In a plentiful manner, as appears from Pſal. 133. 2. whereas other Perſons and things were only anointed or ſprinkled with it.

* Exod. 29. 8. 13 * And Moſes brought Aarons ſons, and put coats upon them, and girded them with girdles, † Heb. bound. and † put bonnets upon them, as the LORD commanded Moſes.

* Exod. 29. 1, 10. 14 * And he brought the bullock g for the ſin-offering, and Aaron and his ſons laid their hands upon the head of the bullock for the ſin-offering.

g There were indeed ſeven Bullocks to be offered at his Conſecration, one every day, Exod. 29. 35, 36. but here he mentions only one, either by a common Enallage of number, or becauſe he here deſcribes only the work of the firſt day, and leaves the reſt to be gathered from it: of which ſee ver. 33.

15 And he ſlew it, and Moſes took the blood, and put it upon the horns of the altar round about, with his finger, and purified the altar, and poured the blood at the bottom of the altar, and ſanctified it, to make reconciliation upon it.

16 And he took all the fat that was upon the inwards, and the caul above the liver, and the two kidneys, and their fat, and Moſes burned it upon the altar.

17 But the bullock, and his hide h, his fleſh, and his dung, he burnt with fire without the camp, as the LORD * commanded Moſes. * Exod.29.14.

h Which in the offerings for the People was not burnt, but given to the Prieſt.

18 * And he brought the ram for the burnt-offering: and Aaron and his ſons laid their hands upon the head of the ram. * Exod.29.15. * Exod. 30, 35.

19 And he i killed it, and Moſes ſprinkled the blood upon the altar round about.

i Either Moſes, as in the following Clauſe, the Pronoun being put for the Noun; or ſome other Perſon by Moſes his appointment, which may be the reaſon why he is not named here, as he is to the ſprinkling of the blood, which was an action more proper to the Prieſt, and more eſſential to the Sacrifice, as the Learned have obſerved.

20 And he cut the ram into pieces, and Moſes burnt the head, and the pieces, and the fat.

21 And he waſhed the inwards and the legs in water, and Moſes burnt the whole ram upon the altar: It was a burnt-ſacrifice for a ſweet ſavour, and an offering made by fire unto the LORD, * Exod.29.
* as the LORD commanded Moſes.

22 And * he brought the other ram, the ram * Exod.29.

their hands upon the head of the ram.

23 And he ſlew it, and Moſes took of the blood of it, and put it upon the tip k of Aarons right ear, and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot.

k The loweſt and ſofteſt part of the Ear, called the tip, or lap of the Ear. See Exod. 29. 20.

24 And he brought Aarons ſons, and Moſes put of the blood upon the tip of their right ear, and upon the the thumbs of their right hands, and upon the great toes of their right feet: and Moſes ſprinkled the blood upon the altar round about.

25 And he took the fat, and the rump, and all the fat that was upon the inwards, and the caul above the liver, and the two kidneys and their fat, and the right ſhoulder.

26 And out of the basket of unleavened bread, that was before the LORD, he took one unleavened cake, and a cake of oiled bread, and one wafer, and put them upon the fat, and upon the right ſhoulder.

27 And he put all * upon Aarons hands, and * Exod. 29. 24, &c. * Exod. upon his ſons hands, and waved them for a wave-offering before the LORD.

28 And Moſes took them from off their hands, and burnt them on the altar, upon the burnt-offering: they were † conſecrations for a ſweet ſavour: it is an offering made by fire unto the LORD. † Heb. fillings.

29 And Moſes took the breaſt, and waved it for a wave-offering before the LORD: For of the ram of conſecration it was Moſes * part l, as * Exod.29.
the LORD commanded Moſes.

l Who at this time adminiſtring the Prieſts Office, was to receive the Prieſts Wages; it being moſt juſt and reaſonable that the Work and Wages ſhould go together.

30 * And Moſes took of the anointing oil, and of * Exod.30.
the blood which was upon the altar, and ſprinkled it upon Aaron, and upon his garments, and upon his ſons, and upon his ſons garments with him: and ſanctified Aaron, and his garments, and his ſons, and his ſons garments with him. * Chap. Ezra 6.

m That which was left of the Ram, and particularly the Breast, which was said to be Moses his part, ver. 29. and by him was given to Aaron, that he and his Sons might eat of it in token that they, and only they, should have the right to do so for the future.

32 And that which remaineth of the flesh, and of the bread, shall ye burn with fire.

33 And ye shall not go out of the door of the tabernacle of the congregation in seven dayes, untill the dayes of your consecration be at an end: for * seven dayes n shall he o consecrate you.

* Exod. 29. 30, 35.

n In which the same Ceremonies were to be repeated, as the next Verse implies, and other rites to be performed. o Either God; or Moses, for the words may be spoken by Moses either in God's Name or in his own, Moses speaking of himself in the third Person, which is very common in Scripture.

34 As he hath done this day, so the LORD hath commanded to do, to make an atonement for you.

35 Therefore shall ye abide at the door of the congregation day and night seven dayes, and keep the charge of the LORD p, that ye die not q, for so I am commanded.

p What God hath commanded you concerning your Consecration. q If the threatning seem too severe for the fault, it must be considered both that it is the usual practice of Lawgivers most severely to punish the first Offences for the terrour and caution of others, and for the maintenance of their own Authority; and that this Trangression was aggravated by many Circumstances, being committed by sacred and eminent Persons and that in the presence of the People, which made it a publick scandal, and in God's Worship, where he is very tender and jealous, and against a plain and easie Command of God, and at a time when they were receiving high Favours and Priviledges from God. Nor is Sin to be esteemed or measured by the idle Fancies of Men of corrupt Minds and Lives, whose Interests and Lusts easily blind their Minds, but by the Authority, Majesty, and Will of the great, and wise, and just Lawgiver.

36 So Aaron and his sons did all things which the LORD commanded by the hand of Moses.

CHAP. IX.

1 AND it came to pass on the eighth day a, that Moses called Aaron and his sons, and the elders of Israel b.

a To wit, from the first day of his Consecration, or when the seven days of his Consecration were ended, chap. 8. 33, 35. as appears from Exod. 29. 30, &c. Ezek. 43. 27. The eighth day is famous in Scripture for the perfecting and purifying both of Men and Beasts. See Levit. 12. 2, 3. and 14. 8, 9, 10. and 15. 13, 14. and 22. 27. b All the Congregation were called to be witnesses of Aarons Instalment into his Office, to prevent their murmurings and contempt, which being done, the Elders were now sufficient to be Witnesses of Aarons first execution of his Office.

* Exod. 29. 1. 2 And he said unto Aaron, * Take thee a young calf c for a sin-offering d, and a ram for a burnt-offering without blemish, and offer them before the LORD.

c Heb. A Calf the Son of a Bull or Cow: Which may seem to be added purposely to intimate that it was not a young Calf properly so called, but a young Bullock, for that was the Sacrifice enjoyned for the High-Priests Sin-offering, Levit. 4. 3. Though it be not material, if this be a young Calf, and that a young Bull, because the grounds and ends of these several Sacrifices differ, that Levit. 4. being for his particular Sin; and this for his own and Families Sins in general, and therefore no wonder if the Sacrifices also differ. d For himself and his own Sins, which was an evidence of the Imperfection of that Priest-hood, and of the necessity of another and a better.

* Chap. 4. 23. Ezra 6. 17. 3 And unto the children of Israel thou shalt speak, saying, * Take ye a kid of the goats for a sin-offering e; and a calf, and a lamb, both of the first year, without blemish, for a burnt-offering.

e For the People, as it is expressed here ver. 15. for whose Sin a young Bullock was required, Levit. 4. 15. but that was for some particular Sin, but this was more general and indefinite for all their Sins. Besides, there being an Eye here had to the Priest's Consecration and entrance into his Office, it is no wonder if there be some difference in these Sacrifices from those before prescribed.

4 Also a bullock, and a ram, for peace-offerings to sacrifice before the LORD, and a meat-offering mingled with oil: for * to day the LORD will appear f unto you.

* Ver. 23.

f See the fulfilling of this Promise ver. 24. Heb. Hath appeared: He speaks of the thing to come as if it were past, which is frequent in Scripture, to give them the more assurance of the thing.

5 And they brought that which Moses commanded before the tabernacle of the congregation: and all the congregation drew near and stood before the LORD g.

g Before the Tabernacle where God dwelt.

6 And Moses said, This is the thing which the LORD commanded that ye should do: and the glory of the LORD h shall appear unto you.

h The glorious Manifestation of God's powerful and gracious presence, ver. 24. Compare Exod. 24. 16, 17. and 40. 34, 35. Ezek. 43. 2.

7. And Moses said unto Aaron, Go unto the altar and * offer i thy sin-offering, and thy burnt-offering, and make an atonement for thy self, and for the people k: and offer the offering of the people, and make an atonement for them, as the LORD commanded.

* Heb. 5. 3.

i Moses had hitherto sacrificed, but now he resigneth his work to Aaron and actually gives him that Commission which from God he had received for him. k The order is very observable, first for thy self, otherwise thou art unfit to do it for the People. Hereby God would teach us, both the deficiency of this Priesthood, and the absolute necessity of an higher and better Priest, Heb. 7. 26, 27. and how important and needful it is that God's Ministers should be in the Grace and Favour of God themselves; that their Ministrations may be acceptable to God, and profitable to the People.

8 Aaron therefore went unto the altar, and slew the calf of the sin-offering which was for himself.

9. And the sons of Aaron brought the blood unto him, and he dipt his finger in the blood, and put it upon the horns of the altar l, and poured out the blood at the bottom of the altar.

l To wit, of Burnt-offerings, of which alone he speaks both in the foregoing and following words, and the Blood was poured out at the bottom of this Altar only, not of the Altar of Incense, as appears from Lev. 4. 7. where indeed there is mention of putting some of the Blood upon the horns of the Altar of Incense, in this case of the Priests sacrificing for his own Sins. But there seems to be a double difference, 1. That Sacrifice was offered for some particular Sin, this for his Sins indefinitely. 2. There he is supposed to be compleat in his Office, and here he is but entring into his Office, and therefore must prepare and sanctify himself by this offering upon the Brazen Altar in the Court before he can be admitted into the holy Place where the Altar of Incense was. And the like is to be said for the difference between the Sin-offering for the People here, and Lev. 4. 17, 18.

10 But the fat, and the kidneys, and the caul, above the liver of the sin-offering, he burnt m upon the altar, * as the LORD commanded Moses.

* Chap. 4. 8.

m Either, 1. disposed it for the burning, (i. e.) laid it upon the Altar where it was to be burnt by the heavenly fire, ver. 24. Thus Interpreters generally understand the word here, as also ver. 13, 17, 20. by an anticipation: or, the Consequent is put for the Antecedent, of which there are Examples in Scripture. Or, 2. properly burnt by ordinary Fire, which was used and allowed until the Fire came down from Heaven, ver. 24. though afterwards it was forbidden. And if it had not been allowed otherwise, yet this being done by Aaron at the command of Moses, and consequently with God's Approbation, it was unquestionably lawful. And therefore there seems to be no necessity of departing from the proper sense of the word. Add to this, that there is nothing said to be consumed by that heavenly Fire but the burnt-offering, with the Fat belonging to it, namely that Burnt-offering mentioned ver. 16. which therefore is not there said to be burnt, as it is said of the other Burnt-offering, ver. 13. and of the rest of the Sacrifices in their places.

11 And * the flesh and the hide he burnt with fire, without the camp.

* Chap. 4. 11.

12 And he slew the burnt-offering, and Aarons sons presented unto him the blood, which he sprinkled round about upon the Altar.

13 And they presented the burnt-offering unto him, with the pieces thereof, and the head: and he burnt them upon the altar.

14 And

14 And he did wash the inwards and the legs, and burnt them upon the burnt-offering on the altar.

15 And he brought the Peoples offering n, and took the goat which was the sin-offering for the people, and slew it, and offered it for sin, as the first o.

n Which was to be offered for the People, as the former was for himself, ver. 7. o To wit, in like manner as he did that for the Priest, ver. 8. and consequently burnt this as he did the other, ver. 11. for which Moses reproves him, Lev. 10. 17.

16 And he brought the burnt-offering p, and offered it * according to the || manner.

* Chap. 1. 3, 10.
|| Or, ordinance.

p which also was offered for the People, as the last mentioned sin-offering was.

17 And he brought the * meat-offering q, and † took an handful thereof, and burnt it upon the altar * besides the burnt-sacrifice of the morning r.

* Chap. 2. 1, 2.
† Heb. filled his hand out of it.
* Exod. 29. 38.

q Which was always to be added to the Burnt-offering. See Levit. 6. r Which was to be first offered every morning: for God will not have his ordinary and stated Service swallowed up by extraordinary.

18 He slew also the bullock and the ram, for * a sacrifice of peace-offerings, which was for the people: and Aarons sons presented unto him the blood (which he sprinkled upon the altar round about.)

* Chap. 3. 1.

19 And the fat of the bullock and of the ram, the rump, and that which covereth the inwards s, and the kidneys, and the caul above the liver.

s The Fat which covereth the inwards or the Guts. Which words are here understood, as appears by comparing this place with Levit. 3. 3, 9. and 4. 8. and 7. 3. where they are expressed.

20 And they put the fat upon the beasts t, and he burnt the fat upon the altar.

t Which were reserved for the Priest out of the Peace-offerings, which were offered for the People. See Levit. 7. 30, 31, 34.

21 And the breasts, and the right shoulder, Aaron waved for a * wave-offering before the LORD, as Moses commanded.

* Exod. 29. 24, 28.

22 And Aaron lift up his hand u towards the people, and blessed them x, and came down y from offering of the sin-offering, and the burnt-offering, and peace-offerings.

u His right hand, which the Jews say was lifted up highest: or his hands, according to the other reading, which was the usual rite of Blessing. See Luke 24. 50. By this posture he signified both whence he expected the Blessing, and his hearty desire of it for them. x In some such manner, as is related, Numb. 6. 24, &c. though not in the same form, as some suppose, for it is not probable that he used it before God delivered it. And this Blessing was an act of his Priestly Office no less than sacrificing. See Gen. 14. 18, 19. Numb. 6. 23. Deut. 10. 8. and 21. 5. Luke 24. 50. y To wit, from the Altar, whence he is said to come down, either, 1. because the Altar stood upon raised ground to which they went up by an insensible ascent. Compare Exod. 20. 26. Or, 2. because it was nearer the Holy Place, and the Holy of Holies, which was the upper end.

23 And Moses z and Aaron went into the tabernacle of the congregation, and came out, and blessed the people a: and the glory of the LORD b appeared unto all the people.

z Who went in with Aaron to direct him, and to see him perform those parts of his Office which were to be done in the holy Place, about the Lights, and the Table of Shew-bread, and of the Altar of Incense, upon which part of the Blood of the Sacrifices now offered was to be sprinkled according to the Law, Levit. 4. 7, 16, 17. a (i. e.) Prayed to God for his Blessing upon the People, as this Phrase is explained, Numb. 6. 23, &c. and particularly for his gracious Acceptation of these and all succeeding Sacrifices, and for his signification thereof by some extraordinary token, which accordingly happened. b Either a miraculous Brightness shining from the cloudy Pillar, as Exod. 16. 10. Numb. 14. 10. Or a glorious and visible discovery of God's gracious presence and acceptance of the present Ministry and Service, as it follows.

24 And * there came a fire c out from before the LORD d, and consumed upon the altar the burnt-offering, and the fat: which when all the people saw, they shouted e, and fell on their faces.

* Gen. 4. 4.
1 King. 18. 38.
2 Chron. 7. 1.

c In token of God's acceptation and approbation of the Priesthood now instituted, and the Sacrifices now offered, and consequently of others of the like nature. See the like Instances, Judg. 6. 21. and 13. 19, 20. 1 Chron. 21. 26. And this Fire now given was to be carefully kept, and not suffered to go out, Levit. 6. 13. and therefore was carried in a particular Vessel in their Journeys in the Wilderness. d Or, from the face or presence of the Lord, i. e. from the place where God was in a special manner present, either, 1. from Heaven, as 1 King. 18. 38. 2 Chron. 7. 1. which is oft called God's dwelling-place, as Deut. 26. 15. Isa. 63. 15. Or, 2. from the Holy of Holies, where also God is said to dwell, 2 Kings 19. 15. 2 Chron. 6. 2. Psal. 80. 1. And what is done before the Ark, is said to be done before God, as 1 Chron. 13. 8, 10. and 16. 1, &c. And this may seem more probable, by comparing this with Levit. 10. 2. e As wondering at, rejoycing in, and blessing God for, this wonderful and gracious discovery of himself and of his favour to them therein.

CHAP. X.

1 AND * Nadab and Abihu the sons of Aaron, took either of them his censer, and put fire therein, and put incense thereon, and offered strange fire a before the LORD b, which he commanded them not c.

* Numb. 3. 4 and 26. 61. 1 Chron. 24. 2.

a So called, as not appointed for, nor belonging to the present work; Fire not taken from the Altar as it ought, but from some common Fire. b Upon the Altar of Incense. c For seeing Moses himself neither did nor might do any thing in God's Worship without God's Command, which is oft noted of him, for these to do it was a more unpardonable and inexcusable Presumption. Besides, not commanding may be here put for forbidding, as it is Jer. 32. 35. Now as this was forbidden implicitly, Lev. 6. 12. especially when God himself made a Comment upon the Text, and by sending Fire from Heaven declared of what Fire he there spake; so it is more than probable it was forbidden expressly, though that be not here mentioned, nor was it necessary it should be.

2 And there went out fire from the LORD d, and devoured them e, and they died before the LORD.

d From Heaven, or rather from the Sanctuary. See Chap. 9. 24. e Destroyed their Lives: for their Bodies and Garments were not consumed, as it appears from ver. 4, 5. Thus the Sword is said to devour, 2 Sam. 2. 26. Thus Lightning many times kills Persons, without any hurt to their Bodies or Garments.

3 Then Moses said unto Aaron, This is it that the LORD spake f, saying, I will be sanctified g in them that come nigh me h, and before all the people I will be glorified i: and Aaron held his peace k.

f Though the express words be not recorded in Scripture, where only the Heads of Sermons and Discourses are contained, yet it is probable they were uttered by Moses in God's Name. However, the sence and substance of them is in many places. See Exod. 19. 22. and 29. 43. Levit. 8. 35. g This may note, either, 1. their Duty to sanctifie God, i. e. to demean themselves with such Care, and Reverence, and Watchfulness, as becomes the Holiness of the God whom they serve, and of the Worship in which they are engaged: whence he leaves them to gather the Justice of the present Judgment for their gross neglect herein. Or, 2. God's purpose to sanctifie himself, i. e. to declare and manifest himself to be an holy and righteous God, by his severe and impartial Punishment of all Transgressors how near soever they are to him. h (i. e.) Who draw near to me, or to the place where I dwell, and are admitted into the holy place, whence others are shut out. It is a description of the Priests. See Exod. 19. 22. Levit. 21. 17. Ezek. 42. 13, 14. i As they have sinned publickly and scandalously, so I will vindicate my Honour in a publick and exemplary manner, that all Men may learn to give me the Glory of my Soveraignty and Holiness, by an exact conformity to my Laws. k Partly through excessive Grief, which is sometimes signified by Silence, as Isa. 47. 5. Lam. 2. 10. and principally in acknowledgment of God's Justice and Submission to it. Compare Psal. 39. 10. Ezek. 24. 17. He murmured not, nor replied against God, nor against Moses, wisely considering that their Sin was directly against God, and in that which is most dear and honourable in God's account, to wit, in his Worship; and that God's Honour ought to be dearer to him than his Sons; and that this being the first violation of the Law newly given, and committed by those who should have been the strictest Observers and Assertors of it, did deserve a very severe Punishment.

4 And Moses called Mishael and Elzaphan l the sons of Uzziel, the uncle of Aaron *, and said unto them, Come near, carry your brethren m from before the Sanctuary, out of the camp n.

l For Aaron and his Sons had scarce finished their Consecration-work, and were employed in their holy Ministrations, from from which they were not to be called for funeral Solemnities. See Lev. 21. 1, &c. * See Exod. 6. 18. Numb. 3. 19. m (i. e.) Kinſmen, as that word is oft uſed, as Gen. 13. 8. and 24. 27. n Where the burying-places of the Jews were, that the living might neither be annoyed by the unwholſome ſcent of the dead, nor defiled by the touch of their Graves.

5 So they went near, and carried them in their coats o out of the camp, as Moſes had ſaid.

o In the holy Garments wherein they miniſtred, which might be done either, 1. as a Teſtimony of a Reſpect due to them notwithſtanding their preſent failure, and that God in Judgment remembred Mercy, and when he took away their Lives, ſpared their Souls. Or, 2. becauſe being polluted both by their Sin and by the touch of their dead Bodies, God would not have them any more uſed in his Service.

* Num. 6. 6. 6 And Moſes ſaid unto Aaron, and unto Eleazar, and unto Ithamar his Sons, * Uncover not your heads p, neither rend your clothes q, leſt you die, and leſt wrath come upon all the people: but let your brethren, the whole houſe of Iſrael, bewail the burning which the LORD hath kindled r.

p Either, 1. by putting off your Miters and Bonnets, or Ornaments, and going bare-headed, as Mourners ſometimes did. See Levit. 13. 45. Ezek. 24. 17, 23. Or, 2. by ſhaving off the hair of your Heads and Beards, as Mourners did. See Job 1. 20. Jer. 7. 29. and 41. 5. Ezek. 44. 20. Mich. 1. 16. This latter may ſeem to be principally intended, 1. becauſe this Ceremony of uncovering the head, being uſed by the People as well as by the Prieſts in caſe of mourning, as the places now alledged ſhew, and the other Ceremony here joyned with it, of rending the Clothes, being alſo common to the People, ſeems to imply that he ſpeaks not of that uncovering the Head which was peculiar to the Prieſts, but to that which was common both to Prieſts and People, eſpecially ſeeing that which is here forbidden to theſe Prieſts, is in the following words allowed to the People, to bewail their Death, which as at other times it was, ſo now probably might be performed by theſe ſame Ceremonies. 2. Becauſe the High-prieſt is forbidden to uncover his head in way of mourning for the dead, not only at that time when he was in actual Miniſtration, but at all times, even when he had neither his Miter, nor any of the holy Garments upon him, Lev. 21. 10. q Give no ſignification of your Sorrow, mourn not for them, partly, leſt you ſhould ſeem to juſtifie and approve of your Brethren, and tacitly reflect upon God, as too ſevere in his Proceedings with them; and partly, leſt thereby you ſhould be diverted from, or diſturbed in your preſent Service, which God expects ſhould be done chearfully. r Not ſo much in compaſſion to them againſt whom I have ſhewed ſuch great and juſt Indignation, as in ſorrow for the tokens of Divine Diſpleaſure.

7 And ye ſhall not go out from the door of the tabernacle of the congregation ſ, leſt you die: for the anointing oil of the LORD is upon you t: and they did according to the word of Moſes.

ſ Where at this time they were, either becauſe this happened within the 7 days of their Conſecration: See Lev. 8. 35. or becauſe they were longer detained there about ſome other holy Miniſtrations. Though the former may ſeem more probable, becauſe the meat-offering here mentioned, ver. 12. and the ſin-offering, ver. 16. were part of the Conſecration-offerings. t You are Perſons conſecrated peculiar to God's Service, which therefore it is juſt and reaſonable you ſhould prefer before all funeral Solemnities.

8 And the LORD ſpake unto Aaron, ſaying,

* Ezek. 44. 21. 1 Tim. 3. 3. 9 * Do not drink wine nor ſtrong drink u; thou, nor thy ſons with thee, when ye go into the tabernacle of the congregation, leſt ye die: It ſhall be a ſtatute for ever throughout your generations:

u This is here added, either becauſe Nadab and Abihu had been led to their Error by drinking too much, which might eaſily fall out when they were feaſting and full of Joy for their entrance into ſo honourable and profitable an Employment; or at leaſt, becauſe others might thereby be drawn to commit the ſame Miſcarriages, which they might now commit from other Cauſes. Drunkenneſs is ſo odious a Sin in it ſelf, eſpecially in a Miniſter, and moſt of all in the time of his Adminiſtration of ſacred things, that God ſaw fit to prevent all occaſions of it. And hence the Devil, who is God's Ape in his Preſcriptions for his Worſhip, required this abſtinence from his Prieſts in their Idolatrous Services.

* Jer. 15. 19. Ezek. 22. 26. and 44. 23. 10 And that ye may * put difference between holy and unholy x, and between unclean and clean.

x Perſons and Things, which Nadab and Abihu did not, miſtaking unholy or common Fire for that which was ſacred and appointed by God for their uſe.

11 And that ye may teach y the children of Iſrael all the ſtatutes which the LORD hath ſpoken unto them by the hand of Moſes.

y Be apt to teach aright, which drunken Perſons are very unfit to do.

12 And Moſes ſpake unto Aaron, and unto Eleazar, and unto Ithamar his ſons, that were leſt, * Take the meat-offering that remaineth of the offerings of the LORD made by fire, and eat it z without leaven, beſides the altar: for it is * moſt holy.

* Exod. 29. 2. chap. 8. 2. * Chap. 21. 22.

z Moſes repeateth and reinforceth the former Command; partly, leſt their great loſs and grief ſhould cauſe them to forget or neglect their Meat preſcribed them by God, which Abſtinence would have been both a ſignification of their Sorrow which God had forbidden them, and a new Tranſgreſſion of a Divine Precept; and partly, to encourage them to go on in their holy Services, and not to be dejected for the late Severity, as if God would no more accept them, or their Sacrifices.

13 And ye ſhall eat it in the holy place a, becauſe it is thy due b, and thy Sons due of the ſacrifices of the LORD made by fire: for ſo I am commanded.

a In the Court near the Altar of Burnt-offerings. See Lev. 6. 26. b See Lev. 2. 3. and 6. 16, 17.

14 And * the wave-breaſt, and heave-ſhoulder ſhall ye eat in a clean place c, thou, and thy ſons, and thy daughters d with thee: for they be thy due, and thy ſons due, which are given out of the ſacrifice of peace-offerings of the children of Iſrael.

* Exod. 29. 24. chap. 7. 31, 34.

c In any of your dwellings, or any place in the Camp, which he ſuppoſeth to be kept clean from all ceremonial Defilement, as they ought to be, whence the Lepers were put out of the Camp. See Numb. 5. 1, 2, 3. In any place where the Women as well as the Men might come, for the Daughters of the Prieſts might eat theſe as well as their Sons, as it here follows. d To wit, if they were Maids, or Widows, or divorced, Lev. 22. 11, 12, 13.

15 * The heave-ſhoulder and the wave-breaſt ſhall they bring, with the offerings made by fire of the fat, to wave it for a wave-offering before the LORD; and it ſhall be thine, and thy ſons with thee by a ſtatute for ever, as the LORD hath commanded.

* Chap. 7. 29, 30.

16 And Moſes diligently ſought * the goat of the ſin-offering d, and behold it was burnt: and he was angry with Eleazar and Ithamar e the ſons of Aaron which were left alive f, ſaying,

* Chap. 9. 3.

d To wit, for the People, mentioned Levit. 9. 15. to know what was done with that part of it which was the Prieſts. Which he enquired into more than into the other Sacrifices, becauſe a miſtake there was eaſie and probable, becauſe that matter might ſeem ſomething doubtful, by reaſon of two Laws concerning it ſeemingly contrary, the one Lev. 4. 21. where it is to be burned, the other Lev. 6. 26. where it was to be eaten. But they are thus reconciled: It was to be burnt, when the Blood of this Sacrifice was brought into the holy place, Lev. 4. 16, 17. and when that was not done, which Aaron this firſt time could not do, for the reaſon expreſſed on ver. 18. it was to be eaten, and here lay their miſtake. e He ſpares Aaron at this time, as overwhelmed with Sorrow, and becauſe the rebuking of him before his Sons might have expoſed him to ſome Contempt, but he knew that the Reproof, though directed to them, would concern him too, as he alſo apprehended it. f Preſerved from Death when their Brethren were deſtroyed: which is here mentioned as an Aggravation of their Sin.

17 Wherefore have ye not eaten the ſin-offering in the holy place, ſeeing it is moſt holy, and God hath given it you, to bear the iniquity of the congregation g, to make atonement for them before the LORD?

g (i. e.) As a Reward of your Service, and Function, whereby you do expiate, bear and take away their Sins, by offering thoſe Sacrifices and performing thoſe Rites, by which God through Chriſt is reconciled to the penitent and believing Offerers.

18 Behold, the blood of it was not brought in within the Holy place h; ye ſhould indeed have eaten it in the holy place, * as I commanded.

* Chap. 6. 26.

h The reaſon whereof was, becauſe Aaron was not yet admitted into the holy place, whither that Blood ſhould have been brought, till he had prepared the way by the Sacrifices which were to be offered in the Court.

19 And Aaron said unto Moses, Behold, this day have they offered i their sin-offering and their burnt-offering before the LORD: and such things have befallen me k: and if I had eaten the sin-offering to day, should it have been accepted in the sight of the LORD l?

i They have done the substance of the thing, though they have mistaken this one circumstance. k Whereby having been oppressed with Grief, and almost bereft of my Reason, it is not strange nor unpardonable if I have mistaken. l Because it was not to be eaten with Sorrow, but with rejoycing and Thanksgiving, as appears from Deut. 12. 7. and 26. 14. Hos. 9. 4. and I thought it fitter to burn it, as I did other sacred Relicks, than to profane it by eating it unworthily.

20 And when Moses heard that, he was content m.

m He rested satisfied with his Answer, either because he thought it reasonable, seeing the Letter of the Law oft-times yields to Necessities or great Accidents, 2 Chron. 30. 18. Mat. 12. 3, 4. or at least, because the things alledged were mitigations of his Fault, and he would not add Affliction to the afflicted, but rather defer the debate of it to a fitter opportunity.

CHAP. XI.

1 AND the LORD spake unto Moses, and to Aaron a, saying unto them,

From the Laws concerning the Priests, he now comes to those which belong to all the People.

a To both of them, because the cognizance of the following matters belonged to both, the Priest was to direct the People about the things forbidden or allowed, where any Doubt or Difficulty arose, and the Magistrate was to see the direction here given followed.

2 Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, * These are the beasts which ye shall eat b among all the beasts that are on the earth:

* Deut. 14. 4, &c. Act. 10. 12, 14.

b Though every Creature of God be good and pure in it self, as appears from Gen. 1. 31. Mat. 15. 11. Rom. 14. 14. yet it pleased God to make a difference between clean and unclean, and to restrain the use of them, which he did in general, and in part before the Flood, Gen. 7. 2. but more fully and particularly here for many Reasons; as 1. To assert his own Soveraignty over Man and over all the Creatures, which Men may not use but with God's leave, and to inure that stiff-necked People to Obedience. 2. To keep up the Wall of Partition between the Jews and other Nations, which was very useful and necessary for many great and wise purposes. 3. That by bridling their Appetite in things in themselves lawful, and some of them very desirable and delightful for Food, they might be better prepared and enabled to deny themselves in things simply and grosly sinful. 4. For the Preservation of their Health, some of the Creatures forbidden being, though used by the Neighbouring Nations, of unwholsome Nourishment, especially to the Jews, who were very obnoxious to Leprosies, which some of these Meats are apt to produce and foment. 5. For moral Signification, to teach them to abhor that Filthiness, and all those ill Qualities for which some of these Creatures are noted.

3 Whatsoever parteth the hoof, and is cloven-footed c, and cheweth the cud d among the beasts, that shall ye eat.

c To wit, is divided into two parts only, as in the Coney, Swine, &c. whereas the Horse, Camel, &c. have their hoofs entire and undivided. This Clause is added only to explain and limit the former, as appears from ver. 26. for the feet or hoofs of Dogs, Cats, &c. are parted or cloven into many parts. d Heb. and bringeth up the cud, i. e. the Meat once chewed out of the Stomach into the Mouth again, that it may be chewed a second time for better Concoction. And this branch is to be joyned with the former, both Properties being necessary for the allowed Beasts. But the reason hereof must be resolved into the will of the Lawgiver, though Interpreters guess that God would hereby signify their Duties; by the first, that of dividing the Word of God aright, and discerning between good and evil, between God's Institutions and Mens Inventions; and by the latter, that Duty of recalling God's Word to our Minds and serious Meditation upon it.

4 Nevertheless, these shall ye not eat, of them that chew the cud, or of them that divide the hoof: as the camel e, because he cheweth the cud, but divideth not the hoof f, he is unclean unto you.

e An usual Food in Arabia, but yielding bad Nourishment, as Galen notes. f To wit, so as to have his Foot cloven in two, which being expressed ver. 3. is here to be understood. Otherwise the Camels hoof is divided, but it is but a small and imperfect division, as Aristotle and Pliny observe, and Observation shews.

5 And the Cony g, because he cheweth the cud, but divideth not the hoof, he is unclean unto you.

g Some understand by this Hebrew word Shaphan, a Mountain Mouse, which were of a much greater size than ordinary Mice, and were used by the Arabians for Food. But for the names of the following Creatures, seeing the Jews themselves are uncertain and divided about them, I think it improper to trouble the unlearned Reader with Disputes about them, and for the Learned they may have recourse to my Latin Synopsis. I shall therefore take them according to our Translation.

6 And the Hare, because he cheweth the cud, but divideth not the hoof, he is unclean unto you.

7 And * the Swine h, though he divide the hoof, and be cloven-footed, yet he cheweth not the cud: he is * unclean unto you.

* 2 Mac. 6. 18. and 7. 1.
* Isa. 65. 4. and 66. 3, 17.

h Which the Jews would not so much as name, but called it another, or, a strange thing, lest the naming of it should tempt them to eat this Meat which was so commonly used, and so much esteemed by others.

8 Of their flesh shall ye not eat, and their carcase shall ye not touch i: * they are unclean to you.

* See Act. 10. 14, 15. & 11. 9. Rom. 14, 14, 17. 1 Cor. 8. 8.

i To wit, in order to eating, as may be gathered by comparing this with Gen. 3. 3. Col. 2. 21. For since the Fat and the Skins of some of the forbidden Creatures were useful, for medicinal and other good uses, and were used by good Men; see Mat. 3. 4. it is not probable that God would have them cast away. Thus God forbad the making of Images, Exod. 20. not absolutely and universally, but in order to the worshipping of them, as Christian Interpreters agree. Or, they were here forbidden to touch them, to wit, unnecessarily, and if he that touched them for some necessary use were polluted by it, it was but a slight and transient Pollution ending at Evening, as appears from ver. 24, 25, &c.

9 These shall ye eat, of all that are in the waters whatsoever hath fins and scales k in the waters, in the seas, and in the rivers, them shall ye eat.

k To wit, both of them: such fishes being both more cleanly, and more wholsome Food than others. The names of them are not particularly mentioned, partly because most of them wanted Names; the Fishes not being brought to Adam and named by him, as other Creatures were; and partly because the Land of Canaan had not many Rivers, nor great store of Fishes.

10 And all that have not fins nor scales in the seas, and in the rivers, of all that move in the waters, and of any living thing which is in the waters l, they shall be an abomination unto you:

l (i. e.) Either of the smaller sort of Fishes, or of the greater, which are called here living Creatures or Beasts, as some of them are called the Beasts of the Sea by other Authors.

11 They shall be even an abomination unto you m: ye shall not eat of their flesh, but you shall have their carcasses in abomination.

m To wit, for Food. This Clause is added, to shew that they were neither abominable in their own nature, nor for the Food of other Nations, and consequently, when the Partition Wall between Jews and Gentiles was taken away, these distinctions of Meats were to cease. See Acts 10.

12 Whatsoever hath no fins nor scales in the waters, that shall be an abomination unto you.

13 And these are they which ye shall have in abomination among the fowls n, they shall not be eaten, they are an abomination; the Eagle, and the Ossifrage, and the Ospray o.

n The true signification of the following Hebrew words is now lost, as the Jews at this day confess, which not falling out without God's singular Providence, may intimate the cessation or abolition of this Law, the exact observation whereof since Christ came is become impossible. In general, this may be observed, that the Fowls forbidden in Diet, are all either ravenous and cruel, or such as delight in the Night and Darkness, or such as feed upon impure things, and so the signification and reason of these Prohibitions is manifest, to teach Men to abominate all Cruelty or Oppression, and all Works of Darkness and Filthiness. o Which are two peculiar kinds of Eagles, distinct from that which, being the chief of its kind, is called by the name of the whole kind, as it usually happens.

14 And the Vulture, and the Kite after his kind:

15 Every Raven after his kind p:

p (i. e.) According to the several kinds of Birds, known by this general name, which includes, besides Ravens properly so called, Crows, Rooks, Pyes, &c.

16 And the Owl q, and the Night-hawk, and the Cuckow, and the Hawk after his kind:

q Heb. the daughter of the Owl, which he mentions as the best of the kind both for Sex and Age, and therefore more desired for Food than the Elder or Males. And it is hereby implied, that the very youngest and best of all the other kinds are forbidden, and much more the rest.

17 And

17 And the little Owl, and the Cormorant, and the great Owl,

18 And the Swan, and the Pelican, and the Gier-Eagle,

19 And the Stork, the Heron after her kind, and the Lapwing, and the Bat, 20 All fowles that creep r, going upon all four ſ, ſhall be an abomination unto you.

r That crawl or creep upon the Earth, and ſo degenerate from their proper nature, which is to flie, and are of a mungril kind; which may intimate, that Apoſtates and Mungrels in Religion are abominable in the ſight of God, and in Converſation with Men. ſ Upon four Legs, or upon more than four, as Bees, Flies, &c. which is all one to the preſent purpoſe, theſe pluraliſts, for Legs being here oppoſed to thoſe that have but two.

21 Yet theſe may ye eat, of every flying creeping thing that goeth upon all four, which have legs above their feet t, to leap withal upon the earth:

t The truth of this Tranſlation may ſeem evident both from the following Clauſe, to leap withal, and eſpecially from the next Verſe, where one of this kind is the Locuſts, which, as it is manifeſt, have two Legs wherewith they leap, beſides the four Feet upon which they walk. The Adverb Lo is here put for the Pronoun Lo, as it is alſo 1 Chron. 11. 20. compared with 2 Sam. 23. 18. Others take the words as they lie, and read them negatively, which have not legs upon their feet, and ſo the ſence may be this, That they might eat the Locuſts, Graſhoppers, &c. when they were very young, and therefore more wholſome for Food: for they are born without Legs, Plin. nat. Hiſt. 11. 29. or, their Legs at firſt are very ſmall, and ſcarce to be diſcerned, and in effect none. And the Canon of the Jews in this matter is this, Thoſe which yet have not Wings and Legs may be eaten, though they be ſuch as afterward would have them.

* Matth. 3. 4. Mark 1. 6.

22 Even theſe of them ye may eat; * The Locuſt u after his kind, and the Bald-locuſt after his kind, and the Beetle after his kind, and the Graſhopper after his kind:

u Locuſts though unuſual in our Food, were commonly eaten by the Æthiopians, Lybians, Parthians, and other Eaſtern People bordering upon the Jews, which is expreſly affirmed by Diodorus Siculus, Ariſtotle, Pliny, St. Hierom, and others, as well as Mat. 3. 4. And as it is certain that the Eaſtern Locuſts were much larger than ours, ſo it is probable they were of different Qualities, and yielded better Nouriſhment; and the familiar uſe of them made them more agreeable to their Bodies; for even Poiſons themſelves have, by frequent uſe, been made not only harmleſs, but nouriſhing alſo to ſome Perſons.

23 But all other flying creeping things, which have four feet x, ſhall be an abomination unto you.

x (i. e.) All ſuch except thoſe now mentioned, the word other being here underſtood out of the former Verſe, without which there might ſeem to be a contradiction between this and that Verſe. But the words may be, and by the vulgar Latin, are thus rendred, But all flying creeping things which have only four feet; which word only, is to be gathered out of ver. 20, 21. i. e. which have not thoſe Legs above and beſides their Feet mentioned, ver. 21. And ſo all the Verſes agree well together.

24 And for theſe y ye ſhall be unclean: whoſoever toucheth the carcaſe of them, ſhall be unclean until the even z.

y And ſuch were excluded both from the Courts of God's Houſe, and from free Converſation with other Men. z Which poſſibly might ſignifie; that even the ſmalleſt Defilements could not be cleanſed but by the Death of Chriſt, who was to come and offer up himſelf in the evening, or end, or declining Age of the World, as the Prophets ſignifie, and the Apoſtle expreſſeth, Heb. 9. 26.

25 And whoſoever beareth b ought of the carcaſe of them, ſhall waſh his clothes, and be unclean until the even.

b Or, taketh away, out of the place where haply it may lie, by which others may be either offended, or polluted.

26 The carcaſes c of every beaſt which divideth the hoof, and is not cloven-footed, nor cheweth the cud, are unclean unto you: every one that toucheth them, ſhall be unclean.

c Which word is eaſily to be underſtood out of ver. 24 and 25. where it is expreſſed.

27 And whatſoever goeth upon his paws d, among all manner of beaſts, that go on all four, thoſe are unclean unto you: whoſo toucheth their carcaſe, ſhall be unclean until the even.

d Heb. upon his hands; i. e. which hath feet divided into ſeveral parts like Fingers, as Dogs, Cats, Apes, Bears, &c.

28 And he that beareth the carcaſe of them, ſhall waſh his clothes, and be unclean until the even: they are unclean unto you.

29 Theſe alſo ſhall be unclean unto you, among the creeping things that creep upon the earth; the Weaſel, and the * Mouſe, and the Tortois after his kind, * Iſa. 66. 17.

30 And the Ferret, and the Camelion, and the Lyzard, and the Snail, and the Mole.

31 Theſe are unclean to you among all that creep: whoſoever doth touch them when they be dead, ſhall be unclean until the even.

32 And upon whatſoever any of them, when they are dead, doth fall, it ſhall be unclean, whether it be any veſſel of wood, or raiment, or ſkin, or ſack, whatſoever veſſel it be, wherein any work is done, it muſt be put into water, and it ſhall be unclean until the even: ſo it ſhall be cleanſed.

33 And every earthen veſſel, whereinto any of them falleth, whatſoever is in it ſhall be unclean, and * ye ſhall break it. * Chap. 6. 28.

34 Of all meat which may be eaten, that on which ſuch water comith e, ſhall be unclean: And all drink that may be drunk in every ſuch veſſel, ſhall be unclean.

e The meaning is, that Fleſh, or Herbs, or other Food which is dreſſed in Water, to wit, in a Veſſel ſo polluted, ſhall be unclean; not ſo, if it be Food which is eaten dry, as Bread, Fruits, &c. the reaſon of which difference ſeems to be this, that the Water did ſooner receive the Pollution in it ſelf, and convey it to the Food ſo dreſſed.

35 And every thing whereupon any part of their carcaſe falleth, ſhall be unclean, whether it be oven, or ranges for pots, they ſhall be broken down: for they are unclean, and ſhall be unclean unto you.

36 Nevertheleſs, a fountain, or pit, † wherein there is plenty of water f, ſhall be clean: ‖ but that which toucheth their carcaſe ſhall be unclean. † Heb. a gathering together of waters. ‖ Or, he that toucheth.

f Of which no ſolid reaſon can be given, whileſt ſuch unclean things remained in them, but only the Will of the Lawgiver, and his merciful condeſcenſion to Mens Neceſſities, Water being ſcarce in thoſe Countries: and for the ſame reaſon God would have the Ceremonial Law of Sacrifices to be offered to God, give place to the Moral Law of Mercy towards Men.

37 And if any part of their carcaſe fall upon any ſowing ſeed which is to be ſown g, it ſhall be clean.

g Partly becauſe this was neceſſary Proviſion for Man; and partly becauſe ſuch Seed would not be uſed for Mans Food till it had received many alterations in the Earth, whereby ſuch Pollution was taken away. See Joh. 12. 24. 1 Cor. 15. 36.

38 But if any water be put upon the ſeed h, and any part of their carcaſe fall thereon, it ſhall be unclean unto you.

h The reaſon of the difference is, partly becauſe wet Seed doth ſooner receive and longer retain any Pollution; and partly becauſe ſuch Seed was not fit to be ſown preſently, and therefore that neceſſity which juſtified the uſe of the dry Seed which was ſpeedily to be ſown, could not be pretended in this caſe.

39 And if any Beaſt of which ye may eat, die i, he that toucheth the carcaſe thereof, ſhall be unclean until the even.

i Either of it ſelf, or being killed by ſome wild Beaſt, in which caſes the Blood was not poured forth, as it was when they were killed by Men, either for Food or Sacrifice.

40 And * he that eateth of the carcaſe of it k, ſhall waſh his clothes, and be unclean until the even: he alſo that beareth the carcaſe of it, ſhall waſh his clothes, and be unclean until the even. * Chap. 17. 15. & 22. 8. Ezek. 4. 14. & 44. 31.

k To wit, unwittingly; for if he did it knowingly, it was a preſumptuous Sin againſt an expreſs Law, Deut. 14. 21. and therefore puniſhed with cutting off, Numb. 15. 30.

41 And every creeping thing l that creepeth upon the earth, ſhall be an abomination: it ſhall not be eaten.

l Except thoſe before expreſly excepted above, ver. 29, 30.

42 Whatſoever goeth upon the belly m, and whatſoever goeth upon all four n, or whatſoever † hath more feet o, among all creeping things that creep upon the earth, them ye ſhall not eat, for they are an abomination.

† Heb. doth multiply feet.

m As Worms and Snakes. n As Toads and divers Serpents. o To wit, more than four, as Caterpillars, &c.

43 * Ye ſhall not make your † ſelves abominable with any creeping thing that creepeth, neither ſhall ye make your ſelves unclean with them, that ye ſhould be defiled thereby.

* Chap. 20. 25.
† Heb. ſouls.

44 For I am the LORD your God: ye ſhall therefore ſanctifie your ſelves, and * ye ſhall be holy p, for I am holy: neither ſhall ye defile your ſelves with any manner of creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth.

* Chap. 19. 2. and 20. 7. 1 Pet. 1. 15, 16.

p By which he gives them to underſtand, that all theſe Cautions and Prohibitions about the eating or touching of theſe Creatures was not for any real Uncleanneſs in them, all being God's good Creatures, but only that by the diligent Obſervation of theſe Rules, they might learn with greater care to avoid all moral Pollutions, and to keep themſelves from all filthineſs of Fleſh and Spirit, and particularly from all familiar and intimate Converſe with notorious Sinners.

45 For I am the LORD that bringeth you up out of the land of Egypt to be your God: ye ſhall therefore be holy, for I am holy.

46 This is the law of the beaſts, and of the fowl, and of every living creature that † moveth in the waters, and of every creature that creepeth upon the earth.

† Heb. ſwimmeth.

47 To make a difference between the unclean and the clean, and between the beaſt that may be eaten, and the beaſt that may not be eaten.

CHAP. XII.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, If a * woman have † conceived ſeed, and born a man-child, then * ſhe ſhall be unclean a ſeven dayes b: according to the dayes of the ſeparation for her infirmity c ſhall ſhe be unclean.

* Chap. 15. 19.
† Heb. ſeeded.
* Luk. 2. 22.

From Uncleanneſs contracted by the touching or eating of external things, he now comes to that Uncleanneſs which ariſeth from our ſelves.

a Not for any Filthineſs which was either in the Conception or in bringing forth, but to ſignifie the univerſal and deep Pollution of Man's Nature, even from the birth and from the Conception. b For ſo long, or thereabouts Nature is employed in the purgation of moſt Women. c (i. e.) For her monthly Infirmity. And it may note an agreement therewith, not only in the time, Levit. 15. 19. but in the degree of Uncleanneſs, which was ſuch that ſhe defiled every thing ſhe touched, &c.

3 And in the * eighth day, the fleſh of his foreſkin ſhall be circumciſed d.

* Gen. 17. 12. Luk. 1. 59. and 2. 21. Joh. 7. 22.

d Which Law is here repeated, becauſe the Woman's Uncleanneſs laſting for ſeven days was one, tho not the only reaſon why the Child's Circumciſion was put off till the eighth day.

4 And ſhe ſhall then continue e in the blood of her purifying f three and thirty dayes: ſhe ſhall touch no hallowed thing g, nor come into the ſanctuary, until the dayes of her purifying be fulfilled.

e Heb. ſit, i. e. abide, as that word is oft uſed, as Gen. 22. 5. and 34. 10. or tarry at home, not go into the Sanctuary. f In her polluted and ſeparated Eſtate: for the word Blood or Bloods ſignifies both Guilt, as Gen. 4. 10. and Uncleanneſs, as here and elſewhere. See Ezek. 16. 6. And it is called the blood of her purifying, becauſe by the expulſion or purgation of that Blood, which is done by degrees, ſhe is purified. g She ſhall not eat any part of the Peace-offerings which ſhe or her Husband offered, which otherwiſe ſhe might have done: and, if ſhe be a Prieſt's Wife, ſhe ſhall not eat any of the Tithes or Firſt-fruits, or part of the hallowed Meats, which at other times ſhe together with her Husband might eat.

5 But if ſhe bear a Maid-child, then ſhe ſhall be unclean two weeks, as in her ſeparation: and ſhe ſhall continue in the blood of her purifying three-ſcore and ſix dayes h.

h The time in both particulars is double to the former, not ſo much from natural Cauſes, becauſe the Purifications in Female Births are longer and ſlower, which if it were true, yet doth not extend to any ſuch time as here is mentioned, as for moral Reaſons; either to be a blot upon that Sex for being the firſt in Man's Tranſgreſſion, 1 Tim. 2. 14. or to put an honour upon the Sacrament of Circumciſion, which being adminiſtred to the Males did put an end to that Pollution ſooner than otherwiſe had been: or to ſhew the Privileg of the Man above the Woman, and that the Women were to be purified, ſanctified, and ſaved by one of the other Sex, even by the Man Chriſt Jeſus, without whom they ſhould have ſtill continued in their Impurity.

6 And when the dayes of her purifying are fulfilled, for a ſon, or for a daughter i, ſhe ſhall bring a lamb of the † firſt year for a burnt-offering, and a young pigeon, or a turtle-dove for a ſin-offering k, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation unto the Prieſt:

i For the Birth of a Son, or of a Daughter: but the Purification was for her ſelf, as appears from the following Verſes. k Either becauſe of her Ceremonial Uncleanneſs, which required a Ceremonial Expiation; or for thoſe particular Sins relating to the time and ſtate of Child-bearing, of which ſhe is juſtly preſumed to be guilty, which might be many ways.

7 Who ſhall offer it before the LORD, and make an atonement for her, and ſhe ſhall be cleanſed from the iſſue of her blood. This is the Law for her that hath born a male or a female l.

l For though there was a difference in the time of her Uncleanneſs for the one and for the other, yet both were to be purified one and the ſame way; to note that though all Sins and Sinners were not equal, yet all were to be cleanſed by the ſame means, to wit, by Chriſt and by Faith. See 1 Cor. 7. 14. Gal. 3. 28.

8 * And if † ſhe be not able to bring a lamb, then ſhe ſhall bring two turtles, or two young pigeons, the one for the burnt-offering, and the other for a ſin-offering: and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for her, and ſhe ſhall be clean.

* Luk. 2. 24.
† Heb. her hand find not ſufficiency of.

CHAP. XIII.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes and Aaron, ſaying,

2 When a man ſhall have in the ſkin a of his fleſh a ‖ riſing, a ſcab, or bright ſpot b, and it be in the ſkin of his fleſh like the plague of leproſy c, * then he ſhall be brought unto Aaron the prieſt d, or unto one of his ſons the prieſts.

‖ Or, ſwelling.
* Deut. 17. 8. and 24. 8.

a For there was the ſeat of the Leproſy. b Shining like the Scale of a Fiſh, as it is in the beginning of a Leproſy. c A Diſtemper moſt frequent in Egypt, and Syria, &c. known alſo among the Greeks, who note that it was not ſo properly a Diſeaſe as a Defilement or Diſtemper in the Skin, whence Chriſt is not ſaid to heal, but to cleanſe the Lepers that came to him. And this Diſtemper is here provided againſt, not becauſe it was worſe than others, but becauſe it was externally and viſibly filthy, and becauſe of its infectious Nature, that hereby we might be inſtructed to avoid Converſe with ſuch vicious Perſons who were likely to infect us. d Not to the Phyſician, becauſe, as was now ſaid, it needed not ſo much healing, as cleanſing, and was rather a Ceremonial Pollution than a Diſeaſe, and becauſe it belonged to the Prieſt to cleanſe him, and therefore to ſearch and diſcover whether he was defiled and needed cleanſing. The Prieſt alſo was to admit to, or exclude from the Sanctuary, and therefore to examine who were to be excluded. And the diſcovery of this Diſtemper was not ſo difficult, that it required the Phyſicians Art, but the Prieſt by Experience and the Obſervation of thoſe Rules might eaſily make it.

3 And the prieſt ſhall look on the plague e in the ſkin of the fleſh, and when the hair in the plague is turned white f, and the plague in ſight is deeper than the ſkin of his fleſh g, it is a plague of leproſy: and the prieſt ſhall look on him, and † pronounce him unclean h.

† Heb. pollute him.

e (i. e.) The ſign or appearance of the plague of Leproſy. And it is obſervable, that the ſame ſigns of it are given by Moſes here, and by the learned Phyſicians in their Works. f And when the Leproſy came to its height, not the Hair only, but alſo the Skin was turned white, as Exod. 4. 6. Numb. 12. 10. And this change of Colour was an evidence both of the abundance of excrementitious Humours, and of the weakneſs of Nature, as we ſee in old and ſick Perſons. g For the Leproſy did conſume both the Skin and the Fleſh, as appears from 2 King. 5. 14. h Heb. make him unclean, i. e. miniſterially and declaratively, in which ſenſe Miniſters are ſaid to remit Sins, Mat. 16. 19. and to deſtroy Nations, Jer. 1. 10.

4 If the bright ſpot be white in the ſkin of his fleſh, and in ſight be not deeper than the ſkin, and and the hair thereof be not turned white, then the priest shall shut up him that hath the plague i, seven dayes.

i For greater assurance: to teach Ministers not to be rash nor hasty in their Judgments and Censures, but diligently to search and examine all things before-hand. The Plague is here put for the Man that hath the Plague, as Pride is put for a Proud Man, Jer. 50. 31. and Dreams for the Dreamers, Jer. 27. 9.

5 And the priest shall look on him the seventh day: and behold, if the plague in his sight be at a stay k, and the plague spread not in the skin, then the priest shall shut him up seven dayes more.

k This Translation is justified by the following Clause which is added to explain it. Otherwise the words are and may be rendred thus, stand or abide in its own colour, the Hebrew word being used for colour as well as for sight.

6 And the priest shall look on him again the seventh day: and behold, if the plague be somewhat dark l, and the plague spread not somewhat in the skin, the priest shall † pronounce him clean: it is but a scab: and he shall wash his clothes m, and be clean.

† Heb. cleanse him.

l Which is opposed to the white colour of the Leprosy. But the word may be rendred, have contracted it self, or, be restrained or confined to its former place and bigness, and thus the opposition seems to be most clear to the spreading of it self, mentioned both in the foregoing Verse, and in the following Clause. m Though it was no Leprosy, but a Scab only: to teach us, that no Sin was so small which did not need to be washed by the Blood of Christ, which was the thing designed by all these washings.

7 But if the scab spread much abroad in the skin, after that he hath been seen of the priest for his cleansing, he shall be seen of the priest again.

8 And if the priest see, that behold, the scab spreadeth in the skin, then the priest shall † pronounce him unclean: it is a leprosy.

† Heb. pollute him.

9 When the plague of leprosy is in a man, then he shall be brought unto the priest;

10 And the priest shall see him, and behold, if the rising be white n in the skin, and it have turned the hair white, and o there be † quick raw flesh p in the rising:

† Heb. the quickning of living flesh.

n To wit, with a preternatural and extraordinary Whiteness, as Numb. 12. 14. o Or rather, or the Copulative put for the Disjunctive, as hath been noted before: for either of these were signs of a Leprosy, and one of these may seem inconsistent with the other, the former sign of white hair supposing the Skin in which the Hair was to remain, and the latter of live flesh supposing the Skin to be consumed by the Leprosy. p Which shewed that this was not a superficial Leprosy, but one of a deeper and more malignant nature that had eaten into the very Flesh, for which cause it is in the next Verse called an old, or inveterate, or grown Leprosy.

11 It is an old leprosy in the skin of his flesh, and the priest shall pronounce him unclean, and shall not shut him up; for he is unclean.

12 And if a leprosy break out abroad in the skin, and the leprosy cover all the skin of him that hath the plague, from his head even to his foot, wheresoever the priest looketh:

13 Then the priest shall consider, and behold, if the leprosy q have covered all his flesh r, he shall pronounce him clean that hath the plague: it is all turned white: he is clean:

q (i. e.) The sign or appearance of the Leprosy: or the Scab is called a Leprosy, because at first view it seemed to be so to the Priest, and to other Beholders. r When it appeared in some one part it discovered the ill Humour which lurked within, and withal the inability of Nature to expel it, but when it overspread all, it manifested the strength of Nature conquering the Distemper, and purging out the ill Humours into the outward parts.

14 But when the raw flesh appeareth in him r, he shall be unclean.

r Or rather, in it, i. e. in the place where the sign or appearance of Leprosy was, when the Flesh was partly changed into a whiter colour, and partly kept its natural colour, this variety of Colours was an evidence of the Leprosy, as one and the same Colour continuing was a sign of Soundness.

15 And the priest shall see the raw flesh, and pronounce him to be unclean: for the raw flesh is unclean s: it is a leprosy.

s This is repeated again and again, because raw or living Flesh might rather seem a sign of Soundness, and the Priest might easily be deceived by it, and therefore he was more narrowly to look into it and to observe the place, and manner, and other circumstances in which it appeared.

16 Or if the raw flesh turn again, and be changed unto white t, he shall come unto the priest:

t As it is usual with Sores, when they begin to be healed, the Skin, which is white, coming upon the Flesh.

17 And the priest shall see him: and behold, if the plague be turned into white, then the priest shall pronounce him clean that hath the plague: he is clean.

18 The flesh also in which, even in the skin thereof, was a bile, and is healed:

19 And in the place of the bile there be a white rising, or a bright spot white, and somewhat reddish u, and it be shewed to the Priest:

u (i. e.) White mixed with red, as when Blood and Milk are mixed together. A late learned Writer renders the words thus, white and very bright, or light, which indeed is the true colour of Leprosy, to wit, when it is in its perfection, as Exod. 4. 6, &c. But here it was only beginning and arising out of a Bile, in which together with the white, which was the colour of the Leprosy, there might be some mixture of redness arising from the Bile, or that part of it which was not yet turned into the nature and colour of Leprosy.

20 And if when the priest seeth it, behold, it be in sight lower than the skin, and the hair thereof be turned white, the priest shall pronounce him unclean: it is a plague of leprosy broken out of the bile.

21 But if the priest look on it, and behold there be no white hairs therein, and if it be not lower than the skin, but be somewhat dark ‖, then the priest shall shut him up seven dayes.

‖ Or, and be contracted; of which see ver. 6.

22 And if it spread much abroad in the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him unclean; it is a plague x.

x Or, the plague, to wit, of Leprosy, of which he is speaking.

23 But if the bright spot stay in his place, and spread not, it is a burning bile, and the priest shall pronounce him clean.

24 Or if there be any flesh in the skin, whereof there is a † hot burning y, and the quick flesh that burneth have a white bright spot, somewhat reddish or white z;

† Heb. a burning of fire.

y Heb. a burning of fire, by the touch of any hot Iron, or burning Coals, which doth naturally and usually make an Ulcer or Sore in which the following Spot is. z (i. e.) Or only white, without any mixture of red in it. This Clause seems to overthrow that Exposition of the Hebrew word Adamdam, which is given by a learned Man, ver. 19. because this colour which is here said to be only white, is distinguished from that which is here called Adamdam, which therefore must be some other colour than that of Snow, which though very light or bright, yet is only white.

25 Then the priest shall look upon it: and behold, if the hair in the bright spot be turned white, and it be in sight deeper than the skin, it is a leprosy broken out of the burning: wherefore the priest shall pronounce him unclean: it is the plague of leprosy.

26 But if the priest look on it, and behold, there be no bright hair in the bright spot, and it be no lower than the other skin, but be somewhat dark a, then the priest shall shut him up seven dayes.

a Or, contracted, i. e. not spreading. See on ver. 6.

27 And the priest shall look upon him the seventh day: and if it be spread much abroad in the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him unclean, it is the plague of leprosy.

28 And if the bright spot stay in his place, and spread not in the skin, but it be somewhat dark, it is a rising of the burning, and the priest shall pronounce him clean: for it is an inflammation of the burning b.

b (i. e.) Arising from the burning, mentioned ver. 24.

29 If

29 If a man or woman hath a plague upon the head or the beard,

30 Then the priest shall see the plague, and behold, if it be in sight deeper than the skin, and there be in it a yellow thin hair c, then the priest shall pronounce him unclean: it is a dry scall, even a leprosy upon the head, or beard.

c The Leprosy in the Body turned the Hair white, in the Head or Beard it turned it yellow. And if a Man's Hair was yellow before, this might easily be distinguished from the rest, either by the thinness or smallness of it, which is here noted, or by its peculiar kind of yellow, for there are divers kinds or degrees of the same Colour manifestly differing one from another, as in green Colours, &c.

31 And if the priest look on the plague of the scall, and behold, it be not in sight deeper than the skin, and that there is no black hair in it d: then the priest shall shut up him that hath the plague of the scall, seven dayes.

d For had that appeared, it had ended the doubt, the black Hair being a sign of soundness and strength of Nature, ver. 37. as the yellow Hair was a sign of Unsoundness.

32 And in the seventh day the priest shall look on the plague: and behold if the scall spread not, and there be in it no yellow hair, and the scall be not in sight deeper than the skin, 33 He shall be shaven e: but the scall shall he not shave: and the priest shall shut up him that hath the scall, seven dayes more.

e For the more certain discovery of the growth or stay of the Plague.

34 And in the seventh day the priest shall look on the scall: and behold, if the scall be not spread in the skin, nor be in sight deeper than the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him clean: and he shall wash his clothes, and be clean.

35 But if the scall spread much in the skin after his cleansing;

36 Then the priest shall look on him, and behold, if the scall be spread in the skin, the priest shall not seek for yellow hair f: he is unclean.

f He need not search for the Hair or any other sign, the spreading or running of it being a sure sign of Leprosy, without any other evidence.

37 But if the scall be in his sight at a stay: and that there is black hair grown up therein; the scall is healed, he is clean, and the priest shall pronounce him clean g.

g The Truth of the thing, and not the Sentence of the Priest, made him clean; and if the Priest had partially pronounced one clean who was not clean, his Sentence had been null. And therefore it is a fond and dangerous conceit to think that the Absolution given to any Sinner by a Priest will stand him in any stead, if he do not truly repent.

38 If a man also, or a woman, have in the skin of their flesh bright spots, even white bright spots.

39 Then the priest shall look: and behold, if the bright spots in the skin of their flesh be darkish white h, it is a freckled spot that groweth in the skin: he is clean.

h Or, contracted, or confined to the place where they are, and white.

† Heb. head is pilled.

40 And the man whose † hair is fallen off his head, he is bald, yet is he clean.

41 And he that hath his hair fallen off from the part of his head toward his face, he is forehead bald: yet is he clean.

42 And if there be in the bald head, or bald forehead, a white reddish sore, it is a leprosie i sprung up in his bald head, or his bald forehead.

i It is a sign that such Baldness came not from Age, or any Accident, but from the Leprosy.

43 Then the priest shall look upon it: and behold, if the rising of the sore be white reddish in his bald head, or in his bald forehead, as the leprosie appeareth in the skin of the flesh;

44 He is a leprous man: he is unclean, the priest shall pronounce him utterly unclean: his plague is in his head.

45 And the leper in whom the plague is, his clothes shall be rent k, and his head bare l, and he shall put a covering upon his upper lip m, and shall cry, Unclean, unclean n.

k To wit, in the upper and former parts, which were most visible. This was done partly as a token of Sorrow, Ezra 9. 3, 5. Job 2. 12. because though this was not a Sin, yet it was an effect of Sin, and a sore Punishment, whereby he was cut off both from Converse with Men, and from the enjoyment of God in his Ordinances; partly as a warning to others to keep at a due distance from him whersoever he came; and partly, as some add, that it might conduce to his Cure by giving the freer vent to the ill Humours. But the exposing of the affected part to the cold, would rather hinder than further Evaporation. l Another sign of mourning, as appears from Levit. 10. 6. God would have Men, though not overwhelmed with, yet deeply sensible of his Judgments. m Partly as another badge of his Sorrow and Shame, as Ezek. 24. 17, 22. Mic. 3. 7. and partly for the preservation of others from his infectious Breath or Touch. n As begging the Pity and Prayers of others, and confessing his own Infirmity, and cautioning those who came near him to keep at a distance from him.

46 All the dayes wherein the plague shall be in him, he shall be defiled, he is unclean, he shall dwell alone, o * without the camp p shall his habitation be. * Numb. 5. 2 and 12. 14.

o Partly for his Humiliation; partly to prevent the Infection of others; and partly to shew the danger of converse with spiritual Lepers, or notorious Sinners. This Rule excludes the Society of sound Persons, but not of Lepers. See 2 King. 15. 5. 2 Chron. 26. 21. p So Numb. 12. 14. and afterward without Cities and Places of great Concourse, whereof we have examples, 2 King. 7. 3. Luke 17. 12.

47 The garment also that the plague of leprosie is in q, whether it be a woollen garment, or a linen garment r.

q Leprosie in Garments and Houses is unknown in these times and places, which is not strange, there being some Diseases or Distempers peculiar to some Ages and Countries, as the Learned have noted. And that such a thing was among the Jews cannot reasonably be doubted: for, if Moses had been a Deceiver, as some have impudently affirmed, a Man of his Wisdom would not have exposed himself to the disbelief and contempt of his People, by giving Laws about that which their Experience shewed to be but a Fiction. r These two sorts are put by a Synecdoche for any other Garments.

48 Whether it be in the warp, or woof s of linen or of wollen, whether in a skin, or in any † thing made of skin: † Heb. work s A Learned Man renders it, in the outside, or in the inside of it. If the signification of those words be doubtful or unknown now, as some of those of the living Creatures and pretious Stones are confessed to be, it is not material to us, this Law being abolished: it sufficeth that the Jews understood these things by frequent Experience.

49 And if the plague be greenish or reddish in the garment, or in the skin, either in the warp, or in the woof, or in any † thing of skin, it is a plague of leprosie, and shall be shewed unto the priest. † Heb. vessel, instrument.

50 And the priest shall look upon the plague, and shut up it that hath the plague seven dayes.

51 And he shall look on the plague on the seventh day: if the plague be spread in the garment, either in the warp, or in the woof, or in a skin, or in any work that is made of skin, the plague is a fretting leprosie, it is unclean.

52 He shall therefore burn that garment, whether warp, or woof, in woollen, or in linen, or any thing of skin, wherein the plague is: for it is a fretting leprosie, it shall be burnt in the fire.

53 And if the priest shall look, and behold, the plague be not spread in the garment, either in the warp, or in the woof, or in any thing of skin:

54 Then the priest shall command that they wash the thing wherein the plague is, and he shall shut it up seven dayes more.

55 And the priest shall look on the plague after that it is washed: and behold, if the plague have not changed his colour t, and the plague be not spread, it is unclean, thou shalt burn it in the fire,

it

† Heb. whether it be bald in the head thereof, or in the forehead thereof.

it is fret inward, whether it be † bare within, or without u.

t If washing doth not take away that vicious Colour, and restore it to its native Colour. u In the outside of the Garment, which is here called the forehead or foreside, as being most visible, or in the inside of it. Some of the Jewish Doctors understood it thus, whether the Garment was made threadbare by the Leprosy, or by former wearing of it.

56 And if the priest look, and behold, the plague be somewhat dark after the washing of it, then he shall rend it out of the garment, or out of the skin, or out of the warp, or out of the woof.

57 And if it appear still in the garment, either in the warp, or in the woof, or in any thing of skin, it is a spreading plague, thou shalt burn that wherein the plague is with fire.

58 And the garment, either warp, or woof, or whatsoever thing of skin it be, which thou shalt wash, if the plague be departed from them, then it shall be washed the second time, and shall be clean.

59 This is the law of the plague of leprosie, in a garment of woollen, or linen, either in the warp, or woof, or any thing of skins, to pronounce it clean, or to pronounce it unclean.

CHAP. XIV.

1 AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 This shall be the law of the leper, in the day of his cleansing: he * shall be brought unto the priest a.

* Mat. 8. 24. Mar. 1. 40, 41. Luk. 5. 12, 14. and 17. 14.

a Not into the Priest's House, but to some place without the Camp or City, Levit. 13. 46. which the Priest should appoint.

3 And the priest shall go forth out of the camp, and the priest shall look, and behold, if the plague of leprosie be healed b in the leper, b To wit, by God. For God alone did heal or cleanse him really, the Priest only ministerially and declaratively, as Ministers are said to remit Sins, though it be granted that none can truly and properly forgive Sins but God, Mark 2. 7.

4 Then shall the priest command to take for him that is to be cleansed, two || birds c alive, and clean d, and * Cedar-wood e, and scarlet f, and hyssop g.

|| Or, Sparrows. * Numb. 19. 6. Psal. 51. 7.

c The one to represent Christ as dying for his Sins, the other to represent him as arising again for his Purification or Justification. d Allowed for Food and for Sacrifice. e A stick of Cedar to which the Hyssop, and one of the Birds was tied by the Scarlet thred. Cedar seems to be chosen, to note that the Leper was now freed from that Putrefaction or Corruption, which his Leprosie had brought upon him, that kind of wood being in a manner incorruptible. f A thred of Wool of a Scarlet colour, Heb. 9. 19. to represent both the Leper's Sinfulness, Isa. 1. 18. and the Blood of Christ, and the happy change of the Lepers Colour and Complexion, which before was wan and loathsome, now sprightly and beautiful. g Chosen partly for its fragrant Smell, which signified the cure of the Lepers ill scent, and partly for conveniency in the use of sprinkling. See Exod. 12. 22.

5 And the priest shall command that one of the birds be killed h in an earthen vessel, over † running water i.

† Heb. Living water. Gen. 6. 29.

h To wit, by some other Man. The Priest did not kill it himself, because it was not properly a Sacrifice, as being killed without the Camp, and not in that place to which all Sacrifices were confined; and if it had been a Sacrifice, that might be killed by another, so long as the sprinkling of the Blood of it, which was the most proper and essential Act in the Sacrifice, was done by the Priest. i It seems to be a Metathesis or transplacing of words, for, over running water put in an earthen Vessel. Thus the Blood of the Bird and the Water were mixed together, partly for the conveniency of sprinkling, and partly to signifie Christ who came by Water and Blood, 1 John 5. 6. The running Water, i. e. Spring or River Water by its liveliness and motion did fitly signifie the restoring of Liveliness to the Leper who was in a manner dead with his Leprosie, as was noted before.

6 As for the living bird he shall take it, and the Cedar-wood, and the scarlet, and the hyssop, and shall dip them, and the living bird in the blood of the bird that was killed over the running water.

7 And he shall sprinkle upon him that is to be cleansed from the leprosie, seven times k, and shall pronounce him clean, and shall let the living bird loose † into the open field l.

† Heb. upon the face of the field.

k To signifie his perfect cleansing and restoration to all his former Priviledges. Compare Levit. 4. 17. and 7. 15, 16, & 10. 14, 19. l The place of its former abode, signifying the taking off that restraint which was laid upon the Leper, and the liberty which the Leper now had to return to his former Habitation and Conversation with other Men.

8 And he that is to be cleansed, shall wash his clothes, and shave off all his hair m, and wash himself in water, that he may be clean: And after that he shall come into the camp, and shall * tarry abroad out of his tent n seven dayes.

* Num. 12. 15.

m Partly to discover his perfect soundness, partly to preserve him from relapse through any seeds or relicks of it which might remain in his Hair or in his Clothes; and partly to teach him to put off his old Lusts, and to become a new Man. n Out of his former Habitation, in some separate place, lest some of his Leprosie yet lurking in him, should break forth to the infection of his Family.

9 But it shall be on the seventh day, that he shall shave all his hair o off his head, and his beard, and his eye-brows, even all his hair he shall shave off: And he shall wash his clothes, also he shall wash his flesh in water, and he shall be clean.

o Which began to grow again since it was first shaved, and now for more caution is shaved again.

10 And on the eighth day, he shall take two he-lambs without blemish, and one ewe lamb of † the first year without blemish, and three tenth deales of fine flour for * a meat-offering mingled with oil p, and one log q of oil.

† Heb. daughter of her year. * Chap. 2. 1.

p Oil is added here as a fit sign of God's Grace and Mercy, and of the Lepers healing. q A measure for liquid things containing six Eggshels full.

11 And the priest that maketh him clean r, shall present the man that is to be made clean, and those things before the LORD, at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation:

r The healing is ascribed to God, ver. 13. but the ceremonial cleansing, or making of him clean and fit for Society, was an act of the Priest using the Rites which God had prescribed, whereby the Sinner was cleansed.

12 And the priest shall take one he-lamb, and offer him for a trespass-offering s, and the log of oil, and * wave them for a wave-offering, before the LORD.

* Exod. 29. 24.

s To teach them, that Sin was the cause of Leprosie, and of all Diseases; and that these ceremonial Observations had a further meaning, even to make them sensible of their spiritual Diseases, their Sins, and to fly to God in Christ for the cure of them.

13 And he shall slay the lamb in * the place where he shall kill the sin-offering, and the burnt-offering, in the holy place t: for * as the sin-offering is the priests, so is the trespass-offering, it is * most holy u.

* Exod. 29. 11. chap. 3. 8. and 4. 4, 24. * Chap. 7. 7. * Chap. 2. 3. and 21. 22.

t To wit, in the Court of the Tabernacle. See Levit. 1. 11. and 7. 7. u Both of them are equally holy, and therefore to be offered in the same place.

14 And the priest shall take some of the blood of the trespass-offering, and the priest shall put it upon * the tip of the right ear x of him that is to be cleansed, and upon the thumb of his right x hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot x:

* Exod. 29. 10. chap. 8. 23.

x To signifie, that he was now free to hear God's word in the appointed places from which he was before excluded, and to touch any Person or thing without defiling it, and to go whither he pleased.

15 And the priest shall take some of the log of oil z, and pour it into the palm of his own left hand.

y As the Blood signified Christ's Blood, by which Men obtain remission of Sins; so the Oil noted the Graces of the Spirit, by which they are regenerated and renewed.

16 And

a (i. e.) Before the second Vail which covered the Holy of Holies, where God is oft said to dwell, and to be present in a peculiar manner.

17 And of the rest of the oil that is in his hand, shall the priest put upon the tip of the right ear of him that is to be cleansed, and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot, upon the blood of the trespass-offering b.

b (i. e.) Upon the place of that Blood, as it is expressed, vers. 28. or where that Blood was put, ver. 14. Or, over and besides the Blood, &c. i. e. As the Blood was put in those places, so shall the Oil be.

18 And the remnant of the oil that is in the priests hand, he shall pour upon the head of him that is to be cleansed: and the priest shall make an atonement for him before the LORD.

* Chap. 5. 1. 19 And the priest shall offer * the sin-offering, and make an atonement for him that is to be cleansed from his uncleanness, and afterward he shall kill the burnt-offering.

20 And the priest shall offer the burnt-offering and the meat-offering, upon the altar: and the priest shall make an atonement for him, and he shall be clean.

* Chap. 5. 7. † Heb. his hand reap not. † Heb. for waving. 21 And * if he be poor, and † cannot get so much, then he shall take one lamb for a trespass-offering † to be waved, to make an atonement for him, and one tenth-deal of fine flour mingled with oil, for a meat-offering, and a log of oil, 22 And two turtle doves, or two young pigeons, such as he is able to get: and the one shall be a sin-offering, and the other a burnt-offering.

23 And he shall bring them on the eighth day for his cleansing unto the priest, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation before the LORD.

24 And the priest shall take the lamb of the trespass-offering, and the log of oil, and the priest shall wave them for a wave-offering before the LORD.

25 And he shall kill the lamb of the trespass-offering, and the priest shall take some of the blood of the trespass-offering, and put it upon the tip of the right ear of him that is to be cleansed, and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot.

26 And the priest shall pour of the oil into the palm of his own left hand.

27 And the priest shall sprinkle with his right finger some of the oil that is in his left hand, seven times before the LORD.

28 And the priest shall put of the oil that is in his hand, upon the tip of the right ear of him that is to be cleansed, and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot, upon the place of the blood of the trespass-offering.

29 And the rest of the oil that is in the priests hand, he shall put upon the head of him that is to be cleansed, to make an atonement for him before the LORD.

30 And he shall offer the one of the turtle-doves, or of the young pigeons, such as he can get:

31 Even such as he is able to get, the one for a sin-offering and the other for a burnt-offering, with the meat-offering. And the priest shall make an atonement for him that is to be cleansed, before the LORD.

32 This is the law of him in whom is the plague of leprosie, whose hand is not able to get that which pertaineth to his cleansing.

33 And the LORD spake unto Moses, and unto Aaron, saying,

34 When ye be come into the land of Canaan, which I give to you for a possession, and I put the plague of leprosie in a house of the land of your possession:

35 And he that oweth the house shall come and tell the priest, saying, It seemeth to me, there is as it were a plague in the house.

36 Then the priest shall command that they c ‖ empty the house, before the priest go into it, to see the plague, that all that is in the house be not made unclean d: and afterward the priest shall go in to see the house. ‖ Or, Prepare.

c (i. e.) The possessors of the house. d It is observable here, that neither the People nor the houshold stuff were polluted till the Leprosie was discovered and declared by the Priest, to shew what great difference God makes between Sins of Ignorance, and Sins against Knowledg and Conscience.

37 And he shall look on the plague: and behold if the plague be in the walls of the house e, with hollow strakes f, greenish or reddish, which in sight are lower than the wall:

e This was an extraordinary Judgment of God peculiar to this People; either as a Punishment of their Sins, which were much more sinful and inexcusable than the Sins of other Nations; or as a special mean and help to Repentance, which God afforded to them above other People; or as a document of the mischievous nature of Sin, typified by Leprosie, which did not only destroy Persons, but their Habitations also: See Zech. 5. 4. f Such as were in the Bodies of leprous Persons, Levit. 13. 3.

38 Then the priest shall go out of the house to the door of the house, and shut up the house seven days.

39 And the priest shall come again the seventh day, and shall look: and behold, if the plague be spread in the walls of the house:

40 Then the priest shall command that they take away the stones in which the plague is, and they shall cast them into an unclean place g without the City.

g Where they used to cast dirt and filthy things.

41 And he shall cause the house to be scraped within round about, and they shall pour out the dust h that they scrape off, without the city into an unclean place.

h The Mortar or other Rubbish.

42 And they shall take other stones, and put them in the place of those stones, and he shall take other morter, and shall plaister the house.

43 And if the plague come again, and break out in the house, after that he hath taken away the stones, and after he hath scraped the house, and after it is plaistered:

44 Then the priest shall come and look, and behold, if the plague be spread in the house, it is a fretting leprosie in the house: it is unclean.

45 And he shall break down the house, the stones of it, and the timber thereof, and all the morter of the house: and he shall carry them forth out of the city into an unclean place.

46 Moreover, he that goeth into the house, all the while that it is shut up, shall be unclean until the even.

47 And he that lieth in the house, shall wash his clothes: and he that eateth in the house, shall wash his clothes.

48 And if the priest † shall come in, and look upon it, and behold, the plague hath not spread in the house, after the house was plaistered: then the priest shall pronounce the house clean, because the plague is healed. † Heb. in coming in shall come in, &c.

49 And he shall take to cleanse the house, two birds, and cedar-wood, and scarlet, and hyssop, 50 And he shall kill the one of the birds in an earthen vessel, over running water.

51 And he shall take the cedar wood, and the hyssop, and the scarlet, and the living bird, and dip them in the blood of the slain bird, and in the the running water, and ſprinkle the houſe ſeven times.

52 And he ſhall cleanſe the houſe with the blood of the bird, and with the running water, and with the living bird, and with the cedar-wood, and with the hyſop, and with the ſcarlet.

53 But he ſhall let go the living bird out of the city into the open fields, and make an atonement for the houſe: and it ſhall be clean.

54 This is the law for all manner of plague of
* Chap. 13. 30. leproſie and * ſcall.

55 And for the leproſie of a garment, and of an houſe.

56 And for a riſing, and for a ſcab, and for a bright ſpot.

† Heb. in the day of the unclean, and in the day of the clean. 57 To teach i † when it is unclean, and when it is clean: this is the law of leproſie.

i To direct the Prieſt when to pronounce a Perſon or Houſe clean or unclean. So it was not left to the Prieſt's Power or Will, but they were tied to plain Rules, ſuch as the People might diſcern no leſs than the Prieſt.

CHAP. XV.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, * When any man hath a † running iſſue out
* Numb. 5. 2. † Or, running of the reins. of his fleſh a, becauſe of his iſſue he is unclean.

a His ſecret Parts, called Fleſh, Levit. 6. 10. and 12. 3. Ezek. 16. 26. and 23. 20.

3 And this ſhall be his uncleanneſs in his iſſue: whether his fleſh run with his iſſue, or his fleſh be ſtopped from his iſſue b, it is his uncleanneſs.

b Or if it have run, and been ſtopped in great meaſure, either by the groſsneſs of the Humour, or by ſome obſtruction in parts that it cannot run freely, as it did, but only droppeth.

† Heb. veſſel. 4 Every bed whereon he lieth, that hath the iſſue, is unclean: and every † thing c whereon he ſitteth, ſhall be unclean.

c Heb. Veſſel, by which the Hebrews underſtand all ſorts of Houſhold-ſtuff.

5 And whoſoever toucheth his bed, ſhall waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean until the even.

6 And he that ſitteth on any thing whereon he ſate that hath the iſſue, ſhall waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean until the even.

7 And he that toucheth the fleſh d of him that hath the iſſue, ſhall waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean until the even.

d That is, any part of his Body: the word fleſh being taken otherwiſe here than ver. 2. As the ſame word is frequently uſed in Scripture in differing Signification in the ſame Chapter, and ſometimes in the ſame Verſe, as Matth. 8. 22.

8 And if he that hath the iſſue ſpit upon him that is clean, then he ſhall waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean until the even.

9 And what ſaddle ſoever he rideth upon, that hath the iſſue, ſhall be unclean.

10 And whoſoever toucheth any thing that was under him, ſhall be unclean until the even: and he that beareth any of thoſe things, ſhall waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean until the even.

11 And whomſoever he toucheth that hath the iſſue, (and hath not rinſed his hands in water) e, he ſhall waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean until the even.

e This may be underſtood, either, 1. Of the Perſon touching, if he that hath an iſſue toucheth another with unwaſhen hands. Thus moſt take it. But why then ſhould it be limited to his hands? for if he had touched him by any other part, as ſuppoſe by kiſſing him, he had defiled him, though his hands had been waſhed. Or rather, 2. Of the Perſon touched, to whom the waſhing of his hands is preſcribed as an eaſier way of cleanſing himſelf, if ſpeedily uſed, but if that was neglected or delayed, a more laborious courſe was enjoyned him. And thus the Syriack Interpreter underſtands it.

12 And the * veſſel of earth that he toucheth, * Chap. 6. 28. and 11. 32, 33.
which hath the iſſue, ſhall be broken: and every veſſel of wood ſhall be rinſed in water.

13 And when he that hath an iſſue is cleanſed of his iſſue f, then * he ſhall number to himſelf ſeven * Chap. 14. 10.
dayes for his cleanſing g, and waſh his clothes, and bathe his fleſh in running water, and ſhall be clean h.

f When his iſſue is not only ſtopped in part or for a ſeaſon, but hath wholly ceaſed. g To wit, for the uſe of the Ceremonies preſcribed in ſuch caſes. See Numb. 19. 11, 12. h (i. e.) Admitted to converſe with Men and with God in publick Ordinances.

14 And on the eighth day he ſhall take to him
* two turtle doves, or two young pigeons, and * Chap. 14. 22.
come before the LORD unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and give them unto the prieſt.

15 And the prieſt ſhall offer them, the one for a ſin-offering, and the other for a burnt-offering, and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him i before the LORD, for his iſſue.

i Not as if this was in it ſelf a Sin, but only a Puniſhment of Sin, though oft-times it was ſinful as being a fruit of a Mans Intemperance, and immoderate Luſt. See Levit. 14. 12.

16 And if * any mans ſeed of copulation go * Deut. 23. 10. out from him k, then he ſhall waſh all his fleſh in water, and be unclean until the even.

k Not through weakneſs of the parts, as that ver. 3. but in his ſleep, which is called nightly pollution, which though involuntary, might ariſe from ſome luſtful Dream or Imagination. But if it was voluntary and by a Man's own procurement when awake, it was eſteemed abominable, and a degree of Murder. See Gen. 38. 9.

17 And every garment, and every skin whereon is the ſeed of copulation, ſhall be waſhed with water, and be unclean until the even.

18 The woman alſo with whom man l ſhall lie with ſeed of copulation, they ſhall both bathe themſelves in water, and be unclean until the even.

l Or, The Man, to wit, that had ſuch an iſſue, which is plainly to be underſtood out of the whole Context. For though in ſome ſpecial caſes relating to the Worſhip of God, Men were to forbear the uſe of the Marriage-bed, as Exod. 19. 15. and 1 Sam. 21. 4. yet to affirm that the uſe of it in other caſes did generally defile the Perſons, and made them unclean till even, is contrary to the whole current of Scripture, which affirms the Marriage-bed to be undefiled, Heb. 13. 4. to the practiſe of the Jews, which is a good Comment upon their own Laws, and to the light of Nature and Reaſon.

19 And * if a woman have an iſſue, and her * Chap. 12. 2.
iſſue in her fleſh be blood m, ſhe ſhall be † put † Heb. in her ſeparation.
apart n ſeven dayes o: and whoſoever p toucheth her, ſhall be unclean until the even.

m Heb. And a Woman when ſhe ſhall have an iſſue of Blood, (and becauſe that might be at her Noſe or other parts, he adds) and her iſſue ſhall be in her fleſh, i. e. in her ſecret parts, as the word fleſh is taken ver. 2. So it notes her monthly Diſeaſe. n Not out of the Camp, as the Lepers and ſome others, but from converſe with her Husband and others, and from acceſs to the Houſe of God. o For ſometimes it continues ſo long, and it was but decent to allow ſome time for Purification after the ceaſing of her Iſſue. p To wit, of grown Perſons. For the Infant, to whom in that caſe ſhe might give ſuck, was exempted from this Pollution by the greater Law of Neceſſity, and by that antecedent Law which riquired Women to give ſuck to their own Children.

20 And every thing that ſhe lieth upon in her ſeparation ſhall be unclean: every thing alſo that ſhe ſitteth upon ſhall be unclean.

21 And whoſoever toucheth her bed, ſhall waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean until the even.

22 And whoſoever toucheth any thing that ſhe ſate upon, ſhall waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean until the even.

23 And if it be on her bed, or any thing whereon ſhe ſitteth, when he touch it, he ſhall be unclean until the even.

24 And if any man lie with her at all, and her flowers be upon him, he ſhall be unclean ſeven dayes q: and all the bed whereon he lieth ſhall be unclean.

q If he did this unwittingly; but if the Man and Woman did this knowingly, this was a groſs Sin, Ezek. 18. 6. and they being accuſed and convicted, were puniſhed with Death, Levit. 20. 18. for as there was a turpitude in the Action, ſo it was very prejudicial to the Children then begotten, who were commonly weak, or leprous, or otherwiſe diſordered; which was alſo an Injury to the Commonwealth of Iſrael, and redounded to the diſhonour of God and of the true Religion, that the Profeſſors thereof gave ſuch publick evidence of their Intemperance.

25 And if a woman have an iſſue of her blood many dayes out of the time of her ſeparation, or if it run beyond the time of her ſeparation r; all the dayes of the iſſue of her uncleanneſs ſhall be as the dayes of her ſeparation: ſhe ſhall be unclean.

r To wit, the ſeven days mentioned, Levit. 12. 2. as ſuppoſe ſhe had the Emerods, &c.

26 Every bed whereon ſhe lieth all the dayes of her iſſue, ſhall be unto her as the bed of her ſeparation: and whatſoever ſhe ſitteth upon, ſhall be unclean, as the uncleanneſs of her ſeparation.

27 And whoſoever toucheth thoſe things ſhall be unclean, and ſhall waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean until the even.

28 But if ſhe be cleanſed of her iſſue, then ſhe ſhall number to her ſelf ſeven dayes ſ, and after that ſhe ſhall be clean.

ſ From the ſtopping of her Iſſue, as it is apparent. And this was for trial, whether it was only a Temporary Obſtruction, or a real Ceſſation.

29 And on the eighth day ſhe ſhall take unto her two turtles, or two young pigeons, and bring them unto the prieſt, to the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

30 And the prieſt ſhall offer the one for a ſin-offering, and the other for a burnt-offering, and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for her before the LORD, for the iſſue of her uncleanneſs.

31 Thus ſhall ye ſeparate the children of Iſrael from their uncleanneſs, that they die not in their uncleanneſs, when they defile my tabernacle t that is among them.

t Which they did both ceremonially, by coming into it in their Uncleanneſs, and morally, by the groſs neglect and contempt of God's expreſs and poſitive Command to cleanſe themſelves.

32 This is the law of him that hath an iſſue, and of him whoſe ſeed goeth from him, and is defiled therewith;

33 And of her that is ſick of her flowers, and of him that hath an iſſue, of the man, and of the woman, and of him that lieth with her which is unclean.

CHAP. XVI.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, after * the death of the two ſons of Aaron, when they offered before the LORD, and died.

* Chap. 10. 2.

2 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Speak unto Aaron thy brother, that he * come not at all times a into the holy place || within the vail b, before the mercy-ſeat, which is upon the ark, that he die not c: for * I will appear d in the cloud e by the mercy-ſeat.

* Exod. 30. 10. Heb. 9. 7.

* Exod. 40. 35. 1 King. 8. 12.

a Not whenſoever he pleaſeth, but only when I ſhall appoint him, to wit, to take down the parts and furniture of it upon every removal, and to miniſter unto me once in the year, Exod. 30. 10. || i. e. Into the Moſt Holy, or the Holy of Holies, as the following words demonſtrate, which is ſometimes called only the holy place, as Heb. 9. 2, 3. the poſitive degree put for the comparative, which is not unuſual in Scripture. b To wit, the ſecond vail. See Levit. 4. 6. c For his Irreverence and Preſumption. d Viſibly and glorioufly: That is as it were my Preſence-Chamber, whither the Prieſt ſhall not dare to come but when I call him. e Either in that dark place, for there was no Light came into it, and Clouds and Darkneſs go together, and one may be put for the other: or in a bright and glorious Cloud, which uſed to be over the Mercy-ſeat, or rather in the cloud of Incenſe, mentioned afterwards, ver. 13.

3 Thus f ſhall Aaron come into the holy place, with * a young bullock g for a ſin-offering h, and a ram for a burnt-offering.

* Chap. 4. 3.

f In this manner, or upon theſe terms. g (i. e.) With the Blood of it, as it is explained ver. 14. So it is a Synecdoche, the whole put for the part. For as for the Body of it, that was to be killed and offered without upon the Altar of burnt-offerings. h For his own and Families Sins, for a Goat was offered for the Sins of the People.

4 He ſhall put on the * holy linen coat i, and he ſhall have the linen breeches upon his fleſh, and ſhall be girded with a linen girdle, and with the linen mitre ſhall he be attired. Theſe are holy garments k: therefore * ſhall he waſh his fleſh in water, and ſo put them on.

* Exod. 28. 39. 40.

* Exod. 30. 20.

i It is obſervable that the High-prieſt did not now uſe his peculiar and Glorious Robes, but only his Linen Garments, which were common to him with the ordinary Prieſts. The reaſon whereof was either becauſe this was not a day of feaſting and rejoycing, but of mourning and humiliation, at which times People were to lay aſide their Ornaments, Exod. 33. 5. Some conceive, that under the Linen Garments here named, are comprehended his more glorious Robes alſo by a Synecdoche. But that doth not appear neither from hence, nor from other places alledged. Had only his holy Garments been mentioned in general, all might have been underſtood, but when only the Linen Apparel is mentioned here, and after ver. 23. and when that is ſo particularly expreſſed in four ſeveral parts of it, and not a word of the other, either here or in the reſt of the Chapter, it ſeems preſumptuous to add them here without any ground or evidence. Or, becauſe it was fit he ſhould not exalt, but abaſe himſelf, when he was to appear before the Divine Majeſty, and therefore he was to come in the meaneſt of his Prieſtly Habits: Or, that it might be an evidence of the Imperfection of this Prieſthood, and of the great difference between the Levitical, and the true High-Prieſt, Chriſt Jeſus, whoſe Prerogative alone it is to go into the true Holy of Holies with his glorious Robes, when this muſt carry thither the Characters of his meanneſs. k Becauſe appropriated to an holy and religious uſe, for which reaſon other things are called holy. See Exod. 29. 31. and 30. 25. and 2 Chron. 5. 5.

5 And he ſhall take of the congregation of the children of Iſrael, two kids of the goats for a ſin-offering, and one ram for a burnt-offering.

6 And Aaron ſhall offer his bullock of the ſin-offering, which is for himſelf, and make * an atonement for himſelf, and for his houſe l.

* Heb. 9. 7.

l (i. e.) His Family, as Gen. 7. 1. to wit, the Prieſts and Levites. See Numb. 1. 49.

7 And he ſhall take the two goats, and preſent them before the LORD at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

8 And Aaron ſhall caſt lots upon the two goats: one lot for the LORD m, and the other lot for the † ſcape-goat.

m For the Lord's uſe and ſervice by way of Sacrifice. Both this and the other Goat typified Chriſt, this in his Death and Paſſion for us, that in his Reſurrection for our deliverance.

9 And Aaron ſhall bring the goat upon which the LORDS lot † fell n, and offer him for a ſin-offering.

† Heb. went up.

n So the Lot is ſaid to fall, Jonah 1. 7. Act. 1. 26. Heb. went up, to wit, out of the Veſſel into which the Lots were put, and out of which they were brought up.

10 But the goat on which the lot fell to be the ſcape-goat, ſhall be preſented alive before the LORD, to make an atonement with him o, and to let him go for a ſcape-goat into the wilderneſs.

o In manner hereafter expreſſed, ver. 21, 22.

11 And Aaron ſhall bring the bullock p of the ſin-offering, which is for himſelf, and ſhall make an atonement for himſelf, and for his houſe, and ſhall kill the bullock of the ſin-offering which is for himſelf.

p Mentioned in general ver. 6. The Ceremonies whereof are here particularly deſcribed. This was a differing Bullock or Heifer from that Numb. 19, as appears by comparing the places.

12 And he ſhall take a cenſer full of burning coals of fire from off the altar q before the LORD, and his hands full of ſweet incenſe r beaten ſmall, and bring it within the vail ſ.

q To wit, of Burnt-offering, where the Fire was always burning, and whence Fire was taken for ſuch uſes as theſe. r Of which ſee Exod. 30. 34, 35, 38. ſ (i. e.) Into the Holy of Holies, ver. 2.

13 And

13 And he ſhall put the incenſe upon the fire t before the LORD, that the cloud of the incenſe may cover the mercy-ſeat that is upon the teſtimony, that he die not u.

t Which was in the Cenſer, ver. 12. u For ſo groſs an Error committed in the higheſt Acts of Worſhip, and that by an High-Prieſt, whoſe Knowledg and Function was a great aggravation to his Sin.

14 And * he ſhall take of the blood of the bullock, and * ſprinkle it with his finger upon the mercy-ſeat x eaſtward y: and before the mercy-ſeat z ſhall he ſprinkle of the blood with his finger ſeven times.

* Heb. 9. 13. and 10. 4.
* Chap. 4. 6.

x To teach us, that God is merciful to Sinners only through and for the Blood of Chriſt. y (i. e.) With his Face Eaſt-ward, or upon the Eaſtern part of it, towards the People, who were in the Court which lay Eaſtward from the Holy of Holies, which was the moſt Weſtern part of the Tabernacle. This ſignified that the High-Prieſt in this act repreſented the People, and that God accepted it on their behalf. z On the Ground.

15 Then ſhall he kill a the goat of the ſin-offering that is for the people, and bring his blood within the vail, and do with that blood as he did with the blood of the bullock, and ſprinkle it upon the mercy-ſeat, and before the mercy-ſeat.

a Either this was done before he entred into the Holy of Holies, though it be mentioned after, ſuch tranſ-placings of Paſſages being not unuſual: or rather he went out of the Holy of Holies, and killed it, and then returned thither again with its Blood, and this agrees beſt with the Text, nor are Tranſpoſitions to be allowed without neceſſity. And whereas the High-Prieſt is ſaid to be allowed to enter into that place but once in a Year, that is to be underſtood, but one day in a Year, though there ſeems to have been occaſion of going in and coming out more than once upon that day.

16 And he ſhall make an atonement for the holy place b, becauſe of the uncleanneſſes of the children of Iſrael c, and becauſe of their tranſgreſſions in all their ſins: and ſo ſhall he do for the tabernacle of the congregation that † remaineth among them, in the midſt of their uncleanneſſes d.

b Of which ſee below ver. 19, 20. and Exod. 29. 36. Lev. 8. 15. Heb. 9. 13. c For though the People did not enter into that place, yet their Sins entred thither, and would hinder the Effects of the High-Prieſts Mediation on their behalf, if God was not reconciled to them. d Encompaſſed with their Sins, being in the midſt of a ſinful People who defile not themſelves only, but alſo God's Sanctuary, as God complains, Ezek. 23. 38, 39.

17 * And there ſhall be no man in the tabernacle † of the congregation e, when he goeth in to make an atonement in the holy place, until he come out, and have made an atonement for himſelf, and for his houſhold, and for all the congregation of Iſrael.

* Luk. 1. 10.
† Heb. of meeting.

e (i. e.) In the holy place, where the Prieſts and Levites were at other times. This was commanded for the greater Reverence to the Divine Majeſty then in a more ſpecial manner appearing, and that none of them might caſt an eye into the Holy of Holies, as the High-prieſt went in or came out.

18 And he ſhall go out unto the altar f that is before the LORD, and make an atonement for it, and ſhall take of the blood of the bullock, and of the blood of the goat, and put it upon the horns of the altar round about.

f To wit, the Altar of Incenſe, where the Blood of Sacrifices was to be put, Levit. 4. 4. and particularly the Blood of the ſin-offerings offered upon this day of atonement, Exod. 30. 10. and which is moſt truly and properly ſaid to be before the Lord, i. e. before the place where God in ſpecial manner dwelt, to wit, the Holy of Holies. Some underſtand it of the Altar of Burnt-offerings, becauſe he is ſaid to go out to it. But that going out relates not to the Tabernacle, but to the Holy of Holies, into which he was ſaid to go in, ver. 17. Add to this, that this Altar which is atoned by the High-prieſt ſeems to be in that place where he only might now come, and therefore in the holy place, called here the Tabernacle, from which all other Prieſts were for this day excluded, whereas the Altar of Burnt-offerings was without the holy place or Tabernacle, to wit, at the door of it, and in the Court of the Prieſts.

19 And he ſhall ſprinkle of the blood upon it with his finger ſeven times g, and cleanſe it, and hallow it from the uncleanneſſes of the children of Iſrael.

g To ſignify its perfect cleanſing, Seven being a number of Perfection, and our perfect Reconciliation by the Blood of Chriſt here repreſented.

20 And when he hath made an end of reconciling the holy place, and the tabernacle of the congregation, and the altar, he ſhall bring the live goat.

21 And Aaron ſhall lay both his hands h upon the head of the live goat, and confeſs over him i all the iniquities of the children of Iſrael, and all their tranſgreſſions in all their ſins k, putting them upon the head l of the goat, and ſhall ſend him away by the hand of † a fit man m into the wilderneſs n.

† Heb. a man of opportunity.

h See on Exod. 29. 10. and Lev. 1. 4. i Confeſſion of Sin being a duty to accompany the Sacrifice offered for it, as we ſee Lev. 5. 5. Numb. 5. 7. k Or, with or according to all their Sins: for ſo the Hebrew Particle is oft uſed. He mentions Iniquities, Tranſgreſſions, and Sins, to note Sins of all ſorts, and that a very free and full Confeſſion was to be made, and that the ſmalleſt Sins needed, and the greateſt Sins were not excluded from, the benefit of Chriſt's Death here repreſented. l Charging all their Sins, and the Puniſhment due to them, upon the Goat, which tho only a Ceremony, yet being done according to God's appointment, and manifeſtly pointing at Chriſt upon whom their Iniquities and Puniſhments were laid, Iſa. 53. 5, 6. it was available for this end. And hence the Heathens took their cuſtom of ſelecting one Beaſt or Man, upon whom they laid all their Imprecations and Curſes, and whom they killed as an Expiatory Sacrifice for their Sins, and to prevent their ruine. m One that knows the Wilderneſs, and the way to it, and what places in it are moſt convenient for that uſe. Heb. a Man of time, i. e. of Years and Diſcretion, who may be truſted with this work. n Which ſignified the removal of their Sins far away both from the People, and out of God's ſight, or from the place of his Preſence. And here the Goat being neglected by all Men, and expoſed to many hardſhips and hazards from wild Beaſts, which were numerous there, might further ſignify Chriſt's being forſaken both by God and by Men, even by his own Diſciples, and the many Dangers and Sufferings he underwent. The Jews write, that this Goat was carried to the Mountain called Azazel, whence the Goat is ſo called, ver. 10. and that there he was caſt down headlong, and that the red ſtring, by which he was led, turned white, when God was pleaſed with the Iſraelites, otherwiſe it remained red: and then they mourned all that Year. And the ancient Hebrews write, that 40 Years before the deſtruction of the Temple, which was about the time of Chriſt's Death, this red ſtring turned no more white.

22 And the goat ſhall bear upon him all their iniquities unto a land † not inhabited: and he ſhall let go the goat in the wilderneſs.

† Heb. of ſeparation.

23 And Aaron ſhall come o into the tabernacle of the congregation, and ſhall put off the linen garments which he put on, when he went into the holy place, and ſhall leave them there.

o Forthwith, not expecting the return of the Man who carried the Goat away, but ſecurely committing that to God's Providence he ſhall go on in his work.

24 And he ſhall waſh his fleſh with water in the holy place p, and put on his garments q, and come forth, and offer his burnt-offering, and the burnt-offering of the people, and make an atonement for himſelf, and for the people.

p Either in the Laver appointed for that purpoſe. Or, in ſome other Veſſel within the holy place, becauſe after he had waſhed in it, he is ſaid to come forth. q Not his ordinary Prieſtly Linen Garments, for he was to leave them in the Tabernacle, ver. 23. but the High-prieſtly Garments, called his Garments properly and peculiarly, and by way of diſtinction from the former Garments which are called holy Garments, ver. 4. and the Linen Garments, ver. 23. but never his Garments, as theſe are. And this change of his Garments was not without cauſe. For the common Prieſtly Garments were more proper and fit for him in the former part of his Miniſtration, both becauſe he was to appear before the Lord in the moſt holy place to humble himſelf, and make Atonement for his own and the Peoples Sins, and therefore his humbleſt and meaneſt Attire was moſt fit; and becauſe he was to lay his hands upon that Goat on which all their Sins were put, by which touch both he and his Garments would be in ſome ſort defiled, and therefore, as we read here, that he waſhed himſelf, or his Fleſh; ſo we may well preſume his Linen Garments were laid by for the waſhing, as the Clothes of him who carried away the Scape-goat were waſhed, ver. 26. And the High-prieſtly Garments were moſt proper for the latter part of his work, which was of another nature.

25 And the * fat of the ſin-offering ſhall he burn upon the altar.

CHAP. XVII.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Speak unto Aaron, and unto his ſons, and unto all the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, This is the thing which the LORD hath commanded, ſaying,

3 What man ſoever there be of the houſe of Iſrael, that killeth a an oxe, or lamb, or goat in the camp b, or that killeth it out of the camp b, a Not for common uſe or eating, for ſuch Beaſts might be killed by any Perſon or in any place, but for Sacrifice, as manifeſtly appears both from ver. 4. where that is expreſſed, and from the reaſon of this Law, which is peculiar to Sacrifices, ver. 5. and from Deut. 12. 5, 15, 21. b In Canaan the City anſwered to the Camp, and ſo it forbids any Man's doing this either in the City or in the Country.

4 And bringeth it not unto the door of the tabernacle c of the congregation, to offer an offering unto the LORD before the tabernacle of the LORD, blood ſhall be imputed unto that man d: he hath ſhed blood, and that man ſhall be cut off from among his people e:

c This was appointed, partly in oppoſition to the Heathens, who ſacrificed in all places; partly to cut off occaſions of Idolatry; partly to prevent the Peoples Uſurpation of the Prieſts Office; and partly to ſignify, that God would accept of no Sacrifices but through Chriſt, and in the Church; (of both which the Tabernacle was a Type. See Heb. 9. 11.) and according to his own preſcript. But though Men were tied to this Law, God was free to diſpenſe with his own Law, which he did ſometimes to the Prophets, as 1 Sam. 7. 9. and 11. 15, &c. and afterwards more fully and generally in the days of the Meſſiah, Mal. 1. 11. Joh. 4. 21, 24. d He ſhall be eſteemed and puniſhed as a Murderer both by God and by Men. See Iſa. 66. 3. The reaſon is, becauſe he ſhed that Blood, which though not Man's Blood, yet was as precious, being ſacred and appropriated to God, and typically the Price by which Mens Lives were ranſomed. e By Death, either by the hand of God, in caſe Men do not know it, or neglect to puniſh it, or by Men, if the Fact was publick and evident.

5 To the end that the children of Iſrael may bring their ſacrifices, which they f offer in the open field, even that they may bring them unto the LORD, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation unto the prieſt, and offer them for peace-offerings g unto the LORD.

f Either, 1. the Egyptians and other Idolatrous Nations, which commonly ſacrificed to Idols or Devils in Fields, or any places: who are not here named, but may be deſigned by the Particle they, in way of contempt, as if they were not worthy to be named, as that Particle is uſed, Luk. 14. 24. and 19. 27. Joh. 7. 11. and 8. 10. Or rather, 2. the Iſraelites now mentioned, and plainly underſtood in the following they, who, before the building of the Tabernacle, took the ſame liberty herein which the Gentiles did, from which they are now reſtrained. g He nameth theſe not excluſively to others, as appears from the Reaſon of the Law, and from ver. 8, 9. but eſpecially, becauſe in theſe the Temptation was more common in regard of their frequency; and more powerful, becauſe part of theſe belonged to the Offerer; and the pretence was more plauſible, becauſe their Sanctity was ſomething of a lower degree than others, theſe being only called holy, and allowed in part to the People, when the other are called moſt holy, and were wholly appropriated either to God, or to the Prieſts.

6 And the prieſts ſhall ſprinkle the blood h upon the altar of the LORD, at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and burn the fat * for a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD.

* Exod 29. 18. chap. 4. 31.

h This Verſe contains a reaſon of the foregoing Law, becauſe of God's propriety in the Blood and Fat, wherewith alſo God was well pleaſed, and the People reconciled. And theſe two parts only are mentioned, as the moſt eminent and peculiar, though other parts alſo were reſerved for God.

7 And they ſhall no more offer their ſacrifices unto devils i, after whom they have gone a whoring k: This ſhall be a ſtatute for ever unto them throughout their generations.

i So they did not directly or intentionally, but by Conſtruction and Conſequence, becauſe the Devil is the Author of Idolatry, and is eminently ſerved, pleaſed and honoured by it. And as the Egyptians were notorious for their Idolatry, as appears by the Teſtimony of Scripture, and of all ancient Writers, ſo the Iſraelites were infected with their Leaven, Joſ. 24. 14. Ezek. 20. 7. and 23. 2, 3. And the name of Devils is commonly given in Scripture to Idols, yea even to thoſe which ſeemed moſt innocent, as to Jeroboam's Calves, 2 Chron. 11. 15. by which he and the People deſigned and profeſſed to worſhip the true God; as is manifeſt from the nature of the thing, and from many places of Scripture. And the Worſhippers of Idols are eſteemed and called Worſhippers of Devils. See Deut. 32. 17. Pſal. 106. 37. 1 Cor. 10. 20. Rev. 9. 20. The Hebrew word rendred Devils, ſignifies Goats, either becauſe Goats were eminently worſhipped by the Egyptians, as Herodotus, Strabo, and others note, and divers of the Idols of the Heathens were of that or a like form; or becauſe the Devil did oft appear to the Heathens in that ſhape, as their own Authors note. k For Idolatry, eſpecially in God's People, is commonly called Whoredom, as Ezek. 16. 16, 26. & 23. 8, 19, 21, &c. and that juſtly, becauſe it is a Violation of that Covenant by which they were peculiarly betrothed or married to God. See Hoſ. 2. 19. & 18. 19.

8 And thou ſhalt ſay unto them, Whatſoever man there be of the houſe of Iſrael, or of the ſtrangers which ſojourn among you, that offereth a burnt-offering, or ſacrifice,

9 And

9 And bringeth it not unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, to offer it unto the LORD, even that man shall be cut off from among his people.

* Gen. 9. 4. chap. 7. 26. & 19. 26. Deut. 12. 16. & 15. 23. 1 Sam. 14. 33. Ezek. 44. 7. * Jer. 44. 11.

10 * And whatsoever man there be of the house of Israel, or of the strangers that sojourn among you, that eateth any manner of blood, * I will even set my face against that soul l that eateth blood, and will cut him off from among his people.

l (i. e.) I will be an Enemy to him, and execute Vengeance upon him immediately, because such Persons probably would do this in private so as the Magistrate could not know nor punish it. See this, or the like Phrase, Lev. 20. 3. and 26. 17. Jer. 3. 12. Ezek. 14. 8.

† Heb. Soul.

11 For the † life of the flesh m is in the blood n, and I have given it to you upon the altar, to make an atonement for your souls: for it is the blood that maketh an atonement for the soul o.

m (i. e.) Of living Creatures. n (i. e.) It depends upon the Blood, is preserved and nourished by it, and is extinguished when the Blood is gone. And this Law was given to the Jews, an hard-hearted People, as they are oft said to be, that by this restraint from the Blood of brute Creatures, they might be wrought to the greater Abhorrency of taking away the Life of a Man. o Typically, and in respect of the Blood of Christ which is represented, by which the Atonement is really made, Heb. 9. 12. So the reason is double; 1. because this was the eating up of the Price or Ransom of their own Lives, which in Construction was the destroying of themselves. 2. Because this was Ingratitude and Irreverence towards that sacred Blood of Christ, which they ought to have in continual Veneration.

12 Therefore I said unto the children of Israel, No soul of you shall eat blood, neither shall any stranger that sojourneth among you eat blood.

† Heb. that hunteth any hunting. * Chap. 7. 26.

13 And whatsoever man there be of the children of Israel, or of the strangers that sojourn among you, † which * hunteth and catcheth any beast p or fowl that may be eaten, he shall even pour out the blood thereof, and cover it with dust q.

p He instanceth in this kind; either because Persons much given to that Exercise are commonly too licentious, and being in haste might easily transgress; or because some might think the former Prohibition did reach only to the Blood of such Creatures as were offered to God in Sacrifice. q Partly to beget an honourable respect unto the Blood even of Beasts, and much more of Men; partly lest the Beasts should lick it up, and by tasting the sweetness of it, be made more fierce and cruel to devour and destroy others; and partly as a license from God, upon this condition giving them a right to kill and eat such Creatures, without any fear of the Blood being imputed to them: for as the not covering of the Blood portends the Punishment which the Sin of Blood-shedding calls for, Job 16. 18. Ezek. 24. 7, 8. so covering it, notes Impunity.

* Gen. 9. 4. † Heb. Soul. † Heb. Soul. † Heb. Soul.

14 * For it is the † life of all flesh, the blood of it is for the † life thereof: therefore I said unto the children of Israel, Ye shall eat the blood of no manner of flesh: for the † life of all flesh is the blood thereof: whosoever eateth it, shall be cut off.

* Exod. 22. 31. Ezek. 44. 31. † Heb. a carcase. * Chap. 22. 8.

15 * And every soul that eateth r † * that which died of it self, or that which was torn with beasts, (whether it be one of your own country, or a stranger s) he shall both wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, and be unclean until the even: then shall he be clean.

r To wit, through Ignorance or Inadvertency, as appears by the slightness of the Punishment; for if it was done knowingly, it was a presumptuous Sin against an express Law here; and Deut. 14. 21. and therefore more severely punished. s Understand of the Proselytes, either of the Proselytes of the Gate, who were obliged to observe the Precepts of Noah, whereof this was one, or of the Proselytes of Righteousness, or converts to the Jewish Religion: for other Strangers were allowed to eat such things, Deut. 14. 21.

16 But if he wash them not, nor bathe his flesh; then he shall bear his iniquity t.

t (i. e.) The Punishment of it, and therefore must offer a Sacrifice for it. See Levit. 5. 1, 2, &c. and 7. 18.

CHAP. XVIII.

1 AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, I am the LORD your God a.

a Your Soveraign, and Lawgiver. This is oft repeated here, because the things here forbidden were practised and allowed by the Gentiles, to whose Custom he here opposeth Divine Authority, and their obligation to obey his Commands.

3 After the doings of the land of Egypt b, wherein ye dwelt, shall ye not do; and after the doings of the land of Canaan b, whither I bring you, shall ye not do: neither shall ye walk in their ordinances c.

b These two Nations he mentions, because their Habitation and Conversation among them made their evil example in the following matters more dangerous. But under them he includes all other Nations, as he elsewhere expresseth it. c Or Statutes, either because their Laws did indeed allow such things, or because prevailing Customs have the force of Laws.

4 Ye shall do my judgments d, and keep mine ordinances d, to walk therein: I am the LORD your God.

d Mine universally, Deut. 27. 26. Gal. 3. 10. for though the words be indefinite, the matter is necessary, and mine solely, Deut. 6. 13. compared with Mat. 4. 10. and therefore those that here follow, though you do not see the particular reason of some of them, and though they be contrary to the Laws and Usages of the Nations.

5 Ye shall therefore keep my statutes, and my judgments: * which if a man do, he shall live in them e: I am the LORD.

* Ezek. 20. 11, 13. Luk. 10. 28. Rom. 10. 5. Gal. 3. 12.

e Not only happily here, but also eternally hereafter, as it is expounded, Mat. 19. 17. Rom. 10. 5. This is added as a powerful Argument why they should follow God's Commands rather than Mens Examples, because their Life and Happiness depends upon the one, not the other. And though in strictness and according to the Law or Covenant of Works they could not challenge Life for doing, except their Obedience was universal, perfect, constant and perpetual, and therefore no Man since the Fall could be justified by the Law, as the Apostle affirms and proves, Rom. 4. and Gal. 3. yet by the Covenant of Grace this Life is promised to all that obey God's Commands sincerely, though not perfectly, 1 Tim. 4. 8.

6 None f of you shall approach g to any that is † near of kin to him h, to uncover their nakedness i: I am the LORD.

f Heb. No Man. For though the Women also be bound by this Law, yet the Men alone are mentioned, both because they are most active in the choice of their Yoke-fellows, and therefore most likely to transgress these Laws, and because they having Authority over the Women, could have the greater influence upon them by their Power, Counsel, or Example, to oblige them either to the Observation or Violation of them. g This word signifies the Conjugal Act here, as it doth Gen. 20. 4. Isa. 8. 3. but because it is ambiguous in it self, it is so limited and explained in the end of the Verse. h This is the general Rule, which is particularly expounded and applied in the following instances. And these Laws are so just and reasonable, that although the barbarous Nations did allow of such incestuous Marriages, yet wiser and civil Heathens by the meer Light of Nature condemned them, as may be seen in Suetonius, Tacitus, Catullus, and others. i (i. e.) Their secret parts, so called, to put us in mind of the Fall of our first Parents, whose first sense and shame of their Nakedness had its rise from thence. This Phrase notes the same thing with knowing, Gen. 4. 1. and with discovering ones Skirt, Deut. 22. 30. and 27. 20.

7 The nakedness of thy father, or k the nakedness of thy mother, shalt thou not uncover: she is thy mother l, thou shalt not uncover her nakedness.

k Heb. And, put for that is, or to wit, as it is oft used. Here it notes, that the Nakedness of the Father, and the Nakedness of the Mother are one and the same thing, because they two are one Flesh, and therefore her Nakedness is his also. Which further appears, because the Mother only is mentioned in the following words, which contain the Reason of the Law. l And therefore even Nature teacheth thee to abhor such Incest. Yet the Persians used to marry their Mother, therein worse than the very Camels, whom no force will drive to that Act with their Dams.

* Chap. 20. 11. Deut. 22. 30. and 27. 20. Amos 2. 7.

8 * The nakedness of thy fathers wife m shalt thou not uncover: it is thy fathers nakedness n.

m (i. e.) Thy Step-mother. Examples of this are Gen. 35. 22. and 49. 4. 1 Cor. 5. 1. n By Interest and Relation, that which he only may uncover.

9 * The

* Chap. 20. 17. 2 Sam. 13. 12. Ezek. 22. 11.

9 * The nakedness of thy sister o, the daughter of thy father p, or daughter of thy mother, whether she be born at home q, or born abroad r, even their nakedness thou shalt not uncover.

o By both Parents. p Thy Sister by either of thy Parents. q To wit, of thy Father by another Wife, whom he hath taken into his House. r Either of thy Mother by another, whether a former or a second Husband, in another House and Family: or, of thy Father by some strange Woman: for there might be some doubt in these cases.

10 The nakedness of thy sons daughter, or of thy daughters daughter s, even their nakedness thou shalt not uncover: for theirs is thine own nakedness t.

s And consequently of all thy Children, and Childrens Children, and all downwards. t They are a part of thy self, as coming out of thy Loins, and out of thy Wife, whose Nakedness is thine own.

11 The nakedness of thy fathers wives daughter, begotten of thy father u, (she is thy sister) thou shalt not uncover her nakedness.

u Or, being akin to thy Father. He seems to speak of the Daughter of the Father's Brother by his Wife, whom the Father here spoken of, being Brother to the deceased Person, married by virtue of that Law, Deut. 25. 5. by which Marriage there was a near kindred contracted between the two Families, so that the Son of the one could not marry the Daughter of the other. Thus this Law is differing from that ver. 9. And that seems more probable, than that in so brief a Table of Laws the same thing should be forbidden both there and here. Obj. The word being the same here, and ver. 9. must be understood in the same sense, and therefore here must be rendred begotten or born, as it is there. Ans. It may be rendred there as well as here, akin, as some render the words there, of domestick, or of another a foreign kindred: and if the word had been participially put for begotten, or born, it is likely the Preposition Mem or Lamed would have been prefixed to the Hebrew word Abicha, as is common in those cases.

* Chap. 20. 19. † Heb. flesh. Gen. 37. 27.

12 * Thou shalt not uncover the nakedness of thy fathers sister x: she is thy fathers † near kinswoman y.

x Thy Aunt by the Father's side, as the next Verse speaks of the Aunt by the Mothers side. If Amrams example be alledged to the contrary, see on Exod. 6. 20. y Heb. thy Father's Flesh, a member and product of the same Flesh from which thy Father came.

† Heb. flesh.

13 Thou shalt not uncover the nakedness of thy mothers sister: for she is thy mothers † near kinswoman.

* Chap. 20. 20.

14 * Thou shalt not uncover the nakedness of thy fathers brother z, thou shalt not approach to his wife: she is thine aunt †.

z (i. e.) Of his Wife, as the next words explain it. And as a Man may not marry his Aunt, so neither may a Woman marry her Uncle, there being altogether the same distance in Kindred, and the self-same reason of the Law. And for the Examples of Abraham, Amram, Othoniel, &c. to the contrary, they were before the Publication of this Law, by which it pleased God to restrain the liberty allowed formerly, when the holy Seed was in a narrower compass, and fewer Persons, which altered the case. For in that regard there was a time when God allowed Brethren and Sisters to marry, to wit, when there were no other in the World, which was the case of Adam's immediate Children. We learn from hence, that the same degrees are forbidden in consanguinity, or kindred by Blood, and in affinity or kindred by Marriage.

† Some infer from hence, that it is unlawful for Cousin-Germans, or the Children of Brethren and Sisters to marry. But there is not the same reason, nor the same degree of distance; for my Uncle or Aunt are nearer akin to me than their Children are. Yet because it seems doubtful to many, and may hereafter prove occasion of grievous Perplexities of Mind, especially to tender and scrupulous Consciences, Christian Prudence directs us to chuse the safest way, there being so great a latitude of unquestionable Persons.

* Chap. 20. 12. Ezek. 22. 11.

15 * Thou shalt not uncover the nakedness of thy daughter in law: she is thy sons wife, thou shalt not uncover her nakedness.

* Chap. 20. 21. Matth. 14. 4.

16 * Thou shalt not uncover the nakedness of thy brothers wife a: it is thy brothers nakedness.

a Neither in his life-time, nor after his Death, and therefore a Woman might not marry her Husbands Brother, nor might a Man marry his Wives Sister, either before or after his Wives Death, for so all the Prohibitions are to be understood: which will give light to ver. 18. But God, who can undoubtedly dispense with his own Laws, did afterwards make one exception to this Rule, of which see Deut. 25. 5.

* Chap. 20.

17 * Thou shalt not uncover the nakedness of a woman and her daughter b, neither shalt thou take her sons daughter, or her daughters daughter, to uncover her nakedness: For they are her near kinswomen: it is wickedness c.

b To wit, thy Step-Daughter, and so they Step-Sons Daughter, &c. c Because they are very near to thy Wife by Consanguinity, as coming directly from her, and therefore they are as near to thee by Affinity, which binds as much as Consanguinity, the Wife, who is only related by Affinity, being nearer to a Man than any other by Consanguinity, they two being made one Flesh, and therefore the same distance is to be observed in both of them.

‖ Or, one Wife to another.

18 Neither shalt thou take ‖ a wife to her sister d, to vex her, to uncover her nakedness besides the other, in her life time e.

d The word Sister is here understood either, 1. properly, so some: whence others infer, that it is lawful to marry ones Wives Sister after the Wives death. Or, 2. Improperly, for any other Woman, as not only Persons, but Things of the same kind are oft called Sisters and Brethren, of which see plain Examples, Exod. 32. 27, 29. Ezek. 16. 45, 48, 49. So the sense is, thou shalt not take one Woman to another. And this sense may seem more probable, 1. Because else here were a tautology, the Marriage of a Man with his Wives Sister being sufficiently forbidden, ver. 16. where Marriage with his Brother's Wife is forbidden, as also ver. 9. & 11. where he forbids the Marriage of ones own Sister, and consequently the Marriage of ones Wives Sister, it being manifest and confessed that Affinity and Consanguinity are of the same consideration and obligation in these matters. Nor can this be added for Explication, for then the Comment would be darker than the Text, nay, it would destroy the Text; for then what was simply, and absolutely, and universally forbidden before, is here forbidden doubtfully and restrainedly, and might at least seem to be allowed after the Wives Death; which is rejected by those who own the former Interpretation. 2. Because the reason of this Prohibition, which is, lest he should vex her thereby, is much more proper and effectual against marrying any other Woman, than against marrying the Wives Sister, so near and dear a Relation being most commonly and probably a means to induce them rather to love and please and serve, than to vex one another in such a Relation. And therefore to take her natural Sister to vex her, would seem a course unsuitable to his end or design. 3. Some add another reason, that Polygamy, which Christ condemns Mat. 19. 5. is either forbidden here, or no where in the Law. But this may admit of great dispute. And it is observable that Christ confutes Polygamy, and Divorces, not by any of Moses his Laws (which probably he would not have omitted, if they had been to his purpose) but by the first Institution of Marriage, Gen. 2. 23. whence also Malachi seems to fetch his Argument, Chap. 2. 14, 15. And that Law Deut. 21. 15, 16. may seem to intimate that God did then, in consideration of the hard-heartedness of the Jewish Nation, dispense with that first and primitive Law, especially if we consider the Practice of divers holy Men amongst the Jews, not only before the Law, as Abraham and Jacob, but also after it, as Elkanah and David, who would never have lived in the violation of a known Law; or, if they had, would have been blamed for it: whereas on the contrary, God mentions it as one of his Favours vouchsafed to David, that he gave him his Masters Wives into his bosom, 2 Sam. 12. 8. and affirms, that David turned not aside from any thing that he commanded him all the days of his Life, save only in the matter of Uriah, 1 King. 15. 5. Peradventure therefore it may deserve some consideration, which a Learned Man in part suggests, that this Text doth not simply forbid the taking of one Wife to another, but the doing of it in such a manner, or for such an end, that he may vex, or punish, or revenge himself of the former, which probably was a common Motive amongst that hard-hearted People to do so, and therefore the forbidding hereof might give a great check to the practice of Polygamy amongst them. e This clause is added, to signifie God's allowance to marry one Wife after another, when she is dead, and thereby to intimate how the word Sister is to be understood.

* Chap. 20. 18. Ezek. 22. 10.

19 * Also thou shalt not approach unto a woman f to uncover her nakedness, as long as she is put apart for her uncleanness.

f No not to thy own Wife. See Chap. 12. 2. and 15. 24, 25. This was not only a Ceremonial Pollution, but an Immorality also, whence it is put amongst gross Sins, Ezek. 18. 6. There is also a natural turpitude in this Action. And therefore it is now unlawful under the Gospel.

* Exod. 20. 14. chap. 20. 10.

20 Moreover *, thou shalt not lie carnally with thy neighbours wife, to defile thy self with her.

* Chap. 20. 2 King. 23. † called Act. 7. 43. Molock.

21 And thou shalt not let any of thy seed * pass through the fire g to † Molech h, neither shalt thou prophane the name of thy God i: I am the LORD.

g This was done two ways, either, 1. By burning them in the Fire, of which see 2 Kings 3. 27. 2 Chron. 28. 3. Psal. 106. 37, 38.

* Jer. 9. Ezek. 23.

37, 38. Isa. 57. 1. Or, 2. By making them pass between two great Fires, which was a kind of Lustration or Consecration of them to that God. Which latter seems to be here meant. See on Deut. 18. 10. where the word Fire, here understood, is expressed. h Or, Moloch, called also Milcom, an Idol chiefly of the Ammonites, as appears from 1 King. 11. 7. 2 King. 23. 13. Jer. 49. 1, 3. This seems to be the Saturn of the Heathens, to whom especially Children and Men were sacrificed. This is mentioned, because the Neighbours of Israel were most infected with this Idolatry, and therefore they are particularly cautioned against it, though under this one instance all other Idols and Acts, or kinds of Idolatry are manifestly comprehended and forbidden. i Either by joyning him with, or by forsaking him for such a base and bloody Idol, whereby the Name, Honour, and Service of God would be horribly defiled, and exposed to the scorn of the Heathen, as if he were but one of the same kind with their mungrel Deities.

* 1 Cor. 6. 9. 1 Tim. 1. 10.

22 * Thou shalt not lie with mankind k, as with woman-kind: it is abomination.

k See Levit. 20. 13. 1 King. 14. 24.

* Chap. 20. 15. and 22. 19.

23 * Neither shalt thou lie with any beast to defile thy self therewith: neither shall any woman stand before a beast to lie down thereto, it is confusion l.

l An horrible Confusion of the Natures which God hath distinguished, and of the Order which God hath appointed, and an overthrow of all bounds of Religion, Honesty, Sobriety and Modesty.

24 Defile not ye your selves in any of these things: for in all these m the Nations are defiled, which I cast out before you.

m To wit, above-mentioned Sins. Whence it is apparent, that the several Incests here prohibited, are not only against the positive and particular Law given by God to the Jews, but also against the general Law and Light of Nature. And therefore the Law about these things was one of the seven Precepts of Noah. And the sober Heathens condemned such incestuous Marriages. The Roman Historians observe, that when Claudius the Emperour had married his Neece (which is one of the lowest kinds of Incest here mentioned) and the Senate in complaisance with him had made it lawful for any to do so, yet there was but one, and he too an obscure Person, that followed his Example.

25 And the land is defiled: therefore I do visit m the iniquity thereof upon it, and the land it self vomiteth out her inhabitants n.

m I am now visiting, or about to visit, (i. e.) to punish. See Isa. 26. 21. n As no less burdens to the Earth than corrupted Food is to the Stomack. See Jer. 9. 19. Mic. 2. 10.

* Chap. 20. 22.

26 * Ye shall therefore keep my statutes and my judgments, and shall not commit any of these abominations, neither any of your own nation, nor any stranger o that sojourneth among you:

o In Nation or Religion, of what kind soever. For though they might not force them to submit to their Religion, yet they might restrain them from the publick contempt of the Jewish Laws, and from the violation of Natural Laws, which, besides the Offence against God and Nature, were matters of evil Example and Consequence to the Israelites themselves.

27 (For all these abominations have the men of the land done, which were before you, and the land is defiled.)

* Jer. 9. 19. Ezek. 36, 13, 17.

28 That * the land spue not you out also, when ye defile it, as it spued out the nations that were before you.

29 For whosoever shall commit any of these abominations, even the souls that commit them, shall be cut off p from among their people.

p To wit, by Death to be inflicted by the Magistrates, as it is apparent in case of Idolatry with Moloch, or other false Gods; and, in case of the Magistrates neglect, by God himself. This Phrase therefore of cutting off, is to be understood variously, as many other Phrases are, either of Ecclesiastical, or Civil and Corporal Punishment, according to the differing natures of the Offences for which it is inflicted.

30 Therefore shall ye keep mine ordinance, that ye commit not any one of these abominable customs, which were committed before you, and that ye defile not your selves therein: I am the LORD your God.

CHAP. XIX.

1 AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto all the congregation of the children of Israel, and say unto them, * Ye shall be holy a: for I the LORD your God am holy b. * Chap. 11. 44. and 20. 7. 1 Per. 1. 16.

a Separated from all the fore-mentioned Defilements, and intirely consecrated to God, and obedient to all his Laws and Statutes. b Both in my Essence, and in all my Laws, which are holy, and just, and good, and in all my Actions: Whereas the Gods of the Heathen are unholy both in their Laws and Institutions, whereby they allow and require filthy and abominable Actions, and in their Practices, some of them having given wicked Examples to their Worshippers.

3 * Ye shall fear every man his mother, and his father c, and keep * my sabbaths d: I am the LORD your God. * Exod. 20. 12. * Exod. 20. 8. and 31. 13.

c The Mother put first, partly because the Practice of this Duty begins there; Mothers by perpetual converse being more and sooner known to their Children than their Fathers, and partly because this Duty is most commonly neglected to the Mother, upon whom Children have not so much dependance as they have upon their Father. And this fear includes the two great Duties of Reverence and Obedience. d This is here added, to shew, that whereas it is enjoyned to Parents that they should take care that the Sabbath be observed both by themselves and by their Children, it is the Duty of Children to fear and obey their Parents in this matter; and moreover, that, if Parents should neglect their Duty herein, or by their Command, Counsel, or Example draw them to pollute the Sabbath, yet the Children in that case must keep the Sabbath, and in all such cases prefer the Command of God before the Commands of their Parents or Superiours.

4 * Turn ye not e unto Idols f, nor make to your selves * molten gods g: I am the LORD your God. * Exod. 20 4. * Exod. 34. 17. Deut. 27. 15.

e Turn not your Hearts and Faces from me, whom alone you pretend to respect, unto them. He intimates, that their turning to Idols is a turning from God, and that they could not serve both God and Idols. f The word signifies such as are no Gods, or nothings, as they are called, 1 Cor. 8. 4. many Idols having no being, but only in the fancy of their Worshippers, and all of them having no virtue or power to do good or evil, Isa. 41. 23. g Nor graven Gods neither, as appears from Exod. 20. whereby we learn, that such Expressions are generally to be understood Synecdochically.

5 And if he offer a sacrifice of peace-offerings unto the LORD, ye shall offer it at your own will h.

h Or, according to your own good pleasure, what you think fit: For though this in the general was required, yet it was left to their choice to determine the Particulars. See Levit. 7. 16. Or rather, to your acceptation, i. e. in such manner as it may be accepted by God on your behalf, which is explained in the next Verse, and not in such manner as to lose the end you aim at, to wit, God's acceptance: for if we do otherwise than God hath prescribed, it shall not be accepted, as he adds ver. 7. but on the contrary severely punished, ver. 8.

6 It shall be eaten the same day ye offer it, and on the morrow i: and if ought remain until the third day, it shall be burnt in the fire.

i By which Clause it appears that he speaks here only of that sort of Peace-offerings, which were offered either by vow, or freely, for the obtaining of some Mercy desired; for the other sort, which was by way of gratitude for Mercies received, were to be eaten the same day, Levit. 7. 15.

7 And if it be eaten at all on the third day: it is abominable, it shall not be accepted.

8 Therefore every one that eateth it, shall bear his iniquity k, because he hath prophaned the hallowed thing of the LORD, and that soul shall be cut off from among his people.

k (i. e.) The Punishment of his Iniquity, instead of acceptation he shall receive Punishment.

9 And * when ye reap the harvest of your land, thou shalt not wholly reap the corners of thy field, neither shalt thou gather the gleanings of thy harvest. * Chap. 23. 22. Deut. 24. 19. Ruth 2. 15, 16.

10 And thou shalt not glean thy vineyard, neither shalt thou gather every grape of thy vineyard: thou shalt leave them for the poor and stranger: I am the LORD your God l.

l Who gave you all these things, with a reservation of my Authority over you, and Right in them, and with a charge of giving part of them to the poor.

11 * Ye

* Exod. 20. 15. & 22. 1, 7, 10. chap. 6. 2.

11 * Ye shall not steal, neither deal falsly, neither lie one to another m.

m Or, one against another to the defrauding of him of any of his Goods, to which kind of lying the words foregoing and following seem here to restrain it, though it be true, that all sorts of lying are unlawful.

* Exod. 20. 7. chap. 6. 3. Deut. 5. 11. Matth. 5. 34. Jam. 5. 12.

12 And ye shall not * swear by my name falsly n, neither shalt thou prophane the name of thy God o: I am the LORD.

n This is here added, to shew, how one Sin draws on another, and that when Men will lie for their own advantage, they will easily be induced to Perjury. o By any unholy use of it. So it is an additional Precept, thou shalt not abuse my holy Name by swearing either falsly or rashly. Or, this may be a reason of the former prohibition, because in so doing thou wilt prophane the Name of thy God.

* Deut. 24. 14, 15. Mal. 3. 5. James 5. 4.

13 * Thou shalt not defraud thy neighbour, neither rob him: the wages p of him that is hired shall not abide with thee all night q, until the morning.

p Heb. the Work put for the Wages, as Deut. 24. 15. Job 7. 2. Jer. 22. 13. q Because his urgent Necessities require it for present subsistence.

* Deut. 27. 18.

14 Tho shalt not curse the deaf, * nor put a stumbling-block before the blind r, but shalt fear thy God s: I am the LORD.

r To make them fall. Under these two particulars are manifestly and especially forbidden all Injuries done to such as are unable to right or defend themselves: of whom God here takes the more care, because they are not able to secure themselves. s Who both discerns the Injuries you do them, and can avenge them, though the blind and deaf cannot.

* Exod. 23. 3. Deut. 1. 17. and 16. 19. Prov. 24. 23. Jam. 2. 9.

15 Ye shall do no unrighteousness in Judgment: thou shalt not * respect the person of the poor t, nor honour the person of the mighty: but in righteousness shalt thou judg thy neighbour.

t So as through pity to him to give an unrighteous Sentence. Compare Deut. 1. 17. and 10. 17. Prov. 24. 23.

* Exod. 23. 1.

16 * Thou shalt not go up and down as a tale-bearer u among thy people: neither shalt thou stand x against the blood of thy neighbour: I am the LORD.

u Who makes it his business to go up and down from one to another, and divulge evil and false reports concerning others, which though many times it proceeds only from levity and talkativeness, yet apparently tends to the great Injury of our Neighbour. See Prov. 11. 13. Jer. 6. 28. and 9. 4. x To wit, in Judgment as a false Accuser, or false Witness; For Accusers and Witnesses use so stand, whilst the Judges sate, in Courts of Judicature.

* 1 Joh. 2. 11. * Mat. 18, 15. ‖ Or, that thou bear not sin for him.

17 * Thou shalt not hate y thy brother z in thine heart *: thou shalt in any wise rebuke thy neighbour a, ‖ and not suffer sin upon him b.

y To prevent Murder, last spoken of, he forbids Hatred, which is the common cause, and a degree of Murder, 1 Joh. 3. 15. z The same with Neighbour, as it follows, i. e. every Man, Matth. 5. 44. for it is manifest, that God's Law commanded them to love Strangers no less than Israelites. a If thy Brother hath done thee, or others any Injury, thou shalt neither divulge it to others as a Tale-bearer, nor hate him, and smother that Hatred by sullen Silence, as 2 Sam. 13. 22. nor justifie, and flatter, and encourage him therein, but shalt freely and in Love, not with Hatred, tell him of his fault. b (i. e.) Not suffer him to lie under the guilt of any Sin, which thou by rebuking of him, and thereby bringing him to true Repentance, couldst in some sort free him from. But the Phrase of suffering Sin upon him, seems imperfect and unusual in Scripture, and I doubt whether the Hebrew Verb Nasa be ever used for permitting, or suffering. The words may be rendred thus, And (or so) thou shalt not bear Sin for him, or for his sake, thou shalt not make thy self guilty of his Sin, as thou wilt assuredly do, if thou dost not perform thy Duty of rebuking him for his Sin, which is a likely way, and a course appointed by God to remove the guilt of his Sin from him, and consequently, as it was his fault that he sinned and contracted Guilt, so it is thy fault, that his Guilt continues upon him. Many things favour this sense. 1. This is the proper and usual signification of the word Nasa. 2. The same words are used in this sense, Levit. 22. 9. Numb. 18. 32. 3. The Preposition Al is oft used thus, as Gen. 37. 8, 34. Judg. 9. 9. 1 King. 16. 7. 4. This Phrase of bearing Sin, or Iniquity, is constantly used in this Book for being guilty and liable to Punishment. And so the sense is here full and compleat, and a very weighty reason here given to enforce the foregoing Precept.

* Mat. 5. 43. & 22. 39. Rom. 13. 9. Gal. 5. 14. James 2. 8.

18 Thou shalt not avenge, nor bear any grudge c against the children of thy people, * but thou shalt love thy neighbour d, as thy self: I am the LORD.

c Heb. nor keep: Either, 1. The Injury here supposed, in thy memory: So it is opposed to those who say they will forgive, but not forget an Injury. Or, 2. Anger or Hatred in thy Heart. So this Verb is used, Jer. 3. 12. Nah. 1. 2. d By which he understands not the Israelites only, as some would perswade us, but every other Man with whom we converse; as plainly appears, 1. By comparing this place with verse 34. where this very Law is applied to Strangers. 2. Because the word Neighbour is explained by another Man, Levit. 20. 10. Rom 13. 8. See more on Exod. 20. 16.

19 Ye shall keep my statutes f. Thou shalt not let thy cattel gender with a diverse kind g: thou shalt not sow thy field with mingled seed h: neither shall a garment mingled of linen and woollen come upon thee.

f Either, 1. My Laws. So this is fitly premised, because otherwise some of the following Commands might seem trifling, and Obedience to them unnecessary: Or, 2. My Ordinances, to wit, of Nature, or the Order which I have appointed in Creatures, as the word is used Job 26. 10. and 38. 33. Psal. 148. 6. Prov. 8. 29. and therefore they shall not confound those things that I have distinguished, which were in some sort to reproach and correct my Works, and which may seem to be done in some of the following Instances. g This was prohibited, partly to restrain the curiosity and boldness of Men, who might attempt to amend or change the Works of God: Partly that by the restraints here laid, even upon brute Creatures, Men might be taught to abhor all unnatural and unlawful Lusts: Partly to teach the Israelites to avoid mixtures with other Nations either in Marriage or in Religion: Which also may be signified by the following Prohibitions. h See of this and the next, Deut. 22. 9, 10, 11.

20 And whosoever lieth carnally with a woman that is a bondmaid ‖ † betrothed to an husband, * and not at all redeemed, nor freedom given her, ‖ † she shall be scourged i: they shall not be put to death k, because she was not free l:

‖ Or, abused any. † Heb. reproached by, or, by Man.

* Or, reproached or despised, and therefore forsaken of her Husband. For as his continuance with her in his and her Master's Family and Service is mentioned as an evidence that he loved her, Exod. 21. 5, 6. So on the contrary, his forsaking of her was a Reproach to her, and a sign of Contempt. i Heb. There shall be a scourging, which may belong, either, 1. To her alone, as the Jews understand it, for the Man's Punishment follows, ver. 21, 22. Or, 2. To both of them: for 1. Both were guilty. 2. It follows, they shall not be punished with Death, which may seem to imply that they were to be punished by some other common and considerable Punishment, which scourging indeed was; but the paying of a Ram was a small Penalty, and very unsuitable to the greatness of the Offence. And the offering of the Ram as a trespass-offering for the Sin against God, is not inconsistent with making Satisfaction other ways for the Injury done to Men, as we may see Levit. 6. 4, 5, 6. but only added here as a further Punishment to the Man, either because he only could do this, and not the Woman, who being a Bond-Woman had nothing of her own to offer: Or because his Sex and his freedom aggravated his Sin. k Which they should have been, had she been free, Deut. 22. 23, 24. l The reason of this difference is not from any respect which God gives to Persons, for bond and free are alike to him but; because Bond-Women were scarce Wives, and their Marriages were scarce true Marriages, being neither made by their choice, but by their Master's Authority, nor continued beyond the Year of release, but at her Master's or Husband's pleasure: Of which see Exod. 21. 4, &c.

† Heb. be a scourging.

21 And * he shall bring his trespass-offering unto the LORD, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, even a ram for a trespass-offering.

* Chap. 5. 19

22 And the priest shall make an atonement for him with the ram of the trespass-offering before the LORD, for his Sin which he hath done: and the sin which he hath done shall be forgiven him.

23 And when ye shall come into the land, and shall have planted all manner of trees for food; then ye shall count the fruit thereof as uncircumcised m: three years n shall it be as uncircumcised unto you: it shall not be eaten of.

m (i. e.) As unclean, not to be eaten, but cast away, and counted abominable, as the foreskins are. n This Precept was serviceable, 1. To the Trees themselves, which grew the better and faster, being early stript of those Fruits, which otherwise would have derived to themselves and drawn away much more of the Strength from the Root and Tree. 2. To Men, both because the Fruit then was waterish, indigested and unwholsome, and becauſe hereby Men were taught to bridle their Appetites, a Leſſon of great uſe and abſolute neceſſity in a godly Life. 3. To God, who required and deſerved the firſt-Fruits, which muſt be alſo of the beſt, and ſo they could not be in this time.

and

24 But in the fourth year all the fruit thereof ſhall be † holy o to praiſe the LORD withal p.

This the Gentiles did, either for the Worſhip of the Devils, or Idols, to whom young Men uſed to conſecrate their Hair being cut off from their Heads, as Homer, Plutarch, and many others write; or in Funerals, or immoderate Mournings, as appears from Iſa. 15. 2. Jer. 48. 37. And the like is to be thought concerning the Beard or the Hair in the Corner, (i. e.) Corners of the Beard. The reaſon then of this Prohibition is, becauſe God would not have his People agree with Idolaters, neither in their Idolatries, nor in their exceſſive ſorrowing, no nor ſo much as in the appearances and outward ſignifications or expreſſions thereof.

28 Ye ſhall not * make any cutting in your fleſh u for the dead x, nor print any mark upon you: I am the LORD.

CHAP. XX.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 * Again, thou ſhalt ſay to the children of Iſrael a, * Whoſoever he be of the children of Iſrael, or of the ſtrangers b that ſojourn in Iſrael, that giveth any of his ſeed unto Molech c, he ſhall ſurely be put to death: the people of the land ſhall ſtone him with ſtones.

* Chap. 18. 21. * Deut. 18. 10. 2 King. 17. 17. and 23. 10. Jer. 32. 35.

a Here follow the Puniſhments of the Crimes forbidden in the former Chapters. b Not only ſuch as were Proſelytes, but all others, theſe being groſs Immoralities, and ſuch as the Precepts of Noah reached to, and ſuch as the Laws of Nature and Nations obliged them to. And therefore the toleration of ſuch Actions was not only againſt Reaſon of State, and the Intereſt of the Common-wealth of Iſrael, and dangerous to the Infection and Deſtruction of the Iſraelites by the imitation of ſuch Examples, but alſo againſt the Light of Nature and Laws of Humanity. c Or to any other Idol, for the reaſon of the Law equally concerns all. See Levit. 18. 21.

3 And I will ſet my face againſt that man d, and will cut him off from among his people e: becauſe he hath given of his ſeed unto Molech, to defile my ſanctuary f, and to prophane my holy Name g.

d (i. e.) Deal with him as an Enemy, and make him a Monument of my Juſtice, either by puniſhing him immediately and eminently, when the Magiſtrate cannot or will not do it, or by adding to his Corporal Puniſhments my Curſe upon his Soul and Name. See Lev. 17. 10. e From the number of his People, of what Nation or Kindred ſoever he was, or, from the Land of the Living. f Which was done by this Wickedneſs, either becauſe ſuch Perſons did, for the cover of their Idolatry, come into God's Sanctuary, as the reſt did: See Lev. 15. 31. or becauſe the Sanctuary was, and was ſaid to be defiled by groſs Abominations, committed in that City or Land where God's Sanctuary was: Or, becauſe by theſe Actions they did pronounce and declare to all Men, that they eſteemed the Sanctuary and Service of God abominable and vile, by preferring ſuch odious and pernicious Idolatry before it. g Partly by deſpiſing it themſelves, and partly by diſgracing it to others, and giving them occaſion to blaſpheme it, and to abhor the true Religion; becauſe they ſaw it deſerted and condemned by thoſe that beſt knew it, and once embraced it.

4 And if the people of the land do any wayes hide their eyes from the man h, when he giveth of his ſeed unto Molech, and kill him not:

h (i. e.) Wink at his fault, and forbear to accuſe and puniſh him. Compare Act. 17. 13.

5 Then I will ſet my face againſt that man, * Exod. 20. 5. and * againſt his family i, and will cut him off, and all that go a whoring after him, to commit whoredom with Molech, from among their people.

i (i. e.) Either, 1. His Poſterity, whom God threatned to puniſh for their Fathers Idolatry, Exod. 20. Or, 2. His People, as that word is uſed, Jer. 8. 3. Mic. 2. 3. to wit, the People of that Land, who by their connivance make themſelves guilty of his Sin, ver. 4. Or, 3. His Diſciples and Followers, who are oft called the Sons or Children of their Maſters. And ſo it may be ſeen to be explained in the following words, all that go a whoring after him, as the firſt Clauſe which concerns the head or chief Perſon himſelf, I will ſet my face againſt that Man, is explained by theſe words, I will cut him off.

* Chap. 19. 31. 6 And * the ſoul that turneth after ſuch as have familiar ſpirits, and after wizards, to go a whoring after them k, I will even ſet my face againſt that ſoul, and will cut him off from among his people.

k To ſeek Knowledg, or Counſel, or Help from them.

* Chap. 11. 44. & 19. 2. 1 Pet. 1. 16. 7 * Sanctifie your ſelves therefore, and be ye holy: for I am the LORD your God.

8 And ye ſhall keep my ſtatutes, and do them: I am the LORD which ſanctifie you l.

l (i. e.) Who ſeparated you from all Nations, and from their Impurities and Idolatries, to be a peculiar People to my ſelf, and therefore I will not ſuffer you to follow their Examples. Or, who really ſanctify you, and give you my Grace to do what I require, i. e. to keep my Statutes. Or the Argument is this, Thoſe Idols and Idolatries will defile you, and make you worſe; but I only and my Service will ſanctify you, and make you better.

* Exod. 21. 17. Deut. 27. 16. Prov. 20. 20. Mat. 15. 4. 9 * For m every one that curſeth n his father, or o his mother, ſhall be ſurely put to death: he hath curſed his father, or his mother, his blood ſhall be upon him p.

* Chap. 18. 23. Deut. 27. 21. 15 * And if a man lie with a beaſt, he ſhall ſurely be put to death: and ye ſhall ſlay the beaſt u.

u Partly for the prevention of monſtrous Births, partly to blot out the memory of ſo loathſome a Crime, and partly that by ſo ſevere a Puniſhment of that Creature which was only a paſſive Inſtrument to Man's Sin; Men might be aſſured that a more dreadful Puniſhment than Corporal Death was reſerved for them, if they repented not.

16 And if a woman approach unto any beaſt, and lie down thereto, thou ſhalt kill the woman and the beaſt: they ſhall ſurely be put to death; their blood ſhall be upon them.

17 * And if a man ſhall take his Siſter, his fathers daughter, or his mothers daughter, and ſee her nakedneſs x, and ſhe ſee his nakedneſs, it is a wicked thing, and they ſhall be cut off in the ſight of their people y: he hath uncovered his ſiſters nakedneſs, he ſhall bear his iniquity. * Chap. 18. 9. Deut. 27. 22.

x Seeing is here underſtood, either, 1. properly, and ſo God would cut off the occaſions of further Filthineſs. Or rather 2. improperly, for touching her, or lying with her; for 1. the Senſe of Seeing is oft put for other Senſes, as for Hearing, Gen. 42. 1. compared with Acts 7. 12. Exod. 20. 18. Rev. 1. 12. and for Touching, as Joh. 20. 25, 29. 2. That Act is expreſſed by words parallel to this of Seeing, as by uncovering or diſcovering, and by knowing, Gen. 4. 1. 3. So it is directly explained, in the following words, he hath uncovered his Siſters nakedneſs, which manifeſtly ſignifies lying with her. 4. It is not probable that an equal Puniſhment would have been appointed to an immodeſt ſight, and to the higheſt act of Filthineſs. 5. Nor ſeems there to be any reaſon why this Crime ſhould be reſtrained to this rather than to any other Relations, when it was as great, yea a greater crime in ſome other relations. y (i. e.) Publickly, for the terror and caution of others.

18 * And if a man ſhould lie with a woman z having her ſickneſs a, and ſhall uncover her nakedneſs: he hath † diſcovered her fountain b, and ſhe hath uncovered the fountain of her blood: and both of them ſhall be cut off from among their people. * Chap. 18. 19. See ch. 15. 24. † Heb. made naked.

z Wittingly and willingly. See on Lev. 15. 24. and 18. 19. a (i. e.) her monthly Infirmity. b Or her Iſſue. Thus the Fountain of Blood in Mark 5. 29. is the Iſſue of Blood, Luke 8. 44. the Fountain put for the Stream, the Cauſe for the Effect, which is common.

19 * And thou ſhalt not uncover the nakedneſs of thy mothers ſiſter, nor of thy fathers ſiſter: for he uncovereth his near kin: they ſhall bear their iniquity. * Chap. 18. 12, 13.

20 * And if a man ſhall lie with his uncles wife, he hath uncovered his uncles nakedneſs: they ſhall bear their ſin, they ſhall die childleſs c. * Chap. 18. 14.

c (i. e.) Either ſhall be ſpeedily cut off ere they can have a Child by that inceſtuous Conjunction, that the remembrance of the Fact may be blotted out: or, if this ſeem a leſs Crime than moſt of the former inceſtuous mixtures, becauſe the relation is more remote, and therefore the Magiſtrate ſhall forbear to puniſh it with Death, yet they ſhall either have no Children from ſuch an unlawful Bed, or their Children ſhall die before them, Hoſ. 9. 11, 12. or ſhall not be reputed their genuine Children, but Baſtards, and therefore excluded from the Congregation of the Lord, Deut. 23. 2.

21 * And if a man ſhall take his brothers wife d; it is † an unclean thing e: he hath uncovered his brothers nakedneſs, they ſhall be childleſs. * Chap. 18. 16. † Heb. a ſeparation.

d Except in the caſe allowed by God, Deut. 25. 5. e An abominable thing, like the uncleanneſs of a menſtruous VVoman, which is oft expreſſed by this word: Heb. a Separation, or removing, i. e. a thing deſerving ſeparation or excluſion from Society with others, or a thing to be removed out of ſight, or out of the VVorld.

22 Ye ſhall therefore keep all my † ſtatutes, and all my judgments, and do them: that the land whither I bring you to dwell therein, * ſpue you not out. † Chap. 18. 26. * Chap. 18. 25.

23 And ye ſhall not walk in the manners of the nation which I caſt out before you: for they committed all theſe things, and * therefore I abhorred them. * Deut. 9. 5.

24 But I have ſaid unto you, Ye ſhall inherit their land, and I will give it unto you to poſſeſs it, a land that floweth with milk and honey: I am the LORD your God, which have ſeparated you from other people f.

f By my ſpecial Grace and Favour vouchſafed to you above all People in glorious and miraculous VVorks wrought for you and among you, and in Ordinances and other ſingular Priviledges and Bleſſings imparted to you; all which calls for your ſpecial Love and Service.

* Chap. 11. 2. Deut. 14. 4. 25 * Ye shall therefore put difference between clean beasts, and unclean, and between unclean fowls and clean: and ye shall not make your souls abominable by beast, or by fowl, or by any manner of living thing that ‖ creepeth on the ground, which I have separated from you as unclean g.

g (i.e.) As things which by my Sentence I have made unclean, and which you must avoid as such.

* Verse 7. Chap. 19. 2. 1 Pet. 1. 16. 26 And ye shall be holy unto me: * for I the LORD am holy, and have severed you from other people, that ye should be mine.

* Deut. 18. 10, 11. 1 Sam. 28. 7, 8. 27 * A man also, or woman that hath a familiar spirit, or that is a wizard, shall surely be put to death: they shall stone them with stones: their blood shall be upon them.

CHAP. XXI.

1 AND the LORD said unto Moses, Speak unto the priests, the sons of Aaron, and * Ezek. 44. 25. say unto them, * There shall none be defiled for the dead a among his people:

a To wit, by touching of the dead Body, or abiding in the same House with it, or assisting at his Funerals, or eating of the Funeral Feast. The reason of this Law is evident, because by such Pollution they were excluded from converse with Men to whom by their Function they were to be serviceable upon all occasions, and from the handling of holy things, Numb. 6. 6. and 19. 11, 14, 16. Deut. 26. 14. Hos. 9. 4. And God would hereby teach them, and in them all successive Ministers of holy things, that they ought so entirely to give themselves to the Service of God, that they ought to renounce all expressions of Natural Affections, and all worldly Employments, so far as they are impediments to the discharge of their holy Services. See Lev. 10. 3, 7. Deut. 33. 9. Mat. 8. 22. Hereby also God would beget in the People a greater Reverence to the Priestly Function, and oblige the Priests to a greater degree of strictness and purity than other Men.

2 But for his kin that is near unto him b, that is, for his mother, and for his father, and for his son, and for his daughter, and for his brother c;

b Under which general Expression his Wife seems to be comprehended, tho she be not expressed in the following Instances; because from the mention of others more remote, it was easie to gather that so near a Relation was not excluded. And hence it is noted as a peculiar and extraordinary case, that Ezekiel, who was a Priest, was forbidden to mourn for his Wife, Ezek. 24. 16, &c. These Exceptions God here makes in condescension to human Infirmity, because in such cases it was very hard to restrain the Affections. But this allowance concerns only the inferiour Priest, not the High-priest, as we shall see. c Obj. Eleazar and Ithamar are forbidden to mourn for their Brethren, Nadab and Abihu. Answ. 1. That case was singular, both because such a mourning might seem to be a censure of God's Severity upon them, and because they were then in the actual execution of their Office, and in their initiation to it, and they were the only Persons, besides Aaron, that could perform that work, and therefore their attendance upon it was more necessary then it would be in after-times and other cases. 2. The latter Law can either limit or enlarge the former at the pleasure of the Lawgiver. And this Law may seem to be added, lest that Prohibition, Lev. 10. should be taken for a general Rule.

3 And for his sister d a virgin, that is nigh unto him e, which hath had no husband f: for her may he be defiled.

d Either by Father, or Mother. (i.e.) By nearness not of Relation, (for that might seem a needless addition) but of Habitation, i.e. one not yet cut off from the Family, as it follows. f For if she was married, she was now of another Family, and under her Husbands special care in those matters.

‖ Or, being an Husband among his people, he shall not defile himself for his Wife, &c.

4 But ‖ he shall not defile himself, being a chief man among his people g, to prophane himself.

g Or, seeing he is a chief Man, &c. or Ruler, &c. for such, not only the High-Priest, but others also of the inferiour Priests were. And therefore though he might defile himself for the Persons now named, yet he, above all others, must take heed so to do it that he do not prophane himself by doing as follows. Or, for a chief Man, &c. the Preposition Lamed being easily understood from the former Verse, where it is oft used, such supplements being not unusual in the Hebrew Tongue. So the sense is, He shall not defile himself for any other Person whatsoever who is not thus near of kin to him, no not for a Prince or chief Ruler among his People, who might seem to challenge this Duty from him, to joyn with all others in their resentment of the publick loss, much less shall he defile himself for any other. And so the last word, to prophane himself, may be added as a reason why he should not defile himself for the Prince or any other, except the Persons named, because such Defilement for the Dead did prophane him, or make him as a common Person and unclean, and consequently unfit to manage his Sacred Employment, which was an Impediment to the Service of God, and a publick Inconvenience to the People, whose concerns with God he negotiated. And it was not meet such great and important Affairs should give place to the Ceremonies of a Funeral for a Stranger.

5 * They shall not make baldness upon their head h, neither shall they shave off the corner of their beard, nor make any cutting in their flesh. * Chap. 19. 27 28. Ezek. 44. 20.

h To wit, in Funerals, as the Heathens did: q.d. Though I allow them to defile themselves for some of the dead, yet in no case shall they use these superstitious and heathenish Rites, which also the People are forbidden to do, Lev. 19. 27. Deut. 14. 1. but the Priests in a more peculiar manner, because they are by Word and Example to teach the People their Duty, not to sorrow for the dead as Persons without hope.

6 They shall be holy unto their God i, and not profane the Name of their God k: for the offerings of the LORD made by fire, and the bread of their God l they do offer: therefore they shall be † holy. † Heb. Holiness.

i Devoted to God's Service, and always prepared and fit for it, and therefore shall keep themselves, as far as they can from all Defilement, which makes them unmeet for their Masters use. k Which they especially bear: they shall not disparage the Service of God by making it give place to such slight occasions. l (i.e.) the Shew-bread: or rather, all the other Offerings, besides Burnt-offerings: which are called Bread, either because Bread is commonly put for all Food, as below, ver. 17. 21. or, because God is satisfied and refreshed with these Offerings, as a Man is with his Bread: or rather, because they, or part of them, are the Bread or Food of the Priests, and are here called Bread of their God, either objectively, because they were offered to God; or efficiently, because they were given by God to the Priests. And these are called Bread, in opposition to the Burnt-offerings, which, being wholly consumed, gave no Food to the Priests. Or, the Offerings made by Fire, are here put Synecdochically for all the rest, the most eminent kind for all, which are here called Bread, because devoured by Fire to the Honour of God. For the Particle and is not in the Hebrew, and may be omitted.

7 * They shall not take a wife that is a whore, or profane m, neither shall they take a woman put away from her husband n: for he is holy unto his God. * Ezek. 44. 22.

m Or, defiled, or deflowred, though it were done secretly, or by accident, or by force: because the Priest must take care that all the Members of his Family be free not only from gross Wickedness, but from all suspicions of Evil, and occasions of Reproach or Contempt; because this would reflect upon himself, and upon his God, and Religion also. The word may note one deflowred by any Person, though it were by her Husband, or a Widow, because not only the High-priest was obliged to marry a Virgin, ver. 13. but also the inferiour Priest, as appears from Ezek. 44. 22. and that is either signified by this word, or by none other here. It is true, a Widow, and a profane Person are distinguished, ver. 14. but the same word may be, and oft is taken in differing senses, both more largely and more strictly, in the same Chapter. And there was some reason why it should be more expresly and distinctly set down there, a Widow, or one profane or deflowred otherwise, because there was the more need of caution in the High-priest, and therefore the Widow is particularly mentioned, which in the former case might be sufficiently comprehended under a general Title. n Though not for Adultery, but for light Causes, and by the Husband's fault, because though the Woman might be wholly innocent and free, yet it would leave some Blemish upon her.

8 Thou shalt sanctifie him o therefore, for he offereth the bread of thy God: he shall be holy unto thee p: for I the LORD which sanctifie you am holy q.

o Thou, O Moses, and whosoever shall succeed in thy place, to whom it belongs to see those and other of my Laws observed, shall take care that the Priest be holy, and do not defile himself by any of these forbidden Marriages, though he would do it. p Either, 1. in thy esteem, and therefore shall not give thee cause to think meanly and irreverently of him by his defiling or debasing of himself with irregular mixtures: Or, 2. to thy Use or Service, in whose Name he is to act with God, and therefore shall preserve himself in a state of Holiness and Acceptation with God. q And therefore my Ministers must be such also.

9 And the daughter r of any priest, if she profane her self by playing the whore, she profaneth her father s, she shall be burnt with fire t.

r And by Analogy his Son also, and his Wife, because the reason of the Law here added concerns all. And nothing is more common than to name one kind for the rest of the same nature, as also is done Levit. 18. s (i. e.) Exposeth his Person and Office, and consequently Religion, one of whose prime Ministers he is, to Contempt. t Which was the severest of all the kinds of Punishments among the Jews. Whereby God would shew, both the greatness of their Sins who stand in nearer relation to God than others, and how far God is from allowing Sin in those who are nearest to him.

10 And he that is the high priest among his brethren, upon whose head * the anointing oyl was poured u, and * that is consecrated to put on the garments x, shall * not uncover his head y, nor rent his clothes z.

* Exod. 30. 30.
* Exod. 28. 2. Chap. 16. 32.
* Chap. 10. 6.

u Levit. 8. 11. Which was only sprinkled upon inferiour Priests, Blood also being mixed with it, Levit. 8. 30. x To wit, those holy Garments, which were peculiar to him as well as those common to others. y This being then the posture of Mourners, Lev. 10. 6. tho afterwards the custom was changed, and Mourners covered their Heads, 2 Sam. 15. 30. Esth. 6. 12. Or if this custom was now in use, the meaning may be, he shall not put off the Priestly Covering or Miter, which was necessary for him to do, if he had put on the Mourners Covering upon his Head, otherwise the holy Covering had been defiled, but he shall continue in the exercise of his Office, which is signified by keeping on his Priestly Garments.

11 Neither shall he go a to any dead body, nor defile himself for his father b, or for his mother.

a To wit, into the Chamber or House whereby they lye. This and divers other Rites here prescribed were from hence translated by the Heathens into their use, whose Priests were put under the same Obligations. b Because upon his Father's death he was actually High-priest, having been consecrated to this Office in his Father's Life-time.

12 Neither shall he go out of the sanctuary c, nor profane the sanctuary d of his God: for * the ‖ crown of the anointing oyl e of his God is upon him: I am the LORD.

* Exod. 28. 36.
‖ Or, consecration, or separation, Numb. 6. 7.

c To wit, to attend the Funerals of any Person: for upon other occasions he might and did commonly go out. d Either by making the Service thereof give place to the discharge of his Passions, or the performance of a Civility, or by entring into the Sanctuary before the seven days allotted for his cleansing, Numb. 19. 11. were expired. e (i. e.) The anointing Oyl, which to him was instead of a Crown, by which he was advanced not only above the rest of his Brethren, but even above all the People, whose chief Governour he was in the things of God, though subject and accountable to the Civil Magistrate, by which also he was made an eminent Type of Christ who was to be King and Priest. Or, the Crown, to wit, the Golden Plate, which is called the holy Crown, Exod. 29. 6. and the anointing Oyl of his God are upon him. So there is only an Ellipsis of the Conjunction and, which is frequent, as Psal. 33. 2. and 144. 9. Isa. 63. 11. Hab. 3. 11, &c. And these two things, being most eminent, are put for the rest, and the sign is put for the thing signified, q. d. for he is God's High-priest. Or, the Consecration (for so Nezer signifies) of the anointing Oyl, which by an Hypallage may be put for the anointing Oyl of the Consecration, i. e. whereby he is consecrated, is upon him, i. e. though that Action be past, yet the Virtue of it remains still upon him, he is a sacred Person in the highest degree, and therefore not to defile himself in any kind.

13 And he shall take a wife in her virginity f.

f Or, a Virgin, partly for the decency of the Type, because as he was a Type of Christ, so his Wife was a Type of the Church, which is compared to a Virgin, 2 Cor. 11. 2. Rev. 14. 4. and partly for greater caution and assurance that his Wife was not a defiled or defloured Person. This and the following Rule belong not to all the Priests, for then this were a gross tautology, these same things, or most of them, being expresly forbidden to them ver. 7. but only to the High-priest, to shew that he also and he especially is obliged to the same cautions.

14 A widow g, or a divorced woman, or profane, or an harlot, these shall he not take, but he shall take a virgin of his own people h to wife.

g Except she were the Widow of his Predecessor, which some gather from Ezek. 44. 22. But that place speaks only of the common Priest, not of the High-priest. h (i. e.) Either, 1. Of his own Tribe, which is confuted by the Examples of holy Men. See 2 Chron. 22. 11. Or, 2. Of the Seed of Israel, as it is explained Ezek. 44. 22.

15 Neither shall he prophane his seed i among his people: for I the LORD do sanctifie him k.

i By mixing it with forbidden kinds, whereby the Children would be disparaged and rendred unfit for their Priestly Function. k (i. e.) have separated him from all other sorts of Men for my especial and immediate Service, and therefore will not have that Race corrupted.

16 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

17 Speak unto Aaron, saying, Whosoever he be of thy seed l in their generations m, that hath any blemish n, let him not approach to offer the ‖ bread o of his God.

‖ Or, Food.

l Whether the High-priest, or the inferiour ones. m In all successive Ages, as long as your Priesthood and Policy indures. n (i. e.) Any defect or excess of Parts, any notorious deformity or imperfection in his Body. The reason hereof is partly typical, that he might more fully represent Christ, the great High-priest, who was typified both by the Priest and Sacrifice, and therefore both were to be without blemish; partly moral, to teach all Christians, and especially Ministers of holy things, what Purity and Perfection of Heart and Life they should labour after, and that notorious blemishes in the Mind or Conversation, render a Man unfit for the Ministry of the Gospel; and partly prudential, because such blemishes were apt to breed Contempt of the Person, and consequently of his Function, and of the holy things wherein he ministred. For which reason, some conceive, that still such Persons as have notorious Defects or Deformities, which render them contemptible, are not fit for the Ministry. Which may be true in the general, except where there are eminent Gifts and Graces, which are sufficient to vindicate a Man from the contemptibleness of his bodily Presence. The particular Defects here mentioned, I shall not enlarge upon, because some of the Hebrew Words are diversly interpreted, and because the use of these things being abolished, the knowledg of them is not very necessary. o Either the Shew-bread, one eminent part being named for the whole: or, the Food, i. e. all the Oblations. See before on ver. 8.

18 For whatsoever man he be that hath a blemish, he shall not approach p: a blind man, or a lame, or he that hath a flat nose q, or any thing * superfluous,

* Chap. 22. 23.

p Unto God, or to serve him in his Sanctuary. q Most restrain this word to the Nose, and to some great Deformity relating to it, either the want of it wholly or in part, or the shortness, flatness, or crookedness of it. But according to others, it signifies more generally, a Person that wants some Member or Members, because the next word, to which it is opposed, signifies one that hath more Members than he should.

19 Or a man that is broken footed, or broken handed, 20 Or crook-backt, or a ‖ dwarf, or that hath a blemish in his eye, or be scurvy, or scabbed, or hath his stones broken.

‖ Or, too slender.

21 No man that hath a blemish r, of the seed of Aaron the priest, shall come nigh to offer the offerings of the LORD made by fire: he hath a blemish, he shall not come nigh to offer the bread of his God.

r Any notorious Blemish whereby he is disfigured, though not here mentioned.

22 He shall eat the bread of his God, both of the most holy, and of the holy s.

s Which a Priest having any uncleanness upon him might not do. Whereby God would shew the great difference between natural Infirmities sent upon a Man by God, and moral Defilements which a Man brought upon himself. What was holy, and what most holy, was declared before. See Levit. 2. 3. and 6. 17. and 7. 1. and 14. 13. and 22. 10.

23 Only he shall not go in unto the vail t, nor come nigh unto the altar u, because he hath a blemish, that he prophane not my sanctuary x: for I the LORD do sanctifie them y.

t (i. e.) To the second Vail which was between the Holy and the most Holy Place, Exod. 26. 13, 36. to burn Incense, to order the Shew-bread, and to dress the Lamps, which were nigh unto that Vail though without. u (i. e.) The Altar of Burnt-offering, which was without the Sanctuary. The sense is, He shall not execute the Priest's Office, which was to be done in those two places. x Heb. my Sanctuaries, in the plural number, as it is also, Levit. 26. 31. Jer. 51. 51. Ezek. 28. 18. For though the Sanctuary was but one, yet there were divers parts, to wit, the Court, the Holy Place, and the most Holy, each of which was in a large sense a Sanctuary, or an Holy place set apart for God's Worship. y (i. e.) Do set them apart for high and holy uses, to manifest my Presence and Grace, and to receive my Worship and Service in them. And therefore I will not have them polluted or disparaged by the admission of defiled or deformed Priests to minister therein.

24 And

24 And Moſes told it unto Aaron, and to his ſons, and to all the children of Iſrael.

CHAP. XXII.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Speak unto Aaron, and to his ſons, that they ſeparate themſelves a from the holy things b of the children of Iſrael, and that they prophane not my holy name in thoſe things which they c hallow unto me: I am the LORD.

a To wit, when any uncleanneſs is upon them, as it appears from ver. 3, 4. b (i. e.) from eating of thoſe parts of the Offerings which belong to them. Only of the Tithes they might eat in that caſe. c Either the Children of Iſrael, or the Priests: For both of them did in their kinds hallow, conſecrate, or offer them to God. But the former ſeems more probable, both becauſe they are mentioned here, and ver. 3. where they are ſaid to hallow, &c. and becauſe this makes the Argument ſtronger, it ill became the Prieſts to prophane or pollute what the People did hallow.

3 Say unto them, Whoſoever he be of all your ſeed among your generations that goeth unto the holy things d, which the children of Iſrael hallow unto the LORD, having his uncleanneſs upon him, that ſoul ſhall be cut off from my preſence e: I am the LORD.

d To eat them, or to touch them; for if the touch of one of the People having his uncleanneſs upon him defiled the thing he touched, much more was it ſo in the Prieſt. e Either, from the place of my Preſence and from my Ordinances by Excommunication: He ſhall be excluded both from the Adminiſtration, and from the Participation of them. Or, from the People among whom I am preſent, which commonly is expreſſed by cutting off from his People. Or, from the Land of the Living.

4 What man f ſoever of the ſeed of Aaron is a leper, or hath * a †running iſſue, he ſhall not eat of the holy things until he * be clean. And * whoſo toucheth any thing that is unclean by the dead, or * a man whoſe ſeed goeth from him.

f (i. e.) Or Woman, of Aaron's Seed: for they were under the ſame Law.

5 Or * whoſoever toucheth any creeping thing, whereby he may be made unclean, or * a man of whom he may take uncleanneſs, whatſoever uncleanneſs he hath:

* Chap. 11. 24.
* Chap. 15. 7, 19.

6 The ſoul which hath touched any ſuch, ſhall be unclean until the even, and ſhall not eat of the holy things, unleſs he waſh his fleſh with water.

7 And when the ſun is down, he ſhall be clean, and ſhall afterwards eat of the holy things, becauſe it is his food g.

g (i. e.) His Portion, the means of his Subſiſtence. This may be added to ſignifie why there was no greater nor longer a Penalty put upon the Prieſts than upon the People in the ſame caſe, Levit. 11. and 15. becauſe his neceſſity craved ſome mitigation: Though otherwiſe the Prieſts being more ſacred Perſons, and obliged to greater care and exemplarineſs, deſerved a greater Puniſhment.

8 * That which dieth of it ſelf, or is torn with beaſts, he ſhall not eat, to defile himſelf therewith: I am the LORD.

* Exod. 22. 31. Chap. 17. 15. Ezek. 44. 31.

9 They ſhall therefore keep mine ordinance h, leſt they bear ſin i for it k, and die therefore, if they profane it l: I the LORD do ſanctifie them.

h Either this Ordinance here treated of concerning abſtaining from holy things when they are unclean: Or more generally, that great Ordinance whereby I have made them the Guardians of Holy places and things to keep them from all Defilement by themſelves or others. Heb. my Watch, (i. e.) the Watch or Guard which I have commanded them to keep. i (i. e.) Incur Gullt and Puniſhment. k (i. e.) For the neglect or violation of it. l (i. e.) Their Charge, or God's Ordinance about it.

10 * There ſhall no ſtranger m eat of the holy thing; a ſojourner n of the Prieſts, or an hired ſervant ſhall not eat of the holy things o.

* See 1 Sam. 21. 6.

q (i. e.) To one of another Family, who is no Prieſt. Yet the Prieſt's Wife, though of another Family, might eat. The reaſon of which difference is, becauſe the Wife paſſeth into the Name, State and Priviledges of her Husband, from whom the Family is denominated and eſteemed.

13 But if the prieſts daughter be a widow, or divorced, and have no child, and is returned unto her fathers houſe, * as in her youth, ſhe ſhall eat of her fathers meat, but there ſhall no ſtranger eat thereof.

14 And if a man eat of the holy thing unwittingly, then he ſhall put the fifth part thereof unto it r, and ſhall give it unto the Prieſt, with the holy thing s.

r Over and above the principal, and beſides the Ram to be offered to God, Levit. 5. 15. s Or, and ſhall give unto the Prieſt the holy thing, i. e. the worth of it, which the Prieſt was either to take to himſelf to offer to God, as the nature of the thing was.

15 And they t ſhall not profane the holy things of the children of Iſrael, which they offer unto the LORD.

t Either, 1. The People ſhall not prophane them, by eating them: Or, 2. The Prieſts ſhall not profane them, i. e. ſuffer the People to profane them, without Cenſure and Puniſhment. Both come to the ſame thing: The People ſhall not do it, nor the Prieſts ſuffer it.

16 Or ‖ ſuffer them to bear the iniquity of treſpaſs u, when they eat their holy things: for I the LORD do ſanctifie them.

‖ Or, lade themſelves with the iniquity of treſpaſs in their eating.

u (i. e.) They, i. e. the Prieſts, ſhall not (the negative Particle being underſtood out of the foregoing clauſe, as Pſal. 1. 5. and 9. 18.) ſuffer them, i. e. the People, to bear the Iniquity of Treſpaſs, i. e. the Puniſhment of their Sin, which they might expect from God, and for the prevention whereof the Prieſt was to ſee Reſtitution made, &c. The words may be rendred thus, But (ſo the Hebrew Vau is oft tranſlated) they, i. e. the Prieſts, ſhall make them, i. e. the People, to bear the Iniquity, or Puniſhment of their Treſpaſs or Sin, i. e. they ſhall require from them Reparations in manner here expreſſed.

17 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

18 Speak unto Aaron, and to his ſons, and unto all the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, * Whoſoever he be of the houſe of Iſrael, or of the ſtrangers x in Iſrael, that will offer his oblation for all his vows y, and for all his free-will-offerings, which they will offer unto the LORD for a burnt-offering:

* Chap. 1. 2, 3, 10.

x Such as were Proſelytes. y See on Levit. 7. 16.

19 Ye ſhall offer at your own will a male z without blemiſh of the beeves, of the ſheep, or of the goats.

z For a Burnt-offering, which was always of that kind: but the Females were accepted in Peace-offerings, Levit. 3. 1. and Sin-offerings, Levit. 4. 32. and 5. 6.

20 * But whatſoever hath a blemiſh, that ſhall ye not offer: for it ſhall not be acceptable for you.

* Deut. 15. 21. and 17. 1. Mal. 1. 8.

21 And * whoſoever offereth a ſacrifice of peace-offerings unto the LORD, to accompliſh his vow, or a free-will-offering in beeves or ‖ ſheep, it ſhall be perfect, to be accepted: there ſhall be no blemiſh a therein.

* Chap. 3. 1.
‖ Or, goats.

a To wit, none of the Blemiſhes mentioned ver. 22, 24. for ſome Blemiſhes did not hinder the acceptance of a free-will-offering, but only of a Vow, ver. 23.

22 * Blind

* Verſe 20. 22 * Blind, or broken, or maimed, or having a wen, or ſcurvy, or ſcabbed, ye ſhall not offer theſe unto the LORD; nor make an offering by fire of them upon the altar unto the LORD.

‖ Or, kid. * Chap. 21. 18. 23 Either a bullock, or a ‖ lamb that hath any thing * ſuperfluous or lacking in his parts, that mayeſt thou offer b for a free-will-offering: but for a vow it ſhall not be accepted.

b Either, 1. To the Prieſt, who might, according to the Rules given by God, either convert it to this own uſe, or ſell it, and lay out the price of it upon the Temple or Sacrifices. But in this ſenſe any of the other kinds, as blind, or broken, &c. might be offered, which yet are forbidden to be offered, ver. 22. or rather, 2. To the Lord, as is expreſſed, ver. 22, and 24. this being put down by way of oppoſition to thoſe Defects, ver. 22. and by way of exception from the general Rule, ver. 21.

24 Ye ſhall not offer unto the LORD that which is bruiſed, or cruſhed, or broken, or cut, neither ſhall ye make any offering thereof in your land.

25 Neither from a ſtrangers hand c, ſhall ye offer the bread d of your God of any of theſe e; becauſe their corruption is in them f, and blemiſhes be in them: they ſhall not be accepted for you g.

c To wit, from Proſelytes, from whom leſs might ſeem to be expected, and in whom God might bear with ſome things, which he would not bear with in his own People: Yet even from thoſe, ſuch ſhould not be accepted, much leſs from the Iſraelites. d (i. e.) The Sacrifices. See on Levit. 21. 8. e (i. e.) So corrupted or defective. Which clauſe limits the ſenſe and kinds of Offerings, and cuts off another more general interpretation received by many, to wit, that he forbids the receiving of any Offering, whether blemiſhed or perfect, from the hands of a Stranger remaining in Heatheniſm. f (i. e.) They are corrupt, vicious, and unlawful Sacrifices. g Or, from you, O Prieſts, to whom it belongs to offer. You ſhall bear the blame of it, for the Strangers might do ſo through ignorance of God's Law.

26 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

* Exod. 34. 26. Deut. 14. 21. 27 * When a bullock, or a ſheep, or a goat is brought forth, then it ſhall be ſeven days under the dam, and from the eighth day h and thenceforth, it ſhall be accepted for an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

33 That brought you out of the land of Egypt, to be your God: I am the LORD.

CHAP. XXIII.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, Concerning the feaſts of the LORD, which ye ſhall proclaim a to be holy convocations b, even theſe are my feaſts c.

a (i. e.) Cauſe to be proclaimed by the Prieſts. See Numb. 10. 8, 9, 10. b Days for your aſſembling together to my Worſhip and Service in a ſpecial manner. c Which I have appointed, and the right obſervation whereof I will accept.

* Exod. 20. 9. and 23. 12. and 31. 13. and 34. 21. Chap. 19. 3. Deut. 5. 13. Luke 13. 14. 3 * Six days ſhall work be done, but the ſeventh day is the ſabbath of reſt, an holy convocation; ye ſhall do no work d therein: it is the ſabbath of the LORD in all your dwellings e.

d So it runs in the general for the Sabbath-day, and for the day of Expiation, ver. 28. excluding all works about earthly Occaſions or Employments, whether of Profit or Pleaſure; but upon other Feaſt-days he forbids only Servile Works, as ver. 7, 21, 36. for ſurely this manifeſt difference in the expreſſions uſed by the wiſe God, muſt needs imply a difference in the things. e This is added to diſtinguiſh the Sabbath from other Feaſts, which were to be kept before the Lord in Jeruſalem only, whither all the Males were to come for that end, but the Sabbath was to be kept in all places where they were, both in Synagogues, which were erected for that end, and in their private Houſes.

4 Theſe are the feaſts of the LORD, even holy convocations, which ye ſhall proclaim in their ſeaſons f.

f In their appointed and proper times, as the word is uſed Gen. 1. 14. Pſal. 104. 19.

* Exod. 12. 18. and 13. 3. and 23. 15. and 34. 18. Numb. 9. 2. and 28. 16. Deut. 16. 1. 5 * In the fourteenth day of the firſt month at even, is the LORD's paſſover.

6 And on the fifteenth day of the ſame month is the feaſt of unleavened bread unto the LORD: ſeven days ye muſt eat unleavened bread.

7 In the firſt day ye ſhall have an holy convocation: ye ſhall do no ſervile work therein.

8 But ye ſhall offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD ſeven days g: in the ſeventh day is an holy convocation, ye ſhall do no ſervile work therein.

g The matter and manner whereof, ſee Numb. 28. 18, &c.

9 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

* Exod. 23. 16. Numb. 28. 26. 10 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, * When ye be come into the land h which I give unto you, and ſhall reap i the harveſt thereof k, then ye ſhall bring a ‖ † ſheaf l of the firſt-fruits of your harveſt unto the prieſt:

‖ Or, handful. † Heb. an Omer.

h Therefore this obliged them not in the Deſert, where they reaped no Harveſt, &c. i (i. e.) Begin to reap, as it is expounded Deut. 16. 9. So he begat (i. e.) began to beget, Gen. 5. 32. and 11. 26. and he built, 1 Kings 6. 1. (i. e.) he began to build, as it is explained, 2 Chron. 3. 1. k To wit, Barly Harveſt, which was before Wheat Harveſt. See Exod. 9. 31, 32. and 34. 22. Ruth. 2. 23. l Heb. an Omer, which is the tenth part of an Ephah. It ſeems here to note the meaſure of Corn which was to be offered. For it is to be conſidered, that they did not offer this Corn in the Ear, or by a ſheaf or handful, but, as Joſephus 3. 10. affirms, and may be gathered from Levit. 2. 14, 15, 16. purged from the Chaff, and dryed, and beaten out, and, ſome add, ground into Meal, and ſifted into fine Flour; though this may be doubted of, becauſe the Meat-offering attending upon this was of fine Flour, ver. 13. and becauſe this Offering is ſaid to be of green ears of Corn dried, &c. Levit. 2. 14.

11 And he ſhall wave the ſheaf before the LORD, to be accepted for you m: on the morrow after the ſabbath n the prieſt ſhall wave it.

m That God may accept of you, and bleſs you in the reſt of your Harveſt. n (i. e.) After the firſt day of the Feaſt of unleavened Bread, which was a Sabbath, or day of reſt, as appears from ver. 7. or upon the ſixteenth day of the Month. And this was the firſt of thoſe fifty days, in the cloſe whereof was the Feaſt of Pentecoſt, or Whitſuntide.

12 And ye ſhall offer that day, when ye wave the ſheaf, an he-lamb o without blemiſh of the firſt year, for a burnt-offering unto the LORD.

o Beſides the daily Morning and Evening-Sacrifice, which it was needleſs to mention here, and beſides one of thoſe Sacrifices to be offered every day of the ſeven, ver. 8.

† 13 And

13 And the meat-offering thereof shall be two tenth-deals p of fine flour mingled with oil, an offering made by fire unto the LORD, for a sweet savour: and the drink-offering thereof q shall be of wine, the fourth part of an hin r.

p Or, parts, to wit, of an Ephah, i. e. two Omers, whereas in other Sacrifices of Lambs there was but one tenth-deal prescribed, Numb. 15. 4. The reason of which disproportion may be this, that one of the tenth-deals was a necessary attendant upon the Lamb, and the other was peculiar to this Feast and occasion, and was an attendant upon that of the Sheaf or Corn, and was offered with it in thanksgiving to God for the Fruits of the Earth. q Drink-offerings were added to all Burnt-offerings, as we may see Numb. 15. 5. r The measure appointed for every Lamb, Numb. 15. 5. This also probably would have been doubled, for the reason now mentioned, had this been a thank-offering for the Vintage, as it was for the Harvest.

14 And ye shall eat neither bread s, nor parched corn, nor green ears t, until the self-same day u that ye have brought an offering unto your God: it shall be a statute for ever throughout your generations, in all your dwellings.

s Made of new Wheat, as the nature and reason of the Law sheweth. t Which were usual, not only for Offerings to God, as Levit. 2. 14. but also for Man's Food. See Josh. 5. 11. Ruth 2. 14. 1 Sam. 17. 17. Matth. 12. 1. u Good reason God should be first served and owned as the supream Landlord.

* Deut. 16. 9. 15 And * ye shall count unto you from the morrow after the sabbath x, from the day that ye brought the sheaf of the wave-offering, † seven sabbaths y shall be compleat.

† Or, seven weeks

x (i. e.) From the sixteenth day of the Month, and the second day of the Feast of unleavened Bread inclusively. See on ver. 11. y (i. e.) Weeks, which are so called, by a Synecdoche, from the chief day of it, both here and Luke 18. 12. Acts 20. 7. 1 Cor. 16. 2.

16 Even unto the morrow after the seventh sabbath z shall ye number fifty dayes, and ye shall offer a new meat-offering a unto the LORD.

z (i. e.) After seven Weeks, or forty nine days, the morrow after which was the fiftieth day, called also Pentecost. a To wit, of new Corn made into Loves, as it follows.

17 Ye shall bring out of your habitations b two wave-loaves of two tenth-deals c: they shall be of fine flour, they shall be baken with leaven d, they

* Exod. 23. 16, 19. & 34. 26. Numb. 15. 20. and 28. 26. Deut. 26. 2. are * the first-fruits unto the LORD.

b (i. e.) Out of the Corn of your own Land, for which and for the Fruits of it you are now to offer Praises unto God. And this also, as well as the former Sacrifice, was brought out of the common charge, and in the name of the whole Nation, whence it is said to be brought out of their Habitations in the plural number. Some conceive two several Loaves were brought from every Family, or, as others, from every City or Town. But this is easily confuted from ver. 18. where we read that with the Bread, to wit, the two Loaves, were to be offered seven Lambs, one Bullock, &c. which doubtless was a common Oblation, and in the name of all. c In double proportion, as before, ver. 13. d Because these were not offered to God, but wholly given to the Priest for Food. See on Levit. 2. 11. and 7. 13.

18 And ye shall offer with the bread seven lambs without blemish of the first year, and one young bullock, and two rams e: they shall be for a burnt-offering unto the LORD, with their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, even an offering made by fire of sweet savour unto the LORD.

e In Numb. 28. 11, 19. it is two young Bullocks and one Ram. Either therefore it was left to their liberty to chuse which they would offer, or one of the Bullocks there, and one of the Rams here, were the peculiar Sacrifices of the Feast-day, and the other were attendants upon the two Loaves, which were the principal and most proper Offering at this time. And the one may be mentioned there, and the other here, to teach us, that the addition of a new Sacrifice did not destroy the former, but both were to be offered, as the extraordinary Sacrifices of every Feast did not hinder the Oblation of the daily Sacrifice.

* Chap. 4. 23, 28. * Chap. 3. 1. 19 Then ye shall sacrifice * one kid f of the goats for a sin-offering, and two lambs of the first year for a Sacrifice of * peace-offerings.

f In Levit. 4. 14. the Sin-offering for the Sin of the People is a Bullock, but here a Kid, &c. the reason of the difference may be this, because that was for some particular Sin of the People, but this only in general for all their Sins. If it be said, then this should have been the better Sacrifice, as being for far more, and possibly greater Offences: it may be replied, that this is not the only instance wherein the greater Sins are expiated by smaller Sacrifices, and the smaller Sins by greater Sacrifices, which was to instruct us, that Sins were not expiated by the Sacrifices for any worth in them, but only in respect of Christ, and that, though all Sins are not equal, yet they are all expiated by one and the same price, even by the Blood of Christ.

20 And the priest shall wave them g with the bread of the first-fruits for a wave-offering before the LORD, with the two lambs: * they shall be holy to the LORD, † for the priests h.

* Num. 18. 12. Deut. 18. 4. † Heb. to.

g (i. e.) Some part of them in the name of the whole, and so for the two Lambs, otherwise they had been too big and too heavy to be waved. So it is a synecdochial Expression. h Who had to themselves not only the Breast and Shoulder, as in others, which belonged to the Priest; but also the rest which belonged to the Offerer, because the whole Congregation being the Offerer here, it could neither be distributed to them all, nor given to some without Offence or Injury to the rest.

21 And ye shall proclaim on the self-same day, that it may be an holy convocation i unto you: ye shall do no servile work therein: it shall be a statute for ever in all your dwellings, throughout your generations.

i A Sabbath or day of rest, called Pentecost, which was instituted, partly in remembrance of the Consummation of their Deliverance out of Egypt, by bringing them thence to the Mount of God, or Sinai, as God had promised, and of that admirable Blessing of giving the Law to them at that time, and forming them into a Commonwealth under his own immediate Government; and partly in gratitude for the further progress of their Harvest, as in the Passeover they offered a thank-offering to God for the beginning of their Harvest.

22 And * when ye reap the harvest of your land, thou k shalt not make clean riddance of the corners of thy field, when thou reapest, * neither shalt thou gather any gleanings of thy harvest; thou shalt leave them unto the poor, and to the stranger: I am the LORD your God.

* Chap. 19. 9. * Deut. 24. 19, &c.

k From the plural, ye, he comes to the singular, thou, because he would press this Duty upon every Person who hath an Harvest to reap, that none might plead exemption from it. And it is observable, that though the present business is only concerning the Worship of God, yet he makes a kind of excursion to repeat a former Law of providing for the Poor, to shew that our Piety and Devotion to God is little esteemed by him, if it be not accompanied with Acts of Charity to Men.

23 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

24 Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, In the * seventh month, in the first day of the month, shall ye have a sabbath, a memorial of blowing of trumpets l, an holy convocation.

* Numb. 29. 1.

l (i. e.) Solemnized with the blowing of Trumpets by the Priests; not in a common way, as they did every first day of every Month, Numb. 10. 10. but in an extraordinary manner, not only in Jerusalem, but in all the Cities of Israel. This seems to have been instituted, 1. To solemnize the beginning of the new Year, whereof as to Civil Matters, and particularly as to the Jubilee, this was the first day; concerning which it was fit the People should be admonished, both to excite their thankfulness for God's Blessing in the last Year, and to direct them in the management of their Civil Affairs. 2. To put a special Honour upon this Month. For as the seventh day was the Sabbath, and the seventh Year was a Sabbatical Year, so God would have the seventh Month to be a kind of Sabbatical Month, for the many Sabbaths and solemn Feasts which were observed in this more than in any other Month. And by this sounding of the Trumpets in its beginning, God would quicken and prepare them for the following Sabbaths, as well that of Atonement and Humiliation for their Sins, as those of Thanksgiving for God's Mercies.

25 Ye shall do no servile work therein: but ye shall offer an offering m made by fire unto the LORD.

m What that was see Numb. 29. 2, &c.

26 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

27 * Also on the tenth day of this seventh month, there shall be a day of atonement, it shall be an holy convocation unto you, and ye shall afflict your souls n, and offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

* Chap. 16. 30. Numb. 29. 7.

n With Fasting, and bitter Repentance for all, especially their national Sins, among which no doubt God would have them remember remember their Sin of the golden Calf. For as God had threatned to remember it in after-times to punish them for it, Exod. 32. 34. so there was great reason why they should remember it to humble themselves for it.

28 And ye shall do no work in that same day: for it is a day of atonement, to make an atonement for you, before the LORD your God.

29 For whatsoever soul it be o that shall not
* Gen. 17. 14. be afflicted in that same day, * he shall be cut off from among his People.

o Either of the Jewish Nation or Religion. Hereby God would signify the absolute necessity which every Man had of Repentance and Forgiveness of Sin, and the desperate condition of all impenitent Persons.

30 And whatsoever soul it be that doth any work in that same day, the same soul will I destroy from among his people.

31 Ye shall do no manner of work: it shall be a statute for ever throughout your generations, in all your dwellings.

32 It shall be unto you a sabbath of rest, and ye shall afflict your souls in the ninth day of the month at even, from even unto even shall ye † Heb. rest. † celebrate your sabbath p.

p This clause seems to be added to answer an Objection, How this day of Atonement could be both on the tenth day, ver. 27. and on the ninth day here. The Answer is, it began at the evening or close of the ninth day, and continued till the evening or close of the tenth day, and so both were true, especially if you consider, that the Jews did take in some part of the sixth days evening by way of preparation for the Sabbath, and therefore would much more take in a part of the ninth day to prepare and begin the great and solemn work of their yearly Atonement. And this clause may be understood either, 1. Of this particular Sabbath, called here your Sabbath, in the singular number, possibly to note the difference between this and other Sabbaths: for the weekly Sabbath is oft called the Sabbath of the Lord, because that was in a special manner appointed for the praising, honouring and serving of God, and celebrating his glorious works, as also the other Sabbaths here mentioned were, whereas this was principally ordained for their need and for their good, even to seek and obtain the pardon of their Sins. Or, 2. Of all their Sabbaths, and consequently of this. The Jews are supposed to begin every day, and consequently their Sabbaths, at the evening, in remembrance of the Creation, Gen. 1. 5. as Christians generally begin their days and Sabbaths with the Morning in memory of Christ's Resurrection.

33 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

34 Speak unto the children of Israel, saying,
* Num. 29. 12. *. The fifteenth day of the seventh moneth shall be the feast of tabernacles q for seven dayes unto the LORD.

q (i. e.) Of Tents, or Booths, or Arbours. This Feast was appointed principally to remind them of that time when they had no other Dwellings in the Wilderness, as it is expressed, ver. 43. and to stir them up to bless God as well for the gracious Conduct and Protection then afforded them, as for their more commodious and secure Habitations now given them; and secondarily, to excite them to gratitude for all the Fruits of the Year newly ended, which were now compleatly brought in, as may be gathered from ver. 39. and Exod. 23. 16. Deut. 16. 13, 14. See an instance of this Feast, Neh. 8. 16.

35 On the first day shall be an holy convocation: ye shall do no servile work therein.

36 Seven dayes ye shall offer an offering r made
* Joh. 7. 37. & 2 Chro. 7. 9. by fire unto the LORD; * on the eighth day s shall be an holy convocation unto you, and ye shall offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD: † Heb. day of restraint. it is a † solemn assembly t, and ye shall do no servile work therein.

r A several Offering each day, which is particularly described Numb. 29. 13, &c. s Which though it was not one of the days of this Feast strictly taken, nor is it here affirmed to be so, but on the contrary is expresly said to consist of seven days, ver. 34, 39. nor did they dwell longer in Tabernacles, yet in a larger sense it belonged to this Feast, and is called the great day of the Feast, Joh. 7. 37. And so indeed it was, as for other reasons, so because, by their removal from their Tabernacles into more fixed and comfortable Habitations, it represented that happy time wherein their 40 Years tedious march in the Wilderness was ended, with their Introduction into and Settlement in the Land of Canaan, which it was most fit and just they should acknowledg with such a solemn day of Thanksgiving as this was. t Heb. a day of conclusion, because it was the end of the Feast, Joh. 7. 37. or, of restraint, because they were restrained from servile Work, and obliged to attendance upon God's Worship; or, of detention, because they were yet detained before the Lord, and kept together for his Service, and not suffered to return to their Tents, till this was over.

37 These are the feasts of the LORD, which ye shall proclaim to be holy convocations, to offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD, a burnt-offering, and a meat-offering, a sacrifice u, and drink-offerings, every thing upon his day:

u (i. e.) Another Sacrifice, to wit, for a Sin-offering, as we shall find it, Numb. 29. 16, 19, 22, &c. called by the general name, a Sacrifice, because it was designed for that which was the principal end of all Sacrifices, to wit, for the expiation of Sin.

38 Beside the sabbaths x of the LORD, and beside your gifts y, and beside all your vows, and beside all your free-will offerings, which ye give unto the LORD.

x (i. e.) The Offerings of the weekly Sabbaths, by a Metonymy, as the Day is sometimes put for the Actions done in it, as Prov. 27. 1. 1 Cor. 3. 13. God will not have any Sabbath-Sacrifice diminished, because of the addition of others proper to any other Feast. And it is here to be noted that though other Festival Days are sometimes called Sabbaths, as here ver. 39. yet these are here called the Sabbaths of the Lord, in way of contradistinction to other days of rest, to shew that this was more eminently such than other Feast-days, which also sufficiently appears from the fourth Commandment. y Which, being here distinguished from free-will-offerings made to the Lord, may seem to note what they freely gave to the Priests over and above their First-fruits and Tithes, or other things which they were enjoyned to give.

39 Also z, in the fifteenth day of the seventh moneth, when ye have gathered in the fruit a of the land, ye shall keep a feast unto the LORD seven days. On the first day shall be a sabbath, and on the eighth day shall be a sabbath.

z Or, rather surely, as this Particle is oft used: For this is no addition of a new, but only a repetition of the former Injunction, with a more particular Explication both of the manner and reason of the Feast. a Not the Corn, which was gathered long before, but of their Trees, as Vines, Olives, and other Fruit-trees: which compleated the Harvest, whence this is called the Feast of in-gathering, Exod. 23. 16.

40 And ye shall take you on the first day the † Heb. fruit. † boughs b of goodly trees c, branches of palm-trees, and the boughs of thick trees d, and willows of the brook e, and ye shall rejoyce f before the LORD your God seven days.

b Heb. the fruit, i. e. Fruit-bearing Boughs, or Branches with the Fruit on them, as the word Fruit seems to be taken, 2 King. 19. 30. Ezek. 19. 12. c To wit, the Olive, Myrtle, and Pine, as they are mentioned, Neh. 8. 15, 16. which were most plentiful there, and which would best preserve their greenness or freshness. d Fit for shade and shelter. e Which might do well to mix with the other, and in some sort to bind them together. And as they made their Booths of these Materials, as is apparent from Neh. 8. so it seems they did also carry some of these Boughs in their hands, as is affirmed by Jewish and other ancient Writers. f Which Joy they testified by Feasting, Thanksgiving, &c.

41 And ye shall keep it a feast unto the LORD seven days in the year, it shall be a statute for ever in your generations, ye shall celebrate it in the seventh month.

42 Ye shall dwell in booths g seven days: all that are Israelites born shall dwell in booths;

g Which were erected in their Cities or Towns, either in their Streets or Gardens, or the tops of their Houses Neh. 8. 16. which were made flat, and therefore were proper and fit for that use.

43 That your generations may know that I made the children of Israel to dwell in booths, when I brought them out of the land of Egypt: I am the LORD your God.

44 And Moses declared unto the children of Israel the feasts of the LORD.

CHAP. XXIV.

1 AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Command the children of Israel, that they bring a unto thee pure oil-olive, beaten, for the lights, † to cause the lamps to burn continually.
† Heb. to cause to ascend.

a At their common charge, because it was for their common good and service. This command was given before, Exod. 27. 20.

3 With-

3 Without the vail of the teſtimony b, in the tabernacle of the congregation ſhall Aaron c order it from the evening unto the morning, before the LORD continually: it ſhall be a ſtatute for ever in your generations.

b (i. e.) Which was before the Ark of the Teſtimony. c Either by himſelf, or by his Sons, Exod. 25. 37.

* Exod. 31. 8. 4 He ſhall order the lamps upon * the pure d candleſtick before the LORD continually.

d So called, partly becauſe it was made of pure Gold, partly becauſe it was to be oft dreſſed and always kept clean.

5 And thou e ſhalt take fine flour, and bake * Exod. 25. 30. twelve * cakes f thereof: two tenth-deals g ſhall be in one cake.

e By the Prieſts or Levites, whoſe work it was to prepare them, 1 Chron. 9. 32. f Repreſenting the twelve Tribes. g (i. t.) Two Omers. See Levit. 23. 13.

6 And thou ſhalt ſet them in two rows h, ſix on a row, upon the pure table i before the LORD.

h Not one above another, but one beſides another, as the frankincenſe put upon each, ver. 7. ſhews. i So called, becauſe it was covered with pure Gold, Exod. 25. 24. and becauſe it was always to be kept very pure and clean by the care of the Prieſts.

7 And thou ſhalt put pure frankincenſe k upon each row, that it may be on the bread l for a memorial m, even an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

k Unmixed and uncorrupted, or of the beſt ſort. l Or, to the Bread, or for the Bread, to wit, to be burnt before the Lord inſtead of the bread which could not conveniently be offered to God in that manner. And this was done every time that the bread was changed. m For that part which properly belonged to God, whereas the reſt belonged to the Prieſts. See on Levit. 2. 2.

8 Every ſabbath he ſhall ſet it in order before the LORD n continually, being taken o from the children of Iſrael by an everlaſting covenant p.

n Whence it was called the Shew-bread, Heb. the Bread of faces, or of preſence, i. e. the Bread which was put upon the Table in the Lord's preſence. o Such ſupplements are not unuſual. Thus in the floor, 1 King. 22. 10. is put for ſitting in the floor, 2 Chron. 18. 9. and burdens, 2 Chron. 2. 18. for carrying burdens, 1 King. 5. 15. And theſe Cakes are ſaid to be received from, or offered by the children of Iſrael, becauſe they were bought with the mony which they contributed, as may be ſeen Nehem. 10. 32, 33. as Judas is ſaid to purchaſe the Field, Act. 1. 18. which was purchaſed by his Mony, Mat. 27. 7. p By virtue of that compact made between me and them, by which they are obliged to keep this amongſt other Commands, and, they ſo doing, I am obliged to be their God, and to bleſs them. And this may be here called an everlaſting Covenant, not only becauſe it was to endure as long as the Jewiſh Religion and Policy ſtood, but alſo becauſe this was to ſtand there everlaſtingly, or continually, as is here ſaid, and therefore the new cakes were firſt brought before the old were taken away.

* Exod. 29. 33. chap. 8. 31. 1 Sam. 21. 6. Mat. 12. 4. 9 And * it q ſhall be Aarons and his ſons, and they ſhall eat it in the holy place: for it is moſt holy unto him, of the offerings r of the LORD made by fire, by a perpetual ſtatute.

q (i. t.) The old Bread now to be taken away. r Or, as one, or being one of the Offerings, &c. in regard of the Incenſe which was offered by fire, and that for or inſtead of the Bread, as was ſaid on ver. 7. and therefore the Bread was reputed as if it had been ſo offered.

10 And the ſon of an Iſraelitiſh woman, whoſe father was an Egyptian s, went out t among the children of Iſrael: and this ſon of the Iſraelitiſh woman, and a man of Iſrael ſtrove together u in the camp.

s This circumſtance ſeems noted, partly to ſhew the danger of marriages with perſons of wicked Principles or Practices, wherein the Children, as one wittily and truly obſerves, like the concluſion, do commonly follow the worſe part, and are more eaſily taught by word or Example to do ten things agreeable to their corrupt natures, than one thing contrary to it; and partly by this Severity againſt him who was a ſtranger by the Father, and an Iſraelite by the Mother, to ſhew that God would not have this Sin to go unpuniſhed amongſt his People, whatſoever he was that committed it. t To wit, out of Egypt, being one of that mixed Multitude, which came out with the Iſraelites, Exod. 12. 38. It is probable, this was done when the Iſraelites were near Sinai. u This is added, to ſhew that provocation to Sin is no juſtification of Sin.

11 And the Iſraelitiſh womans ſon † blaſphemed the Name of the LORD x, and curſed y, and they z brought him unto Moſes a, (and his mothers name was Shelomith, the daughter of Dibri, of the tribe of Dan:)

† Or, named. Numb. 1. 17.

x The words of the Lord, or of Jehovah, are here conveniently ſupplied out of v. 16. where they are expreſſed, but here they are omitted for the Aggravation of his crime, he blaſphemed the Name, ſo call'd by way of eminency, that Name which is above every name, that Name which a man ſhould in ſome ſort tremble to mention, which is not to be named without cauſe and without reverence. For which reaſon the godly Jews did many times rather underſtand than expreſs the Name of God, as Mark 14. 62. the Right hand of Power, for of the Power of God, as it is Luk. 22. 69. and the Bleſſed for the bleſſed God, Mat. 26. 63. Mark 14. 61. y Not the Iſraelite only, but his God alſo, as appears from ver. 15, 16. z Either the People who heard him, or the inferior Magiſtrate, to whom he was firſt brought. a According to the order ſettled by Jethro's advice, Exod. 18. 26.

12 And they * put him in ward, † that the mind of the LORD might be ſhewed them b.

* Numb. 15. 34. † Heb. to expound unto them according to the mouth of the LORD.

b For God had only ſaid in general, that he would not hold ſuch guiltleſs, i. e. he would puniſh them, but had not declared how he would have them puniſhed by Men.

13 And the Lord ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

14 Bring forth him that hath curſed, without the camp, and let all that heard him, * lay their hands upon his head c, and let all the congregation ſtone him d.

* Deut. 13. 9. and 17. 7.

c Whereby they gave publick Teſtimony that they heard this perſon ſpeak ſuch words, and did in their own, and in all the Peoples names deſire and demand Juſtice to be executed upon him, that by this Sacrifice God might be appeaſed, and his Judgments turned away from the People, upon whom they would certainly fall if he were unpuniſhed. d The ſame Puniſhment which was before appointed for thoſe who curſed their Parents, whereas it deſerved a far more grievous Death. Thus God in this Life mixeth Mercy with Judgment, and puniſheth Men leſs than their Iniquities deſerve.

15 And thou ſhalt ſpeak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, Whoſoever curſeth e his God, ſhall bear his ſin f.

e (i. e.) Speaketh of him reproachfully and with contempt. They therefore are greatly miſtaken that underſtand this of the Heathen Gods, whom their Worſhippers are forbidden to reproach or curſe. But Moſes is not here giving Laws to Heathens, but to the Iſraelites; nor would he concern himſelf ſo much to vindicate the Honour of Idols, nor doth this agree either with the deſign of the holy Scriptures, which is to beget a contempt and deteſtation of all Idols and Idolatry; or with the practice of the holy Prophets who uſed oft to vilify them. See 1 King. 18. 27. Jer. 10. 11. f (i. t.) The Puniſhment of it, ſhall not go unpuniſhed. Some ſay he was to be beaten with ſtripes: other ſay with Death, which is deſcribed ver. 16.

16 And † he that blaſphemeth the name of the LORD g, he ſhall ſurely be put to death, and all the congregation h ſhall certainly ſtone him: as well the ſtranger, as he that is born in the land, when he † blaſphemeth the name of the LORD, † ſhall be put to death.

† Or, he that nameth. † Or, nameth

g This ſome make a diſtinct Sin from curſing his God, mentioned ver. 15. but the difference they make ſeems arbitrary, and without evidence from reaſon, or the uſe of the words. And therefore this may be a repetition of the ſame Sin in other words, which is common. And as this Law is laid down in more general terms ver. 15. ſo both the Sin and the Puniſhment are more particularly expreſſed ver. 16. Or the firſt part of ver. 16. may be an application of the former rule to the preſent caſe. And as for him that blaſphemith, &c. or is blaſphoming &c. in the preſent tenſe, which is fitly uſed concerning words juſt now uttered, and ſcarce yet out of their Ears, he ſhall, &c. And ſo the following words, as well the ſtranger, &c. may be a repetition and amplification of the former Law. h To ſhew their zeal for God, and to beget in them the greater dread and abhorrency of Blaſphemy.

17 * And he that † killeth any man i, ſhall ſurely be put to death.

* Exod. 21. 12. Numb. 35. 31. Deut. 19. 21. † Heb. ſmiteth the ſoul of a man.

i This Law is repeated here, either to juſtify this ſeverity of putting Blaſphemers to death, from the ſame Severity executed for a leſs crime: or to prevent the miſchievous effects of Mens ſtriving or contending together, which as here it cauſed Blaſphemy, ſo it might in others lead to Murder.

18 And he that killeth a beaſt, ſhall make it good, † beaſt for beaſt.

† Heb. ſoul for ſoul.

19 And if a man cauſe a blemiſh in his neighbour; as * he hath done, ſo ſhall it be done unto him:

* Exod. 21. 24. Deut. 19. 21. Mat. 5. 38.

20 Breach for breach, eye for eye, tooth for tooth: as he hath caused a blemish in a man, so shall it be done to him again.

* Exod. 21. 33, 34. 21 * And he that killeth a beast, he shall restore it: and he that killeth a man, he shall be put to death.

* Exod. 12. 49. 22 Ye shall have * one manner of law k, as well for the stranger, as for one of your own countrey: for I am the LORD your God.

k To wit, in matters of common right, but not as to Church-Priviledges.

23 And Moses spake unto the children of Israel, that they should bring forth him that had cursed, out of the camp, and stone him with stones: and the children of Israel did as the LORD commanded Moses.

CHAP. XXV.

1 AND the LORD spake unto Moses in mount Sinai a, saying, a (i. e.) Near mount Sinai. So the Hebrew Particle Beth is sometimes used, as Gen. 37. 13. Jos. 5. 13. Judg. 8. 5. 2 Chron. 33. 20. compared with 2 King. 21. 18. So there is no need to disturb the order of the History in this place.

2 Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, When ye come into the land b which I give you, then shall the land † keep * a sabbath c unto the Lord d.

† Heb. rest. * Exod. 23. 11. See ch. 26. 34.

b So as to be settled in it, for the time of the wars was not to be accounted, nor the time before Joshua's distribution of the Land among them, Jos. 14. 7, 10. c (i. e.) Enjoy rest and freedom from plowing, tilling, &c. d (i. e.) In obedience, and unto the honour of God. This was instituted, partly for the assertion of God's Soveraign Right to the Land, in which the Israelites were but Tenants at God's Will; partly for the trial and exercise of their Obedience; partly for the demonstration of his Providence aswel in the general towards Men, as more especially towards his own People, of which see below, ver. 20, 21, 22. partly to wean them from inordinate love and pursuit of, or trust to worldly Advantages, and to inure them to depend upon God alone, and upon God's Blessing for their subsistence; partly to put them in mind of that blessed and eternal Rest provided for all good Men, wherein they should be perfectly freed from all worldly labours and troubles, and wholly devoted to the service and enjoyment of God. See on Exod. 23. 11. and lastly, that by their own straits in that year they might learn more compassion to the poor, who were under the same straits every year.

3 Six years thou shalt sow thy field, and six years thou shalt prune thy vineyard, and gather in the fruit thereof.

4 But in the seventh year shall be a sabbath of rest unto the land, a sabbath for the LORD: thou shalt neither sow thy field, nor prune thy vineyard.

* 2 King. 19. 29. 5 * That which groweth of its own accord e of thy harvest thou shalt not reap f, neither gather the grapes † of thy vine undressed g: for it is a year of rest unto the land.

† Heb. of thy separation.

e From the grains that fell out of the ears the last reaping time. f (i. e.) As thy own peculiarly, but only so as others may reap it with thee, for present Food. g Heb. the grapes of thy separation, i. e. The Grapes which thou hast separated or set apart to the Honour of God, and to the ends and uses appointed by God; or the Grapes of that year, which are in this, like the Nazarites hair, not cut off by thee, but suffered to grow to the use of the poor.

6 And the sabbath h of the land shall be meat for you, for thee, and for thy servant i, and for thy maid, and for thy hired servant, and for the stranger that sojourneth with thee.

h (i. e.) The growth of the Sabbath, or that fruit which groweth in the Sabbatical year. See on Levit. 23. 38. where the word Sabbath, is taken in the like sense. i For all promiscuously, to take food from thence as they need it.

7 And for thy cattel, and for the beast that are in thy land, shall all the increase thereof be meat.

† Or, weeks. 8 And thou shalt number seven † sabbaths of years unto thee, seven times seven years, and the space of the seven sabbaths of years shall be unto thee forty and nine years.

9 Then shalt thou cause the trumpet † of the jubilee k to sound on the tenth day of the seventh month l, * in the day of atonement m shall ye make the trumpet sound throughout all your land.

† Heb. loud of sound. * chap. 23. 27.

k Which signified the true liberty from our spiritual Debts and Slaveries, to be purchased by Christ, and to be published to the World by the sound of the Gospel. l Which was the first Month of the Year for civil and worldly Affairs, which were mainly concerned in the Jubilee. And therefore it began in that Month, and, as it seems, upon this very tenth day, when the Trumpet sounded, as other Feasts generally began when the Trumpet sounded. m A very fit time, that when they fasted and prayed for God's Mercy to them in the pardon of their Sins, then they might exercise their Charity and kindness to Men in forgiving their Debts, which is the true Fast, as is noted Isa. 58 6. and to teach us, that the foundation of all solid Comfort and Joy, must be laid in bitter Repentance and Atonement for our Sins through Christ.

10 And ye shall hallow the fiftieth year n, and proclaim liberty throughout all the land, unto all the inhabitants thereof o: it shall be a jubilee p unto you, and ye shall return every man unto his possession q, and ye shall return every man unto his family r.

n By which it seems most probable, that the Year of Jubilee was not the forty and ninth year, as some learned Men think, but precisely the fiftieth Year. Which may appear, 1. Because the Jews account it so, which is confessed by the Adversaries of this Opinion, who say, that the Jews err in the computation of the Jubilee, as they do in Christ, the great End and Antitype of the Jubilee. But it is not probable that the Jews should universally err in a matter of constant practice among themselves, especially when there was nothing of Interest or Prejudice in the case, as there was in reference to Christ. 2. Because it is expresly called the fiftieth Year here, and ver. 11. that fiftieth Year, which was not true, if it was but the nine and fortieth Year. It is said, it is called so popularly, and it was so, if you take in the foregoing Jubilee. But it must be remembred, that there was not yet any foregoing Jubilee, but the very first of the kind is expresly called the fiftieth Year, which in truth it was not, if the Jubilee was ended ere the fiftieth Year began. 3. From the common course of computation, The old weekly Sabbath is called the seventh Day, because it truly was so, being next after the six days of the Week, and distinct from them all: and the Year of release is called the seventh Year, ver. 4. as immediately following the six Years, ver. 3. and distinct from them all. And therefore in like manner the Jubilee must needs be called the fiftieth Year, because it comes next after seven times seven, or forty nine years, ver. 8. and is distinct from them all. From ver. 11, 12. where it is said, Ye shall not sow nor reap, &c. for it is the Jubilee, &c. which looks like a vain and useless Repetition, if this Year were but one of the seven Years, for this very Command was given concerning every seventh Year, ver. 4. but if this Year of Jubilee was, as indeed it was, a Year distinct from, and coming after the seven sevens of Years, then this Repetition and Application of that Command to it was highly necessary, because otherwise it might seem hard and unreasonable that they should forbear sowing and reaping two Years together, which hereby they are commanded to do. Two things are objected against this; 1. That the Jubilee was only a Revolution of forty nine Years. But that seems a great Mistake, for it is most expresly distinguished from them all, and by way of distinction called the fiftieth Year, therefore surely none of the forty nine. 2. The difficulty propounded v. 20. concerns only the 7th Year, whereas it had been a greater difficulty, if it had been extended to the Jubilee, and the Jubilee had been another vacant Year coming next after the seventh Year. But though the difficulty was greater for the Jubilee, yet it was more frequent for the seventh Year: and the resolution of the one made the way plain for the satisfaction of the other. For as God promised so to bless every sixth Year, that it should bring forth fruit for three Years, ver. 21. so when the case was extraordinary, as in the Jubilee, it was but reasonable to expect an extraordinary Blessing from God upon that sixth Year, which went next before the last of the seventh Years, or the forty ninth Year, that it should then bring forth fruit for four Years. o Understand such as were Israelites; principally to all Servants, even to such as would not, and did not go out at the seventh Year, and to the Poor, who now were acquitted from all their Debts, and restored to their Possessions. p So called either from the Hebrew word Jobel, which signifies first a Ram, and then a Rams horn, by the sound whereof it was proclaimed; or from Jubal, the Inventor of Musical Instruments, Gen. 4. 21. because it was celebrated with Musick and all Expressions of Joy. q Which had been sold, or otherwise alienated from him. This Law was not at all unjust, because all Buyers and Sellers had an eye to this condition in their bargains: but it was necessary and expedient in many regards, as 1. To mind them that God alone was the Lord, and Owner, and Proprietor, both of them and of their Lands, and they only his Tenants and Farmers, a Point which they were very apt to forget. 2. That hereby Inheritances, Families and Tribes might be kept entire and clear until the coming of the the Meſſias, who was to be known as by other things, ſo by the Tribe and Family out of which he was to come. And this accordingly was done by the ſingular Providence of God until the Lord Jeſus did come. Since which time thoſe characters are miſerably confounded: Which is no ſmall Argument that the Meſſias is come. 3. To ſet bounds both to the inſatiable avarice of ſome, and the fooliſh prodigality of others, that the former might not wholly and finally ſwallow up the inheritances of their Brethren, and the latter might not be able to undo themſelves and their poſterity for ever, which was a ſingular priviledge of this Law and People. r From whom he was gone, being ſold to ſome other Family either by himſelf, or by his Father.

11. A Jubilee ſhall that fiftieth year be unto you: ye ſhall not ſow s, neither reap that which groweth of it ſelf in it, nor gather the grapes in it of thy vine undreſſed.

s Though it come immediately after a ſeventh year, wherein alſo this was forbidden to you.

12 For it is the jubilee, it ſhall be holy unto you t, ye ſhall eat the increaſe thereof u out of the field x.

t So it was, becauſe it was ſequeſtred in great part from worldly employments, and dedicated to God, and to the exerciſe of holy joy and thankfulneſs; and becauſe it was a type of that holy and happy Jubilee which they were to expect and enjoy by and under the Meſſias. u Such things as it produced of it ſelf: For the year before nothing was ſowed. x Whence they in common with others might take it as they needed it; but muſt not put it into Barns. See ver. 5. and Exod. 23. 11.

13. In the year of this jubilee ye ſhall return every man unto his poſſeſſion.

14 And if thou ſell ought unto thy neighbour, or buyeſt ought of thy neighbours hand, ye ſhall not oppreſs one another y.

y Neither the Seller by requiring more, nor the Buyer by taking the advantage from his Brothers neceſſities to give him leſs than the worth of it.

15 According to the number of years after the jubilee, thou ſhalt buy of thy neighbour, and according unto the number of years of the fruits z he ſhall ſell unto thee.

z Or, Of Years of Fruits, or, of fruitful Years; for there were ſome unfruitful Years, to wit, ſuch wherein they were not allowed to ſow or reap, &c.

16 According to the multitude of years thou ſhalt increaſe the price thereof: and according to the fewneſs of years, thou ſhalt diminiſh the price of it: For according to the number of the years of the fruits a doth he ſell unto thee.

a Or, For the number of the Fruits. The meaning is, he ſelleth not the Land, but only the Fruits thereof, and that for a certain time.

17 Ye ſhall not therefore oppreſs one another, but thou ſhalt fear thy God: for I am the LORD your God.

18. Wherefore ye ſhall do my ſtatutes, and keep my judgments, and do them, and ye ſhall dwell in the land in ſafety.

19 And the land ſhall yeild her fruit, and ye ſhall eat your fill, and dwell therein in ſafety.

20 And if ye ſhall ſay, What ſhall we eat b the ſeventh year? behold, we ſhall not ſow, nor gather in our increaſe.

b A like objection. See Exod. 34. 23, 24.

21 Then I will command † my bleſſing upon you in the ſixth year, and it ſhall bring forth fruit for three years c.

† (i. e.) Give. Commanding is oft uſed in Scripture, either for the performance of promiſed Bleſſings, as Deut. 28. 8. Pſal. 111. 9. and 133. 3. or for the execution of threatned Judgments, as Iſa. 5. 6. Amos 9. 4. both being acts of God's Providential Will, as the Command is of his Legiſlative Will. c. Not compleatly, but in great part, to wit, for that part of the ſixth Year which was between the beginning of Harveſt and the beginning of the ſeventh Year, for the whole ſeventh Year, and for that part of the eight Year which was before the Harveſt, which reached almoſt until the beginning of the ninth Year. And by this expreſſion we may underſtand the meaning of that eminent paſſage of Chriſt's being three dayes and three nights in the Grave, to wit, one whole day and part of two days: Of which more, if God pleaſe, in its proper place. This is added to ſhew the Equity of this Command. As God would hereby try their Faith and exerciſe Obedience, ſo he gave them an eminent proof of his own exact Providence and tender Care over them in making Proviſions ſuitable to their Neceſſities. Albeit it be alſo probable, that divers of them, eſpecially ſuch as were more ſolicitous or diſtruſtful of God's Providence, did lay up ſomething of the Fruits of former Years againſt this Time.

22 And ye ſhall ſow the eighth year, and eat yet of old fruit d until the ninth year: until her fruits e come in, ye ſhall eat of the old ſtore.

d Of the ſixth year principally, if not ſolely. e (i. e.) The Fruits of the eighth Year.

23 The land ſhall not be ſold ‖ † for ever f: for the land is mine g, for ye are * ſtrangers and ſojourners with me h.

‖ Or, to be quite cut off.
* Pſal. 119. 19. 1 Pet. 2. 11.

f Or, abſolutely and properly, ſo as to become the propriety of the Buyer: Or to the Extermination or utter cutting off, to wit, of the Seller from all Hopes and Poſſibility of Redemption. g Procured for you by my Power, given to you by my meer Grace and Bounty, and the Right of Propriety reſerved by me, and to be diſpoſed of by you only to ſuch Perſons, and in ſuch manner as I ſhall have ordained. h (i. e.) In my Land or Houſes; thus he is ſaid to ſojourn with another that dwells in his Houſe. Thus the poor decayed Iſraelites and the Strangers are ſaid to live with them, i. e. with the other Iſraelites, to wit, in the Land or houſes, here ver. 35, 36, 40, 45. Or, before me, in my ſight, or in my account. Howſoever in your own or other Mens Opinions you paſs for Lords and Proprietors, yet in Truth, according to which my Judgment always is, you are but Strangers and Sojourners, not to poſſeſs the Land for ever, but only for a ſeaſon, and to leave it to ſuch as I have appointed for it.

24 And in all the land of your poſſeſſion, ye ſhall grant a redemption i for the land.

i (i. e.) A Right of Redemption in the time and manner following.

25 If thy brother be waxen poor, and hath ſold away ſome of his poſſeſſion k, and if any of his kin come to redeem it l, then ſhall he redeem that which his brother ſold.

k To wit, in the Fields, but not in Cities, ver. 29. l Or, If the Redeemer come, being near akin to him, to whom the Right of Redemption belonged, Ruth 3. 12. & 4. 4. Jer. 32. 7. who in this Act was an eminent Type of Chriſt, who was made near akin to us, by taking our Fleſh, that he might perform the Work of Redemption for us.

26 And if the man have none to redeem it, † and himſelf be able to redeem it:

† Heb. his hand hath attained and found ſufficiency.

27 Then let him count the years of the ſale thereof m, and reſtore the overplus n unto the man to whom he ſold it, that he may return unto his poſſeſſion.

m (i. e.) From the time of the Sale to the Jubilee. See above, ver. 15, 16. n (i. e.) A convenient Price for the Years from this Redemption to the Jubilee.

28 But if he be not able to reſtore it to him, then that which is ſold ſhall remain in the hand of him that hath bought it, until the year of jubilee: and in the jubilee it ſhall go out, and he ſhall return unto his poſſeſſion.

o (i. e.) Out of the Buyers Hand, without any Redemption Mony 29 And if a man ſell a dwelling houſe in a walled city, then he may redeem it within a whole year after it is ſold, within † a full year may he redeem it.

† Heb. dayes. 1 Sam. 1. 3. & 27. 7.

30 And if it be not redeemed within the ſpace of a full year, then the houſe that is in the walled city ſhall be eſtabliſhed for ever to him that bought it, throughout his generations: it ſhall not go out in the jubilee p.

p The reaſon is from the great Difference between ſuch Houſes and Lands. The Reaſons before alledged for Lands do not hold in ſuch Houſes, there was no Danger of Confuſion in Tribes or Families by the Alienation of Houſes. The Seller alſo had a greater Propriety in Houſes than in Lands, as not coming to him by God's meer Gift, but being commonly built by the Owners Coſt and Diligence, and therefore had a fuller Power to diſpoſe of them. Beſides, God would hereby encourage Perſons to buy and poſſeſs Houſes in ſuch Places; which frequency and fulneſs of Inhabitants in Cities was a great Strength, Honour and Advantage to the whole Land.

31 But the houſes of the villages q which have no wall round about them, ſhall be counted as the fields of the country: † they may be redeemed, and they ſhall go out in the jubilee.

† Heb. Redemption belongeth unto it.

q Becauſe they belonged to, and were neceſſary or very convenient for the Management of the Lands.

32 Notwithstanding the cities of the Levites, and the houses of the cities of their possession may the Levites redeem at any time.

‖ Or, one of the Levites redeem them.

33 And if ‖ a man purchase of the Levites, then the house that was sold, and the city of his possession shall go out r in the year of jubilee: for the houses of the cities of the Levites are their possession among the children of Israel.

r Or thus, But he that shall redeem it, shall be, or must be of the Levites, i. e. No Person of another Tribe, though by Marriage near akin to the selling Levite, shall redeem it, but Levites only, and any of them shall have the same Power to redeem it, which in other Tribes only the nearest Kindred have; and, in case none of them redeem it, yet the House that was sold, and the City of his Possession, i. e. his Share or Interest in the City of his Possession, shall go out and return to the Levites without any Redemption.

34 But the field of the suburbs of their cities s may not be sold t, for it is their perpetual possession.

s Of which see on Numb. 35. 5. t Not sold at all; partly, because it was of absolute Necessity for them for the keeping of their Cattel; and partly, because these were no Enclosures, but common Fields, in which all the Levites that lived in such a City had an Interest, and therefore no particular Levite could dispose of his Part in it. Some conceive that this Law was altered in ensuing Ages, which they gather from Jer. 32. 7, 8, &c. and Act. 4. 36, 37. But those Examples do not prove it. That Sale of Jeremiah's was made by a particular Dispensation and Command of God, and that in a time when the Levites, as well as the People, were to be destroyed, or dispersed and carried into Captivity, and therefore could receive no considerable Injury by it: and besides, this Sale was only made formally and for signification, as it is explained, ver. 14, 15. And for the Land sold by Barnabas a Levite, Act. 4. as it was at a time when the Jewish Church was dissolved, and their State upon the Brinks of utter Ruine, so it is not evident that it was such Suburb Land, which would have yielded but a small Price, but it might be other Land, either such as he might have in Right of his Wife, or such as he might have purchased. For though the Levites in general had no other Share of Land beside this, allotted them by God, yet it is conceived that particular Levites might purchase Lands to themselves.

35 And if thy brother be waxen poor, and † fallen in decay u with thee, then thou shalt † relieve him x, yea though he be a stranger, or a sojourner y, that he may live with thee.

u Heb. his Hand waxeth or faileth, or is decayed, so that he hath not power to get or keep Wealth, as the Phrase is, Deut. 8. 18. as on the contrary, when a Man is able, his Hand is said to attain and find Sufficiency, as here above, ver. 26. x Heb. strengthen him, comfort his Heart, and strengthen his Hand. y Understand it of Proselytes only, for of other Strangers they were permitted to take Usury, Deut. 23. 20.

36 * Take thou no usury of him z, or increase a, but * fear thy God, that thy brother may live with thee.

* Exod. 22. 25. Deut. 23. 19. Prov. 28. 8. Ezek. 18. 8. and 22. 12. * Nehem. 5. 9.

z (i. e.) Of thy Brother, whether he be Israelite or Proselyte. a This some conceive relates to the Fruits of the Earth, Food, &c. as Usury doth to Mony. But here may rather seem to be two Words expressing the same thing, to meet with the subtil Evasions of Crafty and covetous Men, who make gain of their poor Brethren (for of such only he speaks here, as is evident from ver. 36.) by the lending of Mony or other Things, and that they may quiet their Consciences, and palliate their Sin, they disguise it under other Names, and to shew that all kinds of Usury are in this case forbidden, whether of Mony, or of Victuals, or of any thing that is commonly lent by one Man to another upon Usury, or upon condition of receiving the Thing lent with Advantage and Overplus, as it is said, Deut. 23. 19.

37 Thou shalt not give him thy mony upon usury, nor lend him thy victuals for increase.

38 I am the LORD your God which brought you forth out of the land of Egypt, to give you the land of Canaan, and to be your God.

39 And * if thy brother that dwelleth by thee be waxen poor, and be sold unto thee, thou shalt not † compel him to serve as a bond-servant b.

* Exod. 21. 2. Deut. 15. 12. Jer. 34. 14. † Heb. serve thy self of him with the service, &c.

b Neither for the Time for ever, nor for the Manner, with the hardest and vilest kinds of Service rigorously and severely exacted from him.

40 But as an hired servant, and as a sojourner he shall be with thee, and shall serve thee unto the year of jubilee.

41 And then shall he depart from thee c, both he and his children with him, and shall return unto his own family, and unto his possession of his fathers shall he return.

c Thou shalt not suffer him or his to abide longer in thy Service, as thou mightest do in the Year of Release, Exod. 21. 2, 6.

42 For they are my servants d, which I brought forth out of the land of Egypt: they shall not be sold † as bond-men.

† Heb. with the sale of a bond-man.

d They, no less than you, are Members of my Church and People, such as I have chosen out of all the World to serve me here, and to enjoy me hereafter, and therefore are not to be oppressed or abused; neither are you absolute Lords over them, to deal with them as you please.

43 * Thou shalt not rule over him with rigor, but shalt fear thy God e.

* Eph. 6. 9. Col. 4. 1.

e Though thou dost not fear them who are in thy power, and unable to right themselves, yet fear that God who hath commanded thee to use them kindly, and who can and will avenge their Cause, if thou dost oppress them.

44 Both thy bond-men and thy bond-maids which thou shalt have, shall be of the heathen that are round about you: of them shall ye buy bond-men and bond-maids.

45 Moreover, of the children of the strangers that do sojourn among you, of them shall ye buy, and of their families that are with you, which they begat in your land; and they shall be your Possession.

46 And ye shall take them as an inheritance for your children after you, to inherit them for a possession; † they shall be your bond-men for ever: but over your brethren the children of Israel, ye shall not rule one over another with rigor.

† Heb. ye shall serve your selves of them.

47 And if a sojourner or stranger wax rich by thee, and thy brother that dwelleth by him wax poor, and sell himself unto the stranger or sojourner by thee, or to the stock f, of the strangers family:

f Heb. root, i. e. one of the Root or Stock. So the word Root is elsewhere used for the Branch or Progeny growing from it, as Numb. 13. 28. 2 Chron. 22. 10. He seems to note one of a foreign Race and Country transplanted into the Land of Israel, and there having taken Root amongst the People of God, yet even such an one, though he hath some Privilege by it, yet he shall not have power to keep an Hebrew Servant from the benefit of Redemption.

48 After that he is sold, he may be redeemed again, one of his brethren may redeem him.

49 Either his uncle, or his uncles son may redeem him, or any that is nigh of kin unto him of his family, may redeem him: or, if he be able, he may redeem himself.

50 And he shall reckon with him that bought him, from the year that he was sold to him, unto the year of jubilee, and the price of his sale shall be according unto the number of years, according to the time of an hired servant g shall it be with him.

q Allowance shall be made for the Time wherein he hath served proportionable to that which is given to an hired Servant for so long Service, because his Condition is in this like theirs, that it is not properly his Person, but his Work and Labour that was sold.

51 If there be yet many years behind, according unto them he shall give again the price of his redemption out of the mony that he was bought for.

52 And if there remain but few years unto the year of jubilee, then he shall count with him, and according unto his years shall he give him again the price of his redemption.

53 And as a yearly hired servant shall he be with him: and the other shall not rule with rigor over him in thy sight h.

h Thou shalt not suffer this to be done, but whether thou art a Magistrate, or a private Person, thou shalt take care according to thy Capacity to get it remedied.

54 And if he be not redeemed ‖ in these years, then he shall go out in the year of jubilee, both he and his children with him.

‖ Or, by these means.

55 For

55 For unto me the children of Israel are servants, they are my servants, whom I brought forth out of the land of Egypt: I am the LORD your God.

c Therefore God placed them not in a Land where there were such Rivers as Nilus, to water it, and make it fruitful, but in a Land which depended wholly upon the Rain of Heaven, the Key whereof God kept in his own Hand, that so he might the more effectually oblige them to Obedience, in which their Happiness consisted.

40 If they ſhall confeſs u their iniquity, and the iniquity of their fathers, with their treſpaſs which they treſpaſſed againſt me, and that alſo they have walked contrary unto me.

u Heb. And they ſhall confeſs, where our Tranſlation, and many others underſtand the Particle If, which is alſo wanting, and underſtood, Exod. 4. 23. Mal. 1. 2. and 3. 8. So here, And if they ſhall confeſs, &c. But there ſeems no neceſſity of any ſuch Supplement, but theſe and the following Words may be taken as they lie in their plain and proper Signification, to this purpoſe, ver. 40. And through the Heavineſs and Extraordinarineſs of their Affliction, their Conſciences will force them to confeſs their Iniquity, and the Iniquity of their Fathers, with their Treſpaſs which they have treſpaſſed againſt me, i. e. with their Prevarication with me, and Defection from me to Idolatry, which by way of Eminency he calls their Treſpaſs: And that alſo they have walked contrary to me, v. 41. and that I alſo have walked contrary unto them, and have brought them into the Land of their Enemies: i. e. that they are not come into theſe Calamities by chance, nor by the Misfortune of War, but my juſt Judgment upon them. All which Confeſſion is no more than Pharaoh made in his Diſtreſſes, and than Hypocrites in their Affliction uſe to make. And therefore he adds, if then their uncircumciſed, i. e. impure, carnal, profane, and impenitent Hearts be humbled, i. e. ſubdued, purged, reformed: If to this Confeſſion they add ſincere Humiliation and Reformation, I will do what follows.

* Jer. 6. 10. Rom. 2. 29. Col. 2. 11. 41 And that I alſo have walked contrary unto them, and have brought them into the land of their enemies: if then their * uncircumciſed hearts be humbled, and they then accept of the puniſhment of their iniquity x; x The Hebrew word Avon commonly ſignifies Iniquity, but it is oft uſed for the Puniſhment of Iniquity, as here, and 1 Sam. 28. 10. Pſal. 31. 10. Iſa. 53. 6, 11. The meaning is, if they ſincerely acknowledge the Righteouſneſs of God and their own Wickedneſs, and patiently ſubmit to his correcting Hand, and would rather be in their preſent ſuffering Condition, than in their former ſinful, though proſperous Eſtate; if, with David, they are ready to ſay, it is good for them that they are afflicted, that they may learn God's Statutes, and Obedience to them for the future, which is a good Evidence of true Repentance.

42 Then will I remember my covenant y with Jacob, and alſo my covenant with Iſaac, and alſo my covenant with Abraham will I remember, and I will remember the land z.

y To wit, ſo as to perform it, and make good all that I have promiſed in it. For Words of Knowledge, or Remembrance in Scripture do moſt commonly connote Affection and Kindneſs; of which there are many Inſtances, ſome given before, and more hereafter. z Which now ſeems to be forgotten, and neglected, and deſpiſed, as if I had never choſen it to be the peculiar place of my Preſence and Bleſſing.

43 The land alſo ſhall be left of them, and ſhall enjoy her ſabbaths, while ſhe lieth deſolate without them: and they ſhall accept of the puniſhment of their iniquity: becauſe, even becauſe they deſpiſed my judgments, and becauſe their ſoul abhorred my ſtatutes.

44 And

44 And yet for all that, when they be in the land
* Deut. 4. 31. Rom. 11. 26. of their enemies, * I will not caſt them away, neither will I abhor them, to deſtroy them utterly, and to break my covenant with them: for I am the LORD their God †.

† Neither the deſperateneſs of their Condition, nor the greatneſs of their Sins ſhall make me wholly make void my Covenant with them and their Anceſtors, but I will in due time remember them for good, and for my Covenants ſake return to them in Mercy. From this place the Jews take great comfort, and aſſure themſelves of deliverance out of their preſent Servitude and Miſery. And from this and ſuch other places St. Paul concludes, that the Iſraelitiſh Nation, tho then rejected and ruined, ſhould be gathered again and reſtored.

45 But I will for their ſakes ‖ remember the covenant of their anceſtors, whom I brought forth out of the land of Egypt, in the ſight of the heathen, that I might be their God: I am the LORD.

‖ Or rather, to or for them, i.e. for their good or benefit; for ſurely, if one conſiders what is ſaid before concerning the wickedneſs of this People, he cannot ſay this Deliverance was given them for their ſakes, but muſt rather ſay with the Prophet, Ezek. 36. 22, 32. not for your ſake, O houſe of Iſrael, &c.

46 Theſe are the ſtatutes, and judgments, and laws which the LORD made between him and the children of Iſrael, in mount Sinai, by the hand of Moſes.

CHAP. XXVII.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Speak unto the children, and ſay unto them; When a man ſhall make a ſingular vow a, the perſons ſhall be for the LORD b, by thy eſtimation c.

a Or, an eminent, or hard, or wonderful Vow, not concerning Things, which were not ſtrange, but cuſtomary, but concerning Perſons, as it here follows, which he vowed or by vow devoted unto the Lord, which indeed was unuſual and difficult: yet there want not Inſtances of ſuch Vows, and of Perſons which devoted either Themſelves or their Children to the Service of God, and that either more ſtrictly and particularly, as the Nazarites, and the Levites, 1 Sam. 1. 11. and for theſe there was no redemption admitted, but they were in perſon to perform the Service to which they were devoted: or more largely and generally, as ſome who were not Levites, nor intended themſelves or their Children ſhould be Nazarites, might yet through Zeal to God and his Service, or to obtain God's help in giving them ſome Mercy which they wanted and deſired, or in freeing them from ſome Evil felt or feared, devote Themſelves, or their Children, to the Sevice of God and of the Sanctuary, though not in ſuch a way as the Levites, which they were forbidden to do, yet in ſome kind of Subſerviency to them. And becauſe there might be too great a number of Perſons thus dedicated, which might be burdenſom and chargeable to the Sanctuary, therefore an Exchange is allowed, and the Prieſts are directed to impoſe and require a Tax for their Redemption. b (i.e.) Dedicated to the Lord, and conſequently to the Prieſt. c By whoſe Eſtimation? Anſ. Either, 1. thine, O Prieſt, to whom the valuation of things belonged, and here is aſcribed, vtr. 12. Or rather, 2. thine, O Man that voweſt, as appears from vtr. 8. where his Eſtimation is oppoſed to the Prieſt's valuation. Nor was there any fear of his Partiality in his own cauſe, for the price is particularly limited. But where the price is undetermined, there, to avoid that inconvenience, the Prieſt is to value it, as vtr. 8, 12.

3 And thy Eſtimation ſhall be, of the male from twenty years old, even unto ſixty years old d, even thy eſtimation ſhall be fifty ſhekels of ſilver, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary.

d Which is the beſt time for ſtrength and ſervice, and therefore is prized at the higheſt rate.

4 And if it be a female, then thy eſtimation ſhall be thirty ſhekels e.

e Leſs than the Man's price, becauſe ſhe is inferior to him, both in ſtrength and ſerviceableneſs.

5 And if it be from five years old f, even unto twenty years old, then thy eſtimation ſhall be of the male twenty ſhekels, and for the female ten ſhekels.

f At what age they might be vowed by their Parents, as appears from 1 Sam. 1. though not by themſelves; and the Children were obliged by their Parents Vow, which is not ſtrange, conſidering the Parents Power and Right to diſpoſe of their Children, ſo far as is not contrary to the Mind of God.

6 And if it be from a month old, even unto five years old, then thy eſtimation ſhall be of the male five ſhekels of ſilver, and for the female thy eſtimation ſhall be three ſhekels of ſilver.

7 And if it be from ſixty years old, and above, if it be a male, then thy eſtimation ſhall be fifteen ſhekels, and for the female ten ſhekels.

8 But if he be poorer than thy eſtimation g, then he ſhall preſent himſelf before the prieſt, and the prieſt ſhall value him: according to his ability h that vowed, ſhall the prieſt value him.

g If after his Vow he be decayed and impoveriſhed, and not able to pay the price, which thou according to the Rules here given, requireſt of him. h Which God alſo conſidered in other caſes, as Levit. 12. 8. Compare 2 Cor. 8. 12.

9 And if it be a beaſt whereof men bring i an offering unto the LORD, all that any man giveth k of ſuch unto the LORD, ſhall be holy l.

i To wit, uſually and according to God's appointment. k (i.e.) Voweth to give. l (i.e.) Conſecrated to God, either to be ſacrificed, or to be given to the Prieſt according to the manner of the Vow, and the intention of him that voweth.

10 He ſhall not alter it, nor change it m, a good for a bad, or a bad for a good n: and if he ſhall at all change beaſt for beaſt, then it, and the exchange thereof o ſhall be holy.

m Two words expreſſing the ſame thing more emphatically, q. d. He ſhall in no wiſe change it, neither for one of the ſame, nor of another kind. n Partly becauſe God would preſerve the Sanctity and Reverence of conſecrated things, and therefore would not have them alienated; and partly to prevent abuſes of them who on this pretence might exchange it for the worſe, as reſerving the Judgment to himſelf. o (i.e.) Both the thing firſt vowed, and the thing offered or given in Exchange. This was inflicted upon him as a juſt Penalty for his Raſhneſs and Levity in ſuch weighty matters.

11 And if it be any unclean p beaſt of which they do not offer a ſacrifice unto the LORD, then he ſhall preſent the beaſt before the prieſt.

p Either for the kind or for the quality of it, if it were ſuch an one as might not be offered. The Dog only may ſeem to be excepted, for his price might not be offered; See Deut. 23. 18.

12 And the prieſt ſhall value it, whether it be good or bad: † as thou valueſt it, who art the prieſt, ſo ſhall it be.

† Heb. according to thy eſtimation, O Prieſt, &c.

13 But if he will at all redeem it, then he ſhall add a fifth part thereof unto thy eſtimation.

14 And when a man ſhall ſanctify q his houſe to be holy unto the LORD r, then the prieſt ſhall eſtimate it, whether it be good or bad: as the prieſt ſhall eſtimate it, ſo ſhall it ſtand s.

q To wit, by a Vow, for of that way and manner of ſanctification he ſpeaks in this whole Chapter. r In which caſe the benefit of it redounded either to the Prieſts for their maintenance, Num. 18. 14. or to the Sanctuary for its reparations or expences. s Suppoſing that the Prieſt's Eſtimation doth not notoriouſly ſwerve from the rules of valuation preſcribed by God. For if the Prieſt determined moſt unrighteouſly & unreaſonably, as ſuppoſe an hundred times more than the true value of it, I preſume no man is ſo void of ſence as to ſay they were all bound to ſtand to the Prieſts determination in that caſe. Even as in caſe a mans Leproſy was notorious and unqueſtionable, if a Prieſt ſhould through Partiality pronounce him clean, this did not make him clean. And therefore all thoſe Paſſages of Scripture which leave things to, and command men to acquieſce in the Determination of the Prieſt or Prieſts, are to be underſtood with this exception, that their Determinations be not evidently contrary to the revealed Will of God, to whom Prieſts are ſubject and accountable. Otherwiſe if the Prieſt had commanded men to profane the Sabbath, this would have acquitted them from the obligation of Gods Command of keeping it holy, which is impious and abſurd to affirm. And this conſideration will give light to many Scriptures.

15 And if he that ſanctifieth it, will redeem his houſe, then he ſhall add the fifth part t of the mony of thy eſtimation unto it, and it ſhall be his.

t Which he might the better do, becauſe the Prieſts did uſually put a moderate rate upon it.

16 And

16 And if a man ſhall ſanctifie unto the LORD ſome part of a field of his poſſeſſion u, then thy eſtimation ſhall be according to the ſeed thereof x: ‖ Or, the land of an homer, &c. ‖ an homer of barly ſeed ſhall be valued at fifty ſhekels of ſilver y.

u (i.e.) Which is his by Inheritance, becauſe particular Direction is given about purchaſed Lands, ver. 22. And he ſaith part of it, becauſe it was unlawful to vow away all his Poſſeſſions, becauſe thereby he had diſenabled himſelf from the Performance of divers Duties by way of Sacrifice, Almeſgiving, &c. and made himſelf burdenſome to his Brethren. x (i.e.) According to the quantity and quality of the Land, which is known by the quantity of Seed which it can receive and return. y Not to be paid yearly, till the year of Jubilee, as ſome would have it, but once for all, as is moſt probable, 1. Becauſe here is no mention of any yearly payment, but only of one payment, and we muſt not add to the Text. 2. Becauſe it is moſt probable that Lands and all things were favourably and moderately valued, ſo that Men might be rather encouraged to make ſuch Vows upon juſt occaſions, than to be deterred from them by exceſſive Impoſitions. But if this were yearly Rent, it was an exceſſive rate, and much more than the Land ordinarily yielded. For an Omer is but the tenth part of an Ephah, Exod. 16. 36. and therefore not above a Pottle of our Meaſure, which quantity of Seed would not extend very far, and in ſome Lands would yield but an inconſiderable crop, eſpecially in Barley, which was cheaper than Wheat, and which for that reaſon, among others, may ſeem to be here mentioned rather than Wheat.

17 If he ſanctifie his field from the year of jubilee z, according to thy eſtimation a it ſhall ſtand b.

z (i.e.) Immediately after the Year of Jubilee is paſt. a Now mentioned, to wit, of 50 ſhekels for an homer of Barley ſeed. b (i.e.) That price ſhall be paid without diminution.

18 But if he ſanctifie his field after the jubilee c, then the prieſt ſhall reckon unto him the mony, according to the years that remain, even unto the year of the jubilee d, and it ſhall be abated from thy eſtimation.

c (i.e.) Some conſiderable time after the Jubilee, as appears from the following words. d The defalcation from the full price of fifty ſhekels, being to be more or leſs, as the years are more or fewer. See Levit. 25. 15, 16, 17.

19 And if he that ſanctified the field, will in any wiſe redeem it, then he ſhall add the fifth part of the mony of thy eſtimation unto it, and it ſhall be aſſured to him.

20 And if he will not redeem the field e, or if he have ſold the field f to another man, it ſhall not be redeemed any more g.

e To wit, when the Prieſt ſhall ſet a price upon it, and offer it to him in the firſt place to redeem it. f He, who? Either 1. the Man that vowed it, if he after ſuch a Vow made, ſhall neglect to pay his Vow, and ſhall ſacrilegiouſly ſell the ſame Land to another Man: or if he ſell it, i.e. ſuffer it to be ſold to another, and will not prevent that by redeeming it to himſelf. Or rather, 2. the Prieſt, or ſome in his Name, who though not expreſſed, is ſufficiently underſtood out of the foregoing clauſe, If he will not redeem or buy again the field, to wit, of the Prieſt, who is now the ſeller of it; or, or rather and, for this ſeems to be added by way of accumulation, if he, i.e. the Prieſt, of whom he might have redeemed it, upon his refuſal, offers it to ſale, and have ſold the field to another man. Add to this, that none but the Prieſt could ſell this Land, after it was once vowed and declared to be ſo, and offered by the Prieſt to him again to redeem it, which is apparently the preſent caſe. g (i.e.) He ſhall for ever loſe the benefit of Redemption.

21 But the field when it goeth out h in the jubilee, ſhall be holy unto the LORD, as a field devoted: the poſſeſſion thereof ſhall be the prieſts i.

h (i.e.) Out of the Poſſeſſion of the other Man to whom the Prieſt ſold it. i For their maintenance. Nor is this repugnant to that Law, that the Prieſts ſhould have no inheritance in the Land, Numb. 18. 20. for that is only ſpoken of them and the whole Tribe of Levi in general, and in reference to the firſt Diviſion of the Land, wherein the Levites were not to have a diſtinct part of Land, as other Tribes had, but this doth not hinder but ſome particular Lands might be vowed, and given to the Prieſts, either for their own Benefit, or for the Service of the Sanctuary.

22 And if a man ſanctifie unto the LORD a field which he hath bought, which is not of the fields of his poſſeſſion k;

k Which is not his Patrimony or Inheritance.

23 Then the prieſt ſhall reckon unto him the worth of thy eſtimation l, even unto the year of the jubilee m, and he ſhall give thine eſtimation n in that day, as a holy thing o unto the LORD.

l (i.e.) The price or ſumme, at which thou, O Prieſt, ſhalt reckon it. So it is only a change of the Perſon, which is frequent: or the price which thou, O Moſes, by my direction haſt ſet in ſuch caſes. m (i.e.) As much as it is worth, for that ſpace of time between the making of the Vow and the year of Jubilee: for he had no Right to it for any longer time, as the next Verſe tells us. n Without the addition of the fifth part, which he was to pay for his Lands of Inheritance, ver. 19. as being of a better and more durable Tenure than purchaſed Lands, which were his only till the Jubilee o As that which is to be conſecrated to God in ſtead of the Land redeemed by it.

24 In the year of the jubilee the field ſhall return to him of whom it was bought, even to him to whom the poſſeſſion of the land did belong p.

p By original right, which no other perſon by Vow or otherwiſe could give away from him.

25 And all thy eſtimation ſhall be according to the ſhekel of the ſanctuary: * twenty gerahs ſhall be the ſhekel. * Exod. 30. 13. Numb. 3. 47. Ezek. 45. 12.

26 Onely the † * firſtling of the beaſt, which ſhould be the LORDS firſtling, no man ſhall ſanctifie it q, whether it be ox or ſheep r: it is the LORD's. † Heb. firſt-born &c. * Exod. 13. 2, 12.

q To wit, by Vow; becauſe it is not his own, but the Lord's already, and therefore to vow ſuch a thing to God, is a tacit derogation from, and an Uſurpation of the Lord's right, and a mocking of God, by pretending to give him what we cannot withhold from him. r Under theſe two eminent kinds he comprehends all other beaſts which might be ſacrificed to God, the firſtlings whereof could not be redeemed, but were to be ſacrificed, whereas the firſtlings of men were to be redeemed, and therefore were capable of being vowed, as we ſee 1 Sam. 1. 11.

27 And if it be of an unclean beaſt r, then he ſhall redeem it according to thine eſtimation, and ſhall add a fifth part of it thereto: or if it be not redeemed, then it ſhall be ſold s according to thy eſtimation.

r (i.e.) If it be the firſt-born of an unclean Beaſt, as appears from ver. 26. which could not be vowed, becauſe it was a firſt-born, nor offered, becauſe it was unclean, and therefore is here commanded to be redeemed or ſold. Others underſtand it of all unclean Beaſts in general, and not of the firſt-born of them, becauſe the firſt-born of ſuch were to be redeemed by a ſheep, Exod. 13. 13. without the addition of any ſuch fifth part as is here enjoyned. Which is true of the firſt Redemption of them, but then as after they were redeemed they might be again vowed unto God, ſo when the Owners would redeem them a ſecond time, it was but reaſonable they ſhould pay a better price for them. And if this were meant of unclean Beaſts in general, this were the very ſame Law which is mentioned before, ver. 11, 12, 13. which, it is not probable, would after a few verſes be unneceſſarily repeated again like a diſtinct Law. s And the price thereof was given to the Prieſts, or brought into the Lord's Treaſury.

28 * Notwithſtanding, no devoted thing t that a man ſhall devote unto the LORD, of all that he hath u, both of man and beaſt, and of the field of his poſſeſſion, ſhall be ſold or redeemed: every devoted thing is moſt holy unto the LORD x. * Joſh. 6. 18.

t (i.e.) Nothing which is abſolutely devoted to God with a curſe upon themſelves or others, if they diſpoſed not of it according to their Vow; as the Hebrew word implies. u To wit, in his Power or Poſſeſſion. x (i.e.) Only to be touched or employed by the Prieſts, and by no other Perſons, no not by their own Families, for that was the ſtate of the moſt holy things.

29 None devoted, which ſhall be devoted of men y, ſhall be redeemed: but ſhall ſurely be put to death.

y Not by men, as ſome would elude it, but of men, for it is manifeſt both from this, and the foregoing verſes, that men here are not the Perſons devoting, but devoted. Queſt. Was it then lawful for any Man or Men thus to devote another Perſon to the Lord, and in purſuance of ſuch Vow to put him to death? Anſ. This was unqueſtionably lawful, and a Duty in ſome caſes, when Perſons have been devoted to Deſtruction either by God's Sentence, as Idolaters, Exod. 22. 20. Deut. 23. 15. the Canaanites, Deut. 20. 17. the Amalekites, Deut. 25. 19. and 1 Sam. 15. 3, 26. Benhadad, 1 Kings 20. 42. or by Men, in purſuance suance of such a Sentence of God, as Numb. 21. 2, 3. and 31. 17. or for any Crime of an high nature, as Judg. 21. 5. Jos. 7. 15. But this is not to be generally understood, as some have taken it, as if a Jew might by virtue of this Text devote his Child or his Servant to the Lord, and thereby oblige himself to put them to death, which peradventure was Jephthah's Error. For this is expresly limited to all that a Man hath, or which is his, i. e. which he hath a power over. But the Jews had no power over the Lives of their Children or Servants, but were directly forbidden to take them away by that great Command, Thou shalt do no Murder. And seeing he that killed his Servant casually by a blow with a rod was surely to be punished, as is said Exod. 21. 20. it could not be lawful, wilfully and intentionally to take away his Life upon pretence of any such Vow as this. But for the Canaanites, Amalekites, &c. God the undoubted Lord of all Mens Lives, gave to the Israelites a power over their Persons and Lives, and a Command to put them to death. And this Verse may have a special respect to them, or such as them. And although the general subject of this and the former Verse be one and the same, yet there are two remarkable differences to this purpose. The Verb is active, ver. 28. and the Agent there expressed, that a Man shall devote, but it is passive, ver. 29. and the Agent undetermined, which shall be devoted, to wit, by God, or Men in conformity to God's revealed Will. 2. The devoted Person or thing is only to be sold or redeemed, and said to be most holy, ver. 28. but here it is to be put to death, and this belongs only to Men, and those such as either were or should be devoted in manner now expressed.

* Gen. 28. 22. Numb. 18. 21, 24. Mal. 3. 8, 10.

30 And * all the tithe of the land a, whether of the seed of the land or of the fruit of the tree, is the LORD'S: it is holy unto the LORD.

a There are divers sorts of Tithes, but this seems to be understood only of the ordinary and yearly Tithes belonging to the Levites, &c. as the very expression intimates, and the addition of the fifth part in case of Redemption thereof implies.

31 And if a man will at all redeem ought of his tithes, he shall add thereunto the fifth part thereof.

32 And concerning the tithe of the herd, or of the flock, even of whatsoever passeth under the rod ‖, the tenth shall be holy unto the LORD.

‖ Either, 1. The Tithers Rod, it being the manner of the Jews in tithing to cause all their Cattel to pass through some Gate or narrow Passage, where the Tenth was marked by a Person appointed for that purpose, and reserved for the Priest. Or, 2. The Shepherds Rod, under which the the Herds and Flocks passed, and by which they were governed and numbred. See Jer. 33. 13. Ezek. 20. 37.

33 He shall not search whether it be good or bad, neither shall he change it: and if he change it at all, then both it, and the change thereof shall be holy, it shall not be redeemed.

34 These are the commandments which the LORD commanded Moses for the children of Israel in Mount Sinai.

NUMBERS.

The ARGUMENT.

THIS Book giveth us an History of almost forty Years Travel of the Children of Israel through the Wilderness; where we have an account of their Journeys, and what happened to them therein, with their Government, and how they were managed thereby: Called Numbers by reason of the several Numbrings of the People, as at the Offerings of the Princes, and at their several Journeys, &c. but especially two, one Chap. 1. out of which the Priests and Levites were excepted, but numbred by themselves, viz. in the second Year after they were come out of Egypt, in the first Month whereof the Passeover was instituted; with the order about the Tabernacle both of the Levites and People, and their several Marches, Encampings, and manner of pitching their Tents, the Priests Maintenance and Establishment, by the miraculous budding of Aaron's Rod, with the several Impediments in their Marches, both among themselves by several Murmurings, Seditions and Conspiracies; and from their Enemies, viz. the Edomites, Canaanites, over whom having obtained a Victory, and afterwards murmuring, they were stung with fiery Serpents, and cured by the brazen one; Amorites, whose Kings, Sihon and Og, they overcame, and slew; and Moabites, where by the allurements of Balaam who was hired by Balak to curse Israel, they joyned themselves to Baal-peor, and are plagued for it; that openly opposed them. The other chief numbring is in Chap. 26. where they are found almost as many as the first, though among them were none of the first numbring, according to what God had threatned Chap. 14. save Moses, Joshua, and Caleb, by reason of their desire to return back into Egypt upon the discouraging report of ten of those twelve that Moses sent to spy out the Land; whereupon they were forced to wander above 38 Years in the Wilderness, where he gave them several Laws, Civil, Ecclesiastical, and Military; as also particular directions about Womens inheriting, occasioned by the case of Zelophehad's Daughters, and concerning Vows: And then brings them back to the Borders of Canaan, where, after divers Victories obtained against their Enemies, they were directed how the Land of Canaan was to be divided among the Tribes, and what Portion the Levites were to have among them, together with six Cities of Refuge set apart for the Man-slayer: At length Aaron being dead, and Eleazar placed in his stead, and Moses also having received the Sentence of Death, doth, by God's Appointment, deliver up the People unto the Charge and Conduct of Joshua.

CHAP. I.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses in the wilderness of Sinai a, in the tabernacle b of the congregation, on the first day of the second month, in the second year after they were come out of the land of Egypt, saying, a Where now they had been a full Year or near it, as may be gathered by comparing this place with Exod. 19. 1. and 40. 17. and other places. b From the Mercy-seat.

2 * Take ye the sum c of all the congregation of the children of Israel d, after their familes, by the house of their fathers e, with the number of their names, every male by their poll: * Exod. 30. 12.

c This is not the same Muster with that Exod. 38. 26. as plainly appears, because that was before the building of the Tabernacle, which was built and set up on the first day of the first Month, Exod. 40. 2. but this was after it, to wit, on the first day of the second Month, as is said, ver. 1. And they were for differing ends, that was to tax them for the Charges of the Tabernacle, but this was for other ends, partly, that the great number of the People might be known to the Praise of God's Faithfulness in making good his Promises of multiplying them, and to their own comfort and encouragement; partly for the better ordering of their Camp and march, for they were now beginning their Journey; and partly that this account might be compared with the other in the close of the Book, where we read that not one of all this vast number, except Caleb and Joshua, were left alive, which was an evident discovery of the mischievous nature of Sin, by which so vast a company were destroyed, and a fair warning to all future Generations to take heed of rebelling against the Lord, for which their Ancestours had been so dreadfully plagued even to Extirpation. It is true the sums and numbers agree in this and that computation, which is not strange, because there was not much time between the two numbrings, and no eminent Sin among the People in that Interval, whereby God was provoked to diminish their numbers. Some conceive, that in that number, Exod. 30. and 38. the Levites were included, which are here excepted, ver. 47. and that in that Interval of time there were grown up as many more Men of those Years as there were Levites of the same Age. d So the Strangers mixed with them were not numbred. e The People were divided into twelve Tribes, the Tribes into great Families, Numb. 26. 5. these great Families into lesser Families, called the Houses of their Fathers, because they distinguished one from another by their Fathers.

† Heb. every one that goeth out.

3 From twenty years old and upward †, all that are able to go forth to war in Israel: thou and Aaron shall number them by their armies.

4 And with you there shall be a man of every tribe f: every one head of the house of his fathers.

f To inspect the Work, that it might be faithfully and impartially done.

5 And these are the names of the men that shall stand with you g: of the tribe of Reuben h; Elizur the son of Shedeur.

g To wit, with Moses and Aaron, who were the chief managers of the work. h The Tribes are here numbred according to the order or quality of their Birth, first the Children of Leah, then of Rachel, and then of the Handmaids.

6 Of Simeon; Shelumiel the son of Zurishaddai.

7 Of Judah; Nahshon the son of Aminadab.

8 Of Issachar; Nethaneel the son of Zuar.

9 Of Zebulun; Eliab the son of Helon.

10 Of the children of Joseph: of Ephraim; Elishama the son of Ammihud: of Manasseh; Gamaliel the son of Pedahzur.

11 Of Benjamin; Abidan the son of Gideoni.

12 Of Dan; Ahiezer the son of Ammishaddai.

13 Of Asher; Pagiel the son of Ocran.

14 Of Gad; Eliasaph the son of Deuel i.

i Called Reuel, Numb. 2. 14. the Hebrew Letters Daleth and Resh being very like and oft changed.

15 Of Naphthali; Ahira the son of Enan.

16 These were the renowned k of the congregation, princes of the tribes of their fathers, heads of thousands l in Israel.

k Heb. the named or called, to wit, by Moses and by God's Appointment, to manage this Affair and others, as there was occasion. Compare Numb. 16. 2. and 26. 9. l See Exod. 18. 21. Numb. 10. 4.

17 And Moses and Aaron took these men which are expressed by their names:

18 And they assembled all the congregation together on the first day of the second month, and they declared their pedigrees after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, by their poll.

19 As the LORD commanded Moses, so he numbred them in the wilderness of Sinai.

20 And the children of Reuben, Israels eldest son, by their generations m, after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, by their polls, every male from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war.

m Heb. to wit, their Generations, i. e. the Persons begotten of Reubens immediate Children, who are here subdivided into Families, and they into Houses, and they into particular Persons.

21 Those that were numbred of them, even of the tribe of Reuben, were fourty and six thousand and five hundred.

22 Of the children of Simeon, by their generations, after their families, by the house of their fathers, those that were numbred of them, according to the number of the names, by their polls, every male from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war:

23 Those that were numbred of them, even of the tribe of Simeon, were fifty and nine thousand and three hundred.

24 Of the children of Gad, by their generations, after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war:

25 Those that were numbred of them, even of the tribe of Gad, were fourty and five thousand six hundred and fifty.

26 Of the children of Judah, by their generations, after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war:

27 Those that were numbred of them, even of the tribe of Judah, were threescore and fourteen thousand and six hundred n.

n Far more than any other Tribe, in accomplishing of Jacob's Prophecy, Gen. 49.

28 Of the children of Issachar, by their generations, after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war:

29 Those that were numbred of them, even of the tribe of Issachar, even fifty and four thousand and four hundred.

30 Of the children of Zebulun, by their generations, after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war:

31 Those that were numbred of them, even of the tribe of Zebulun, were fifty and seven thousand and four hundred.

32 Of the children of Joseph, namely, of the children of Ephraim, by the generations, after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war:

33 Those that were numbred of them, even of the tribe of Ephraim, were fourty thousand and five hundred o.

o Above 8000 more than Manasseh, towards the accomplishment of that Promise, Gen. 48. 20. which the Devil in vain attempted to defeat by stirring up the Men of Gath against them, 1 Chron. 7. 21, 22.

34 Of the children of Manasseth, by their generations, after their Families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war:

35 Those that were numbred of them, even of the tribe of Manasseth, were thirty and two thousand and two hundred.

36 Of the children of Benjamin, by their generations, after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war:

37 Those that were numbred of them, even of the tribe of Benjamin, were thirty and five thousand and four hundred p.

p The smallest number except one, though Benjamin had more immediate Children than any of his Brethen, Gen. 46. 21. whereas Dan had but one immediate Son, Gen. 46. 23. yet

how his number is the biggeſt but one of all the Tribes, and is almoſt double to that of Benjamin. Such great and ſtrange Changes God eaſily can, and frequently doth make in Families, 1 Sam. 2. 5. And therefore let none boaſt or pleaſe themſelves too much in their numerous Off-ſpring.

38 Of the children of Dan, by their generations, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war:

39 Thoſe that were numbred of them, even of the Tribe of Dan, were threeſcore and two thouſand and ſeven hundred.

40 Of the children of Aſher, by their generations, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of the names, ſome twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war:

41 Thoſe that were numbred of them, even of the tribe of Aſher, were forty and one thouſand and five hundred.

42 Of the children of Naphtali, throughout their generations, after their families by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to forth to war:

43 Thoſe that were numbred of them, even of the tribe of Naphtali, were fifty and three thouſand and four hundred.

44 Theſe are thoſe that were numbred, which Moſes and Aaron numbred, and the Princes of Iſrael, being twelve Men: each one was for the houſe of his fathers.

45 So were all thoſe that were numbred of the children of Iſrael, by the houſe of their fathers, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war in Iſrael:

46 Even all they that were numbred, were *Exod. 38. 26. * ſix hundred thouſand and three thouſand, and Set Exod. 12. 37. ch. 26. 51. five hundred and fifty.

47 But the Levites after the tribe of their fathers, were not numbred among them.

48 For the LORD had ſpoken unto Moſes, ſaying,

49 Only thou ſhalt not number the tribe of Levi q, neither take the ſum of them among the children of Iſrael.

q Becauſe they were not generally to go out to war, which was the thing principally eyed in this muſter, ver. 3, 20, 45. but were to attend upon the Service of the Tabernacle, and therefore are reſerved to another diſtinct muſter, Numb. 3. 15. and 4. 2, &c. And leſt this ſhould be thought to be deſigned and done through Moſes his ambition to give his own Tribe the preeminence, he aſſures them it was done by God's expreſs Command.

50 But thou ſhalt appoint the Levites over the tabernacle of teſtimony r, and over all the veſſels thereof, and over all things that belong to it: they ſhall bear the tabernacle, and all the veſſels thereof, and they ſhall miniſter unto it, and ſhall encamp round about the tabernacle.

r So called here, and Exod. 38. 21. becauſe it was made chiefly for the ſake of the Ark of the Teſtimony, 2 Sam. 7. 2. which is oft called the Teſtimony, as hath been obſerved before.

51 And when the tabernacle ſetteth forward, the Levites ſhall take it down: and when the tabernacle is to be pitched, the Levites ſhall ſet it up: and the ſtranger s that cometh nigh t, ſhall be put to death.

s The Stranger elſewhere is one of another Nation, here one of another Tribe; one no Levite. t So as to do the offices mentioned ver. 50.

52 And the children of Iſrael ſhall pitch their tents every man by his own camp, and every man by his own ſtandard, throughout their hoſts.

53 But the Levites ſhall pitch round about the tabernacle of teſtimony, that there be no wrath u upon the congregation of the children of Iſrael: and the Levites ſhall keep the charge x of the tabernacle of teſtimony.

u To wit, from God, who is very tender of his Worſhip, and will not ſuffer the Profaners of it to go unpuniſhed, whoſe Wrath is called ſimply Wrath by of Eminency, as the moſt terrible kind of Wrath. x (i. e.) Shall ſuffer no Stranger to approach through curioſity, or any other motive.

54 And the children of Iſrael did according to all that the LORD commanded Moſes, ſo did they.

CHAP. II.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, and unto Aaron, ſaying,

2 Every man of the children of Iſrael ſhall pitch by his own ſtandard a, with the enſign of their fathers houſe: † far off b about the tabernacle of the congregation ſhall they pitch. † Heb. over againſt.

a Or, Enſign, by that to which he is allotted by the following order. It is manifeſt that there were four great Standards or Enſigns, which here follow, diſtinguiſhed by their colours or figures, or otherwiſe; alſo that there were other particular Enſigns belonging to each of their Fathers Houſes or Families, as is here ſaid. b Partly out of Reverence to God and his Worſhip, and the portion allotted to it; and partly for caution, leſt their Vicinity to it might tempt them to make too near approaches to it. It is ſuppoſed they were at 2000 Cubits diſtance from it, which was the ſpace between the People and the Ark, Joſ. 3. 4. and it is not improbable, becauſe the Levites encamped round about it, between them and the Tabernacle.

3 And on the eaſt-ſide toward the riſing of the Sun, ſhall they of the ſtandard of the camp of Judah pitch, throughout their armies: and Nahſhon the ſon of Amminadab ſhall be captain of the children of Judah.

4 And his hoſt, and thoſe that were numbred of them, were threeſcore and fourteen thouſand and ſix hundred.

5 And thoſe that do pitch next unto him, ſhall be the tribe of Iſſachar c: and Nathaneel the ſon of Zuar ſhall be captain of the children of Iſſachar.

c He and Zebulun were Leah's two youngeſt Sons, and therefore would more contentedly ſubmit to Judah.

6 And his hoſt, and thoſe that were numbred thereof, were fifty and four thouſand and four hundred.

7 Then the tribe of Zebulun: and Eliab the ſon of Helon ſhall be captain of the children of Zebulun.

8 And his hoſt, and thoſe that were numbred thereof, were fifty and ſeven thouſand and four hundred.

9 All that were numbred in the camp of Judah, were an hundred thouſand and fourſcore thouſand and ſix thouſand and four hundred d, throughout their armies: theſe ſhall firſt ſet forth.

d This was the moſt numerous Camp, becauſe they marched firſt, as being placed on the Eaſt and going toward the Eaſt, and becauſe they guarded the Sanctuary.

10 On the ſouth-ſide ſhall be the ſtandard of the camp of Reuben e, according to their armies: and the captain of the children of Reuben ſhall be Elizur the ſon of Shedeur.

e Who being the Firſt-born, was the Leader of the ſecond Camp.

11 And his hoſt, and thoſe that were numbred thereof, were fourty and ſix thouſand and five hundred.

12 And thoſe which pitch by him, ſhall be the tribe of Simeon, and the captain of the children of Simeon ſhall be Shelumiel the ſon of Zuriſhaddai.

13 And his hoſt, and thoſe that were numbred of them, were fifty and nine thouſand and three hundred.

14 Then the tribe of Gad: and the captain of the ſons of Gad ſhall be Eliaſaph the ſon of Reuel f.

f Called Devil, Numb. 1. 14. the Hebrew Letters Daleth and Reſh being very like and oft changed, as appears by comparing Gen. 10. 3. with 1 Chron. 1. 6. and Gen. 36. 26, 38. with 1 Chron. 1. 41, 50.

15 And his hoſt, and thoſe that were numbred of them, were fourty and five thouſand and ſix hundred and fifty.

16 All that were numbred in the camp of Reuben, were an hundred thouſand and fifty and one thouſand and four hundred and fifty, throughout their armies: and they ſhall ſet forth in the ſecond rank.

17 Then the tabernacle of the congregation ſhall ſet forward with the camp of the Levites, in the midſt of the camp g: as they encamp, ſo ſhall they ſet forward, every man in his place by their ſtandards.

g Which is not to be underſtood ſtrictly or exactly, but largely; for in their march they were divided, and part of that Tribe marched next after Judah, Numb. 10. 17. and the other part exactly in the midſt of the Camp.

18 On the weſt-ſide ſhall be the ſtandard of the camp of Ephraim h, according to their armies: and the captain of the ſons of Eprhaim ſhall be Eliſhama the ſon of Ammihud.

h Who is here preferred before his Brother, according to the Prophecy, Gen. 48. 19, 20.

19 And his hoſt, and thoſe that were numbred of them, were fourty thouſand and five hundred.

20 And by him ſhall be the tribe of Manaſſeth: and the captain of the chilren of Manaſſeth ſhall be Gamaliel the ſon of Pedahzur.

21 And his hoſt, and thoſe that were numbred of them, were thirty and two thouſand and two hundred.

22 Then the Tribe of Benjamin, and the captain of the ſons of Benjamin, ſhall be Abidan the ſon of Gideoni.

23 And his hoſt, and thoſe that were numbred of them, were thirty and five thouſand and four hundred.

24 All that were numbred of the camp of Ephraim, were an hundred thouſand and eight thouſand and an hundred, throughout their armies: and they ſhall go forward in the third rank.

25 The ſtandard of the camp of Dan ſhall be on the north-ſide by their armies: and the captain of the children of Dan ſhall be Abiezer the ſon of Ammiſhaddai.

26 And this hoſt, and thoſe that were numbred of them, were threeſcore and two thouſand and ſeven hundred.

27 And thoſe that encamp by him, ſhall be the tribe of Aſher: and the captain of the children of Aſher, ſhall be Pagiel the ſon of Ocran.

28 And his hoſt, and thoſe that were numbred of them, were fourty and one thouſand and five hundred.

29 Then the tribe of Naphtali: and the captain of the children of Naphtali, ſhall be Ahira the ſon of Enan.

30 And his hoſt, and thoſe that were numbred of them, were fifty and three thouſand and four hundred.

31 All they that were numbred in the camp of Dan, were an hundred thouſand and fifty and ſeven thouſand and ſix hundred i: they ſhall go hindmoſt with their ſtandards.

i The ſtrongeſt Camp next after Judah, and therefore he comes in the Rear, as Judah marched in the Front, that the Tabernacle might be beſt guarded where there was moſt danger.

32 Theſe are thoſe which were numbred of the children of Iſrael, by the houſe of their fathers; all thoſe that were numbred of the camps throughout there hoſts, were ſix hundred thouſand and three thouſand and five hundred and fifty.

33 But the Levites were not numbred k among the children of Iſrael, as the LORD commanded Moſes.

k Becauſe their Warfare was of another kind.

34 And the children of Iſrael did according to all that the LORD commanded Moſes: ſo they pitched by their ſtandards l, and ſo they ſet forward, every one after their families, according to the houſe of their fathers.

l (i. e.) Each of them under his principal Standard.

CHAP. III.

1 THeſe a alſo are the generations b of Aaron and Moſes, in the day that the LORD ſpake with Moſes in Mount Sinai c.

a Which follow in this Chapter. b (i. e.) Either, 1. The things done by them, as the word Generation is ſometimes uſed, as Gen. 6. 9. and 25. 19. and 37. 2. Or rather, 2. The Kindred or Family, for that is the Subject of this Chapter, and not their Events or Actions. Obj. Aaron's Family indeed is here mentioned, but not Moſes his Family. Anſw. Moſes his Family and Children are here included under the general name of the Amramite, ver. 27. which includes all the Children and Grand-Children of Amram, the Perſons only of Aaron and Moſes being excepted. And the Generations of Moſes are thus obſcurely mentioned, becauſe they were but common Levites, the Prieſthood being given ſolely to Aaron's Poſterity, whence Aaron is here put before Moſes, who elſewhere is commonly named after him. c This ſeems to be added, becauſe Nadab and Abihu, mentioned ver. 2. were then alive, though dead at the time of taking this account.

2 And theſe are the names of the ſons of Aaron; Nadab the * firſt-born, and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar. * Exod. 6. 23.

3 Theſe are the names of the ſons of Aaron, the prieſts which were anointed, † whom he conſecrated to miniſter in the prieſts office. † Heb. whoſe hand he filled.

4 * And Nadab and Abihu died before the LORD, when they offered ſtrange fire before the LORD, in the wilderneſs of Sinai, and they had no children: and Eleazar and Ithamar miniſtred in the prieſts office in the ſight of Aaron d their father. * Lev. 10. 1. chap. 26. 61, 1 Chron. 24. 2.

d In the time of Aaron's Life, as this Phraſe is taken Numb. 3. 4. See alſo Pſal. 72. 5, 17. and under their Fathers Inſpection and Direction, and as their Fathers Servants or Miniſters, in the Prieſt's Office, for Servants are oft deſcribed by this Phraſe of being, or ſtanding, or ſerving in the ſight or preſence of their Maſter.

5 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

6 Bring the tribe of Levi near, and preſent them e, before Aaron the prieſt, that they may miniſter unto him.

e Offer them to the Lord for his ſpecial Service. This was promiſed to them before, and now actually conferred upon them.

7 And they ſhall keep his charge f, and the charge of the whole congregation g before the tabernacle h of the congregation, to do the ſervice of the tabernacle.

f (i. e.) Aaron's Charge, or thoſe things which are commixed principally to Aaron's care and overſight, and under him and his direction to the Levites. g (i. e.) Of all the Sacrifices and Services which were due to the Lord from all the People, and becauſe all the People could not, and might not perform them, or at leaſt divers of them, in their own Perſons, therefore they were to be performed by ſome particular Perſons in their name and ſtead, formerly by the Firſt-born, Numb. 8. 16. and now by the Levites. See Numb. 1. 53. and 16. 9. h Emphatically, not within the Tabernacle, for the care of theſe things within the holy place was appropriated to the Prieſts, as the care of the moſt Holy place was peculiar to the High-prieſt.

8 And they ſhall keep all the Inſtruments of the tabernacle of the congregation, and the charge of the children of Iſrael i, to do the ſervice of the tabernacle.

i Thoſe things which all the Children of Iſrael are in their ſeveral places and ſtations obliged to take care of, though not in their Perſons, yet by others in their ſtead.

And

* Chap. 8. 19. † Heb. given given.

9 And * thou ſhalt give the Levites unto Aaron and to his ſons: they are † wholly given unto him k out of the children of Iſrael.

k To attend upon him and obſerve his Orders, and eaſe him of part of his Burden in things hereafter mentioned.

10 And thou ſhalt appoint Aaron and his ſons, and they ſhall wait on their prieſts office l: and the ſtranger m that cometh nigh n ſhall be put to death.

l In their own Perſons, not by the Levites. m (i. e.) Every one who is of another Family than Aaron's, yea though he be a Levite. See Numb. 1. 53. and 16. 40. n To wit, to execute any part of the Prieſts Office.

11 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

* Chap. 8. 16. and 18. 6.

12 And I, behold, * I have taken the Levites from among the children of Iſrael, inſtead of all the firſt-born n that openeth the matrix among the children of Iſrael: therefore the Levites ſhall be mine.

n Who were God's Propriety by right of Redemption, Exod. 13. 12. and to whom the Adminiſtration of holy things was formerly committed, which now was taken away from them; either becauſe they had forfeited this Privilege by joyning with the reſt of their Brethren in the Idolatrous Worſhip of the Calf; or becauſe they were to be mainly concerned in the diſtribution and management of the Inheritances which now they were going to poſſeſs, and therefore could not be at leiſure to attend upon the Service of the Sanctuary: Which made it fit that this work ſhould be committed to other hands. And God would not commit it to ſome other Perſons in each Tribe, which might be an occaſion of Idolatry, Confuſion, Diviſion, and contempt of Sacred Things, but to one diſtinct Tribe, which might be intirely devoted to that Service, and particularly to the Tribe of Levi, partly out of his reſpect to Moſes and Aaron, branches of this Tribe; partly as a recompence of their Zeal for God and againſt Idolaters. See Exod. 32. 26, 29. Deut. 33. 9. and partly becauſe it was the ſmalleſt of the Tribes, and therefore moſt likely to find both Employment in, and Maintenance for the Work.

* Exod. 13. 2. Levit. 27. 26. chap. 8. 16. Luke 2. 23. * Exod. 13. 12, 15.

13 Becauſe * all the firſt-born are mine, * for on the day that I ſmote all the firſt-born in the land of Egypt, I hallowed unto me all the firſt-born in Iſrael, both man and beaſt, mine they ſhall be: I am the LORD o.

o Who may appoint whom I pleaſe for my Service.

14 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes in the wilderneſs of Sinai, ſaying, 15 Number the children of Levi, after the houſe of their fathers, by their families: every male from a month old p and upward, ſhalt thou number them.

p Becauſe at that time the Firſt-born, in whoſe ſtead the Levites came, Numb. 8. 16. were offered to God, Luke 2. 22. and to be redeemed, Numb. 18. 16. And from that time the Levites were conſecrated to God, and were, as ſoon as they were capable, to be inſtructed in their Work. Elſewhere they are numbred from twenty five Years old; when they were entred as Novices to part of their Work, Numb. 8. 24. and from thirty Years old, when they were compleatly admitted to their whole Office.

† Heb. mouth.

16 And Moſes numbred them according to the † word of the LORD, as he was commanded.

* Gen. 46. 11. Exod. 6. 16. chap. 26. 57. 1 Chron. 6. 1, 2. and 23. 6.

17 * And theſe were the ſons of Levi, by their names: Gerſhon, and Kohath, and Merari.

18 And theſe are the names of the ſons of Gerſhon, by their families; Libni, and Shimei.

19 And the ſons of Kohath by their families; Amram, and Izhar, Hebron, and Uzziel.

20 And the ſons of Merari by their families; Mahli and Muſhi: theſe are the families of the Levites, according to the houſe of their fathers.

21 Of Gerſhon was the family of the Libnite, and the family of the Shimite: theſe are the families of the Gerſhonite.

22 Thoſe that were numbred of them, according to the number of all the males, from a month old and upward, even thoſe that were numbred of them, were ſeven thouſand and five hundred.

23 The families of the Gerſhonite ſhall pitch behind the tabernacle weſtward.

24 And the chief of the houſe of the father of the Gerſhonite ſhall be Eliaſaph the ſon of Lael.

25 And the charge of the ſons of Gerſhon, in the tabernacle of the congregation, ſhall be the * tabernacle q, and the * tent r, * the covering thereof s, and the * hanging for the door of the tabernacle of the congregation:

27 And of Kohath u was the family of the Amramite, and the family of the Izharite, and the family of the Hebronite, and the family of the Uzzielite: theſe are the families of the Kohathite.

u This Family had many Priviledges above the others: Of that were Moſes and Aaron, and all the Prieſts: They had the chief place about the Tabernacle, and the care of the moſt Holy Things here below, ver. 31. and in the Land of Canaan they had twenty three Cities, which were almoſt as many as both their Brethren received. See Joſ. 21.

28 In the number of all the males, from a month old and upward were eight thouſand and ſix hundred, keeping x the charge of the ſanctuary y.

x Or, Keepers, &c. (i. e.) appointed for that work, as ſoon as they were capable of it. y (i. e.) Of thoſe Holy Things contained in, or nearly belonging to the Sanctuary, expreſſed ver. 31.

30 And the chief of the houſe of the father of the families of the Kohathite, ſhall be Elizaphan the ſon of Uzziel.

31 And their charge ſhall be the * ark, and the * table, and the * candleſtick, and * the altars, and the veſſels of the ſanctuary wherewith they miniſter, and * the hanging z, and all the ſervice thereof a.

z Which covered the moſt Holy place, for all other Hangings belonging to the Gerſhonites. a (i. e.) All the other Furniture belonging to it, of which ſee Numb. 4. 7, 9, 14.

32 And Eleazar the ſon of Aaron the Prieſt ſhall be chief b over the chief of the Levites c: and have the overſight of them that keep the charge of the ſanctuary.

b Next under the High-prieſt, whence he is called the ſecond Prieſt, 2 King. 25. 18. and in caſe of the High-prieſt's abſence by Sickneſs or other neceſſary occaſions, he was to perform his Work, 1 King. 4. 4. and he had a Superiority over all the reſt of the Prieſts and Levites. c (i. e.) Over thoſe three Perſons, who were each the chief of their ſeveral Families, of whom ſee here, ver. 24, 31, 35.

33 Of Merari was the family of the Mahlite, and the family of the Muſhite: theſe are the families of Merari.

34 And thoſe that were numbred of them, according to the number of all the males, from a month old and upward, were ſix thouſand and two hundred.

35 And the chief of the houſe of the father of the families of Merari, was Zuriel the ſon of Abihail: theſe ſhall pitch on the ſide of the tabernacle northward.

† Heb. the Office of the Charge.

36 And † under the cuſtody and charge of the ſons of Merari, ſhall be the boards of the tabernacle, and the bars thereof, and the pillars thereof, and the ſockets thereof, and all the veſſels thereof, and all that ſerveth thereto:

37 And the pillars of the court round about, and their ſockets, and their pins, and their cords d.

d Therefore theſe were for another uſe than thoſe mentioned ver. 26.

38 But

38 But those that encamp before the tabernacle toward the east, even before the tabernacle of the congregation eastward; shall be Moses and Aaron, and his sons, keeping the charge of the sanctuary for the charge of the children of Israel e: and the stranger that cometh nigh shall be put to death.

e Either in their stead; that Charge which they were obliged to keep either by themselves, or by others appointed by them, if God had not committed it to those: or for their Good, and Service, and Benefit, for their Preservation, as the word may be rendred.

39 * All that were numbred of the Levites, which Moses and Aaron numbred at the commandment of the LORD throughout their families, all the males, from a month old and upward, were twenty and two thousand f.

* See chap. 26. 62.

f Obj. But if the partial Numbers mentioned ver. 22. 28, 34. be put together, they make exactly 22300. Answ. The odd 300 are omitted here, either according to the use of the Holy Scripture, where in so great Numbers small Sums are commonly neglected; or, because they were the First-born of the Levites, and therefore belonged to God already, and so could not be given to him again instead of the other First-born. See Levit. 27. 29. If this number of First-born seem very small to come from 22000 Levites, it must be considered, That only such First-born are here named as were Males, and such as continued in their Parents Families, not such as had erected new Families of their own. Add to this, that God so ordered things by his wise Providence for divers weighty Reasons, that this Tribe should be much the least of all the Tribes, as is evident by comparing the numbers of the other Tribes, from twenty Years old, Numb. 1. with the number of this from a Month old; and therefore it is not strange if the number of their First-born be less than in other Tribes. Altho if the other Tribes had been computed from a Month old, as this was, their number of 600000, had probably been double or treble to that, and consequently the number of their First-born being 22273, ver. 43. would have been as unproportionable to their whole Sum, as this of 300 first-born Levites seems to their whole number. And some add, that only those First-born are numbred both in this and in the other Tribes, which were born since they came out of Egypt, when God challenged all the First-born to be his.

40 And the LORD said unto Moses, Number all the first-born of the males of the children of Israel g, from a month old and upward, and take the number of their names.

g That they may be compared with the Number of the Levites, for the reason here following.

41 And thou shalt take the Levites for me (I am the LORD) instead of all the first-born among the children of Israel h, and the cattel of the Levites i in stead of all the firstlings among the cattel of the children of Israel.

h To wit, such as are now alive of them, but those which should be born of them hereafter are otherwise disposed. i Not that they were to be taken from the Levites, or to be sacrificed to God, any more than the Levites themselves were, but that they, together with the Levites, were to be presented before the Lord by way of acknowledgment, that the Levites might be set apart for God's Service, and their Cattel for themselves as God's Ministers, and for their support in God's Work.

42 And Moses numbred, as the LORD commanded him, all the first-born among the children of Israel.

43 And all the first-born males by the number of names, from a month old and upward, of those that were numbred of them, were twenty and two thousand two hundred and threescore and thirteen.

44 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

45 Take the Levites k instead of all the first-born among the children of Israel, and the cattel of the Levites instead of their cattel, and the Levites shall be mine, I am the LORD.

k To wit, the 22000, reckoned up, ver. 39. of which see the Notes there.

46 And for those that are to be redeemed of the two hundred and threescore and thirteen of the first-born of the children of Israel, which are more than the Levites;

47 Thou shalt even take five shekels a piece l by the poll, after the shekel of the sanctuary shalt thou take them: * the shekel is twenty gerahs.

* Exod. 30. 13. Levit. 27. 25. chap. 18. 16. Ezek. 45. 12.

l Which was the Price to be paid for the Redemption of a First-born a Month old, Numb. 18. 15, 16. but this Mony, though paid for these 273 Persons, was probably paid out of the common Stock of all, except Lots were cast who should pay, which is not probable in so small a concern accompanied with so much trouble.

48 And thou shalt give the money wherewith the odd number of them is to be redeemed, unto Aaron and to his sons m.

m To whom all the Levites were given, and therefore the Mony which came in their stead.

49 And Moses took the redemption-money, of them that were over and above them that were redeemed by the Levites.

50 Of the first-born of the children of Israel took he the money, a thousand three hundred and threescore and five shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary.

51 And Moses gave the mony of them that were redeemed, unto Aaron and to his sons, according to the word of the LORD, as the LORD commanded Moses.

CHAP. IV.

1 AND the LORD spake unto Moses, and unto Aaron, saying,

2 Take the sum of the sons of Kohath from among the sons of Levi, after their families, by the house of their fathers:

3 From thirty years old a and upward, even until fifty years old b, all that enter c into the host d, to do the work of the tabernacle of the congregation.

a This Age was prescribed, as the Age of full strength of Body, and therefore most proper for their present laborious Work of carrying the parts and vessels of the Tabernacle, and of maturity of Judgment, which is necessary for the right mangement of holy Services. Whence even John and Christ entred not upon their Ministry till that Age. And it may still seem to be the fittest season for Mens undertaking the Ministry of the Gospel, except in case of extraordinary Abilities, or the Churches pressing necessity. Object. They might enter upon this Work at their 25*th* Year, Numb. 8. 24. and in David's time and afterward at their twentieth Year. Answ. 1. Their first entrance upon their Work was at their five and twentieth Year, when they began as learners, and acted only under the Inspection and Direction of their Brethren, but in their thirtieth Year they were compleatly admitted to a full discharge of their whole Office. 2. David, being a Prophet, and particularly directed by God in the Affairs of the Temple, might and did make a change in this matter, which he might the better do, both because it was but a change in a Circumstance, and because the magnificence of the Temple, and the great multitude of sacred Utensils and Sacrifices, required a greater number of Attendants than formerly was necessary. b When they were exempted from the toilsome work of carrying Burdens, but not discharged from the honourable and easie work done within the Tabernacle, Numb. 8. 26. c (i. e.) That do and may enter, having no defect, Levit. 21. 17. nor other impediment. d The Society or sacred Ministers he calls an Host, because of that excellent Order which was among them as to Persons, Place, Time, the matter and manner of their Services.

4 This shall be the service of the sons of Kohath in the tabernacle of the congregation, about the most holy things e.

e Hereafter mentioned, as the Ark, Table, Altar, &c. Compare Numb. 3. 31.

5 And when the camp setteth forward, Aaron shall come, and his sons, and they f shall take down the covering vail g, and cover the Ark h of testimony with it:

f For upon this necessary occasion the inferiour Priests are allowed to come into the Holy of Holies, which otherwise was peculiar to the High-priest, Heb. 9. 7. g The second Vail, of which see Exod. 26. 31, &c. Levit. 4. 6. Heb. 9. 3. wherewith the Ark was covered while the Tabernacle stood, Exod. 40. 3. h Because the Levites, who were to carry the Ark, might neither see nor immediately touch it.

6 And

6 And shall put thereon the covering of badgers-skins i, and shall spread over it a cloth wholly of blue, and shall put in the staves thereof k.

i Whereby the Ark was secured from the Injuries of the Weather. k Object. How could these Staves be put in, when they were never to be taken out, Exod. 25. 15. compared with 1 King. 8. 8. 1. Answ. These Places may speak of the Staves while the Ark and Tabernacle stood, but when they were to be removed, the Posture of all things was altered. 2. The Hebrew Verb doth not signifie putting in, but barely putting or placing or disposing, and may be understood not of putting the Staves into the Rings wherein they constantly remained, but of the putting of them either upon their Shoulders to try and fit them for Carriage, or into the Holes or Receptacles which probably were made in these Coverings for the receiving and covering of these gilded Staves, to keep them both from the Touch of the Levites, and from the Inconveniences of bad Weather.

* Exod. 25. 30. 7 And upon the * table of shew-bread l they shall spread a cloth of blue, and put thereon the dishes m, and the spoons, and the bowls and covers to ‖ cover withal: and the continual bread n shall be thereon.

‖ Or, pour out withal.

l Heb. Of faces or presence, for of the bread of faces or presence, i. e. of the Bread which was continually standing in the Presence of the Lord. m Upon which the Shew-bread was put. n (i. e.) Shew-bread, so called, because it was continually to be there, even in the Wilderness, where though they had only Manna for themselves, yet they reserved Corn for the weekly making of these Loaves, which they might with no great difficulty procure from some of the People bordering upon the Wilderness in the innermost Parts whereof they were.

8 And they shall spread upon them a cloth of scarlet, and cover the same with a covering of badgers-skins, and shall put in the staves thereof.

* Exod. 25. 31. * Exod. 25. 37, 38. 9 And they shall take a cloth of blue, and cover the * candlestick of the light, * and his lamps, and his tongs, and his snuff-dishes, and all the oil-vessels thereof, wherewith they minister unto it.

10 And they shall put it, and all the vessels thereof, within a covering of badgers-skins: and shall put it upon a bar n.

n So contrived, that this Cloth containing the Candlestick, &c. might be either laid upon it, or some other way fastened to it.

11 And upon the golden o altar they shall spread a cloth of blue, and cover it with a covering of badgers-skins, and shall put to the staves thereof.

o All covered with Plates of Gold.

12 And they shall take all the instruments of ministery p, wherewith they minister in the sanctuary, and put them in a cloth of blue, and cover them with a covering of badgers-skins, and shall put them on a bar.

p The sacred Garments used by the Priests in their holy Ministrations. See Exod. 31. 10.

13 And they shall take away the ashes from the altar q, and spread a purple cloth thereon:

q Of Burnt-Offerings. Whereby it may seem probable, though it be denied by most, that they did offer some Sacrifices in the Wilderness, tho it may be not so frequently nor orderly as afterwards they did. Whence else were these Ashes? And there are some undeniable Instances of their sacrificing there, as Exod. 18. 12. and 24. 4. Numb. 7. &c. from which it seems rational to conclude that they did offer Sacrifices at other times, though not so constantly and diligently, as they did in Canaan. And for the Argument against it from Amos 5. 25. that may be easily dissolved, as we shall there see, if the Lord please. Moreover the taking away of the Ashes only, doth sufficiently imply that the Fire was preserved, which as it came down from Heaven, Levit. 9. So it was by God's Command to be continually fed and kept burning, and therefore doubtless was put into some Vessel, which might be either fastened to the Altar and put within this covering, or carried by some Person appointed thereunto.

14 And they shall put upon it all the vessels thereof r, wherewith they minister about it, even the censers, the flesh-hooks, and the shovels, and the ‖ basins, all the vessels of the altar; and they shall spread upon it a covering of badgers-skins, and put to the staves of it.

r Amongst all these Vessels here and abovenamed, there is no mention of the brazen Laver, though that be elsewhere reckoned among the holy things, as Exod. 35. 16. and 38. 8. and 39. 39. and 40. 30. whereof possibly the reason may be, because it was not covered, as not being capable of much Hurt by the Weather. Though some antient Translations of the Bible do here add these Words. They shall take a Purple Covering, and cover the Laver, &c.

15 And when Aaron and his sons have made an end of covering the sanctuary, and all the vessels of the sanctuary, as the camp is to set forward; after that the sons of Kohath shall come to bear it s: but they shall not touch any holy thing t, lest they die u. * These things are the burden of the sons of Kohath, in the tabernacle of the congregation.

* Chap. 3. 31.

s To wit, upon their Shoulders, not upon Carts or Wagons, as appears from Numb. 7. 9. the Neglect of which Order did provoke the Lord, 2 Sam. 6. 6, 7. 1 Chron. 13. 7. and 15. 12, &c. Afterward the Priests themselves, being multiplied, carried these things, as appears from Deut. 31. 9. Jos. 3. 6. and 8. 33. 1 Sam. 4. 4. though the Levites also were not excluded 2 Chron. 5. 5. t Immediately, or before they be covered. u As some did for that Sin. See 1 Sam. 6. 19. 2 Sam. 6. 6, 7.

16 And to the office of Eleazar the son of Aaron the priest, pertaineth x * the oil for the light, and the * sweet incense, and the daily meat-offering y, and the * anointing oil, and the oversight of all the tabernacle z, and of all that therein is, in the sanctuary, and in the vessels thereof.

See Exod. 29. 38, 39. z (i. e.) The Care that all the things above-mentioned be carried by the Persons, and in the manner expressed.

17 And the Lord spake unto Moses, and unto Aaron, saying,

18 Cut ye not off a the tribe of the families of the Kohathite from among the Levites.

a (i. e.) Do not by your neglect provoke God to cut them off for touching the holy things.

19 But thus do unto them, that they may live and not die, when they approach unto the most holy things, Aaron and his sons shall go in and appoint them every one to his service b, and to his burden.

b To that which is peculiarly allotted to him, the services and burdens being equally distributed among them.

20 But they shall not go in to see when the holy things are covered, lest they die.

21 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

22 Take also the sum of the sons of Gershon throughout the houses of their fathers by their families:

23 From thirty years old and upward, until fifty years old shalt thou number them: all that enter in † to perform the service, to do the work in the tabernacle of the congregation.

† Heb. to war the warfare.

24 This is the service of the families of the Gershonites, to serve, and for ‖ burdens.

‖ Or, carriage.

25 And * they shall bear the curtains of the tabernacle c, and the tabernacle of the congregation d, his covering e, and the covering of the badgers-skins that is above upon it, and the hanging for the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

26 And the hangings of the court, and the hanging for the door of the gate of the court, which

27 At the † appointment of Aaron and his sons, shall be all the service of the sons of the Gershonite, in all their burdens, and in all their service: and ye shall appoint unto them in charge all their burdens.

28 This is the service of the families of the sons of Gershon in the tabernacle of the congregation: and their charge shall be under the hand g of Ithamar the son of Aaron the priest.

g Under his Conduct and Direction. Thus the Hand of Hegai, Esth. 2. 3. is his Care and Custody.

29 As for the sons of Merari, thou shalt number them after their families by the house of their fathers.

* Exod. 26. 15. the congregation, * the boards of the tabernacle, and the bars thereof, and the pillars thereof, and sockets thereof h; h Which were as the Feet upon which the Pillars stood, of which see Exod. 38. 27.

32 And the pillars of the court round about, and their sockets, and their pins, and their cords with all their instruments, and with all their service: and by name i ye shall reckon the instruments of the charge of their burden.

i Every Part and Parcel thereof shall be put in an Inventory; which is required here rather than in the foregoing particulars, partly because these were much more numerous than the former; partly because being meaner things, and such as might easily be supplied, they might otherwise have been neglected; and partly to teach us, that God esteems nothing small in his Worship and Service, and that he expects his Will should be observed in the minutest Circumstances.

33 This is the service of the families of the sons of Merari, according to all their service in the tabernacle of the congregation under the hand of Ithamar the son of Aaron the priest.

34 And Moses and Aaron, and the chief of the congregation numbred the sons of the Kohathite, after their families, and after the house of their fathers, 35 From thirty years old and upward, even unto fifty years old, every one that entreth into the service, for the work in the tabernacle of the congregation.

36 And those that were numbred of them by their families, were two thousand seven hundred and fifty.

37 These were they that were numbred of the families of the Kohathites, all that might do service in the tabernacle of the congregation, which Moses and Aaron did number, according to the commandment of the LORD by the hand of Moses.

38 And those that were numbred of the sons of Gershon, throughout their families, and by the house of their fathers,

39 From thirty years old and upward, even unto fifty years old, every one that entreth into the service, for the work in the tabernacle of the congregation:

40 Even those that were numbred of them, throughout their families, by the house of their fathers, were two thousand and six hundred and thirty.

41 These are they that were numbred of the families of the sons of Gershon, of all that might do service in the tabernacle of the congregation, whom Moses and Aaron did number, according to the commandment of the LORD.

42 And those that were numbred of the families of the sons of Merari, throughout their families, by the house of their fathers:

43 From thirty years old and upward, even unto fifty years old, every one that entreth into the service, for the work in the tabernacle of the congregation,

44 Even those that were numbred of them after their families, were three thousand and two hundred k.

k Here appears the Wisdom of Divine Providence, that whereas in the Kohathites and Gershonites, whose Burdens were fewer and easier, there were but about a third Part of them which were fit for Service; the Merarites, whose Burdens were more and heavier, had above one half of them fit for this Work.

45 These be those that were numbred of the families of the sons of Merari, whom Moses and Aaron numbred, according to the word of the LORD by the hand of Moses.

46 All those that were numbred of the Levites, whom Moses, and Aaron, and the chief of Israel numbred, after their families, and after the house of their fathers:

47 From thirty years old and upward, even unto fifty years old, every one that came to do the service of the ministery, and the service of the burden in the tabernacle of the congregation:

48 Even those that were numbred of them, were eight thousand and five hundred and fourscore l.

l Which Number was much inferiour to any other Tribe, for the Reasons mentioned on Numb. 3. 39.

49 According to the commandment of the LORD they were numbred by the hand of Moses, every one according to his service, and according to his burden: thus were they numbred of him, as the LORD commanded Moses.

CHAP. V.

1 AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Command the children of Israel, that they put out of the camp a every * leper, and every one that hath an * issue b, and whosoever is defiled by the * dead c.

* Lev. 13. 3, 46. * Lev. 15. 2. * chap. 9. 6, 10. and 19. 11. and 31. 19.

3 Both male and female shall ye put out, without the camp shall ye put them, that they defile not their camps d, in the midst whereof I dwell e.

d By which Caution God would intimate the Possibility and Danger of Mens being made guilty by other Mens Sins, and the necessary Duty of avoiding intimate Converse with wicked Men. e By my special and gracious Presence, and therefore the Permission of such Impurities is the greater Injury and Provocation to me, as being done in my sight, and reflecting Dishonour upon my Name.

4 And the children of Israel did so, and put them out without the camp, as the LORD spake unto Moses, so did the children of Israel.

5 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

6 Speak unto the children of Israel, * When a man or a woman shall commit any sin that men commit f, to do a trespass against the LORD g, and that person be guilty h:

* Lev. 6. 3.

f Heb. any sins of men, i. e. Either, 1. Of common Infirmity, or such Sins as Men commit through humane Frailty; for if this were done knowingly and willingly, a greater Punishment was appointed. See Lev. 6. 5, 6. Or rather, 2. Sins against Men, or belonging to Men, to wit, Deceit or Wrongs, whereby other Men

Men are injured, of which he manifeſtly ſpeaks, as appears from verſ. 7, 8. ſo this is a Genitive Caſe of the Object, as Mat. 12. 31. blaſphemy of the Spirit, (for ſo it is in the Greek) is blaſphemy againſt the Holy Ghoſt, as it is called Mark 3. 28. Luke 12. 10. and power of all Fleſh, Joh. 17. 2. is power over all Fleſh, and power of Spirit, Mat. 10. 1. is power over or againſt Spirits, Luke 9. 1. and prayer of God, Luk. 6. 12. is Prayer directed unto God: and the ſpoil of the Poor, Iſa. 3. 14. is the Spoil taken from the Poor: and violence of the Children of Judah, Joel 3. 19. is violence againſt them, as we tranſlate it. g Which words may be added, either, 1. to expreſs a new Sin, of prevaricating or dealing falſly with God; either by a falſe Oath, which is a ſpecial injury to God, or by a Lie, or ſimple Denial, that he hath taken any thing of his Neighbours; which alſo God takes as a Sin, eſpecially concerning himſelf, who in ſuch caſes is the only Judg of what is falſly ſaid or ſworn. See Act. 5. 3, 4. Or, 2. to aggravate the former Sin, and to ſhew that ſuch Injuries done to Men, are alſo Sins againſt God, who hath commanded Juſtice to Men, as well as Religion to himſelf. But the former is more probable, both becauſe here is a Ram of Atonement to be offered to God for the ſpecial Injury done to him, as well as Satisfaction is to be made to the Man whom he injured; and eſpecially by comparing this with the parallel place, Levit. 6. 2, &c. h (i. e.) Shall be ſenſible of his Guilt, or be convicted in his Conſcience of his Sin; for otherwiſe this might ſeem a mere Tautology, if it were only meant of being really guilty of Sin, which was expreſſed before in theſe words, when one ſhall commit any Sin, i. e. be guilty of any Sin.

7 Then they ſhall confeſs their ſin i which they have done, and he ſhall recompenſe his treſpaſs * with the principal thereof k, and add unto it the fifth part thereof l, and give it unto him againſt whom he hath treſpaſſed.

8 But if a man have no kinſman m to recompenſe the treſpaſs unto, let the treſpaſs be recompenſed unto the LORD, even to the prieſt n: beſide * the ram of the atonement, whereby an atonement ſhall be made for him.

m Which might be the caſe commonly with Proſelytes, if not with Iſraelites. This alſo ſuppoſeth the Perſon injured to be dead, or gone away into ſome unknown Place, and the Perſon injured to be known to the Injurer. n Whom God appointed as his Deputy to receive his Dues, and take them to his own uſe, that ſo he might more chearfully and intirely devote himſelf to the miniſtration of holy Things. This is an additional explication to that Law, Levit. 6. 2. and for the ſake thereof it ſeems here to be repeated.

9 And every ‖ * offering o of all the holy things of the children of Iſrael, which they bring unto the prieſts p ſhall be his q.

o Heb. every Heave-offering; the Heave-offering being here taken largely, ſo as to comprehend alſo the Wave-offering, for both theſe were Aaron's Portion. See Exod. 29. 26, 27, 28. p To wit, to offer unto the Lord by his hands. q (i. e.) The Prieſts. See Levit. 6. 16.

10 And every man's hallowed things r ſhall be his: whatſoever any man giveth the prieſt, it ſhall be * his.

* Lev. 10. 13.

r Underſtand this, not of the Sacrifices, no not of ſuch of them as were voluntary or vowed, as moſt underſtand it; becauſe theſe were not the Prieſts peculiar, but a good part of them was offered to God, and the remainder was eaten by the Offerer as well as by the Prieſt, as is manifeſt, but of ſuch other things as were devoted to God, and were ſuch as could not be offered in Sacrifice; as ſuppoſe a Man conſecrated an Houſe or Tent of it to the Lord, this was to be the Prieſts. And this reſtriction may be eaſily collected from the nature of the thing, becauſe he ſpeaketh in this, and the other Branches here, of ſuch things as were appropriated to the Prieſt as his Portion, which none of the Sacrifices were.

11 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

12 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, If any man's wife ſ go aſide t, and commit a treſpaſs againſt him, ſ This Law was given partly to deter Wives from adulterous Practiſes, and partly to ſecure Wives againſt the rage of their hard-hearted Husbands, who otherwiſe might upon mere ſuſpicions deſtroy them, or at leaſt put them away. Queſt. Why was there not the ſame Law for the trial of the Husband, when the Wife was jealous of him? Anſ. This might be either, 1. becauſe the Woman's Sin is greater, becauſe there is not only filthineſs and falſneſs in it, which is alſo in the Man's Sin, but alſo peculiar Unrighteouſneſs in diſhonouring his Name and Family, and transferring his Eſtate to Strangers and other Mens Children: or, 2. becauſe there was not like fear of Inconveniencies to the Husband from the jealouſy of the Wife, who had not that Authority, and Power, and Opportunity for the putting away, or killing of the Husband, as the Husband had over the Wife. Or, 3. becauſe being the inferior and the weaker Sex, and more ſubject to Jealouſies and groundleſs Suſpicions, it was not thought expedient to truſt them with ſuch a Power or Privilege. t From the way of Religion and Juſtice, or from her Faith given to her Husband, or to the by-paths of Falſhood and Filthineſs, and that either in Truth, or in Appearance, and in her Husband's Opinion.

13 And a man lie with her carnally, and it be hid from the eyes of her husband, and be kept cloſe u, and ſhe be defiled, and there be no witneſs againſt her x, neither ſhe be taken with the manner.

u She utterly denying it, Prov. 30. 20. and none being able and willing to diſcover it. x For if it was witneſſed, ſhe was to die for it, Lev. 20. 10. Deut. 22. 22.

14 And the ſpirit of jealouſy y come upon him, and he be jealous of his Wife, and ſhe be defiled: or if the ſpirit of jealouſy come upon him, and he be jealous of his wife, and ſhe be not defiled:

y (i.e.) A ſtrong Opinion, or Suggeſtion, or inward Motion of that kind, whether from a good or evil Spirit. Thus we read of the ſpirit of Wiſdom, Iſa. 11. 2. of Perverſeneſs, Iſa. 19. 14. of Fornication, Hoſ. 4. 12. of Fear, 2 Tim. 1. 7. of Slumber, Rom. 11. 8.

15 Then z ſhall the man bring his wife unto the prieſt, and he ſhall bring her offering a for her, the tenth part of an Ephah of barley-meal, he ſhall pour no oil upon it, nor put frankincenſe thereon b; for it is an offering of jealouſy, an offering of memorial, bringing iniquity to remembrance c:

z She perſiſting in her denial, and her Husband requiring her ſubmiſſion to this way of tryal. a Which was partly becauſe none were to appear before God empty, Exod. 23. 15. partly by way of ſolemn appeal to God, whom hereby ſhe deſired to judg between her and her Husband; and partly by way of atonement to appeaſe God, who had for her Sins ſtirred up her Husband againſt her, and ſent an evil Spirit between them. See 1 Sam. 26. 19. b Both becauſe it was a kind of Sin-offering, from which theſe were excluded, Levit. 5. 11. and to teſtify her ſorrowful ſenſe of the Hand of God, and of her Husband's Diſpleaſure; and becauſe ſhe came thither as a delinquent, or one ſuſpected of delinquency, and under an ill Fame, and unpleaſing both to God and Men, as one that wanted that Grace, and Amiableneſs, and Joy which Oil ſignified, and that acceptance with God which Frankincenſe deſigned, Pſal. 141. 2. c Both to God, before whom ſhe appeared as a Sinner, and to her own Conſcience, if ſhe were guilty; and if ſhe were not guilty of this, yet it reminded her of her other Sins, for which this might be a puniſhment.

16 And the prieſt ſhall bring her d near, and ſet her before the LORD e.

d (i. e.) The Woman: But of her he ſpeaks verſ. 18. or it, i. e. the Offering which is laſt ſpoken of, ſo the Feminine Gender is put for the Maſculine or the Neuter, of both which we have inſtances. e (i. e.) Before the Sanctuary where the Ark was.

17 And the prieſt ſhall take holy water f in an earthen veſſel g, and of the duſt h that is in the floor of the tabernacle i the prieſt ſhall take, and put it into the water k:

f Either Water out of the Holy Laver, Exod. 30. 18. or rather the Water of Purification appointed for ſuch kind of uſes, Numb. 19. 9. This was uſed, that if ſhe were guilty, ſhe might be afraid to add profaneneſs, and the pollution of holy things to her other Crime. g Either to ſignify that frailty and vileneſs of which ſhe ſtood accuſed, or expreſs her ſorrowful and ſhameful condition; or becauſe, after this uſe, it was to be broken in pieces, that the remembrance of it might be blotted out as far as was poſſible. Compare Levit. 6. 28. and 11. 33. and 15. 12. h An Emblem of Vileneſs and Miſery, as appears from Job 2. 12. Pſal. 22. 15. Lam. 3. 29. and the Serpent's Food, Gen. 3. 14. very proper for her who had been ſeduced to Folly by the Serpent's Inſtigation. i Which made it Holy Duſt, and ſtruck the greater terror into the Woman, if ſhe were guilty. k To make it more unpleaſant and bitter, which was ſuitable to one in that ſorrowful ſtate.

18 And the prieſt ſhall ſet the woman before the LORD l, and uncover the womans head m, and put the offering of memorial in her hands n which is the jealousie-offering: and the priest shall have in his hand the bitter o water that causeth the curse p.

l Before the Tabernacle, with her Face towards the Ark. m Partly that she might be made sensible how manifest she and all her ways were to God, and that she might be more visible to the Congregation, that her shame might be greater if she were guilty; partly in token of her Sorrow, either for her Sin, or at least for any cause of suspicion which she had given; partly as a sign that she was after a sort deprived of the help and protection of her Husband, which the covering of the Woman's Head signified, 1 Cor. 11. 5, 6, 7, 10. and that she was neither Virgin nor loyal Wife, for the Heads of both these used to be covered. n That she her self might offer it, and therefore call God to be witness of her Innocency. o So called either from the bitter taste which the Dust gave it, or from the bitter Effects of it upon her, if she were guilty. Compare Exod. 32. 20. p Not by any natural Power, but by a supernatural Efficacy ordained and wrought by God for her Punishment, and for the terrour and caution of others.

19 And the priest shall charge her by an oath q, and say unto the woman, If no man r have lien with thee, and if thou hast not gone aside to uncleanness ‖ † with another s instead of thy husband, be thou free from this bitter water that causeth the curse.

‖ Or, being in the power of thy husband.
† Heb. under thy husband.

q To answer truly to his Question, or to declare by Oath whether she be guilty or no, and after such Oath shall say as follows. r To wit, except thy Husband, as is manifest from the whole context, or no other Man, the Word another being understood here, as it is thought to be also Gen. 14. 1. and 36. 6. Exod. 22. 20. s Or, with him, i. e. the Man now mentioned. So it is an Ellipsis easily supplied out of the Text.

20 But if thou hast gone aside to another in stead of thy husband, and if thou be defiled; and some man have lien with thee beside thine husband;

21 Then the priest shall charge the woman with an Oath of cursing, and the priest shall say unto the woman, The LORD make thee a curse, and an oath t among thy people when the LORD doth make thy thigh u to † rot x, and thy belly to swell y.

† Heb. to fall.

t (i. e.) A form of cursing or imprecatory Oaths, that when they would curse a Person, they may wish that they may be as cursed and miserable as thou wast upon this occasion. See the like phrase, Isa. 65. 15. Jer. 29. 22. and compare Gen. 48. 20. Ruth. 4. 11, 12. u A modest signification of the genital Parts, used both in Scripture, as Gen. 46. 26. Exod. 1. 5. and other Authors, that the sin might be evident in the punishment. x Heb. to fall, i. e. to die or wast away, as the word is used 1 Chron. 21. 14. compared with 2 Sam. 24. 15. y Suddenly and violently till it burst, which the Jews note was frequent in this and like cases, as Exod. 32. 20. And it was a clear evidence of the truth of their Religion.

22 And this water that causeth the curse shall go into thy bowels, to make thy belly to swell, and thy thigh to rot: and the woman shall say, Amen, amen z.

z (i. e.) So let it be if I be guilty. The word is doubled by her as an evidence of her Innocency, and ardent desire that God would deal with her according to her desert.

23 And the priest shall write these curses a in a book b, and he shall blot them out with the bitter water c.

a Wherewith she cursed her self, to which peradventure her name was added. b (i. e.) In a scroll of Parchment, which the Hebrews commonly call a Book, as Deut. 24. 1. 2 Sam. 11. 14. Isa. 39. 1. c Or, raze or scrape them out and cast them into the bitter water. Whereby it was signified, that if she was innocent, the Curses should be blotted out and come to nothing, and, if she were guilty, she should find in her the effects of this Water which she drunk, after the words of this curse had been scraped and put in.

24 And he shall cause the woman to drink d the bitter water, that causeth the curse: and the water that causeth the curse shall enter into her, and become bitter.

d To wit, after the Jealousie-offering was offered, as is affirmed ver. 26.

25 Then the priest shall take the jealousie-offering out of the womans hand, and shall wave the offering before the LORD, and offer it upon the altar.

26 And the priest shall take an handful of the offering, even the memorial thereof e, and burn it upon the altar, and afterward shall cause the woman to drink the water.

e Of which see Lev. 2. 2.

27 And when he hath made her to drink the water then it shall come to pass, that if she be defiled, and have done trespass against her husband, that the water that causeth the curse, shall enter into her, and become bitter, and her belly shall swell, and her thigh shall rot: and the woman shall be * a curse among her people.

* Deut. 28. 37. Psal. 83. 5, 11. Jer. 24. 9. and 29. 18, 22. and 42. 18.

28 And if the woman be not defiled, but be clean, then she shall be free f, and shall concieve seed g.

f To wit, from these bitter Curses and Miseries. g (i. e.) Shall bring forth Children, as the Jews say, in case of her Innocency, infallibly she did, yea though she was barren before: or shall be as capable of bearing Children as other Women. Zech. 8. 13.

29 This is the law of jealousies, when a wife goeth aside to another in stead of her husband, and is defiled.

30 Or when the spirit of jealousie cometh upon him, and he be jealous over his wife, and shall set the woman before the LORD, and the priest shall execute upon her all this law.

31 Then shall the man be guiltless from iniquity h, and this woman shall bear her iniquity i.

h Which he should not have been, if he had either dissembled or indulged her in so great a Wickedness, and not endeavoured to bring her either to Repentance or Punishment: See Mat. 1. 19. or cherished suspicions in his Breast, and thereupon proceeded to hate her or cast her off. Whereas now, whatsoever the consequent is, the Husband shall not be blamed or censured, either for bringing such Curses and Mischiefs upon her, or for defaming her, if she appear to be Innocent. i (i. e.) The punishment of her Iniquity, whether she was false to her Husband, or by any light and foolish carriage gave him occasion to suspect her to be so.

CHAP. VI.

1 AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto the children of Israel and say unto them, When either man or woman a shall ‖ separate themselves to vow a vow of a Nazarite b, to separate themselves unto the LORD:

‖ Or, make themselves Nazarites.

a For both Sexes might make this vow, if they were free and at their own dispose, for otherwise their Parents or Husbands could disanul the Vow, Numb. 30. 4. and in that case they sinned in taking God's Name in vain and vowing what they could not perform. b Whereby they did sequester themselves in a great part from worldly Employments and Enjoyments, that they might intirely consecrate themselves to God's Service; and this either for their whole life time, of which see Judg. 13. 5. and 16. 17. 1 Sam. 1. 11. Luk. 1. 15. or for a less and limited space of time, of which in this Chapter.

3 He shall separate himself from wine and strong drink b, and shall drink no vinegar of wine, or vinegar of strong drink, neither shall he drink any liquor of grapes, nor eat moist grapes, or dried c.

b Lest they should either inflame or dispose him to Luxury, and consequently to the breaking of his Vow: or cloud his Reason, and thereby occasion some mistake or miscarriage in the Rules to which he had bound himself. Compare Lev. 10. 9. c Which was forbidden him for greater caution, to keep him at the further distance from Wine.

4 All the dayes of his ‖ separation d shall he eat nothing that is made of the † vine-tree, from the kernels even to the Husk.

‖ Or, Nazaritehip.
† Heb. of the vine of the wine.

d Which were sometimes more, sometimes fewer, as he thought fit to appoint.

5 All the dayes of the vow of his separation, there shall no *rasor e come upon his head, until till the days be fulfilled, in the which he ſeparateth himſelf unto the LORD, he ſhall be holy f; and ſhall let the locks of the hair of his head grow.

e Nor Sciſſers, or other Inſtrument to cut off any part of his Hair. This was appointed, partly as a Sign of his mortification to worldly Delights and vain Affectation of outward Beauty, which is promoted by the polling or cutting off the Hair; partly as a teſtimony of that Purity which hereby he profeſſed, becauſe the cutting off the Hair was a ſign of Uncleanneſs, as appears from verſ. 9. and Levit. 14. 8, 9. partly that by the notorious length of his Hair, he might be conſtantly minded of his Vow, and the exquiſite Holineſs it required; and that others might thereby be admoniſhed and ſtirred up to the imitation of his holy Example; and partly, that he might reſerve his Hair entirely for God to whom it was to be offered, ver. 18. f (i. e.) Wholly conſecrated to God and his Service, whereby he ſhews that inward and ſubſtantial Holineſs, was the great thing which God required and valued in theſe, and conſequently in other Rites and Ceremonies.

9 And if any man die very ſuddenly by him, and he hath defiled the head of his conſecration; then he ſhall ſhave his head k in the day of his cleanſing, on the ſeventh day l ſhall he ſhave it.

k Becauſe his whole Body, and eſpecially his Hair was defiled by ſuch an Accident, which he ought to impute either to his own heedleſneſs, or at leaſt to God's Providence ſo ordering the matter poſſibly for the puniſhment of his other Sins, or for the quickning of him to more caution, and purity, and deteſtation of all dead Works, whereby he would be defiled. l To be reckoned from the time of his pollution, for Uncleanneſs contracted by the Dead, continued for ſeven days, and the ſeventh day was the day of cleanſing for it, Levit. 15. 13. Numb. 19. 11, 12.

13 And this is the law of the Nazarite: when the days of his ſeparation are fulfilled, he ſhall be brought t unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

t By the Prieſts appointment and direction.

14 And he ſhall offer his offering unto the LORD, one he-lamb of the firſt year, without blemiſh, for a burnt-offering, and one ew-lamb of the firſt year, without blemiſh, for * a ſin-offering u, and one ram without blemiſh, for * peace-offerings x:

So he offered all the three ſorts of Offerings, that he might ſo far fulfil all Righteouſneſs, and profeſs his Obligation to obſerve the Will of God in all things.

16 And the prieſt ſhall bring them before the LORD, and ſhall offer his ſin-offering, and his burnt-offering.

17 And he ſhall offer the ram for a ſacrifice of peace-offerings unto the LORD, with the basket of unleavened bread; the prieſt ſhall offer alſo his meat-offering, and his drink-offering.

* Act. 21. 24.

18 * And the Nazarite ſhall ſhave the head of his ſeparation z, at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation a, and ſhall take the hair of the head of his ſeparation, and put it in the fire b, which is under the ſacrifice of the peace-offerings.

z Or, of his Nazarite-ſhip, i. e. in which the chief of his Nazarite-ſhip or ſeparation to God conſiſted. a Publickly, that it might be known that his Vow was ended, and therefore he was at liberty as to thoſe things from which he had reſtrained himſelf for a ſeaſon, otherwiſe ſome might have been ſcandalized at his uſe of his liberty. See Act. 21. 26. b Either, 1. the Fire of the Altar. But why then is this reſtrained to the Peace-offerings, ſeeing it was common to the Burnt-offerings, and to the Sin-offering? Or rather, 2. to the Fire of the Kitchin, upon which the Fleſh of the Peace-offering was boiled.

19 And the prieſt ſhall take the ſodden ſhoulder c of the ram, and one unleavened cake out of the basket, and one unleavened wafer, and ſhall put them upon the hands of the Nazarite d, after the hair of his ſeparation is ſhaven.

c The left Shoulder, as it appears from verſ. 20. where this is joined with the heave-ſhoulder, which was the right-ſhoulder, and which was the Prieſt's due in all Sacrifices, Levit. 7. 32. and in this alſo. But here the other Shoulder was added to it, as a ſpecial Token of Thankfulneſs from the Nazarites for God's ſingular Favours vouchſafed unto them. d That he may give them to the Prieſt as his peculiar Gift.

* Exod. 29. 27, 28.

20 And the prieſt ſhall wave them * for a wave-offering e before the LORD: this is holy for the prieſt with the wave-breaſt, and heave-ſhoulder: and after that the Nazarite may drink wine f.

e Of the Wave-offering, and Heave-offering. See Lev. 7. 30. f And return to his former freedom and manner of living, he is diſcharged from his Vow.

21 This is the law of the Nazarite, who hath vowed, and of his offering unto the LORD for his ſeparation, beſides that that his hand ſhall get g: according to the vow which he vowed, ſo he muſt do, after the law of his ſeparation.

g (i. e.) Beſides what he ſhall voluntarily promiſe and give according to his ability.

22 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

23 Speak unto Aaron, and unto his ſons, ſaying, On this wiſe h ye ſhall bleſs the children of Iſrael i, ſaying unto them, h Heb. Thus, in this manner, or in theſe words: yet ſo as that they were not tied to theſe very words, becauſe after this we have Examples of Moſes, and David, and Solomon, and others bleſſing the People in other words. i To wit, in the Publick Aſſembly.

24 The LORD bless thee k, and keep thee l:

k (i. e.) Bestow upon you all manner of Blessings, Temporal and Spiritual. Compare Gen. 12. 2. l (i. e.) Continue his Blessings to thee, and preserve thee in and to the use of them; keep thee from Sin and its bitter Effects.

25 The LORD make his face shine upon thee m, and be gracious unto thee:

m (i. e.) Smile upon thee: this is opposed to the hiding of his Face, and to the covering Himself or his Face with a Cloud; and it is explained by the following words, be gracious unto thee. Others expound it of Illumination or Direction, and the revelation of Himself, and of his Will to them.

26 The LORD lift up his countenance upon thee n, and give thee peace o.

n (i. e.) Look upon thee with a chearful and pleasant Countenance, as one that is reconciled to thee, and well pleased with thee and thy Offerings and Services. See of this phrase Psal. 4. 6. Prov. 16. 15. To this is opposed the falling and the casting down of the countenance, of which see Gen. 4. 5, 6. Job 29. 24. Or, Regard, Protect, and Help thee. Compare Psal. 33. 18. o Peace with God, and with thy own Conscience, and with all Men, and all Prosperity, which is comprehended under this word.

27 And they shall put my Name upon the children of Israel p, and I will bless them q.

p (i. e.) Shall call them by my Name, shall recommend them to me as my own People, and bless them, and pray unto me for them as such: which is a powerful Argument to prevail with God for them, and therefore hath been oft used by the Prophets interceding for them, as Jer. 14. 9. Dan. 9. 18, 19. Compare 1 Sam. 12. 22. q I will ratify their Blessings, and give those Blessings to the People which the Priests pray for.

1 AND it came to pass on the day a that Moses had fully * set up the tabernacle, and had anointed it b, and sanctified it, and all the instruments thereof, both the altar, all the vessels thereof, and had anointed them, and sanctified them;

* Exod. 40. 18. Levit. 8. 10.

a Either, 1. precisely, and so this History, as many others, is put out of its proper place, and this Chapter and the 8th, and 9th, and 10th, and 11th, should follow next after Exod. 40. and this day is the same on which the Tabernacle was erected, which was the first Day of the first Month of the 2*d* Year, Exod. 40. 17, 18. Or, 2. largely, Day being put for Time; and on the Day, for about the Time, or, a little after the Time. And thus it seems to be taken here, because all the Princes did not offer these things upon one and the same Day, but on several Days, as here it follows. And so there is no disorder in the History, and this Chapter comes in its proper place, and those things were done in the second month of the second Year, after the Tabernacle and Altar, and all other Instruments thereof were anointed, as is here expressed; and after the Levites were separated to the service of the Tabernacle, and appointed to their several Works, as is manifest from ver. 5, 6, 7, 8, 9. which was done about a month after the Tabernacle was erected, &c. and after the numbering of the People, Numb. 1. when the Princes here employed in the Offerings, were first constituted; and after the disposal of the Tribes about the Tabernacle, the order of which is here observed in the time of their Offerings.

2 That * the princes of Israel, heads of the house of their fathers (who were the princes of the tribes, † and were over them that were numbred) offered c:

* Chap. 1. 4. † Heb. who stood

c To wit, in the manner and days hereafter mentioned.

3 And they brought their offering before the LORD, six covered wagons d, and twelve oxen: a wagon for two of the princes, and for each one an oxe: and they brought them before the tabernacle.

d For the more convenient and safe carriage of such things as were most cumbersome.

4 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

5 Take it of them, that they may be to do the service of the tabernacle of the congregation, and thou shalt give them unto the Levites: to every man according to his service e.

e (i. e.) More or fewer of them, as the nature of their Service, and of the things to be carried, required.

6 And Moses took the wagons, and the oxen, and gave them unto the Levites.

7 Two wagons and four oxen he gave unto the sons of Gershon, according to their service:

8 And four wagons and eight oxen he gave unto the sons of Merari, according unto their service, under the hand of Ithamar f the son of Aaron the priest.

f (i. t.) Under his Care and Inspection. See Gen. 39. 22. And it must be noted that these words belong both to the Merarites here, and to the Gershonites, ver. 7. because both of them were under his hands, as is affirmed, Numb. 4. 28, 33.

9 But unto the sons of Kohath he gave none: because the service of the sanctuary belonging unto them, was that they should bear upon their shoulders g.

g Because of the greater worth and holiness of the Things which they carried. See Numb. 4. 6, 8, 10, 12, 14. 2 Sam. 6. 6, 13.

10 And the princes offered for dedicating of the altar h, in the day i that it was anointed, even the princes offered their offering before the altar.

h To wit, of Burnt-offerings, and Incense too, as appears from the matter of their Offerings. The Singular Number for the Plural. Not for the first dedication of them, for it is apparent they were dedicated or consecrated before this time by Moses and Aaron for diverse days together, Numb. 8. and 9. but for a further dedication of them, these being the first Offerings that were made for any particular Persons or Tribes. i (i. e.) About the time, as soon as it was anointed. See on ver. 1.

11 And the LORD said unto Moses, They shall offer their offering each prince on his day k, for the dedicating of the altar.

k As well for the greater solemnity and splendour of the Work, as for the prevention of confusion. And in this offering they follow the order of their Camp, and not of their birth.

12 And he that offered his offering the first day, was Nahshon the son of Amminadab, of the tribe of Judah l.

l In whose name and behalf, this Offering was made, and so in the rest.

13 And his offering was one silver charger m, the weight thereof was an hundred and thirty shekels, one silver † bowl of seventy shekels, after * the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them were full of fine flour mingled with oil, for a * meat-offering.

† Or, Vial. * Exod. 30. 13. * Lev. 2. 1.

m A large Dish or Platter, of which see Exod. 25. 29. to be employed about the Altar of Burnt-offering, or in the Court, not in the Sanctuary, for all its Vessels were of Gold.

14 One spoon of ten shekels of gold o full of incense:

o And therefore belonging to the Altar of Incense.

15 * One young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the first year, for a burnt-offering:

* Lev. 1. 2.

16 One kid of the goats for a * sin-offering:

* Lev. 4. 23.

17 And for * a sacrifice of peace-offerings p, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs of the first year. This was the offering of Nahshon the son of Amminadab.

* Lev. 3. 1.

p Which are more numerous, because the Princes and Priests, and some of the People, did make a Feast before the Lord of them, and celebrated it with great rejoycing.

18 On the second day Nethaneel the son of Zuar, prince of Issachar, did offer:

19 He offered for his offering one silver charger, the weight whereof was an hundred and thirty shekels, one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil, for a meat-offering.

20 One

20 One ſpoon of gold of ten ſhekels, full of incenſe:
21 One young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the firſt year, for a burnt-offering:
22 One kid of the goats for a ſin-offering:
23 And for a ſacrifice of peace-offerings: five oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs of the firſt year. This was the offering of Nethaneel the ſon of Zuar.
24 On the third day Eliab the ſon of Helon, prince of the children of Zebulun did offer:
25 His offering was one ſilver charger, the weight whereof was an hundred and thirty ſhekels, one ſilver bowl of ſeventy ſhekels, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil, for a meat-offering:
26 One golden ſpoon of ten ſhekels, full of incenſe:
27 One young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the firſt year for a burnt-offering:
28 One kid of the goats for a ſin-offering:
29 And for a ſacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs of the firſt year. This was the offering of Eliab the ſon of Helon.
30 On the fourth day Elizur the ſon of Shedeur, prince of the children of Reuben, did offer:
31 His offering was one ſilver charger of an hundred and thirty ſhekels, one ſilver bowl of ſeventy ſhekels, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil, for a meat-offering:
32 One golden ſpoon of ten ſhekels full of incenſe:
33 One young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the firſt year for a burnt-offering:
34 One kid of the goats for a ſin-offering:
35 And for a ſacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs of the firſt year. This was the offering of Elizur the ſon of Shedeur.
36 On the fifth day, Shelumiel the ſon of Zuriſhaddai, prince of the children of Simeon, did offer:
37 His offering was one ſilver charger, the weight thereof was an hundred and thirty ſhekels, one ſilver bowl of ſeventy ſhekels, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil for a meat-offering:
38 One golden ſpoon of ten ſhekels, full of incenſe:
39 One young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the firſt year for a burnt-offering:
40 One kid of the goats for a ſin-offering:
41 And for a ſacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs of the firſt year. This was the offering of Shelumiel the ſon of Zuriſhaddai.
42 On the ſixth day Eliaſaph the ſon of Deuel, prince of the children of Gad, offered.
43 His offering was one ſilver charger, of the weight of an hundred and thirty ſhekels, a ſilver bowl of ſeventy ſhekels, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil, for a meat offering:
44 One golden ſpoon of ten ſhekels, full of incenſe:
45 One young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the firſt year for a burnt-offering:
46 One kid of the goats for a ſin-offering:
47 And for a ſacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs. This was the offering of Eliaſaph the ſon of Deuel.
48 On the ſeventh day Eliſhama the ſon of Ammihud, prince of the children of Ephraim, offered.
49 His offering was one ſilver charger, the weight whereof was an hundred and thirty ſhekels, one ſilver bowl of ſeventy ſhekels, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil, for a meat-offering:
50 One golden ſpoon of ten ſhekels, full of incenſe:
51 One young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the firſt year for a burnt-offering:
52 One kid of the goats for a ſin-offering:
53 And for a ſacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs of the firſt year. This was the offering of Eliſhama the ſon of Ammihud.
54 On the eighth day offered Gamaliel the ſon of Pedahzur, prince of the children of Manaſſeh.
55 His offering was one ſilver charger, of an hundred and thirty ſhekels, one ſilver bowl of ſeventy ſhekels, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil, for a meat-offering:
56 One golden ſpoon of ten ſhekels, full of incenſe:
57 One young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the firſt year for a burnt-Offering:
58 One kid of the goats for a ſin-offering.
59 And for a ſacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs of the firſt year. This was the offering of Gamaliel the ſon of Pedahzur.
60 On the ninth day Abidan the ſon of Gideoni, prince of the children of Benjamin, offered.
61 His offering was one ſilver charger, the weight whereof was an hundred and thirty ſhekels, a ſilver bowl of ſeventy ſhekels, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil, for a meat-offering:
62 One golden ſpoon of ten ſhekels, full of incenſe:
63 One young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the firſt year for a burnt-offering.
64 One kid of the goats for a ſin-offering:
65 And for a ſacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs of the firſt year. This was the offering of Abidan the ſon of Gideoni.
66 On the tenth day Ahiezer the ſon of Ammiſhaddai, prince of the children of Dan, offered.
67 His offering was one ſilver charger, the weight whereof was an hundred and thirty ſhekels, one ſilver bowl of ſeventy ſhekels, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil, for a meat-offering:
61 One golden ſpoon of ten ſhekels, full of incenſe:
69 One bullock, one ram, one lamb of the firſt year, for a burnt-offering:
70 One kid of the goats for a ſin-offering:
71 And for a ſacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs of the firſt year. This was the offering of Ahiezer, the ſon of Ammiſhaddai.
72 One the eleventh day, Pagiel the ſon of Ocran, prince of the children of Aſher, offered.
73 His offering was one ſilver charger, the weight whereof was an hundred and thirty ſhekels, one ſilver bowl of ſeventy ſhekels, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil, for a meat-offering:
74 One golden ſpoon of ten ſhekels, full of incenſe:
75 One young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the firſt year, for a burnt-offering:
76 One kid of the goats for a ſin-offering.
77 And for a ſacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs of the firſt year. This was the offering of Pagiel the ſon of Ocran.
78 On the twelfth day, Ahira the ſon of Enan, prince of the children of Naphtali, offered.
79 His offering was one ſilver charger, the weight whereof was an hundred and thirty ſhekels, one one ſilver bowl of ſeventy ſhekels, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil, for a meat-offering:

80 One golden ſpoon of ten ſhekels, full of incenſe:

81 One young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the firſt year for a burnt-offering:

82 One kid of the goats for a ſin-offering.

83 And for a ſacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs of the firſt year. This was the offering of Ahira the ſon of Enan.

84 This was the dedication of the altar, (in the day when it was anointed q) by the princes of Iſrael: twelve chargers of ſilver, twelve ſilver † bowls, twelve ſpoons of gold:

† Or, vials.

q This is again repeated, to ſhew why it is called the Dedication of the Altar, becauſe it was the firſt Offering made by any particular Perſons or Tribes.

85 Each charger of ſilver weighing an hundred and thirty ſhekels, each bowl ſeventy: all the ſilver veſſels weighed two thouſand and four hundred ſhekels, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary.

86 The golden ſpoons were twelve, full of incenſe, weighing ten ſhekels a-piece, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary: all the gold of the ſpoons was an hundred and twenty ſhekels.

87 All the oxen for the burnt-offering, were twelve bullocks, the rams twelve, the lambs of the firſt year twelve, with their meat-offering r: and the kids of the goats for ſin-offering twelve.

r Which was not mentioned before, becauſe it was ſufficiently underſtood from the Law which required it, Numb. 15. 3, 4, 5. but for greater aſſurance is here expreſſed.

88 And all the oxen for the ſacrifice of the peace-offerings, were twenty and four bullocks, the rams ſixty, the he-goats ſixty, the lambs of the firſt year ſixty. This was the dedication of the altar, after that it was anointed ſ.

ſ Which words are very conveniently added, to explain in what ſenſe he had ſo oft ſaid that this was done in the day when it was anointed; to wit, not exactly, but in a latitude, to wit, a little after that it was anointed, as is here ſaid.

89 And when Moſes was gone into the tabernacle of the congregation t, to ſpeak with ‖ him u, then he heard the voice of one ſpeaking unto him from off the mercy-ſeat x, that was upon the ark of teſtimony, from between the two cherubims: and he ſpake unto him.

‖ That is, God.

t Into which Moſes, though no Prieſt, was permitted to enter by God's ſpecial Licenſe. u (i. e.) To conſult God upon occaſion. x Which Moſes ſtanding without the Vail could eaſily hear. And this ſeems to be added in this place, to ſhew that when Men had done their part in the dedication of the Tabernacle, Altars, &c. God was not wanting in the performance of his part, and Promiſe made, Exod. 25. 22.

CHAP. VIII.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Speak unto Aaron, and ſay unto him, When thou * lighteſt the lamps, the ſeven lamps ſhall give light over againſt the candleſtick a.

* Exod. 25. 37. & 40. 25.

a (i. t.) Either, 1. on every ſide of the Candleſtick. So the Candleſtick is here put for the Bulk or Shaft of the Candleſtick, as Exod. 25. 34, 35. and the Lamps, when they were lighted, were put into the Branches of the Candleſtick, and taken out upon occaſion. Thus the meaning is, that all the Lamps were to be lighted on that part which was towards the middle, looking that way whence they had their Light; for the middle Lamp was lighted with the Fire of the Altar, and from that the other Lamps received Light. But againſt this ſenſe 'tis objected, That the Lamps could not be otherwiſe ordered, but that they muſt give light round about the Candleſtick, and therefore that ſenſe ſeems to make this Direction idle and frivolous. Or, 2. on that part which is before the Candleſtick, Heb. over againſt the face of the Candleſtick, i. e. in that place towards which the Candleſtick looked, or where the Candleſtick ſtood in full view, i. e. upon the North ſide, where the Table of Shew-bread ſtood; as appears from hence, becauſe the Candleſtick ſtood cloſe to the Boards of the Sanctuary on the South ſide, Exod. 26. 35. And thus the Lights were on both ſides of the Sanctuary; which was fit and neceſſary, becauſe it was wholly dark in it ſelf, and had no Window in it.

3 And Aaron did ſo: he lighted the lamps thereof over againſt the candleſtick, as the LORD commanded Moſes.

4 * And this work of the candleſtick was of beaten gold b, unto the ſhaft thereof, unto the flowers thereof was * beaten work: according unto the * pattern which the LORD had ſhewed Moſes, ſo he made the candleſtick.

* Exod. 25. 31.
* Exod. 25. 18.
* Exod. 25. 40.

b Not hollow, but ſolid and maſſy Gold, beaten out of one piece, and not of ſeveral pieces joined or ſodered together; ſee Exod. 25. 18, 31. and 37. 17.

5 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

6 Take the Levites from among the children of Iſrael, and cleanſe c them.

c Or, waſh or purify them, which was alſo done with the Prieſts and others when they were to approach to God and his Service; See Exod. 19. 10. Levit. 14. 9.

7 And thus ſhalt thou do unto them, to cleanſe them: ſprinkle water † of purifying d upon them, and † let them ſhave all their fleſh e, and let them waſh their clothes, and ſo make themſelves clean.

This Water was mixed with the Aſhes of a red Heifer, Numb. 19. 9. which therefore may ſeem to have been preſcribed before, though it be mentioned after, ſuch kind of tranſplacings of Paſſages being frequent in Scripture. e Which external Rite, ſignified the cutting off their inordinate concupiſcences of earthly things, and that ſingular purity of Heart and Life which is required in the Miniſters of God; ſee Iſa. 52. 11. 2 Tim. 2. 21.

8 Then let them take a young bullock with his * meat-offering, even fine flour mingled with oil, and another young bullock e ſhalt thou take for a ſin-offering.

* Levit. 2. 1.

e The ſame Sacrifice which was offered for a Sin-offering for the whole Congregation, Levit. 4. becauſe the Levites came in the ſtead of all the Firſt-born, which did in a manner repreſent the whole Congregation.

9 And thou ſhalt bring the Levites before the tabernacle of the congregation, and thou ſhalt gather the whole aſſembly of the children of Iſrael together.

10 And thou ſhalt bring the Levites before the LORD, and the children of Iſrael f ſhall put their hands upon the Levites g.

f Not all of them, which was impoſſible, but ſome in the name and ſtead, and by the appointment of all, to wit, either the Firſt-born, or rather the Princes or Chiefs of each Tribe, who uſed to tranſact things in the name of their Tribes. Whereby they ſignified their tranſferring of that right of miniſtring to God from the Firſt-born, in whoſe hands it formerly was, unto the Levites, and their renouncing of their Intereſt in the Levites, from whom they might otherwiſe have expected help by their Perſons or Purſes, as they did from other Tribes in their common Concernments, and their intire reſignation and dedication of them to God's Service; as the Perſon offering, by laying his Hand upon the Head of his Sacrifice, Levit. 1. 4. ſignified his tranſlation of his Guilt upon the Beaſt, and his dedication of it unto God.

11 And Aaron ſhall † offer the Levites before the LORD for ‖ offering h of the children of Iſrael, that † they may execute the ſervice of the LORD.

† Heb. wave.

Not that Aaron did ſo wave them, which he could not do, but that he cauſed or commanded them to imitate that Motion, and to wave themſelves towards the ſeveral parts of the World: whereby they might ſignify their readineſs to ſerve God according to their capacity whereſoever they ſhould be. Though the Word may be taken more generally for any Offering made to God, as Exod. 35. 22.

12 And the Levites ſhall lay their hands upon the heads of the bullocks i: and thou ſhalt offer the the one for a sin-offering, and the other for a burnt-offering unto the LORD, to make an atonement for the Levites.

i To signify that they were offered by them, and for them. See *Exod.*29.16,19. *Levit.*1.4. & 3.2. & 4.4.

13 And thou shalt set the Levites before Aaron, and before his sons k, and offer them for an offering unto the LORD l.

k (i. e.) Put them into the Power of Aaron and his Sons, to employ them in holy Ministrations; for so that phrase is sometimes used, as *Gen.*13.9. the Land is before thee, i. e. in thy Power to use or enjoy it. Or, setting the Levites before them, did signify the giving the Levites to them or to their service. l For to him they were first properly offered, and by him given to the Priests in order to his Service.

14 Thus shalt thou separate the Levites from among the children of Israel, and the Levites shall 15 And after that shall the Levites go in m, to do the service of the tabernacle of the congregation: and thou shalt cleanse them, and offer them for an offering.

o (i. e.) To serve God in their stead and behalf, to do what otherwise they had been obliged to do in their own Persons. p How in it, see on vers. 15. q Not by offering Sacrifices, which the Priests alone might do, but by assisting the Priests in that expiatory Work, and by a diligent performance of all the parts of their Office, whereby God was pleased, both with them and with the People. r This is added as a Reason why God appointed them to serve in or about the Tabernacle, that they might watch and guard it, and not suffer any of the People to come near it, or meddle with holy Things; which if they did, it would certainly bring a plague upon them.

20 And Moses and Aaron, and all the congregation of the children of Israel, did to the Levites according unto all that the LORD commanded Moses concerning the Levites, so did the children of Israel unto them.

21 And the Levites were purified s, and they washed their clothes: and Aaron offered them as an offering before the LORD, and Aaron made an atonement for them to cleanse them.

s Which was done by Washing, and Sprinkling, and Sacrifices. See *Levit.*15.13,14,15. *Numb.*19.11, &c.

22 And after that went the Levites in, to do their service in the tabernacle of the congregation, before Aaron and before his Sons t: as the LORD had commanded Moses concerning the Levites, so did they unto them.

t In their presence, and by their direction and appointment.

23 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

CHAP. IX.

1 AND the LORD spake unto Moses in the wilderness of Sinai, in the first month of the second year a, after they were come out of the land of Egypt, saying, a And therefore before the numbring of the People, which was not till the second month, Numb. 1. 1, 2. But it is placed after it, because of a special case relating to the Passover which happened after it, and which is here related, upon occasion whereof he mentions the Command of God for keeping of the Passover in the Wilderness, which was done but once; and without this Command they had not been obliged to keep it at all till they came to the Land of Canaan. See Exod. 12. 25.

2 Let the children of Israel also keep * the passover at its appointed season.

* Exod. 12. 1. &c. Lev. 23.5. chap. 28. 16. Deut. 16. 2.

3 In the fourteenth day of this month † at even, ye shall keep it in its appointed season: according to all the rites of b it, and according to all the ceremonies thereof shall ye keep it.

† Heb. between the two evenings.

b So far as concerned the Lamb and the unleavened Bread, &c. for there were some things peculiar to the first Passover in Egypt, as that they were to eat it in haste, with their loins girded, their shoes on their feet, and their staff in their hand; which were not properly Rites or Ceremonies of the Passover, but Circumstances of their present condition, being then Travellers and ready to depart, &c. Qu. Whence had they Meal to make unleavened Bread? Answ. They were not now in haste, and so had time enough to procure it out of the Land of Midian, by the help of Moses his Father-in-law who lived there; which Land was not far from Horeb or Sinai, as appears from Exod. 3. 1.

4 And Moses spake unto the children of Israel that they should keep the passover.

5 And they kept the passe-over on the fourteenth day of the first month at even, in the wilderness of Sinai: according to all that the LORD commanded Moses, so did the children of Israel.

6 And there were certain men who were * defiled by † the dead body of a man c, that they could not keep the passover d on that day: and they came before Moses e, and before Aaron on that day.

* chap. 5. 3. † Or, the soul of a man, ch. 6. 6.

c By the touch of a dead body, or something belonging to it. See Numb. 19. 11. d Because unclean Persons were prohibited to eat of holy Things. See Levit. 7. 20. and 22. 3. e For resolution of their difficulty.

7 And those men said unto him, We are defiled by the dead body of a man: wherefore are we kept back, that we may not offer f an offering of the LORD g in its appointed season, among the children of Israel?

f Which if we neglect, we must be cut off; and if we keep it in these Circumstances, we must also be cut off. What shall we do? g (i. e.) The Passover, so called, because it was both killed and eaten in obedience to God's Command, and to God's Honour, and as a Thank-offering to God for his great Mercies.

8 And Moses said unto them, Stand still, and I will hear what the LORD will command concerning you h.

h God having promised to answer and direct him upon his address to him in difficult Cases.

9 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

10 Speak

10 Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, If any man of you, or of your posterity, shall be unclean by reason of a dead body, or be in a journey i afar off k, yet ye shall keep the passover unto the LORD.

i Under these two Instances the Hebrews think that other hinderances of like nature are comprehended, as if one be hindred by a Disease, or by any other such kind of Uncleanness, which may seem probable, both from the Nature of the Thing, and the Reason of the Law, which is the same in other cases, and from the application of this Rule to other cases, 2 Chron. 30. k In some remote Country, whence he cannot return sooner.

* 2 Chron. 30. 2, 15. 11 The * fourteenth day of the second month at even they shall keep it, and eat it with unleavened bread, and bitter herbs.

* Exod. 12. 10. * Exod. 12. 46. Joh. 19. 30. 12 * They shall leave none of it unto the morning l, * nor break any bone of it: according to all the ordinances of the passover, they shall keep it.

l But either eat or burn it before that time.

13 But the man that is clean, and is not in a journey, and forbeareth to keep the passover m: even the same soul shall be cut off from his people, because he brought not the offering of the LORD in its appointed season: that man shall bear his sin.

m Through contempt or neglect, without these or any other just Impediments, as before.

14 And if a stranger n shall sojourn among you, and will keep the passover unto the LORD, according to the ordinance of the passover, and according to the manner thereof, so shall he do: * Exod. 12. 45. * ye shall have one ordinance, both for the stranger, and for him that was born in the land.

n To wit, a Proselyte.

* Exod. 40. 34. 15 And * on the day that the tabernacle was reared up, the cloud o covered the tabernacle, namely, the tent of the testimony p: and at * Exod. 13. 21. and 40. 38. * even there was upon the tabernacle, as it were the appearance of fire q, until the morning.

o Of which see Exod. 13. 12. p. Or, the Tabernacle towards or above the Tent of the Testimony, i. e. that part of the Tabernacle in which was the Testimony, or the Ark of the Testimony; for there the cloudy Pillar stood, Levit. 16. 2. This was an evident Token of God's special presence with, and Providence over them. See Exod. 14. 20, 24. Psal. 105. 39. And this Cloud was easily distinguished from other Clouds, both by its peculiar Figure, and by its constant residence in that place. q That they might better discern it, and direct themselves and their Journeys or Stations by it.

16 So it was alway: the cloud covered it by day, and the appearance of fire by night.

17 And when the cloud was taken up r from the tabernacle, then after that the children of Israel journeyed: and in the place where the cloud abode, there the children of Israel pitched their tents.

r Or, Ascended on high, above its ordinary place, by which it became more visible to all the Camp.

18 At the commandment of the LORD s the children of Israel journeyed; and at the com- * 1 Cor. 10. 1. mandment of the LORD they pitched, * as long as the cloud abode upon the tabernacle, they rested in the tents.

s The motion or stay of the Cloud is fitly called the Command of God, because it was a signification of God's Will and their Duty, which a Command properly is.

† Heb. prolonged. 19 And when the cloud † tarried long upon the tabernacle many dayes, then the children of Israel kept the charge of the LORD t, and journeyed not.

t (i. e.) The Command of God mentioned before, that they should stay as long as the Cloud stayed, as the same phrase is manifestly taken below, ver. 23. And this, saith he, they did, though it were long in one place, which was tedious to them, who desired to change places and to make haste to Canaan, yet they obeyed God herein against their own Inclinations. Which because it was remarkable in so obstinate a People, it is so largely and particularly mentioned here, as an instance of their Obedience, and as an aggravation of the many following Instances of their Apostacy and Disobedience.

20 And so it was when the cloud was a few days upon the tabernacle, according to the commandment of the LORD they abode in their tents, and according to the commandment of the LORD they journeyed.

21 And so it was when the cloud † abode from even unto the morning, and that the cloud was taken up in the morning, then they journeyed: whether it was by day or by night that the cloud was taken up, they journeyed. † Heb. was chap. 11. 35.

22 Or whether it were two dayes, or a month, or a year, that the cloud tarried upon the tabernacle, remaining thereon, the children of Israel * abode in their tents, and journeyed not: but when it was taken up, they journeyed. * Exod. 40. 36, 37.

23 At the commandment of the LORD they rested in the tents, and at the commandment of the LORD they journeyed: they kept the charge of the LORD, at the commandment of the LORD by the hand of Moses.

CHAP. X.

1 AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Make thee two trumpets a of silver b: of an whole piece c shalt thou make them, that thou mayest use them for the calling of the assembly, and for the journeying of the camps.

a For Aaron's two Sons: though afterwards the number of the Trumpets was much increased, as the number of the Priests also was. See 2 Chron. 5. 12. These Trumpets were ordained, both for signification of the great Duty of Ministers, to wit, to preach the Word; and for use, as here follows. b A Metal pure and precious, and giving a clear sound. c See Exod. 25. 31. Numb. 8. 4.

3 And when * they d shall blow with them e, all the assembly shall assemble themselves to thee at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation. * Joel 2. 1.

d (i. e.) The Priests, by comparing this with ver. 8. e (i. e.) With both of them, by commparing this with the next verse.

4 And if they blow but with one trumpet, then the princes which are heads of the thousands of Israel, shall gather themselves unto thee.

5 When ye blow an alarm e, then the camps that lie on the east-part, shall go forward.

e To wit, once, as appears from ver. 6.

6 When ye blow an alarum the second time, then the camps that lie on the south-side, shall take their journey: they shall blow an alarm for their journeys f.

f As a Sign for them to march forward, and consequently for the rest to follow them; which is easily understood out of these words.

7 But when the congregation is to be gathered together, ye shall blow: but ye shall not sound an alarm.

8 And the sons of Aaron, the priests, shall blow with the Trumpets g: and they shall be to you for an ordinance for ever throughout your generations.

g To oblige them to the greater regard and observance, as if God himself had called them.

9 And if ye go to war in your land against the enemy that oppresseth you, then ye shall blow an alarm with the trumpets h, and ye shall be remembred before the LORD your God, and ye shall be saved from your enemies i.

h Which was practised accordingly. See Numb. 31. 6. 2 Chron. 13. 12. i If you use this Ordinance of God with trust and dependance upon God for help; which Condition is necessarily to be understood from divers other Scriptures, where it is expressed.

10 Also * in the dayes of your gladneſs k, and in your ſolemn days l, and in the beginnings of your months m, ye ſhall blow with the trumpets over your burnt-offerings, and over the ſacrifices of your peace-offerings, that they may be to you for a memorial before your God n: I am the LORD your God.

* chap. 29. 1. 1 Chro. 15. 24. 2 Chron. 5. 12. and 7. 6. and 29. 26. Ezra 3. 10. Neh. 12. 35.

k (i. e.) Days appointed for rejoycing and thankſgiving to God, either for former mercies, or for ſucceeding deliverances, as Eſth. 9. 18, &c. Compare Hoſ. 2. 11. l Your ſtated and conſtant feſtivals. m Of which ſee Pſal. 81. 3. n That God may remember you for good to accept and bleſs you, as that phraſe oft ſignifies.

11 And it came to paſs on the twentieth day of the ſecond month, in the ſecond year, that the cloud was taken up from off the tabernacle of the teſtimony.

12 And the children of Iſrael took * their journeys out of the wilderneſs of Sinai, and the cloud reſted in the wilderneſs of Paran o:

* chap. 2. 9, 16, 24, 31.

o From which they travelled to other places, and then returned into it again, Numb. 12. 16.

13 And they firſt took their journey, according to the commandment of the LORD by the hand of Moſes.

14 * In the firſt place went the ſtandard of the camp of the children of Judah, according to their armies: and over his hoſt was * Nahſhon the ſon of Amminadab.

* chap. 1. 4.

15 And over the hoſt of the tribe of the children of Iſſachar, was Nethaneel the ſon of Zuar.

16 And over the hoſt of the tribe of the children of Zebulon, was Eliab the ſon of Helon.

17 And * the tabernacle was taken down, and the ſons of Gerſhon, and the ſons of Merari ſet forward, * bearing the tabernacle.

* chap. 1. 51.

* ch. 4. 24, 31.

18 And the * ſtandard of the camp of Reuben ſet forward according to their armies: and over his hoſt was Elizur the ſon of Shedeur.

* chap. 2. 10.

19 And over the hoſt of the tribe of the children of Simeon, was Shelumiel the ſon of Zuriſhaddai.

20 And over the hoſt of the tribe of the children of Gad, was Eliaſaph the ſon of Deuel.

21 And the Kohathite ſet forward, bearing the * ſanctuary, and ‖ the other p did ſet up the tabernacle againſt they came.

* chap. 4. 4. ‖ That is, the Gerſhonites, & the Merarites. See ver. 17.

p (i. e.) The Gerſhonites, and Merarites, as is evident both from their work and office, which was to take down and ſet up the Tabernacle, Numb. 3. 25.—26. and 4. 22.—33. and from ver. 17. who therefore marched after the firſt camp, a good diſtance from and before the Kohathites, that they might prepare the Tabernacle for the reception of its utenſils, which the Kohathites brought ſome time after them.

22 And * the ſtandard of the camp of the children of Ephraim ſet forward according to their armies: and over his hoſt was Eliſhama the ſon of Ammihud.

* chap. 2. 18.

23 And over the hoſt of the tribe of the children of Manaſſeh, was Gamaliel the ſon of Pedahzur.

24 And over the hoſt of the tribe of the children of Benjamin, was Abidan the ſon of Gideoni.

25 And * the ſtandard of the camp of the children of Dan ſet forward which was the rereward of all the camps throughout their hoſts, and over his hoſt was Ahiezer the ſon of Ammiſhaddai.

* chap. 2. 25.

26 And over the hoſt of the tribe of the children of Aſher, was Pagiel the ſon of Ocran.

27 And over the hoſt of the tribe of the children of Naphtali, was Ahira the ſon of Enan.

28 † Thus were the journeyings q of the children of Iſrael, according to their armies when they ſet forward.

q (i. e.) In this manner and order they marched.

29 And Moſes ſaid unto Hobab, the ſon of Raguel r the Midianite, Moſes father in law ſ, We are journeying unto the place of which the LORD ſaid, I will give it you: come thou with us, and * we will do thee good: for the LORD hath ſpoken good concerning Iſrael.

* Judg. 1. 16.

r Called alſo Revel, Exod. 2. 18. who ſeems to be the ſame who is called Jethro, Exod. 3. 1. it being uſual in Scripture for one perſon to have two or three names. And therefore this Hobab is not Jethro, but his ſon, which may ſeem more probable, becauſe Jethro was old and unfit for travel, and deſirous, as may well be thought, to die in his own Countrey, whether he returned, Exod. 18. 27. but Hobab was young and fitter for theſe journeys, and therefore intreated by Moſes to ſtay and bear them company. ſ Which words are ambiguous, but ſeem to belong to Raguel, or Revel, not to Hobab, though others are of another mind.

30 And he ſaid unto him, I will not go t, but I will depart to mine own land, and to my kindred.

t So he might truly and ſincerely ſay, though after this ſpeech he was overcome by the intreaties and perſwaſions of Moſes. Or, he did go and ſettle his affairs, and afterwards return: for we find his poſterity ſettled among the Iſraelites. See Judg. 1. 16. and 4. 11, 18, &c.

31 And he ſaid, Leave us not, I pray thee, foraſmuch as thou knoweſt how we are to encamp in the wilderneſs, and thou mayeſt be to us inſtead of eyes u.

u To direct and guide us: for though the cloud determined them to a general place, yet many particulars might be uncertain and unknown to Moſes, wherein Hobab, having long lived in thoſe parts, might be able to adviſe him, as concerning the conveniences of water for their Cattle, concerning the ſafety or danger of the ſeveral parts by reaſon of Serpents or Wildbeaſts, or Enemies in the parts adjoyning to them, that ſo they might guard themſelves better againſt them. Or, this is to be underſtood of his directing them, not ſo much in their way, as about great and difficult matters, wherein the counſel he had from God did not exclude the advice of men, as we ſee in Hobab's father Jethro, Exod. 18. And it is probable, this was the wiſe ſon of a wiſe Father.

32 And it ſhall be if thou go with us, yea, it ſhall be, that what goodneſs the LORD ſhall do unto us, the ſame will we do unto thee.

33 And they departed from the mount of the LORD three dayes journey x: and the ark of the covenant of the LORD went before them y in the three dayes journey: to * ſearch out a reſting place z for them.

* Deut. 1. 33. Jer. 31. 2. Ezek. 20. 6.

x With continued journeys, onely it ſeems moſt probable, that the cloud made little pauſes, that they might have time for ſleep, and neceſſary refreſhments, which their Natures required. And thus all Writers, when they relate the continued journeys of perſons for many days together, are to be underſtood with this exception. y Not ſo much in place, ſay ſome, for ſo it went in the midſt, or at leaſt after the firſt camp, as may ſeem from ver. 21. as in office and authority, as a General, who is ſaid to go before, or lead his Army, though he do not go in the very firſt place. But others more probably think, that the Ark, which indeed is not mentioned ver. 21. albeit in their ſtations it was in the middle, where alſo the cloud was, yet in their marches it went before them, as alſo the cloud did, and ſo the cloud was conſtantly over the Ark, whether it ſtood or went; and therefore the Ark is ſaid to go before and direct them, not as if the Ark could be ſeen of all the Camps, which being carried onely upon mens ſhoulders was impoſſible, but becauſe the cloud, which always attended upon the Ark, and did, together with the Ark, conſtitute in a manner one ſign of Gods preſence, did lead and direct them. z Where they might ſafely and commodiouſly reſt. But this is a metaphorical expreſſion, for diſcovering to them, for otherwiſe the Ark could not ſearch, and God, who knew all places and things, needed not to ſearch.

34 And the cloud of the LORD was upon them by day †, when they went out of the camp.

† And by night too, as was expreſſed before. So we muſt learn to compare places of Scripture, and to ſupply the defects of one out of another, as we do in all Authors.

35 And it came to paſs when the ark ſet forward, that Moſes ſaid, * Riſe up, LORD, and let thine enemies be ſcattered, and let them that hate thee flee before thee.

* Pſal. 68. 1, 2.

36 And when it reſted, he ſaid, Return ‖, O LORD, unto the † many thouſands of Iſrael.

† Heb. ten thouſand thouſands.

‖ Or, give reſt, i. e. a ſafe and quiet place, free from enemies and dangers.

CHAP. XI.

1 AND when the people ‖ complained a, † it diſpleaſed the LORD, and the LORD heard it, and his anger was kindled, and the fire of the LORD b burnt * among them, and conſumed them that were in the uttermoſt parts of the camp c.

† Heb. it was evil in the ears of, &c.

* Pſal. 78. 21.

a Or, murmured, the occaſion whereof ſeems to be their laſt three days journey in a vaſt howling wilderneſs, without any benefit, and thereupon the remembrance of their long abode in the wilderneſs, and the proſpect and fear of many other tedious, and fruitleſs, and dangerous journeys, whereby they were like to be long delayed from coming to that reſt, that land of milk and honey which God had promiſed them, and which they thirſted after. b (i. e.) A fire ſent from God in an extraordinary manner, poſſibly from the pillar of cloud and fire, or from heaven, as 2 King. 1. 12. c Either becauſe the ſin began there among the mixt multitude, who probably had their place there, or amongſt thoſe who were feeble and weary with their laſt journey, and therefore hindmoſt in the march: or in mercy to the people, whom he would rather awaken to repentance, than utterly deſtroy, and therefore he ſent it into the skirts, not the heart and midſt of the Camp.

2 And the people d cryed unto Moſes e: and when Moſes prayed unto the LORD, the fire † was quenched.

d The murmurers being penitent, or others for fear. e Whom they knew to be very prevalent with God.

3 And he called the name of the place ‖ Taberah f, becauſe the fire of the LORD burnt among them.

‖ That is, a burning.

f From this fire, as it was called Kibroth-hattaavah from another occaſion, ver. 34, 35. and Numb. 33. 16. As it is no new thing in Scripture for perſons and places to have two names. Both theſe names were impoſed as monuments of the peoples ſin, and of Gods juſt judgment. See Deut. 9. 7, 22, 24.

4 And the * mixt multitude g that was among them, † fell a luſting, and the children of Iſrael h alſo † wept again i, and ſaid, * Who ſhall give us fleſh k to eat?

g Conſiſting of Egyptians or other people, which being affected with Gods miraculous works in Egypt, and thereupon believing the promiſe of God to carry them to a land of milk and honey, for their own advantage joyned themſelves to the Iſraelites, Exod. 12. 38. and now finding themſelves ſadly diſappointed they diſcover their evil minds. h VVhoſe ſpecial relation and obligation to God ſhould have reſtrained them from ſuch carriages. i This word relates either to their former murmuring upon this occaſion a twelve-month before, Exod. 16. 2. or rather to their complaining mentioned, ver. 1. to note the aggravation of their ſin, that having juſt now ſinned in the ſame kind, and ſorely ſmarted for their ſin, and being but newly delivered from their fears and dangers cauſed thereby, they forthwith return to their Vomit, and murmur again, and that more paſſionately than before, expreſſing themſelves in tears and bitter words. k This word is here taken generally ſo as to include fiſh, as the next words ſhew, and as it is uſed, 1 Cor. 15. 39. They had indeed fleſh and cattel which they brought with them out of Egypt, but theſe were reſerved for breed, to be carried into Canaan, and were ſo few, that they would ſcarce have ſerved them for a month, as may be gathered from Numb. 11. 20, 21, 22.

5 * We remember the fiſh which we did eat in Egypt freely l: the cucumbers, and the melons, and the leeks, and the onions, and the garlick.

* Exod. 16. 3.

l Either without price, for fiſh was very plentiful, and fiſhing was there free, or with a very ſmall price; for nothing is ſometimes put for a little, as Joh. 18. 20. Act. 27. 33. and none for few, as Jer. 8. 6. 1 Cor. 2. 8. And this is the more probable, becauſe the Egyptians might not taſt of fiſh, nor of the leeks and onions, which they worſhipped for Gods, and therefore the Iſraelites, who ſpeak theſe words, might have them there upon cheaper terms.

6 But now our ſoul m is dried away n, there is nothing at all beſides this Manna, before our eyes o.

m Either 1. our life, as the ſoul ſignifies, Gen. 9. 5. Pſal. 33. 19. Job 36. 14. or 2. our body, which is oft ſignified by the ſoul, as Pſal. 16. 10. and 35. 12. and 105. 18. So Levit. 19. 28. and 21. 1. Numb. 5. 2. n Is withered and pines away, which poſſibly might be true through envy, and diſcontent, and inordinate appetite, as 2 Sam. 13. 4. Prov. 14. 30. o Heb. Our eyes ſee or look to nothing but this Manna. They ſpeak as if the Manna were only uſeful to pleaſe their eyes, with its fine colour and ſhape, but not to ſatisfy their appetites, or ſuſtain their natures.

7 And * the manna was as coriander-ſeed p, and the † colour thereof as the colour of bdellium q.

* Exod. 16. 14, 31.

† Heb. eye of it as the eye of.

p Not for colour, for that is black, but for ſhape and figure. q Which is either 1, the gum of a tree, of a white and bright colour, or rather 2. a gem, or precious ſtone, as the Hebrew Doctors take it, and particularly a pearl, as ſome render it, wherewith the Manna doth manifeſtly agree both in its colour, which is white, Exod. 16. 14. and in its figure, which is round. See more on Gen. 2. 12.

8 And the people went about, and gathered it, and ground it in mills, or beat it in a mortar, and baked it in pans, and made cakes of it: and the taſt of it was as the taſt of freſh oyl r.

r Or, of the moſt excellent oyl; or, of the flour of oyl: or as others, of cakes or paſt made with the beſt oyl, the word cakes being eaſily ſupplied out of the foregoing member of the verſe; or, which is not much differing, like wafers made with honey, as it is ſaid, Exod. 16. 31. The nature and uſe of Manna is here thus particularly deſcribed, to ſhew the greatneſs of their ſin in deſpiſing ſuch excellent food, as this was.

9 And when the dew fell upon the camp in the night, the manna fell upon it ſ.

ſ And then the dew fell again upon it, and covered it; as we ſee, Exod. 16. 13, 14. ſo the Manna lay hid, as it were, between two beds of dew. Hence the phraſe of hidden Manna, Rev. 2. 17.

10 Then Moſes heard the people weep throughout their families, every man in the door of his tent t, and * the anger of the LORD was kindled greatly, Moſes alſo was diſpleaſed u.

* Pſal. 78. 21.

t To note, that they were not aſhamed of their ſin. u Partly for their great unthankfulneſs, partly foreſeeing the dreadful judgments, coming upon them, and partly for his own burden expreſſed in the following verſes.

11 And Moſes ſaid unto the LORD, Wherefore haſt thou afflicted thy ſervant? and wherefore have I not found favour in thy ſight x, that thou layeſt the burden of all this people upon me?

x Why didſt thou not hear my prayer, when I deſired thou wouldeſt excuſe me, and commit the care and government of this unruly people to ſome other perſon. See Exod. 3. 11. and 4. 10.

12 Have I conceived all this people? have I ‖ begotten them y, that thou ſhouldeſt ſay unto me, Carry them in thy boſom (as a nurſing father beareth the ſucking-child z) unto the land which thou ſweareſt unto their fathers?

‖ Or, born them. So Gr.

y Are they my children, that I ſhould be obliged to provide food, and all things for their neceſſity and deſire? z Which expreſſion ſhews the tender care and affection that Governours by the command of God ought to have towards their people.

13 Whence ſhould I have fleſh to give unto all this people? for they weep unto me, ſaying, Give us fleſh that we may eat.

14 I am not able to bear all this people a alone b, becauſe it is too heavy for me.

a (i. e.) The burden of providing for, and ſatisfying of them. b Obj. How was he alone, when there were others added to help him, Exod. 18. 21, 24? Anſ. Thoſe were onely aſſiſtant to him in Civil Cauſes, and ſmaller matters, but the harder, and greater affairs, ſuch as this unqueſtionably was, were 15 And if thou deal thus with me, * kill me, I pray thee, out of hand, if I have found favour in thy ſight, and let me not ſee my wretchedneſs c.

c Heb. my evil, i. e. my intolerable anguiſh and torment, ariſing from the inſuperable difficulty of my office and work of ruling this people, and from the dread of their utter extirpation, which they will bring upon themſelves, and the diſhonour which thence will accrue to God, and to Religion, as if not I only, but God alſo were an impoſtor. Seeing is here put for feeling, as to ſee death, Pſal. 89. 48. Luk. 2. 26. is to ſuffer it, and to ſee the ſalvation of God, Pſal. 50. 23. and 91. 16. is to enjoy it.

* See Exod. 4. 29.

16 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Gather unto me * ſeventy men of the elders of Iſrael d, whom thou knoweſt to be the elders e of the people, and officers over them: and bring them unto the tabernacle of the congregation, that they may ſtand there with thee.

d Of whom ſee Exod. 3. 16. and 5. 6. Levit. 4. 15. Deut. 16. 18. e Whom thou by experience diſcerneſt to be Elders, not only in years, and name, and place, but alſo in wiſdom and gravity, and authority with the people.

* Neh. 9. 20.

17 And I will come down f, and talk with thee there, and I * will take of the ſpirit which is upon thee, and will put it upon them g, and they ſhall bear the burden of the people with thee, that thou bear it not thy ſelf alone.

f Not by local motion, but by my powerful preſence and operation. See Gen. 11. 5. and Exod. 34. 5. g (i. e.) I will give the ſame ſpirit to them which I have given to thee. But as the ſpirit was not conveyed to them from or through Moſes, but immediately from God; ſo the ſpirit, or its gifts, were not by this means impaired in Moſes. The ſpirit is here put for the gifts of the ſpirit, as it is, Num. 27. 18. Joel 2. 28. Joh. 7. 39. Act. 19. 2, 6. 1 Cor. 14. 12, 32. and particularly for the ſpirit of propheſy, v. 25. whereby they were enabled, as Moſes had been, and ſtill was, to diſcern hidden and future things, and reſolve doubtful and difficult caſes, which made them fit for government. It is obſervable, that God would not, and therefore men ſhould not, call any perſons to any office for which they were not ſufficiently fit and qualified.

18 And ſay thou unto the people, Sanctifie your ſelves h againſt to morrow, and ye ſhall eat fleſh: (for ye have wept in the ears of the LORD i, ſaying, Who ſhall give us fleſh to eat? for it was well with us in Egypt) therefore the LORD will give you fleſh, and ye ſhall eat.

h (i. e.) Prepare your ſelves, either to receive the miraculous bleſſings of God, the fleſh you deſire: or rather, prepare to meet thy God, O Iſrael, in the way of his judgments, and to receive the puniſhment which God will inflict upon you; for it is evident from ver. 20. that God anſwered them with a Curſe in ſtead of a Bleſſing. Prepare your ſelves by true repentance, that you may either obtain ſome mitigation of the Plague, or, whileſt your Bodies are deſtroyed by the fleſh you deſire and eat, ver. 33, 34. your ſouls may be ſaved from the wrath of God. Sanctifying is oft uſed for preparing, as Jer. 6. 4. and 12. 3. and 51. 28. i Not ſecretly in your Cloſets, but openly and impudently in the doors of your Tents, ver. 10. calling Heaven and Earth to witneſs your cries and complaints.

19 Ye ſhall not eat one day, nor two dayes, nor five dayes, neither ten dayes, nor twenty dayes:

† Heb. month of dayes.

20 But even a † whole month, until it come out at your noſtrils k, and it be loathſome unto you l, becauſe ye have deſpiſed the LORD m, which is among you n, and have wept before him, ſaying, Why came we forth out of Egypt o?

k Which meat loathed and violently vomited up frequently doth. l Being glutted with the abundance of it. Thus God deſtroys them by granting their deſires, and turns even their bleſſings into curſes: whilſt he deals much more favourably with Moſes, though he alſo fell into the ſame ſin with the people, i. e. impatience and murmuring. But God will make a great difference between perſons and perſons, and between Moſes his ſins of infirmity, and the peoples preſumptuous and oft repeated provocations. m (i. e.) You have lightly eſteemed his bounty and manifold bleſſings in Manna, and other things, and have preferred the leeks, the onions, &c. of Egypt before them all: you have ſlighted and diſtruſted his promiſes and providence after ſo long and large experience of it. n Who is preſent and reſident with you, to obſerve all your carriages, and to puniſh your offences. This is added as a great aggravation of the Crime, to ſin in the preſence of the Judge. o VVhy did God do us ſuch an injury? why did we ſo fooliſhly follow and obey him in coming forth?

* Exod. 38. chap. 1. 46.

21 And Moſes ſaid, * The people amongſt whom I am, are ſix hundred thouſand footmen p, and thou haſt ſaid, I will give them fleſh that they may eat a whole month.

p Fit for war, Exod. 12. 37. beſides women, children, &c. That Moſes ſpeaks this as doubting or diſtruſting Gods words, is evident enough from ver. 22, 23. And that Moſes was not remarkably puniſhed for this, as he was afterward for the ſame ſin, Numb. 20. next to Gods good pleaſure may be imputed to the different circumſtances of this and that ſin: this was the firſt great offence of this kind, and therefore more eaſily paſſed by, that was after warning, and againſt more light and experience. This ſeems to have been ſpoken ſecretly in Moſes his breaſt: that openly and publickly before the people, and to their ſcandal; and therefore it was fit to be openly and ſeverely puniſhed, to prevent the Contagion of that Example.

22 Shall the flocks and the herds be ſlain for them, to ſuffice them q? or ſhall all the fiſh of the ſea be gathered together for them to ſuffice them?

q Will they be ſufficient for them? or where ſhall they have more?

* Iſa. 50. 2. and 59. 1.

23 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, * Is the LORDS hand waxed ſhort r? thou ſhalt ſee now whether my word ſhall come to paſs unto thee, or not.

r (i. e.) Leſs able to work ſuch great and glorious miracles as I have done.

24 And Moſes went out ſ and told the people the words of the LORD, and gathered the ſeventy men t of the elders of the people, and ſet them round about the tabernacle u.

ſ Out of the tabernacle, into which he entred to receive Gods anſwers from the Mercy-ſeat, Numb. 7. 89. t Either they are called ſeventy from the ſtated number, though two of them were lacking, ver. 26. as the Apoſtles are called the twelve, Mat. 26. 20. when one of that number was abſent: or, he is ſaid to have gathered them, when he gave command to gather them, u partly that the awe of God might be imprinted upon their hearts, that they might more ſeriouſly undertake, and more faithfully manage their high Employment, partly to gain them the more authority and reſpect from the people, and principally, becauſe that was the place where God manifeſted himſelf, and gave his bleſſings, and therefore there he would beſtow his ſpirit upon them.

25 And the LORD came down in a cloud, and ſpake unto him, and took of the ſpirit that was upon him, and gave it unto the ſeventy elders, and it came to paſs, that when the ſpirit reſted upon them x, they propheſied y, and † did not ceaſe ‖.

† Gr. added, or proceeded no further.

x (i. e.) Not only moved them for a time, but took up his ſettled abode with them, becauſe the uſe and end of this gift was not temporary but perpetual. y (i. e.) Diſcourſed of the word and works of God in a ſingular and marvellous manner, as the Prophets did. So this word is uſed, 1 Sam. 10. 5, 6. Joel 2. 28. Act. 2. 17. 1 Cor. 14. 3. Yet were they not hereby conſtituted Prophets or Teachers, but civil Magiſtrates and Rulers, who together with the ſpirit of government, which is here ſufficiently implied, received alſo the ſpirit of Prophecy, as a ſign and ſeal both to themſelves and to the people that God had called them to that Employment, and would be with them in it, as it was with Saul upon the ſame occaſion, 1 Sam. 10. 10. ‖ Either for that day, they continued in that exerciſe all that day, and, it may be, all the night too, as it is ſaid of Saul, 1 Sam. 19. 24. or, afterwards alſo, to note that this was a continued gift conferred upon them to enable them the better to diſcharge their Magiſtracy; which was more expedient for them than for the Rulers of other people, becauſe the Jews were under a Theocracy, or the government of God, and even their civil controverſies were decided out of that word of God which the Prophets expounded, and in their wilderneſs condition they had frequent occaſions of ſeeking counſel from God, which was the work of Prophets, and they were to determine termine all things agreeably to the mind and will of God, which therefore they were obliged to ſtudy. Others tranſlate the words, and they added not: ſo the ſence is, They propheſied only this day for an aſſurance of vocation to, and due qualification for their work; but afterwards they propheſied no more, the gift of prophecy ceaſed in them, and only the ſpirit of government reſted upon them.

26 But there remained two of the men in the camp z, the name of the one was Eldad, and the name of the other, Medad: and the ſpirit reſted upon them (and they were of them that were written a, but went not out unto the tabernacle) and they propheſied in the camp.

z Not going to the Tabernacle, as the reſt did, either modeſtly declining that high Employment, from an humble ſence of their own inſufficiency. as Saul did, 1 Sam. 10. 22. or not having ſufficient or ſeaſonable notice to repair thither: or, being detained in the Camp, and in their dwellings, whether by uncleanneſs, or ſickneſs, or ſome urgent occaſion, not without Gods ſpecial providence, that ſo the Miracle might be more evident, and their call and authority more unqueſtionable to all the people. a To wit, in a book or paper by Moſes, who by Gods direction nominated the fitteſt and worthieſt perſons.

27 And there ran a young man, and told Moſes b, and ſaid, Eldad and Medad do propheſie in the camp.

b Fearing leaſt his authority ſhould be diminiſhed by their propheſying, and thereby, as by the ſignal given at this time, taking authority to themſelves without his knowledge and conſent.

28 And Joſhua the ſon of Nun the ſervant of Moſes, one of his young men c anſwered, and ſaid, * My lord Moſes, forbid them d.

* See Luk. 9. 49.

c Or, one of his choice Miniſters, a choſen or excellent perſon: which may be emphatically added, to note, that even great and good men may miſtake and miſ-judge about the works of God. Or from his youth, as the words will bear, and the Chaldee, Syr. &c. render it. So it may be added as a reaſon why Joſhua, above others, was concerned for Moſes his honour and authority. d He feared either ſchiſme, or ſedition, or that by their uſurpation of authority independently upon Moſes and ſeparately from him, his power and eſteem might be leſſened, as the next words ſhew.

29 And Moſes ſaid unto him, Envieſt thou for my ſake e? would God that all the LORDS people were prophets f, and that the LORD would put his ſpirit upon them.

e Art thou grieved becauſe the gifts and graces of God are imparted to others beſides me; Compare Joh. 3. 26. f He ſaith Prophets, not Rulers, for that he knew was abſurd and impoſſible.

30 And Moſes gat him into the camp g, he and the elders of Iſrael.

g Among the people, to exerciſe the gifts and authority now or formerly received.

31 And there went forth a * wind from the LORD h, and brought quails i from the ſea k, and let them fall by the camp, † as it were a days journey on this ſide, and as it were a days journey on the other ſide round about the camp, and as it were two cubits high upon the face of the earth l.

*Exod. 16. 13. Pſal. 78. 26. and 105. 40. † Heb. as it were the way of a day.

h (i. e.) An extraordinary and miraculous wind both for its vehemency and for its effects. i A delicious and very nouriſhing food, which conſidering their greedy appetite, and the newneſs and plenty of it, diſpoſed them to ſurfeits, and other diſtempers of body, and prepared the way for the following plague. God gave them quails once before, Exod. 16. 13. but neither in the ſame quantity, nor with the ſame deſign and effect as now. k Principally from the Red Sea, and both ſides of it, where, by the report of ancient Heathen Writers, they were then in great numbers, and no doubt, were wonderfully increaſed by Gods ſpecial providence for this very occaſion. l Not as if the quails did cover all the ground two cubits high for a days journey on each ſide of the Camp; for then there had been no place left where they could ſpread them all abroad round about the camp, as it is ſaid they did, ver. 32. but the meaning is, that the quails came and fell down round about the Camp for a whole days journey on each ſide of it, and that in all that ſpace, they lay here and there in great heaps, which were oft-times two cubits high.

32 And the people ſtood up m all that day, and all that night n, and all the next day, and they gathered the quails: he that gathered leaſt, gathered ten homers o: and they ſpread them all abroad for themſelves p round about the camp.

m Or rather roſe up, which word is oft uſed for attempting, or beginning to do any buſineſs. n Some at one time, and ſome at the other, and ſome through greedineſs or diffidence at both times. o (i. e.) Ten Aſs loods. Which if it ſeem incredible, you muſt conſider, 1. that the gatherers here were not all the people, which could not be without great confuſion, and other inconveniences, but ſome on the behalf of all, poſſibly one for each family, or the like, while the reſt were exerciſed about other neceſſary things. So the meaning is not, that every Iſraelite had ſo much for his ſhare, but that every Collector gathered ſo much for the family, or others, by whom he was intruſted. 2. That the people did not gather for their preſent uſe only, but for a good while to come, as we ſhall ſee, and being greedy and diſtruſtful of Gods goodneſs, it is not ſtrange it they gathered much more than they needed. 3. That the word rendred homers, may ſignifie heaps, as it doth, Exod. 8. 14, Judg. 15. 16. Hab. 3. 15. and ten is oft put for many, and ſo the ſence is, that every one gathered ſeveral heaps. If yet the number ſeems incredible, it muſt be further known, 4. That heathen and other Authors affirm, that in theſe Eaſtern and Southern Countries quails are innumerable, ſo that in one part of Italy, within the compaſs of five miles, there were taken about an hundred thouſand of them every day, for a month together; and that ſometimes they fly ſo thick over the Sea, that being weary, they fall into Ships, ſometimes in ſuch numbers that they ſink them with their weight, as Varro and Solinus affirm. And Athenæus relates, that in Egypt, a Country prodigiouſly populous, as all agree, they were in ſuch plenty, that all thoſe vaſt numbers of people could not conſume them, but were forced to ſalt them, and keep them for their future uſe. So that there is no need at all that God ſhould create innumerable quails for this purpoſe: which yet if it were affirmed he did, Atheiſts and Anti-ſcripturiſts, have no occaſion of triumph, ſince they muſt either own the Creation of the World, which is a far greater miracle, or aſcribe the production of the World to a caſual jumble of Atoms, which is more ſenceleſs and ridiculous than all the fables of the Poets. p That ſo they might dry them, and ſalt them, and preſerve them for their future uſe, according to what they had ſeen and learned in Egypt.

33 And while the * fleſh was yet between their teeth, ere it was chewed q, the wrath of the LORD was kindled againſt the people, and the LORD ſmote the people with a very great plague r.

* Pſal. 78. 30, 31.

q Heb. cut off, to wit, from their mouths, which is here underſtood, and expreſſed Joel 1. 5. i. e. ere it was taken away, as the flocks are ſaid to be cut off from the fold, Hab. 3. 17. when they are loſt and periſhed. The ſence is, before they had done eating their quails, which laſted for a month, as appears from ver. 20. r Whether it was leanneſs ſent into them, Pſal. 106. 15. whereby the food was deprived of its nouriſhing power which it hath only from Gods bleſſing; or ſurfeit, a puniſhment moſt ſuitable to their ſin, and moſt likely to follow their intemperate deſire and uſe of this food; or the peſtilence. it is not much material: but a great and ſore plague unqueſtionably it was. Queſt. Why did God ſo ſorely puniſh the peoples murmuring and complaining for lack of fleſh here, when he ſpared them after the ſame ſin, Exod. 16? Anſ. Becauſe this ſin was a far greater ſin than that, and aggravated with worſe circumſtances; as proceeding not from neceſſity, as that did, when as yet they had no food, but from meer luſt and wantonneſs, when they had Manna conſtantly given them; as committed after large experience of Gods care and kindneſs, after God had pardoned their former ſins, and after God had in a ſolemn and terrible manner made known his laws, and their duty to them.

34 And he called the name of that place ‖ Kibroth-hattaavah ſ, becauſe there they buried the people that luſted.

‖ That is, the graves of luſt.

ſ Heb. the graves of luſt, i. e. of the men that luſted, as it here follows. The abſtract for the concrete, which is frequent, as poverty, 2 King. 24. 14 pride, Pſal. 36. 11. deceit, ſins, Prov. 13. 6, &c. dreams, Jer. 27. 9. are put for men who are poor, or proud, or deceitful, or ſinful, or dreamers. And it notes, that this plague did not ſeize upon all that did eat of the quails, for then all had been deſtroyed, but only upon thoſe who were inordinate both in the deſire and uſe of them.

CHAP. XII.

1 AND Miriam and Aaron a ſpake againſt Moſes, becauſe of the ‖ Ethiopian woman b, whom he had married, for * he had † married an Ethiopian woman.

‖ Or, Cuſhite.
* Exod. 2. 21.
† Heb. taken.

a Whom God permitted to murmur againſt their brother, partly to exerciſe and diſcover the admirable meekneſs and patience for the inſtruction of after ages: and partly that by this ſhaking Moſes his authority might take the deeper root, and the people might be deterred from all ſedition and rebellion againſt him, by this example. Miriam ſeems to be firſt named, becauſe ſhe was the chief inſtigator, or firſt-mover of the ſedition, wherefore ſhe alſo is more eminently puniſhed. b VVhich was either, 1. Zipporah, who is here called an Ethiopian, in the Hebrew a Cuſhite, becauſe ſhe was a Midianite; the word Cuſh being generally uſed in Scripture, not for Ethiopia properly ſo called below Egypt, but for Arabia, as ſome late learned men have evidently proved from 2 King. 19. 9. 2 Chron. 21. 16. Ezek. 29. 10. and 30. 8, 9. Hab. 3. 7. and other places. If ſhe be meant, as it is commonly conceived, I ſuppoſe they did not quarrel with him for marrying her, becauſe that was done long ſince, but for indulging her too much, and being ſwayed by her and her relations, by whom they might think he was perſwaded to make this innovation, and to chuſe ſeventy Rulers, as he had been formerly Exod. 18. by which co-partnerſhip in government they thought their authority and reputation much diminiſhed, eſpecially when no notice was taken nor uſe made of them in the choice, but all was done by the direction of Moſes, and for his aſſiſtance in the government. And becauſe they durſt not accuſe God, who was the chief agent in it, they charge Moſes, his inſtrument, as the manner of men is. Or 2. ſome other woman, though not named in Scripture, whom he married either whilſt Zipporah lived, or rather becauſe ſhe was now dead, though that, as many other things, be not recorded. For, as the quarrel ſeems to be about his marrying a ſtranger, ſo it is probable it was a late and freſh occaſion about which they contended, and not a thing done 40 years ago. And it was lawful for him, as well as any other, to marry an Ethiopian, or Arabian woman, provided ſhe were, as doubtleſs this woman was, a ſincere proſelyte, which were by the law of God admitted to the ſame priviledges with the Iſraelites, Exod. 12. 48. ſo there might be many reaſons why Moſes might chuſe to marry ſuch a perſon rather than an Iſraelite, or why God ſo ordered it by his providence, either becauſe ſhe was a perſon of eminent worth and vertue, or becauſe God intended that the government ſhould not be continued in the hands of Moſes his children, and therefore would have ſome political blemiſh to be upon the family, as being ſtrangers by one parent. And this they here urge as a blemiſh to Moſes alſo.

2 And they ſaid, Hath the LORD indeed ſpoken only by Moſes? * hath he not ſpoken alſo by us c? And the LORD heard it d.

* Mic. 6. 4.

c Are not we Prophets as well as he? ſo Aaron was made, Exod. 4. 15, 16. and ſo Miriam is called, Exod. 15. 20. See alſo Mic. 6. 4. And Moſes hath debaſed and mixed the holy Seed, which we have not done. Why then ſhould he take all power to himſelf, and rule and make Rulers as he pleaſeth without conſulting us in the caſe? d (i. e.) Obſerved their words and carriage to Moſes.

3 (Now the man Moſes was very meek e, above all the men which were upon the face of the earth.)

e This is added as the reaſon why Moſes took no notice of their reproach, but was as one that heard it not, and why God did ſo ſpeedily and ſeverely plead Moſes his cauſe, becauſe he did not avenge himſelf. Queſt. 1. Did it become Moſes thus to commend himſelf? Anſw. 1. The holy Pen-men of Scripture are not to be meaſured or cenſured by other profane Writers, becauſe they are guided by ſpecial inſtinct, in every thing they write; and as they oft-times publiſh their own and their near Relations greateſt faults, where it may be uſeful to the honour of God, and the edification of the Church in after ages; ſo it is not ſtrange, if for the ſame reaſons ſometimes they commend themſelves, eſpecially when they are forced to it by the inſolence and contempt of their adverſaries, which was Moſes his caſe here, in which caſe St. Paul alſo commends himſelf, 2 Cor. 11. 5, &c. and 12. 11, 12. Which they might the better do, becauſe all their writings and carriage made it evident to all men that they did not this out of vain-glory, and that they were exalted above the affectation of mens praiſes and the dread of mens reproaches. 2. This might be added, as ſome other clauſes were, by ſome ſucceeding Prophet, which was no diſparagement to the authority of the holy Scriptures, ſeeing it is all written by one hand, though divers Pens be uſed by it. Queſt. 2. How was Moſes ſo meek, when we oft-times read of his anger, as Exod. 11. 8. and 16. 20. and 32. 19. Levit. 10. 16. Numb. 16. 15. and 20. 10, 11. compared with Pſal. 106. 32, 33. Anſw. 1. The meekeſt men upon Earth are provoked ſometimes, yea oftner than Moſes was. 2. True meekneſs doth not exclude all anger, but only ſuch as is unjuſt, or immoderate, or implacable. Moſes was and ought to be angry where God was offended and diſhonoured, as he was in almoſt all the places alledged.

4 And the LORD ſpake ſuddenly f unto Moſes, and unto Aaron, and unto Miriam, Come out g ye three unto the tabernacle of the congregation, and they three came out, f Partly to ſhew his great reſpect unto Moſes, and unto the grace of meekneſs; and partly to ſtifle the beginnings of the ſedition, that this example might not ſpread amongſt the people, who had too much of that leaven among them. g To wit, out of your private dwellings, and from amongſt the people, both that you may not infect them by ſuch ſcandalous Words, and partly that you may know my pleaſure and your own doom.

5 And the LORD came down in the pillar of the cloud, and ſtood in the door of the tabernacle h, and called Aaron and Miriam, and they both came forth.

h VVhere they ſtood without, not being admitted into the Tabernacle, as Aaron uſed to be: which is noted as a ſign of Gods diſpleaſure.

6 And he ſaid, Hear now my words: if there be a prophet among you i, I the LORD will make my ſelf known unto him in a viſion k, and will ſpeak unto him in a dream l:

i If you be Prophets, as you pretend, yet know there is a difference among Prophets, nor do I put the equal authority and honour upon all of them. k VVhereby God repreſents things to the mind of a Prophet when he is awake, as Gen. 15. 1. and 46. 2. Dan. 8. 18. and 10. 8. l By which God manifeſts his mind to them in a dream, as Gen. 20. 3. and 28. 12.

7 My ſervant Moſes is not ſo, * who is faithful in all mine houſe m.

* Heb. 3. 2.

m (i. e.) VVhom I have ſet over all my houſe, i. e. my Church and people, and therefore over you, and who hath diſcharged his office faithfully, and not partially and ſelf-ſeekingly, as you falſly accuſe him.

8 With him will I ſpeak * mouth to mouth n, even apparently o, and not in dark ſpeeches p, and the ſimilitude of the LORD q ſhall he behold: wherefore then were ye not afraid to ſpeak againſt my ſervant r Moſes?

* Exod. 33. 11.

n (i. e.) Diſtinctly, by an articulate voice; immediately, not by an interpreter, nor by ſhadows and repreſentations in his fancy, as it is in viſions and dreams; and familiarly. This is called ſpeaking face to face, 2 Epiſt. of John, ver. 12. and 3 Epiſt. ver. 14. o Plainly and certainly. p Not in parables, ſimilitudes, riddles, dark reſemblances, as by ſhewing a boyling pot, an Almond Tree, &c. to Jeremy, a chariot with wheels, &c. to Ezekiel. q Not the face or eſſence of God, which no man can ſee and live, Exod. 33. 20. it being inviſible, Col. 1. 15. and never ſeen by man, John 1. 18. but ſome ſingular manifeſtation of his glorious preſence, as Exod. 33. 11, 20, &c. and 34. 5, &c. Deut. 34. 10. Yea the Son of God appeared to him in an humane ſhape, which he took up for a time, that he might give him a fore-taſt of his future incarnation. r VVho is ſo in ſuch an eminent and extraordinary manner.

9 And the anger of the LORD was kindled againſt them, and he departed ſ.

ſ From the door of the Tabernacle, in token of his great diſpleaſure, not waiting for their anſwer, and judging them unworthy of any further diſcourſe.

10 And the cloud departed from off the tabernacle t, and * behold, Miriam became leprous u, white as ſnow x: and Aaron looked upon Miriam, and behold, ſhe was leprous.

* Deut. 24. 9.

t Not from the whole Tabernacle, for then they muſt have removed, but from that part of the Tabernacle, whither it was come, to that part which was directly over the Mercy-ſeat, where it conſtantly abode. u She, and not Aaron, either becauſe ſhe was firſt or chief in the Tranſgreſſion; or becauſe God would not have his VVorſhip either interrupted or diſhonoured, which it muſt have been if Aaron had been leprous. x This kind of leproſie was the moſt virulent and incurable of all. See Exod. 4. 6. 2 King. 5. 27. It is true, when the leproſie began in a particular part, and thence ſpread it ſelf over all the fleſh by degrees, and at laſt made it all white, that was an evidence of the cure of the leproſie, Levit. 13. 12, 13. but it was otherwiſe when one was ſuddenly and extraordinarily ſmit-ſmitten with this univerſal Whiteneſs, which ſhewed the great corruption of the whole maſs of blood, as it was here.

11 And Aaron ſaid unto Moſes, Alas, my lord, I beſeech thee, lay not the ſin upon us y, wherein we have done fooliſhly, and wherein we have ſinned.

y Let not the guilt and puniſhment of this ſin reſt upon us, upon her in this kind, upon me in any other kind, but pray to God for the pardon and removal of it.

12 Let her not be as one dead z, of whom the fleſh is half conſumed, when he cometh out of his mothers womb a.

z Either naturally, becauſe part of her fleſh was putrefied and dead, and not to be reſtored but by the mighty power of God: Or, morally, becauſe ſhe was cut off from all converſe with others, Levit. 13. 46. a Like an untimely birth, without due ſhape and proportion, or like a ſtill-born child, that hath been for ſome time dead in the Womb, which when it comes forth, is white and putrefied, and part of it conſumed.

13 And Moſes cryed unto the LORD, ſaying, Heal her now, O God, I beſeech thee.

*See Heb. 12. 9. 14 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, * If her father had but ſpit in her face b, ſhould ſhe not

*Lev. 13. 46. be aſhamed c ſeven dayes? let her be * ſhut out from the camp ſeven dayes d, and after that let her be received in again.

b (i. e.) Expreſſed ſome eminent token of indignation and contempt, which this was, Job 30. 10. Iſa. 50. 6. c And withdraw her ſelf from her fathers preſence, as Jonathan did upon a like occaſion, 1 Sam. 20. 34. So though God healed her according to Moſes his requeſt, yet he would have her publickly bear the ſhame of her ſin, and be a warning to others to keep them from the ſame tranſgreſſion. d The time appointed for cleanſing the unclean. See Numb. 6. 9. and 31. 19.

15 And Miriam was ſhut out from the camp ſeven dayes: and the people journeyed not, till Miriam was brought in again e.

e Which was a teſtimony of reſpect to her both from God and from the people, God ſo ordering it, partly leaſt ſhe ſhould be overwhelmed by ſuch a publick rebuke from God, and partly leaſt, ſhe being a Propheteſs, together with her perſon the gift of Propheſie ſhould come into contempt.

16 And afterward the people removed from Hazeroth f, and pitched in the wilderneſs of Paran g.

f Where they abode, as is ſaid, Numb. 11. 35. for Miriams ſake. g (i. e.) In another part of the ſame Wilderneſs, as may be gathered from Numb. 10. 12. See alſo Deut. 33. 2. It is poſſible they might have removed out of one part of that Wilderneſs into another Wilderneſs, and then returned again into another part of it, as we know the Iſraelites had many ſtrange windings and turnings in their Wilderneſs-travels. And this part was more eſpecially called Rithmah, Numb. 33. 18. and Kadaſh-barnea, Numb. 13. 26. Deut. 1. 19. which were two noted places in that part, both which ſeem to be comprehended within their camp, or near adjoyning to it.

CHAP. XIII.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes a ſaying,

a In anſwer to the peoples petition about it, as is evident from Deut. 1. 22. And it is probable from the following ſtory, that the people deſired it out of diffidence of Gods promiſe, and providence, though Moſes liked of it as a prudent courſe to learn where or how to make the firſt invaſion. And God granted their deſire for their trial and puniſhment, as well knowing from what root it came.

* chap. 32. 8. Deut. 1. 22. 2 * Send thou men b, that they may ſearch the land of Canaan, which I give unto the children of Iſrael: of every tribe of their fathers c ſhall ye ſend a man, every one a ruler d among them.

b Do as the people preſs thee to do. c (i. e.) VVhich comes from their ſeveral Parents or Patriarchs. d A perſon of VViſdom and Authority which might make his VVitneſs more conſiderable with the people.

3 And Moſes, by the commandment of the LORD, ſent them from the wilderneſs of Paran: all thoſe men were heads of the children of Iſrael.

4 And theſe were their names: Of the tribe of Reuben, Shammua the ſon of Zaccur.

5 Of the tribe of Simeon, Shaphat the ſon of Hori.
